Léctio Actuum Apostolórum. —In diébus illis: Angelus Dómini locútus est ad Philíppum, dicens: Surge, et vade contra meridiánum ad viam, quae descéndit ab Jerúsalem in Gazam: haec est desérta. Et surgens ábiit. Et ecce vir Aethiops eunúchus, potens Candácis regínae Aethíopum, qui erat super omnes gazas ejus, vénerat adoráre in Jerúsalem: et revertebátur sedens super currum suum, legénsque Isaíam prophétam. Dixit autem Spíritus Philíppo: Accéde et adjúnge te ad currum istum. Accúrrens autem Philíppus, audívit eum legéntem Isaíam prophétam, et dixit: Putásne intélligis quae legis? Qui ait: Et quómodo possum, si non áliquis osténderit mihi? Rogavítque Philíppum, ut ascénderet, et sedéret secum. Locus autem Scriptúrae, quam legébat, erat hic: Tamquam ovis

Taken from the Acts of the Apostles.— In those days an Angel of the Lord spoke to Philip saying: Arise, go towards the south to the way that goeth down from Jerusalem to Gaza: this is desert. And rising up, he went. And behold a man of Ethiopia, an eunuch, of great authority under Candace the queen of the Ethiopians, who had charge over all her treasures, had come to Jerusalem to adore; and he was returning, sitting in his chariot, and reading Isaias the prophet. And the Spirit said to Philip: Go near, and join thyself to this chariot. And Philip running thither, heard him reading the prophet Isaias; and he said: Thinkest thou that thou understandest what thou readest? Who said: And how can I, unless some man show me? And he desired Philip that he would come up, and sit with him. And the place of the Scripture which he was reading was this: He was led as a sheep to the slaughter; and like a lamb without voice before His shearer, so opened He not His mouth. In humility His judgment was taken away. His generation, who shall declare, for His life shall be taken from the earth? And the eunuch answering Philip, said: I beseech thee, of Whom doth the Prophet speak this; of himself, or of some other man? Then Philip opening his mouth, and beginning at this Scripture, preached unto him Jesus. And as they went on their way, they came to a certain water: and the eunuch said: See, here is water, what doth hinder me from being baptised? And Philip said: If thou believest with all thy heart, thou mayest. And he answering said: I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God. And he commanded the chariot to stand still: and they went down into the water, both Philip and the eunuch, and he baptised him. And when they were come out of the water, the Spirit of the Lord took Philip away, and the eunuch saw him no more. But he went on his way rejoicing. But Philip was found in Azotus, and passing through, he preached the gospel to all the cities (till he came to Caesarea), the name of the Lord Jesus Christ.

ad occisiónem ductus est: et sicut agnus coram tondénte se, sine voce, sic non apéruit os suum. In humilitáte judícium ejus sublátum est. Generatiónem ejus quis enarrábit, qúoniam tollétur de terra vita ejus? Respóndens autem eunúchus Philíppo, dixit: Obsecro te, de quo Prophéta dicit hoc? de se, an de álio áliquo? Apériens autem Philíppus os suum, et incípiens a Scriptúra ista, evangelizávit illi Jesum. Et dum irent per viam, venérunt ad quamdam aquam: et ait eunúchus: Ecce aqua, quid próhibet me baptizári? Dixit autem Philíppus: Si credis ex toto corde licet. At respóndens ait: Credo, Fílium Dei esse Jesum Christum. Et jussit stare currum: et descendérunt utérque in aquam, Philíppus et eunúchus, et baptizávit eum. Cum autem ascendíssent de aqua, Spíritus Dómini rápuit Philíppum, et ámplius non vidit eum eunúchus. Ibat autem per viam suam gaudens, Philíppus autem invéntus est in Azóto, et pertránsiens evangelizábat civitátibus cunctis (donec veníret Caesaréam) nomen Dómini Jesu Christi.

Gradual: Ps. cxvii. 24, 22, 23.

This is the day which the Lord hath made: let us rejoice and be glad in it. ℣. The stone which the builders rejected is become the head of the corner:

Haec dies, quam fecit Dominus: exsultémus, et laetémur in ea. ℣. Lápidem, quem reprobavérunt aedificántes, hic factus est in caput ánguli: a Dómino factum est istud, et est mirábile in óculis nostris.

this is the work of the Lord, and it is wonderful in our eyes.

Alleluia, alleluia.

℣. Surréxit Christus, qui creávit omnia: et misértus est humáno géneri.

℣. Christ is risen, Who created all things, and Who had compassion upon the human race.

Sequence: Victimae paschali laudes, p. 877.

Gospel: John xx. 11-18.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secundum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Maria stabat ad monuméntum foris, plorans. Dum ergo fleret, inclinávit se, et prospéxit monuméntum: et vidit duos Angelos in albis, sedéntes, unum ad caput, et unum ad pedes, ubi pósitum fúerat corpus Jesu. Dicunt ei illi: Múlier, quid ploras? Dicit eis: Quia tulérunt Dóminum meum: et néscio, ubi posuérunt eum. Haec cum dixísset, convérsa est retrórsum, et vidit Jesum stantem: et non sciébat quia Jesus est. Dicit ei Jesus: Múlier, quid ploras? quem quaeris? Illa exístimans quia hortulánus esset, dicit ei: Dómine, si tu sustulísti eum, dícito mihi ubi posuísti eum: et ego eum tollam. Dicit ei Jesus: María. Convérsa illa, dicit ei: Rabbóni (quod dicítur Magíster). Dicit ei Jesus: Noli me tángere, nondum enim ascéndi ad Patrem meum: vade autem ad fratres meos, et dic eis: Ascéndo ad Patrem meum, et Patrem vestrum, Deum meum, et Deum vestrum. Venit Maria Magdaléne annúntians discípulis: Quia vidi Dóminum, et haec dixit mihi.—Credo.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time, Mary stood at the sepulchre without, weeping. Now as she was weeping, she stooped down, and looked into the sepulchre; and she saw two angels in white, sitting, one at the head and one at the feet, where the body of Jesus had been laid. They say to her: Woman, why weepest thou? She saith to them: Because they have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid Him. When she had thus said, she turned herself back, and saw Jesus standing; and she knew not that it was Jesus. Jesus saith to her: Woman, why weepest thou? Whom seekest thou? She thinking it was the gardener, saith to him: Sir, if thou hast taken Him hence, tell me where thou hast laid Him; and I will take Him away. Jesus saith to her: Mary. She turning saith to Him: Rabboni (which is to say Master). Jesus saith to her: Do not touch Me, for I am not yet ascended to My Father; but go to My brethren, and say to them: I ascend to My Father and to your Father, to My God and your God. Mary Magdalen cometh and telleth the Disciples: I have seen the Lord, and these things He said to me.—Credo.

Offertory: Exod. xiii. 5.

In the day of your solemnity, saith the Lord, I will bring you into a land that floweth with milk and honey, alleluia.

In die solemnitátis vestrae, dicit Dóminus, indúcam vos in terram fluéntem lac et mel, allelúia.

Secret.

Receive favourably, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the offerings of Thy people, that being renewed by the confession of Thy name and by baptism, they may obtain everlasting happiness. Through our Lord.

Súscipe, quaesumus, Dómine, múnera populórum tuórum propítius: ut confessióne tui nóminis et baptísmate renováti, sempitérnam beatitúdinem consequántur. Per Dóminum.

Second Secret: Protege, p. 154, or Oblatis, p. 155.

Preface, p. 53.—Communicantes, p. 60.—Hanc igitur, p. 62.

Communion: 1 Peter ii. 9.

People whom God has purchased, declare the virtues, alleluia: of Him Who has called you out of darkness into His admirable light, alleluia.

Populus acquisitiónis, annuntiáte virtútes ejus, allelúia: qui vos de ténebris vocávit in admirábile lumen suum, allelúia.

Postcommunion.

Hear our prayers, O Lord, that the most holy work of our redemption may both confer upon us Thy grace in this life, and obtain for us eternal joys. Through our Lord.

Exáudi, Dómine, preces nostras: ut redemptiónis nostrae sacrosáncta commércia, et vitae nobis cónferant praeséntis auxílium, et gáudia sempitérna concílient. Per Dóminum.

Second Postcommunion: Quaesumus or Haec nos, pp. 154, 155.

Easter Friday.

STATION AT ST. MARY OF THE MARTYRS.*

(Indulgence of 30 years and 30 quarantines.)

Semi-double.—White vestments.

After bringing her neophytes together on successive days at St. John Lateran, St. Mary Major, St. Peter's, St. Paul's, St. Lawrence's, and the Twelve Apostles, the Church to-day made a Station at the basilica.

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, D d 27.

dedicated to all the Martyrs and to their Queen, where was made most manifest the triumph of Christ over Paganism. For the Pantheon, the temple consecrated to the worship of all the gods, was in the seventh century dedicated to Mary and to the Martyrs of the Catacombs, a large number of whose bones Boniface IV. caused to be transferred to this basilica. The feast of the dedication of this church soon afterwards became known as the Feast of All Saints (see November 1).

The Introit, the Collect and the Epistle remind us that the covenant established by God with Noe and his seed after their escape from the Flood, and later renewed with Moses and his people after their passage through the Red Sea, is a figure of the new covenant under which the neophytes were brought from the baptismal font unto the adoption of children of God. Jesus on the Cross virtually killed sin (Alleluia, Epistle), and by His Resurrection, of which the Apostles were witnesses (Gospel), He gave us the life of grace.* Baptism brought home to our souls this twofold effect of life and death. Let us ever remain faithful to it.

Introit: Ps. lxxvii. 53.

EDUXIT eos Dóminus in spe, allelúia: et inimícos eórum opéruit mare, allelúia, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Atténdite, pópule meus, legem meam: inclináte aurem vestram in verba oris mei. ℣. Glória Patri.

THE Lord brought them out in safety, alleluia, whilst the sea overwhelmed their enemies, alleluia, alleluia, alleluia. Ps. lxxvii. 1. Attend, O My people, to My law: incline your ears to the words of My mouth. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collect.

Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, qui Paschále sacraméntum in reconciliatiónis humánae foedere contulísti: da méntibus nostris; ut, quod professióne celebrámus, imitémur efféctu. Per Dóminum.

O almighty and everlasting God, Who didst bestow the Paschal sacrament in the covenant whereby Thou didst forgive mankind, grant that what we celebrate by this festival we may show forth in our lives. Through our Lord.

Second Collect: Ecclesiae, p. 154, or Deus omnium, p. 155.

Epistle: 1 Peter iii. 18-22.

Léctio epístolae beáti Petri apostoli.—CARISSIMI: Christus semel pro peccátis nostris mórtuus est, justus pro injústis, ut nos offérret Deo, mortificátus quidem carne, vivificátus au-

Taken from the Epistle of the blessed apostle Peter.—DEARLY beloved, Christ died once for our sins, the just for the unjust, that He might offer us to God, being put to death indeed in the flesh, but enlivened in the spirit. In which also coming, He preached to those spirits that were in prison, which had been some time incredulous, when they waited for the patience of God in the days of Noe, when the ark was building; wherein a few, that is eight souls, were saved by water. Whereunto baptism being of the like form, now saveth you also, not in putting away the filth of the flesh, but by the pledge of a good conscience towards God, by the resurrection of Jesus Christ our Lord, Who is on the right hand of God.

* See "Easter from a Liturgical Point of View," p. 872, ff.

tem spíritu. In quo et his, qui in cárcere erant, spirítibus véniens praedicávit: qui incréduli fúerant aliquándo, quando exspectábant Dei patiéntiam in diébus Noe, cum fabricarétur arca, in qua pauci, id est octo ánimae salvae factae sunt per aquam. Quod et vos nunc similis formae salvos facit baptisma: non carnis deposítio sórdium, sed consciéntiae bonae interrogátio in Deum per resurrectiónem Jesu Christi Dómini nostri, qui est in dextera Dei.

Gradual: Ps. cxvii. 24, 26, 27.

This is the day which the Lord hath made: let us rejoice and be glad in it. ℣. Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord: the Lord is truly God, and He hath shone forth unto us.

Haec dies, quam fecit Dóminus: exsultémus, et laetémur in ea. ℣. Benedíctus, qui vénit in nómine Dómini: Deus Dóminus, et illúxit nobis.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. xcv. 10.

℣. Say ye among the gentiles: the Lord hath reigned from a tree.

℣. Dícite in géntibus: quia Dóminus regnávit a ligno.

Sequence: Victimae paschali laudes, p. 877.

Gospel: Matt. xxviii. 16-20.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. —At that time the eleven disciples went into Galilee, unto the mountain where Jesus had appointed them. And seeing Him they adored Him; but some doubted. And Jesus coming spoke to them, saying: All power is given to Me in heaven and on earth. Going, therefore, teach ye all nations, baptising tes: baptizántes eos in nómine Patris, et Fílii, et Spíritus sancti: docéntes eos serváre ómnia quaecúmque mandávi vobis. Et ecce ego vobíscum sum ómnibus diébus, usque ad consummatiónem saeculi.—Credo.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Undecim discípuli abiérunt in Galilaeam, in montem, ubi constitúerat illis Jesus. Et videntes eum adoravérunt: quidam autem dubitavérunt. Et accédens Jesus locútus est eis, dicens: Data est mihi omnis potéstas in coelo, et in terra. Eúntes ergo docéte omnes gen-

them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost; teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you. And behold I am with you all days, even to the consummation of the world.—Credo.

Offertory: Exod. xii. 14.

Erit vobis haec dies memoriális, allelúia: et diem festum celebrábitis solémnem Dómino in progénies vestras: legítimum sempitérnum diem, allelúia, allelúia, allelúia.

This day shall be for a memorial to you, alleluia: and you shall keep it a solemn feast to the Lord from generation to generation: an everlasting legal day, alleluia, alleluia, alleluia.

Secret.

Hóstias, quaesumus, Dómine, placátus assúme: quas et pro renatórum expiatióne peccáti deférimus, et pro acceleratióne coeléstis auxílii. Per Dóminum.

Be appeased, we beseech Thee, O Lord, and receive these oblations, which we offer for the expiation of the sins of those who are regenerated, and for the hastening of heavenly assistance. Through our Lord.

Second Secret: Protege, p. 154, or Oblatis, p. 155.

Preface, p. 53.—Communicantes, p. 60.—Hanc igitur, p. 62.

Communion: Matt. xxviii. 18, 19.

Data est mihi omnis potéstas in coelo, et in terra, allelúia: eúntes, docéte omnes gentes, baptizántes eos in nómine Patris, et Fílii, et Spíritus sancti, allelúia, allelúia.

All power is given to Me in heaven and on earth, alleluia: going teach all nations, baptising them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, alleluia, alleluia.

Postcommunion.

Réspice, quaesumus, Dómine pópulum tuum: et quem aetérnis dignátus es renováre mystériis, a temporálibus culpis dignánter absólve. Per Dóminum.

Look down upon Thy people, we beseech Thee, O Lord, and as Thou hast vouchsafed to renew them with eternal mysteries, mercifully absolve them from temporal faults. Through our Lord.

Second Postcommunion: Quaesumus or Haec nos, pp. 154, 155.

Easter Saturday.

STATION AT ST. JOHN LATERAN.*

(Indulgence of 30 years and 30 quarantines.)

Semi-double.—White vestments.

On coming out of the baptismal font the neophytes were given a white garment † as a symbol of the effects of Baptism on their souls: " All you who have been baptised have put on Christ " (Communion). They continued to wear it until the day known as " the Saturday on which white vestments are laid aside," because on that day, at St. John Lateran, their baptismal robes were taken from them.

The Church, seeing " those new-born babes " (Epistle) gathered around her, asks them by the mouth of St. Peter, her head, ever to drink the spiritual and pure milk of the true doctrine. And in that basilica, dedicated to the holy Redeemer, she reminds them that their souls are the living stones of a spiritual house of which Christ is the corner-stone. The Gospel also shows us the Prince of the Apostles, who, even before St. John, realised the Resurrection of Christ, of which he is to be witness to the whole Church.‡

Introit: Ps. civ. 43.

THE Lord brought forth His people with joy, alleluia: and His chosen ones with gladness, alleluia, alleluia. Ps. civ. 1. Give glory to the Lord, and call upon His name: declare His deeds among the gentiles. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

EDUXIT Dóminus pópulum suum in exsultatióne, allelúia: et eléctos suos in laetítia, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Confitémini Dómino, et invocáte nomen ejus: annuntiáte inter gentes ópera ejus ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.

Grant, we beseech Thee, O almighty God, that we who have kept with veneration the Paschal solemnities may by them deserve to arrive at eternal joys. Through our Lord.

Concéde, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui festa paschália venerándo égimus: per haec contíngere ad gáudia aetérna mereámur. Per Dóminum.

Second Collect: Ecclesiae, p. 154, or Deus omnium fidelium, p. 155.

Epistle: 1 Peter ii. 1-10.

Taken from the Epistle of the blessed Apostle Peter.—DEARLY beloved, laying away all malice and all guile, and dissimulations and envies and all detractions, as newborn babes, desire the

Léctio epístolae beáti Petri apóstoli.—CARISSIMI: Deponéntes ígitur omnem malítiam, et omnem dolum, et simulatiónes, et invídias, et omnes detractiónes, sicut modo géniti infántes, rationábile, sine dolo lac concupíscite: ut in eo crescátis in salútem: si tamen gustástis, quóniam dulcis est Dóminus. Ad quem accedéntes lápidem vivum, ab homínibus quidem reprobátum, a Deo autem eléctum, et honorificátum: et ipsi tamquam lápides vivi superaedificámini, domus spirituális, sacerdótium sanctum, offérre spirituáles hóstias, acceptábiles Deo per Jesum Christum. Propter quod cóntinet Scriptúra: Ecce pono in Sion lápidem summum angulárem eléctum, pretiósum: et qui credíderit in eum, non confundétur. Vobis ígitur honor credéntibus: non credéntibus autem lapis, quem reprobavérunt aedificántes, hic factus est in caput ánguli: et lapis offensiónis, et petra scándali his, qui offéndunt verbo, nec credunt in quo et pósiti sunt. Vos autem genus eléctum, regále sacerdótium, gens sancta, pópulus acquisitiónis: ut virtútes annuntiétis ejus, qui de ténebris vos vocávit in admirábile lumen suum. Qui aliquándo non pópulus, nunc autem pópulus Dei: qui non consecúti misericórdiam, nunc autem misericórdiam consecúti.

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, H f 15.
† A white veil is now placed over the newly baptised during the baptismal ceremonies.
‡ See " Easter from a Historical Point of View," p. 872, ‡.

rational milk without guile, that thereby you may grow unto salvation: if so be you have tasted that the Lord is sweet. Unto Whom coming as to a living stone, rejected indeed by men but chosen and made honourable by God: be you also as living stones built up, a spiritual house, a holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God by Jesus Christ. Wherefore it is said in the Scripture: Behold, I lay in Sion a chief corner stone, elect, precious: and he that shall believe in Him shall not be confounded. To you therefore that believe, He is honour: but to them that believe not, the stone which the builders rejected, the same is made the head of the corner: and a stone of stumbling and a rock of scandal to them who stumble at the word, neither do believe, whereunto also they are set. But you are a chosen generation, a kingly priesthood, a holy nation, a purchased people: that you may declare His virtues, Who hath called you out of darkness into His marvellous light: who in time past were not a people, but are now the people of God; who had not obtained mercy, but now have obtained mercy.

From this day until the Feast of the Blessed Trinity the Gradual is replaced by two Versicles with four Alleluias.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. cxvii. 24.

℣. Haec dies, quam fecit Dóminus: exsultémus, et laetémur in ea.

℣. This is the day which the Lord hath made: let us rejoice and be glad in it.

Alleluia : Ps. cxii. 1.

℣. Praise the Lord, O ye His servants, praise the name of the Lord.

℣. Laudáte, púeri, Dóminum, laudáte nomen Dómini.

Sequence : Victimae paschali laudes, p. 877.

Gospel : John xx. 1-9.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time, on the first day of the week, Mary Magdalen cometh early, when it was yet dark, unto the sepulchre: and she saw the stone taken away from the sepulchre. She ran therefore and cometh to Simon Peter and to the other disciple whom Jesus loved and saith to them: They have taken away the Lord out of the sepulchre, and we know not where they have laid Him. Peter therefore went out, and that other disciple, and they came to the sepulchre. And they both ran together, and that other disciple did outrun Peter and came first to the sepulchre. And when he stooped down, he saw the linen cloths lying, but yet he went not in. Then cometh Simon Peter, following him, and went into the sepulchre, and saw the linen cloths lying, and the napkin that had been about His head, not lying with the linen cloths, but apart, wrapped up into one place. Then that other disciple also went in, who came first to the sepulchre: and he saw and believed, for as yet they knew not the Scripture, that He must rise again from the dead.—Credo.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Una sábbati, María Magdaléne venit mane, cum adhuc ténebrae essent, ad monuméntum: et vidit lápidem sublátum a monuménto. Cucúrrit ergo, et venit ad Simónem Petrum, et ad álium discípulum, quem amábat Jesus, et dicit illis: Tulérunt Dóminum de monuménto, et nescimus ubi posuérunt eum. Exiit ergo Petrus, et ille álius discípulus, et venérunt ad monuméntum. Currébant autem duo simul, et ille álius discípulus praecucúrrit cítius Petro, et venit primum ad monuméntum. Et cum se inclinásset, vidit pósita linteámina, non tamen introívit. Venit ergo Simon Petrus sequens eum, et introívit in monuméntum, et vidit linteámina pósita, et sudárium, quod fúerat super caput ejus, non cum linteamínibus pósitum, sed separátim involútum in unum locum. Tunc ergo introívit et ille discípulus, qui vénerat primus ad monuméntum: et vidit, et crédidit: nondum enim sciébant Scriptúram, quia oportíbat eum a mórtuis resúrgere.—Credo.

Offertory: Ps. cxvii. 26, 27.

Benedíctus qui venit in nómine Dómini: Benedíximus vobis de domo Dómini: Deus Dóminus, et illúxit nobis, allelúia, allelúia.

Blessed be He that cometh in the name of the Lord! We have blessed you out of the house of the Lord. God is the Lord and hath showed us light, alleluia, alleluia.

Secret.

Concéde, quaesumus, Dómine, semper nos per haec mystéria paschália gratulári, ut contínua nostrae reparatiónis operátio, perpétuae nobis fiat causa laetitiae. Per Dóminum.

We beseech Thee, O Lord, grant us ever to rejoice through these Paschal mysteries, that the continual work of our reparation may be for us a cause of perpetual joy. Through our Lord.

Second Secret: Protege, p. 154, or Oblatis, p. 155.

Preface, p. 53.—Communicantes, p. 60.—Hanc igitur, p. 62.

Communion: Gal. iii. 27.

Omnes qui in Christo baptizáti estis, Christum induístis, allelúia.

All ye who have been baptised in Christ have put on Christ, alleluia.

Postcommunion.

Redemptiónis nostrae múnere vegetáti, quaesumus, Dómine: ut hoc perpétuae salútis auxílio, fides semper vera profíciat. Per Dóminum.

We beseech Thee, O Lord, that renewed by the gift of our redemption, true faith may ever prosper within us by this help to eternal salvation. Through our Lord.

Second Postcommunion: Quaesumus or Haec nos, pp. 154, 155.

"And bring hither thy hand, and put it into My side; and be not faithless, but believing." (Gospel of the day.)

Low Sunday or Octave of Easter.

STATION AT ST. PANCRAS.*

(Indulgence of 30 years and 30 quarantines.)

Privileged of the First Class, Greater Double.

White vestments.

The Station was at the church erected over the tomb of St. Pancras, a young martyr only twelve years old, who fell a victim to the persecution of Diocletian.

Low Sunday, so called in order to emphasise the contrast between the great Easter solemnity and the Sunday which ends the Octave, is also known as Quasimodo, from the first words of the Introit. In the Latin Missal and Breviary it is called Dominica in Albis (depositis or deponendis), because the Neophytes on that day put aside their white garments. Another Latin name, Pascha clausum, is preserved in the French Paques closes and in the Dutch Beloken Paschen, i.e. "close of Easter," this day ending the Octave (Collect). The Church compares the Neophytes to new-born babes, and the milk she gives them to drink (Introit) is the faith in Christ which will enable them to overcome with Him the world. This faith has for its foundation the testimony of the Father, Who at the baptism of Christ (water) declared Him to be His Son; the testimony of the Son, Who on the Cross (blood) showed Himself the Son of God; and that of the Holy Ghost, Who by Christ's Resurrection attested the divinity of the Redeemer (Gospel).

The Gospel further shows us how Christ, Who twice appeared in the Cenacle, dispelled the doubts of Thomas and praised those who, without having seen Him, yet believed in Him.†

Let us proclaim our faith in the risen Christ, and in the Divine Presence in the Holy Eucharist let us repeat with Thomas that cry of faith and humility, "My Lord and my God!"

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, B f 32.
† See "Easter from a Historical Point of View," p. 872, **.

Introit: 1 Peter ii. 2.

QUASI modo géniti infántes, allelúia: rationábiles, sine dolo lac concupíscite, allelúia, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Exsultáte Deo adjutóri nostro: jubiláte Deo Jacob. ℣. Glória Patri.

AS newborn babes, alleluia, desire the rational milk without guile, alleluia, alleluia, alleluia. Ps. lxxx. 2. Rejoice to God our helper: sing aloud to the God of Jacob. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collect.

Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui paschália festa perégimus; haec, te largiénte, móribus et vita teneámus. Per Dóminum.

Grant, we beseech Thee, O almighty God, that we who have celebrated the Paschal solemnity, may by Thy bounty show forth its effects in our life and conduct. Through our Lord.

Other Collects, p. 159.

Epistle: 1 John v. 4-10.

Léctio epístolae beáti Joánnis apóstoli.—CARISSIMI: Omne, quod natum est ex Deo vincit mundum: et haec est victória, quae vincit mundum, fides nostra. Quis est, qui vincit mundum, nisi qui credit, quóniam Jesus est Fílius Dei? Hic est qui venit per aquam et sánguinem, Jesus Christus: non in aqua solum, sed in aqua et sánguine. Et Spíritus est, qui testificátur, quóniam Christus est véritas. Quóniam tres sunt, qui testimónium dant in coelo: Pater, Verbum, et Spíritus sanctus: et hi tres unum sunt. Et tres sunt, qui testimónium dant in terra: Spíritus, et aqua, et sanguis: et hi tres unum sunt. Si testimónium hóminum accípimus, testimónium Dei majus est: quóniam hoc est testimónium Dei, quod majus est, quóniam testificátus est de

Taken from the epistle to the blessed apostle John.—DEARLY beloved: Whatsoever is born of God overcometh the world: and this is the victory which overcometh the world, our faith. Who is he that overcometh the world, but he that believeth that Jesus is the Son of God? This is He that came by water and blood, Jesus Christ: not by water only, but by water and blood. And it is the Spirit Which testifieth that Christ is the truth. And there are three Who give testimony in heaven: the Father, the Word, and the Holy Ghost: and these three are one. And there are three that give testimony on earth: the Spirit and the water and the blood: and these three are one. If we receive the testimony of men, the testimony of God is greater: for this is the testimony of God, which is greater because He hath testified of His Son. He that believeth in the Son of God hath the testimony of God in himself.

Filio suo. Qui credit in Filium Dei, habet testimónium Dei in se.

Alleluia, alleluia : Matt. xxviii. 7.

℣. On the day of My resurrection, saith the Lord, I will go before you into Galilee.

℣. In die resurrectiónis meae, dicit Dóminus, praecédam vos in Galílaeam.

Alleluia : John xx. 26.

℣. After eight days, the doors being shut, Jesus stood in the midst of His disciples, and said : Peace be to you. Alleluia.

℣. Post dies octo jánuis clausis, stetit Jesus in médio discipulórum suórum, et dixit : Pax vobis. Allelúia.

Gospel : John xx. 19-31.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time, when it was late that same day, the first of the week, and the doors were shut, where the disciples were gathered together for fear of the Jews, Jesus came, and stood in the midst and said to them : Peace be to you. And when He had said this, He showed them His hands and His side. The disciples therefore were glad, when they saw the Lord. He said therefore to them again : Peace be to you. As the Father hath sent Me, I also send you. When He had said this, He breathed on them, and He said to them : Receive ye the Holy Ghost : whose sins you shall forgive, they are forgiven them ; and whose sins you shall retain, they are retained. Now Thomas, one of the twelve, who is called Didymus, was not with them when Jesus came. The other disciples therefore said to him : We have seen the Lord. But he said to them :

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore : Cum sero esset die illo, una sabbatórum, et fores essent clausae, ubi erant discípuli congregáti propter metum Judaeórum : venit Jesus, et stetit in médio et dixit eis: Pax vobis. Et cum hoc dixísset, osténdit eis manus, et latus. Gavísi sunt ergo discípuli, víso Dómino. Dixit ergo eis íterum : Pax vobis. Sicut misit me Pater, et ego mitto vos. Haec cum dixísset, insufflávit, et dixit eis : Accípite Spíritum sanctum : quorum remiséritis peccáta, remittúntur eis : et quorum retinuéritis, reténta sunt. Thomas autem unus ex duódecim, qui dícitur Dídymus, non erat cum eis, quando venit Jesus. Dixérunt ergo ei álii discípuli : Vidimus Dóminum. Ille autem dixit eis : Nisi videro in mánibus ejus fixúram clavórum, et mittam digitum meum in locum clavórum, et mittam manum meam in latus ejus, non credam. Et post dies octo, iterum erant discípuli ejus intus : et Thomas cum eis. Venit Jesus jánuis clausis, et stetit in médio, et dixit : Pax vobis. Deinde dicit Thomae : Infer digitum tuum huc; et vide manus meas, et affer manum tuam, et mitte in latus meum : et noli esse incrédulus, sed fidélis. Respóndit Thomas et dixit ei : Dóminus meus, et Deus meus. Dixit ei Jesus : Quia vidísti me, Thoma, credidísti : beáti, qui non vidérunt, et credidérunt. Multa quidem et ália signa fecit Jesus in conspéctu discipulórum suórum, quae non sunt scripta in libro hoc. Haec autem scripta sunt, ut credátis, quia Jesus est Christus Fílius Dei : et ut credéntes, vitam habeátis in nómine ejus.—Credo.

Except I shall see in His hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the place of the nails, and put my hand into His side, I will not believe. And after eight days, again His disciples were within, and Thomas with them. Jesus cometh, the doors being shut, and stood in the midst, and said : Peace be to you. Then He saith to Thomas : Put in thy finger hither, and see My hands, and bring hither thy hand, and put it into My side ; and be not faithless, but believing. Thomas answered, and said to Him : My Lord and my God. Jesus saith to him : Because thou hast seen Me, Thomas, thou hast believed : blessed are they that have not seen, and have believed. Many other signs also did Jesus in the sight of His disciples, which are not written in this book. But these are written, that you may believe that Jesus is the Christ the Son of God ; and that, believing, you may have life in His name.—Credo.

Offertory : Matt. xxviii. 2, 5, 6.

Angelus Dómini descéndit de coelo, et dixit muliéribus : Quem quaeritis, surréxit, sicut dixit, allelúia.

An Angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and said to the women : He Whom you seek is risen, as He said, alleluia.

Secret.

Súscipe múnera, Dómine, quaesumus, exsultántis Ecclésiae : et cui causam tanti gáudii praestitísti, perpétuae fructum concéde laetítiae. Per Dóminum.

Receive, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the gifts of Thy joyful Church ; and grant that she to whom Thou hast given cause for so great joy may obtain also the fruit of perpetual gladness. Through our Lord.

Other Secrets, p. 159.

Preface for Easter, p. 53 : In hac potissimum.

Communion: John xx. 27.

Put in thy hand, and know the place of the nails, alleluia; and be not faithless, but believing, alleluia, alleluia.

Mitte manum tuam, et, cognósce loca clavórum, allelúia: et noli esse incrédulus, sed fidélis, allelúia, allelúia.

Postcommunion.

We beseech Thee, O Lord our God, that Thou wouldst make the most holy mysteries, which Thou hast given us to ensure our regeneration, a remedy for us both in the present and in the time to come. Through our Lord.

Quaesumus, Dómine Deus noster: ut sacrosáncta mystéria, quae pro reparatiónis nostrae munímine contulísti; et praesens nobis remédium esse fácias, et futúrum. Per Dóminum.

Other Postcommunions, p. 159.

If commemoration is made of an Octave or of any simple feast, the Prayer to the Blessed Virgin is now said; but no other prayer, unless the Bishop should have ordered one.

SECOND VESPERS.

Psalms for Sunday, p. 98.

Sole Antiphon: Alleluia, alleluia, alleluia.

Chapter: 1 John v. 4.

Dearly beloved: Whatsoever is born of God overcometh the world; and this is the victory which overcometh the world: our faith.

℟. Let us give thanks to God.

Caríssimi: Omne, quod natum est ex Deo, vincit mundum: et haec victória quae vincit mundum fides nostra.

℟. Deo grátias.

Hymn: Ad regias, p. 111; Versicle, Mane nobiscum, p. 112.

Antiphon at the Magnificat: John xx. 26.

After eight days, the doors being shut, the Lord entered and said to them: Peace be to you, alleluia, alleluia.

Post díes octo jánuis clausis, ingréssus Dóminus dixit eis: Pax vobis, allelúia, allelúia.

Collect as at Mass, p. 907.

PAX

"I am the good Shepherd, I know My sheep and My sheep know Me." (Gospel of the day.)

Second Sunday after Easter.

Semi-double.—White vestments.

This is known as Good Shepherd Sunday. As St. Peter, whom the risen Christ has appointed head and Pastor of His Church, tells us in the Epistle, Jesus is the Shepherd of our souls, which were as sheep going astray. He came to give His life for them, and they have flocked around Him.

The Gospel relates the Parable of the Good Shepherd,* Who protects His sheep from the attacks of the wolf and rescues them from death (Collect). He also foretells that the heathen will unite with the Jews of the Old Law, and that they will form one church and one fold, under one and the same Shepherd.

Jesus acknowledges them as His sheep, and, like the disciples of Emmaus, they in turn acknowledge that Christ is risen again (Alleluia). And, lifting up their eyes towards Him (Offertory), they return thanks for His great mercy (Introit).

Let us rally round the Divine Shepherd of our souls concealed in the Blessed Sacrament, Whose visible representative on earth is the Pope.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

Introit : Ps. xxxii. 5, 6.

MISERICORDIA Dómini plena est terra, allelúia: verbo Dómini coeli firmáti sunt, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Exsultáte, justi, in Dómino: rectos decet collaudátio. ℣. Glória Patri.

THE earth is full of the goodness of the Lord, alleluia: by the word of the Lord were the heavens made, alleluia, alleluia. Ps. xxxii. 1. Rejoice in the Lord, O ye righteous: praise is comely for the upright. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

* This parable was spoken by Jesus in the third year of His public ministry, at the Feast of the Tabernacles, just after He had given sight at Jerusalem to the man born blind. The Jews having cast the latter out of the synagogue, Christ offered him His Church as a refuge and compares the Pharisees to the false shepherds who abandon their sheep.

Collect.

O God, Who in the humility of Thy Son hast raised up a fallen world, grant to Thy faithful everlasting joy; that those whom Thou hast delivered from the perils of eternal death, Thou mayest make to enjoy everlasting happiness. Through the same Lord.

Deus, qui in Filii tui humilitáte jacéntem mundum erexísti: fidélibus tuis perpétuam concéde laetítiam; ut, quos perpétuae mortis eripuísti cásibus, gáudiis fácias pérfrui sempitérnis. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Other Collects, p. 159.

Epistle: 1 Peter ii. 21-25.

Taken from the Epistle of the blessed Apostle Peter.—DEARLY beloved, Christ suffered for us, leaving you an example, that you should follow His steps. Who did no sin, neither was guile found in His mouth. Who when He was reviled, did not revile: when He suffered, He threatened not, but delivered Himself to him that judged Him unjustly: Who His own self bore our sins in His body upon the tree: that we, being dead to sins, should live to justice: by Whose stripes you were healed. For you were as sheep going astray: but you are now converted to the shepherd and bishop of your souls.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Petri apóstoli.—CARISSIMI: Christus passus est pro nobis, vobis relínquens exémplum, ut sequámini vestígia ejus. Qui peccátum non fecit, nec invéntus est dolus in ore ejus: qui cum maledicerétur, non maledicébat: cum paterétur, non comminabátur, tradébat autem judicánti se injúste: qui peccáta nostra ipse pértulit in córpore suo super lignum, ut peccátis mórtui, justítiae vivámus: cujus livóre sanáti estis. Erátis enim sicut oves errántes; sed convérsi estis nunc ad pastórem et epíscopum animárum vestrárum.

Alleluia, alleluia: Luke xxiv. 35.

℣. The disciples knew the Lord Jesus in the breaking of bread.

℣. Cognovérunt discípuli Dóminum Jesum in fractióne panis.

Alleluia: John x. 14.

℣. I am the good shepherd: and I know My sheep, and Mine know Me. Alleluia ℣. Ego sum pastor bonus: et cognósco oves meas, et cognóscunt me meae. Allelúia.

Gospel: John x. 11-16.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—IN

Illo témpore: Dixit Jesus pharisaeis: Ego sum pastor bonus. Bonus pastor ánimam suam dat pro óvibus suis. Mercenárius autem, et qui non est pastor, cujus non sunt oves própriae, videt lupum veniéntem, et dimíttit oves, et fugit: et lupus rapit, et dispérgit oves: mercenárius autem fugit, quia mercenárius est, et non pértinet ad eum de óvibus. Ego sum pastor bonus: et cognósco meas, et cognóscunt me meae. Sicut novit me Pater, et ego agnósco Patrem: et ánimam meam pono pro óvibus meis. Et álias oves hábeo quae non sunt ex hoc ovíli: et illas opórtet me addúcere, et vocem meam áudient, et fiet unum ovíle, et unus pastor.—Credo.

At that time Jesus said to the Pharisees: I am the good shepherd. The good shepherd giveth his life for his sheep. But the hireling, and he that is not the shepherd, whose own the sheep are not, seeth the wolf coming and leaveth the sheep and flieth: and the wolf catcheth and scattereth the sheep: and the hireling flieth, because he is a hireling, and he hath no care for the sheep. I am the good shepherd: and I know Mine, and Mine know Me, as the Father knoweth Me, and I know the Father: and I lay down My life for My sheep. And other sheep I have that are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear My voice, and there shall be one fold and one shepherd.—Credo.

Offertory: Ps. lxii. 2, 5.

Deus, Deus meus, ad te de luce vígilo: et in nómine tuo levábo manus meas, allelúia.

O God, my God, to Thee do I watch at break of day; and in Thy name I will lift up my hands, alleluia.

Secret.

Benedictiónem nobis, Dómine, cónferat salutárem sacra semper oblátio: ut, quod agit mystério, virtúte perfíciat. Per Dóminum.

May this holy oblation ever draw down upon us Thy saving blessing, O Lord; that it may perfect in virtue what it represents in mystery. Through our Lord.

Other Secrets, p. 159.—Preface for Easter, p. 53.

Communion: John x. 14.

Ego sum pastor bonus, allelúia: et cognósco oves meas, et cognóscunt me meae, allelúia, allelúia.

I am the good shepherd, alleluia: and I know My sheep, and Mine know Me, alleluia, alleluia.

Postcommunion.

Grant us, we beseech Thee, O almighty God, that, obtaining from Thee the grace of a new life, we may ever glory in Thy gift. Through our Lord.

Praesta nobis, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut vívificatiónis tuae grátiam consequéntes, in tuo semper múnere gloriémur. Per Dóminum.

Other Postcommunions, p. 159.

SECOND VESPERS.

Psalms for Sunday, p. 98.

Antiphon: Alleluia, alleluia, alleluia.

Chapter: 1 Peter ii. 21.

Dearly beloved, Christ also suffered for us, leaving you an example that you should follow His steps; Who did no sin, neither was guile found in His mouth.

℟. Thanks be to God.

Caríssimi: Christus passus est pro nobis, vobis relínquens exémplum ut sequámini vestígia ejus. Qui peccátum non fecit, nec invéntus est dolus in ore ejus.

℟. Deo grátias.

Hymn: Ad regias, p. 111; Versicle: Mane nobiscum, p. 112.

Antiphon at the Magnificat: John x. 11, 15.

I am the good shepherd, I lead My sheep to pasture, and I lay down My life for My sheep, alleluia.

Ego sum pastor bonus, qui pasco oves meas, et pro óvibus meis pono ánimam meam, allelúia.

Collect as at Mass, p. 912.—Commemoration of the Cross, p. 114.

On the Wednesday following the Second Sunday after Easter, the Solemn Feast of St. Joseph, Spouse of the Blessed Virgin, is kept as a Double of the First Class with an Octave. (See the Proper of the Saints at the end of April.)

"A little while, and now you shall not see Me." (Gospel of the day.)

Third Sunday after Easter.

Semi-double.—White vestments.

The Church rejoices because Christ is risen again and has redeemed us (Alleluia) ; and so she utters cries of joy (Introit) and sings the praises of God (Offertory).

"A little while, and now you shall not see Me, and you shall lament and weep," Jesus said in His last discourse to His disciples ; " and again a little while, and you shall see Me, and your heart shall rejoice " (Gospel).

The Apostles, when again they saw Christ risen from the dead, were filled with joy the same as the liturgical services for Easter give expression to to this day ; and seeing that Easter is but a figure of the eternal Pasch, the Church will experience a like joy when, having brought forth in sorrow souls to God, she sees Jesus again in His triumphant entry into Heaven. " He will turn our sorrow then into joy, which no man shall take from us " (Gospel).

The head of the Church, moreover, states in the Epistle that we are here only as strangers and pilgrims, and he enumerates the positive and negative precepts to be observed in order that those " who profess themselves Christians may be able to reject those things which disgrace the name and follow those which are becoming to it " (Collect).

Let us eat the Lord's Pasch, that this spiritual food may protect our bodies (Postcommunion), and that, whilst moderating the ardour of our earthly desires, we may be made to love those things that are of heaven (Secret).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

Introit: Ps. lxv. 1, 2.

SHOUT with joy to God, all the earth, alleluia: sing ye a psalm to His name, alleluia: give glory to His praise, alleluia, alleluia, alleluia. Ps. lxv. 3. Say unto God: How terrible are Thy works, O Lord! In the multitude of Thy strength Thy enemies shall lie to Thee. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

JUBILATE Deo, omnis terra, allelúia: psalmum dícite nómini ejus, allelúia: date glóriam laudi ejus, allelúia, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Dícite Deo, quam terribília sunt ópera tua, Dómine. In multitúdine virtútis tuae mentiéntur tibi inimíci tui. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.

O God, Who dost show the light of Thy truth unto those that go astray, that they may return to the way of righteousness: grant to all those who profess themselves Christians to reject those things which are contrary to that name, and to follow those which are becoming to it. Through our Lord.

Deus, qui errántibus, ut in viam possint redíre justítiae, veritátis tuae lumen osténdis: da cunctis qui christiána professióne censéntur, et illa respúere, quae huic inimíca sunt nómini; et ea quae sunt apta, sectári. Per Dóminum.

Other Collects, p. 159.

Epistle: 1 Peter ii. 11-19.

Taken from the epistle of the blessed Apostle Peter.—DEARLY beloved, I beseech you, as strangers and pilgrims, to refrain yourselves from carnal desires, which war against the soul, having your conversation good among the Gentiles: that whereas they speak against you as evildoers, they may, by the good works which they shall behold in you, glorify God in the day of visitation. Be ye subject therefore to every human creature for God's sake: whether it be to the king as excelling, or to governors as sent by him for the punishment of evildoers and for the praise of the good: for so is the Léctio epístolae beáti Petri apóstoli. — CARISSIMI: Obsecro vos tamquam ádvenas et peregrínos abstinere vos a carnálibus desidériis, quae mílitant advérsus ánimam; conversatiónem vestram inter gentes habéntes bonam: ut in eo, quod detréctant de vobis tamquam de malefactóribus, ex bonis opéribus vos considerántes, glorificent Deum in die visitatiónis. Subjécti ígitur estóte omni humánae creatúrae propter Deum: sive regi, quasi praecellénti: sive dúcibus, tamquam ab eo missis ad vindíctam malefactórum, laudem vero bonórum: quia sic est volúntas Dei, ut benefaciéntes obmutéscere faciátis imprudéntium hóminum ignorántiam: quasi líberi, et non quasi velámen habéntes malítiae libertátem, sed sicut servi Dei. Omnes honoráte: fraternitátem dilígite: Deum timéte: regem honorificáte. Servi, súbditi estóte in omni timóre dóminis, non tantum bonis et modéstis, sed étiam dyscolis. Haec est enim grátia: in Christo Jesu Dómino nostro.

will of God, that by doing well you may put to silence the ignorance of foolish men: as free, and not as making liberty a cloak for malice, but as the servants of God. Honour all men: love the brotherhood: fear God: honour the king. Servants, be subject to your masters with all fear, not only to the good and gentle, but also to the froward. For this is thankworthy before God: in Christ Jesus our Lord.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. cx. 9.

℣. Redemptiónem misit Dóminus pópulo suo.

℣. The Lord hath sent redemption to His people.

Alleluia: Luke xxiv. 46.

℣. Oportébat pati Christum, et resúrgere a mórtuis: et ita intráre in glóriam suam. Alleluia.

℣. It behoved Christ to suffer and to rise again from the dead, and so to enter into His glory. Alleluia.

Gospel: John xvi. 16-22.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Módicum, et jam non vidébitis me: et iterum módicum, et vidébitis me: quia vado ad Patrem. Dixérunt ergo ex discípulis ejus ad ínvicem: Quid est hoc, quod dicit nobis: Módicum, et non vidébitis me: et íterum módicum, et vidébitis me, et, Quia vado ad Patrem? Dicébant ergo, Quid est hoc quod dicit: Módicum? nescímus quid lóquitur. Cognóvit autem Jesus, quia volébant eum interrogáre, et dixit eis: De hoc quaeritis inter vos, quia dixi: Módicum, et non vidébitis me: et íterum módi-

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time Jesus said to His disciples: A little while, and now you shall not see Me: and again a little while, and you shall see Me: because I go to the Father. Then some of His disciples said one to another: What is this that He saith to us: A little while, and you shall not see Me; and again a little while, and you shall see Me, and, Because I go to the Father? They said therefore: What is this that He saith, A little while? We know not what He speaketh. And Jesus knew that they had a mind to ask Him. And He said to them: Of this do you inquire among yourselves, because I said: A little while, and you shall not see Me; and again a little while, and you shall see Me? Amen, amen, I say to you, that you shall lament and weep, but the world shall rejoice: and you shall be made sorrowful, but your sorrow shall be turned into joy. A woman, when she is in labour, hath sorrow, because her hour is come; but when she hath brought forth the child, she remembereth no more the anguish, for joy that a man is born into the world. So also you now indeed have sorrow: but I will see you again and your heart shall rejoice: and your joy no man shall take from you.—Credo.

cum, et vidébitis me. Amen, amen dico vobis: quia plorábitis, et flébitis vos, mundus autem gaudébit: vos autem contristabímini, sed tristítia vestra vertétur in gáudium. Múlier cum parit, tristítiam habet, quia venit hora ejus: cum autem pepérerit púerum, jam non méminit pressúrae propter gáudium, quia natus est homo in mundum. Et vos ígitur nunc quidem tristítiam habétis, íterum autem vidébo vos, et gaudébit cor vestrum: et gáudium vestrum nemo tollet a vobis.—Credo.

Offertory: Ps. cxlv. 2.

Praise the Lord, O my soul; while I live will I praise the Lord: I will sing praises unto my God while I have being, alleluia.

Lauda, ánima mea, Dóminum: laudábo Dóminum in vita mea: psallam Deo meo, quámdiu ero, allelúia.

Secret.

Grant, O Lord, that by these mysteries it may be given unto us to moderate our worldly desires, and learn to love the things of heaven. Through our Lord.

His nobis, Dómine, mystériis conferátur, quo terréna desidéria mitigántes, discámus amáre coeléstia. Per Dóminum.

Other Secrets, p. 159.—Preface for Easter, p. 53.

Communion: John xvi. 16.

A little while, and you shall not see Me, alleluia; and again a little while, and you shall see Me, because I go to the Father, alleluia, alleluia.

Módicum, et non vidébitis me, allelúia: íterum módicum, et vidébitis me, quia vado ad Patrem, allelúia, allelúia.

Postcommunion.

May the sacraments which we have received, O Lord, we be-Sacraménta quae súmpsimus, quaesumus, Dómine, et spirituálibus nos instáurent aliméntis, et corporálibus tueántur auxíliis. Per Dóminum.

seech Thee, be a quickening food for our souls and a help and protection to our bodies. Through our Lord.

Other Postcommunions, p. 159.

SECOND VESPERS.

Psalm for Sunday, p. 98.

Antiphon : Alleluia, alleluia, alleluia.

Chapter : 1 Peter ii. 11.

Caríssimi : Obsecro vos tamquam ádvenas et peregrínos abstinére vos a carnálibus desidériis, quae mílitant advérsus animam. ℟. Deo grátias.

Dearly beloved, I beseech you, as strangers and pilgrims, to refrain yourselves from carnal desires which war against the soul. ℟. Thanks be to God.

Hymn : Ad regias, p. 111.—Versicle : Mane nobiscum, p. 112.

Antiphon at the Magnificat : John xvi. 20.

Amen dico vobis, quia plorábitis et flébitis vos : mundus autem gaudébit ; vos vero contristabímini, sed tristítia vestra vertétur in gáudium, allelúia.

Amen, I say to you, that you shall lament and weep, but the world shall rejoice : and you shall be made sorrowful, but your sorrow shall be turned into joy, alleluia.

Collect as at Mass, p. 916.—Commemoration of the Cross, p. 114.

"If I go not, the Paraclete will not come to you : but if I go, I will send Him to you." (Gospel of the day.)

Fourth Sunday after Easter.

Semi-double.—White vestments.

The liturgy to-day exalts the justice of God (Introit, Gospel), which is made manifest in the triumph of Christ and in that of His Church.

"The right hand of the Lord hath made manifest its power by raising Christ from the dead" (Alleluia) and by taking Him up into Heaven on the day of His Ascension. It is expedient to us that Jesus should leave the earth, for from Heaven He will send to His Church the Spirit of truth (Gospel), that excellent gift which comes down from the Father of lights (Epistle).

The Holy Ghost will unite all hearts (Collect), will teach them all truth (Gospel, Offertory), and will convince Satan and the world of the sin they have committed in delivering Jesus to death (Gospel, Communion) and in continuing to persecute Him through His Church.

Let us hearken to the words of truth, which will save our souls (Epistle), and let us practise truth (Secret), that our hearts may be always set there where is true joy (Collect).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

Introit : Ps. xcvii. 1, 2.

SING ye to the Lord a new canticle, alleluia, for the Lord hath done wonderful things, alleluia : He hath revealed His justice in the sight of the Gentiles, alleluia, alleluia, alleluia. Ps. xcvii. 1. His right hand, and His holy arm, hath gotten Him the victory. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

CANTATE Dómino cánticum novum, allelúia : quia mirabília fecit Dóminus, allelúia : ante conspéctum géntium revelávit justítiam suam, allelúia, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Salvábit sibi déxtera ejus : et bráchium sanctum ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.

Deus, qui fidélium mentes unius éfficis voluntátis, da pópulis tuis id amáre quod praecipis, id desideráre quod promíttis: ut inter mundánas varietátes ibi nostra fixa sint corda, ubi vera sunt gáudia. Per Dóminum.

O God, Who makest the minds of the faithful to be of one will, grant to Thy people to love what Thou commandest and to desire what Thou dost promise; that amidst the changing things of this world our hearts may be set where true joy is found. Through our Lord.

Other Collects, p. 159.

Epistle: James i. 17-21.

Léctio epístolae beáti Jacóbi apóstoli.—CARISSIMI: Omne datum óptimum, et omne donum perféctum desúrsum est, descéndens a Patre lúminum, apud quem non est transmutátio, nec vicissitúdinis obumbrátio. Voluntárie enim génuit nos verbo veritátis, ut simus inítium áliquod creatúrae ejus. Scitis, fratres mei dilectíssimi. Sit autem omnis homo velox ad audiéndum: tardus autem ad loquéndum, et tardus ad iram. Ira enim viri justítiam Dei non operátur. Propter quod adjiciéntes omnem immundítiam, et abundántiam malítiae, in mansuetúdine suscípite ínsitum verbum, quod potest salváre ánimas vestras.

Taken from the epistle to the blessed Apostle James.—DEARLY beloved, every best gift and every perfect gift is from above, coming down from the Father of lights, with Whom there is no change nor shadow of alteration. For of His own will hath He begotten us by the word of truth, that we might be some beginning of His creature. You know, my dearest brethren. And let every man be swift to hear, but slow to speak and slow to anger For the anger of man worketh not the justice of God. Wherefore, casting away all uncleanness and abundance of naughtiness, with meekness receive the ingrafted word, which is able to save your souls.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. cxvii. 16.

℣. Déxtera Dómini fecit virtútem: déxtera Dómini exaltávit me.

℣. The right hand of the Lord hath wrought strength, the right hand of the Lord hath exalted me.

Alleluia: Romans vi. 9.

℣. Christus resúrgens ex mórtuis, jam non móritur: mors illi ultra non dominábitur. Allelúia.

℣. Christ, rising again from the dead, dieth now no more: death shall no more have dominion over Him. Alleluia.

Gospel: John xvi. 5-14.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time Jesus said to His disciples: I go to Him that sent Me; and none of you asketh Me: Whither goest Thou? But because I have spoken these things to you, sorrow hath filled your heart. But I tell you the truth: it is expedient to you that I go; for if I go not, the Paraclete will not come to you: but if I go, I will send Him to you. And when He is come, He will convince the world of sin, and of justice and of judgment. Of sin, because they believed not in Me; and of justice, because I go to the Father, and you shall see Me no longer; and of judgment, because the prince of this world is already judged. I have yet many things to say to you: but you cannot bear them now. But when He, the Spirit of truth, is come, He will teach you all truth. For He shall not speak of Himself: but what things soever He shall hear He shall speak, and the things that are to come He shall show you. He shall glorify Me: because He shall receive of Mine and shall show it to you.—Credo.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Vado ad eum, qui misit me: et nemo ex vobis intérrogat me: Quo vadis? Sed quia haec locútus sum vobis, tristítia implévit cor vestrum. Sed ego veritátem dico vobis: éxpedit vobis ut ego vadam: si enim non abiero, Paráclitus non véniet ad vos: si autem abiero, mittam eum ad vos. Et cum vénerit ille, árguet mundum de peccáto, et de justítia et de judício. De peccáto quidem, quia non credidérunt in me: de justítia vero, quia ad Patrem vado, et jam non vidébitis me: de judício autem, quia princeps hujus mundi jam judicátus est. Adhuc multa hábeo vobis dícere: sed non potéstis portáre modo. Cum autem vénerit ille Spíritus veritátis, docébit vos omnem veritátem. Non enim loquétur a semetípso: sed quaecúmque áudiet, loquétur, et quae ventúra sunt, annuntiábit vobis. Ille me clarificábit: quia de meo accípiet et annuntiábit vobis.—Credo.

Offertory: Ps. lxv. 1, 2, 16.

Shout with joy to God, all the earth, sing ye a psalm to His name: come and hear, and I will tell you, all ye that fear God, what great things the Lord hath done for my soul, alleluia.

Jubiláte Deo, univérsa terra, psalmum dícite nómini ejus: veníte, et audíte, et narrábo vobis, omnes qui timétis Deum, quanta fecit Dóminus ánimae meae, allelúia.

Secret.

Deus, qui nos per hujus sacrifícii veneránda commércia, uníus summae divinitátis partícipes effecísti: praesta, quaesumus: ut, sicut tuam cognóscimus veritátem, sic eam dignis móribus assequámur. Per Dóminum.

O God, Who by the sacred intercourse of this sacrifice hast made us partakers of the one supreme Godhead: grant, we beseech Thee, that as we know Thy truth, so we may attain to it by a worthy life. Through our Lord.

Other Secrets, p. 159.—Preface for Easter, p. 53.

Communion: John xvi. 8.

Cum vénerit Paráclitus Spíritus veritátis, ille árguet mundum de peccáto, et de justítia, et de judício, allelúia, allelúia.

When the Paraclete, the Spirit of truth, is come, He will convince the world of sin, and of justice and of judgment, alleluia, alleluia.

Postcommunion.

Adésto nobis, Dómine Deus noster: ut per haec, quae fidéliter súmpsimus, et purgémur a vítiis, et a perículis ómnibus eruámur. Per Dóminum.

Assist us, O Lord our God, that by what we have received in faith, we may be purified from vice and delivered from all dangers. Through our Lord.

Other Postcommunions, p. 159.

SECOND VESPERS.

Psalms for Sunday, p. 98.—Antiphon: Alleluia (thrice).

Chapter: James i. 17.

Caríssimi: Omne datum óptimum, et omne donum perféctum desúrsum est, descéndens a Patre lúminum, apud quem non est transmutátio, nec vicissitúdinis obumbrátio.
℟. Deo grátias.

Dearly beloved, every best gift and every perfect gift is from above, coming down from the Father of lights, with Whom there is no change nor shadow of alteration.
℟. Thanks be to God.

Hymn: Ad regias, p. 111.—Versicle: Mane nobiscum, p. 112.

Antiphon at the Magnificat: John xvi. 5, 6.

Vado ad eum qui misit me: sed quia haec locútus sum vobis, tristítia implévit cor vestrum, allelúia.

I go to Him that sent Me; but because I have spoken these things to you, sorrow hath filled your heart, alleluia.

Collect as at Mass, p. 921.—Commemoration of the Cross, p. 114.

"I came forth from the Father and am come into the world. Again I leave the world and go to the Father." (Gospel of the day.)

Fifth Sunday after Easter.

Semi-double.—White vestments.

The liturgy continues to sing the risen Christ and exhorts us, during the Rogations, to unite with her in prayer. Delivered from sin by the efficacy of His blood (Introit, Alleluia, Communion), we are bound to hearken and practise the perfect law of liberty contained in His Gospel (Epistle). To this end, let us ask of God, from Whom all good things come (Collect), that by the merits of the Redeemer (Gospel) we may be given the grace to participate in the new life opened up for us by Jesus.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

Introit: Isa. xlviii. 20.

DECLARE it with the voice of joy, and make it known, alleluia: declare it even to the ends of the earth: The Lord hath delivered His people, alleluia, alleluia. Ps. lxv. 1, 2. Shout with joy to God, all the earth, sing ye a psalm to His name: give glory to His praise. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

VOCEM jucunditátis annuntiáte, et audiátur, allelúia: annuntiáte usque ad extrémum terrae: liberávit Dóminus pópulum suum, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Jubiláte Deo omnis terra, psalmum dícite nómini ejus: date glóriam laudi ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.

O God, from Whom all good things come, grant to us Thy

Deus, a quo bona cuncta procédunt, largíre supplícibus tuis: ut cogitémus, te inspiránte, quae recta sunt; et, te gubernánte, eádem faciámus. Per Dóminum.

suppliants that, by Thy inspiration, we may think those things that are right, and do them under Thy guidance. Through our Lord.

Other Collects, p. 159.

Epistle: James i. 22-27.

Léctio epístolae beáti Jacóbi apóstoli.—CARISSIMI: Estóte factóres verbi, et non auditóres tantum: falléntes vosmetipsos. Quia si quis audítor est verbi, et non factor: hic comparábitur viro consideránti vultum nativitátis suae in spéculo: considerávit enim se, et ábiit, et statim oblítus est, qualis fúerit. Qui autem perspéxerit in legem perféctam libertátis, et permánserit in ea, non audítor obliviósus factus, sed factor óperis: hic beátus in facto suo erit. Si quis autem putat se religiósum esse, non refrénans linguam suam, sed sedúcens cor suum, hujus vana est relígio. Relígio munda, et immaculáta apud Deum et Patrem, haec est: Visitáre pupíllos, et víduas in tribulatióne eórum, et immaculátum se custodíre ab hoc saeculo.

Taken from the epistle of the blessed Apostle James.—DEARLY beloved, be ye doers of the word and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves. For if a man be a hearer of the word and not a doer, he shall be compared to a man beholding his own countenance in a glass: for he beheld himself and went his way, and presently forgot what manner of man he was. But he that hath looked into the perfect law of liberty and hath continued therein, not becoming a forgetful hearer but a doer of the work: this man shall be blessed in his deed. And if any man think himself to be religious, not bridling his tongue but deceiving his own heart, this man's religion is vain. Religion clean and undefiled before God and the Father is this: To visit the fatherless and widows in their tribulation and to keep one's self unspotted from this world.

Alleluia, alleluia.

℣. Surréxit Christus, et illúxit nobis, quos redémit sánguine suo.

℣. Christ is risen, and hath shone upon us, whom He redeemed with His blood.

Alleluia: John xvi. 28.

℣. Exívi a Patre, et veni in mundum: íterum relínquo mundum, et vado ad Patrem. Allelúia.

℣. I came forth from the Father, and am come into the world: again I leave the world and I go to the Father. Alleluia

Gospel: John xvi. 23-30.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time Jesus saith to His disciples: Amen, amen, I say to you: If you ask the Father any thing in My name, He will give it you. Hitherto you have not asked any thing in My name: Ask, and you shall receive, that your joy may be full. These things I have spoken to you in proverbs. The hour cometh when I will no more speak to you in proverbs, but will show you plainly of the Father. In that day you shall ask in My name: and I say not to you that I will ask the Father for you: for the Father Himself loveth you, because you have loved Me and have believed that I came out from God. I came forth from the Father and am come into the world: again I leave the world and I go to the Father. His disciples say to Him: Behold, now Thou speakest plainly and speakest no proverb. Now we know that Thou knowest all things and Thou needest not that any man should ask Thee: by this we believe that Thou camest forth from God.—Credo.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Amen, amen dico vobis: Si quid petiéritis Patrem in nómine meo, dabit vobis. Usque modo non petístis quidquam in nómine meo: Pétite, et accipiétis, ut gáudium vestrum sit plenum. Haec in provérbiis locútus sum vobis. Venit hora, cum jam non in provérbiis loquar vobis, sed palam de Patre annuntiábo vobis. In illo die in nómine meo petétis: et non dico vobis, quia ego rogábo Patrem de vobis: ipse enim Pater amat vos, quia vos me amástis, et credidístis, quia ego a Deo exívi. Exívi a Patre, et veni in mundum: íterum relínquo mundum, et vado ad Patrem. Dicunt ei discípuli ejus: Ecce nunc palam lóqueris, et provérbium nullum dicis. Nunc scimus, quia scis ómnia, et non opus est tibi, ut quis te intérroget: in hoc crédimus, quia a Deo exísti.—Credo.

Offertory: Ps. lxv. 8, 9, 20.

O bless the Lord our God, ye peoples, and make the voice of His praise to be heard: Who hath set my soul to live, and hath not suffered my feet to be moved. Blessed be the Lord, Who hath not turned away my prayer, nor His mercy from me, alleluia.

Benedícite, gentes, Dóminum Deum nostrum, et obaudíte vocem laudis ejus: qui pósuit ánimam meam ad vitam, et non dedit commovéri pedes meos: benedíctus Dóminus, qui non amóvit deprecatiónem meam, et misericórdiam suam a me, allelúia.

Secret.

Súscipe, Dómine, fidélium preces cum oblatiónibus hostiárum: ut per haec piae devotiónis offícia, ad coeléstem glóriam transeámus. Per Dóminum.

Receive, O Lord, the prayers and sacrifices of the faithful, that by these offices of loving devotion we may attain to heavenly glory. Through our Lord.

Other Secrets, p. 159.—Preface for Easter, p. 53.

Communion: Ps. xcv. 2.

Cantáte Dómino, allelúia: cantáte Dómino, et benedícite nomen ejus: bene nuntiáte de die in diem salutáre ejus, allelúia, allelúia.

Sing unto the Lord, alleluia: sing unto the Lord, and bless His name: show forth His salvation from day to day, alleluia, alleluia.

Postcommunion.

Tríbue nobis, Dómine, coeléstis mensae virtúte satiátis: et desideráre quae recta sunt, et desideráta percípere. Per Dóminum.

Grant us, O Lord, who have been nourished and strengthened at the heavenly table, to desire that which is right, and to obtain what we desire. Through our Lord.

Other Postcommunions, p. 159.

SECOND VESPERS.

Psalms for Sunday, p. 98.

Antiphon: Alleluia, alleluia, alleluia.

Chapter: James i. 22-24.

Caríssimi. Estóte factóres verbi, et non auditóres tantum, falléntes vosmetípsos. Quia si quis audítor est verbi, et non factor: hic comparábitur viro considerànti vultum nativitátis suae in spéculo: considerávit enim se, et ábiit, et statim oblítus est qualis fúerit.

℟. Deo grátias

Dearly beloved, be ye doers of the word and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves. For if a man be a hearer of the word and not a doer, he shall be compared to a man beholding his own countenance in a glass: for he beheld himself and went his way, and presently forgot what manner of man he was.

℟. Thanks be to God.

Hymn: Ad regias, p. 111.—Versicle: Mane nobiscum, p. 112.

Antiphon at the Magnificat: John xvi. 24, 27.

Ask, and you shall receive, that your joy may be full: for the Father Himself loveth you, because you have loved Me and have believed, alleluia.

Pétite, et accipiétis ut gáudium vestrum sit plenum: ipse enim Pater amat vos, quia vos me amástis, et credidístis, allelúia.

Collect as at Mass, p. 924.—Commemoration of the Cross, p. 114.

ROGATION DAYS.

1. The Lesser Litanies.

In consequence of the public calamities that afflicted the Diocese of Vienne in Dauphiny in the fifth century, St. Mamertus instituted a solemn penitential procession on the Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday before Ascension Day. Under an Order of the Council of Orleans in 511 the devotion spread to the rest of France. In 816 Pope Leo III. introduced it in Rome and soon after it became a general observance throughout the Church.

The Litany of the Saints and the Psalms and Collects sung in procession on these days are supplications; hence the term Rogations applied to them. The object of these devotions is to appease the anger of God and avert the scourges of His justice, and to draw down the blessings of God on the fruits of the earth.

Purple is used as a token of penance, and the Paschal Candle is left unlighted. The Litany of the Saints, consisting of ejaculations in the form of a dialogue, is an admirable manner of prayer which it should be our purpose to cultivate.

The Celebrant wears a purple stole and cope. All in the choir stand as they sing:—

Antiphon: Ps. xliii. 26.

Arise, O Lord, help us and redeem us for Thy name's sake (Alleluia). Ps. xliii. 2. We have heard, O God, with our ears: our fathers have told us. Glory be to the Father.—Arise, . . .

Exsúrge, Dómine, ádjuva nos, et líbera nos propter nomen tuum (Allelúia). Ps. Deus áuribus nostris audívimus: patres nostri annuntiavérunt nobis. Glória Patri.—Exsúrge, . . .

Here all kneel, and two Cantors begin the Litany of the Saints, p. 317, the Choir singing the responses. Each invocation must be repeated, except where it is found impossible to hold the Procession. At Sancta Maria all stand and the procession begins to move, the Clergy in order according to their rank, preceded by the processional cross and followed by the Celebrant and Deacon.

When a Station is made at a Cross or Chapel, the singing of the Litany is interrupted and the fields are blessed, with the following prayers:—

℣. Adjutórium nostrum in nómine Dómini.
℟. Qui fecit coelum et terram.
℣. Dómine, non secúndum peccáta nostra fácias nobis.
℟. Neque secúndum iniquitátes nostras retribuas nobis.
℣. Benedíces corónae anni benignitátis tuae.
℟. Et campi tui replebúntur ubertáte.
℣. Oculi ómnium in te sperant, Dómine.
℟. Et tu das illis escam in témpore opportúno.
℣. Dómine, exáudi oratiónem meam.
℟. Et clamor meus ad te véniat.
℣. Dóminus vobíscum.
℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

Orémus.

Deus, refúgium nostrum et virtus, adésto piis Ecclésiae tuae précibus, auctor ipse pietátis, et praesta ut quod fidéliter pétimus, efficáciter consequámur.

Deus, qui in omni loco dominatiónis tuae clemens et benígnus assístis, exáudi nos, quaesumus, et concéde ut in pósterum inviolábilis hujus loci permáneat benedíctio, et tui múneris benefícia univérsitas haec fidélium, quae súpplicat, percípere mereátur.

Orámus pietátem tuam, omnípotens Deus, ut fructus terrae, quos áeris et plúviae temperaménto nutríre dignáris, benedictiónis tuae imbre perfúndas, et tríbuas huic

℣. Our help is in the name of the Lord.
℟. Who made heaven and earth.
℣. O Lord, deal not with us according to our sins.
℟. Neither requite us according to our iniquities.
℣. Crown the year with Thy blessing and with Thy benefits.
℟. And let Thy fields be filled with fertility.
℣. The eyes of all are turned towards Thee, O Lord.
℟. And Thou givest them nourishment in due season.
℣. O Lord, hear my prayer.
℟. And let my cry come unto Thee.
℣. The Lord be with you.
℟. And with thy spirit.

Let us pray.

O God, our refuge and our strength, give ear to the pious prayers of Thy Church, Who art Thyself the author of piety, and grant that what we ask with faith we may certainly obtain.

O God, Who everywhere in Thy kingdom dost show Thyself merciful and gracious, hear us, we beseech Thee, and grant that henceforth this place may be forever blessed, and that these Thy faithful suppliants may deserve to receive Thy gifts and Thy blessings.

We beg of Thy goodness, O almighty God, that the fruits of the earth, which Thou dost deign to nourish by means of temperate breezes and rain, may be penetrated by the dew of Thy blessings; grant also to this people always to thank Thee for Thy gifts; that the fertility of the earth may enrich the hungry with an abundance of good things, and that the poor and the needy may celebrate Thy glory. Through Christ our Lord.

℟. Amen.

pópulo tuo de tuis munéribus tibi semper grátias ágere, ut fertilitáte terrae esuriéntium ánimas bonis affluéntibus rérpleas, et egénus et pauper laudent nomen glóriae. Per Christum Dóminum nostrum.

℟. Amen.

May the blessing of almighty God, Father, Son and Holy Ghost, descend in plenty on the fields and on all these good things, and remain there for ever.

℟. Amen.

Benedíctio Dei omnipoténtis, Patris, et Fílii, et Spíritus sancti super agros et bona quaecúmque loci hujus plena descéndat et máneat semper.

℟. Amen.

The Priest then sprinkles the four cardinal points with holy water, saying:—

Sprinkle me, O Lord, with hyssop, and I shall be cleansed; wash me, and I shall become whiter than snow.

Aspérges me, Dómine, hyssópo, et mundábor; lavábis me, et super nivem dealbábor.

The Procession and Litany are then resumed.

If a church or chapel is visited, the Antiphon and Versicle may be sung, with the Collect of the local patron Saint, or the Stational Mass Exaudivit may be said. On leaving the interrupted Litany is resumed.

---

2. Mass of Rogation.

STATIONS.—MONDAY: AT ST. MARY MAJOR.—TUESDAY: AT ST. JOHN LATERAN.—WEDNESDAY: AT ST. PETER'S.*

(Indulgence of 30 years and 30 quarantines each day.)
Purple vestments.

The Mass throughout points to the efficacy of the prayer of the just man when humble, sure and persistent. Elias by prayer closed and opened the heavens (Epistle), and our Lord shows us by two parables that God gives His Holy Spirit to whosoever asks Him, because He is good (Gospel, Alleluia). In our afflictions let us place our trust in God and He will hear our prayers (Introit, Collect).

The following Mass is said after the Procession of both the Greater and Lesser Litanies.—On Rogation Days, if a feast is kept, whether Mass be private, sung or solemn, the Rogation is commemorated; but if the Mass of Rogation is said, the feast is commemorated. On the Tuesday, however, if no feast occurs, the Mass of Rogation is said without the Gloria in excelsis.

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome p. 510, G d 26, H f 15, AB c 33.

Introit: Ps. xvii. 7.

EXAUDIVIT de templo sancto suo vocem meam, allelúia: et clamor meus in conspéctu ejus, introívit in aures ejus, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Díligam te, Dómine, virtus mea: Dóminus firmaméntum meum, et refúgium meum, et liberátor meus. ℟. Glória Patri.

HE heard my voice from His holy temple, alleluia; and my cry before Him came into His ears, alleluia, alleluia. Ps. xvii. 2, 3. I will love Thee, O Lord, my strength; the Lord is my firmament, my refuge and my deliverer. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

The Gloria in excelsis is not said at this Mass.

Collect.

Praesta quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui in afflictióne nostra de tua pietáte confídimus; contra advérsa ómnia, tua semper protectióne muniámur. Per Dóminum.

Grant, we beseech Thee, O almighty God, that we, who in our afflictions confide in Thy mercy, may by Thy protection be ever defended against all adversity. Through our Lord.

Other Collects, p. 159.—During the Octave of Easter only the Collect against the Persecutors of the Church, p. 154, or the Collect for the Pope, p. 155, is said.

Epistle: James v. 16-20.

Léctio epístolae beáti Jacóbi Apóstoli.—CARISSIMI: Confitémini altérutrum peccáta vestra, et oráte pro ínvicem, ut salvémini: multum enim valet deprecátio justi assídua. Elías homo erat símilis nobis passíbilis: et oratióne orávit ut non plúeret super terram, et non pluit annos tres, et menses sex. Et rursum orávit: et coelum dedit plúviam, et terra dedit fructum suum. Fratres mei, si quis ex vobis erráverit a veritáte, et convérterit quis eum: scire debet, quóniam qui convérti fécerit peccatórem ab erróre viae suae, salvábit ánimam ejus a morte, et opériet multitúdinem peccatórum.

Taken from the epistle of the blessed Apostle James.—DEARLY beloved, confess your sins one to another, and pray one for another, that you may be saved: for the continual prayer of a just man availeth much. Elias was a man passible like unto us: and with prayer he prayed that it might not rain upon the earth, and it rained not for three years and six months. And he prayed again: and the heaven gave rain, and the earth brought forth her fruit. My brethren, if any of you err from the truth and one convert him, he must know that he who causeth a sinner to be converted from the error of his way shall save his soul from death, and shall cover a multitude of sins.

Alleluia: Ps. cxvii. 1.

℣. Give praise to the Lord, for He is good: for His mercy endureth for ever.

℣. Confitémini Dómino, quóniam bonus: quóniam in saeculum misericórdia ejus.

Gospel: Luke xi. 5-13.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—At that time Jesus said to His disciples: Which of you shall have a friend, and shall go to him at midnight, and shall say to him: Friend, lend me three loaves, because a friend of mine is come off his journey to me, and I have not what to set before him; and he from within should answer and say: Trouble me not, the door is now shut, and my children are with me in bed; I cannot rise and give thee. Yet if he shall continue knocking, I say to you, although he will not rise and give him because he is his friend, yet because of his importunity he will rise, and give him as many as he needeth. And I say to you: Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and you shall find; knock, and it shall be opened to you. For every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened. And which of you, if he ask his father bread, will he give him a stone? or a fish, will he for a fish give him a serpent? or if he shall ask an egg, will he reach him a scorpion? If you then, being evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will your Father from heaven give the good Spirit to them that ask Him?

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Quis vestrum habébit amícum, et ibit ad illum média nocte, et dicet illi: Amíce, cómmoda mihi tres panes, quóniam amícus meus venit de via ad me, et non hábeo quod ponam ante illum: et ille deíntus respóndens, dicat: Noli mihi moléstus esse, jam óstium clausum est, et púeri mei mecum sunt in cubíli, non possum súrgere, et dare tibi. Et si ille perseveráverit pulsans: dico vobis, etsi non dabit illi surgens, eo quod amícus ejus sit, propter improbitátem tamen ejus surget, et dabit illi quotquot habet necessários. Et ego dico vobis: Pétite, et dábitur vobis: quaerite, et inveniétis: pulsáte, et aperiétur vobis. Omnis enim qui petit, áccipit: et qui quaerit, ínvenit: et pulsánti aperiétur. Quis autem ex vobis patrem petit panem, numquid lápidem dabit illi? Aut piscem: numquid pro pisce serpéntem dabit illi? Aut si petíerit ovum: numquid pórriget illi scorpiónem? Si ergo vos cum sitis mali, nostis bona data dare fíliis vestris: quanto magis Pater vester de coelo dabit spíritum bonum peténtibus se?

Offertory: Ps. cviii. 30, 31.

Confitébor Dómino nimis in ore meo: et in médio multórum laudábo eum, qui ástitit a dextris páuperis: ut salvam fáceret a persequéntibus ánimam meam, allelúia.

I will greatly praise the Lord with my mouth, and in the midst of many I will praise Him, because He standeth at the right hand of the poor: to save my soul from them that persecute me, alleluia.

Secret.

Haec múnera, quaesumus, Dómine, et víncula nostrae pravitátis absólvant, et tuae nobis misericórdiae dona concílient. Per Dóminum.

May these offerings, O Lord, we beseech Thee, both free us from the bonds of our wickedness, and obtain for us the gifts of Thy mercy. Through our Lord.

Other Secrets, p. 159.—Preface for Easter, p. 53.

Communion: Luke xi. 9, 10.

Pétite, et accipiétis: quaerite, et inveniétis; pulsáte, et aperiétur vobis: omnis enim, qui petit áccipit: et qui quaerit, ínvenit: et pulsánti aperiétur, allelúia.

Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and you shall find; knock, and it shall be opened to you. For every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened, alleluia.

Postcommunion.

Vota nostra, quaesumus, Dómine, pio favóre proséquere: ut dum dona tua in tribulatióne percípimus de consolatióne nostra in tuo amóre crescámus. Per Dóminum.

Favourably receive our vows, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that, while we receive Thy gifts in our tribulation, we may, through our consolation, grow in Thy love. Through our Lord.

Other Postcommunions, p. 159.

Vigil of the Ascension.

White vestments.

Apart from the Rogations, the Church is filled with joy, and assuming white vestments, is preparing for the Solemn Feast of the Ascension by a Vigil, when the Gloria in excelsis is sung.

The Mass abounds in outbursts of joy because the Saviour of mankind is about to enter triumphantly in Heaven into the glory of the Father after delivering us from Satan and sin.

Should a simple feast occur to-day, it is merely commemorated. If a double or semi-double occurs, the Mass of the feast is said with a commemoration of the Vigil and of the Rogation Day. But in churches where Divine Office is recited, besides the Mass of Rogation, which is said at None, two other Masses are said, that of the Feast after Terce and that of the Vigil after Sext, each without any commemoration of the other two.

Mass for Fifth Sunday after Easter, p. 924, with the following exceptions:—Second Collect: Praesta, quaesumus, p. 931; Third Collect: Concede nos, p. 159. In collegiate churches the Second and Third Collects, Secrets and Postcommunions as on p. 159.

Epistle: Ephesians iv. 7-13.

Taken from the epistle of the blessed Apostle Paul to the Ephesians.—BRETHREN, to every one of us is given grace according to the measure of the giving of Christ. Wherefore He saith: Ascending on high, He led captivity captive; He gave gifts to men. Now, that He ascended, what is it, but because He also descended first into the lower parts of the earth? He that descended is the same also that ascended above all the heavens, that He might fill all things. And He gave some apostles, and some prophets, and other some evangelists, and other some pastors and doctors, for the perfecting of the saints for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ; until we all meet into the unity of faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the age of the fulness of Christ.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli apóstoli ad Ephésios.—FRATRES: Unicuíque nostrum data est grátia secúndum mensúram donatiónis Christi. Propter quod dicit: Ascéndens in altum, captívam duxit captivitátem: dedit dona homínibus. Quod autem ascéndit, quid est, nisi quia et descéndit primum in inferióres partes terrae? Qui descéndit, ipse est et qui ascéndit super omnes coelos, ut impléret ómnia. Et ipse dedit quosdam quidem apóstolos, quosdam autem prophétas, álios vero evangelistas, álios autem pastóres, et doctóres, ad consummatiónem sanctórum in opus ministérii, in aedificatiónem córporis Christi: donec occurrámus omnes in unitátem fídei, et agnitiónis Fílii Dei, in virum perféctum, in mensúram aetátis plenitúdinis Christi.

Gospel: John xvii. 1-11.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—AT that time, Jesus lifting up

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—IN illo témpore: Sublevátis Jesus

óculis in coelum, dixit: Pater, venit hora, clarífica Fílium tuum, ut Fílius tuus claríficet te: sicut dedísti ei potestátem omnis carnis, ut omne, quod dedísti ei, det eis vitam aetérnam. Haec est autem vita aetérna: ut cognóscant te, solum Deum verum, et quem misísti Jesum Christum. Ego te clarificávi super terram: opus consummávi, quod dedísti mihi, ut fáciam: et nunc clarífica me tu, Pater, apud temetípsum, claritáte, quam hábui priúsquam mundus esset, apud te. Manifestávi nomen tuum homínibus, quos dedísti mihi de mundo. Tui erant, et mihi eos dedísti: et sermónem tuum servavérunt. Nunc cognovérunt, quia ómnia quae dedísti mihi, abs te sunt: quia verba, quae dedísti mihi, dedi eis: et ipsi accepérunt, cognovérunt vere quia a te exívi, et credidérunt quia tu me misísti. Ego pro eis rogo, non pro mundo rogo, sed pro his, quos dedísti mihi: quia tui sunt et mea ómnia tua sunt, et tua mea sunt et clarificátus sum in eis. Et jam non sum in mundo, et hi in mundo sunt, et ego ad te vénio.

His eyes to heaven said: Father, the hour is come; glorify Thy Son, that Thy Son may glorify Thee, as Thou hast given Him power over all flesh, that He may give eternal life to all whom Thou hast given Him. Now this is eternal life: that they may know Thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ Whom Thou hast sent. I have glorified Thee on the earth; I have finished the work which Thou gavest Me to do; and now glorify Thou Me, O Father, with Thyself, with the glory which I had, before the world was, with Thee. I have manifested Thy name to the men whom Thou hast given Me out of the world. Thine they were, and to Me Thou gavest them, and they have kept Thy word. Now they have known that all things which Thou hast given Me are from Thee: because the words which Thou gavest Me, I have given to them; and they have received them, and have known in very deed that I came out from Thee, and they have believed that Thou didst send Me. I pray for them; I pray not for the world, but for them whom Thou hast given Me: because they are Thine and all My things are Thine, and Thine are Mine and I am glorified in them. And now I am not in the world, and these are in the world, and I come to Thee.

Second Secret: Haec munera, p. 933; Third Secret: Tua, Domine, p. 159.—Second Postcommunion: Vota nostra, p. 933; Third Postcommunion, Sumptis, Domine, p. 159.

EASTERTIDE.

B.—Mystery of the Ascension.

1. The Ascension from a Doctrinal Point of View.

The second feast observed during Eastertide is that of the Ascension, which is the crowning event in the life of our Lord.

It was necessary that Christ, having risen from the dead, should leave the earth and return to His Father, with Whom as God He had been one from all eternity,* having, as St. Cyprian tells us, put on His human nature "with such joy as no language can describe."†

It was necessary that Christ should enter into possession of the Kingdom of Heaven which He had gained by His sufferings,‡ and that, setting there "our frail human nature at the right hand of the glory of God,"§ He should open unto us His Father's house in order that, as children of God, we might take the place of the Fallen Angels.

Having triumphed over Satan and sin, Jesus then enters into heaven: the Angels acclaim and pay homage to their King,|| gloriously escorted by the souls of the Just freed from Limbo. "I go to prepare a place for you," He said to His Apostles,¶ and St. Paul declares that God "hath made us sit together in the heavenly places, through Christ Jesus,"  "for we are saved by hope." †† "There where the Head has gone before," says St. Leo, "the Body is called to follow." The triumph of Christ therefore is likewise the triumph of His Church.

Like the High Priest who entered the Holy of Holies to offer up to God the blood of the victims of the Old Law, Jesus—in the words of the Apostle—entered the Holy of Holies of the heavenly Jerusalem to offer up His own blood, the blood of the New Covenant, and to obtain for us the favours of God.‡‡

It was on Ascension Day that Jesus, displaying His glorious wounds to God, began His heavenly priesthood. He became the perpetual mediator between us and His Father, §§ and obtained for us the Holy Ghost and His gifts. |||| And completing, as it does, the tale of the

* "Now glorify Thou Me, O Father, with Thyself, with the glory which I had, before the world was, with Thee" (John xvii. 5). "In the beginning the Word was with God" (John i. 1).

† "If you loved Me, you would indeed be glad, because I go to the Father" (John xiv. 28), for "to ascend into heaven and sit at the right hand of the Father" (Credo) is for Jesus infinite glory and perfect happiness.

‡ "Ought not Christ to have suffered these things and so to enter into His glory?" (Luke xxiv. 26.)

§ Communicantes for Ascension Day.

|| "Lift up your gates, O ye princes, and the King of Glory shall enter in" (Ps. xxiii. 7). As at the time of His bringing in into the world (Hebrews i. 6), so the Angels adore Jesus on the day of His bringing in into heaven.

¶ John xiv. 2.  Ephesians ii. 6. †† Romans viii. 24.

‡‡ Hebrews ix. This is what the liturgy of the Mass recalls in the mysterious prayer following the Elevation. "Almighty God," petitions the Priest, "command that these things (these offerings) be borne by the hands of Thy holy angel to Thine altar on high, in the sight of Thy divine majesty." Thus is revived from day to day the memory of the mystery of the Ascension: the victim offered up on our stone altars being the same that St. John saw in the form of a Lamb as though sacrificed upon the golden altar before the throne of God (Apoc. viii. 3).

§§ Hebrews vii. 25.

|||| "I will ask the Father: and He shall give you another Paraclete, the spirit of truth" (John xiv. 16, 17). "As yet the Spirit was not given, because Jesus was not yet feasts of Christ, the Ascension is the source of our sanctification : in the words of the Preface, " He was lifted up into heaven, so that He might make us partakers of His Godhead." " It is not enough for man to hope in the merits of his Redeemer's Passion, which cleansed him from his sins," writes Dom Guéranger ; " it is not enough for him to add to the commemoration of the Passion that of the Resurrection, whereby our Redeemer conquered death: man is not saved, he is not reinstated, except by uniting these two mysteries with a third,—the Ascension of that Jesus Who was crucified and rose again." *

2. The Ascension from a Historical Point of View.

Forty days after our Lord's Resurrection the Easter Cycle celebrates the anniversary of the day which terminated the visible presence of Christ on earth.

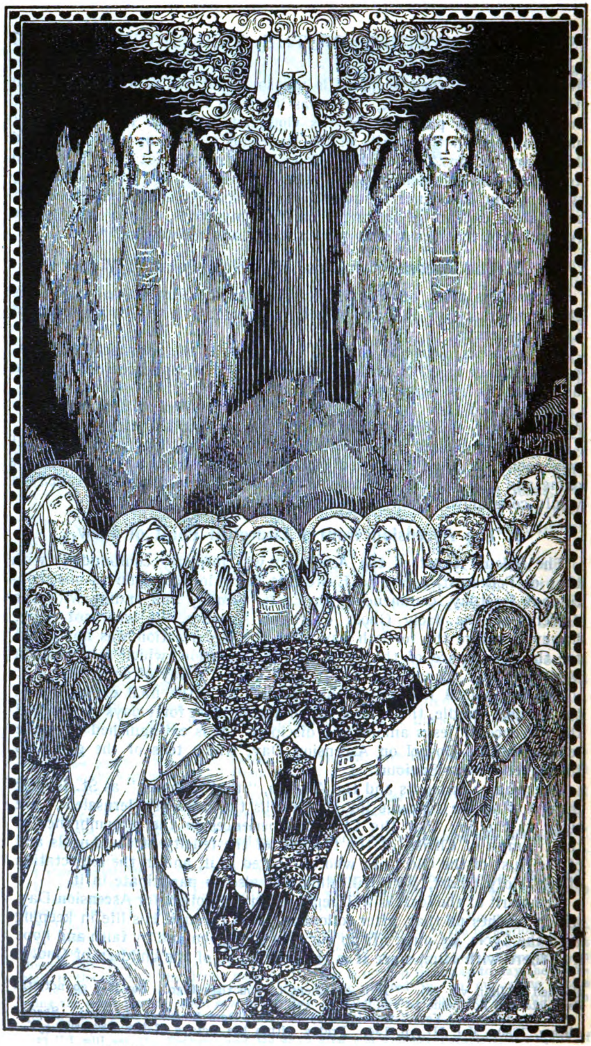
The Apostles, who had come to Jerusalem at the approach of Pentecost, were met together in the Cenacle, when Jesus appeared before them and took His last repast with them.

He then led them out of the town in the direction of Bethany, on to Mount Olivet, the highest of the hills surrounding the capital.

Jesus then blessed His Apostles and was raised up to heaven. It was noon. A cloud concealed Him from their sight, and two Angels came and told the disciples that Christ, Who had ascended into heaven would come down again at the end of the world.

3. The Ascension from a Liturgical Point of View.

The Solemn Feast of the Ascension was formerly confounded with that of Pentecost, owing to Eastertide being looked upon as one continuous feastday, commencing on Easter Sunday and ending with the descent of the Holy Ghost over the Apostles. It was not long, however, before the fortieth day after the Resurrection was appointed for the observance of the Feast of the Ascension, which was given a Vigil and later on an Octave. It is, of course, a day of obligation.



The symbolical rite which characterises it is the final extinction of the Paschal Candle, the light of which during these forty days symbolised the presence of Jesus among His disciples. It is extinguished after the reading of the Gospel on Ascension Day, which tells of the going up to heaven of our Saviour.

The white vestments and the Alleluia, " that glimmer," as St. Rupert puts it, " of the supreme joy that thrills the heavenly Jerusalem," are signs of the joy that the Church experiences in the remembrance of the triumph of Christ, at the thought of the felicity of the Angels and of the Just of the Old Law, who all shared in it, and in the expectation of the Holy Ghost, Who will allow her also to participate in it.

The spirit of the feast is well rendered in the Collect for Ascension Day, which teaches us that, after following Jesus through His life in keeping with the Cycle, we must lift up our eyes to heaven and by faith and hope live there with Him, since it is the true home of the children of God.

glorified " (John vii. 39). " It is expedient to you that I go. For if I go not, the Paraclete will not come to you " (John xvi. 7).

* " The Liturgical Year," translated by the Rev. Dom Laurence Shepherd. Second edition, 1890. Vol. III., p. 194, ' Friday within the Octave of the Ascension.'

While they looked on, He was raised up.

THE ASCENSION OF OUR LORD.*

STATION AT ST. PETER'S.†

(Plenary Stational Indulgence.)

Double of the First Class with privileged Octave.

White vestments.

The Station was at St. Peter's, a basilica dedicated to one of the principal witnesses of the Ascension of our Lord.

To-day (Collect) is kept the anniversary of Christ's Ascension, which marked the close of His life on earth.

During the forty days that followed His Resurrection He laid the foundations of His Church, to which he was about to send down the Holy Ghost. The Epistle and Gospel of the day are a summary of our Lord's instructions in this respect.

He then left this earth, and the Introit, Collect, Epistle, Alleluia, Gospel, Offertory, Secret, Preface and Communion commemorate His glorious Ascension, which is a pledge of our own going up into heaven.

The souls which He has freed from Limbo are His escort (Alleluia): with Him they enter the kingdom of heaven, where they are made more fully partakers of His Godhead (Preface).

The Ascension teaches us our duty to raise up our hearts to God, and in the Collect we are made to pray that we may dwell in spirit with Jesus in the heavenly regions.

Let us offer up to God the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass "in remembrance of the glorious Ascension of His Son" (Suscipe and Unde et memores), so that, delivered from present evils, we may attain with Him unto eternal life (Secret).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

FIRST VESPERS.

Psalms, Antiphons, Chapter and Hymn as at Second Vespers, p. 943.

℣. Ascéndit Deus in jubilatióne, allelúia.

℟. Et Dóminus in voce tubae, allelúia.

℣. Ps. xlvi. 6. God is ascended with a shout, alleluia.

℟. And the Lord with the sound of a trumpet, alleluia.

Antiphon at the Magnificat: John xvii. 6, 9, 11.

Pater, manifestávi nomen tuum homínibus quos dedísti mihi; nunc autem pro eis rogo, non pro mundo, quia ad te vénio, allelúia.

Father, I have manifested Thy name to the men whom Thou hast given Me; and now I pray for them, not for the world, because I come to Thee, alleluia.

Collect as at Mass, p. 940.

* See "The Ascension from a Doctrinal Point of View," p. 936.
† See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, AB c 33.

MASS.—VIRI GALILAEI.

Introit: Acts of the Apostles i. 11.

YE men of Galilee, why wonder you, looking up to heaven? alleluia. He shall so come as you have seen Him going up into heaven, alleluia, alleluia, alleluia. Ps. xlvi. 2. O, clap your hands, all ye nations; shout unto God with the voice of exultation. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

VIRI Galilaei, quid admirámini aspiciéntes in coelum? allelúia: quemádmodum vidístis eum ascendéntem in coelum, ita véniet, allelúia, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Omnes gentes pláudite mánibus: jubiláte Deo in voce exsultatiónis. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.

Grant, we beseech Thee, almighty God, that we who believe Thine only-begotten Son, our Redeemer, to have ascended this day into heaven, may also ourselves dwell in spirit amid heavenly things. Through our Lord.

Concéde, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui hodiérna die Unigénitum tuum Redemptórem nostrum ad coelos ascendísse crédimus, ipsi quoque mente in coeléstibus habitémus. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Epistle: Acts of the Apostles i. 1-11.

Taken from the Acts of the Apostles.—THE former treatise I made, O Theophilus, of all things which Jesus began to do and to teach, until the day on which, giving commandments by the Holy Ghost to the Apostles whom He had chosen, He was taken up: to whom also He showed Himself alive after His passion by many proofs, for forty days appearing to them and speaking of the kingdom of God. And eating together with them, He commanded them that they should not depart from Jerusalem, but should wait for the promise of the Father, which you have heard (saith He) by My mouth; for John indeed baptised with water, but you shall Léctio Actuum Apostolórum.—PRIMUM quidem sermónem feci de ómnibus, o Theóphile, quae coepit Jesus fácere et docére, usque in diem, qua, praecípiens Apóstolis per Spíritum sanctum, quos elégit, assúmptus est: quibus et praebuit seípsum vivum post passiónem suam in multis arguméntis, per dies quadragínta appárens eis, et loquens de regno Dei. Et convéscens, praecépit eis, ab Jerosólymis ne discéderent, sed exspectárent promissiónem Patris, quam audístis (inquit) per os meum; quia Joánnes quidem baptizávit aqua, vos autem baptizabímini Spíritu sancto non post multos hos dies. Igitur qui convénerant, interrogábant eum, dicéntes: Dómine, si in témpore hoc restítues regnum Israel? Dixit autem eis: Non est vestrum nosse témpora vel moménta, quae Pater pósuit in sua potestáte: sed accipiétis virtútem superveniéntis Spíritus Sancti in vos, et éritis mihi testes in Jerúsalem, et in omni Judaea et Samaría, et usque ad últimum terrae. Et cum haec dixísset, vidéntibus illis, elevátus est: et nubes suscépit eum ab óculis eórum. Cumque intueréntur in coelum eúntem illum, ecce duo viri astitérunt juxta illos in véstibus albis, qui et dixérunt: Viri Galilaei, quid statis aspiciéntes in coelum? Hic Jesus, qui assúmptus est a vobis in coelum, sic véniet quemádmodum vidístis eum eúntem in coelum.

be baptised with the Holy Ghost not many days hence. They therefore who were come together asked Him, saying: Lord, wilt Thou at this time restore again the kingdom to Israel? But He said to them: It is not for you to know the times or moments, which the Father hath put in His own power: but you shall receive the power of the Holy Ghost coming upon you, and you shall be witnesses unto Me in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and even to the uttermost part of the earth. And when He had said these things, while they looked on, He was raised up: and a cloud received Him out of their sight. And while they were beholding Him going up to heaven, behold two men stood by them in white garments, who also said: Ye men of Galilee, why stand you looking up to heaven? This Jesus, Who is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come as you have seen Him going into heaven.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. xlvi. 6.

℣. Ascéndit Deus in jubilatióne, et Dóminus in voce tubae.

℣. God is ascended with a shout, and the Lord with the sound of a trumpet.

Alleluia: Ps. lxvii. 18, 19.

℣. Dóminus in Sina in sancto, ascéndens in altum captívam duxit captivitátem. Allelúia.

℣. The Lord is in Sinai, in the holy place; ascending on high he has led captivity captive. Alleluia.

Gospel: Mark xvi. 14-20.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Marcum.—In illo témpore: Recumbéntibus úndecim discípulis, appáruit

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Mark.—At that time Jesus appeared to the eleven as they were at table:

and He upbraided them with their incredulity and hardness of heart, because they did not believe them who had seen Him after He was risen again. And He said to them: Go ye into the whole world and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptised shall be saved: but he that believeth not shall be condemned. And these signs shall follow them that believe: In My name they shall cast out devils; they shall speak with new tongues; they shall take up serpents; and if they shall drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them; they shall lay their hands upon the sick, and they shall recover. And the Lord Jesus, after He had spoken to them, was taken up into heaven and sitteth on the right hand of God. But they going forth preached every where, the Lord working withal, and confirming the word with signs that followed.

illis Jesus: et exprobrávit incredulitátem eórum, et durítiam cordis: quia iis qui víderant eum resurrexísse, non credidérunt. Et dixit eis: Eúntes in mundum univérsum, praedicáte Evangélium omni creatúrae. Qui credíderit, et baptizátus fúerit, salvus erit: qui vero non credíderit, condemnábitur. Signa autem eos, qui credíderint, haec sequéntur: In nómine meo daemónia ejícient: linguis loquéntur novis: serpéntes tollent: et si mortíferum quid bíberint, non eis nocébit: super aegros manus impónent, et bene habébunt. Et Dóminus quidem Jesus, postquam locútus est eis, assúmptus est in coelum, et sedet a dextris Dei. Illi autem profécti, praedicavérunt ubique, Dómino cooperánte, et sermónem confirmánte, sequéntibus signis.

After the singing of the Gospel the Paschal Candle is extinguished. It is not lighted again, except on Whitsun Eve for the blessing of the Font.—Credo.

Offertory: Ps. xlvi. 6.

God is ascended with a shout, and the Lord with the sound of a trumpet, alleluia.

Ascéndit Deus in jubilatióne, et Dóminus in voce tubae, allelúia.

Secret.

Accept, O Lord, the gifts we offer Thee in memory of the glorious Ascension of Thy Son; and graciously grant that we may be delivered from present dangers, and attain to eternal life. Through the same Lord.

Súscipe, Dómine, múnera, quae pro Fílii tui gloriósa Ascensióne deférimus: et concéde propítius ut a praeséntibus perículis liberémur, et ad vitam perveniámus aetérnam. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Preface for the Ascension, p. 54. This is said until Whitsun Eve exclusively.—Proper Communicantes, p. 61. This is said throughout the Octave.

Communion : Ps. lxvii. 33, 34.

Psállite Dómino, qui ascéndit super coelos coelorum ad Oriéntem, allelúia.

Sing ye to the Lord, Who mounteth above the heaven of heavens to the east, alleluia.

Postcommunion.

Praesta nobis, quaesumus, omnípotens et miséricors Deus : ut, quae visibílibus mystériis suménda percépimus, invisíbili consequámur efféctu. Per Dóminum.

Grant us, we beseech Thee, O almighty and merciful Lord, that what we have received in visible mysteries we may enjoy in its invisible effect. Through our Lord.

The Mass for Ascension Day is said throughout the Octave, with the addition of the Collects, p. 159.

SECOND VESPERS.

Ant. 1. Viri Galilaei, * quid adspícitis in coelum? Hic Jesus, qui assúmptus est a vobis in coelum, sic véniet, allelúia.

First Antiphon. Acts i. 11. Ye men of Galilee, why look you up to heaven? This Jesus Who is taken up from you into heaven shall so come, alleluia.

Ps. cix.: Dixit Dominus, p. 98.

2. Cumque * intueréntur in coelum eúntem illum, dixérunt, allelúia.

Second Antiphon. Acts i. 10. While they were beholding him going up to heaven, they said: alleluia.

Ps. cx.: Confitebor tibi, p. 99.

3. Elevátis mánibus * benedíxit eis, et ferebátur in coelum, allelúia.

Third Antiphon. Luke xxiv. 50, 51. Lifting up His hands, He blessed them and was carried up to heaven, alleluia.

Ps. cxi.: Beatus vir, p. 101.

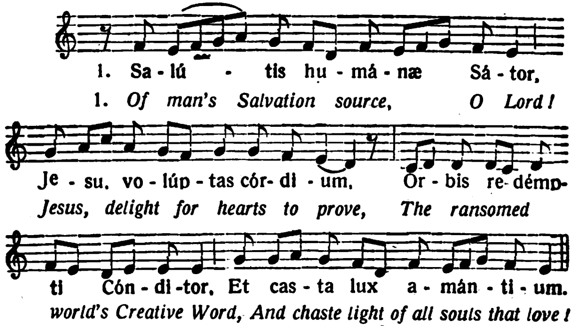
4. Exaltáte * Regem regum, et hymnum dícite Deo, allelúia.

Fourth Antiphon. Glorify the King of kings, and sing a hymn to God, alleluia.

Ps. cxii.: Laudate pueri, p. 102.

5. Vidéntibus illis, * elevátus est, et nubes suscépit eum in coelo, allelúia.

Fifth Antiphon. Acts i. 9. While they looked on, He was raised up : and a cloud received Him into heaven, alleluia.



Ps. cxvi.: Laudate Dominum, p. 127.

Chapter: Acts of the Apostles i. 1.

The former treatise I made, O Theophilus, of all things which Jesus did and taught, until the day on which, having given commandments, by the Holy Ghost, to the Apostles whom He had chosen, He was taken up to heaven. ℟. Thanks be to God.

Primum quidem sermónem feci de ómnibus, o Theóphile, quae coepit Jesus fácere, et docére usque in diem, qua, praecípiens Apóstolis per Spíritum Sanctum quos elégit, assúmptus est. ℟. Deo grátias.

Hymn.*

2. What wond'rous mercy conquered Thee
Our sins upon Thyself to bear,
That guiltless dying on the Tree,
Our souls from death's jaws Thou might'st tear?

2. Qua víctus es cleméntia,
Ut nóstra férres crímina?
Mórtem subíres ínnocens,
A mórte nos ut tólleres?

3. Bursting the chaos of the grave,
From captives Thou dost loose their chain;
And conquering death in triumph brave,
Dost at the Father's right hand reign.

3. Perrúmpis inférnum cháos;
Vinctis caténas détrahis;
Victor triúmpho nóbili
Ad déxteram Pátris sédes.

* Translation by the late Rev. J. P. Val d'Eremao, D.D.

4. Te cógat indulgéntia,
Ut dámna nóstra sárcias,
Tuíque vúltus cómpotes
Dítes beáto lúmine.

4. Let mercy urge Thee, by Thy grace
In full our losses to restore;
And granting us to see Thy face,
Enrich us with Thy blest light's store.

5. Tu dux ad ástra, et sémita,
Sis méta nóstris córdibus,
Sis lacrimárum gáudium,
Sis dúlce vítae praemium.
Amen.

5. Thou Guide to heaven, and Thou the Way!
Be Thou the Goal where our hearts tend;
Be Thou our Joy 'mid tears; we pray,
Be Thou our life's sweet Prize and end. Amen.

Other Hymns to the same metre which occur up to Pentecost end with the following doxology:—

Jesu, tibi sit glória,
Qui victor in coelum redis,
Cum Patre et almo Spíritu,
In sempitérna saecula.
Amen.

Jesu, Who, victor in the fight,
Returnest to the realms of light,
To Father, Spirit, and to Thee,
Eternal praise and glory be.
Amen.

℣. Dóminus in coelo, allelúia. ℟. Parávit sedem suam, allelúia.

℣. Ps. cii. 19. The Lord in heaven, alleluia. ℟. Hath prepared His throne, alleluia.

Antiphon at the Magnificat: Ps. xxiii. 10, Eph. iv. 10, John xiv. 18, Luke xxiv. 49.

O Rex glóriae, * Dómine virtútum, qui triumphátor hódie super omnes coelos ascendisti, ne derelínquas nos órphanos: sed mitte promíssum Patris in nos, Spíritum veritátis, allelúia.

O King of Glory, Lord of hosts, Who hast this day mounted in triumph above all the heavens, leave us not orphans; but send unto us the Promise of the Father, the Spirit of truth, alleluia.

Collect as at Mass, p. 940.

Friday within the Octave of the Ascension.

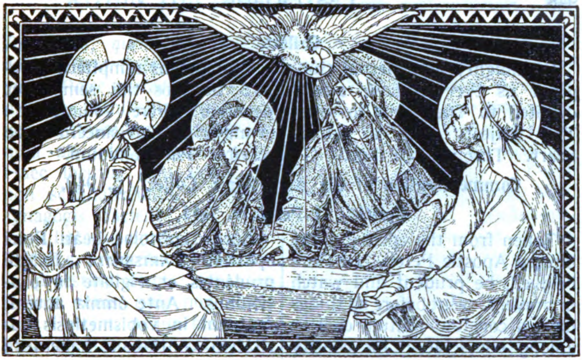
Semi-double.—White vestments.

The Church has spread the Festival of the Ascension of our Lord over eight days. The Apostles and Disciples, gathered together in the Cenacle as commanded by Christ, "were persevering with one mind in prayer, with the women and Mary the mother of Jesus." †

† Acts of the Apostles i. 14.

To-day commences the novena prescribed to the Church by Leo XIII. for the return of heretics and schismatics to the unity of the Church of Rome. This devotion, with the invocation of the Holy Ghost and of the Blessed Virgin, makes an effective preparation for the proper celebration of the Feast of Pentecost.

Let us fervently join in this novena, to which is attached a plenary indulgence.



Saturday within the Octave of the Ascension.

Semi-double.—White vestments.

The Credo is said throughout the Octave: "I believe in one Lord Jesus Christ, the only-begotten Son of God, . . . Who ascended into heaven, where He sitteth at the right hand of the Father." And as the Gloria has it: "O Lord Jesus Christ, the only-begotten Son of God, . . . Who sittest at the right hand of the Father, have mercy on us."

Let us cherish in our inmost hearts an ardent desire for heaven, where we may abide in triumph with Jesus.

"The Paraclete Whom I will send you from the Father is the Spirit of truth Who proceedeth from the Father." (Gospel.)

Sunday within the Octave of the Ascension.

Semi-double.—White vestments.

Before ascending into heaven, Jesus at the Last Supper promised not to leave us orphans, but that He would send us the Paraclete (Alleluia, Gospel), so that we might honour God in all things through Jesus Christ (Epistle).*

Like the Apostles gathered together in the Cenacle, awaiting in prayer and meditation the descent of the Holy Ghost, let us prepare in prayer and charity (Epistle) for the holy day of Pentecost.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS.—EXAUDI, DOMINE.

Introit: Ps. xxvi. 7-9.

EXAUDI, Dómine, vocem meam, qua clamávi ad te, allelúia: tibi dixit cor meum, quaesívi vultum tuum, vultum tuum, Dómine, requíram: ne avértas fáciem tuam a me, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Dóminus illuminátio mea, et salus mea: quem timébo? ℣. Glória Patri.

HEAR, O Lord, my voice with which I have cried to Thee, alleluia; my heart hath said to Thee, I have sought Thy face, Thy face, O Lord, I will seek: turn not away Thy face from me, alleluia, alleluia. Ps. xxvi. 1. The Lord is my light and my salvation: whom shall I fear? ℣. Glory be to the Father.

* This corresponds to the motto of the Benedictine Order, In omnibus glorificetur Deus, I.O.G.D. ("Rule of St. Benedict," Chap. LVII.).

Collect.

O almighty and eternal God, grant us ever to have a will devoted to Thee, and to serve Thy majesty with a sincere heart. Through our Lord.

Omnipotens sempitérne Deus: fac nos tibi semper et devótam gérere voluntátem: et majestáti tuae sincéro corde servíre. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of the Ascension: Collect, p. 940.

Epistle: 1 Peter iv. 7-11.

Taken from the epistle of the blessed Apostle Peter.—Dearly beloved, be prudent and watch in prayers. But before all things have a constant mutual charity among yourselves: for charity covereth a multitude of sins. Using hospitality one towards another, without murmuring: as every man hath received grace, ministering the same one to another, as good stewards of the manifold grace of God. If any man speak, let him speak, as the words of God: if any minister, let him do it, as of the power which God administereth: that in all things God may be honoured through Jesus Christ our Lord.

Léctio epístolae beáti Petri apóstoli.—Carissimi: Estóte prudéntes et vigiláte in oratiónibus. Ante ómnia autem, mútuam in vobismetípsis caritátem contínuam habentes: quia cáritas óperit multitúdinem peccatórum. Hospitáles invicem sine murmuratióne: unusquísque, sicut accépit grátiam, in altérutrum illam administrántes, sicut boni dispensatóres multifórmis grátiae Dei. Si quis lóquitur, quasi sermónes Dei: si quis minístrat, tamquam ex virtúte, quam admínistrat Deus: ut in ómnibus honorificétur Deus per Jesum Christum Dóminum nostrum.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. xlvi. 9.

℣. The Lord hath reigned over all the nations; God sitteth on His holy throne.

℣. Regnávit Dóminus super omnes gentes: Deus sedet super sedem sanctam suam.

Alleluia: John xiv. 18, 28.

℣. I will not leave you orphans: I go away, and I come unto you, and your heart shall rejoice. Alleluia.

℣ Non vos relínquam órphanos: vado, et vénio ad vos, et gaudébit cor vestrum. Allelúia.

Gospel: John xv. 26, 27; xvi. 1-4.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time, Jesus said to His disciples: When the Paraclete

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Cum vénerit

Paráclitus, quem ego mittam vobis a Patre, Spíritum veritátis, qui a Patre procédit, ille testimónium perhibébit de me et vos testimónium perhibébitis, quia ab inítio mecum estis. Haec locútus sum vobis, ut non scandalizémini. Absque synagógis fácient vos: sed venit hora, ut omnis, qui intérficit vos, arbitrétur obséquium se praestáre Deo. Et haec fácient vobis, quia non novérunt Patrem, neque me. Sed haec locútus sum vobis, ut, cum vénerit hora eórum, reminiscámini, quia ego dixi vobis. —Credo.

cometh, Whom I will send you from the Father, the Spirit of truth, Who proceedeth from the Father, He shall give testimony of Me: and you shall give testimony, because you are with Me from the beginning. These things have I spoken to you, that you may not be scandalised. They will put you out of the synagogues: yea, the hour cometh, that whosoever killeth you will think that he doth a service to God. And these things will they do to you, because they have not known the Father, nor Me. But these things I have told you, that, when the hour shall come, you may remember that I told you of them.—Credo.

Offertory: Ps. xlvi. 6.

Ascéndit Deus in jubilatióne; et Dóminus in voce tubae, allelúia.

God is ascended with a shout, and the Lord with the sound of a trumpet, alleluia.

Secret.

Sacrifícia nos, Dómine, immaculáta puríficent: et méntibus nostris supérnae grátiae dent vigórem. Per Dóminum.

May this unspotted sacrifice cleanse us, O Lord, and give to our souls the strength of heavenly grace. Through our Lord.

Second Secret for the Ascension, p. 942.—Preface for the Ascension, p. 54.—Communicantes for the Ascension, p. 61.

Communion.

Pater, cum essem cum eis, ego servábam eos, quos dedísti mihi, allelúia: nunc autem ad te vénio: non rogo, ut tollas eos de mundo, sed ut serves eos a malo, allelúia, allelúia.

Father, while I was with them, I kept them whom Thou gavest Me, alleluia; but now I come to Thee: I pray not that Thou shouldst take them out of the world, but that Thou shouldst keep them from evil, alleluia, alleluia.

Postcommunion.

Grant, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that being replenished with holy gifts, we may ever remain in thanksgiving for them. Through our Lord.

Repléti, Dómine, munéribus sacris: da, quaesumus: ut in gratiárum semper actióne maneámus. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion for the Ascension, p. 943.

On the Octave day of the Ascension Mass is said as on the Feast. On the Friday after the Octave the Mass of the previous Sunday is said, with the Collects, p. 159. The Preface for the Ascension is also said at Masses of Saints, and at Votive Masses that have no proper Preface. Neither the Credo nor the proper Communicantes is said.

SECOND VESPERS.

Psalms, Antiphons, Hymn and Versicle for Ascension Day, p. 943.

Chapter: 1 Peter iv. 7, 8.

Dearly beloved, be prudent and watch in prayers. But before all things have a constant mutual charity among yourselves: for charity covereth a multitude of sins.

℟. Thanks be to God.

Caríssimi: Estóte prudéntes, et vigiláte in oratiónibus. Ante ómnia autem, mútuam in vobismetípsis caritátem contínuam habéntes: quia cáritas óperit multitúdinem peccatórum.

℟. Deo grátias.

Antiphon at the Magnificat: John xvi. 4.

These things I have told you, that, when the hour shall come, you may remember that I told you, alleluia.

Haec locútus sum vobis, ut cum vénerit hora eórum, reminiscámini quia ego dixi vobis, allelúia.

Collect as at Mass, p. 948.

Commemoration of the Ascension: Ant. O Rex gloriae, p. 945.

℣. Ps. xlvi. 6. God is ascended with a shout, alleluia. ℟. And the Lord with the sound of a trumpet, alleluia.

℣. Ascéndit Deus in jubilatióne, allelúia. ℟. Et Dóminus in voce tubae, allelúia.

Collect: Concede, quaesumus, p. 940.

Monday within the Octave of the Ascension.

Semi-double.—White vestments.

The Feast of the Ascension has a proper Preface appointed for it, which continues in use until the Feast of Pentecost. In it we give thanks unto God for that His Son, "the risen Christ, after having appeared to all His disciples, while they beheld Him was lifted up into heaven." During the whole of the Octave the Communicantes appointed for this feast is also said. In it the Church reminds us that "she keeps the most holy day on which God's only-begotten Son our Lord vouchsafed to set at the right hand of the glory of the Father the substance of our frail human nature" which He had taken to Himself in the Mystery of the Incarnation.

Let us offer up to God the glory reflected on Him by the risen Christ, and let us return thanks to Him for having so exalted our human nature.

Tuesday within the Octave of the Ascension.

Semi-double.—White vestments.

Be it observed that the Liturgy reminds us daily at the Offertory (Suscipe, sancta Trinitas) and at the Canon (Unde et memores) that, obedient to the command of our Lord, the Church offers up the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass "in remembrance of the blessed Passion of our Lord Jesus Christ, of His Resurrection, and of His glorious Ascension into Heaven." The redemption of mankind was only effected by virtue of the Mysteries of the Passion and Resurrection of our Lord in combination with the Mystery of His Ascension: "Through Thy death and burial, through Thy holy Resurrection, through Thine admirable Ascension, deliver us, O Lord" (Litany of the Saints).

Wednesday within the Octave of the Ascension.

Semi-double.—White vestments.

The Feast of the Ascension, by recalling to mind the glorious entry of Jesus and the Just of the Old Law into the kingdom of heaven, makes us realise that the Liturgy is but a prelude to and an echo of the festivals celebrated in heaven. "It is through Christ that the Angels praise the Divine Majesty, that the Dominions worship it, that the Powers are in awe. It is with Him that the Heavens, the heavenly Hosts and the blessed Seraphim are joined together in singing this common hymn of praise. And it is while beseeching our Lord to join our own suppliant voices with theirs that we say: Holy, holy, holy, Hosanna in the highest" (Common Preface). Let us cherish this liturgical prayer, which makes us imitators of that which is done in heaven.

Thursday within the Octave of the Ascension.

Greater double.—White vestments.

Jesus ascended into heaven, there to prepare a place for us, for His Ascension is but a type of our own. Also He will come again to take us to Himself (Gospel) and introduce us into His Father's kingdom.

He went up to heaven to proclaim the dogma we sing every day of this Octave in the Credo: "I believe in the Holy Ghost, Who proceedeth from the Father and the Son." And it is from heaven above that He, with the Father, is about to send us the Holy Ghost.

He went up to heaven because glorified human nature requires such a place of glory as heaven.*

* Heaven, says St. Thomas, is that immensity of space which lies beyond the stellar system. It is a place free from change and wholly luminous, as will be all material creatures after the resurrection. It is the most noble of bodies, which, made glorious from the inception of the world, was set apart by God for the Angels that remained faithful.

Finally, He went up to heaven because, after having been brought to a belief in His Divinity, the Apostles and the Disciples of our Lord must also be led to believe in His Humanity, henceforth invisible here below.

Friday after the Octave of the Ascension.

Semi-double.—White vestments.

As Sunday governs the whole week, to-day is celebrated the Mass of the previous Sunday.*

It tells of the virtue of charity, for the Holy Ghost Whom Christ is about to send us is a Spirit of love. As Spirit of charity He dispenses His gifts for the benefit of all (Epistle); as Spirit of truth He makes us understand the teaching of Jesus.

The Holy Ghost will also console us in the midst of our tribulations (Gospel), and "will keep us from evil" (Communion).

Let us await in prayer and meditation the coming of the Holy Ghost.

EASTERTIDE.

C.—Mystery of Whitsunday.

1. Whitsunday from a Doctrinal Point of View.

Easter and Pentecost,† or Whitsunday as it is more commonly called, with the forty-eight intervening days, were looked upon as forming but one consecutive feast of fifty days. During this season the Church has been wont to celebrate first of all the triumph of Christ, then His entry into glory and finally, on the fiftieth day, the anniversary of the birth of the Church.‡

The Resurrection, the Ascension and Whitsunday are all part of the Paschal mystery. "Easter marked the inception of grace, Whitsunday is its crown," says St. Augustine, for the Holy Ghost then consummates the work accomplished by Christ. And the Ascension, coming in the middle of this Paschal Time triptych, forms a link between those two feasts. By His Resurrection Christ has restored to us our right to divine life,§ and at Whitsuntide He imparts it to our souls by communicating to us His "vivifying Spirit."‖ But in order to do so, He must first enter into possession of the kingdom He has gained for Himself: "for as yet the Spirit was not given, because Jesus was not yet glorified," says St. John.¶

The Ascension of our Lord is the official recognition of His right to the fruits of victory; for His Humanity it is the crowning act of the

* See Mass for Sunday within the Octave of the Ascension, p. 947.
† The word Pentecost is taken from the Greek and means "fiftieth."
‡ "To-day the Christian Church was born" (St. Augustine, 'Sermon on Pentecost').
§ "Who by rising again hath restored our life" (Preface for Easter).
‖ See the Credo.
¶ John vii. 39.

whole work of Redemption, and for the Church the principle of her existence and of her holiness. "The Ascension," writes Dom Guéranger, "is the intermediate mystery (between the Pasch and Pentecost); it consummates the Pasch, by placing the Man-God, the Conqueror of death, and our Head, at the right hand of the Father; it prepares the mission of the Holy Ghost to our earth." * "Our beautiful mystery of the Ascension stands between the two Divine Reigns on earth;—the visible Reign of the Son of God, and the visible Reign of the Holy Ghost." †

"If I go not, the Paraclete will not come to you," Jesus assured His disciples; "but if I go, I will send Him to you." ‡ The Word Incarnate has accomplished His external mission among men: the Holy Ghost is about to begin His; for not only did God the Father send His Son made man to bring us back to Him, but likewise the Holy Ghost, "Who proceedeth from the Father and the Son," § and Who manifested Himself in this world under visible appearances—of tongues of fire, a mighty wind, and so forth.

"The Father," says St. Athanasius, "works wholly through the Word by the Holy Ghost." And so, when the omnipotence of God the Father is made manifest to us in the creation of the world, we read in Genesis that "the Spirit of God moved over the waters" ‖ to make them fruitful (Blessing of the Font).

When the wisdom of the Word is shown to us, it is to the Holy Ghost again that we owe it. It is He "Who spoke by the Prophets"; ¶ it was His power that overshadowed the Virgin Mary and made her to be the mother of Jesus;  it was He, finally, Who in the shape of a dove descended upon Christ at His baptism, †† led Him into the desert, and guided Him throughout His apostolic mission. ‡‡

But is was especially by filling the Apostles with counsel and fortitude on Whitsunday that the Spirit of holiness inaugurated the Reign He was to establish over the souls of man.

So it was that the Church was "baptised with the Holy Ghost" in the Cenacle, §§ and it was His vivifying breath that gave life to the mystical body of Christ organised by our Lord after His Resurrection. As Jesus said when He breathed on the Apostles: "Receive ye the Holy Ghost." ‖‖

The Priest still does the same action in the ceremonies of Baptism, which was formerly administered at Easter or on Whitsunday. ¶¶

The anniversary of the promulgation of the Mosaic Law on Mount Sinai thus became for Christians the anniversary of the institution of the New Law, from which we receive no longer "the spirit of bondage, but the Spirit of adoption of sons, whereby we are given the right to call God Father." ***

* Dom Guéranger, "The Liturgical Year." Translated by the Rev. Dom Laurence Shepherd. Second edition, 1990: Vol. III., 'Whit Sunday,' p. 291.

† Ibid., Vol. III., 'Whitsun-Eve,' p. 269. ‡ John xvi. 7.

§ See the Credo. "The Spirit of truth Whom I will send to you from My Father" (John xiv. 16, 17), and "the Holy Ghost Whom the Father will send in My name," said Jesus (John xiv. 26). ‖ Gen. i. 2.

¶ See the Credo.  Luke i. 35. †† Luke iii. 22.

‡‡ Luke iv. 1, 18, 19. §§ Acts i. 5. ‖‖ John xx.

¶¶ Formerly a gold or silver dove was hung over the altar in the baptistry as an image of the Holy Ghost, reminding the faithful of the dove which came down upon Jesus on the day of His baptism. On the walls were representations of the Creation and of the Spirit of God making the waters fruitful.  Romans viii. 15.

Whitsunday therefore commemorates not only the coming of the Holy Ghost, but also the entry of the Church into the Kingdom of God,* for, as St. Paul says, " by Christ Jesus we have access both in one Spirit to the Father." †

This festival reminds us that in the Holy Ghost we are made partakers of the Divine nature. " As the life of the body is derived from the union of the body with the soul, so also the life of the soul is derived from the union of the soul with the Spirit of God by sanctifying grace," say St. Irenaeus and St. Clement of Alexandria. " Man receives grace from the Holy Ghost," writes St. Thomas. ‡ Grace has the effect of supernaturalising the whole of our being, and, he adds, is " in a manner of speaking a participation of the Divinity in the reasoning creature." " Christ," says St. Gregory, " permeates the soul through the Holy Ghost." § The purpose of the Spirit is to complete the work of forming the Apostles and the Church : " He will teach you all things and bring all things to your mind, and whatsoever I shall have said to you," declares Jesus.||

From Him will flow through all the ages that marvellous doctrinal and mystic force personified in the Cenacle in Peter and Mary.

The Holy Ghost, Who inspired the Sacred Writers,¶ guarantees likewise to the Pope and the Bishops gathered about Him infallibility in the definition of doctrine that will enable the teaching Church to continue the mission of Jesus Christ, and it is He Who gives to the Sacraments instituted by our Lord their efficacy.

The Holy Ghost also raises up, outside the ecclesiastical hierarchy, faithful souls who, like the Blessed Virgin, lend themselves submissively to His sanctifying action. And this sanctity, which is the triumph of Divine Love in the hearts of men, is justly attributed to the Third Person of the Holy Trinity, Who is the personal love of the Father and the Son. For the mind is holy when it wills nothing but what is right. Hence the Spirit, Who proceeds from all eternity from the Divine Will identified with what is good and right, is called Holy. And it is He, henceforth, Who, by uniting our will with the will of God, makes of us Saints.

And so, after speaking of the Holy Ghost, the Creed tells us of the Holy Church, of the Communion of Saints, of the Resurrection of the body that is the fruit of Holiness and the manifestation of it in our bodies, and finally of life everlasting which is the fulfilment of holiness in our souls.

This life overmasters our hearts more particularly during the festivities of Whitsuntide, which recall the entrance into possession of the Church by the Holy Ghost, and henceforth establish more surely from year to year His Divine kingdom in our hearts.

2. Whitsunday from a Historical Point of View.

Before His Ascension into Heaven Jesus had commanded the Apostles " that they should not depart from Jerusalem, but should wait for the promise of the Father,"  that is to say, for the pouring down of the Holy Ghost.

* " Unless a man be born again of the Holy Ghost, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God " (John iii. 5).

† Ephesians ii. 8. ‡ Summa 1, 2ae Q. 112.

§ Commentary on Solomon's Canticle of Canticles.

|| John xiv. 26. ¶ 2 Peter i. 21.  Acts of the Apostles i. 4.

On returning from the Mount of Olives, the Disciples to the number of one hundred and twenty went back to the Cenacle, where " all these were persevering with one mind in prayer, with the women and Mary the mother of Jesus." *

After this most solemn of all novenas the miraculous coming of the Holy Ghost took place, providentially coinciding with the Jewish Feast of Pentecost. To Israel " this most solemn and most holy day " † was the anniversary of the promulgation of the Law on Mount Sinai; consequently a large number of strangers from all parts of the country witnessed the momentous event.

It was nine o'clock in the morning when " suddenly there came a sound from heaven, as of a mighty wind coming: and it filled the whole house where they (the Apostles) were sitting. And there appeared to them parted tongues, as it were of fire: and it sat upon every one of them. And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost: and they began to speak with divers tongues, according as the Holy Ghost gave them to speak." ‡

Thus " endued with power from on high," § the Church takes up at Jerusalem the apostolic work entrusted to her by Jesus. Peter, the Prince of the Apostles, addresses the multitude, and now turned " fisher of men " ‖ at his very first cast of the net he gathers some three thousand neophytes into the newly born Church.

The tongues of fire symbolise the law of love which will spread with the gift of languages, and by inflaming the hearts of men will enlighten them through purification.

During the ensuing days the Twelve meet in the Temple in Solomon's Porch, and following the example of their Divine Master they preach the Gospel and heal the sick: " And the multitude of men and women who believed in the Lord was more increased." ¶

Then, sallying forth from Judaea, the Apostles went to preach Christ and impart the Holy Ghost to the Samaritans, and subsequently to all the Gentiles.††

3. Whitsunday from a Liturgical Point of View.

On the fiftieth day after the passing through of the Exterminating Angel and the passage through the Red Sea the Hebrews had pitched their tents at the foot of Sinai, and the Lord came down and solemnly gave unto them His Law.

The feasts of the Passover and Pentecost commemorating these two events were the most important festivals of the Jewish year.

Sixteen hundred years later Easter was specially associated with the Death and Resurrection of Jesus Christ, and Whitsunday with the Descent of the Holy Ghost on the Apostles.

These two feasts, adopted into the Christian Church, are the oldest ones in the Liturgical Cycle, which owes its origin to them. They are known respectively as the White and Red Easter.

Whitsunday, therefore, is after Easter the greatest feast of the whole year, and so has a privileged Vigil and Octave. Its significance is

* Acts of the Apostles i. 14. † Leviticus xxiii. 21.
‡ Acts of the Apostles ii. 2-4. § Luke xxiv. 49. ‖ Mark i. 17.
¶ Epistle for Wednesday in Whitsun Week.
 Epistle for Tuesday and Thursday in Whitsun Week.
†† Epistle for Monday in Whitsun Week.

emphasised by the reading of the Acts of the Apostles, for it is this Book that records the early history of the Church, whose foundation we commemorate at this season.

The Old Law and the New, the Holy Scriptures and Tradition, the Prophets, the Fathers of the Church and the Apostles all echo the voice of the Divine Master in the Gospel of Whitsunday and in that of the Octave. Like the various pieces in a mosaic, all these writings fit in and dovetail so exactly as to produce to the eyes of the soul a wonderful picture synthesising the operations of the Holy Ghost in the world throughout the centuries.

And as if to enhance the beauty of this masterpiece, the Liturgy sets it off, so to speak, with all the outward display of its religious ceremonial and symbolic rites.

The Priest's vestments are red, a colour that recalls the tongues of fire and typifies the testimony that the Ministers of God will have to bear to the Gospel and seal with their blood by the power of the Holy Ghost.

In olden days in certain churches there was a shower of red rose-leaves from the rafters during the singing of the Veni sancte Spiritus, while a dove fluttered over the heads of the congregation. Hence the name of Rose Easter (Paque des roses) by which Whitsunday was known in the thirteenth century. Sometimes also, to add to the dramatic effect, trumpets were blown during the Sequence, to recall the trumpet sounded on Sinai, or the sound as of a mighty wind that accompanied the Descent of the Holy Ghost on the Apostles.

Christians, saturated with the spiritual atmosphere characteristic of Whitsuntide, receive anew the effusion of the Holy Ghost; and lest the mind should be distracted from thoughts of this great mystery, the Liturgy commemorates it throughout the Octave, to the exclusion of every other feast.

It is, therefore, distinctly the intention of the Church that we should choose subjects relating to Pentecost for pious reading and meditation during these eight days.

What better preparation for Holy Communion, for instance, or what better act of thanksgiving, than the singing or recitation of the Prose or Sequence for Whitsunday, one of the finest examples of Christian poetry ever produced?

Eastertide, which began with Mass on Holy Saturday, ends with None on the Saturday within the Octave of Whitsunday.

Whitsun Eve.

STATION AT ST. JOHN LATERAN.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Privileged Vigil of the First Class.—Red vestments.

The Mass for Whitsunday, formerly celebrated during the night, has, like that of Easter, since been anticipated. This great and solemn festival, therefore, begins with the Vigil. In early days the Catechumens whom it had not been possible to baptise at Easter received this sacrament at Whitsun, which explains the similarities between the Mass for the Vigil and that for Holy Saturday. It is preceded by the reading of six Prophecies and the blessing of the water in the Baptismal Font, and it is also celebrated at St. John Lateran.

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, H f 15.

The Celebrant and Assistant Priests are robed in purple vestments. The Prophecies are first read, and the candles on the Altar are not lighted until the beginning of Mass, as on Holy Saturday. At end of the Prophecies the Collect is read, but Flectamus genua is omitted.

---

1. THE PROPHECIES.

First Prophecy: In diebus illis: Tentavit, p. 842.

Collect.

Deus, qui in Abrahae fámuli tui ópere, humáno géneri obediéntiae exémpla praebuísti: concéde nobis, et nostrae voluntátis pravitátem frángere, et tuórum praeceptórum rectitúdinem in ómnibus adimplére. Per Dóminum.

O God, Who in the deed of Thy servant Abraham hast given to mankind an example of obedience, grant us both to conquer the perverseness of our will and to fulfil in all things Thy righteous commands. Through our Lord.

Second Prophecy: In diebus illis: Factum est, p. 844.

Tract: Cantemus Domino, p. 845.

Collect.

Deus, qui primis tempóribus impleta mirácula novi testaménti luce reserásti, ut et Mare Rubrum forma sacri fontis exsísteret, et liberáta plebs ab Aegyptíaca servitúte, christiáni pópuli sacraménta praeférret: da, ut omnes gentes Israélis privilégium mérito fídei consecútae, Spíritus tui participatióne regeneréntur. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

O God, Who by the light of the New Testament hast made clear to us the miracles wrought in earliest times, so that the Red Sea was an image of the sacred font, and the deliverance of the people from the bondage of Egypt prefigured the Sacraments of the Christian people; grant that all nations who have obtained by the merit of faith the privilege of children of Israel may be regenerated by partaking of Thy Spirit. Through our Lord . . . in the unity of the same.

Third Prophecy: In diebus illis: Scripsit Moyses, p. 854.

Tract: Attende coelum, p. 855.

Collect.

O God, the glory of the faithful and the life of the just, Who by Moses Thy servant didst teach us by singing of sacred canticles, accomplish the work of Thy mercy among all nations by giving them happiness and dispelling their terror, that the punishment with which they are threatened may become a remedy to eternal life. Through our Lord.

Deus, glorificátio fidélium, et vita justórum, qui per Móysen fámulum tuum nos quoque modulatióne sacri cárminis erudísti: univérsis géntibus misericórdiae tuae munus operáre, tribuéndo beatitúdinem, auferéndo terrórem; ut, quod pronuntiátum est supplícium, in remédium transferátur aetérnum. Per Dóminum.

Fourth Prophecy: In diebus illis: Apprehendent, p. 851.

Tract: Vinea facta est, p. 852.

Collect.

O almighty and everlasting God, Who through Thine only Son hast shown Thy care for Thy Church, by mercifully cultivating every branch bearing fruit in the same Thy Christ, Who is the true vine, that it may bear more abundant fruit; grant that the thorns of sin may not prevail against Thy faithful, whom like a vine Thou hast brought out of Egypt through the waters of Baptism; so that assisted by Thy sanctifying Spirit they may ever abound in new fruit. Through the same our Lord . . . in the unity of the same.

Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, qui per únicum Fílium tuum, Ecclésiae tuae demonstrásti te esse cultórem, omnem pálmitem, fructum in eódem Christo tuo, qui vera vitis est, afferéntem, cleménter éxcolens, ut fructus ásferat amplióres: fidélibus tuis, quos velut víneam ex Aegypto per fontem baptísmi transtulísti, nullae peccatórum spinae praeváleant; ut Spíritus tui sanctificatióne muníti, perpétua fruge diténtur. Per eúmdem Dóminum . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

Fifth Prophecy: Audi, Israel, p. 847.

Collect.

O God, Who by the mouth of the Prophets hast commanded us to give up the things of this world and to hasten after those that are eternal, grant to us Thy servants that, knowing Thy commandments, we may, through Thy heavenly inspiration, put them into practice. Through our Lord.

Deus, qui nobis per prophetárum ora praecepísti temporália relínquere, atque ad aetérna festináre: da fámulis tuis; ut, quae a te jussa cognóvimus, implére coeléstí inspiratióne valeámus. Per Dóminum.

Sixth Prophecy: In diebus illis: Facta est, p. 850.

Collect.

Dómine, Deus virtútum, qui collápsa réparas, et reparáta consérvas: auge pópulos in tui nóminis sanctificatióne renovándos; ut omnes, qui sacro baptísmate diluúntur, tua semper inspiratióne dirigántur. Per Dóminum.

O Lord, God of hosts, Who dost restore what is fallen down and keep what Thou hast restored, increase the number of those who are to be renewed in Thy holy name, that all who are washed in holy Baptism may ever be guided by Thy inspiration. Through our Lord.

At the end of the Prophecies the Celebrant puts on a purple cope, and while the procession moves towards the Font the Tract: Sicut cervus, p. 860, is sung. Then the Priest, before blessing the Font, says:—

℣. Dóminus vobíscum.
℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

℣. The Lord be with you.
℟. And with thy spirit.

Collect.

Concéde, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui solemnitátem doni Sancti Spíritus cólimus, coeléstibus desidériis accénsi, fontem vitae sitiámus. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

Grant, we beseech Thee, O almighty God, that we who celebrate the solemn feast of the gift of the Holy Ghost, being inflamed with heavenly desires, may thirst after the fountain of life. Through our Lord . . . in the unity of the same.

The Blessing of the Font then takes place.

---

2. THE BLESSING OF THE FONT.

Mindful of the fact that in the beginning the Spirit of God moved over the waters and made them fruitful, the Liturgy asks God to bless the water in the Baptismal Font, out of which will arise a purely heavenly race.* The Officiating Priest then plunges the Paschal Candle three several times in the water, for it is by Christ, Whom the candle typifies, that the power of the Holy Ghost, by which our souls are enlightened, is infused into them.

℣. Dóminus vobíscum.
℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

℣. The Lord be with you.
℟. And with thy spirit.

The Collect: Omnipotens . . . adesto . . ., the Preface, and all that follows, including the Litany of the Saints, as on Holy Saturday, p. 861.

Where there is no Baptismal Font, the Litany of the Saints, p. 317, is sung after the Collect following the Sixth Prophecy. At ℣. Peccatores, Te rogamus the Priest and his Assistants go to the Sacristy and put on red vestments, and the candles are lit on the Altar. At the end of the Litany the Kyrie eleison is solemnly sung, and the Mass proceeds as usual, except that there is no Introit.

* See "Whitsunday from a Doctrinal Point of View," p. 953.

---

3. MASS FOR WHITSUN EVE.

After having been baptised "in water and in the Holy Ghost,"* the Neophytes were confirmed. All through the Mass there are references to these two sacraments, showing how the Holy Ghost enters into our souls and the marvellous effect He produces in them.—Let us prepare for to-morrow's Feast by a worthy confession.

The Introit for ordinary Low Masses will be found on p. 962.

Collect.

Grant, we beseech Thee, O almighty God, that the splendour of Thy brightness may shine forth upon us, and the light of Thy light may, by the illumination of the Holy Ghost, confirm the hearts of those who have been regenerated by Thy grace. Through our Lord . . . in the unity of the same.

Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut claritátis tuae super nos splendor effúlgeat; et lux tuae lucis corda eórum, qui per grátiam tuam renáti sunt, Sancti Spíritus illustratióne confírmet. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

Epistle: Acts of the Apostles xix. 1-8.

Taken from the Acts of the Apostles.—In those days, it came to pass, while Apollo was at Corinth, that Paul, having passed through the upper coasts, came to Ephesus and found certain disciples; and he said to them: Have you received the Holy Ghost since ye believed? But they said to him: We have not so much as heard whether there be a Holy Ghost. And he said: In what then were you baptised? Who said: In John's baptism. Then Paul said: John baptised the people with the baptism of penance, saying: That they should believe in Him Who was to come after him, that is to say, in Jesus. Having heard these things, they were baptised Léctio Actuum Apostolórum.—In diébus illis: Factum est, cum Apóllo esset Corínthi, ut Paulus peragrátis superióribus pártibus, veníret Ephesum, et inveníret quosdam discípulos: dixítque ad eos: Si Spíritum Sanctum accepístis credéntes? At illi dixérunt ad eum: Sed neque si Spíritus Sanctus est, audívimus. Ille vero ait: In quo ergo baptizáti estis? Qui dixérunt: In Joánnis baptísmate. Dixit autem Paulus: Joánnes baptizávit baptísmo poeniténtiae pópulum, dicens: In eum, qui ventúrus esset post ipsum, ut créderent, hoc est, in Jesum. His audítis, baptizáti sunt in nómine Dómini Jesu. Et cum imposuisset illis manus in the name of the Lord Jesus. And when Paul had imposed his hands on them, the Holy Ghost came upon them, and they spoke with tongues and prophesied. And all the men were about twelve. And entering into the synagogue, he spoke boldly for the space of three months, disputing, and exhorting concerning the kingdom of God.

* John iii. 5.

Paulus, venit Spiritus Sanctus super eos, et loquebántur linguis, et prophetábant. Erant autem omnes viri fere duódecim. Introgréssus autem synagógam, cum fidúcia loquebátur per tres menses, dísputans, et suádens de regno Dei.

Alleluia: Ps. cvi. 1.

℣. Confitémini Dómino, quóniam bonus: quóniam in saeculum misericórdia ejus.

℣. Give glory to the Lord, for He is good: for His mercy endureth for ever.

The Alleluia is not repeated, but the Tract follows immediately:—

Tract: Ps. cxvi. 1, 2.

Laudáte Dóminum, omnes gentes: et collaudáte eum, omnes pópuli. ℣. Quóniam confirmáta est super nos misericórdia ejus: et véritas Dómini manet in aetérnum.

O praise the Lord, all ye nations: and extol Him, all ye people. ℣. For His mercy is confirmed upon us: and the truth of the Lord remaineth for ever.

No light is carried at the Gospel, only incense.

Gospel: John xiv. 15-21.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Si diligitis me, mandáta mea serváte. Et ego rogábo Patrem, et álium Paráclitum dabit vobis, ut máneat vobíscum in aetérnum, Spíritum veritátis, quem mundus non potest accípere, quia non videt eum, nec scit eum. Vos autem cognoscétis eum; quia apud vos manébit et in vobis erit. Non relínquam vos órphanos: véniam ad vos. Adhuc módicum: et mundus me jam non videt. Vos autem vidétis me: quia ego vivo, et vos vivétis.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time Jesus said to His disciples: If you love Me, keep My commandments. And I will ask the Father, and He shall give you another Paraclete, that He may abide with you for ever the Spirit of truth. Whom the world cannot receive, because it seeth Him not, nor knoweth Him. But you shall know Him; because He shall abide with you and shall be in you. I will not leave you orphans: I will come to you. Yet a little while and the world seeth Me no more But you see Me: because I live, and you shall live. In that day you shall know that I am in My Father, and you in Me, and I in you. He that hath My commandments and keepeth them, he it is that loveth Me. And he that loveth Me shall be loved of My Father: and I will love him, and will manifest Myself to him.

In illo die vos cognoscétis, quia ego sum in Patre meo, et vos in me, et ego in vobis. Qui habet mandáta mea, et servat ea: ille est qui díligit me. Qui autem díligit me, diligétur a Patre meo: et ego díligam eum, et manifestábo ei meípsum.

The Credo is not said.

Offertory: Ps. ciii. 30, 31.

Send forth Thy Spirit, and they shall be created, and Thou shalt renew the face of the earth. May the glory of the Lord endure for ever, alleluia.

Emítte Spíritum tuum, et creabúntur, et renovábis fáciem terrae: sit glória Dómini in saecula, allelúia.

Secret, p. 969.—Preface for Whitsuntide, p. 54.—Communicantes, p. 61, and Hanc igitur, p. 62, until the following Saturday inclusive.

Communion: John vii. 37-39.

On the last day of the festivity Jesus said: He that believeth in Me, out of his belly shall flow rivers of living water: now this He said of the Spirit Which they should receive who believed in Him, alleluia, alleluia.

Ultimo festivitátis die dicébat Jesus: Qui in me credit, flúmina de ventre ejus fluent aquae vivae: hoc autem dixit de Spiritu, quem acceptúri erant credéntes in eum, allelúia, allelúia.

Postcommunion, p. 970.

At all low Masses on this day the Prophecies, Collects and Litany are omitted, and the Mass begins directly with the following Introit:—

Introit: Ezechiel xxxvi. 23-26.

WHEN I shall be sanctified in you, I will gather you together out of all the countries: and I will pour upon you clean water and you shall be cleansed from all your filthiness: and I will give you a new spirit, alleluia, alleluia. Ps. xxxiii. 2. I will bless the Lord at all times: His praise shall be always in my mouth. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

CUM sanctificátus fúero in vobis, congregábo vos de univérsis terris: et effúndam super vos aquam mundam, et mundabímini ab ómnibus inquinaméntis vestris: et dabo vobis spíritum novum, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Benedícam Dóminum in omni témpore: semper laus ejus in ore meo. ℣. Glória Patri.

Then follows the Kyrie eleison, the Gloria in excelsis, and the Collect: Praesta, quaesumus, as above, p. 960.

They were all filled with the Holy Ghost.

WHITSUNDAY.

STATION AT ST. PETER'S.*
(Indulgence of 30 years and 30 quarantines.)

"The gift of Wisdom is an illumination of the Holy Ghost, thanks to which our intellect is able to look at revealed truths in their more sublime light and to the greater joy of our souls." †

Jesus had laid the foundations of the Church during His apostolic life, and conferred on her His powers after the Resurrection. It was left for the Holy Ghost to complete the training of the Apostles and to endow them with Divine strength (Gospel). The visible reign of Christ was succeeded by the visible reign of the Holy Ghost.

"The Feast of Pentecost is the commemoration of the first manifestation of the Holy Spirit in the disciples of Jesus Christ, and consequently that of the foundation of the Church." ‡ And it was for this reason that the basilica dedicated to St. Peter, the Head of the Church, was chosen for the Station held to-day.

Jesus, as the Gospel tells us, had foretold to His disciples the coming of the Paraclete, and the Epistle shows how this promise was fulfilled. It was at the Third Hour that the Cenacle was filled with the Spirit of God. The marvellous outward signs of this event were a mighty wind which suddenly blew about the house and the apparition of tongues of fire within.

Instructed by the light of the Holy Ghost (Collect) and filled with the effusion of His sevenfold gifts (Sequence), the Apostles were renewed, and they in their turn are going to renew the whole face of the earth (Introit, Alleluia). And High Mass at the Third Hour (Terce) is the time at which we also receive "the Holy Ghost, Whom Jesus, ascended into Heaven, sends forth to-day on the children of adoption" (Preface), for each one of the Mysteries of the Cycle produces fruits of grace in our souls on the day on which the Church celebrates it.

As in Advent we prayed to the Word: "Come, O Lord, and expiate the sins of Thy people," so now with the Church let us pray to the Holy Ghost: "Come, O Holy Spirit, fill the hearts of Thy faithful and kindle in them the fire of Thy love" (Alleluia).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

FIRST VESPERS.

The first four Psalms of the Sunday, p. 98, and the Psalm Laudate Dominum, p. 127; the rest as at Second Vespers, p. 970, except the following:—

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, AB c 33.

† Rev. M. Meschler, S.J.: "The Gift of Pentecost: Meditations on the Holy Ghost," translated by Lady Amabel Kerr, p. 247.

‡ Mgr. L. Duchesne: "Christian Worship: Its Origin and Evolution," translated by M. L. McClure, p. 236.

℣. Repléti sunt omnes Spíritu sancto, allelúia.

℟. Et coepérunt loqui, allelúia.

℣. Acts ii. 4. They were all filled with the Holy Ghost, alleluia.

℟. And they began to speak, alleluia.

Antiphon at the Magnificat: John xiv. 18, xvi. 22.

Non vos relínquam * órphanos, allelúia; vado, et vénio ad vos, allelúia, et gaudébit cor vestrum, allelúia.

I will not leave you orphans, alleluia; I go, and I come again to you, alleluia, and your heart shall rejoice, alleluia.

MASS: SPIRITUS DOMINI.

Introit: Wisdom i. 7.

SPIRITUS Dómini replévit orbem terrárum, allelúia: et hoc quod cóntinet ómnia, sciéntiam habet vocis, allelúia, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Exsúrgat Deus, et dissipéntur inimíci ejus: et fúgiant, qui odérunt eum, a fácie ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

THE Spirit of the Lord hath filled the whole world, alleluia; and That Which containeth all things hath knowledge of the voice, alleluia, alleluia, alleluia. Ps. lxvii. 2. Let God arise, and let His enemies be scattered: and let them that hate Him flee from before His face. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collect.

Deus, qui hodiérna die corda fidélium Sancti Spíritus illustratióne docuísti: da nobis in eódem Spíritu recta sápere; et de ejus semper consolatióne gaudére. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

O God, Who, on this day didst instruct the hearts of the faithful, by the light of the holy Spirit, grant us by the same Spirit to relish what is right, and ever to rejoice in His consolation. Through our Lord . . . in the unity of the same.

Epistle: Acts of the Apostles ii. 1-11.

Léctio Actuum Apostolórum.—CUM compleréntur dies Pentecóstes erant omnes discípuli páriter in eódem loco: et factus est repénte de coelo sonus, tamquam adveniéntis spíritus veheméntis: et replévit totam domum ubi erant sedéntes. Et

Taken from the Acts of the Apostles.—WHEN the days of the Pentecost were accomplished, they were all together in one place; and suddenly there came a sound from heaven, as of a mighty wind coming, and it filled the whole house where they were sitting. And there appeared to them parted tongues as it were of fire, and it sat upon every one of them; and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and they began to speak with divers tongues, according as the Holy Ghost gave them to speak. Now there were dwelling at Jerusalem Jews, devout men, out of every nation under heaven. And when this was noised abroad, the multitude came together, and were confounded in mind, because that every man heard them speak in his own tongue. And they were all amazed, and wondered, saying: Behold, are not all these that speak Galileans? And how have we heard every man our own tongue wherein we were born? Parthians and Medes, and Elamites, and inhabitants of Mesopotamia, Judea, and Cappadocia, Pontus and Asia, Phrygia, and Pamphylia, Egypt, and the parts of Lybia about Cyrene, and strangers of Rome, Jews also, and Proselytes, Cretes, and Arabians: we have heard them speak in our own tongues the wonderful works of God.

apparuérunt illis dispertitae linguae tamquam ignis, seditque supra singulos eorum: et repleti sunt omnes Spíritu sancto, et coepérunt váriis linguis, prout Spíritus Sanctus dabat éloqui illis. Erant autem in Jerúsalem habitántes Judaei, viri religiósi ex omni natióne, quae sub coelo est. Facta autem hac voce, convénit multitúdo, et mente confúsa est, quóniam audiébat unusquísque lingua sua illos loquéntes. Stupébant autem omnes, et mirabántur, dicéntes: Nonne ecce omnes isti, qui loquúntur, Galilaei sunt? Et quómodo nos audívimus unusquísque linguam nostram, in qua nati sumus? Parthi et Medi, et Aelamítae, et qui hábitant Mesopotámiam, Judaeam, et Cappadóciam, Pontum et Asiam, Phrygiam, et Pamphyliam, Aegyptum, et partes Líbyae, quae est circa Cyrénen, et ádvenae Románi, Judaei quoque, et Prosélyti, Cretes, et Arabes: audívimus eos loquéntes nostris linguis magnália Dei.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. ciii. 30.

℣. Send forth Thy Spirit, and they shall be created, and Thou shalt renew the face of the earth. Alleluia.

℣. Emítte Spíritum tuum, et creabúntur, et renovábis fáciem terrae. Allelúia.

(Here all kneel.)

℣. Come, O Holy Spirit, fill the hearts of Thy faithful: and kindle in them the fire of Thy love.

℣. Veni, sancte Spíritus, reple tuórum corda fidélium: et tui amóris in eis ignem accénde.

Sequence.*

* The English version is by the Rev. J. P. Vald d' Eremao, D.D.

7. La - va quod est sór - di - dum, Ri - ga quod est
7. Wash Thou what is stained with sin; Water what is

8. Flec - te quod est ri - gi - dum, Fo - ve quod est
8. Bend Thou what is stiff of will; Warm Thou what with á - ri - dum, Sa - na quod est sáu - ci - um.

dry within; Heal Thou what is wounded sore.

fri - gi - dum, Re - ge quod est dé - vi - um.
cold is chill; Guide Thou what has strayed before.

9. Da tu - is fi - dé - li - bus, In te con - fi-
9. To Thy faithful who remain Trustful in Thee,

10. Da vir - tú - tis mé - ri - tum, Da sa - lú - tis 10 Grant them virtue's merit great; Grant salvation's dén - ti - bus, Sa crum sep - te - ná - ri - um.

do Thou deign Of Thy sevenfold grace to give.

é - xi - tum, Da pe - rén ne gáu di um.
final state; Grant them joys that ever live.

A men. — Al - le - lú - ia.
Amen:—Alleluia.

This Sequence is said each day until the following Saturday inclusive.

Gospel: John xiv. 23-31.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time Jesus said to His disciples: If any one love Me, he will keep My word, and My Father will love him, and We will come to him and will make Our abode in him: he that ✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Si quis díligit me, sermónem meum servábit, et Pater meus díliget eum, et ad eum veniémus et mansiónem apud eum faciémus: qui non díligit me, sermónes meos non servat. Et sermónem, quem audístis, non est meus; sed ejus, qui misit me, Patris. Haec locútus sum vobis, apud vos manens. Paráclitus autem Spíritus Sanctus, quem mittet Pater in nómine meo, ille vos docébit ómnia, et súggeret vobis ómnia quaecúmque díxero vobis. Pacem relínquo vobis, pacem meam do vobis: non quómodo mundus dat, ego do vobis. Non turbétur cor vestrum, neque formídet. Audístis quia ego dixi vobis: Vado, et vénio ad vos. Si diligerétis me, gauderétis útique, quia vado ad Patrem: quia Pater major me est. Et nunc dixi vobis priúsquam fiat: ut cum factum fúerit, credátis. Jam non multa loquar vobíscum. Venit enim princeps mundi hujus, et in me non habet quidquam. Sed ut cognóscat mundus, quia díligo Patrem, et sicut mandátum dedit mihi Pater, sic fácio.—Credo.

loveth Me not keepeth not My words. And the word which you have heard is not Mine; but the Father's Who sent Me. These things have I spoken to you, abiding with you. But the Paraclete, the Holy Ghost, Whom the Father will send in My name, He will teach you all things, and bring all things to your mind, whatsoever I shall have said to you. Peace I leave with you, My peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, do I give unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, nor let it be afraid. You have heard that I said to you: I go away, and I come unto you. If you loved Me, you would indeed be glad, because I go to the Father: for the Father is greater than I. And now I have told you before it come to pass: that when it shall come to pass you may believe. I will not now speak many things with you. For the prince of this world cometh, and in Me he hath not any thing. But that the world may know that I love the Father, and as the Father hath given Me commandment so do I.—Credo.

Offertory: Ps. lxvii. 29, 30.

Confírma hoc, Deus, quod operátus es in nobis: a templo tuo, quod est in Jerúsalem, tibi ófferent reges múnera, allelúia.

Confirm, O God, what Thou hast wrought in us; from Thy temple, which is in Jerusalem, kings shall offer presents to Thee, alleluia.

Secret.

Múnera, quaesumus, Dómine, obláta sanctífica: et corda nostra Sancti Spíritus illustra-

Sanctify, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the gifts we offer Thee, and cleanse our hearts by the light of the Holy Spirit. Through our Lord . . . in the unity of the same.

tióne emúnda. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

Preface for Whitsuntide, p. 54.—Communicantes, p. 61.—Hanc igitur, p. 62.

Communion: Acts of the Apostles ii. 2, 4.

Suddenly there came a sound from heaven, as of a mighty wind coming (and it filled the house) where they were sitting, alleluia; and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, speaking the wonderful works of God, alleluia, alleluia.

Factus est repénte de coelo sonus, tamquam adveniéntis spíritus veheméntis, ubi erant sedéntes, allelúia: et repléti sunt omnes Spíritu Sancto, loquéntes magnália Dei, allelúia, allelúia.

Postcommunion.

May the infusion of the Holy Spirit purify our hearts, O Lord, and make them fruitful by the inward sprinkling of His heavenly dew. Through our Lord . . . in the unity of the same.

Sancti Spíritus, Dómine, corda nostra mundet infúsio: et sui roris íntima aspersióne foecúndet. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

SECOND VESPERS.

First Antiphon. Acts ii. 1. When the days of the Pentecost were accomplished, they were all together in one place, alleluia.

Ant. 1. Dum compleréntur * dies Pentecóstes, erant omnes páriter in eódem loco, allelúia.

Psalm cix.: Dixit Dominus, p. 98.

Ant. 2. Wis. i. 7. The spirit of the Lord hath filled the whole earth, alleluia.

2. Spíritus Dómini * replévit orbem terrárum, allelúia.

Psalm cx.: Confitebor tibi, p. 99.

Ant. 3. Acts ii. 4. They were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and they began to speak, alleluia, alleluia.

3. Repléti sunt omnes * Spíritu sancto, et coepérunt loqui, allelúia, allelúia.

Psalm cxi.: Beatus vir, p. 101.

Ant. 4. Dan. iii. 77. O ye fountains, and all things that live in the waters, give praise to God, alleluia.

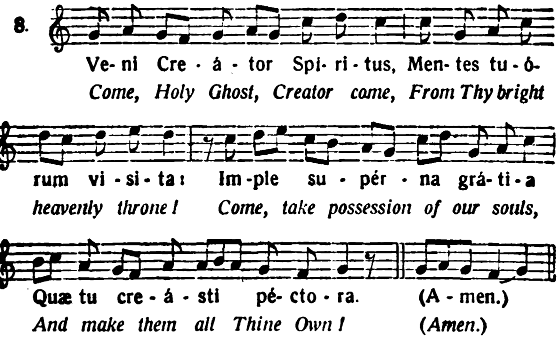
4. Fontes * et ómnia quae movéntur in aquis, hymnum dícite Deo, allelúia.

Psalm cxii.: Laudate pueri, p. 102.

5. Loquebántur * váriis linguis Apóstoli magnália Dei, allelúia, allelúia, allelúia.

Ant. 5. Acts. ii. 17. The Apostles spoke in divers tongues the wonderful works of God, alleluia, alleluia, alleluia.

Psalm cxiii.: In exitu Israel, p. 103.



Chapter: Acts of the Apostles ii. 1.

Cum compleréntur dies Pentecóstes erant omnes discípuli páriter in eódem loco: † et factus est repénte de coelo sonus, tamquam adveniéntis spíritus vehementis, * et replévit totam domum, ubi erant sedéntes. ℟. Deo grátias.

When the days of the Pentecost were accomplished, the disciples were all together in one place; and suddenly there came a sound from heaven, as of a mighty wind coming, and it filled the whole house where they were sitting. ℟. Thanks be to God.

Hymn.‡

8.

2. Qui díceris Paráclitus,
Altíssimi donum Dei,
Fons vivus, ignis, cáritas
Et spiritális unctio.

2. Thou Who art called the Paraclete,
Best Gift of God above,
The Living Spring, the Living Fire,
Sweet Unction, and True Love!

‡ All kneel during the first verse.

3. Thou Who art seven-fold in Thy grace,
Finger of God's right Hand,
His Promise, teaching little ones
To speak and understand!

3. Tu septifórmis múnere,
Dígitus patérnae déxterae,
Tu rite promíssum Patris,
Sermóne ditans gúttura.

4. O guide our minds with Thy blest light,
With love our hearts inflame,
And with Thy strength which ne'er decays
Confirm our mortal frame.

4. Accénde lumen sénsibus,
Infúnde amórem córdibus
Infírma nostri córporis
Virtúte firmans pérpeti.

5. Far from us drive our hellish foe,
True peace unto us bring,
And through all perils guide us safe
Beneath Thy sacred wing.

5. Hostem repéllas lóngius,
Pacémque dones prótinus
Ductóre sic te praevio
Vitémus omne nóxium.

6. Through Thee may we the Father know,
Through Thee the Eternal Son,
And Thee the Spirit of them Both,
Thrice-blesséd Three in One.

6. Per te sciámus da Patrem,
Noscámus atque Fílium,
Teque utriúsque Spíritum
Credámus omni témpore.

7. All glory to the Father be,
And to the risen Son;
The same to Thee, O Paraclete,
While endless ages run.
Amen.

7. Deo Patri sit glória,
Et Fílio, qui a mórtuis
Surréxit, ac Paráclito
In saeculórum saecula. Amen.

℣. The Apostles declared in divers tongues. Alleluia.
℟. The wonderful works of God. Alleluia.

℣. Loquebántur váriis linguis Apóstoli. Allelúia.
℟. Magnália Dei. Allelúia.

Antiphon at the Magnificat.

To-day were the days of Pentecost accomplished, alleluia; to-day the Holy Ghost appeared to the disciples in the form of fire, and gave them the gifts of His graces: He sent them throughout the whole world to preach and testify: (Mark xvi. 16) that he that shall believe and be baptised shall be saved, alleluia.

Hódie * compléti sunt dies Pentecóstes, allelúia: hódie Spíritus sanctus in igne discípulis appáruit, et tríbuit eis charísmatum dona: misit eos in univérsum mundum praedicáre, et testificári: qui credíderit, et baptizátus fúerit, salvus erit, allelúia.

Monday in Whitsun Week.

STATION AT S. PIETRO IN VINCOLI.*

(Indulgence of 30 years and 30 quarantines.)

Double of the First Class.—Red vestments.

"The Gift of Understanding enlightens us by shedding a clear, searching and extraordinary light on the meaning of revealed truth, and by giving us a certitude that what God has revealed bears such and such a sense and no other." †

The Church extends the Feast of the Descent of the Holy Ghost on the Apostles over eight days (Collect). The newly baptised met on this day at the Church of S. Pietro in Vincoli. In the Epistle we see the Head of the Church giving testimony to Jesus Christ before the Jews and the Gentiles. "Whosoever believeth in Me shall not perish," said our Lord, "for God sent His Son that the world may be saved by Him" (Gospel). And as St. Peter says, "Whosoever believeth in Him shall receive remission of sins through His name" (Epistle). It is the Holy Ghost Who enlightens the Apostles that they may be able to teach (Alleluia, Communion), and it is by the sacrament of faith or Baptism (Offertory, Epistle) that He fills the soul with the sweetness of His grace (Introit) and the effusion of His love (Alleluia).

Having had the gift of faith bestowed on us in Baptism, let us beseech God to fill our hearts with the Holy Spirit, Who will defend us against our enemies and give us peace (Collect, Postcommunion).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS : CIBAVIT.

Introit : Ps. lxxx. 17.

CIBAVIT eos ex ádipe fruménti, allelúia : et de petra melle saturávit eos, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Exsultáte Deo adjutóri nostro : jubiláte Deo Jacob. ℣. Glória Patri.

HE fed them with the fat of wheat, alleluia : and filled them with honey out of the rock, alleluia, alleluia. Ps. lxxx. Rejoice to God our helper : sing aloud to the God of Jacob. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collect.

Deus, qui Apóstolis tuis Sanctum dedísti Spíritum : concéde plebi tuae piae petitiónis efféctum : ut, quibus dedísti fidem, largiáris et pacem. Per

O God, Who didst give the Holy Ghost to Thine Apostles, grant to Thy people the fruit of their pious prayers, that on those to whom Thou hast given faith, Thou mayest also bestow peace. Through our Lord . . . in the unity of the same.

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, F e 34.

† Rev. M. Meschler, S.J., ibid., p. 285.

Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

Epistle : Acts of the Apostles x. 42-48.

Taken from the Acts of the Apostles.—In those days Peter, opening his mouth, said : Men brethren, the Lord commanded us to preach to the people, and to testify that it is He Who was appointed by God to be judge of the living and of the dead. To Him all the prophets give testimony, that by His name all receive remission of sins who believe in Him. While Peter was yet speaking these words, the Holy Ghost fell on all them that heard the word. And the faithful of the circumcision, who came with Peter, were astonished for that the grace of the Holy Ghost was poured out upon the Gentiles also. For they heard them speaking with tongues, and magnifying God. Then Peter answered : Can any man forbid water, that these should not be baptised, who have received the Holy Ghost as well as we ? And he commanded them to be baptised in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Léctio Actuum Apostolórum —In diébus illis : Apériens Petrus os suum, dixit : Viri fratres, nobis praecépit Dóminus praedicáre pópulo : et testificári, quia ipse est, qui constitútus est a Deo judex vivórum et mortuórum. Huic omnes prophétae testimónium pérhibent, remissiónem peccatórum accípere per nomen ejus omnes, qui credunt in eum. Adhuc loquénte Petro verba haec cécidit Spíritus Sanctus super omnes qui audiébant verbum. Et obstupuérunt ex circumcisióne fidéles, qui vénerant cum Petro : qui aet in natiónes grátia Spíritus sancti effúsa est. Audiébant enim illos loquéntes linguis, et magnificántes Deum. Tunc respóndit Petrus : Numquid aquam quis prohibére potest, ut non baptizéntur hi, qui Spíritum sanctum accepérunt sicut et nos ? Et jussit eos baptizári in nómine Dómini Jesu Christi.

Alleluia, alleluia : Acts of the Apostles ii. 4.

℣. The Apostles spoke in divers tongues the wonderful works of God. Alleluia.

℣. Loquebántur váriis linguis Apóstoli magnália Dei. Allelúia.

(All kneel.) Versicle : Veni sancte and Sequence, pp. 966, 967.

Gospel : John iii. 16-21.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time Jesus said to Nicodemus : God so loved the dum, ut Fílium suum unigénitum daret: ut omnis, qui credit in eum, non péreat, sed hábeat vitam aetérnam. Non enim misit Deus Fílium suum in mundum, ut júdicet mundum, sed ut salvétur mundus per ipsum. Qui credit in eum, non judicátur; qui autem non credit, jam judicátus est: quia non credit in nómine unigéniti Fílii Dei. Hoc est autem judícium: quia lux venit in mundum, et dilexérunt hómines magis ténebras, quam lucem: erant enim eórum mala ópera. Omnis enim qui male agit, odit lucem, et non venit ad lucem, ut non arguántur ópera ejus: qui autem fecit veritátem, venit ad lucem, ut manifesténtur ópera ejus, quia in Deo sunt facta.—Credo.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore : Dixit Jesus Nicodémo : Sic Deus diléxit mun-

world, as to give His only-begotten Son: that whosoever believeth in Him may not perish, but may have life everlasting. For God sent not His Son into the world to judge the world, but that the world may be saved by Him. He that believeth in Him is not judged; but he that doth not believe is already judged: because he believeth not in the name of the only-begotten Son of God. And this is the judgment: Because the light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than the light: for their works were evil. For every one that doth evil hateth the light, and cometh not to the light, that his works may not be reproved; but he that doth truth cometh to the light, that his works may be made manifest, because they are done in God.—Credo.

Offertory: Ps. xvii. 14, 16.

Intónuit de coelo Dóminus, et Altíssimus dedit vocem suam: et apparuérunt fontes aquárum, allelúia.

The Lord thundered from heaven, and the Highest gave His voice: and the fountains of waters appeared, alleluia.

Secret.

Propítius, Dómine, quaesumus, haec dona sanctífica: et hóstiae spiritális oblatióne suscépta, nosmetípsos tibi pérfice munus aetérnum. Per Dóminum.

Deign, we beseech Thee, O Lord, to sanctify these gifts; and having received the oblation of this spiritual victim, make of us too an eternal gift worthy of Thee! Through our Lord.

Preface for Whitsuntide, p. 54.—Communicantes, p. 61.—Hanc igitur, p. 62.

Communion: John xiv. 26.

Spíritus Sanctus docébit vos, allelúia: quaecúmque díxero obis, allelúia, allelúia.

The Holy Ghost will teach you, alleluia, whatsoever I shall have said to you, alleluia, alleluia.

Postcommunion.

Assist Thy people, we beseech Thee, O Lord; and, having nourished them with heavenly mysteries, defend them from the fury of their enemies. Through our Lord.

Adésto, quaesumus, Dómine, pópulo tuo: et quem mystériis coeléstibus imbuísti, ab hóstium furóre defénde. Per Dóminum.

SECOND VESPERS.

As on Whitsunday, p. 970, except:—

Antiphon at the Magnificat: John xiv. 23.

If any one love Me, he will keep My word: and My Father will love him, and We will come to him and will make Our abode with him, alleluia.

Si quis díligit me, sermónem meum servábit: et Pater meus díliget eum et ad eum veniémus, et mansiónem apud eum faciémus, allelúia.

Collect as at Mass, p. 973.

Tuesday in Whitsun Week.

STATION AT ST. ANASTASIA.*

(Indulgence of 30 years and 30 quarantines.)

Double of the First Class.—Red vestments.

"The Gift of Counsel is a light given by the Holy Ghost, by means of which our practical intellect sees and rightly judges both what should be done in individual cases, and what are the best means to do it." †

The Church continues to address herself to the new-born children she has acquired through Baptism. In former times she brought them together on this day in the Church of St. Anastasia, where also was celebrated the Mass at Dawn on Christmas Day.

The Introit reminded them of the great blessing of their Christian calling.

Through the Sacrament of Baptism the power of the Holy Ghost had come down upon them and had purified their hearts (Collect), for "the Holy Ghost is Himself the remission of sins" (Postcommunion).

In the Sacrament of Confirmation they had, like the Disciples of Samaria of old, been filled with the power of the Spirit (Epistle).

In the Sacrament of the Most Holy Eucharist they had eaten the Bread of Angels (Offertory).

Like faithful sheep of the Divine Shepherd (Gospel) they hearken always to the teaching of the Holy Ghost (Alleluia) imparted to them by the Ministers of the Church.—Let us ask of God that our souls may be renewed in the Holy Ghost (Postcommunion).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, E f 1.

† Rev. M. Meschler, S.J., ibid, p. 254.

Introit: 4 Esdras ii. 37.

ACCIPITE jucunditátem glóriae vestrae, allelúia: grátias agéntes Deo, allelúia: qui vos ad coeléstia regna vocávit, allelúia, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Atténdite, pópule meus, legem meam: inclináte aurem vestram in verba oris mei. ℣. Glória Patri.

RECEIVE the most sweet gift which shall be your glory, alleluia: giving thanks to God, alleluia, Who hath called you to the heavenly kingdom, alleluia, alleluia, alleluia. Ps. lxxvii. 1. Attend, O My people, to My law: incline your ears to the words of My mouth. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collect.

Adsit nobis, quaesumus, Dómine, virtus Spíritus Sancti: quae et corda nostra cleménter expúrget, et ab ómnibus tueátur advérsis. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

May the power of the Holy Ghost be ever with us, we beseech Thee, O Lord; may it mercifully cleanse our hearts, and keep them from all harm. Through our Lord . . . in the unity of the same.

Epistle: Acts of the Apostles viii. 14-17.

Léctio Actuum Apostolórum.—IN diébus illis: Cum audíssent Apóstoli, qui erant Jerosólymis, quod recepísset Samaría verbum Dei, misérunt ad eos Petrum et Joánnem. Qui cum veníssent, oravérunt pro ipsis ut acciperent Spíritum Sanctum: nondum enim in quemquam illórum vénerat, sed baptizáti tantum erant in nómine Dómini Jesu. Tunc imponébant manus super illos, et accipiébant Spíritum Sanctum.

Taken from the Acts of the Apostles.—IN those days, when the apostles who were in Jerusalem had heard that Samaria had received the word of God, they sent unto them Peter and John; who, when they were come, prayed for them, that they might receive the Holy Ghost; for He was not as yet come upon any of them, but they were only baptised in the name of the Lord Jesus. Then they laid their hands upon them, and they received the Holy Ghost.

Alleluia, alleluia: John xiv. 26.

℣. Spíritus Sanctus docébit vos, quaecúmque díxero vobis. Allelúia.

℣. The Holy Ghost will teach you whatsoever I shall have said to you. Alleluia.

(All kneel.) Versicle: Veni sancte, and the Sequence, pp. 966.

Gospel: John x. 1-10.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time Jesus said to the Pharisees: Amen, amen, I say to you: he that entereth not by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up another way, the same is a thief and a robber. But he that entereth in by the door is the shepherd of the sheep. To him the porter openeth, and the sheep hear his voice, and he calleth his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out. And when he hath let out his own sheep, he goeth before them: and the sheep follow him, because they know his voice. But a stranger they follow not, but fly from him, because they know not the voice of strangers. This proverb Jesus spoke to them. But they understood not what He spoke to them. Jesus therefore said to them again: Amen, amen, I say to you, I am the door of the sheep. All others, as many as have come, are thieves and robbers; and the sheep heard them not. I am the door. By Me, if any man enter in, he shall be saved: and he shall go in and go out, and shall find pastures. The thief cometh not but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy. I am come that they may have life, and may have it more abundantly.—Credo.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus Pharisaeis: Amen, amen dico vobis: qui non intrat per óstium in ovíle óvium, sed ascéndit aliúnde, ille fur est, et latro. Qui autem intrat per óstium, pastor est óvium. Huic ostiárius áperit, et oves vocem ejus áudiunt, et próprias oves vocat nominátim, et edúcit eas. Et cum próprias oves emíserit, ante eas vadit: et oves illum sequúntur, quia sciunt vocem ejus. Aliénum autem non sequúntur, sep fúgiunt ab eo: quia non novérunt vocem alienórum. Hoc provérbium dixit eis Jesus. Illi autem non cognovérunt quid loquerétur eis. Dixit ergo eis íterum Jesus: Amen, amen dico vobis, quia ego sum óstium óvium. Omnes quotquot venérunt, fures sunt, et latrónes, et non audiérunt eos oves. Ego sum óstium. Per me si quis introíerit salvábitur: et ingrediétur, et egrédiétur, et páscua invéniet. Fur non venit nisi ut furétur, et mactet, et perdat. Ego veni ut vitam hábeant, et abundántius hábeant.—Credo.

Offertory: Ps. lxxvii. 23-25.

The Lord opened the doors of heaven, and rained down manna upon them to eat: He gave them the bread of heaven, man ate the bread of angels, alleluia.

Portas coeli apéruit Dóminus: et pluit illis manna, ut éderent: panem coeli dedit eis, panem Angelórum manducávit homo, allelúia.

Secret.

Puríficet nos, quaesumus, Dómine, múneris praeséntis oblátio: et dignos sacra participatióne effíciat. Per Dóminum.

We beseech Thee, O Lord, that the offering of this sacrifice may purify us, and make us worthy of a holy participation thereof. Through our Lord.

Preface for Whitsuntide, p. 54.—Communicantes, p. 61.—Hanc igitur, p. 62.

Communion: John xv. 26, xvi. 14, xvii. 1, 5.

Spíritus qui a Patre procédit, allelúia: ille me clarificábit, allelúia, allelúia.

The Spirit Who proceedeth from the Father, alleluia, He shall glorify me, alleluia, alleluia.

Postcommunion.

Mentes nostras, quaesumus, Dómine, Spíritus Sanctus divínis réparet sacraméntis: quia ipse est remíssio ómnium peccatórum. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

We beseech Thee, O Lord, that the Holy Ghost may renew our souls by these divine sacraments, for He is Himself the remission of all sins. Through our Lord . . . in the unity of the same.

Ember Wednesday.

STATION AT ST. MARY MAJOR.*

(Indulgence of 30 years and 30 quarantines.)

Semi-double.—Red vestments.

"The Gift of Fortitude is a permanent power which the Holy Ghost communicates to our will to assist us in overcoming the difficulties which might deter us in the practice of what is right." †

The Ember Days fall always during the Octave of Whitsunday. The Church then offers up to God the first-fruits of the new season, and prays for the Priests who, on the coming Saturday, are about to receive the Holy Ghost in the Sacrament of Holy Orders.

The Station on Ember Wednesday was always held at St. Mary Major. It was at the feet of the Blessed Virgin, whom the Holy Ghost filled with His grace in the Cenacle, that the newly baptised gathered together. The Liturgy reminded them of the miracle of Whitsunday (first Epistle) and the marvels wrought by the Apostles, as a result of which the number of those who believed in the Lord was greatly increased (second Epistle).

Moved by the Holy Ghost the Catechumens also believed in Jesus: they turned to Him, and Jesus gave them to eat of the bread that would make them live for ever (Gospel).

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, G d 26.

† Rev. M. Meschler, S.J., ibid., p. 290.

Let us implore the Divine Consoler to enlighten us always more and more, and to place us in full possession of the truth (Collect).

Introit: Ps. lxvii. 8, 9.

O GOD! when Thou didst go forth in the sight of Thy people, making a passage for them, dwelling among them, alleluia, the earth was moved and the heavens dropped, alleluia, alleluia. Ps. lxvii. 2. Let God arise, and let His enemies be scattered: and let them that hate Him flee from before His face. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

DEUS, dum egrederéris coram pópulo tuo, iter fáciens eis, hábitans in illis, allelúia: terra mota est, coeli distillavérunt, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Exsúrgat Deus, et dissipéntur inimíci ejus: et fúgiant, qui odérunt eum, a fácie ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

After the Kyrie the Priest says Oremus, but without adding Flectamus genua.

Collect.

May the Paraclete, Who proceedeth from Thee, enlighten our minds, we beseech Thee, O Lord, and lead us into all truth, as Thy Son hath promised. Who with Thee . . . in the unity of the same.

Mentes nostras, quaesumus, Dómine, Paráclitus, qui a te procédit, illúminet: et indúcat in omnem, sicut tuus promísit Fílius, veritátem: Qui tecum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

Epistle: Acts of the Apostles ii. 14-21.

Taken from the Acts of the Apostles.—In those days Peter, standing up with the eleven, lifted up his voice and spoke to them: Ye men of Judea, and all you that dwell in Jerusalem, be this known to you, and with your ears receive my words. For these are not drunk, as you suppose, seeing it is but the third hour of the day; but this is that which was spoken of by the prophet Joel: And it shall come to pass in the last days (saith the Lord) I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh, and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall Léctio Actuum Apostolórum.—In diébus illis: Stans Petrus cum úndecim, levávit vocem suam, et locútus est eis: Viri Judaei, et qui habitátis Jerúsalem univérsi, hoc vobis notum sit, et áuribus percípite verba mea. Non enim, sicut vos aestimátis, hi ébrii sunt, cum sit hora diéi tértia: sed hoc est, quod dictum est per prophétam Joel: Et erit in novíssimis diébus (dicit Dóminus) effúndam de Spíritu meo super omnem carnem, et prophetábunt fílii vestri, et fíliae vestrae et júvenes vestri visiónes vidébunt, et senióres vestri sómnia somniábunt. Et quidem super servos meos, et super ancíllas meas in diébus illis effúndam de Spíritu meo, et prophetábunt: et dabo prodígia in coelo sursum et signa in terra deórsum, sánguinem, et ignem, et vapórem fumi. Sol convertétur in ténebras, et luna in sánguinem, ántequam véniat dies Dómini magnus et maniféstus. Et erit: omnis quicúmque invocáverit nomen Dómini, salvus erit.

dream dreams. And upon My servants, indeed, and upon My handmaids will I pour out in those days of My Spirit, and they shall prophesy. And I will show wonders in the heaven above and signs on the earth beneath: blood, and fire, and vapour of smoke. The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before the great and manifest day of the Lord come. And it shall come to pass, that whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved.

Alleluia: Ps. xxxii. 6.

℣. Verbo Dómini coeli firmáti sunt, et Spíritu oris ejus omnis virtus eórum.

℣. By the word of the Lord the heavens were established, and all the power of them by the Spirit of His mouth.

Here the Gloria in excelsis is said.

℣. Dóminus vobíscum.
℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

℣. The Lord be with you.
℟. And with thy spirit.

Collect.

Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens et miséricors Deus: ut Spíritus Sanctus advéniens, templum nos glóriae suae dignánter inhabitándo perfíciat. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

Grant, we beseech Thee, almighty and merciful God, that the Holy Ghost, coming to us, may, by dwelling in us, make of us the temple of His glory. Through our Lord . . . in the unity of the same.

To-day and on the following days this week the Collect Ecclesiae tuae, p. 154, or Deus, omnium fidelium, p. 155, is said after the Collect of the day, unless some simple feast, or any other feast treated as such this year, is commemorated.

Epistle: Acts of the Apostles v. 12-16.

Léctio Actuum Apostolórum.—In diébus illis: Per manus autem Apostolórum fiébant signa et prodígia multa in plebe. Et erant unanímiter omnes in pórticu Salomónis. Ceterórum autem nemo audébat se conjúngere illis: sed magnificá-

Taken from the Acts of the Apostles.—In those days by the hands of the apost'es were many signs and wonders wrought among the people. And they were all with one accord in Solomon's porch. But of the rest no man durst join himself unto them: but the people magnified them. And the multitude of men and women who believed in the Lord was more increased, insomuch that they brought forth the sick into the streets, and laid them on beds and couches, that, when Peter came, his shadow at the least might overshadow any of them, and they might be delivered from their infirmities. And there came also together to Jerusalem a multitude out of the neighbouring cities, bringing sick persons, and such as were troubled with unclean spirits: who were all healed.

bat eos pópulus. Magis autem augebátur credéntium in Dómino multitúdo virórum ac mulíerum, ita ut in platéas ejícerent infírmos, et pónerent in léctulis ac grabátis, ut, veniénte Petro, saltem umbra illíus obumbráret quemquam illórum, et liberaréntur ab infirmitátibus suis. Concurrébat autem et multitúdo vicinárum civitátum Jerúsalem, afferéntes aegros, et vexátos a spirítibus immúndis: qui curabántur omnes.

For the Alleluia, alleluia, the ℣. Veni sancte, and the Sequence, see pp. 966, 967.

Gospel: John vi. 44-52.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time Jesus said to the multitude of Jews: No man can come to Me, except the Father, Who hath sent Me, draw him; and I will raise him up in the last day. It is written in the prophets: And they shall all be taught of God. Every one that hath heard of the Father, and hath learned, cometh to Me. Not that any man hath seen the Father, but he who is of God, he hath seen the Father. Amen, amen, I say unto you: he that believeth in Me hath everlasting life. I am the bread of life. Your fathers did eat manna in the desert, and are dead. This is the bread which cometh down from heaven: that if any man eat of it, he may not die. I am the living bread which came down from heaven. If any man ✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus turbis Judaeórum: Nemo potest veníre ad me, nisi Pater, qui misit me, tráxerit eum: et ego resuscitábo eum in novíssimo die. Est scriptum in prophétis: Et erunt omnes docíbiles Dei. Omnis, qui audívit a Patre, et dídicit, venit ad me. Non quia Patrem vidit quisquam, nisi is, qui est a Deo, hic vidit Patrem. Amen, amen dico vobis: qui credit in me, habet vitam aetérnam. Ego sum panis vitae. Patres vestri manducavérunt manna in desérto, et mórtui sunt. Hic est panis de coelo descéndens: ut si quis ex ipso manducáverit, non moriátur. Ego sum panis vivus, qui de coelo descéndi. Si quis manducáverit ex hoc pane, vivet in aetérnum: et eat of this bread, he shall live for ever: and the bread that I will give is My flesh for the life of the world.—Credo.

panis, quem ego dabo, caro mea est pro mundi vita.—Credo.

Offertory: Ps. cxviii. 47, 48.

Meditábor in mandátis tuis, quae diléxi valde: et levábo manus meas ad mandáta tua, quae diléxi, allelúia.

I shall meditate on Thy commandments, which I have loved; and I shall lift up my hands to Thy commandments, which I have loved, alleluia.

Secret.

Accipe, quaesumus Dómine, munus oblátum: et dignánter operáre, ut quod mystériis ágimus, piis efféctibus celebrémus. Per Dóminum.

Accept, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the sacrifice which we offer to Thee, and grant that what we celebrate in these mysteries we may honour by a devout life. Through our Lord.

Second Secret: Protege nos, p. 154, or Oblatis, p. 155.—Preface for Whitsuntide, p. 54.—Communicantes, p. 61.—Hanc igitur, p. 62.

Communion: John xiv. 27.

Pacem relínquo vobis, allelúia: pacem meam do vobis, allelúia, allelúia.

Peace I leave with you, alleluia; My peace I give unto you, alleluia, alleluia.

Postcommunion.

Suméntes, Dómine, coeléstia sacraménta, quaesumus cleméntiam tuam: ut, quod temporáliter gérimus, aetérnis gáudiis consequámur. Per Domin.

Receiving, O Lord, these heavenly sacraments, we beseech Thy mercy that what we do in time we may enjoy in eternity. Through our Lord.

Second Postcommunion: Quaesumus or Haec nos, pp. 154, 155.

Thursday in Whitsun Week.

STATION AT ST. LAWRENCE-WITHOUT-THE-WALLS.*

(Indulgence of 30 years and 30 quarantines.)

Semi-double — Red vestments.

"The Gift of Knowledge is a supernatural light of the Holy Ghost which shows us the credibility and acceptability of revealed truths, even for reasons which are based only on the order of creation." †

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510. K d 18

† Rev. M. Meschler, S.J., ibid., p. 241.

The Station on this day used to be held in the church dedicated to St. Lawrence the Deacon, whose soul was so consumed with the fire of the Spirit of love that he scarcely felt the flames used to torture his body.

"When you shall receive the power of the Holy Ghost coming upon you," Jesus said to His Apostles, "you shall be witnesses unto Me in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and even to the uttermost part of the earth." *

The Mass of to-day tells us of Philip the Deacon, who, filled with the Holy Ghost, preached the Gospel in Samaria, where he worked many miracles (Epistle). And the Gospel reminds us that Christ, in conferring on His Apostles the power of healing the sick, commanded them to preach everywhere the Kingdom of God.

"Filled with the Holy Ghost, the Apostles spoke the wonderful works of God" (Communion) and filled the whole earth with the marvellous operations of the Divine Spirit (Introit, Alleluia).

And what the Church did in her earliest days she continues to do through the centuries during the festivities of Whitsun, when the light of the Holy Ghost illumines in a very special manner the souls of the faithful (Collect).

Let us beseech God to grant us the gift of the Holy Ghost, that we may relish what is right and ever rejoice in His holy consolation (Collect).

Introit: Wisdom i. 7.

THE Spirit of the Lord hath filled the whole world, alleluia: and that which containeth all things hath knowledge of the voice, alleluia, alleluia, alleluia. Ps. lxvii. 2. Let God arise, and let His enemies be scattered: and let them that hate Him flee from before His face. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

SPIRITUS Dómini replévit orbem terrárum, allelúia: et hoc quod cóntinet ómnia, sciéntiam habet vocis, allelúia, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Exsúrgat Deus, et dissipéntur inimíci ejus: et fúgiant, qui odérunt eum, a fácie ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.

O God, Who on this day didst instruct the hearts of the faithful by the light of the Holy Spirit, grant us by the same Holy Spirit to relish what is right, and ever to rejoice in His consolation. Through our Lord . . . in the unity of the same.

Deus, qui hodiérna die corda fidéliumSancti Spíritus illustratióne docuísti: da nobis in eódem Spíritu recta sápere; et de ejus semper consolatióne gaudére. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

Second Collect: Ecclesiae tuae, p. 154, or Deus, omnium fidelium, p. 155.

* Acts of the Apostles i. 8.

Epistle: Acts of the Apostles viii. 5-9.

Léctio Actuum Apostolórum.—In diébus illis: Philíppus descéndens in civitátem Samaríae, praedicábat illis Christum. Intendébant autem turbae his quae a Philíppo dicebántur, unanímiter audiéntes, et vidéntes signa quae faciébat. Multi enim eórum, qui habébant spíritus immúndos, clamántes voce magna, exíbant. Multi autem paralytici, et claudi curáti sunt. Factum est ergo gáudium magnum in illa civitáte.

Taken from the Acts of the Apostles.—In those days Philip, going down to the city of Samaria, preached Christ unto them. And the people with one accord were attentive to those things which were said by Philip, hearing, and seeing the miracles which he did. For many of them who had unclean spirits, crying with a loud voice, went out. And many taken with the palsy, and that were lame, were healed. There was therefore great joy in that city.

Alleluia and Sequence, pp. 966, 967.

Gospel: Luke ix. 1-6.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo témpore: Convocátis Jesus duódecim Apóstolis, dedit illis virtútem, et potestátem super ómnia daemónia, et ut languóres curárent. Et misit illos praedicáre regnum Dei, et sanáre infírmos. Et ait ad illos: Nihil tuléritis in via, neque virgam, neque peram, neque panem, neque pecúniam, neque duas túnicas habeátis. Et in quamcúmque domum intravéritis, ibi manéte, et inde ne exeátis. Et quicúmque non recéperint vos: exeúntes de civitáte illa, étiam púlverem pedum vestrórum excútite in testimónium supra illos. Egréssi autem circuíbant per castélla, evangelizántes, et curántes ubíque.—Credo.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—At that time Jesus, calling together the twelve Apostles, gave them power and authority over all devils, and to cure diseases. And He sent them to preach the kingdom of God and to heal the sick. And He said to them: Take nothing for your journey, neither staff, nor scrip, nor bread, nor money; neither have two coats. And whatsoever house you shall enter into, abide there, and depart not from thence. And whosoever will not receive you, when ye go out of that city, shake off even the dust of your feet for a testimony against them. And going out they went about through the towns, preaching the gospel, and healing every where.—Credo.

Offertory: Ps. lxvii. 29, 30.

Confírma hoc, Deus, quod operátus es in nobis: a templo

Confirm, O God, what Thou hast wrought in us; from Thy temple, which is in Jerusalem, kings shall offer presents to Thee, alleluia.

tuo, quod est in Jerúsalem, tibi ófferent reges múnera, allelúia.

Secret.

Sanctify, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the gifts we offer to Thee, and cleanse our hearts by the light of the Holy Spirit. Through our Lord . . . in the unity of the same.

Múnera, quaesumus, Dómine, obláta sanctífica : et corda nostra Sancti Spíritus illustratióne emúnda Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

Communion : Acts of the Apostles ii. 2, 4.

Suddenly there came a sound from heaven, as of a mighty wind coming (and it filled the house) where they were sitting, alleluia ; and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, speaking the wonderful works of God, alleluia, alleluia.

Factus est repénte de coelo sonus, tamquam adveniéntis spíritus veheméntis, ubi erant sedéntes, allelúia : et repléti sunt omnes Spíritu Sancto, loquéntes magnália Dei, allelúia, allelúia.

Postcommunion.

Let the inpouring of the Holy Spirit, O Lord, cleanse our hearts, and make them fruitful by the inward sprinkling of His heavenly dew. Through our Lord . . . in the unity of the same.

Sancti Spíritus, Dómine, corda nostra mundet infúsio : et sui roris íntima aspersióne foecúndet. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

Ember Friday.

STATION AT THE CHURCH OF THE TWELVE APOSTLES.*

(Indulgence of 30 years and 30 quarantines.)

Semi-double.—Red vestments.

"The Gift of Piety awakens in our souls an inclination and readiness to honour God as our Father and to have a filial confidence in Him." †

The Station used to be held in the Church of the Twelve Apostles, who were the embodiment of the Early Church, of which the Holy Ghost was the soul.

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, E d 3.
† Rev. M. Meschler, S.J., ibid., pp. 275, 276.

The bountiful yield of the fruits of the earth which the Church now asks of God at the beginning of summer is emblematic of the wealth of spiritual blessings which the Holy Ghost lavishes on our souls in these days (Epistle). And it was for this reason that the Liturgy filled the mouths of the children newly born into the Church by Baptism with hymns in praise of God (Introit, Offertory) and of the Spirit of the Lord "so good and sweet within us" (Alleluia).

The Gospel recounts the wonders that Jesus worked by the power of the Holy Ghost in healing the sick, and more particularly the man with the palsy, whose sins He remitted at the same time that He restored him to health.

The Apostles, "whose hearts were enkindled by the Divine fire of the Holy Spirit" (Secret), and the Church built up by the same Spirit (Collect) follow in a very special manner the example of the Divine Master at this season.

Let us beseech the Holy Ghost to help us in our weakness (Post-communion) by protecting us against the attacks of our enemies (Collect).

Introit : Ps. lxx. 8, 23.

REPLEATUR os meum laude tua, allelúia: ut possim cantáre, allelúia: gaudébunt lábia mea, dum cantávero tibi, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. In te, Dómine, sperávi, non confúndar in aetérnum: in justítia tua líbera me, et éripe me. ℣. Glória Patri.

LET my mouth be filled with Thy praise, alleluia; that I may sing, alleluia; my lips rejoice when I sing to Thee, alleluia, alleluia. Ps. lxx. 1, 2. In Thee, O Lord, have I hoped, let me never be put to confusion: deliver me in Thy justice, and rescue me. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collect.

Da, quaesumus, Ecclésiae tuae, miséricors Deus: ut Sancto Spíritu congregáta, hostíli nullátenus incursióne turbétur. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

Grant to Thy Church, we beseech Thee, O merciful God, that having been formed by the Holy Spirit, it may not be troubled by any hostile attacks. Through our Lord . . . in the unity of the same.

Second Collect : Ecclesiae tuae, p. 154, or Deus, omnium fidelium, p. 155.

Epistle : Joel ii. 23, 24, 26, 27.

Léctio Joélis Prophétae.—HAEC dicit Dóminus Deus: Exsultáte, fílii Sion, et laetámini in Dómino Deo vestro: quia dedit vobis doctórem justítiae, et descéndere fáciet ad

Taken from Joel the Prophet.—THUS saith the Lord God: O children of Sion, rejoice and be joyful in the Lord your God: because He hath given you a teacher of justice, and He will make the early and the latter rain to come down to you, as in the beginning. And the floors shall be filled with wheat, and the presses shall overflow with wine and oil. And you shall eat in plenty and shall be filled: and you shall praise the name of the Lord your God, Who hath done wonders with you: and My people shall not be confounded for ever. And you shall know that I am in the midst of Israel: and I am the Lord your God, and there is none besides: and My people shall not be confounded for ever: saith the Lord Almighty.

vos imbrem matutínum et serótinum, sicut in princípio. Et implebúntur áreae fruménto, et redundábunt torculária vino et óleo. Et comedétis vescéntes, et saturabímini: et laudábitis nomen Dómini Dei vestri, qui fecit mirabília vobíscum: et non confundétur pópulus meus in sempitérnum. Et sciétis quia in médio Israel ego sum: et ego Dóminus Deus vester, et non est ámplius: et non confundétur pópulus meus in aetérnum: ait Dóminus omnípotens.

Alleluia, alleluia: Wisdom xii. 1.

℣. O how good and sweet is Thy Spirit, O Lord, within us! Alleluia.

℣. O quam bonus et suávis est, Dómine, Spíritus tuus in nobis! Allelúia.

Versicle: Veni sancte and the Sequence, pp. 966, 967.

Gospel: Luke v. 17-26.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—At that time, it came to pass on a certain day that Jesus sat teaching. And there were Pharisees and doctors of the Law sitting by, that were come out of every town of Galilee, and Judea, and Jerusalem: and the power of the Lord was to heal them. And behold men brought in a bed a man who had the palsy: and they sought means to bring him in, and to lay him before Him. And when they could not find by what way they might bring him in because of the multitude, they went up upon the roof, and let him down through the tiles with his bed

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo témpore: Factum est in una diérum, et Jesus sedébat docens. Et erant pharisaei sedéntes, et legis doctóres qui venérant ex omni castéllo Galilaeae, et Judaeae, et Jerúsalem: et virtus Dómini erat ad sanándum eos. Et ecce viri portántes in lecto hóminem, qui erat paralyticus: et quaerébant eum inférre, et pónere ante eum. Et non inveniéntes qua parte illum inférrent prae turba, ascendérunt supra tectum, et per tégulas summisérunt eum cum lecto in médium ante Jesum. Quorum fidem ut vidit, dixit: Homo, remit-

túntur tibi peccáta tua. Et coepérunt cogitáre scribae et pharisaei, dicéntes: Quis est hic, qui lóquitur blasphémias? Quis potest dimíttere peccáta, nisi solus Deus? Ut cognóvit autem Jesus cogitatiónes eórum, respóndens dixit ad illos: Quid cogitátis in córdibus vestris? Quid est facílius dícere: Dimittúntur tibi peccáta, an dícere: Surge, et ámbula? Ut autem sciátis quia Fílius hóminis habet potestátem in terra dimitténdi peccáta (ait paralytico), tibi dico: Surge, tolle lectum tuum, et vade in domum tuam. Et conféstim consúrgens coram illis, tulit lectum, in quo jacébat: et ábiit in domum suam, magníficans Deum. Et stupor apprehéndit omnes, et magnificábant Deum. Et repléti sunt timóre, dicéntes: Quia vídimus mirabília hódie.—Credo.

into the midst before Jesus. Whose faith when He saw, He said: Man, thy sins are forgiven thee. And the scribes and Pharisees began to think, saying: Who is this Who speaketh blasphemies? Who can forgive sins, but God alone? And when Jesus knew their thoughts, answering He said to them: What is it you think in your hearts? Which is easier to say: Thy sins are forgiven thee, or to say: Arise and walk? But that you may know that the Son of Man hath power on earth to forgive sins (He saith to the sick of the palsy) I say to thee: Arise, take up thy bed, and go into thy house. And immediately rising up before them, he took up the bed on which he lay, and he went away to his own house, glorifying God. And all were astonished, and they glorified God. And they were filled with fear, saying: We have seen wonderful things to-day.—Credo.

Offertory: Ps. cxlv. 2.

Lauda ánima mea Dóminum: laudábo Dóminum in vita mea: psallam Deo quámdiu ero, allelúia.

Praise the Lord, O my soul: in my life I will praise the Lord: I will sing to my God as long as I shall be, alleluia.

Secret.

Sacrificia, Dómine, tuis obláta conspéctibus ignis ille divínus absúmat, qui discipulórum Christi Fílii tui per Spíritum Sanctum corda succéndit. Per eúmdem Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

May the sacrifice we offer in Thy sight, O Lord, be consumed by that divine fire which, through the Holy Spirit, enkindled the hearts of the disciples of Christ Thy Son. Through the same Lord . . . in the unity of the same.

Second Secret: Protege, p. 154, or Oblatis, p. 155.—Preface for Whitsuntide, p. 54.—Communicantes, p. 61.—Hanc igitur, p. 62.

Communion: John xiv. 18.

I will not leave you orphans: I will come to you again, alleluia: and your heart shall rejoice, alleluia.

Non vos relínquam órphanos: véniam ad vos íterum, allelúia: et gaudébit cor vestrum, allelúia.

Postcommunion.

We have received, O Lord, the gifts of Thy sacred mysteries, humbly beseeching Thee that this sacrifice which Thou hast commanded us to offer in memory of Thee may avail us for help in our weakness: Who livest.

Súmpsimus, Dómine, sacri dona mystérii: humíliter deprecántes; ut quae in tui commemoratiónem nos fácere praecepísti, in nostrae profíciant infirmitátis auxílium: Qui vivis.

Second Postcommunion: Quaesumus or Haec nos, pp. 154, 155.

Ember Saturday.

STATION AT ST. PETER'S.*

(Indulgence of 30 years and 30 quarantines.)

Semi-double.—Red vestments.

"The Gift of Holy Fear, or the Fear of God, is actually the foundation of all other gifts. It drives sin from the heart, because it fills us with reverence either for the Justice of God or for the Divine Majesty." †

After swelling the ranks of her children during the night of Pentecost the Holy Ghost to-day is about to supply the Church with the Priests who are to be her ministers of grace all over the world, for He will pour out His Spirit upon her servants the same as Joel prophesied He would upon the Apostles (First Lesson). Very appropriately, therefore, the church appointed for the Station this day was the Basilica of St. Peter, the Pastor of the fold, and the Gospel tells of a cure worked by Jesus in the house of Simon.

The Priest, as the Minister of Christ, devotes himself to the healing of souls consumed by the fever of sinful passions.

As it has already been pointed out, the Mass on the Saturday in Ember Weeks has five Lessons with Collect and Tract between the Introit and the Epistle. The Fifth Lesson never varies: it is the record of the miraculous preservation of the three Hebrew children in the fiery furnace, ollo wed by an extract from their Canticle of praise and thanksgiving.

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, AB c 33.
† Rev. M. Meschler, S.J., ibid., p. 271.

The Collect of the Mass is based upon this Lesson, and beseeches the Divine Goodness that we may not be consumed by the flame of vice.

In the Sacrament of Holy Orders the Priest receives a large outpouring of the Divine Spirit (Epistle) that will enable him to preach the Kingdom of God (Gospel).

The Second, Third and Fourth Lessons refer to the harvest and to the offerings of the firstfruits of the earth, for Ember Weeks were instituted with the object of obtaining the Divine blessing on each of the several seasons as they came in.

Let us pray to God that He may grant us the seven Gifts of the Holy Ghost.

The Paschal Season, or Eastertide, ends with the Octave of Whitsunday.

Introit: Romans v. 5.

CARITAS Dei diffúsa est in córdibus nostris, allelúia: per inhabitántem Spíritum ejus in nobis, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Bénedic ánima mea Dómino: et ómnia quae intra me sunt, nómini sancto ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

THE charity of God is poured forth in our hearts, alleluia: by His Spirit dwelling in us, alleluia, alleluia. Ps. cii. 1. Bless the Lord, O my soul: and let all that is within me bless His holy name. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

(At Ordinations the names of the candidates for Ordination were called out after the Kyrie eleison, and the Tonsure was conferred.)

Collect.

Mentibus nostris, quaesumus, Dómine, Spíritum Sanctum benígnus infúnde: cujus et sapiéntia cónditi sumus, et providéntia gubernámur. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

Deign, we beseech Thee, O Lord, to pour forth into our souls the Holy Spirit, by Whose wisdom we were created, and by Whose providence we are ruled. Through our Lord . . . in the unity of the same.

First Lesson: Joel ii. 28-32.

Léctio Joélis Prophétae.—HAEC dicit Dóminus Deus: Effúndam Spíritum meum super omnem carnem; et prophetábunt fílii vestri, et fíliae vestrae: senes vestri sómnia somniábunt, et júvenes vestri visiónes vidébunt. Sed et super servos meos, et ancíllas in diébus illis effúndam Spíritum meum. Et dabo prodígia in coelo, et in terra, sánguinem, et ignem, et vapórem fumi.

Taken from Joel the Prophet.—THUS saith the Lord God: I will pour out My Spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy: your old men shall dream dreams, and your young men shall see visions. Moreover upon My servants and handmaids in those days I will pour forth My spirit. And I will show wonders in heaven, and in earth blood and fire and vapour of smoke. The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood: before the great and dreadful day of the Lord doth come. And it shall come to pass that every one that shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved.

Sol convertétur in ténebras, et luna in sánguinem: ántequam véniat dies Dómini magnus, et horríbilis. Et erit: omnis qui invocáverit nomen Dómini, salvus erit.

(Ordination of Door-keepers.)

Alleluia: John vi. 64.

℣. It is the Spirit that quickeneth, but the flesh profiteth nothing.

℣. Spíritus est qui vivíficat: caro autem non prodest quidquam.

Collect.

May the Holy Spirit, we beseech Thee, O Lord, inflame us with that fire which our Lord Jesus Christ sent down upon earth, and earnestly desired might be enkindled: Who with Thee . . . in the unity of the same.

Illo nos igne, quaesumus, Dómine, Spíritus Sanctus inflámmet: quem Dóminus noster Jesus Christus misit in terram, et vóluit veheménter accéndi: Qui tecum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

Second Lesson: Leviticus xxiii. 9-11, 15-17, 21.

Taken from the Book of Leviticus.—In those days the Lord spoke to Moses, saying: Speak to the children of Israel, and thou shalt say to them: When you shall have entered into the land which I will give you, and shall reap your corn, you shall bring sheaves of ears, the firstfruits of your harvest, to the priest: who shall lift up the sheaf before the Lord, the next day after the sabbath, that it may be acceptable for you, and shall sanctify it. You shall count therefore from the morrow after the sabbath, wherein you offered the sheaf of firstfruits, seven full weeks, even unto the morrow after the seventh week be expired, that is to say, fifty

Léctio libri Levítici.—In diébus illis: Locútus est Dóminus ad Móysen, dicens: Lóquere fíliis Israel, et dices ad eos: Cum ingréssi fuéritis terram, quam ego dabo vobis, et messuéritis ségetem, ferétis manípulos spicárum, primítias messis vestrae ad sacerdótem: qui elevábit fascículum coram Dómino, ut acceptábile sit pro vobis, áltero die sábbati, et sanctificábit illum. Numerábitis ergo ab áltero die sábbati, in quo obtulístis manípulum primitiárum, septem hebdómadas plenas, usque ad álteram diem expletiónis hebdómadae séptimae, id est, quinquagínta dies: et sic offerétis sacrifícium novum Dómino ex ómnibus habitáculis vestris, panes primitiárum duos de duábus décimis símilae fermentátae, quos coquétis in primítias Dómini. Et vocábitis hunc diem celebérrimum atque sanctíssimum, omne opus servíle non faciétis in eo. Legítimum sempitérnum erit in cunctis habitáculis, et generatiónibus vestris : dicit Dóminus omnípotens.

days : and so you shall offer a new sacrifice to the Lord out of all your dwellings : two loaves of the firstfruits, of two tenths of flour leavened, which you shall bake for the firstfruits of the Lord. And you shall call this day most solemn and most holy. You shall do no servile work therein. It shall be an everlasting ordinance in all your dwellings and generations, saith the Lord Almighty.

(Ordination of Lectors.)

Alleluia : Job xxvi. 13.

℣. Spíritus ejus ornávit coelos.

℣. His Spirit hath adorned the heavens.

Collect.

Deus, qui ad animárum medélam, jejúnii devotióne castigári córpora praecepísti : concéde nobis propítius : et mente et córpore tibi semper esse devótos. Per Dóminum.

O God, Who for the healing of souls hast ordained the chastisement of our bodies by the devout exercise of fasting, mercifully grant that we may be always devoted to Thee in mind and in body. Through our Lord.

Third Lesson : Deuteronomy xxvi. 1-3, 7-11.

Léctio libri Deuteronómii.—In diébus illis : Dixit Móyses fíliis Israel : Audi Israel quae ego praecípio tibi hódie. Cum intráveris terram, quam Dóminus Deus tuus tibi datúrus est possidéndam, et obtinúeris eam, atque habitáveris in ea : tolles de cunctis frúgibus tuis primítias, et pones in cartállo, pergésque ad locum, quem Dóminus Deus tuus elégerit, ut ibi invocétur nomen ejus : accedésque ad sacerdótem, qui fúerit in diébus illis, et dices ad eum : Profíteor hódie coram Dómino Deo tuo, qui exaudí-

Taken from the Book of Deuteronomy.—In those days Moses said to the children of Israel : Hear, O Israel, the things that I command thee today. When thou art come into the land which the Lord thy God will give thee to possess, and hast conquered it, and dwellest in it : thou shalt take the first of all thy fruits, and put them in a basket, and shalt go to the place which the Lord thy God shall choose, that His name may be invocated there. And thou shalt go to the priest that shall be in those days, and say to him: I profess this day before the Lord thy God, Who heard us, and looked down upon our affliction,. and labour, and distress; and brought us out of Egypt with a strong hand, and a stretched out arm, with great terror, with signs and wonders; and brought us into this place, and gave us this land flowing with milk and honey. And therefore now I offer the first-fruits of the land which the Lord hath given me. And thou shalt leave them in the sight of the Lord thy God, adoring the Lord thy God. And thou shalt feast in all the good things which the Lord thy God hath given thee.

vit nos, et respéxit humilitátem nostram, et labórem, atque angústiam: et edúxit nos de Aegypto in manu forti, et bráchio exténto, in ingénti pavóre, in signis atque porténtis: et introdúxit ad locum istum, et trádidit nobis terram lacte et melle manántem. Et idcírco nunc óffero primítias frugum terrae, quam Dóminus dedit mihi. Et dimíttes eas in conspéctu Dómini Dei tui, et adoráto Dómino Deo tuo. Et epuláberis in ómnibus bonis, quae Dóminus Deus tuus déderit tibi.

(Ordination of Exorcists.)

Alleluia: Acts of the Apostles ii. 1.

℣. When the days of the Pentecost were accomplished, they were all seated together.

℣. Dum compleréntur dies Pentecóstes, erant omnes páriter sedéntes.

Collect.

Grant, we beseech Thee, O almighty God, that, taught by these saving fasts, and abstaining also from all vice, we may more easily obtain Thy favour. Through our Lord.

Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut salutáribus jejúniis erudíti, ab ómnibus étiam vítiis abstinéntes, propitiatiónem tuam facílius impetrémus. Per Dóminum.

Fourth Lesson: Leviticus xxvi. 3-12.

Taken from the Book of Leviticus.—In those days the Lord said to Moses! Speak to the children of Israe, and say to them: If you walk in My precepts, and keep My commandments, and do them, I will give you rain in due seasons; and the ground shall bring forth

Léctio libri Levítici.—In diébus illis: Dixit Dóminus ad Móysen: Lóquere fíliis Israel, et dices ad eos: Si in praecéptis meis ambulavéritis, et mandáta mea custodiéritis, et fecéritis ea, dabo vobis plúvias tempóribus suis, et terra gignet germen suum, et pomis árbores replebúntur. Apprehéndet méssium tritura vindémiam, et vindémia occupábit seméntem : et comedétis panem vestrum in saturitáte, et absque pavóre habitábitis in terra vestra. Dabo pacem in fínibus vestris: dormiétis, et non erit qui extérreat. Auferam malas béstias, et gládius non transíbit términos vestros. Persequémini inimícos vestros, et córruent coram vobis. Persequéntur quinque de vestris centum aliénos, et centum de vobis decem míllia : cadent inimíci vestri gládio in conspéctu vestro. Respíciam vos, et créscere fáciam: multiplicabímini, et firmábo pactum meum vobíscum. Comedétis vetustíssima véterum, et vétera novis superveniéntibus projiciétis. Ponam tabernáculum meum in médio vestri, et non adjíciet vos ánima mea. Ambulábo inter vos, et ero Deus vester, vosque éritis pópulus meus : dicit Dóminus omnípotens.

its increase, and the trees shall be filled with fruit. The threshing of your harvest shall reach unto the vintage, and the vintage shall reach unto the sowing time: and you shall eat your bread to the full, and dwell in your land without fear. I will give peace in your coasts: you shall sleep, and there shall be none to make you afraid. I will take away evil beasts, and the sword shall not pass through your quarters. You shall pursue your enemies, and they shall fall before you. Five of yours shall pursue a hundred others, and a hundred of you ten thousand: your enemies shall fall before you by the sword. I will look on you, and make you increase: you shall be multiplied, and I will establish My covenant with you. You shall eat the oldest of the old store, and, new coming on, you shall cast away the old. I will set My tabernacle in the midst of you, and My soul shall not cast you off. I will walk among you, and will be your God, and you shall be My people, saith the Lord Almighty.

(Ordination of Acolytes.)

Alleluia.

℣. Veni Sancte Spíritus, reple tuórum corda fidélium : et tui amóris in eis ignem accénde.

(Here all kneel.) ℣. Come, O Holy Spirit, fill the hearts of Thy faithful: and kindle in them the fire of Thy love.

Collect.

Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus : sic nos ab épulis carnálibus abstinére; ut a

Grant, we beseech Thee, O almighty God, that we may so abstain from carnal feasts, that we may also fast from the vices which beset us. Through our Lord.

vítiis irruéntibus páriter jejunémus. Per Dóminum.

Fifth Lesson : Daniel iii. 47-51.

Taken from the Prophet Daniel. — IN those days the Angel of the Lord went down with Azarias and his companions into the furnace: and he drove the flame of the fire out of the furnace, and made the midst of the furnace like the blowing of a wind bringing dew. And the flame mounted up above the furnace nine and forty cubits: and it broke forth, and burnt such of the Chaldeans as it found near the furnace, the servants of the king, who were heating it. And the fire touched the three young Hebrews not at all, nor troubled them, nor did them any harm. Then these three as with one mouth praised, and glorified, and blessed God in the furnace, saying:

Léctio Daniélis Prophétae— IN diébus illis : Angelus Dómini descéndit cum Azaría, et sóciis ejus, in fornácem : et excússit flammam ignis de fornáce, et fecit médium fornácis quasi ventum roris flantem. Flamma autem effundebátur super fornácem cúbitis quadragínta novem : et erúpit, et incéndit quos réperit juxta fornácem de Chaldaeis minístros regis, qui eam incendébant. Et non tétigit eos omníno ignis, neque contristávit, nec quidquam moléstiae íntulit. Tunc hi tres quasi ex uno ore laudábant, et glorificábant, et benedicébant Deum in fornáce, dicéntes :

(Ordination of Subdeacons.)

The response Deo gratias is not made, but there follows immediately :—

Alleluia : Daniel iii. 52.

℣. Blessed art Thou, O Lord the God of our fathers, and worthy to be praised for ever.

℣. Benedíctus es Dómine, Deus patrum nostrórum, et laudábilis in saecula.

When this Versicle is finished, the Gloria in excelsis is said.

℣. The Lord be with you.
℟. And with thy spirit.

℣. Dóminus vobíscum.
℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

Collect.

O God, Who didst allay the flames of fire for the three children, mercifully grant that the flame of vice may not consume us, Thy servants. Through our Lord.

Deus, qui tribus púeris mitigásti flammas ígnium : concéde propítius ; ut nos fámulos tuos non exúrat flamma vitiórum. Per Dóminum.

Second Collect: Ecclesiae tuae, p. 154, or Deus, omnium fidelium, p. 155.

Epistle: Romans v. 1-5.

Léctio Epistólae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Romános.—FRATRES: Justificáti ex fide, pacem habeámus ad Deum per Dóminum nostrum Jesum Christum: per quem et habémus accéssum per fidem in grátiam istam, in qua stamus, et gloriámur in spe glóriae filiórum Dei. Non solum autem, sed et gloriámur in tribulatiónibus: sciéntes quod tribulátio patientiam operátur, patiéntia autem probatiónem, probátio vero spem, spes autem non confúndit: quia cáritas Dei diffúsa est in córdibus nostris per Spíritum sanctum, qui datus est nobis.

Taken from the epistle of the blessed Apostle Paul to the Romans. — BRETHREN, being justified by faith, let us have peace with God, through our Lord Jesus Christ: by Whom also we have access through faith into this grace wherein we stand, and glory in the hope of the glory of the sons of God. And not only so, but we glory also in tribulations, knowing that tribulation worketh patience, and patience trial, and trial hope; and hope confoundeth not: because the charity of God is poured forth in our hearts by the Holy Ghost, Who is given to us.

(Ordination of Deacons.)

Tract: Ps. cxvi. 1, 2.

Laudáte Dóminum omnes gentes: et collaudáte eum omnes pópuli. ℣. Quóniam confirmáta est super nos misericórdia ejus: et véritas Dómini manet in aetérnum.

O praise the Lord, all ye nations: and praise Him together, all ye people. ℣. For His mercy is confirmed upon us; and the truth of the Lord remaineth for ever.

(Ordination of Priests.)

Sequence: Veni Sancte, p. 967, without the Alleluia at the end.

Gospel: Luke iv. 38-44.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—IN illo témpore: Surgens Jesus de synagóga, introívit in domum Simónis. Socrus autem Simónis tenebátur magnis fébribus: et rogavérunt illum pro ea. Et stans super illam, imperávit febri: et dimísit illam. Et con-and it left her. And immediately rising, she ministered to them. And when the sun was down, all they that had any sick with divers diseases brought them to Him. But He, laying His hands on every one of them, healed them. And devils went out from many, crying out, and saying: Thou art the Son of God. And rebuking them, He suffered them not to speak, for they knew that He was Christ. And when it was day, going out He went into a desert place, and the multitudes sought Him, and came unto Him: and they stayed Him that He should not depart from them. To whom He said: To other cities also I must preach the kingdom of God, for therefore am I sent. And He was preaching in the synagogues of Galilee.—Credo.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—AT that time Jesus, rising up out of the synagogue, went into Simon's house. And Simon's wife's mother was taken with a great fever: and they besought Him for her. And standing over her, He commanded the fever:

tínuo surgens, ministrábat illis. Cum autem sol occidísset, omnes qui habébant infírmos váriis languóribus, ducébant illos ad eum. At ille síngulis manus impónens, curábat eos. Exíbant autem daemónia a multis, clamántia, et dicéntia: Quia tu es Fílius Dei: et incrépans non sinébat ea loqui quia sciébant ipsum esse Christum. Facta autem die egréssus ibat in desértum locum, et turbae requirébant eum et venérunt usque ad ipsum: et detinébant illum ne discéderet ab eis. Quibus ille ait: Quia et áliis civitátibus opórtet me evangelizáre regnum Dei: quia ídeo missus sum. Et erat praedícans in synagógis Galilaeae.—Credo.

Offertory: Ps. lxxxvii. 2, 3.

O Lord, the God of my salvation, I have cried in the day and in the night before Thee. Let my prayer come in before Thee, O Lord, alleluia.

Dómine, Deus salútis meae, in die clamávi, et nocte coram te: intret orátio mea in conspéctu tuo, Dómine, allelúia.

Secret.

That our fasts may be acceptable to Thee, O Lord, grant us, we beseech Thee, to offer up to Thee a heart purified by the oblation of this sacrifice. Through our Lord.

Ut accépta tibi sint, Dómine, nostra jejúnia: praesta nobis, quaesumus; hujus múnere sacraménti purificátum tibi pectus offérre. Per Dóminum.

Second Secret: Protege nos, p. 154, or Oblatis, p. 155.—Preface for Whitsuntide, p. 54.—Communicantes, p. 61.—Hanc igitur, p. 62.

Communion: John iii. 8.

The Spirit breatheth where He will, and thou hearest His voice, alleluia, alleluia; but thou

Spíritus ubi vult spirat: et vocem ejus audis, allelúia, allelúia: sed nescis unde véniat, aut quo vadat, allelúia, allelúia, allelúia.

knowest not whence He cometh, and whither He goeth, alleluia, alleluia, alleluia.

Postcommunion.

Praebeant nobis, Dómine, divínum tua sancta fervórem quo eórum páriter et actu delectémur, et fructu. Per Dóminum nostrum.

May Thy holy mysteries, O Lord, inspire us with a divine fervour, which may make us delight both in their celebration and in their fruits. Through our Lord.

Second Postcommunion : Quaesumus Domine or Haec nos, pp. 154, 155.

WITH THE END OF THE MASS THE PASCHAL SEASON COMES TO A CLOSE.

This tail-piece is made up of the initial letters X P of the name of Christ in Greek and of the first and last letters of the Greek alphabet, meaning that Jesus Christ is God, and as such has neither beginning nor end.

THE MYSTERY OF THE REDEMPTION.

Easter Cycle

4. Season of Septuagesima (Septuagesima Sunday to Ash Wednesday).
5. Season of Lent (Ash Wednesday to Passion Sunday).
6. Passion Time (Passion Sunday to Easter).
7. Eastertide (Easter Sunday to Trinity Sunday).
8. Season after Whitsuntide (Trinity Sunday to Advent).

---

8. Season after Whitsuntide.

1. Season after Whitsuntide from a Doctrinal Point of View.

After the reign of the Father over the people of God which the Season of Advent recalls, after that of the Son which began with His birth at Christmas and ended with His Ascension and which the Seasons of Christmas and Easter recall, the liturgy celebrates the reign of the Holy Spirit which extends over the whole church and is made manifest from Pentecost unto the end of the world, and which is mentioned on the twenty-fourth and last Sunday after Pentecost.

As the Father made use of the Hebrew people to prepare the redemption of the world, as the Word took our human nature and made it the instrument of our redemption, it is the Holy Ghost Who gives effect to redemption within the Church. The priesthood, the Mass and the sacraments are the official channels by which He gives us the doctrine of the Saviour and applies His merits to our souls.

As the Pope is at the head of the ecclesiastical hierarchy, so the Eucharist is above the other Sacraments. The reign of the Holy Ghost visibly manifests itself thereby in the Roman Church, in the centre of which shines the Most Blessed Sacrament.

The Spirit is the soul which gives life to this Church,* Christ hidden in the Host is the heart, from whence the Blood of grace flows through the veins or by means of the Sacraments into all its members; St. Peter and his successors with all the Bishops are the head from which proceeds the nervous system which governs the whole body; and this body is made up of all the Christian people.

"We form one body," says St. Paul, "for we have been baptised in one Spirit," † and "we all partake of the one bread." ‡ We form one body because Christ risen made us lambs or sheep of one and the same Shepherd, the visible head of the Church. §

The action of the Holy Ghost and the action of Jesus in the Blessed Sacrament are so united that the Scriptures affirm indifferently that "we are sanctified in the Holy Ghost," || or "in Christ," ¶ and that as the Holy Spirit is the "spirit of life," Jesus is also the "bread of life." The action of these two Persons of the Holy Trinity is made effective by the Church.

"As My Father sent Me, I also send you" declared Christ to the Apostles, and the liturgy of Pentecost says of the Holy Ghost "that He appeared to the disciples under the form of tongues of fire and that He sent them into the whole world." ††

It was at the Last Supper, when He instituted the Eucharist and the Priesthood, that Jesus announced the coming of the Holy Ghost.

The gold or silver dove which in former times hung over the altar and contained the Eucharist which the Priest had just consecrated symbolised the profound unity of action of the Holy Ghost, of the Blessed Sacrament and of Holy Church.

Directed by the Holy Ghost, the Church supplies that which was wanting in the sacramental life of Jesus. He is hidden and silent under the Eucharistic elements, but the Catholic hierarchy lends Him its voice and its outward activity. The Pope, Bishops, and Priests speak in His name and it is by their ministrations that He sacrifices Himself on the Altar. It is they who free Him from the immobility to which He has condemned Himself. They administer Him to the faithful, they give Him to the sick, and carry Him in solemn processions.

And while the Church thus completes Jesus in His sacramental life, He in His turn permits her to pour into souls the Holy Ghost which is for ever flowing from His heart. And this Spirit, which Jesus and His Church give us binds us to Christ, fills us with His life, ‡‡ to make us with Him children of the Father: §§ "In the Spirit we have access through Christ to the Father," writes St. Paul. ||||

The sanctification of souls is attributed to the Holy Ghost, Who realises throughout the centuries, the whole life of the Saviour in the Church, His mystical body. Wherefore this Spirit has for His mission

* "The Holy Ghost is, in the Church, that which the soul is in the body."—St. Augustine.

† 1 Corinthians xii. 12.

‡ 1 Corinthians x. 17. "The unity of the mystical body is produced by the true Body received sacramentally."—St. Thomas.

§ John xxi. 16, 17.

|| 1 Corinthians vi. 11.

¶ 1 Corinthians i. 1.

 John xx. 21.

†† Antiphon at the Magnificat of Vespers for Pentecost.

‡‡ "Christ is diffused in the soul by the Holy Spirit" (St. Gregory on the Canticle).

§§ "You have received the spirit of adoption of sons whereby you cry: Abba, Father" (Romans viii. 15).

|||| Ephesians ii. 18.

"to teach all things, bringing to our mind all that Jesus has said," * and to apply the merits of His passion to our souls.

The reign of the Holy Ghost is the extension of that of Christ to which it gives a universality of time and place which it had not in Palestine. It is no longer, in fact, the Saviour working alone in one part of the world and in a particular age: it is the Church which, incorporated by virtue of the Holy Spirit with the Blessed Sacrament † on all altars associates her sacrifice with that of Golgotha, and takes a part in all the mysteries of the earthly life of the Saviour.

If Christ's merits on Calvary are infinite, He applies nothing, and if the Eucharist does not merit, it applies the merits of Calvary in giving us the Holy Spirit which causes us to die to sin and to rise again unto divine life with the risen Lord. This is the main point in our conception of the Blessed Sacrament. It constitutes with the Church, vivified by the Holy Ghost, a marvellous prolongation of the Incarnation, a Christ increased by all our souls. ‡ By means of the liturgical cycle, Christ lives His life again each year on the Altar, as in a new Palestine, in the same order as He lived formerly. That is to say, it is we this time who, in union with Jesus, seem to realise His mysteries, and it is also for that reason that the Season after Whitsuntide is more specially consecrated to the Sanctoral Cycle, or life of the Church.

Causing us to throw a retrospective glance over the life of the Saviour which ended in the Cycle at Pentecost, the Holy Ghost repeats by the mouth of the Evangelists and the Apostles, whose writings He inspired, all the teachings of the Master, bringing them into more light. § These Epistles and Gospels speak to us of the fruits of Holiness that the Holy Ghost produces in souls. And we witness during all this season the magnificent efflorescence of Saints who cease not to reproduce in all centuries and in all countries the soul of Christ. As a divine Sun, radiant at His rising on Christmas Day, and majestic at His setting on Good Friday, Jesus has achieved His gigantic career. And during the long night which preceded His coming, and during that which followed it, it is Mary, the mystic moon, and it is the Saints, stars of a thousand different lights, who shine in the heaven of the Church and are given to us for an example. Our souls, after having imitated Jesus Himself, may therefore again imitate Him in His members, who are all imbued with the life of their Head.

As during the Season of Advent the great feast of the Immaculate Conception is celebrated, so during the Season after Pentecost is celebrated that of the Assumption.¶ The Angels have their feast at this period of the year, as well as St. John the Baptist, the Apostles Peter and Paul, and the whole crowd of Saints who are honoured in the course of these six months and on November 1. Then are also cele-

* John xiv. 26.

† "By virtue of this sacrament is effected a certain transformation of man into Christ." (Saint Thomas.)

‡ Ephesians iv. 12, 13, 15, 16.

§ From the first Sunday after Pentecost at the Epistle are read two epistles of St. John, two of St. Peter, four of St. Paul to the Romans, four to the Corinthians, three to the Galatians, five to the Ephesians, two to the Philippians and one to the Colossians, so that all the writings of the Apostles are gone over. The Greek Church in the same way causes to be read successively as Gospel for this season the Gospels of St. Matthew, St. Mark and St. Luke. The Roman Church has chosen those which are specially symbolic of the Kingdom of Heaven and its justice.

¶ During the Season of Advent Mary appears as the Queen of Patriarchs and Prophets, during the Season after Pentecost as the Queen of the Apostles and of all the Saints.

brated the Commemoration of the Dead and all the feasts of the Dedication of Churches.

If the solemnities of Corpus Christi, following Whitsuntide and shortly after followed by the feast of the Princes of the Apostles, remind us that it is the Holy Ghost, the Blessed Sacrament and the Church that sanctify souls, the feasts of the Holy Trinity, of the Sacred Heart and of the Most Holy Rosary, all of which answer the desire of making a connected summary, show us that this sanctification is made by the doctrine of the Saviour and by the application of His merits.

During the last six months, or second part of the ecclesiastical year, the Church is thereby continuing the work of the redemption of Christ which had been prepared and realised during the first six months or first part of the liturgical cycle.

" The Christian who has not yet been led during the first half of the Cycle to see his personal life absorbed in the life of Christ will still find in the second a precious help for the increase of his faith and the growth of his love. The mystery of the Trinity, that of the Blessed Sacrament, the mercy and power of the Heart of Jesus, the glories of Mary and her influence upon the Church and souls, all these are manifested to the soul more fully and produce in the soul effects not previously experienced. In the feasts of the Saints, which are so varied and so fruitful during this portion of the year, she feels more and more intimately the bond which unites her to them in Christ through the Holy Ghost. The eternal happiness of heaven, which is to follow the trials of this mortal life, is revealed to her by the feast of All Saints, and she gains clearer notions of that mysterious bliss which consists in light and love. Having become more closely united to Holy Church, which is the Bride of her dear Lord, she follows Him in all the stages of His earthly existence; she takes a share in His sufferings, she exults in His triumphs; she sees without failing this world tending to its decline; for she knows that the Lord is nigh at hand."*

And it is thus that in this Season after Pentecost we see realised the word of the Master Who promised His Apostles that the Holy Ghost, Whom He would send to them, would convince the world of sin, of justice, and of judgment.† Holy souls render, in fact, by their words and by their example a continual homage to divine justice and truth,‡ they triumph over the world which they convict of malice and whose sentence of condemnation will be pronounced on the day of judgment as is told in the Mass of the last Sunday after Pentecost.

2. Season after Whitsuntide from a Historical Point of View.

From the Feast of Pentecost, when her birth took place, the Church reproduces during the centuries all the life of Christ, of Whom she is the mystical body.

Jesus from His infancy is persecuted and has to fly into Egypt, while the massacre of the Holy Innocents takes place (December 28). The Church during four centuries suffers the most violent persecutions and has to hide in the Catacombs or in the desert.

Jesus in His youth retires to Nazareth and spends the longest years of His life in meditation and prayer. And the Church from the time of

* Liturgical year: Practice of the Season after Pentecost.
† John xvi. 8. ‡ John xviii. 37.

Constantine enjoys a long era of peace. Everywhere cathedrals and abbeys arise which resound with divine praise, and where bishops and abbots, priests and religious, by study and by indefatigable zeal offer resistance to the invasion of heresy.

Jesus, the divine missionary sent by the Father into the distant regions of this earth, commences at the age of thirty His apostolic life. And the Church from the sixteenth century has to resist the assaults of a revived paganism, and spreads in the recently discovered parts of the world the Gospel of Christ. And from Her bosom spring up incessantly new hosts and numerous legions of apostles and missionaries who announce the good news to the whole world.

At length Jesus ends His life by the sacrifice on Golgotha, shortly followed by the triumph of His resurrection. And the Church, at the end of time, like her Divine Head on the Cross, will seem to be conquered, but it will be she who will win the victory. " The body of Christ which is the Church," says St. Augustine, " like the human body, was first young, and lo, at the end of the world it will have an appearance of decay." †

These feasts are specially numerous after Pentecost, which is the longest liturgical period (it may commence about May 10 and ends about December 3) ; ‡ therefore the Season after Pentecost is specially the CYCLE OF THE SAINTS. To be complete, we mention here, however, the feasts of the Saints of the whole Calendar. Those preceded by an asterisk are mentioned in the first list of the Canon of the Mass, and those with two asterisks are in the second list.

* * *

(a) The Apostolic Age.

After having called to mind the feast of St. John the Baptist* by celebrating the anniversary of his birth (June 24) and that of his martyrdom (August 29), the martyrdom of the Holy Innocents (December 28) and that of St. Stephen,* the first martyr (December 26), it is the Apostolic Age that the Church each year makes us live through by celebrating the feasts of the Apostles :—

1. * St. Peter (June 29).
2. * St. Paul (June 29 and 30).
3. * St. Andrew (November 30).
4. * St. James the Great (July 25).
5. * St. John (December 27).
6. * St. Thomas or Didymus (December 21).
7. * St. James the Less (May 1).
8. * St. Philip (May 1).
9. * St. Bartholomew (August 24).
10. * St. Matthew (September 21).
11. * St. Simon (October 28).
12. * St. Thaddaeus or Jude (October 28).

Then come the feasts of those whom the Holy Ghost Himself appointed by lot, the one to fill the place of Judas and the other to share in the apostolate of St. Paul —

 St. Matthias (February 24).  St. Barnabas (June 11).

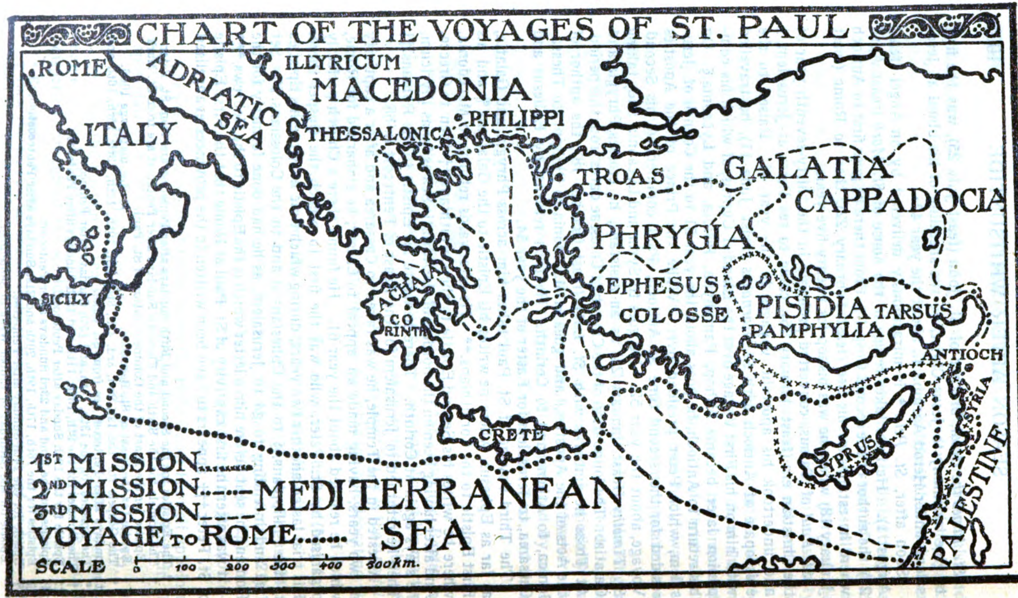
Sent by the Saviour to teach all nations and to baptise them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost, § the Apostles dispersed throughout the world.

† Explanation of Psalm xxvi.
‡ These two dates are the extreme limits of the commencement and conclusion of the Season after Whitsuntide.
§ Gospel for the Feast of the Holy Trinity.

St. James the Great, brother of St. John (feast July 25), was the first to give testimony to Jesus Christ, by the shedding of his blood at Jerusalem, under Herod Agrippa I., about the year 42.

Soon after, St. Peter * is miraculously delivered by an Angel (feast August 1). He then takes refuge in the house of St. Mark (feast April 25), the author of the second Gospel.† From there he goes first to Antioch where he establishes his See (feast February 22), then to Rome (feast January 18) where he was bishop for twenty-five years.



St. Paul of Tarsus, converted probably in the thirty-seventh year of the Christian era (feast January 25), came to see Peter at Jerusalem, ‡ and undertook his apostolic voyages in the year 44. Raised to the episcopate at Antioch with St. Barnabas (feast June 11), he travelled with him on his First Voyage over the island of Cyprus, of which his companion later became bishop, Pamphylia, Pisidia, and Lycaonia.§ On his return to Antioch, he goes about the year 51 to the Council of Jerusalem, which Peter presided over. While the Prince of the Apostles resided for the second time at Antioch, Paul commenced his Second Voyage, about the year 52. He goes to Syria and Lycaonia and, taking St. Timothy (feast January 24) as an assistant, he crosses Phrygia and Galatia. The foundation of the Church of Colossae dates from this period. At Troas he embarks with St. Luke (feast October 18), the author of the Acts of the Apostles,|| and goes in Macedonia to Philippi, to Thessalonica, to Athens and to Corinth. He then returns, by Ephesus and Caesarea, to Jerusalem for Easter of the year 54.

The Third Voyage of St. Paul takes him across Phrygia and Galatia, as far as Ephesus, where he writes his Epistle to the Galatians ¶ and his First Epistle to the Corinthians. He afterwards returns to Macedonia, where he writes his Second Epistle to the Corinthians,†† then to Greece. And after having been on the borders of the Adriatic Sea as far as Illyricum, he stays again at Corinth. There he wrote his Epistle to the Romans.‡‡ Then he returned to Jerusalem for the Feast of Pentecost in 58.

Arrested in the Temple, he was taken to Caesarea and after a captivity of two years, having made an appeal to Caesar, he embarked for Rome, which he reached about the year 61. He found there a Church perfectly organised by St. Peter, who was the first to preach the Gospel there. His trial lasted another two years, during which time he wrote his Epistles to the Philippians,§§ to the Ephesians |||| and to the Colossians.¶¶ Set free and intending to go to Jerusalem, as he had done formerly for the Romans, he sent before him a letter which is the Epistle to the Hebrews.

It was after the first captivity of St. Paul at Rome that the First Epistle of St. Peter ††† appears to have been written to the provinces evangelised

* The Epistles for the Second and Fifth Sundays after Pentecost are from St. Peter.
† The Gospels for the Sixth and Eleventh Sundays after Pentecost are from St. Mark ‡ Epistle for the Feast of the Commemoration of St. Paul.
§ Epistle for the Feast of St. Barnabas.
|| See map page 1006.
¶ The Gospels for the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 8th, 9th, 10th, 12th, 13th, 15th, 16th and 18th Sundays after Pentecost are from St. Luke.
 The Epistles for the 13th, 14th, and 15th Sundays after Pentecost.
†† The Epistles for the 9th, 10th, 11th and 18th Sundays after Pentecost.
‡‡ Epistle for the 12th Sunday after Pentecost.
§§ Epistles for the 22nd and 23rd Sundays after Pentecost.
|||| Epistles for the 16th, 17th, 19th, 20th and 21st Sundays after Pentecost.
¶¶ Epistle for the 24th Sunday after Pentecost.
 Epistle for the Saturday of Ember Week in September.
††† Epistles for the 3rd and 5th Sundays after Pentecost.

Map of the Voyages of St. Paul.

by the Apostle of the Gentiles, and where the Prince of the Apostles himself had probably preached the faith.

St. Paul then goes to Ephesus, to Macedonia, to the island of Crete, where he left St. Titus (feast February 6) as bishop. He wrote two epistles to him. Continuing his voyage, he goes to Greece. At Corinth he met St. Peter and returned with him to Rome. The Prince of the Apostles baptised SS. Nereus and Achilleus (feasts May 12), who were beheaded. Then he was arrested with St. Paul and thrown with him in the Mamertine prison on Mount Tarpeia, where they converted their gaolers SS. Processus and Martinian (feasts July 2), who died martyrs. The two Apostles suffered martyrdom about the year 67. The following year Jerusalem was besieged and in the year 70 it was captured and the Temple burnt down by Titus.†

The last scene of the Apostolate of St. Andrew was Achaia of Taurus, where he died a martyr. St. Thomas went to Persia and India, where he was put to death at Calamina. St. James the Less, brother of St. Jude and Bishop of Jerusalem, was stoned about the year 62 by the command of the High Priest Hanan II. Scythia fell to the share of St. Philip. He converted this nation, afterwards going to Hierapolis in Phrygia, where they crucified him and killed him with blows from stones. St. Bartholomew, says the Breviary, travelled over that part of India situated beyond the Ganges, the country assigned to him by lot. He then directed his steps towards Armenia, where, after having been skinned alive, he was beheaded.

A tradition assigns Ethiopia to the author of the First Gospel,‡ St. Matthew, who was killed there whilst celebrating the holy mysteries, and the East to St. Jude the brother of St. James the Less, who wrote a catholic epistle and who died a martyr at the same time as St. Simon the Canaanite.

St. John had fixed his residence at Ephesus, from where he governed the Churches of Asia Minor. It was there that he wrote his Gospel,§ and probably, as a sort of preface and introduction, his first Epistle.‖ Brought to Rome under Domitian, he was there plunged into boiling oil (feast May 6), then banished to Patmos. He died at Ephesus under Trajan, in the year 100 or 101.

(b) The Age of the Persecutions (First to Sixth Century).

These twenty-seven Popes died martyrs:—

1. * St. Peter (June 29), 33-67.
2. * St. Linus (September 23), 67-79.
3. * St. Cletus (April 26), 79-90 or Anacletus (July 13).
4. * St. Clement I. (November 23), 90-99.
5. St. Evaristus (October 26), 100-109.
6.  St. Alexander I. (May 3), 109-117.
8. St. Telesphorus (January 5), 127-138.
9. St. Hyginus (January 11), 138-142.
10. St. Pius I. (July 11), 142-150.
11. St. Anicetus (April 17), 150-161.
12. St. Soter (April 22), 161-171.
13. St. Eleutherius (May 26), 171-185.
14. St. Victor I. (July 28), 185-197.
15. St. Zephyrinus (August 26), 199-217.
16. St. Callistus I. (October 14), 217-223.
17. St. Urban I. (May 25), 223-230.
18. St. Pontian (November 19), 230-235.
20. St. Fabian (January 20), 236-250.
21. * St. Cornelius (September 16), 251-253.
22. St. Lucius I. (March 4), 253-254.
23. St. Stephen I. (August 2), 254-257.
24. * St. Sixtus II. (August 6), 257-258.
26. St. Felix I. (May 30), 269-274.
28. St. Caius (April 22), 283-296.
29. St. Marcellinus (April 26), 296-304.
30. St. Marcellus I. (January 16), 307-309.
32. St. Melchiades (December 10), 310-314.

† Gospel for the 9th Sunday after Pentecost.
‡ Gospel for the 5th, 7th, 14th, 17th, 18th, 19th, 21st, 22nd and 24th Sundays after Pentecost.
§ The Gospel for the 20th Sunday after Pentecost is from St. John.
‖ The Epistles for the 1st and 2nd Sundays after Pentecost are from the same Apostle.

With few exceptions, such as St. Mary Magdalen (July 22), St. Martha (July 29), St. Petronilla (May 31), the saints of the first four centuries found in the Roman Calendar died martyrs.

Under Claudius I. (41-54).

St. Prisca (January 18).

Under Nero (First persecution : 54-68).

St. Vitalis of Ravenna (April 28).—SS. Gervasius and Protasius (June 19).—SS. Nazarius and Celsus (July 28).—St. Thecla (September 23).

Under Vespasian (69-79).

St. Apollinaris, Bishop of Ravenna (July 23).

Under Domitian (Second persecution : 81-96).

St. Domitilla (May 12).—St. Nicomedes (September 15).

Under Trajan (Third persecution : 98-117).

 St. Ignatius, Bishop of Antioch (February 1).—St. Simeon, Bishop of Jerusalem (February 18).—St. Hermes (August 28).

Under Adrian (117-138).

SS. Faustinus and Jovita of Brescia (February 15).—St. Eventius and his Companions (May 3).—St. Sabina (August 29).—St. Eustachius, one of the "fourteen holy helpers," and his Companions (September 20).—St. Symphorosa and her seven Sons (July 18).

Under Antoninus (138-161).

St. Polycarp, Bishop of Smyrna (January 26).—St. Pudentiana (May 19) and her Sister.—St. Praxedes (July 21).—The Seven Brothers Martyrs (July 10) and their Mother St. Felicitas (November 23).

Under Marcus Aurelius (Fourth persecution : 161-180).

St. Justin (April 14).—St. Symphorian of Autun (August 22).

Under Septimius Severus (Fifth persecution : 193-211).

 SS. Perpetua and Felicitas of Carthage (March 6).

Under Alexander Severus (222-235).

St. Martina (January 30).—SS. Tiburtius, spouse of St. Cecilia, Valerian and Maximus (April 14).— St. Cecilia (November 22).—St. Hippolytus (August 22).—St. Barbara (December 4), who is in the list of the "fourteen holy helpers."

Under Decius (249-251).

 St. Agatha (February 5).—St. Apollonia (February 9).—St. Epimachus (May 10).—St. Venantius (May 18).—St. Christopher (July 25), one of the "fourteen holy helpers."—St. Denis, one of the "fourteen holy helpers," and his Companions (October 9).—SS. Tryphon and Respicius and St. Nympha (November 10).—St. Saturninus (November 29).

Under Valerian (Seventh persecution : 253-260).

SS. Rufina and Secunda (July 10).—St. Margaret (July 20), who is in the list of the "fourteen holy helpers."—SS. Abdon and Sennen (July 30).—St. Romanus (August 9).—* St. Lawrence (August 10).—St. Hippolytus (August 13).—SS. Protus and Hyacinthus (September 11).—* St. Cyprian September 16).

Under Aurelian (Ninth persecution : 270-275).

SS. Marius and his Companions (January 19).—St. Emerentiana (January 23).—St. Valentine (February 14).—St. George (April 23), one of the "fourteen holy helpers."—St. Pancras (May 12).—St. Boniface (May 14).—St. Agapetus (August 18).

Under Diocletian (Tenth persecution) and Maximilian (284-305).

St. Sebastian (January 20).— St. Agnes (January 21).—St. Vincent (January 22).—St. Dorothy (February 6).— SS. Marcellinus and Peter and St. Erasmus, one of the "fourteen holy helpers" (June 2).—SS. Primus and Felician (June 9).—SS. Basilides and his Companions (June 12).—St. Vitus or Guy, one of the "fourteen holy helpers" (June 15).—SS. Marcus and Marcellian (June 18).—SS. Nabor and Felix (July 12).—St. Christina (July 24).—St. Pantaleon, one of the "fourteen holy helpers" (July 27).—SS. Simplicius and his Companions (July 29).—St. Cyriacus, one of the "fourteen holy helpers," and his Companions (August 8).—SS. Tiburtius and Susanna (August 11).—SS. Felix and Adauctus (August 30).—St. Maurice and the Theban Legion (September 22).—SS. Cyprian and Justina (September 26).—* SS. Cosmas and Damian (September 27).—SS. Sergius and his Companions (October 7).—SS. Chrysanthus and Daria (October 25).—SS. Vitalis and Agricola (November 4).—The Four Crowned Martyrs (November 8).—St. Mennas (November 11).—* St. Chrysogonus (November 24).—St. Catharine of Alexandria, who is in the list of the "fourteen holy helpers" (November 25).— St: Lucy (December 13).— St. Anastasia (December 25).

Under Licinius and Maximinus II. (307-324).

St. Felix (January 14).—St. Blaise, one of the "fourteen holy helpers" (February 3).—The Forty Martyrs of Sebaste (March 10).—St. Timothy (August 13).—St. Cassian (August 13).—St. Timothy (August 22).—St. Peter of Alexandria (November 26).—St. Acathius, soldier (May 8), one of the "fourteen holy helpers."

St. Gregory Thaumaturgus (feast November 17) died in 276.

(c) The Middle Ages (Fourth to the Fifteenth Century).

Constantine (303-337), victorious over Maxentius, thanks to the Labarum, was converted to Catholicism, and was the instrument of which God made use to allow the Church after three centuries of bloody strife definitely to overthrow paganism.

He erected the ancient basilicas of the Saviour and of St. Peter at Rome, which were reconstructed and consecrated later.

The Feast of the Invention of the Holy Cross (May 3) reminds us each year of the piety of St. Helena, mother of Constantine, who in Palestine discovered the relics of the Passion. This feast was celebrated in the East on September 14, the date of the anniversary of the consecration of the basilica which Constantine erected on Calvary. This was in the West the origin of the Feast of the Exaltation of the Holy Cross (September 14).

Profiting by the era of peace, the Popes

33. St. Sylvester I. (Dec. 31), 314-335, and 34. St. Mark I. (Oct. 7), 336 applied themselves to the organisation of the Church. But soon the persecution was resumed and the Calendar enrolled several new martyrs.

Under Julian the Apostate (355-363).

St. Gordian (May 10).—* SS. John and Paul (June 26).—St. Bibiana (December 2).

Under Valentinian I. (364-375) and Valens (364-378).

37. St. Felix II., Pope (July 29) 355-366.

To find peace in such troubled times, a large number of Christians took refuge in the solitudes of Thebais. The most celebrated among them were St. Paul, the First Hermit († 342, feast January 15), and St. Anthony the Great († 356, feast January 17), who was the first lawgiver of the anchorites.

In the year 383 St. Ursula and her Companions (feast October 21) and in 406 St. Theodorus (feast November 9) were martyred. St. Juvenal (feast May 3) died in 377 and St. Alexius (feast July 17) about 417. St. Hilarion († 372, feast October 21) is the first holy confessor who was placed in the Catholic Calendar in the East and St. Martin († 397, feast November 11) the first in the West.

The Calendar also contains the names of the following Confessors Popes:

38. St. Damascus (December 11), 366-384.
41. St. Innocent I. (July 28), 401-417.
46. St. Leo the Great (April 11), 440-461.
54. St. John I. (May 27), 523-526.
59. St. Silverius (June 20), 536-538.
65. St. Gregory the Great (March 12), 590-604.
75. St. Martin I. (November 12), 649-655.
81. St. Leo II. (June 28), 682-683.

At the end of the fourth century begins the era of the Fathers of the Church, as we are reminded by the feasts of the four great Doctors of the East: St. Athanasius († 373, feast May 2), St. Basil the Great († 379, feast June 14), St. Gregory Nazianzen († 390, feast May 9) and St. John Chrysostom († 407, feast January 27), and of those of the West: St. Ambrose († 397, feast December 7), St. Augustine († 436, feast August 28), converted by his mother St. Monica († 387, feast May 4), St. Jerome († 420, feast September 30) and St. Gregory the Great, already mentioned. If to these we add the names of St. Nicholas († 424, feast December 6), of St. Hilary († 368, feast January 14), of St. Eusebius († 371, feast December 16), of St. Ephraem († 379, feast June 18), of St. Damase († 384, already mentioned), of St. Cyril of Jerusalem († 386, feast March 18), of St. Liborius († 397, feast July 23), of St. Paulinus († 431, feast June 22), of St. Cyril of Alexandria († 444, feast February 9), of St. Peter Chrysologus († 450, feast December 4), of the two Popes St. Leo I. and St. Leo II., already mentioned, of St. Isidore († 636, feast April 4), of St. Bede († 735, feast May 27) and of St. John Damascene, the last of the Fathers of the Eastern Church († 756, feast March 27), we have the chief champions who from the fourth to the eighth century defended Catholic doctrine.

The great solemnities of the year, the ordinations at the Ember seasons and the Stations of Lent which took place in the Roman Basilicas and in more than forty-three different sanctuaries, show us, from the fifth century, the Eternal City completely conquered by the Church.

At this period two feasts were instituted, the one to celebrate the Apparition of St. Michael in Italy (May 8), the other the Dedication of the Basilica of St. Michael (September 29), which was consecrated to him by St. Boniface IV. on the site of the Roman Circus.

In the year 415 the Invention or Finding of the Body of St. Stephen (feast August 3) was appointed.

In 431 the Third Council, at Ephesus, condemned Pelagius, who denied the necessity of grace, and defended against Nestorius the unity of person in Christ and the divine maternity of Mary which proceeds from it. The feast of the Dedication of St. Mary ad Nives (August 5) recalls this event.

The Calendar also gives us the names of bishops, of missionaries and of monks who at the end of the fifth century undertook the conversion of the barbarians whose hordes had invaded Europe.

St. Sabbas († 531, feast December 5) organised the monastic communities in Palestine. St. Remigius († 540, feast October 1) baptised Clovis on the Feast of Christmas 496, and made France the Eldest Daughter of the Church. St. Patrick († 464, feast March 17) converted Ireland and gained for it the title of Isle of Saints. St. Hermenegild († 586, feast April 13) caused Spain to embrace the faith of Christ. St. Giles or Egidius († sixth century, feast September 1) is one of the "fourteen holy helpers."

But is was St. Benedict especially († 543, feast March 21) who, in giving to the monastic life a rule full of wise moderation, during several centuries secured the hold of the Church over decadent Rome and the barbarian nations. Whilst St. Scholastica, his sister († 543, feast February 10), sanctified souls in the solitude of the cloister, the patriarch of the monks of the West sent to France his disciple St. Maurus († 584, feast January 15). St. Placidus († 541, feast October 5) was also one of his chosen disciples. The first Benedictine Pope St. Gregory the Great sent St. Augustine of Canterbury († 604, feast May 28) to preach the Gospel in Great Britain, which in a short time also deserved to be called an Island of Saints.

The Greater Litanies, April 25, since St. Gregory bear witness to the confidence of the Church to avert public calamities by prayer and penance.

In the Pantheon of Agrippa Rome had assembled together all the gods of paganism; this temple, cleared of its idols, was on May 13, 640, dedicated by Pope Boniface IV. to Mary and the Martyrs, and later to all the Saints. St. Gregory VII. transferred this feast to November 1, so that, having become the anniversary of this dedication, the Feast of All Saints marks for ever the triumph of Christ over false gods.

In the year 628 St. Anastasius (feast January 22) was put to death by order of King Chosroes.

On June 5 the Church celebrates the feast of St. Boniface († 754), a Benedictine of the Anglo-Saxon race, who anointed King Pepin and converted Germany.

In consequence of public calamities, St. Mamertus in the fifth century established the Rogation Days, and Leo III. in 816 adopted them at Rome. It was this pontiff who crowned Charlemagne during the solemnities of Christmas in the year 800. "A defender of the Holy Church and in every way a helper of the Apostolic See" and of Christendom, of which the Pope was the head and he the arm, this Emperor spread everywhere the Roman liturgy and the Gregorian chant.

The feast of SS. Cyril and Methodius (July 7) calls to mind the conversion of Bohemia and Poland, which they brought within the pale of the Church in 870. St. Wenceslas († 938, feast September 28) is the patron saint of these two countries and of Hungary.

In France the foundation of the celebrated Benedictine monastery of Cluny (910) marks an important date in the history of the Church, for this abbey became a nursery of apostolic men. One of the first Abbots of this monastery, St. Odilo, caused to be celebrated on November 2, 998, the Commemoration of the Dead, which was soon extended to the whole Church.

In the eleventh century the religious enthusiasm is kindled and kept aflame by a pleiad of saints. We will mention, again in the Order of St. Benedict, two founders, St. John Gualbert († 1073, feast July 12) and St. Romuald († 1027, feast February 7), who founded the Camaldoli, of whom St. Peter Damian († 1072, feast February 23) was one of the most illustrious members. On the throne shine the virtues of St. Henry († 1024, feast July 15), head of the Holy Roman Empire, of St. Stephen of Hungary († 1038, feast September 2), honoured by the Holy See with the title of Apostolic King, of St. Edward († 1066, feast October 13), King of England, of St. Canute the Great († 1086, feast January 19), King of Denmark, who destroyed amongst his people the last remnants of idolatry, and of St. Margaret († 1093, feast June 10), Queen and patroness of the Scotch.

We may mention also in Poland at this period the bishop St. Stanislas († 1079, feast May 7).

At the end of this same century the Church passed through a very grave crisis. In the East the forces of Mohammedanism became more threatening; in the West the struggle between the spiritual and temporal powers was carried on with the greatest harshness. Simony and slackness were prevalent among the clergy and Berengarius started his controversies on the Eucharist.

At that time in 1073 God raised up the glorious Benedictine monk of Cluny, Hildebrand, who became Pope and bore the name of 156. St. Gregory VII. (May 25), 1073-1085.

This illustrious prelate re-established the law of celibacy, abolished investitures and opposed royal usurpations by excommunicating and deposing Henry IV., Emperor of Germany.

Another son of St. Benedict, St. Anselm of Canterbury († 1109, feast April 21), carried on the same struggle in England, as it was carried on a century later by St. Thomas of Canterbury († 1171, feast December 29).

Then appeared St. Bruno († 1101, feast October 6), founder of the Carthusian Order, St. Norbert († 1134, feast June 6), founder of the Premonstratensian Order, and St. Robert († 1098), founder of the Cistercian Order, which is to observe in all its rigour the rule of St. Benedict. The greatest glory of this Order was St. Bernard († 1153, feast August 20), who preached the second crusade. St. William († 1142, feast June 25) also founded a monastery under the influence of the Benedictine rule. In 1160 St. Ubaldus (feast May 16) died, celebrated for his power over evil spirits.

In the thirteenth century, which was one of the most glorious for the Church, two new Orders came into being, specially devoted to the ransom and deliverance of Christian captives—

The Order of Our Lady of Mercy (feast September 24), founded by St. Peter Nolasco († 1256, feast January 31). St. Raymond Nonnatus († 1240, feast August 31) was one of the glories of this Order.

The Order of the Trinitarians, founded a little earlier by St. John of Matha († 1213, feast February 8) and by St. Felix of Valois († 1212, feast November 20). More than a million captives were rescued by the religious of these two orders from Mussulman slavery.

On the other hand, in order to oppose the disorders of the Albigenses who infested Central France, Providence sent St. Dominic († 1221, feast August 4), who founded the Order of the Friars Preachers, made illustrious in turn by St. Peter of Verona († 1252, feast April 29), by St. Hyacinth († 1257, feast August 17), by St. Thomas Aquinas († 1274, feast March 8) and by St. Raymond of Pennafort († 1275, feast January 23).

" In order to enkindle in our hearts the fire of Thy love when the world was growing cold," says the liturgy,* God raised up at the same time as St. Dominic the seraphic St. Francis of Assisi († 1226, feast October 4), founder of the Order of Friars Minor. We celebrate also the Imprinting of the Holy Stigmata (September 17) with which he was favoured. St. Anthony of Padua († 1231, feast June 13) and St. Bonaventure († 1274, feast July 14) are two of his most illustrious sons. On August 12 the Church celebrates St. Clara († 1253), the fellow-worker of St. Francis in the foundation of the Second Order or the Poor Clares. At this period were instituted the Tertiaries or Third Order.

It was also in the thirteenth century that the Carmelite Order was established in Europe, as is recalled by the Solemn Commemoration of the Blessed Virgin Mary of Mount Carmel (celebrated July 16). At this period also the Servite Order was instituted by the Seven Founders (feast February 12). One of the first generals of the Servites was St. Philip Benizi († 1285, feast August 23).

Two branches were grafted on to the Benedictine Order at this period, that of the Sylvestrine Monks, instituted by St. Sylvester († 1267, feast November 26), and that of the Celestines, founded by St. Peter Celestine, who was Pope for some months under the name of 191. St. Celestine V. (May 19, 1294).

St. Elizabeth gives lustre to the throne of Hungary († 1231, feast November 19), St. Hedwig to that of Poland († 1243, feast October 17), and in France reigned the greatest Christian king in history, St. Louis IX. († 1270, feast August 25).

The Feast of Corpus Christi, asked for by our Lord of the blessed Juliana in 1208 and extended to the whole world by Urban IV. in 1246, recalls also the most powerful means chosen by God for restoring to the Church her zeal and the memory of the Twelfth Oecumenical Lateran Council, where was defined, making use of the word transubstantiation, the dogma of the real presence of Jesus in the Eucharist, a dogma which had always been an essential part of the teaching of the Church. It was this same Council which prescribed annual confession and Easter communion.

The Nativity of the Blessed Virgin Mary (September 8) was honoured with an octave by Pope Innocent IV. during the Thirteenth Oecumenical Council of Lyons, held in 1245.

In the fourteenth century the ancient Augustinian Order gave to the Church St. Nicholas of Tolentino († 1310, feast September 10) and St. Bridget of Sweden († 1373, feast October 8); that of the Benedictines, St. Gertrude the Great († 1334, feast November 15), who was celebrated by her revelations concerning the Sacred Heart; that of the Carmelites, St. Andrew Corsini († 1373, feast February 4); that of St. Francis, St. Elizabeth, Queen of Portugal († 1336, feast July 8); that of the Servites, * Collect for the Feast of the Imprinting of the Holy Stigmata on St. Francis' September 17.

St. Juliana Falconieri († 1341, feast June 19), founder of the Mantellatae; and that of St. Dominic, St. Catherine of Siena († 1380, feast April 30), who persuaded Gregory XI. to return to Rome. During seventy years, which have been compared to the seventy years of the Captivity of the Jews in Babylon, the Popes had resided at Avignon to escape from the perils that threatened them in the Eternal City. It was there that John XXII. extended, in 1334, to the universal Church the Feast of the Holy Trinity (First Sunday after Pentecost) and that Gregory XI. instituted the year before his departure the feast of the Presentation of the Blessed Virgin Mary (November 21), which was already celebrated in the East.

His successor Urban VI. in 1389 established for the whole world the feast of the Visitation of the Blessed Virgin Mary (July 2) in order to obtain the cessation of the great schism which, by the opposition of two popes, had for forty years desolated the West.

In the fifteenth century God sent to France St. Joan of Arc († 1431, feast May 30); to Spain St. Vincent Ferrier, of the Order of St. Dominic († 1419, feast April 5), St. John of St. Facundo, of the Order of St. Augustine († 1470, feast June 12), and St. Didacus, of the Order of St. Francis († 1463, feast November 13); to Italy, St. Frances of Rome, foundress of the Oblates of St. Benedict († 1440, feast March 9), St. Antoninus, Dominican, Archbishop of Florence († 1459, feast May 10), St. Bernardin of Siena, Franciscan († 1444, feast May 20), and St. Laurence Justinian I., Patriarch of Venice († 1455, feast September 5); and to Poland, St. John Cantius († 1473, feast October 20) and St. Casimir († 1483, feast March 4).

The capture of Constantinople by Mahomet II., in 1453, brought about the downfall of the Empire of the East, which had existed ever since Constantine, a just punishment for its secession from the Church of Rome.

But to protect Europe from the invading flood, the Popes brought forward heroes. St. John Capistrano, an Italian Franciscan († 1456, feast March 28), preached a crusade and under the walls of Belgrade the Turks were victoriously driven back by John Hunyady. In commemoration of this great event Callistus III. extended the Feast of the Transfiguration (August 6) to the universal Church.

At this time Christopher Columbus discovered the New World and Vasco da Gama the East Indies, which are to compensate the Church for the losses she will suffer in the sixteenth century in Europe.

(d) Modern Times (Sixteenth to Twentieth Century).

The sixteenth century marked a sad period for the Church. A revival of Paganism, Protestantism, and shortly after Jansenism ravaged it from within, whilst without Islamism every day became more menacing.

It seemed as though Satan were unchained; he seduced the nations in the four quarters of the earth, he assembled them for battle and they surrounded the camp of the Saints and the Holy City.* They will go later so far as to despoil the successor of Peter of his patrimony.

To oppose a barrier to the barbarian invasion, Providence had raised up, at the dawn of the Middle Ages, Benedict and his peaceful Order. To fight the spiritual barbarians who advanced as an army of evil, God caused to arise, at the dawn of modern times, in the middle of a pleiad

* Apocalypse xx. 7.

of other Saints, Ignatius Loyola († 1556, feast July 31), the first General of the Society of Jesus, this new chivalry of Christ approved by the Bull "The Government of the Church Militant," whose glorious soldiers were, at this time, St. Francis Borgia († 1572, feast October 10), St. Francis Xavier, first apostle of India († 1552, feast December 3) and St. Aloysius Gonzaga, the model of Christian youth († 1591, feast June 21).

In 1507 St. Francis of Paula (feast April 2), founder of the Order of Minims, died.

At that time a son of St. Dominic ascended the pontifical throne, 226. St. Pius V. († 1572, May 5), 1566-1572.

He instituted in 1571 the feast of our Lady of Victories, which two years later became the feast of the Holy Rosary of the Blessed Virgin Mary (October 7), in commemoration of the naval victory of Lepanto gained over the Turks.

With the assistance of St. John of the Cross, a Discalced Carmelite († 1591, feast November 24), the seraphic St. Theresa († 1582, feast October 15) re-established the primitive observance in the ancient Order of Mount Carmel. St. Peter Alcantara, the illustrious reformer of the Friars Minor († 1562, feast October 19), guided her in this noble enterprise. St. Paschal Baylon, the patron of eucharistic works († 1592, feast May 17), was, like him, a son of St. Francis.

St. Jerome Aemilian († 1537, feast July 20) founded the Congregation of Somascha for the education of boys and St. Angela of Merici († 1540, feast May 31) that of the Ursulines for the education of girls. St. Cajetan († 1547, feast August 7) founded the Theatines; St. Antony Mary Zaccaria († 1539, feast July 5) founded another institution of the same kind.

St. Charles Borromeo († 1584, feast November 4) reformed the clergy; St. Philip Neri († 1595, feast May 26) founded the Congregation of the Oratory; St. Thomas of Villanova, an Augustinian monk († 1555, feast September 18), became celebrated by his charity to the poor, and St. John of God († 1550, feast March 8) established the Order of Brothers Hospitallers.

In 1584 Gregory XIII. extended the feast of St. Anne (July 26) to the whole Church. It was this Pope who in 1582 promulgated the reform of the Calendar, which has remained famous as the Reformed Gregorian Calendar, and which restored to their true dates our Christian anniversaries.

In 1585 Sixtus V. extended to the whole Church the feast of the Presentation of the Blessed Virgin Mary (November 21), which had long been celebrated on this day in the East.

It was in the sixteenth century also that Julius II. and Leo X. built over the tomb of St. Peter the vast basilica of the Vatican, one of the wonders of the world. In the year 1600 the indulgences of the Jubilee attracted to it three million pilgrims. Urban VIII. consecrated it in 1626, and we are reminded of it by the anniversary of the Dedication of the Basilica of St. Peter (November 18).

In 1608 Paul V. extended to the universal Church the feast of the Holy Guardian Angels (October 2) and in 1621 Gregory XV. that of St. Joseph, to which the date of March 19 had been assigned at the end of the fifteenth century.

The feast of the Most Holy Name of Mary (September 12), approved by Rome in 1513, was extended in 1683 to the whole Church by Innocent XI., in thanksgiving to the Blessed Virgin for the victory of John Sobieski over the Turks who had besieged Vienna.

It was the same Pope who in 1688 approved the feast of the Seven Dolours of the Blessed Virgin Mary, which was extended by Benedict XIII. in 1727 to the universal Church, and assigned by Pius X. to September 15, Octave of the Nativity.

In the seventeenth century new religious orders made their appearance which applied themselves in a marvellous manner to preaching, to education and to works of charity.

St. Francis of Sales († 1622, feast January 29) instituted, jointly with St. Jane Frances de Chantal († 1641, feast August 21) the Order of the Visitation.

St. Vincent of Paul († 1660, feast July 19) founded the Congregation of the Fathers of the Mission and, with the co-operation of Louise Marillac (beatified in May 1920), that of the Daughters of Charity.

St. Camillus of Lellis († 1614, feast July 18) founded a Congregation of Regular Clerks for attending the sick.

St. Francis Caracciolo († 1608, feast June 4) founded the Order of Regular Clerks Minor, and St. Joseph Calasanctius († 1648, feast August 27) that of the Regular Clerks of the Poor Schools.

St. Mary Magdalen of Pazzi († 1607, feast May 29) was one of the glories of the Carmelite Order at this time, as were also, for the Order of St. Francis, St. Fidelis of Sigmaringen († 1627, feast April 24) and St. Joseph of Cupertino († 1663, feast September 18), and for the Theatine Order St. Andrew Avellino († 1608, feast November 10).

St. Rose of Lima († 1617, feast August 30) was the first flower of holiness produced in the new world.

In 1623 St. Josaphat, Archbishop of Poloco (feast November 12), who sought to bring back heretics and schismatics to union with Rome, was put to death.

We further note the vow of Louis XIII., in 1638, who instituted a solemn procession for the day of the Assumption, thus connecting this great feast of Mary with the national history of France.

St. John Baptist de la Salle († 1719, feast May 15) founded the useful and prosperous institution known as the Brothers of the Christian Schools.

In 1716 the feast of Our Lady of the Rosary (October 7) was extended by Clement XI. to the whole Church, in commemoration of another defeat of the Turks by Charles VI. at Peterwardein.

In 1721 Innocent XIII. granted the extension of the feast of the Most Holy Name of Jesus (January 2) to the whole world.

In 1726 Benedict XIII. consecrated the Basilica of St. John Lateran which had been rebuilt, and each year the anniversary of this event was celebrated by the feast of the Dedication of the Archbasilica of St. Saviour (November 9). The same Pope in the following year extended to the whole Church the feast of the Seven Dolours of the Blessed Virgin Mary, which is celebrated on the Friday in Passion Week.

St. Alphonsus Liguori († 1787, feast August 2) established the Congregation of the Most Holy Redeemer. His writings contributed much to repair the evils caused by the rigorism of the Jansenists.

St. Paul of the Cross († 1775, feast April 28) founded the Institution of the Passionists.

The practice of the Forty Hours, which was started in the sixteenth century, was introduced into the universal Church by Clement XIII. in 1765. It is a reparative devotion and a protest against the rationalism which had already commenced to produce much mischief.

At the end of this century of unbelief the revolutionary storm burst, and the following century is one of a spirit of almost general revolt against all authority.

In 1817, to recall the sufferings that Pius VII., exiled and a prisoner, had endured and the protection of the Blessed Virgin who had delivered him so unexpectedly, Pius VIII. extended to the whole Church the Feast of the Seven Dolours of Mary (September 15), which had already been observed by the Servites in the seventeenth century.

In 1849 Pius IX. instituted the feast of the Most Precious Blood of our Lord (July 1), to show that the victory of the French Army over the revolution which had driven the Pope from Rome was due to the merits of the Saviour. This triumph having been achieved on July 2, Pius IX. raised the feast of the Visitation of the Blessed Virgin Mary to the rank of a double of the Second Class.

In 1847 this Pope extended to the whole Church the feast of the Patronage of St. Joseph (Wednesday of the second week after the Octave of Easter), and in 1870 he proclaimed this holy patriarch as the protector of the Universal Church.

In 1854 Pius IX. proclaimed the dogma of the Immaculate Conception of Mary of which the feast (December 8) had already been granted to the whole Church by Clement X. in 1708. Leo XIII. extended the vigil of this feast to the whole world in 1879.

But the yet more marvellous means that God employed to confound at the same time the perfidious Jansenist heresy and the impious and immoral rationalism was the worship of the Sacred Heart, the feast of which (Friday after the Octave of Corpus Christi), approved in 1765 by Clement XIII., was raised in 1889 to first class rank.

In 1854 Pius IX. consecrated the Basilica of St. Paul without the Walls, burnt in 1823, and instituted on this occasion the feast of the Dedication of the Basilica of St. Paul (November 18).

The Feast of Relics (November) was instituted in the nineteenth century.

In 1888 Leo XIII., touched by the sorrowful trials through which the Church was passing, composed a Mass and a new Office in honour of Our Lady of the Rosary (October 7) and raised this feast to the rank of a double of the second class. The same Pope, in 1879, raised to the same rank of double of the second class the feast of St. Joachim, his patron (August 16), and that of St. Anne (July 26).

In 1890 he instituted the feast of Our Lady of Lourdes (February 11), which Pius X. extended in 1907 to the universal Church.

This last Pope raised to the rank of double of the second class the feast of the Seven Dolours of our Lady (September 15) and transformed the Calendar of Christian Feasts with a view to restoring to the Christological Cycle its preponderance over the Sanctoral Cycle, thereby restoring all things in Christ.

Benedict XV. instituted the universal devotion to St. Ephraem (June 18) and gave him the title of Doctor; he prescribed the new Preface of St. Joseph and that of the Dead, and canonised Joan of Arc, already mentioned, St. Margaret Mary Alacoque (feast October 17) and St. Gabriel of our Lady of Sorrows (feast February 27).

3. Season after Whitsuntide from a Liturgical Point of View.

During the first half of the ecclesiastical year (Advent to Whitsuntide) the Church has reconstituted the whole life of Christ; during the second half (Trinity to Advent) she retraces the life of the Church, striving to reproduce in her Saints the virtues of the Master. That is why the Sundays which follow Pentecost were formerly grouped around some of the more important Saints. There were the Weeks after the feast of St. Peter or the Apostles, the Weeks after St. Lawrence, the Weeks of the Seventh Month (September) and the Weeks after St. Michael. To mark the action of the Holy Ghost in our souls after Pentecost, to these Sundays was restored later on the older and more logical denomination of Sundays after Whitsuntide, which thus joins them to the Easter Cycle.

This second part of the year, without again subordinating the liturgy to the chronological order of the first, recalls it none the less faithfully, for it goes deeper into the teachings of the Lord, taking for its guidance the needs of our intelligence and of our hearts. Indeed, in this liturgy the Epistles of St. Paul, as well as the Gospels of St. Matthew, St. Mark and St. Luke, were formerly read in their order.* Some traces of this arrangement are still found.

The gospel of the fourth Sunday having been transferred to the first Sunday after Pentecost caused a transfer of all the gospels, so that that of the fifth Sunday passed to the fourth, that of the sixth to the fifth, and so on to the twenty-third.

A certain logical plan nevertheless exists in the teaching that is given to us in the Sunday Masses for the Season after Whitsuntide,

The first of all dogmas is that of the Holy Trinity, and it is the dogma that the Holy Ghost first reminds the Church of, for it is in baptising in the Name of the Father, of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost that she should teach all nations. The first Sunday after Pentecost coincides therefore with the Feast of the Blessed Trinity.

The second dogma is that of the Incarnation, of which we shall be reminded to the end of time by the presence of Jesus in the Eucharist. And the second solemnity is that of the Blessed Sacrament.

The third dogma is that of the Church, of which the Holy Ghost is the soul; therefore all the following Sundays contain allusions to the Holy Ghost and to the grace that He produces in souls to make them spouses of Christ.

All this series of Sundays being designed to represent all the centuries that the Church has to go through, they may be considered as alluding to the different ages of the world. Thus the last Sundays point clearly to the return of the Jews and to the great ordeals which are to mark the end of time.

The Introits, Offertories and Communions are taken in the same way, following the Psalter till the seventeenth Sunday after Pentecost.

As the Season after Whitsuntide is specially consecrated to the Church, between the different Sundays set aside to preserve for the Christological Cycle all the pre-eminence due to it comes a succession of great feasts in honour of the Saints whom the Spirit of Jesus has produced. They are therefore a living commentary of the Master's word and they put into practice during the week that which the Holy

* See "Season after Whitsuntide from a Doctrinal Point of View," p. 1002, note §.

Ghost has taught us on the Sunday. The Sanctoral Cycle thus attains its full development during the Season after Whitsuntide, while full consideration is given to the Temporal Cycle on which the former cycle depends. So we celebrate the feast of the birth of Mary on earth (September 8) and in heaven (August 15), the feast of St. Michael (September 29) and of the Angels (October 2), the double Nativity of St. John the Baptist on earth (August 29) and in heaven on the day of his martyrdom (June 24), the feast of the Holy Apostles Peter and Paul (June 29 and 30), the Feast of All Saints, All Souls' Day and the anniversary of the Dedication of the principal churches, which prefigure the assembly of the souls that will one day form the heavenly Jerusalem.

To express this hope, the Priest wears on all these Sundays vestments of symbolical green. This colour, the sign of life in vegetation, used to be assigned to Angels, who were represented with green halos or robes because, according to the expression of St. Dyonysius the Areopagite, "it has something juvenile and verdant." Green expresses then the working of the life of grace in our souls: indeed the ancients very often painted the Virgin or the Saints with green robes; and on funeral monuments they would draw a green sprig as a symbol of the immortality of the soul and of the resurrection which are a climax of the Season after Whitsuntide.*

Let us notice also that the Feast of Easter is mobile, as we remarked at the Season of Septuagesima (p. 486), and may, according to the year, be celebrated from March 22 to April 25. When it comes early, the Sundays which precede it (from Septuagesima to Palm Sunday) overlap the Sundays after the Epiphany, which may thus be reduced to two. As, on the other hand, the Sundays after Pentecost, which also depend on the date of Easter, come earlier, a void is produced between the twenty-third Sunday and the twenty-fourth, which is always the last; this void is filled up by the Sundays after the Epiphany (the Sixth, Fifth, Fourth and even sometimes the Third after the Epiphany) which have not been celebrated. There may be in the year therefore, according to the date of Easter, from twenty-three to twenty-eight Sundays after Pentecost.

* Golden cloth may be substituted for white, red and green vestments (Decree of November 20, 1885).

PATER · FILIUS ·
SPIRITUS SANCTUS

Feast of the Most Holy Trinity.*

Double of the First Class.—White vestments.

The Holy Ghost, Whose reign commences with the feast of Pentecost, comes to repeat to our souls, during the second part of the year (from Trinity to Advent—six months) what Jesus taught us Himself in the first part (from Advent to Trinity—six months).

The fundamental dogma to which everything in Christianity is related is that of the Holy Trinity, of Whom are all things (Epistle) and to Whom are to return all those who are baptised in Its name (Gospel). Therefore after having reminded us in turn during the Cycle of God the Father, Author of the Creation, of God the Son, Author of the Redemption, and of God the Holy Ghost, Author of our Sanctification, the Church chiefly recapitulates on this day the great mystery which calls on us to recognise and adore in God the unity of nature in the Trinity of persons (Collect).

"As soon as we have celebrated the advent of the Holy Ghost, we celebrate in song the feast of the Holy Trinity in the office of the following Sunday," says St. Rupert in the twelfth century, "and the place is well chosen, for, immediately after the descent of this Divine Spirit, began the preaching and belief, and, through baptism, faith and confession in the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost."

The dogma of the Holy Trinity is everywhere affirmed in the liturgy. It is in the name of the Father, of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, that the Mass and the divine office begin and end, and that the Sacraments are conferred. All Psalms end with the Gloria Patri, all hymns with the Doxology, and the Collect with a conclusion in honour of the three Divine Persons. Twice in the Mass we are reminded that it is to the Holy Trinity that the Holy Sacrifice is offered.

The dogma of the Trinity is brightly manifested in our churches. Our forefathers delighted in seeing it symbolised in the admirably proportioned height, width and length of these edifices; in their principal and secondary divisions: the Sanctuary, the Choir and the nave; the upper galleries, the triforium and the clerestory; the three entrances, the three doors, the three bays, the three gables and often the three towers. Everywhere, even in ornamental details, the number of three constantly repeated shows a definite plan, a thought of faith in the Holy Trinity.

Christian iconography also expresses this thought in various ways. Up to the twelfth century God the Father is represented by a hand coming out of a cloud and in the act of blessing. It is often surrounded by a cruciform nimbus. This hand represents the divine omnipotence. In the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries one sees the face, then the bust of the Father. From the fifteenth century the Father is represented by an old man in Papal garb.

Up to the twelfth century God the Son was first represented by a cross, by a lamb or by a graceful youth, as the pagans represented Apollo. From the eleventh to the sixteenth century Christ is shown in full manhood and with a beard. From the thirteenth century He bears His cross. He is also often represented as the Lamb.

* See "Season after Whitsuntide from a Historical Point of View," p. 1014.

The Holy Ghost was at first symbolised by a dove whose outspread wings touch the mouths of the Father and of the Son, to show that He proceeds from Them both. From the eleventh century He is sometimes represented as a babe, for the same reason. In the thirteenth century He is a youth, in the fifteenth a full-grown man like the Father and the Son, but with a dove above Him or in His hand, to distinguish Him from the other Persons. From the sixteenth century onwards the dove recovers the exclusive privilege by which she had primitively represented the Holy Ghost.

For the Holy Trinity was borrowed from geometry the triangle which, with its three angles, images the three Persons in God. The trefoil also symbolised the mystery of the Trinity; likewise three circles interlaced, with the word Unity inscribed in the central space left free by the intersection of the circles.

Sometimes the Holy Trinity was represented by a head with three faces on one body; but in 1628 Pope Urban VIII. forbade this monstrous representation.

A miniature of this period shows the Father and the Son nearly alike. The same halo, the same tiara, the same head of hair, one single mantle bringing Them close together; they are united by the same book of Divine Wisdom which both hold, as well as by the Spirit, the ends of Whose wings bind Them together. But the Father is older than the Son, Who has a rounded beard, whilst that of the Father is forked. The Father wears a robe without a girdle and bears the terrestrial globe. The Son wears an alb with a girdle and stole, for He is a priest.

The Feast of the Holy Trinity owes its origin to the fact that the ordinations of the Saturday during Ember Days, taking place in the evening, were continued until the Sunday morning, which had at that date no liturgy proper.

As this day is consecrated throughout the year to the Most Holy Trinity, the votive Mass, composed in the seventh century in honour of this mystery, was celebrated on the first Sunday after Pentecost. And thus occupying a fixed place in the Liturgical Calendar, this Mass was considered as constituting a special feast of the Holy Trinity and was extended in 1334 to the universal Church by Pope John XXI.

In order always to be armed against all adversity (Collect) let us make to-day with the liturgy a solemn profession of faith in the holy and eternal Trinity and in its undivided Unity (Introit).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

The Most Holy Trinity supported by the Thrones.

MASS: BENEDICTA SIT.

Introit: Tobias xii. 6.

BENEDICTA sit sancta Trinitas, atque indivisa únitas: confitébimur ei, quia fecit nobíscum misericórdiam suam. Ps. Dómine Dóminus noster, quam admirábile est nomen tuum in univérsa terra!

℣. Glória Patri.

BLESSED be the holy Trinity, and undivided unity: we will give glory to Him, because He hath shown His mercy to us. Ps. viii. 2. O Lord our Lord, how wonderful is Thy name in all the earth!

℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collect.

Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, qui dedísti fámulis tuis in confessióne verae fídei, aetérnae Trinitátis glóriam agnóscere, et in poténtia majestátis adoráre unitátem: quaesumus; ut éjusdem fidéi firmitáte, ab ómnibus semper muniámur advérsis. Per Dóminum.

O Almighty and eternal God, Who hast granted Thy servants to acknowledge the glory of the eternal Trinity in the confession of the true faith, and to adore the unity in the power of Thy majesty; we beseech Thee that, by firmness in the same faith, we may be ever protected from all adversities. Through our Lord.

The First Sunday after Pentecost is then commemorated:—

Collect.

Deus, in te sperántium fortitúdo, adésto propítius invocatiónibus nostris: et quia sine te nihil potest mortális infírmitas, praesta auxílium grátiae tuae: ut in exsequéndis mandátis tuis, et voluntáte tibi et actióne placeámus. Per Dóminum.

O God, the strength of them that hope in Thee, favourably give ear to our supplications; and since without Thee mortal infirmity can do nothing, grant the help of Thy grace that, in fulfilling Thy commandments, we may please Thee both in will and action. Through our Lord.

Epistle: Rom. xi. 33, 36.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Romános.—O ALTITUDO divitiárum sapiéntiae et sciéntiae Dei: quam incomprehensibília sunt judícia ejus, et investigábiles viae ejus! Quis enim cognóvit sensum Dómini? Aut quis consiliárius ejus fuit? Aut quis prior dedit

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Romans.—O THE depth of the riches of the wisdom and of the knowledge of God! How incomprehensible are His judgments, and how unsearchable His ways! For who hath known the mind of the Lord? Or who hath been His counsellor? Or who hath first given to Him, and recompense shall be made him? For of Him, and by Him, and in Him, are all things: to Him be glory for ever. Amen.

illi, et tribuétur ei? Quóniam ex ipso, et per ipsum, et in ipso sunt ómnia: ipsi glória, in saecula. Amen.

Gradual: Dan. iii. 55, 56.

Blessed art Thou, O Lord, that beholdest the depths and sittest upon the Cherubims. ℣. Blessed art Thou, O Lord, in the firmament of heaven, and worthy of praise for ever.

Benedictus es, Dómine, qui intuéris abyssos, et sedes super Chérubim. ℣. Benedictus es, Dómine, in firmaménto coeli, et laudábilis in saecula.

Alleluia, alleluia: Dan. iii. 52.

℣. Blessed art Thou, O Lord the God of our fathers, and worthy to be praised for ever.—Alleluia.

℣. Benedictus es, Dómine, Deus patrum nostrórum: et laudábilis in saecula.—Allélúia.

Gospel: Matt. xxviii. 18-20.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew.—At that time Jesus said to His disciples: All power is given to Me in heaven and in earth. Going therefore, teach ye all nations, baptising them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost. Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and behold I am with you all days, even to the consummation of the world.—Creed.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Data est mihi omnis potéstas in coelo et in terra. Eúntes ergo docéte omnes gentes, baptizántes eos in nómine Patris, et Filii, et Spiritus Sancti: docéntes eos serváre ómnia quaecúmque mandávi vobis. Et ecce ego vobíscum sum ómnibus diébus, usque ad consummatiónem saeculi.—Credo.

Offertory: Tobias xii. 6.

Blessed be God the Father, and the only-begotten Son of God, and also the Holy Spirit; because He hath shown His mercy to us.

Benedíctus sit Deus Pater, unigenitúsque Dei Filius, Sanctus quoque Spiritus: quia fecit nobíscum misericórdiam suam.

Secret.

Sanctify, we beseech Thee, O Lord our God, by the invocation

Sanctífica, quaesumus, Dómine Deus noster, per tui sancti nóminis invocatiónem, hujus oblatiónis hóstiam : et per eam nosmetípsos tibi pérfice munus aetérnum. Per Dóminum.

of Thy holy name, the victim of this oblation : and through the same, perfect us to Thee an eternal sacrifice. Through our Lord.

Secret of the Sunday.

Hóstias nostras, quaesumus, Dómine, tibi dicátas placátus ássume : et ad perpétuum nobis tríbue provenire subsídium. Per Dóminum.

We beseech Thee, O Lord, to receive favourably our offerings devoted to Thee, and grant them to prove to us a perpetual succour. Through our Lord.

Preface of the Holy Trinity, p. 55.

Communion : Tobías xii. 6.

Benedícimus Deum coeli, et coram ómnibus vivéntibus confitébimur ei : quia fecit nobíscum misericórdiam suam.

We bless the God of heaven, and before all living we will praise Him ; because He has shown His mercy to us.

Postcommunion.

Profíciat nobis ad salútem córporis et ánimae, Dómine Deus noster, hujus sacraménti suscéptio : et sempitérnae sanctae Trinitátis, ejusdémque indivíduae unitatis conféssio. Per Dóminum.

May the reception of this sacrament, O Lord our God, and the confession of the holy and eternal Trinity, and its undivided unity, profit us to the salvation of body and soul. Through our Lord.

Postcommunion of the Sunday.

Tantis, Dómine, repléti munéribus : praesta, quaesumus ; ut et salutária dona capiámus, et a tua numquam laude cessémus. Per Dóminum.

Grant, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that filled with so great gifts, we may both receive Thy salutary benefits, and never cease from Thy praise. Through our Lord.

At the end of Mass, the Gospel of the Sunday is read, p. 1029.

SECOND VESPERS

The Psalms as on Sundays, pp. 98 to 103

Ant. 1. Glória * tibi Trínitas aequális, una Déitas, et ante ómnia saecula, et nunc et in perpétuum.

First Antiphon. Glory be to Thee, equal Trinity, one Godhead, both before all time, and now and for ever.

Ant. 2. Praise and everlasting glory to God the Father, and the Son, together with the Holy Ghost, for ever.

2. Laus et perénnis glória * Deo Patri, et Filio, sancto simul Paráclito, in saeculórum saecula.

Ant. 3. Let praise-giving resound in all men's mouths to the Father and the begotten Son: to the Holy Ghost also let like equal praise sound forth.

3. Glória laudis * résonet in ore ómnium, Patri genitaeque Proli, Spirítui sancto páriter resúltet laude perénni.

Ant. 4. Praise be to God the Father and to His co-equal Son, and to the Holy Ghost, may it resound fervently for ever in our song.

4. Laus Deo Patri, * parilíque Proli, et tibi sancte stúdio perénni Spíritus, nostro résonet ab ore, omne per aevum.

Ant. 5. From Whom are all things, by Whom are all things, in Whom are all things: to Him be glory for ever.

5. Ex quo ómnia, * per quem ómnia, in quo ómnia: ipsi glória in saecula.

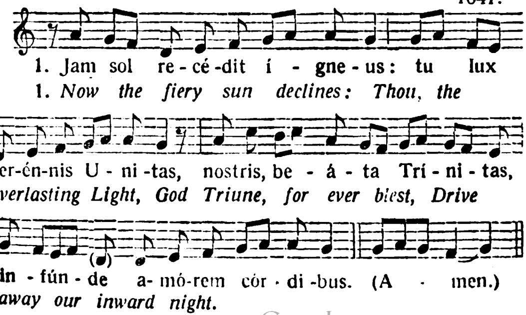
Chapter: Rom. xi. 33.

O the depth of the riches of the wisdom and of the knowledge of God! How incomprehensible are His judgments, and how unsearchable His ways!

℟. Thanks be to God.



O altitúdo divitiárum sapiéntiae, et sciéntiae Dei: quam incomprehensibília sunt judícia ejus, * et investigábiles viae ejus!

℟. Deo grátias.

Hymn.

1641.

8.

2. Te mane láudum cármine,
Te deprecámur véspere:
Dignéris ut te súpplices
Laudémus inter coélites.

2. Thee in morning hymns we praise:
Humbly Thee at eve implore;
Thee may we among the Saints
Thank and praise for evermore.

3. Pátri simúlque Fílio,
Tibíque Sáncte Spíritus,
Sicut fúit, sit júgiter
Saéclum per ómne glória. Amen.

3. Father, Son, and Holy Ghost,
Triune God, all praise to Thee:
As it has been, be it now,
And through all eternity. Amen.

℣. Benedíctus es Dómine in firmaménto coeli.

℟. Et laudábilis et gloriósus in saecula.

℣. Thou art blessed, O Lord, in the firmament of heaven.

℟. And worthy of praise and glorious for ever.

Antiphon at the Magnificat.

Te Deum * Patrem ingénitum, te Fílium unigénitum, te Spíritum sanctum Paráclitum, sanctam et indivíduam Trinitátem, toto corde et ore confitémur, laudámus, atque benedícimus: tibi glória in saecula.

Thee God the Father unbegotten, Thee the Son only-begotten, Thee the Holy Ghost the Paraclete, the holy and undivided Trinity, with all heart and voice we confess, praise and bless: to Thee be glory for ever.

Collect of the Mass, p. 1023.

Commemoration of the Sunday: Ant. Luke vi. 37.

Nolíte judicáre * ut non judicémini: in quo enim judício judicavéritis, judicabímini, dicit Dóminus.

℣. Dirigátur, Dómine, orátio mea.

℟. Sicut incensum in conspéctu tuo.

Judge not, and you shall not be judged: you shall be judged as you have judged, says the Lord.

℣. Let my prayer, O Lord, be directed.

℟. Like incense in Thy sight.

Collect of the Mass: Deus in te sperantium, p. 1023.

Same Day.—First Sunday after Pentecost.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

The Mass for the First Sunday after Pentecost having been replaced by the Mass for Trinity Sunday, is only celebrated during the week on the days when there are no Saints' feasts.

The Epistle reminds us that the love of God, which is the Holy Ghost, has been given to us on Whitsunday. God has loved us, by sending

His Son to us while by sin we were His enemies. His love is therefore in us if, like Him, we love those who hate us. The Gospel indeed exhorts us " to be merciful, as our Father is merciful."

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

Introit: Ps. xii. 6.

O LORD, I have hoped in Thy mercy: my heart hath rejoiced in Thy salvation; I will sing unto the Lord, Who giveth me good things. Ps. How long, O Lord, wilt Thou forget me unto the end? How long dost Thou turn away Thy face from me? ℣. Glory, etc.

DOMINE, in tua misericórdia sperávi: exsultávit cor meum in salutári tuo: cantábo Dómino, qui bona tríbuit mihi. Ps. Usquequo, Dómine, oblivisceris me in finem? úsquequo avértis fáciem tuam a me? ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect: Deus in te Sperantium, p. 1023; Second Collect: A Cunctis, p. 156; Third Collect, at the option of the Priest.

Epistle: 1 John iv. 8-21.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed John the Apostle. — DEARLY beloved: God is charity. By this hath the charity of God appeared towards us, because God hath sent His only-begotten Son into the world, that we may live by Him. In this is charity: not as though we had loved God, but because He hath first loved us, and sent His Son to be a propitiation for our sins. My dearest, if God hath so loved us, we also ought to love one another. No man hath seen God at any time. If we love one another, God abideth in us, and His charity is perfected in us. In this we know that we abide in Him, and He in us; because He hath given us of His spirit. And we have seen, and do testify, that the Father hath sent His Son to be the Saviour of the world. Whosoever shall confess that Jesus is the Son of God, God

Léctio Epístolae beáti Joánnis Apóstoli.—CARISSIMI: Deus cáritas est. In hoc appáruit cáritas Dei in nobis, quóniam Fílium suum unigénitum misit Deus in mundum, ut vivámus per eum. In hoc est cáritas: non quasi nos dilexérimus Deum, sed quóniam ipse prior diléxit nos, et misit Fílium suum propitiatiónem pro peccátis nostris. Caríssimi, si sic Deus diléxit nos: et nos debémus altérutrum dilígere. Deum nemo vidit unquam. Si diligámus ínvicem, Deus in nobis manet, et cáritas ejus in nobis perfécta est. In hoc cognóscimus, quóniam de Spíritu suo dedit nobis. Et nos vídimus, et testificámur, quóniam in eo manémus, et ipse in nobis, quóniam Pater misit Fílium suum Salvatórem mundi. Quisquis conféssus fúerit, quóniam Jesus est Filius Dei, Deus in eo manet, et ipse in Deo. Et nos cognóvi mus, et credídimus caritáti, quam habet Deus in nobis. Deus cáritas est: et qui manet in caritáte, in Deo manet, et Deus in eo. In hoc perfécta est cáritas Dei nobíscum, ut fidúciam habeámus in die judícii: quia sicut ille est, et nos sumus in hoc mundo. Timor non est in caritáte: sed perfécta cáritas foras mittit timórem, quóniam timor poenam habet. Qui autem timet, non est perféctus in caritáte. Nos ergo diligámus Deum, quóniam Deus prior diléxit nos. Si quis díxerit, quóniam díligo Deum, et fratrem suum óderit, mendax est. Qui enim non díligit fratrem suum quem videt, Deum, quem non videt, quómodo potest dilígere? Et hoc mandátum habémus a Deo: ut qui díligit Deum, díligat et fratrem suum.

abideth in him, and he in God. And we have known, and have believed the charity which God hath to us. God is charity: and he that abideth in charity abideth in God, and God in him. In this is the charity of God perfected with us, that we may have confidence in the day of judgment: because as He is, we also are in the world. Fear is not in charity, but perfect charity casteth out fear: because fear hath pain; and he that feareth is not in charity. Let us therefore love God, because God first hath loved us. If any man say: I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar. For he that loveth not his brother whom he seeth, how can he love God, Whom he seeth not? And this commandment we have from God, that he who loveth God love also his neighbour.

Gradual: Ps. xl. 5, 2.

Ego dixi, Dómine, miserére mei: sana ánimam meam, quia peccávi tibi. ℣. Beátus qui intélligit super egénum et páuperem: in die mala liberábit eum Dóminus.

I said, O Lord, be Thou merciful to me; heal my soul, for I have sinned against Thee. ℣. Blessed is he that understandeth concerning the needy and the poor: the Lord will deliver him in the evil day.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. v. 2.

℣. Verba mea áuribus pércipe, Dómine: intéllige clamórem meum.—Allelúia.

℣. Give ear to my words, O Lord, understand my cry.—Alleluia.

Gospel: Luke vi. 36-42.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo témpore, dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Estóte misericórdes, sicut et Pater vester miséricors est.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—At that time Jesus said to His disciples: Be ye merciful, as your Father also is merciful.

Judge not, and you shall not be judged. Condemn not, and you shall not be condemned. Forgive, and you shall be forgiven. Give, and it shall be given unto you: good measure, and pressed down, and shaken together, and running over, shall they give into your bosom. For with the same measure that you mete withal, it shall be measured to you again. And He spoke also to them a similitude: Can the blind lead the blind? do they not both fall into the ditch? This disciple is not above his master: but every one shall be perfect, if he be as his master. And why seest thou the mote in thy brother's eye: but the beam that is in thy own eye thou considerest not? Or how canst thou say to thy brother: Brother, let me pull the mote out of thy eye, when thou thyself seest not the beam in thine own eye? Thou hypocrite, cast out first the beam out of thine own eye; and then shalt thou see clearly to pull out the mote from thy brother's eye.

Nolíte judicáre, et non judicabímini: nolíte condemnáre, et non condemnabímini. Dimíttite et dimittémini. Date, et dábitur vobis: mensúram bonam, et confértam, et coagitátam, et supereffluéntem dabunt in sinum vestrum. Eádem quippe mensúra, qua mensi fuéritis, remetiétur vobis. Dicébat autem illis et similitúdinem: Numquid potest caecus caecum dúcere? nonne ambo in fóveam cadunt? Hon est discípulus super magístrum: perféctus autem omnis erit, si sit sicut magíster ejus. Quid autem vides festúcam in óculo fratris tui, trabem autem, quae in óculo tuo est, non consíderas? Aut quómodo potes dícere fratri tuo: Frater, sine, ejíciam festúcam de óculo tuo: ipse in óculo tuo trabem nonvidens? Hypócrita, éjice primum trabem de óculo tuo: et tunc perspícies, ut edúcas festúcam de óculo fratris tui.—Credo.

Offertory: Ps. v. 3, 4.

Hearken to the voice of my prayer, O my King and my God: for to Thee will I pray, O Lord.

Inténde voci oratiónis meae, Rex meus, et Deus meus: quóniam ad te orábo, Dómine.

Secret: Hostias, p. 1025; Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 157; Third Secret at the option of the Priest. Preface of the Holy Trinity p. 55. During the week Pref. Com. p. 51.

Communion: Ps. ix. 2, 3.

I will speak of all Thy marvellous works: I will be glad and rejoice in Thee: I will sing unto Thy name, O Thou Most High.

Narrábo ómnia mirabília tua: laetábor et exsultábo in te: psallam nómini tuo, Altíssime.

Postcommunion: Tantis, p. 1025; Second Postcommunion: Mundet, p. 157; Third Postcommunion: at the option of the Priest.

Feast of Corpus Christi.*

Double of the First Class.—White vestments.
Indulgence of 400 days for those who hear Mass or Vespers.
(Eugene IV).

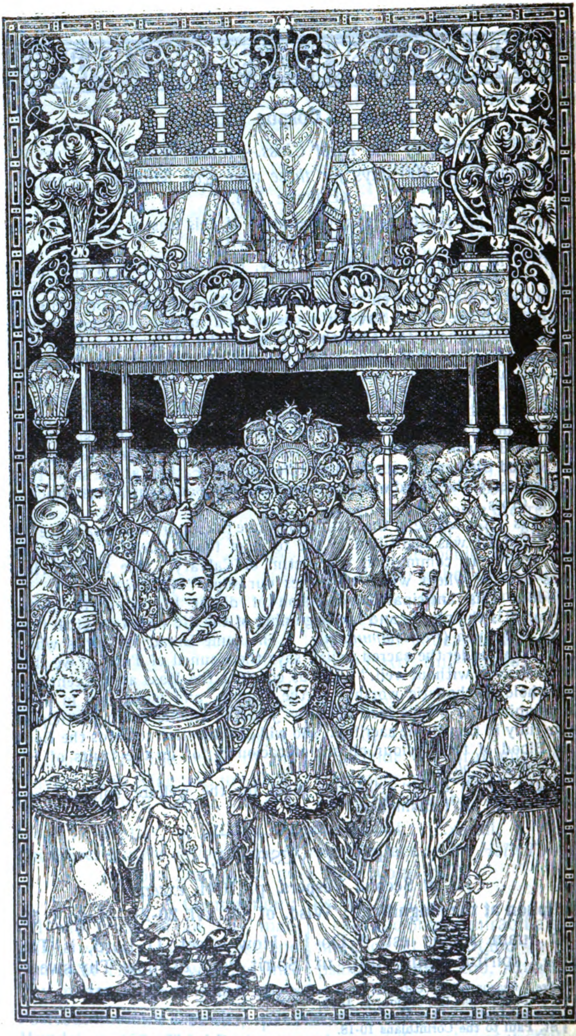
(In some places, the solemn celebration of this feast is put off to the following Sunday.)

After the dogma of the Holy Trinity, it is the dogma of the Incarnation of Jesus which the Holy Ghost brings to our minds, by making us celebrate with the Church the pre-eminent Sacrament which, summing up the whole life of the Saviour, gives to God infinite glory and applies to souls throughout the ages the merits of the Redemption (Collect).† It is on the Cross that Jesus saved us, and the Eucharist instituted on the eve of His death, remains the memorial of His passion (Collect). The altar is the prolongation of Calvary, ‡ the Mass " announces the death of the Lord " (Epistle). Jesus is there as a victim, for the words of the double consecration tell us that it is the bread which is first changed into the Body of Christ, and then the wine into His Blood, so that, in the Sacred Elements Jesus Himself offers to His Father, at the same time as His priests, the Blood which He shed and His Body which was attached to the Cross.

And as " it is eating of the victims that one takes part in the sacrifice " §, the Eucharist was instituted in the form of food (Alleluia) so that we may receive in communion the victim of Calvary. The Sacred Host " has become wheat which nourishes our souls " (Introit).

Indeed this anticipated possession of divine life on earth in the Eucharist is the pledge and the beginning of the life which we shall fully enjoy in heaven (Postcommunion). " The same Bread of Angels which we eat now under the sacred veils," says the Council of Trent, " we shall eat in heaven without veil." Let us consider the Mass as the centre of the whole Eucharistic worship of the Church, and let us see in Holy Communion the means instituted by Jesus to enable us to participate more fully in this divine sacrifice. So will our devotion towards the Body and Blood of the Saviour obtain efficaciously for us the fruits of His redemption (Collect).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.



FIRST VESPERS.

As at Second Vespers, p. 1041, except:

Antiphon at the Magnificat : Wisd. of Sol. xvi. 20-21.—Luke i. 52.

O quam suávis est, * Dómine, spíritus tuus, qui, ut	How sweet, O Lord, is Thy Spirit Who, to show Thy sweet-

* See " Season after Pentecost from a Historical Point of View," p. 1013.
† See Dogmatical Exposition, p. 1002.
‡ The celebration of the Mass has the same value as the death of Jesus Christ.
§ St. Paul to the Corinthians 10-18.

THE MOST BLESSED SACRAMENT

dulcédinem tuam in fílios demonstráres, pane suavíssimo de coelo praestito, esuriéntes reples bonis, fastidiósos dívites dimíttens inánes.

ness to Thy sons send them from heaven a most sweet band, filling the hungry with good things and sending the rich away empty.

At Compline: The hymn with the tone and the doxology of the Nativity, p. 383.

MASS: CIBAVIT EOS.

Introit: Ps. lxxx. 17.

CIBAVIT eos ex ádipe fruménti, allelúia: et de petra, melle saturávit eos, allelúia, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Exsultáte Deo adjutóri nostro; jubiláte Deo Jacob. ℣. Glória Patri.

HE fed them with the fat of wheat, alleluia; and filled them with honey out of the rock, alleluia, alleluia, alleluia. Ps. lxxx. 2. Rejoice to God our helper; sing aloud to the God of Jacob. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collect.

Deus, qui nobis sub Sacraménto mirábili passiónis tuae memóriam reliquísti: tríbue, quaesumus, ita nos Córporis et Sánguinis tui sacra mystéria venerári; ut redemptiónis tuae fructum in nobis júgiter sentiámus: Qui vivis.

O God, Who in this wonderful sacrament has left us a memorial of Thy passion, grant us, we beseech Thee, so to reverence the sacred mysteries of Thy Body and Blood, that we may ever perceive within us the fruit of Thy redemption. Who livest, etc.

Epistle: 1 Cor. xxiii. 29.

Léctio Epistólae beáti Pauli apóstoli ad Corinthios.—FRATRES: Ego enim accépi a Dómino quod et trádidi vobis, quóniam Dóminus Jesus in qua nocte tradebátur, accépit panem, et grátias agens fregit, et dixit: Accípite, et manducáte: hoc est corpus meum, quod pro vobis tradétur: hoc fácite in meam commemoratiónem. Simíliter et cálicem, postquam coenávit, dicens:

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians.—BRETHREN, I have received of the Lord, that which also I delivered to you, that the Lord Jesus, the same night in which He was betrayed, took bread, and giving thanks, broke, and said: Take ye and eat, this is My Body which shall be delivered for you; this do for the commemoration of Me. In like manner also the chalice, after

He had supped, saying: This chalice is the new testament in My Blood; this do ye, as often as you shall drink, for the commemoration of Me. For as often as you shall eat this bread and drink this chalice, you shall show the death of the Lord until He come. Therefore whosoever shall eat this bread, or drink of the chalice unworthily, shall be guilty of the Body and the Blood of the Lord. But let a man prove himself; and so let him eat of that bread, and drink of the chalice. For he that eateth and drinketh unworthily, eateth and drinketh judgment to himself, not discerning the Body of the Lord.

Hic calix novum testaméntum est in meo sánguine. Hoc fácite, quotiescúmque bibétis, in meam commemoratiónem. Quotiescúmque enim manducábitis panem hunc, et cálicem bibétis, mortem Dómini annuntiábitis, donec véniat. Itaque quicúmque manducáverit panem hunc, vel bíberit cálicem Dómini indígne, reus erit córporis et sánguinis Dómini. Probet autem seípsum homo: et sic de pane illo edat et de cálice bibat. Qui enim mandúcat et bibit indígne, judícium sibi mandúcat, et bibit: non dijúdicans corpus Dómini.

Gradual: Ps. cxliv. 15, 16.

The eyes of all hope in Thee, O Lord, and Thou givest them meat in due season. ℣. Thou openest Thy hand, and fillest every living creature with Thy blessing.

Ocúli ómnium in te sperant, Dómine: et tu das illis escam in témpore opportúno. ℣. Aperis tu manum tuam: et imples omne ánimal benedictióne.

Alleluia, alleluia: John vi. 56-57.

℣. My Flesh is meat indeed, and My Blood is drink indeed: he that eateth My Flesh and drinketh My Blood, abideth in Me, and I in Him.

℣. Caro mea vere est cibus, et sanguis meus vere est potus: qui mandúcat meam carnem, et bibit meum sánguinem, in me manet, et ego in eo.

Alleluia is said here if during the Octave at low Masses the Sequence is omitted.

Sequence.

7.

1. Lau-da, Si - on, Sal - va - tó - rem, lau - da
2. Quantum po - tes, tan -tum au - de: qui - a

1. Praise thou, Sion, praise thy Saviour! Praise thy Prince
2. All thou canst, do thou endeavour, Yet thy praise du-cem et pas - tó - rem, in hym-nis et cán - ti - cis.

ma-jor om -ni lau - de, nec lau- dá - re súf - fi - cis.
with all thy fervour! Anthems to thy Shepherd sing.
can equal never Such as merits thy great King.
3. Lau-dis the -ma spe - ci - á - lis, pa - nis vi - vus
4. Quem in sa - cræ men-sa cœ - næ, tur -bæ fra-trum
3. Duty this to-day thou'rt owing, Bread the living,
4. Same the bread that Christ in leaving To the twelve, et vi - tá - lis, hó - di - e pro - pó - ni - tur.
du - o - dé - næ, da - tum non am - bi - gi - tur.
life-bestowing, Full to honour with thy praise.
each one receiving, Gave, no one doubt can raise.
5. Sit laus plé-na, sit so - nó -ra, sit ju - cún - da
5. Let thy praise be loud and swelling: Be it joyous, sit de - có - ra men - tis ju - bi - lá - ti o bright and welling, From a full exulting heart.
6. Di -es e - nim so- lém-nis á - gi - tur, in qua men-
6. Mem'ry of that feast we render, Keeping rites in sæ pri-ma re - có - li- tur hu -jus in -sti - tú ti o solemn splendour, When Christ did first Himself impart.
7. In hac men-sa no - vi Re - gis, no - vum Pa - scha
7. This new Feast, the old repealing, Newer no - væ le - gis, pha - se ve - tus tér - mi - nat.
King and pasch revealing, Usher in a newer rite.

8. Ve - tu - stá - tem nó - vi - tas, um-bram fu - gat
8. What is new to age succeedeth: Place to truth vé - ri - tas, noc - tem lux e - li - mi - nat the Shadow cedeth: Radiance puts the gloom to flight.
9. Quod in cœ - na Chri -stus ges-sit, fa - ci - én-dum
9. What He did, that eve reclining, Done anew He willed, hoc ex- prés - sit in su - i me - mó - ri - am.
assigning This a token of His love.
10. Doc - ti sa - cris in - sti - tú-tis, pa-nem, vi -num
10. By His sacred precepts guided, Make we bread in sa - lú - tis con - se - crá- mus hós - ti - am.
and wine provided, A saving victim from above.
11. Dog- ma da - tur Chri - sti - á - nis, quod in car-nem 11. Christian truth uncontroverted Is that bread and trans - it pa-nis et vi - num in san- gui - nem.
wine converted Sacred flesh and blood become.
12. Quod non ca - pis, quod non vi - des, a - ni -mó - sa
12. Mind and eye whilst unperceiving What's beyond fir - mat fi - des, præ - ter re - rum ór - di - nem.
their own conceiving Strenuous faith to them brings home.

13. Sub di - vér - sis spe - ci - é - bus, si- gnis tantum
13. Hidden under varied species, Signs not things, et non re-bus, la - tent res ex - i - mi - æ.

lie untold riches, Choice and rare beyond conceit.

14. Ca -ro ci - bus, san-guis po - tus: ma -net ta - men
14. Flesh and blood, our life sustaining, Christ intact in Chri-stus to-tus, sub u - trá - que spé - ci - e.

both remaining, 'Neath each sign we greet.

15. A su - mén - te non con - ci - sus, non confráctus,
15. Christ, to whomsoever given, By Him is neither non di - vi - sus: in - te - ger ac - ci - pi - tur.

rent nor riven Each unparted Christ receives.

16. Su - mit u -nus, su-munt mil - le: quan- tum is - ti,
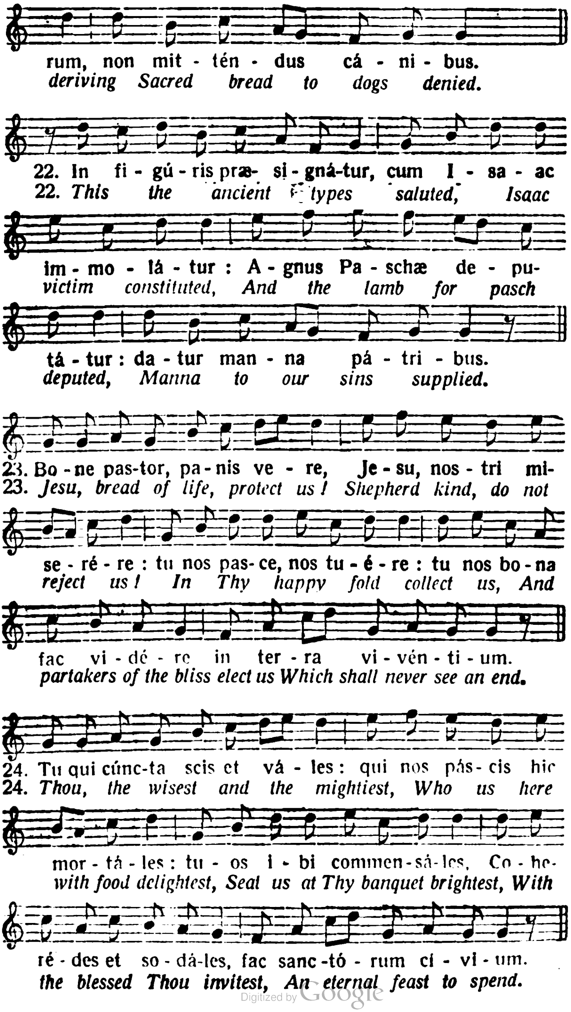
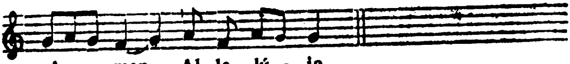
16. Come there one, come there many, Each partakes tan-tum il - le: nec sumptus con - sú - mi - tur.

as much as any, Nor the less for other leaves.





17. Sumunt bo - ni, sumunt ma - li: sor - te ta - men
17. Good and bad this banquet sharing Are an

i - næ - quá - li, vi - tæ vel in - té - ri - tus.
unlike lot preparing, Life or death to either falls.

18. Mors est ma-lis, vi-ta bo - nis: vi-de pa-ris
18. Life to those, to these perdition, Though to both sump-ti-ó-nis quam sit dis-par éx-i-tus.
the same fruition, How unlike the fate that calls.
19. Frac-to de-mum sa-cra-mén-to, ne va-cil-
19. When then the host in pieces breakest, If thou waver, les, sed me-mén-to, tan-tum es-se sub fragthou mistakest, For each fragment thou partakest mén-to, quan-tum to-to té-gi-tur.
Holds no less than does the whole.
20. Nul-la ré-i fit scis-sú-ra: si-gni
20. Of the substance no division, Signs tan-tum fit frac-tú-ra, qua nec sta-tus, nec alone admit partition, Whence unlessened sta-tú-ra si-gná-ti mi-nú-i-tur.
the condition Of the symboled body and soul.
21. Ec-ce pa-nis An-ge-ló-rum, fac-tus ci-bus
21. Lo! angelic bread reviving Pilgrims vi-a-tó-rum: ve-re pa-nis fi-li-ó-worn to heaven striving, Children from it strengt rum, non mit - tén - dus cá - ni - bus.

deriving Sacred bread to dogs denied.
22. In fi - gú - ris præ- si - gná-tur, cum I - sa - ac
22. This the ancient types saluted, Isaac im - mo - lá - tur : A - gnus Pa - schæ de - pu-victim constituted, And the lamb for pasch tá - tur : da - tur man - na pá - tri - bus. deputed, Manna to our sins supplied.
23. Bo - ne pas-tor, pa - nis ve - re, Je - su, nos - tri mi-
23. Jesu, bread of life, protect us! Shepherd kind, do not se - ré - re : tu nos pas- ce, nos tu - é - re : tu nos bo - na reject us! In Thy happy fold collect us, And fac vi - dé - re in ter - ra vi - vén - ti - um.
partakers of the bliss elect us Which shall never see an end.
24. Tu qui cúnc-ta scis et vá - les : qui nos pás - cis hic
24. Thou, the wisest and the mightiest, Who us here mor - tá - les : tu - os i - bi commen - sá - les, Co - he-with food delightest, Seat us at Thy banquet brightest, With ré - des et so - dá-les, fac sanc -tó - rum ci - vi - um.
the blessed Thou invitest, An eternal feast to spend.

A - men. Al-le-lú - ia.
A - men. Al-le-lu - ia.

Gospel: John vi. 56-59.

✠ Continuation of the Holy Gospel according to St. John.—AT that time Jesus said to the multitudes of the Jews: My Flesh is meat indeed, and My Blood is drink indeed. He that eateth My Flesh, and drinketh My Blood, abideth in Me, and I in him. As the living Father hath sent Me, and I live by the Father, so he that eateth Me, the same also shall live by Me. This is the bread that came down from Heaven. Not as your fathers did eat manna and are dead. He that eateth This Bread shall live for ever.—Creed.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—IN illo témpore: Dixit Jesus turbis Judaeórum: Caro mea vere est cibus, et sanguis meus vere est potus. Qui mandúcat meam carnem, et bibit meum sánguinem, in me manet, et ego in illo. Sicut misit me vivens Pater, et ego vivo propter Patrem: et qui mandúcat me, et ipse vivet propter me. Hic est panis, qui de coelo descéndit. Non sicut manducavérunt patres vestri manna, et mórtui sunt. Qui mandúcat hunc panem, vivet in aetérnum. —Credo.

Offertory: Lev. xxi. 6.

The priests of the Lord offer incense and loaves to God, and therefore they shall be holy to their God, and shall not defile His name. Alleluia.

Sacerdótes Dómini incénsum et panes ófferunt Deo: et ídeo sancti erunt Deo suo, et non pólluent nomen ejus, allelúia.

Secret.

We beseech Thee, O Lord, favourably grant to Thy Church the gifts of unity and peace, which are mystically designed beneath the gifts we offer. Through our Lord.

Ecclésiae tuae, quaesumus, Dómine, unitátis et pacis propítius dona concéde: quae sub oblátis munéribus mystice designántur. Per Dóminum.

Preface of Christmas Day, p. 51; also within the Octave of Corpus Christi.

Communion: 1 Cor. xi. 26, 27.

As often as you shall eat this Bread, and drink the Chalice, you shall show the death of the Quotiescúmque manducábitis panem hunc, et cálicem bibétis, mortem Dómini an-nuntiábitis, donec véniat: itaque quicúmque manducáverit panem, vel bíberit cálicem Dómini indígne; reus erit córporis et sánguinis Dómini, allelúia.

Lord, until He come: therefore whosoever shall eat this Bread or drink the Chalice of the Lord unworthily, shall be guilty of the Body and Blood of the Lord. Alleluia.

Postcommunion.

Fac nos, quaesumus, Dómine, divinitátis tuae sempitérna fruitióne repléri: quam pretiósi Córporis et Sánguinis tui temporális percéptio praefigúrat: Qui vivis.

Grant us, we beseech Thee, O Lord, to be filled with the everlasting enjoyment of Thy divinity, which is prefigured by the temporal reception of Thy precious Body and Blood. Who livest.

When the Mass is repeated during the Octave, the Second Prayer is: Concede nos, p. 159, the Third: Ecclesia, p. 154, or Deus omnium, p. 155.

At the Procession.*

When the Priests leave the Altar the Choristers intone the Vesper Hymn Pange lingua, p. 1042. If the time during which the Procession lasts allows, the following hymns are also sung. (See music of the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.)

Hymn at Matins: Sacris solemnis, and at Lauds: Verbum supernum, see Benediction Service at the end of the Missal.

Hymn: Te Deum, see at the end of the Missal.—Magnificat, p. 112.

On the return of the procession, while the Celebrant and his Ministers are at the foot of the Altar, the Choristers intone the Tantum ergo (see Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament at the end of the Missal).

SECOND VESPERS.

Ant. 1: Ps. cix. 4 and Gen. xiv. 18.

Ant 1. Sacérdos in aetérnum * Christus Dóminus secúndum órdinem Melchísedech, panem et vinum óbtulit.

Ant. 1. Ps. cix. 4 and Gen. xiv. 18. Christ the Lord is a priest for ever according to the order of Melchisedech: He offered bread and wine.

Ps. cix.: Dixit Dominus, p. 98.

2. Miserátor Dóminus * escam dedit timéntibus se in memóriam suórum mirabílium.

2. Ps. cx. 4. The merciful Lord hath given food to them that fear Him, in memory of His wonderful works.

* Indulgences are granted to those who take part in the procession.

Ps. cx.: Confitebor, p. 99.

3. Ps. cxv. 4. I will take the chalice of salvation, and will sacrifice the victim of praise.

3. Cálicem * salutáris accípiam, et sacrificábo hóstiam laudis.

Ps. cxv.: Credidi, p. 127.

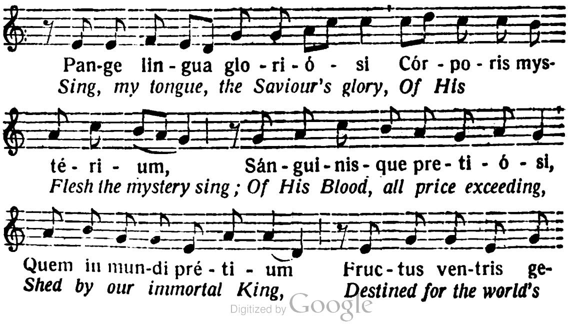
4. Ps. cxxvii. 3. May the sons of the Church be as young olive shoots around the table of the Lord.

4. Sicut novéllae olivárum * Ecclésiae fílii sint in circúitu mensae Dómini.

Ps. cxxvii.: Beati omnes, p. 129.

5. Ps. cxxvii. 3. The Lord who placeth peace in the borders of His Church, feedeth us with the plenty of wheat.

5. Qui pacem * ponit fines Ecclésiae, fruménti ádipe sátiat nos Dóminus.



Ps. cxlvii.: Lauda, Jerusalem, p. 134.

Chapter: 1 Cor. xi. 23.

Brethren, for I have received of the Lord that which also I delivered unto you, that the Lord Jesus, the same night in which He was betrayed, took bread, and giving thanks, broke and said: Take ye and eat: This is My Body which shall be delivered for you: this do for the commemoration of Me. ℟. Thanks be to God.

Fratres: Ego enim accépi a Dómino quod et trádidi vobis, quóniam Dóminus Jesus in qua nocte tradebátur, accépit panem, et grátias agens fregit, et dixit: Accípite, et manducáte: hoc est corpus meum, quod pro vobis tradétur: * hoc fácite in meam commemoratiónem. ℟. Deo grátias.

Hymn (111 tone).

ne - ró - si Rex ef - fú - dit gén - ti - um.
redemption, From a noble womb to spring.

Nobis datus, nobis natus
Ex intácta Vírgine,
Et in mundo conversátus,
Sparso verbi sémine,
Sui moras incolátus
Miro clausit órdine.

Of a pure and spotless Virgin,
Born for us on earth below,
He, as Man with man conversing,
Stayed the seeds of truth to sow.
Then He closed in solemn order
Wondrously His life of woe.

In suprémae nocte coenae,
Recúmbens cum frátribus,
Observáta lege plene
Cibis in egálibus,
Cibum turbae duodénae
Se dat suis mánibus.

On the night of that last supper,
Seated with His chosen band,
He, the Paschal Victim eating,
First fulfils the Law's command;
Then as food to all His brethren
Gives Himself with His own Hand.

Verbum caro, panem verum.
Verbo carnem ésficit,
Fitque sanguis Christi merum,
Et si sensus déficit,
Ad firmándum cor sincérum
Sola fides súfficit.

Word made Flesh, the bread of nature,
By His Word to Flesh He turns;
Wine into His Blood He changes:
What though sense no change discerns?
Only be the heart in earnest,
Faith her lesson quickly learns.

(Here all Kneel).

Tantum ergo Sacraméntum
Venerémur cérnui;
Et antíquum documéntum
Novo cedat rítui:
Praestet fides suppleméntum
Sénsuum deféctui.

Down in adoration falling,
Lo! the sacred Host we hail,
Lo! o'er ancient forms departing
Newer rites of grace prevail;
Faith for all defects supplying,
Where the feeble senses fail.

Genitóri, Genitóque
Laus et jubilátio;
Salus, honor, virtus quoque
Sit et benedíctio:
Procedénti ab utróque
Compar sit laudátio. Amen.

To the everlasting Father,
And the Son Who reigns on high
With the Holy Ghost proceeding
Forth from each eternally,
Be salvation, honour, blessing,
Might and endless majesty.
Amen.

℣. Wis. xvi. 20. Thou hast given them bread from heaven. Alleluia.

℟. Containing in itself all sweetness. Alleluia.

℣. Panem de coelo praestitísti eis, allelúia.

℟. Omne delectaméntum in se habéntem, allelúia.

Antiphon at the Magnificat.

O sacred banquet, in which Christ is received; the memory of His passion is renewed; the mind is filled with grace; and a pledge of future glory is given to us. Alleluia.

O sacrum convívium, in quo Christus súmitur: recólitur memória passiónis ejus: mens implétur grátia: et futúrae glóriae nobis pignus datur. Allelúia.

Collect of the Mass, p. 1033.

Friday and Saturday within the Octave.

Semi-double.—White vestments.—Same Indulgence as on Thursday.

The Octave of the Blessed Sacrament is privileged, being therefore entirely consecrated to the remembrance of the real presence in the Church of the Body of Christ and of His Blood under the elements of bread and wine. "This is My body." "This chalice is My blood."

Mass as on the day of the feast, p. 1033.

" Bring in hither the poor, and the feeble." (Gospel).

Sunday within the Octave of Corpus Christi.

And Second Sunday after Pentecost.—Semi-double.
White vestments.

The Eucharist, as a sacrifice, is the continual manifestation of God's love for us, since it reminds us that Jesus gave His life to save us (Epistle, Introit). Our attendance at Mass, the living memorial of Christ's passion, must dispose us to sacrifice ourselves in order to provide for our neighbour's wants. The Eucharist, as a Sacrament, also shows how much God loves us, since He invites us to His table. On a spotless table cloth and in golden dishes, He gives us His body to eat. It is the prelude of the Celestial banquet of which the Patriarchs, Prophets and Gospel often speak to us.

The Jews on account of their pride, avarice or lust have been put aside and God has chosen us in their stead (Gospel). " He has established us solidly in His love " and " never ceasing to guide us," (Collect), He " continues to operate our salvation by means of the frequent reception of the eucharistic mystery " (Postcommunion).

When the Feast of Corpus Christi is transferred to the Sunday within the octave, the Mass is nowadays celebrated as on the day of the feast. p. 1033, with the mem. and last Gospel of the Second Sunday, p. 1047. After this Mass the Procession takes place, see p. 1041.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS.—FACTUS EST.

Introit : Ps. xvii. 19, 20.

FACTUS est Dóminus protéctor meus, et edúxit me in latitúdinem : salvum me fecit, quóniam vóluit me. Ps.

THE Lord became my protector, and He brought me forth into a large place : He saved me, because He was well pleased with me. Ps. xvii. 2. I will love Thee, O Lord my strength: the Lord is my firmament, and my refuge, and my deliverer. Glory be to the Father.

Díligam te, Dómine, virtus mea: Dóminus firmaméntum meum, et refúgium meum. et liberátor meus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.

Grant, O Lord, that we may have a perpetual fear and love of Thy holy name, for Thou never ceasest to direct and govern by Thy grace, those whom Thou instructest in the solidity of Thy love. Through our Lord.

Sancti nóminis tui, Dómine, timórem páriter et amórem fac nos habére perpétuum: quia numquam tua gubernatióne destítuis, quos in soliditáte tuae dilectiónis instítuis. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of Corpus Christi by the prayer: Deus qui, p. 1033.

Epistle: 1 John iii. 13-18.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed John the Apostle.—Dearly beloved, wonder not if the world hate you. We know that we have passed from death to life, because we love the brethren. He that loveth not, abideth in death. Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer: and you know that no murderer hath eternal life abiding in himself. In this we have known the charity of God, because He hath laid down His life for us; and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren. He that hath the substance of this world, and shall see his brother in need, and shall shut up his bowels from him, how doth the charity of God abide in him? My little children, let us not love in word nor in tongue, but in deed and in truth.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Joánnis apóstoli. — CARISSIMI: Nolíte mirári si odit vos mundus. Nos scimus, quóniam transláti sumus de morte ad vitam, quóniam diligimus fratres. Qui non díligit, manet in morte: omnis qui odit fratrem suum, homicída est. Et scitis quóniam omnis homicída non habet vitam aetérnam in semetípso manéntem. In hoc cognóvimus caritátem Dei, quóniam ille ánimam suam pro nobis pósuit: et nos debémus pro frátribus ánimas pónere. Qui habúerit substántiam hujus mundi, et víderit fratrem suum necessitátem habére, et cláuserit víscera sua ab eo: quómodo cáritas Dei manet in eo? Filíoli mei, non diligámus verbo, neque lingua, sed ópere et veritáte.

Gradual: Ps. cxix. 1, 2.

In my trouble I cried to the Lord, and He heard me. ℣. O

Ad Dóminum cum tribulárer clamávi, et exaudívit me. ℣.

Dómine, líbera ánimam meam a lábiis iníquis, et a lingua dolósa.

Lord, deliver my soul from wicked lips and a deceitful tongue.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. xvii. 2.

℣. Dómine Deus meus, in te sperávi: salvum me fac ex ómnibus persequéntibus me, et líbera me.—Allelúia.

℣. O Lord my God, in Thee have I put my trust: save me from all them that persecute me, and deliver me.—Alleluia.

Commemoration of Corpus Christi: Deus qui nobis, p. 1033.

Gospel: Luke xiv. 16-24.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus Pharisaeis parábolam hanc: Homo quidam fecit coenam magnam, et vocávit multos. Et misit servum suum hora coenae dícere invitátis ut venírent, quia jam paráta sunt ómnia. Et coepérunt simul omnes excusáre. Primus dixit ei: Villam emi, et necésse hábeo exíre, et vidére illam: rogo te, habe me excusátum. Et alter dixit: Juga boum emi quinque, et eo probáre illa: rogo te, habe me excusátum. Et álius dixit: Uxórem duxi: et ídeo non possum veníre. Et revérsus servus nuntiávit haec dómino suo. Tunc irátus paterfamílias, dixit servo suo: Exi cito in platéas et vicos civitátis: et páuperes, ac débiles, et caecos, et claudos íntroduc huc. Et ait servus: Dómine, factum est ut imperásti, et adhuc locus est. Et ait dóminus servo: Exi in vias, et sepes: et compélle intráre, ut impleátur domus mea. Dico autem vobis, quod nemo virórum illórum, qui vocáti

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—At that time, Jesus spoke to the Pharisees this parable: A certain man made a great supper, and invited many. And he sent his servant, at the hour of supper, to say to them that were invited, that they should come, for now all things are ready. And they began all at once to make excuse. The first said to him, I have bought a farm, and must needs go out, and see it, I pray thee hold me excused. And another said, I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I go to try them; I pray thee hold me excused. And another said, I have married a wife, and therefore I cannot come. And the servant returning, told these things to his lord. Then the master of the house being angry, said to his servant, Go out quickly into the streets and lanes of the city, and bring in hither the poor, and the feeble, and the blind, and the lame. And the servant said: Lord, it is done as thou hast commanded, and yet there is room. And the lord said to the servant, Go out into the high ways and hedges, and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled. But I say unto you, that none of these men that were invited shall taste of my supper.—Creed.

sunt, gustábit coenam meam.—Credo.

Offertory : Ps. vi. 5.

Turn to me, O Lord, and deliver my soul, O save me for Thy mercy's sake.

Dómine, convértere, et éripe ánimam meam : salvum me fac propter misericórdiam tuam.

Secret.

May the sacrifice we are about to offer up, O Lord, cleanse our souls from sin ; and day by day, by its virtue may our life on earth be more and more likened to that of heaven.

Oblátio nos, Dómine, tuo nómini dicánda puríficet : et de die in diem ad coeléstis vitae tránsferat actiónem. Per Dóminum.

Of the Octave of Corpus Christi, Ecclésiae tuae, p. 1040. Preface of the Nativity, p. 51.

Communion : Ps. xii. 6.

I will sing to the Lord, Who giveth me good things : and I will sing to the name of the Lord the most high.

Cantábo Dómino, qui bona tríbuit mihi : et psallam nómini Dómini altíssimi.

Postcommunion.

To us who have received Thy sacred gifts, O Lord, vouchsafe that the more often we assist at the celebration of these divine mysteries, the more surely they may avail to the salvation of our souls. Through our Lord.

Sumptis munéribus sacris, quaesumus, Dómine : ut cum frequentatióne mystérii, crescat nostrae salútis efféctus. Per Dóminum.

Of the Octave of Corpus Christi : Fac nos, p. 1041.

SECOND VESPERS.

Psalms and Antiphons of Corpus Christi, p. 1041.

Chapter : John iii. 13.

Dearly beloved, wonder not if the world hate you : we know that we have passed from death

Caríssimi : Nolíte mirári, si odit vos mundus. Nos scimus quóniam transláti sumus de morte ad vitam, * quóniam dilígimus fratres.

℟. Deo grátias.

to life, because we love the brethren.
℟. Thanks to God.

Hymn : Pange lingua, p. 1042.

℣. Cibávit illos ex ádipe fruménti, allelúia.
℟. Et de petra melle saturávit eos, allelúia.

℣. He fed them with the fat of wheat, alleluia.
℟. And filled them with honey out of the rock, alleluia.

Antiphon at the Magnificat : Luke xiv. 21.

Exi cito * in pláteas et vicos civitátis : et páuperes ac débiles, caecos et claudos compélle intráre, ut impleátur domus mea, allelúia.

Go out quickly into the streets and lanes of the city, and compel the poor and the feeble and the blind and the lame to come in, that my house may be filled, alleluia.

Commemoration of the Octave; Antiphon : O quam suavis, p. 1002.

℣. Panem, p. 1044 ; Collect : Deus qui nobis, p. 1002.

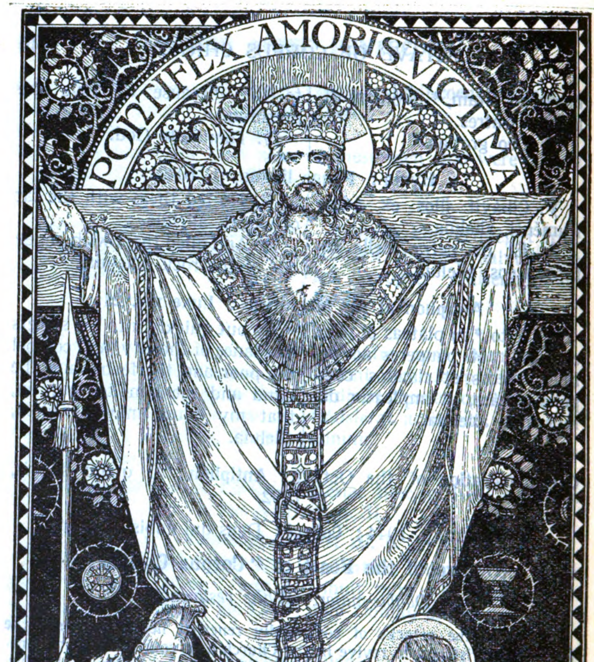
Octave of the Feast of "Corpus Christi."



Double-major.—White vestments.

To resist the attacks of continually renewed heresies against the Holy Eucharist and to revive in the Church a fervour which had somewhat grown cool, the Holy Ghost inspired, at the beginning of the thirteenth century, the solemnity of Corpus Christi.

In 1208 the blessed Juliana of Mount Cornillon, near Liege, saw in a vision the full moon with an indentation indicating that a feast was missing in the liturgical cycle. The Eucharist, instituted on Maundy Thursday, had not in effect been celebrated with all the desired pomp, the Church's thoughts being absorbed by the passion of the Saviour. It was necessary that immediately after the Paschal Season a feast with an octave should be established. And as the Last Supper had taken place on a Thursday, the Bishop of Liege instituted in 1246 this solemnity in his diocese on the Thursday which follows the First Sunday after Pentecost. In 1264, Pope Urban IV. extended this feast to the whole world. Let us honour the Eucharist, the greatest of the miracles operated by the Holy Ghost.*

Mass as on the day of the feast, p. 1033.

* "The Eucharistic prodigy, a prolongation of the Incarnation, is justly attributed to the power of Him through whose mysterious operation the Virgin Mary became mother. Hence, particularly in the Greek liturgy, the invocation to the Holy Ghost among the prayers of the Canon, hence the gesture of the deacon waving above the Sacred elements a light disc, symbolical of the divine dove covering the mystery under its wings." (D. Laurent Janssens, O.S.B.) The mystery of the Eucharist alone, says St. Thomas, supposes twelve miracles.

THE SACRED HEART OF JESUS

Friday after the Octave of Corpus Christi.

Feast of the Sacred Heart of Jesus.*

Double of the First Class.—White vestments.

Protestantism in the sixteenth century and Jansenism in the seventeenth had attempted to mar one of the essential dogmas of Christianity, namely the love of God for all men.

It became necessary that the Spirit of love, which directs the Church, should by some new means counteract the spreading heresy, in order that the Spouse of Christ, far from seeing her love for Jesus diminish, should feel it always increasing.

This was made manifest in Catholic worship, which is the sure rule of our faith, by the institution of the Feast of the Sacred Heart.

An anonymous author of the twelfth century, supposed to be St. Bernard, speaks to us in to-day's office of the majesty of the Holy of Holies, of the Ark of the Testament, of the Heart of Jesus, the tender friend.†

The two benedictine virgins, St. Gertrude and St. Mechtilde, in the thirteenth century, had a very clear vision of the grandeur of the devotion to the Sacred Heart. St. John the evangelist, appearing to the former, announced to her that " the meaning of the blessed beating of the Heart of Jesus which he had heard while his head rested on His Heart, was reserved for the latter times when the world grown old, and cold, in divine love should be rekindled by the revelation of these mysteries."

This Heart, say these two Saints, is an altar on which Christ offers Himself to the Father as a perfect and most acceptable victim. It is a golden censor from which rise towards the Father as many streamlets of incense as there are kinds of men for whom Christ suffered. In this Heart the praise and thanks we give to God and all our good works are ennobled and become acceptable to the Father.

But in order to make this worship public and recognised, Providence first raised up Blessed Eudes, who in 1670 composed an Office and a Mass of the Sacred Heart for the so-called Congregation of the Eudists. Then

* See Historical Summary, p. 1017.

† Lessons of the Second Nocturn of Matins. The Franciscan editors of the works of St. Bonaventure attribute the text to the illustrious Doctor.

‡ The Herald of divine love, Book iv., c.4.

Explanation of the Engraving opposite.

The Sacred Heart of Jesus is arrayed in sacerdotal vestments because, in the mystery of the Incarnation, He was anointed priest by the anointing of the divinity itself. He is therefore the Pontiff, the Mediator between God and men, the King of all hearts. Of this the centurion bears witness who exclaims: " He is really the Son of God." The Sacred Heart of Jesus is represented on His cross, for it is out of love for us that He made Himself the victim of His sacrifice. He is thereby our Deliverer, our King of Love by right of conquest. Of this Mary Magdalen bears witness holding in her hands the nails which attached Christ to the Cross and the chalice of the blood which He shed as " Son of Man " to save us.

Therefore, raised as on a throne covered with the purple of His blood, He is crowned as Pontiff as well as Victim, with a diadem of the royalty of love by which He reigns over all men and He holds out His arms to draw them to Him and to offer them to God in union with His sacrifice.

Providence chose one of the spiritual daughters of St. Francis of Sales, St. Margaret-Mary Alacoque, to whom Jesus showed His heart at Paray-le-Monial, on June 16, 1675, Sunday of Corpus Christi, and asked her to institute a feast of the Sacred Heart on the Friday following the Octave of Corpus Christi. Lastly, God employed for the propagation of this devotion, the Rev. Claude de la Colombiere. He belonged to the Company of Jesus " the whole of which inherited his zeal in the propagation of the devotion to the Sacred Heart." *

In 1765, Clement XIII. gave his approbation to the feast and the Office of the Sacred Heart, and in 1856 Pius IX extended it to the universal Church.

The solemnity of the Sacred Heart recapitulates all the phases of the life of Jesus recalled in the liturgy from Advent to the Feast of Corpus Christi. It constitutes an admirable triptych giving us in abridgment all the mysteries, joyous, sorrowful and glorious, of the Saviour's life devoted to the love of God and men. This feast is indeed placed as on a height from which may be contemplated at a glance the redeeming labours of the Saviour on earth and the glorious victories He will, by the working of the Holy Ghost, achieve in souls until the end of the world.

Coming after the Feasts of Christ, this feast completes them, concentrating them in one object which is materially a Divine Heart of flesh, and formally the unbounded charity symbolised by this Heart. This solemnity therefore does not relate to a particular mystery of the Saviour's life, but embraces them all; indeed the devotion to the Sacred Heart celebrates all the favours we have received from divine charity during the year (Collect), all His mercies (Introit), and all the marvellous things that Jesus has done for us (Epistle, Offertory). It is the feast of the love of God for men, a love which has made Jesus come down on earth for all through His Incarnation, which has raised Him on the Cross for the Redemption of all (Gradual), and which brings Him down every day on our altars by Transubstantiation (ibid.), in order to make us benefit by the merits of His death on Calvary.

These three mysteries, which make manifest to us the divine charity in a more special way, sum up the spirit of the feast of the Sacred Heart. It is " His love which forced Him to put on a mortal body." † It is His love which willed that the Sacred Heart should be pierced on the Cross (Gospel), in order that from the wound should flow a spring we might draw from joyfully (Epistle), whose water cleanses us from our Sins in baptism and whose blood nourishes our souls in the Eucharist. And as the Eucharist is the prolongation of the Incarnation and the continuation of Calvary, Jesus asked that the feast should be placed immediately after the Octave of Corpus Christi.

As these manifestations of Christ's love only show off the more the ingratitude of men who only answer by coldness and indifference (Communion) this solemnity has a character of reparation demanded of us by the wounded Heart of Jesus and by His immolation in the Crib, on the Cross and on the Altar.

Let us go to the school of the Heart of Jesus whose gentle and humble love turns no one away and in it we shall find rest for our souls (Alleluia).

* Liturgical Year of D. Guéranger: Feast of the Sacred Heart of Jesus.
† Hymn at Vespers.

First Vespers : only when the Feast is transferred.

Antiphon at the Magnificat : Ps. lxviii. 21.

Impropérium * expectávit cor meum et misériam : et sustínui qui simul constristarétur, et non fuit: et qui consolarétur, et non invéni.

℣. Ignem veni míttere in terram.

℟. Et quid volo, nisi ut accendátur?

My heart hath expected reproach and misery; and I looked for one that would grieve together with me, but there was none; and for one that would comfort me, and I found none.

℣. I came to cast fire upon earth.

℟. And what will I, but that it be kindled? (Luke xii. 49.)

MASS.

Introit : Lament. iii. 32, 33, 25.

Miserébitur secúndum multitúdinem miseratiónum suárum : non enim humiliávit ex corde suo, et abjécit fílios hóminum : bonus est Dóminus sperántibus in eum, ánimae quaerénti illum, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Misericórdias Dómini in aetérnum cantábo : in generatiónem et generatiónem. ℣. Glória Patri.

He will have mercy according to the multitude of His mercies for He hath not willingly afflicted nor cast off the children of men : the Lord is good to them that hope in Him, to the soul that seeketh Him. Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. The mercies of the Lord I will sing for ever : to generation and generation. ℣. Glory be to the Father. (Ps. lxxxviii. 2.)

Collect.

Concéde, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus : ut, qui in sanctíssimo dilécti Fílii tui Corde gloriántes, praecípua in nos caritátis ejus benefícia recólimus ; eórum páriter et actu delectémur et fructu. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

O Almighty God, we entreat Thee, give unto us who, calling to mind the inestimable blessings we owe to its love of us, glory in the most Sacred Heart of Thy beloved Son, to make it our delight to dwell in thought, both on those same blessings and on the fruit we gather therefrom. Through our Lord.

Epistle : Isa. xii. 1-6.

Léctio Isaíae Prophétae.—Confitébor tibi, Dómine, quóniam irátus es mihi : convérsus est furor tuus, et consolátus es me. Ecce Deus sal-

Lesson from the Prophet Isaias.—I will give thanks to Thee, O Lord, for Thou wast angry with me; Thy wrath is turned away, and Thou hast comforted me. Behold God is my Saviour, I will deal confidently, and will not fear: because the Lord is my strength, and my praise, and He is become my salvation. You shall draw waters with joy out of the Saviour's fountains: and you shall say in that day: Praise ye the Lord, and call upon His name; make His works known among the people: remember that His name is high. Sing ye to the Lord, for He hath done great things; shew this forth in all the earth. Rejoice, and praise, O Thou habitation of Sion: for great is He that is in the midst of thee, the Holy one of Israel.

vátor meus, fiduciáliter agam, et non timébo: quia fortitúdo mea, et laus mea Dóminus, et factus est mihi in salútem. Hauriétis aquas in gáudio de fóntibus Salvatóris: et dicétis in die illa: Confitémini Dómino, et invocáte nomen ejus: notas fácite in pópulis adinventiónes ejus: mementóte quóniam excélsum est nomen ejus. Cantáte Dómino, quóniam magnífice fecit: annuntiáte hoc in univérsa terra. Exsúlta, et lauda habitátio Sion: quia magnus in médio tui Sanctus Israël.

Gradual: Lament. i. 12.

O all ye that pass by the way, attend and see if there be any sorrow like to my sorrow. ℣. Having loved His own who were in the world, He loved them unto the end. (John xiii. 1.)

O vos omnes, qui transítis per viam, atténdite, et vidéte, si est dolor sicut dolor meus. ℣. Cum dilexísset suos, qui erant in mundo, in fínem diléxit eos.

Alleluia, alleluia: Matt. xi. 29.

℣. Learn of Me, because I am meek and humble of heart; you shall find rest to your souls. Alleluia.

℣. Díscite a me quia mitis sum, et húmilis corde: et inveniétis réquiem animábus vestris. Allelúia.

In Votive Masses, after Septuagesima, the Alleluia is omitted and the Verse below is said:

Tract: Ps. xxi. 7, 8, 15.

But I am a worm, and no man: the reproach of men, and the outcast of the people. ℣. All they that saw Me laughed Me to scorn: they have spoken with the lips, and wagged the head. ℣. I am poured out like water, and all My bones are scattered:

Ego autem sum vermis, et non homo: oppróbrium hóminum, et abjéctio plebis. ℣. Omnes vidéntes me, derisérunt me: locúti sunt lábiis et movérunt caput. ℣. Sicut aqua effúsus sum et dispérsa sunt ómnia ossa mea: factum est cor meum tamquam cera liquéscens in médio ventris mei. | My heart is become like wax melting in the midst of My bowels.

In Paschal time, the following, in place of the Gradual, is said:

Alleluia, alleluia : Ps. xxix. 3, 4, 12.

℣. Dómine Deus meus, clamávi ad te, et sanásti me: eduxísti ab inférno ánimam meam.

℣. O Lord my God, I have cried to Thee, and Thou hast healed me: Thou hast brought forth, O Lord, my soul from hell.

Alleluia.

℣. Convertisti planctum meum in gáudium mihi: conscidísti saccum meum, et circumdedísti me laetítia. Allelúia.

℣. Thou hast turned for me my mourning into joy: Thou hast cut my sack-cloth and hast compassed me with gladness. Alleluia.

Gospel : John ix. 31-35.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Judaei (quóniam Parascéve erat) ut non remanérent in cruce córpora sábbato (erat enim magnus dies ille sábbati), rogavérunt Pilátum, ut frangeréntur eórum crura, et tolleréntur. Venérunt ergo mílites: et primi quidem fregérunt crura, et altérius, qui crucifíxus est cum eo. Ad Jesum autem cum venissent, ut vidérunt eum jam mórtuum, non fregérunt ejus crura; sed unus mílitum láncea latus ejus apéruit, et contínuo exívit sanguis, et aqua. Et qui vidit, testimónium perhibuit: et verum est testimónium ejus.—Credo.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel, according to St. John.—At that time, the Jews (because it was the Parasceve), that the bodies might not remain upon the cross on the Sabbath-day (for that was a great Sabbath-day), besought Pilate that their legs might be broken, and that they might be taken away. The soldiers therefore came, and they broke the legs of the first, and of the other that was crucified with him. But after they were come to Jesus, when they saw that He was already dead, they did not break His legs, but one of the soldiers with a spear opened His side, and immediately there came out blood and water. And he that saw it hath given testimony, and his testimony is true.—Creed.

Offertory : Ps. cii. 2, 5.

Bénedic ánima mea Dómino, et noli oblivísci omnes re-

Bless the Lord, O my soul: and never forget all He hath done for thee: Who satisfied thy desire with good things. Alleluia.

tributiónes ejus, qui replet in bonis desidérium tuum, allelúia.

Secret.

Protect us, O Lord, who offer up unto Thee that holocaust which is Thy very self: and in order that our hearts may, by greater fervour, be made ready for Thy coming, do Thou burn them up in the flames of Thy divine love. Who livest.

Tuére nos, Dómine, tua tibi holocáusta offeréntes: ad quae, ut fervéntius corda nostra praeparéntur, flammis adúre tuae divínae caritátis. Qui vivis.

The Preface is that of Passiontide, p. 53.

Communion: Ps. lxviii. 21.

My heart hath expected reproach and misery: and I looked for one that would grieve together with me, but there was none; and for one that would comfort me, and I found none. Alleluia.

Impropérium exspectávit cor meum, et misériam: et sustínui qui simul contristarétur, et non fuit: et qui consolarétur, et non invéni, allelúia.

Postcommunion.

Fed in this peace-offering with Thine interior delights and life-giving sacraments: we humbly beseech Thee, O Lord our God, Who art meek and humble of heart, to cleanse us from every stain of sin, and thus the more surely to render our hearts alien from the empty vanities of this world: Who livest.

Pacíficis pasti delíciis, et salutáribus sacraméntis, te súpplices exorámus, Dómine Deus noster: ut, qui mitis es, et húmilis corde, nos a vitiórum labe purgátos, propénsius fácias a supérbis saeculi vanitátibus abhorrére: Qui vivis.

SECOND VESPERS.

First Ps. cix.: Dixit Dominus, p. 98; Second Ps. cx.: Confitebor, p. 99; Third Ps. cxv.: Credidi, p. 127; Fourth Ps. cxxvii.: Beati omnes, p. 129; Fifth Ps. cxlvii.: Lauda Jerusalem, p. 134.

Ant. Matt. xi. 29. Learn of Me, because I am meek and humble of heart.

Ant. 1. Díscite a me * quia mitis sum, et húmilis corde.

2. Sanctificávi locum istum * ut sit nomen meum ibi in sempitérnum, et permáneant óculi mei, et cor meum ibi cunctis diébus.

2. 2 Par. vii. 16. I have sanctified this place, to put My name there for ever, and My eyes and My Heart shall be there for ever.

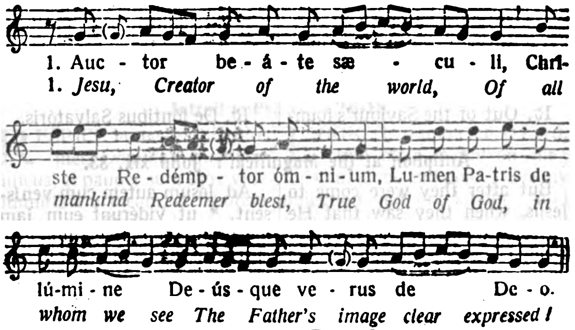
3. Et dixi : * Ergo sine causa justificávi cor meum, et lavi inter innocéntes manus meas, te fui flagellátus tota die.

3. Ps. lxxii. 13. And I said: Then have I in vain justified My Heart, and washed My hands among the innocent, and I have been scourged all the day.

4. Secúndum multitúdinem * dolórum meórum in corde meo, consolatiónes tuae laetificavérunt ánimam meam.

4. Ps. xciii. 19. According to the multitude of my sorrows in my heart, Thy comforts have given joy to my soul.

5. Pone me * ut signáculum super cor tuum : ut signáculum super bráchium tuum.



5. Cant. viii. 6. Put me as a seal upon Thy heart: as a seal upon Thy arm.

Chapter : Isa. xii. 2.

Ecce Deus Salvátor meus, fiduciáliter agam, et non timébo : quia fortitúdo mea, et laus mea Dóminus, et factus est mihi in salútem. * Hauriétis aquas in gáudio de fóntibus Salvatóris.

Behold, God is my Saviour, I will deal confidently and will not fear: because the Lord is my strength and my praise, and is become my salvation. You shall draw waters of joy out of the Saviour's fountains.

Hymn (Tone vii.).

2. Thee, Saviour, love alone constrained [Thine own.
To make our mortal flesh
And as a second Adam come
For the first Adam to atone.

2. Amor coégit te tuus
Mortále corpus súmere,
Ut novus Adam rédderes
Quod vetus ille abstúlerat.

3. That self-same love which made the sky,
Which made the sea, and stars, and earth,
Took pity on our misery
And broke the bondage of our birth.

3. Ille amor almus ártifex
Terrae, marísque, et síderum,
Erráta patrum míserans,
Et nostra rumpens víncula.

4. O Jesu! in Thy heart divine
May that same love for ever glow;
For ever mercy to mankind
From that exhaustless fountain flow.

4. Non Corde discédat tuo
Vis illa amóris ínclyti:
Hoc fonte gentes háuriant
Remissiónis grátiam.

5. For this Thy Sacred Heart was pierced,
And with both blood and water ran; [of guilt,
To cleanse us from the stains
And be the hope and strength of man.

5. Percússum ad hoc est láncea,
Passúmque ad hoc est vúlnera,
Ut nos laváret sórdibus
Unda fluénte, et sánguine.

6. To God the Father, and the Son, [glory be;
All praise and power and
With Thee, O holy Comforter,
Henceforth through all eternity. Amen

6. Decus Paránti, et Fílio,
Sanctóque sit Spirítui,
Quibus potéstas, glória,
Regnúmque in omne est saeculum. Amen.

℣. Isa. xii. 3. Ye shall draw waters with joy. [tains.
℟. Out of the Saviour's foun-

℣. Hauriétis aquas in gáudio.
℟. De fóntibus Salvatóris.

Antiphon at the Magnificat: John xix. 33.

But after they were come to Jesus, when they saw that He was already dead, they did not break His legs; but one of the soldiers with a spear opened His side, and immediately there came out blood and water.

Ad Jesum autem cum venissent, * ut vidérunt eum jam mórtuum, non fregérunt ejus crura: sed unus mílitum láncea latus ejus apéruit, et contínuo exívit sanguis, et aqua.

"He seeks until He has found it again" (Gospel).

Third Sunday after Pentecost.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

The Mass to-day celebrates the Divine mercy towards sinners (Collect, Postcommunion). In the same way Jesus "Who had come not to call the just but sinners" the Holy Ghost, Who continues in our hearts the action of Christ, comes to establish the reign of God in sinful souls. He therefore proclaims by the mouth of Peter, the Head of the Church, our weakness before the devil, who, like a roaring lion, seeks to devour us (Epistle). The human race has fallen into sin. It is represented by the lost sheep which the divine Shepherd bore on His shoulders, and by the lost drachma struck with the effigy of the King of Heaven and which the Church found again (Gospel).

"Without God, nothing is strong, nothing is holy" (Collect). He alone can give us, in the midst of temptation "an unshakable stability" (Epistle). Therefore it is we must on Him "throw all our thoughts and cares" (Epistle, Gradual).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS.—RESPICE IN ME.

Introit: Ps. xxiv. 16-18.

RESPICE in me, et miserére mei, Dómine: quóniam únicus, et pauper sum ego: vide humilitátem meam, et labórem meum: et dimítte ómnia peccáta mea, Deus meus. Ps. Ad te, Dómine, levávi ánimam meam: Deus meus, in te confído, non erubéscam. ℣. Glória Patri.

LOOK Thou upon me, O Lord, and have mercy on me; for I am alone and poor. See my abjection and my labour; and forgive me all my sins, O my God. Ps. xxiv. 1, 2. To Thee, O Lord, have I lifted up my soul: in Thee, my God, I put my trust; let me not be ashamed ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collect.

O God, the protector of all who hope in Thee, without Whom nothing is strong, nothing is holy: multiply Thy mercies upon us, that having Thee for our ruler, and Thee for our guide, we may in such manner make use of temporal goods, that we lose not those which are everlasting. Through our Lord.

Protéctor in te sperántium, Deus, sine quo nihil est válidum, nihil sanctum: multíplica super nos misericórdiam tuam, ut, te rectóre, te duce, sic transeámus per bona temporália, ut non amittámus aetérna. Per Dóminum.

Second Prayer: A cunctis, p. 156; Third Prayer, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

Epistle: 1 Peter v. 6-11.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Peter, the Apostle.—DEARLY beloved, Be you humbled under the mighty hand of God, that He may exalt you in the time of visitation; casting all your care upon Him, for He hath care of you. Be sober and watch, because your adversary the devil, as a roaring lion, goeth about seeking whom he may devour. Whom resist ye, strong in faith; knowing that the same affliction befalls your brethren who are in the world. But the God of all grace, who hath called us unto the eternal glory in Christ Jesus, after you have suffered a little, will Himself perfect you, and confirm you, and establish you. To Him be glory and empire for ever and ever. Amen.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Petri Apóstoli.—CARISSIMI: Humiliámini sub poténti manu Dei, ut vos exáltet in témpore visitatiónis: omnem sollicitúdinem vestram projiciéntes in eum, quóniam ipsi cura est de vobis. Sóbrii estóte, et vigiláte: quia adversárius vester diábolus tamquam leo rúgiens círcuit, quaerens quem dévoret: cui resístite fortes in fide: sciéntes eámdem passiónem ei, quae in mundo est, vestrae fraternitáti fíeri. Deus autem omnis grátiae, qui vocávit nos in aetérnam suam glóriam in Christo Jesu, módicum passos ipse perfíciet, confirmábit, solidabítque. Ipsi glória, et impérium in saecula saeculórum. Amen.

Gradual: Ps. liv. 23, 17, 19.

Cast thy care upon the Lord and He shall sustain thee. ℣. When I cried to the Lord He heard my voice, from them that draw near to me.

Jacta cogitátum tuum in Dómino: et ipse te enútriet. ℣. Dum clamárem ad Dóminum, exaudívit vocem meam ab his, qui appropínquant mihi.

Alleluia, alleluia : Ps. vii. 12.

Deus judex justus, fortis et pátiens, numquid iráscitur per síngulos dies?—Allelúia.

℣. God is a just judge, strong and patient, is He angry every day?—Alleluia.

Gospel : Luke xv. 1-10.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo témpore: Erant appropinquántes ad Jesum publicáni, et peccatóres, ut audírent illum. Et murmurábant pharisaei et scribae, dicéntes: Quia hic peccatóres récipit, et mandúcat cum illis. Et ait ad illos parábolam istam, dicens: Quis ex vobis homo, qui habet centum oves: et si perdíderit unam ex illis, nonne dimíttit nonagintanóvem in desérto, et vadit ad illam, quoe períerat, donec invéniat eam? Et cum invénerit eam, impónit in húmeros suos gaudens: et véniens domum, cónvocat amícos, et vicínos, dicens illis: Congratulámini mihi, quia invéni ovem meam, quae períerat? Dico vobis, quod ita gáudium erit in coelo super uno peccatóre poeniténtiam agénte, quam super nonagintanóvem justis, qui non índigent poeniténtia. Aut quae múlier habens drachmas decem, si perdíderit drachmam unam, nonne accéndit lucérnam, et evérrit domum, et quaerit diligénter, donec invéniat? Et cum invénerit, cónvocat amícas et vicínas, dicens: Congratulámini mihi, quia invéni drachmam, quam perdíderam? Ita dico vobis: gáudium erit coram Angelis Dei super uno peccatóre poeniténtiam agénte.—Credo.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—At that time, the publicans and sinners drew near unto Jesus to hear Him: and the Pharisees and Scribes murmured, saying: This man receiveth sinners and eateth with them. And He spoke to them this parable, saying: What man is there of you that hath a hundred sheep, and if he shall lose one of them, doth he not leave the ninety-nine in the desert, and go after that which was lost, until he find it? And when he hath found it, lay it upon his shoulders rejoicing, and coming home, call together his friends and neighbours, saying to them: Rejoice with me, because I have found my sheep that was lost? I say to you, that even so there shall be joy in heaven upon one sinner that doth penance, more than upon ninety-nine just who need not penance. Or what woman having ten groats, if she lose one groat, doth not light a candle, and sweep the house, and seek diligently until she find it? And when she hath found it, call together her friends and neighbours, saying: Rejoice with me, because I have found the groat which I had lost? So I say to you, there shall be joy before the angels of God upon one sinner doing penance.—Creed.

Offertory: Ps. ix. 11, 12, 13.

Let them trust in Thee who know Thy name, O Lord: for Thou hast not forsaken them that seek Thee: sing ye to the Lord, Who dwelleth in Sion: for He hath not forgotten the cry of the poor.

Sperent in te omnes, qui novérunt nomen tuum, Dómine: quóniam non derelínquis quaeréntes te: psállite Dómino, qui hábitat in Sion: quóniam non est oblítus oratiónem páuperum.

Secret.

Favourably regard, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the offerings of Thy suppliant church: and grant that, hallowed for evermore by Thee, to Thy faithful receiving them, they may avail unto salvation. Through our Lord.

Réspice, Dómine múnera, supplicántis Ecclésiae; et salúti credéntium perpétua sanctificatióne suménda concéde. Per Dóminum.

Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 157; Third Secret at the option of the Priest, see p. 160; Preface of the Holy Trinity, p. 55.

Communion: Luke v. 10.

I say to you: there is joy before the angels of God upon one sinner doing penance.

Dico vobis: gáudium est Angelis Dei super uno peccatóre poeniténtiam agénte.

Postcommunion.

May the holy things we have received quicken us, O Lord: may they atone for our sins: and may they fit us to share everlastingly in Thy mercies. Through our Lord.

Sancta tua nos, Dómine, sumpta vivíficent: et misericórdiae sempitérnae praeparent expiátos. Per Dóminum.

Second Postcommunion: Mundet, p. 157; Third Postcommunion, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

SECOND VESPERS.

All as in Common of the Sunday, p. 95, except:

At the Magnificat: Luke xv. 8.

What woman having ten groats, if she lose one groat, doth not light a candle, and sweep the house, and seek diligently until she find it?

Quae múlier* habens drachmas decem, et si perdíderit drachmam unam, nonne accéndit lucérnam, et evérrit domum, et quaerit diligénter donec invéniat.

Collect of the Mass, p. 1060.

"And the net broke" (Gospel).

Fourth Sunday after Pentecost.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

Confidence in God in the midst of the struggles and sufferings of this life, such is the predominating thought in to-day's Mass. The Apostle describes in the Epistle the tribulations which overwhelm us, and shows us their glorious result. The whole of nature shares the punishment of sin. As well as man, all beings groan and suffer. But at the Pentecostal Feasts the Church has received the first-fruits of the Holy Ghost Who has sanctified our souls and Who is the pledge of the resurrection of our bodies and of our enfranchisement from the material world. Our sufferings are then, as it were, our birth into divine life, and it is at this price that we purchase heaven.

But to reach heaven we must place our confidence in the Lord Who alone is our refuge, our salvation and our defender (Introit, Gradual, Alleluia, Communion), and in order that our enemies may not prevail against us (Offertory) let us ask of God "that the world may walk in peace according to the order established by Him, and the Church enjoy tranquilly the delights of piety" (Collect).

The visible protection of Providence which extends to the least events is shown to us in the Gospel. The Church (notice that the liturgy during the Season after Pentecost is specially concerned with her) is represented by the bark of Peter. It is his that Jesus chose to preach from, it is Simon He commands to put off from the shore, and it is he who, at his Master's bidding, casts his nets which are filled to breaking point. It is Peter indeed who, struck with astonishment and fright, adores his Master. He will be henceforth with his companions a fisher of men, for they have understood the lesson of confidence which the Saviour gives them and they follow Him.

In the bark of the Church, beaten by the waves and tempests of this world, let us put our trust in God.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS: DOMINUS ILLUMINATIO.

Introit: Ps. xxvi. 1, 2.

THE LORD is my light and my salvation: whom shall I fear? The Lord is the protector of my life: of whom shall I be afraid? My enemies that trouble me have themselves been weakened and have fallen. Ps. xxvi. 3. If armies in camp should stand together against me, my heart shall not fear. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

DOMINUS illuminátio mea, et salus mea, quem timébo? Dóminus defénsor vitae meae, a quo trepidábo? qui tríbulant me inimíci mei, ipsi infirmáti sunt, et cecidérunt. Ps. Si consístant advérsum me castra: non timébit cor meum. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.

Grant, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that the governance of the world may be ordered in peace by Thee: and that Thy Church in all quietness may render her glad service to Thee. Through our Lord.

Da nobis, quaesumus, Dómine: ut et mundi cursus pacífice nobis tuo órdine dirigátur; et Ecclésia tua tranquílla devotióne laetétur. Per Dóminum.

Second Collect: A cunctis, p. 156; Third Collect: at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

Epistle: Rom. viii. 18-23.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Romans.—BRETHREN, I reckon that the sufferings of this time are not worthy to be compared with the glory to come, that shall be revealed in us. For the expectation of the creature waiteth for the revelation of the sons of God. For the creature was made subject to vanity, not willingly, but by reason of him that made it subject in hope; because the creature also itself shall be delivered from the servitude of corruption, into the liberty of the glory of the children of God. For we know that every creature groaneth, and travaileth Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Romános.—FRATRES: Exístimo, quod non sunt condígnae passiónes hujus témporis ad futúram glóriam, quae revelábitur in nobis. Nam exspectátio creatúrae, revelatiónem filiórum Dei exspéctat. Vanitáti enim creatúra subjécta est, non volens, sed propter eum, qui subjécit eam in spe: quia et ipsa creatúra liberábitur a servitúte corruptiónis, in libertátem glóriae filiórum Dei. Scimus enim quod omnis creatúra ingemíscit, et párturit usque adhuc. Non solum autem illa, sed et nos ipsi primítias spíritus habéntes, et ipsi intra nos gémimus, adoptiónem filiórum Dei exspectántes, redemptiónem córporis nostri: in Christo Jesu Dómino nostro.

in pain, even till now; and not only it, but ourselves also, who have the first fruits of the Spirit, even we ourselves groan within ourselves, waiting for the adoption of the sons of God, the redemption of our body; in Christ Jesus our Lord.

Gradual: Ps. lxxviii. 9, 8.

Propítius esto, Dómine, peccátis nostris: nequándo dicant gentes: Ubi est Deus eórum? ℣. Adjuva nos, Deus salutáris noster, et propter honórem nóminis tui, Dómine, líbera nos.

Forgive us our sins, O Lord, lest the Gentiles should at any time say: Where is their God? ℣. Help us, O God, our Saviour; and for the honour of Thy name, O Lord, deliver us.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. ix. 5, 10.

℣. Deus, qui sedes super thronum, et júdicas aequitátem: esto refúgium páuperum in tribulatióne.—Allelúia.

℣. O God, Who sittest upon the throne, and judgest justice, be Thou the refuge of the poor in tribulation.—Alleluia.

Gospel: Luke v. 1-11.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo témpore: Cum turbae irrúerent in Jesum, ut audírent verbum Dei, et ipse stabat secus stagnum Genésareth. Et vidit duas naves stantes secus stagnum: piscatóres autem descénderant, et lavábant rétia. Ascéndens autem in unam navim, quae erat Simónis, rogávit eum a terra redúcere pusíllum. Et sedens docébat de navícula turbas. Ut cessávit autem loqui, dixit ad Simónem: Duc in autum, et laxáte rétia vestra in captúram. Et respóndens Simon dixit illi: Praecéptor, per totam noctem laborántes, nihil cépimus: in verbo autem tuo laxábo rete. Et cum hoc fecissent, conclusérunt píscium multitúdinem copiósam: rum-

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel, according to St. Luke.—At that time, when the multitude pressed upon Jesus to hear the word of God, He stood by the lake of Genesareth. And He saw two ships standing by the lake; but the fishermen were gone out of them, and were washing their nets; and going up into one of the ships that was Simon's, He desired him to draw back a little from the land: and sitting He taught the multitudes out of the ship. Now when He had ceased to speak, He said to Simon; Launch out into the deep, and let down your nets for a draught. And Simon, answering, said to Him: Master, we have laboured all the night, and have taken nothing, but at Thy word I will let down the net.

And when they had done this, they enclosed a very great multitude of fishes; and their net broke: and they beckoned to their partners that were in the other ship, that they should come and help them; and they came, and filled both the ships, so that they were almost sinking. Which when Simon Peter saw, he fell down at Jesus's knees, saying: Depart from me, for I am a sinful man, O Lord. For he was wholly astonished, and all that were with him, at the draught of fishes which they had taken: and so were also James and John the sons of Zebedee, who were Simon's partners. And Jesus saith to Simon: Fear not, from henceforth thou shalt catch men. And having brought their ships to land, leaving all things they followed him.—Creed.

pebátur autem rete eórum. Et annuérunt sóciis, qui erant in ália navi, ut venírent, et adjuvárent eos. Et venérunt, et implevérunt ambas navículas, ita ut pene mergeréntur. Quod cum vidéret Simon Petrus, prócidit ad génua Jesu, dicens: Exi a me, quia homo peccátor sum, Dómine. Stupor enim circumdéderat eum, et omnes, qui cum illo erant, in captúra píscium, quam céperant: simíliter autem Jacóbum et Joánnem, fílios Zebedaei, qui erant sócii Simónis. Et ait ad Simónem Jesus: Noli timére: ex hoc jam hómines eris cápiens. Et subdúctis ad terram návibus, relíctis ómnibus, secúti sunt eum.—Credo.

Offertory: Ps. xii. 4, 5.

Enlighten my eyes, that I never sleep in death; lest at any time my enemy say: I have prevailed against him.

Illumina óculos meos, ne unquam obdórmiam in morte: nequándo dicat inimícus meus: Praeválui advérsus eum.

Secret.

Accept, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the offerings we lay before Thee: and, appeased thereby, constrain our rebellious wills to Thy service. Through our Lord.

Oblatiónibus nostris, quaesumus, Dómine, placáre suscéptis: et ad te nostras étiam rebélles compélle propítius voluntátes. Per Dóminum.

Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 157; Third Secret, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

Preface of the Blessed Trinity, p. 55.

Communion: Ps. xvii. 3.

The Lord is my firmament, and my refuge, and my deliverer, my God is my helper.

Dóminus firmaméntum meum, et refúgium meum, et liberátor meus: Deus meus adjútor meus.

Postcommunion.

Mystéra nos, Dómine, quaesumus, sumpta puríficent: et suo múnere tueántur. Per Dóminum.

May the sacrament we have received, O Lord, make clean our hearts: and by the grace with which it has enriched us, be our sure defence. Through our Lord.

Second Postcommunion: Mundet, p. 157; Third Postcommunion, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

SECOND VESPERS.

All as in Common of the Sunday, p. 95, except:

Anthem at the Magnificat: Luke v. 5.

Praecéptor, per totam noctem laborántes nihil cépimus, in verbo autem tuo laxábo rete.

Master, we have laboured all night and have taken nothing; but at Thy word I will let down the net.

Collect of the Mass, p. 1064.

"Be reconciled to thy brother" (Gospel).

Fifth Sunday after Pentecost.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

The week of the Fifth Sunday after Pentecost used to be called the week after the Feast of the Apostles, for it is among those which rather often coincide with the Feast of the Holy Apostles Peter and Paul. The Epistle is from St. Peter's and the Gospel used to be that of last Sunday, which relates especially to him.*

The Mass as presented to us by the Church on this day contains a great lesson in Christian Charity. We must live in union. Having entered the Church—the Kingdom of the Father—we are the children of God, and we must love Him in our neighbour who participates as we do in the divine nature. Indeed the Epistle and Gospel show us that our prayer is of value only if we are all of one heart, otherwise it is vain, and the Collect makes us ask God to grant us His love, as it is our love for God which is the motive of our love for our neighbour.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS: EXAUDI, DOMINE.

Introit: Ps. xxvi. 7-9.

HEAR, O Lord, my voice with which I have cried to Thee: be Thou my helper, forsake me not, nor do Thou despise me, O God my Saviour. Ps. The Lord is my light, and my salvation, whom shall I fear. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

EXAUDI, Dómine, vocem meam, qua clamávi ad te: adjútor meus esto, ne derelínquas me, neque despícias me, Deus salutáris meus. Ps. Dóminus illuminátio mea, et salus mea, quem timébo? ℣. Glória Patri.

* The Gospel of the Fourth Sunday after Pentecost, having been transferred to the Mass of the First Sunday after Pentecost, a general gliding took place affecting all the Gospels as from the Fifth to the Twenty-third Sunday, and was universally received in the Sixteenth century. The Gospel of the Fifth Sunday therefore became that of the Fourth, and so forth.

Collect.

Deus, qui diligéntibus te bona invisibília praeparásti: infúnde córdibus nostris tui amóris affectum: ut te in ómnibus et super ómnia diligéntes, promissiónes tuas, quae omne desidérium súperant, consequámur. Per Dóminum.

O God, Who for them that love Thee hast prepared good things, which eye hath not seen, pour into our hearts a fervent love of Thee; so that in all things, and above all things, loving Thee, we may attain to Thy promises exceeding all desire of the heart of man. Through our Lord.

Second Collect: A cunctis, p. 156; Third Collect, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

Epistle: 1 Peter iii. 8-15.

Lectio Epístolae beáti Petri Apóstoli.—CARISSIMI: Omnes unánimes in oratióne estóte, compatiéntes, fraternitátis amatóres, misericórdes, modésti, húmiles: non reddéntes malum pro malo, nec maledíctum pro maledícto, sed e contrário benedicéntes: quia in hoc vocáti estis, ut benedictiónem hereditáte possideátis. Qui enim vult vitam dilígere, et dies vidére bonos, coérceat linguam suam a malo, et lábia ejus ne loquántur dolum. Declínet a malo, et fáciat bonum: inquírat pacem, et sequátur eam. Quia óculi Dómini super justos, et aures ejus in preces eórum: vultus autem Dómini super faciéntes mala. Et quis est qui vobis nóceat, si boni aemulatóres fuéritis? Sed et si quid patímini propter justítiam, beáti. Timórem autem eórum ne timuéritis: et non conturbémini. Dóminum autem Christum sanctificáte in córdibus vestris.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Peter the Apostle.—DEARLY beloved: Be ye all of one mind, having compassion one of another, being lovers of the brotherhood, merciful, modest, humble; not rendering evil for evil, nor railing for railing, but contrariwise, blessing: for unto this are you called, that you may inherit a blessing. For he that will love life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile. Let him decline from evil and do good; let him seek after peace, and pursue it; because the eyes of the Lord are upon the just, and his ears unto their prayers, but the countenance of the Lord against them that do evil things. And who is he that can hurt you, if you be jealous of good? But if also you suffer anything for justice' sake, blessed are ye. And be not afraid of their fear, and be not troubled; but sanctify the Lord Christ in your hearts.

Gradual: Ps. lxxxiii. 10, 9.

Behold, O God our protector, and look on Thy servants. ℣. O Lord God of hosts, give ear to the prayers of Thy servants.

Protéctor noster áspice Deus: et réspice super servos tuos. ℣. Dómine Deus virtútum, exáudi preces servórum tuórum.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. xx. 1.

℣. In Thy strength, O Lord, the king shall joy; and in Thy salvation he shall rejoice exceedingly.—Alleluia.

℣. Dómine, in virtúte tua laetábitur rex; et super salutáre tuum exsultábit veheménter.—Allelúia.

Gospel: Matthew v. 20-24.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew.—At that time, Jesus said to His disciples: Except your justice abound more than that of the Scribes and Pharisees, you shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. You have heard that it was said to them of old: Thou shalt not kill; and whosoever shall kill, shall be in danger of the judgment. But I say to you, that whosoever is angry with his brother, shall be in danger of the judgment; and whosoever shall say to his brother: Raca, shall be in danger of the council; and whosoever shall say: Thou fool, shall be in danger of hell fire. If therefore thou offer thy gift at the altar, and there thou remember that thy brother hath anything against thee, leave there thy offering before the altar, and go first to be reconciled to thy brother; and then coming thou shalt offer thy gift.—Creed.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Nisi abundáverit justítia vestra plus quam scribárum et pharisaeórum, non intrábitis in regnum coelórum. Audístis, quia dictum est antíquis: Non occídes: qui autem occíderit, reus erit judício. Ego autem dico vobis: quia omnis, qui iráscitur fratri suo, reus erit judício. Qui autem díxerit fratri suo, raca: reus erit concílio. Qui autem díxerit, fátue: reus erit gehénnae ignis. Si ergo offers munus tuum ad altáre, et ibi recordátus fúeris, quia frater tuus habet áliquid advérsum te: relínque ibi munus tuum ante altáre, et vade prius reconciliári fratri tuo: et tunc véniens ófferes munus tuum.—Credo.

Offertory: Ps. xv. 7, 8.

I will bless the Lord, Who hath given me understanding: I set God always in my sight; for Benedícam Dóminum, qui tríbuit mihi intelléctum: providébam Deum in conspéctu meo semper: quóniam a dextris est mihi, ne commóvear.

He is at my right hand, that I be not moved.

Secret.

Propitiáre, Dómine, supplicatiónibus nostris: et has oblatiónes famulórum famularúmque tuárum benígnus assúme; ut, quod sínguli obtulérunt ad honórem nóminis tui, cunctis profíciat ad salútem. Per Dóminum.

Be appeased, we beseech Thee, O Lord, by our supplications: and in Thy loving kindness, graciously accept the offerings which Thy servants and Thine handmaidens lay upon Thine altar. May that which each one of us has offered to the glory of Thy name, profit all alike to salvation.

Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 157. Third Secret, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160. Preface of the Blessed Trinity, p. 55.

Communion: Ps. xxiv. 4.

Unam pétii a Dómino, hanc requíram: ut inhábitem in domo Dómini ómnibus diébus vitae meae.

One thing I have asked of the Lord, this will I seek after; that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life.

Postcommunion.

Quos coeléstí, Dómine, dono satiásti: praesta, quaesumus; ut a nostris mundémur occúltis, et ab hóstium liberémur insídiis. Per Dóminum.

Thou hast filled us with thy heavenly gifts, O Lord: vouchsafe, we beseech Thee, to cleanse us from our hidden faults, and deliver us from the snares of our enemies. Through our Lord.

Second Postcommunion: Mundet, p. 157; Third Postcommunion, at the option of the Priest, p. 160.

SECOND VESPERS.

All as in Common of the Sunday, p. 95, except:

Antiphon at the Magnificat: Matthew v. 23.

Si offers * munus tuum ante altáre, et recordátus fúeris quia frater tuus habet áliquid advérsus te: relínque ibi munus tuum ante altáre, et vade prius reconciliári fratri tuo: et tunc véniens, ófferes munus tuum, allelúia.

If thou offer thy gift at the altar, and thou remember that thy brother hath anything against thee, leave there thy offering before the altar, and go first to be reconciled to thy brother, and then coming thou shall offer thy gift. Alleluia.

Collect of the Mass, p. 1069.

"They took up that which was left of the fragments, seven baskets." (Gospel).

Sixth Sunday after Pentecost.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

Her mind being still occupied with the Sacraments of Baptism and Eucharist, which she has administered at Easter and at Pentecost, the Church reminds us to-day of the effects of these two great Sacraments.

Dead through sin, we have been plunged and, as it were, buried with Jesus in the baptismal water. "All we who have been baptised," says St. Paul, "it is in His death that we have been baptised" (Epistle). By dying on the Cross He atoned for our sins, and "our evil nature was crucified with Him" (ibid); we must therefore die to sin and no longer commit sin.

"If we have died with Christ," continued the Apostle, "we believe that we shall live with Him." "Christ having risen from the dead, we must also walk in a new life."

The Eucharist is the food of this divine life. The multiplication of loaves, related by St. Mark in to-day's Gospel, figured and announced this great Sacrament by which faithful souls are nourished.

Jesus has compassion on the multitude and gives food to four thousand men, who without this sustenance "would have fainted on the way." "He took the seven loaves, gave thanks to God, broke them, and gave them to His disciples to distribute, and they distributed them among the people" (Gospel). This miracle is expressly related to the promise of the institution of the Blessed Sacrament. Wherefore, when Jesus fulfilled it at the Last Supper, St. Paul writes that "He took bread and giving thanks He broke it and said: 'Receive and eat; this is My Body.'" And in adding: "Do this in memory of Me," He ordered the Apostles and their successors to consecrate in the same way the supernatural bread which is to sustain our souls and to distribute it throughout the world and to the end of time.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS: DOMINUS, FORTITUDO.

Introit: Ps. xxvii. 8, 9.

DOMINUS, fortitúdo plebis suae, et protéctor salutárium Christi sui est: salvum fac pópulum tuum, Dómine, et bénedic hereditáti tuae, et rege eos usque in saeculum. Ps. Ad te, Dómine, clamábo, Deus meus, ne síleas a me: ne quando táceas a me, et assimilábor descendéntibus in lacum.

℣. Glória Patri.

THE Lord is the strength of His people, and the protector of the salvation of His anointed: save, O Lord, Thy people, and bless Thy inheritance, and rule them for ever. Ps. Unto Thee will I cry, O Lord: O my God, be not Thou silent to me, lest if Thou be silent to me, I become like them that go down into the pit ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collect.

Deus virtútum, cujus est totum quod est óptimum: ínsere pectóribus nostris amórem tui nóminis, et praesta in nobis religiónis augméntum; ut, quae sunt bona, nútrias, ac pietátis stúdio, quae sunt nutríta, custódias. Per Dóminum.

O God of hosts, the giver of all good things: implant in our hearts the love of Thy name; make us to grow in fervour; foster in us that which is good, and, in Thy loving kindness, of that which Thou fosterest, be Thyself the safeguard. Through our Lord.

Second Collect: A cunctis, p. 156. Third Collect, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

Epistle: Romans vi. 3-11.

Léctio beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Romános.—FRATRES: Quicúmque baptizáti sumus in Christo Jesu, in morte ipsíus baptizáti sumus. Consepúlti enim sumus cum illo per baptísmum in mortem: ut quómodo Christus surréxit a mórtuis per glóriam Patris, ita et nos in novitáte vitae ambulémus. Si enim complantáti facti sumus similitúdini mortis ejus: simul et resurrectiónis érimus. Hoc sciéntes, quia vetus homo noster simul crucifíxus est: ut destruátur corpus Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Romans.—BRETHREN, all we who are baptised in Christ Jesus are baptised in His death. For we are buried together with Him by baptism unto death; that as Christ is risen from the dead by the glory of the Father, so we also may walk in newness of life. For if we have been planted together in the likeness of His death, we shall also be in the likeness of His resurrection. Knowing this, that our old man is crucified with Him, that the body of sin may be destroyed, and that we may serve sin no longer. For he that is dead is justified from sin. Now if ye be dead with Christ, we believe that we shall live also together with Christ. Knowing that Christ, rising again from the dead, dieth now no more, death shall no more have dominion over Him. For in that He died to sin He died once; but in that He liveth, He liveth unto God. So do you also reckon yourselves to be dead indeed to sin, but alive to God; in Christ Jesus our Lord.

peccáti, et ultra non serviámus peccáto. Qui enim mórtuus est, justificátus est a peccáto. Si autem mórtui sumus cum Christo: crédimus quia simul étiam vivémus cum Christo: sciéntes quod Christus resúrgens ex mórtuis, jam non móritur, mors illi ultra non dominábitur. Quod enim mórtuus est peccáto, mórtuus est semel: quod autem vivit, vivit Deo. Ita et vos existimáte, vos mórtuos quidem esse peccáto, vivéntes autem Deo, in Christo Jesu Dómino nostro.

Gradual: Ps. lxxxix. 13, 1.

Return, O Lord, a little; and be treated in favour of Thy servants. ℣. Lord, Thou hast been our refuge from generation to generation.

Convértere, Dómine, aliquántulum, et deprecáre super servos tuos. ℣. Dómine, refúgium factus es nobis, a generatióne et progénie.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. xxx. 2, 3.

In Thee, O Lord, have I hoped, let me never be confounded: deliver me in Thy justice, and release me; bow down Thy ear to me, make haste to deliver me. —Alleluia.

In te, Dómine, sperávi, non confúndar in aeternum: in justítia tua líbera me, et éripe me: inclína ad me aurem tuam, accélera, ut erípias me.—Allelúia.

Gospel: Mark viii. 1-9.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Mark.—At that time, when there was a great multitude with Jesus, and had nothing to eat, calling His disciples together, He saith to them: I have compassion on the multitude, for behold they have now been with Me three days, and have nothing to eat; and if I shall send them away fasting to their home, they will faint in the way: for some of them came discípuli sui: Unde illos quis póterit hic saturáre pánibus in solitúdine? Et interrogávit eos: Quot panes habétis? Qui dixérunt: Septem. Et praecépit turbae discúmbere super terram. Et accípiens septem panes, grátias agens fregit, et dabat discípulis suis, ut appónerent, et apposuérunt turbae. Et habébant piscículos paucos: et ipsos benedíxit, et jussit appóni. Et manducavérunt, et saturáti sunt, et sustulérunt quod superáverat de fragméntis, septem sportas. Erant autem qui manducáverant quasi quátuor míllia: et dimísit eos.—Credo.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Marcum.—In illo témpore: Cum turba multa esset cum Jesu, nec habérent quod manducárent, convocátis discípulis, ait illis: Miséreor super turbam: quia ecce jam tríduo sústinent me, nec habent quod mandúcent: et si dimísero eos jejúnos in domum suam, defícient in via: quidam enim ex eis de longe venérunt. Et respondérunt ei

from afar off. And His disciples answered Him: From whence can any one fill them here with bread in the wilderness? And He asked them: How many loaves have ye? who said: Seven. And He commanded the people to sit down on the ground. And taking the seven loaves, giving thanks, He broke and gave to His disciples to set before the people. And they had a few little fishes, and He blessed them, and commanded them to be set before them. And they did eat, and were filled; and they took up that which was left of the fragments, seven baskets: and they that had eaten were about four thousand: and He sent them away.—Creed.

Offertory: Ps. xvi. 5, 6, 7.

Pérfice gressus meos in sémitis tuis, ut non moveántur vestígia mea: inclína aurem tuam, et exáudi verba mea: miríﬁca misericórdias tuas, qui salvos facis sperántes in te, Dómine.

Perfect Thou my goings in Thy paths, that my footsteps be not moved: incline Thy ear, and hear my words: shew forth Thy wonderful mercies, Thou who savest them that trust in Thee, O Lord.

Secret.

Propitiare, Dómine supplicatiónibus nostris, et has pópuli tui oblatiónes benígnus assúme: et ut nullíus sit írritum votum, nullíus vácua postulátio, praesta; ut, quod fidéliter pétimus, efficáciter consequámur. Per Dóminum.

Be appeased, O Lord, by our supplications; and, in pity, accept these the offerings of Thy people: nor suffer the hope of anyone to be in vain, nor his prayer to remain unheard; but grant that what in faith we ask, we may in all fulness obtain. Through our Lord.

Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 157. Third Secret, at the option of the Priest, p. 160. Preface of Trinity Sunday, p. 55.

Communion: Ps. xxvi. 6.

Circuíbo, et immolábo in tabernáculo ejus hóstiam ju-

I will go round, and offer up in His tabernacle a sacrifice of jubilation; I will sing, and recite a psalm to the Lord.

bilatiónis: cantábo, et psalmum dicam Dómino.

Postcommunion.

We have been filled, O Lord, with Thy gifts: may they avail to make us clean of heart, and may their might be our defence.

Repléti sumus, Dómine, munéribus tuis. tríbue, quaesumus; ut eórum et mundémur efféctu, et muniámur auxílio. Per Dóminum.

Second Postcommunion: Mundet, p. 157. Third Postcommunion, at the option of the Priest, p. 160.

SECOND VESPERS

All as in Common of the Sunday, p. 95, except:

Antiphon at the Magnificat: Mark viii. 2.

I have compassion on the multitude; for behold they have now been with me three days and have nothing to eat: and if I shall send them away fasting to their home, they will faint in the way. Alleluia.

Miséreor * super turbam: quia ecce jam tríduo sústinent me, nec habent quod mandúcent: et si dimísero eos jejúnos, defícient in via, allelúia.

Collect of the Mass, p. 1073.

"Every good tree bringeth forth good fruit" (Gospel).

Seventh Sunday after Pentecost.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

The Ark of the Covenant carried by the Israelites on the battlefields had given them victory; and while with cries of joy they brought it back to the Mount of Sion, they exhorted in the words of the Psalm xlvi. all nations to come and praise their God (Introit). In this ascent the Fathers see a figure of the Ascension of Jesus after His victory over the devil and the world.

God, through His Christ, Who is Wisdom, thus attracts all souls, "for His Providence is unerring in the ordering of His divine plans" (Collect). Wherefore the sacred number of seven which designates this Sunday also designates this same wisdom given to Solomon after he had offered the sacrifice mentioned by Daniel in the Offertory. And as fear is the beginning of wisdom, David says: "I shall teach you the fear of the Lord" (Gradual).

Divine life shows itself in acts. St. Augustine, explaining the Introit, says that "the hands and the tongue must agree, the one glorifying God and the other acting." And the Gospel declares that it is not those who say: "Lord, Lord, who will enter the Kingdom of Heaven, but those who do the will of the Father." A tree is judged by its fruit. If good species give "grapes and figs" there are also "thorns and brambles" (Epistle), on which none are gathered. Therefore "they shall be cut down and thrown into the fire" (Gospel). What fruit, adds the Apostle, have you gathered from sin, except shame and eternal death? whilst "by serving God, you produce fruits of holiness and win eternal life" (Epistle).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS: OMNES GENTES.

Introit: Ps. xlvi. 2.

CLAP your hands all ye nations: shout unto God with the voice of joy. Ps. For the Lord is most high, He is terrible; He is a great King over all the earth. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

OMNES gentes, pláudite mánibus: jubiláte Deo in voce exsultatiónis. Ps. Quóniam Dóminus excélsus, terríbilis: Rex magnus super omnem terram. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.

O God, Whose providence in the ordering of all things faileth not: we very humbly beseech thee, from us to put away all that is hurtful, and upon us to bestow all that is to our good. Through our Lord.

Deus, cujus providéntia in sui dispositióne non fállitur: te súpplices exorámus; ut nóxia cuncta submóveas, et ómnia nobis profutúra concédas. Per Dóminum.

Second Collect: A cunctis, p. 156. Third Collect, at the option of the Priest, p. 160.

Epistle: Rom. vi. 19-23.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Romans.—BRETHREN; I speak a human thing, because of the infirmity of your flesh; for as you have yielded your members to serve uncleanness and iniquity unto iniquity, so now yield your members to serve justice unto sanctification. For when you were the servants of sin, you were free from justice. What fruit therefore had you then in those things, of which you are now ashamed? For the end of them is death. But now being made free from sin, and become servants to God, you have your fruit unto sanctification, and the end life everlasting. For the wages of sin is death. But the grace of God, life everlasting; in Christ Jesus our Lord.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Romános.—FRATRES: Humánum dico, propter infirmitátem carnis vestrae: sicut enim exhibuístis membra vestra servíre immundítiae, et iniquitáti ad iniquitátem, ita nunc exhibéte membra vestra servíre justítiae in sanctificatiónem. Cum enim servi essétis peccáti, líberi fuístis justítiae. Quem ergo fructum habuístis tunc in illis, in quibus nunc erubéscitis? Nam finis illórum mors est. Nunc vero liberáti a peccáto, servi autem facti Deo, habétis fructum vestrum in sanctificatiónem, finem vero vitam aetérnam. Stipéndia enim peccáti mors. Grátia autem Dei, vita aetérna, in Christo Jesu Dómino nostro.

Gradual: xxxiii. 12, 6.

Veníte fílii, audíte me: timórem Dómini docébo vos. ℣. Accédite ad eum, et illumináмini: et fácies vestrae non confundéntur.

Come children, hearken to me; I will teach you the fear of the Lord. ℣. Come ye to Him and be enlightened; and your faces shall not be confounded.

Allelúia, allelúia: Ps. xlvi. 2.

℣. Omnes gentes, pláudite mánibus: jubiláte Deo in voce exsultatiónis.—Allelúia.

O clap your hands all ye nations; shout unto God with the voice of joy.—Alleluia.

Gospel: Matt. vii. 15-21.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Atténdite a falsis prophétis, qui véniunt ad vos in vestiméntis óvium, intrínsecus autem sunt lupi rapáces: a frúctibus eórum cognoscétis eos. Numquid cólligunt de spinis uvas, aut de tríbulis ficus? Sic omnis arbor bona fructus bonos facit: mala autem arbor malos fructus facit. Non potest arbor bona malos fructus fácere: neque arbor mala bonos fructus fácere. Omnis arbor, quae non facit fructum bonum, excidétur, et in ignem mittétur. Igitur ex frúctibus eórum cognoscétis eos. Non omnis, qui dicit mihi, Dómine, Dómine, intrábit in regnum coelórum: sed qui facit voluntátem Patris mei, qui in coelis est, ipse intrábit in regnum coelórum.—Credo.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew.—At that time, Jesus said to His disciples: Beware of false prophets, who come to you in the clothing of sheep, but inwardly they are ravening wolves. By their fruits you shall know them. Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles? Even so every good tree bringeth forth good fruit, and the evil tree bringeth forth evil fruit. A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can an evil tree bring forth good fruit. Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit shall be cut down, and shall be cast into the fire. Wherefore by their fruits you shall know them. Not every one that saith to Me: Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of My Father Who is in heaven, he shall enter into the kingdom of heaven.—Creed.

Offertory: Dan. iii. 40.

Sicut in holocáustis aríetum et taurórum, et sicut in míllibus agnórum pínguium: sic fiat sacrifícium nostrum in conspéc-

As in holocausts of rams and bullocks, and as in thousands of fat lambs; so let our sacrifice be made in Thy sight this day, that it may please Thee: for there is no confusion to them that trust in Thee, O Lord.

tu tuo hódie, ut pláceat tibi: quia non est confúsio confidéntibus in te, Dómine.

Secret.

O God Who, in this one sacrifice, hast perfected the offering of the many victims prescribed by the law of Moses: receive this same sacrifice which we Thy servants devoutly offer up and hallow it with a blessing, like unto that which Thou didst bestow upon the offerings of Abel. And may that which each one of us has severally brought here to the glory of Thy name, profit us all unto salvation. Through our Lord.

Deus, qui legálium differéntiam hostiárum uníus sacrifícii perfectióne sanxísti: áccipe sacrifícium a devótis tibi fámulis, et pari benedictióne, sicut múnera Abel, sanctífica; ut, quod singuli obtulérunt ad majestátis tuae honórem cunctis profíciat ad salútem. Per Dóminum.

Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 157. Third Collect, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160. Preface of Trinity Sunday, p. 55.

Communion: Ps. xxx. 3.

Bow down Thy ear, make haste to deliver me.

Inclína aurem tuam, accélera, ut erípias me.

Postcommunion.

May the healing work, O Lord, mercifully done by Thee in our souls, free us from the perverse movements of our nature, and bring us ever to do what is right in Thy sight. Through our Lord.

Tua nos, Dómine, medicinális operátio, et a nostris perversitátibus cleménter expédiat et ad ea quae sunt recta, perdúcat. Per Dóminum.

Second Postcommunion: Mundet, p. 157. Third Postcommunion, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

SECOND VESPERS.

All as in Common of the Sunday, p. 95.

Antiphon at the Magnificat: Matt. vii. 18.

A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can an evil tree bring forth good fruit. Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit shall be cut down, and shall be cast into the fire. Alleluia.

Non potest * arbor bona fructus malos fácere, nec arbor mala fructus bonos fácere: omnis arbor quae non facit fructum bonum, excidétur, et in ignem mittétur, allelúia.

Collect of the Mass, p. 1078.

"Give an account of thy stewardship" (Gospel).

Eighth Sunday after Pentecost.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

The Epistle reminds us of our divine filiation, and the Gospel in a parable tells us of the duties thereby entailed.

We are the children of God, since we may say in all truth: Our Father (Epistle). God has given us life, "wherefore we must live according to His will" (Collect).

Just as this rich landowner who, before giving his son his share of the heritage, wishes to test his administrative capability, by entrusting to him things of little value, God, before making us His heirs in heaven, has wished to test our fidelity by giving us the management on earth of both temporal and spiritual goods. But, like the steward mentioned by Jesus, we have been unfaithful, dissipating by sin the riches and talents which God entrusted to us.

Therefore, vying in zeal with the children of the world, the sons of light imitate the foresight of the steward who, by means of his father's riches, prepared friends unto himself. Turning to profitable use what God has given to us, let us do good, and especially by almsgiving let us secure the testimony which the poor will bear their benefactors at the moment when all will have to give an account of their stewardship to the divine Judge.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS: SUSCEPIMUS, DEUS.

Introit: Ps. xlvii. 10, 11.

SUSCEPIMUS, Deus, misericórdiam tuam in médio templi tui: secúndum nomen tuum, Deus, ita et laus tua in fines terrae: justítia plena est déxtera tua. Ps. Magnus Dóminus, et laudábilis nimis: in civitáte Dei nostri, in monte sancto ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

WE have received Thy mercy, O God, in the midst of Thy temple; according to Thy name, O God, so also is Thy praise unto the ends of the earth: Thy right hand is full of justice. Ps. xlvii. 2. Great is the Lord, and exceedingly to be praised, in the city of God, in his holy mountain. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collect.

Impart to us, in Thy mercy, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the grace at all times, both to think and to do what is right in Thy sight: that we, who but for Thee could not even have our being, may live only to fulfil Thy holy will. Through our Lord.

Largíre nobis, quaesúmus, Dómine, semper spíritum cogitándi quae recta sunt, propítius et agéndi: ut, qui sine te esse non póssumus, secúndum te vívere valeámus. Per Dóminum.

Second Collect: A cunctis, p. 156. Third Collect, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

Epistle: Rom. viii. 12-17.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Romans.—BRETHREN; we are debtors, not to the flesh, to live according to the flesh; for if you live according to the flesh, you shall die; but if by the Spirit you mortify the deeds of the flesh, you shall live. For whosoever are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God. For you have not received the spirit of bondage again in fear, but you have received the spirit of adoption of sons, whereby we cry: Abba (Father). For the Spirit Himself giveth testimony to our spirit, that we are the sons of God; and if sons, heirs also; heirs indeed of God, and joint heirs with Christ.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Romános.—FRATRES: Debitóres sumus non carni, ut secúndum carnem vivámus. Si enim secúndum carnem vixéritis, moriémini: si autem spíritu facta carnis mortificavéritis, vivétis. Quicúmque enim spíritu Dei agúntur, ii sunt fílii Dei. Non enim accepístis spíritum servitútis íterum in timóre, sed accepístis spíritum adoptiónis filiórum in quo clamámus: Abba (Pater). Ipse enim Spíritus testimónium reddit spirítui nostro, quod sumus fílii Dei. Si autem fílii, et herédes: herédes quidem Dei, coherédes autem Christi.

Gradual: Ps. xxx. 3.

Be Thou unto me a God, a protector, and a place of refuge, to save me. ℣. In Thee, O God, have I hoped: O Lord, let me never be confounded.

Esto mihi in Deum protectórem, et in locum refúgii, ut salvum me fácias. ℣. Deus, in te sperávi: Dómine, non confúndar in aetérnum.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. xlvii. 2.

℣. Great is the Lord, and exceedingly to be praised; in the ℣. Magnus Dóminus, et laudábilis valde, in civitáte Dei nostri, in monte sancto ejus.—Allelúia.

city of our God, in His holy mountain.—Alleluia.

Gospel: Luke xvi. 1-9.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam. — In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis parábolam hanc: Homo quidam erat dives, qui habébat víllicum: et hic diffamátus est apud illum, quasi dissipásset bona ipsíus. Et vocávit illum, et ait illi: Quid hoc áudio de te? redde ratiónem villicatiónis tuae: jam enim non póteris villicáre. Ait autem víllicus intra se: Quid fáciam, quia Dóminus meus aufert a me villicatiónem? fódere non váleo, mendicáre erubésco. Scio quid fáciam, ut, cum amótus fúero a villicatióne, recípiant me in domos suas. Convocátis ítaque síngulis debitóribus dómini sui, dicébat primo: Quantum debes dómino meo? At ille dixit: Centum cados ólei. Dixítque illi: Accipe cautiónem tuam: et sede cito, scribe quinquagínta. Deínde álii dixit: Tu vero quantum debes? Qui ait: Centum coros trítici. Ait illi: Accipe lítteras tuas, et scribe octogínta. Et laudávit dóminus víllicum iniquitátis, quia prudénter fecísset: quia fílii hujus saeculi prudentióres fíliis lucis in generatióne sua sunt. Et ego vobis dico: fácite vobis amícos de mammóna iniquitátis: ut, cum defecéritis, recípiant vos in aetérna tabernácula.—Credo.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—At that time, Jesus spoke to His disciples this parable: There was a certain rich man who had a steward; and the same was accused unto him that he had wasted his goods; and he called him, and said to him: How is it that I hear this of thee? give an account of thy stewardship, for now thou canst be steward no longer. And the steward said within himself: What shall I do, because my lord taketh away from me the stewardship? To dig I am not able: to beg I am ashamed. I know what I will do, that when I shall be put out of the stewardship, they may receive me into their houses. Therefore calling together every one of his lord's debtors, he said to the first: How much dost thou owe my lord? But he said: A hundred barrels of oil. And he said to him: Take thy bill, and sit down quickly, and write fifty. Then he said to another: And how much dost thou owe? Who said: A hundred quarters of wheat. He said to him: Take thy bill, and write eighty. And the Lord commended the unjust steward, for as much as he had done wisely; for the children of this world are wiser in their generation than the children of light. And I say to you: Make unto you friends of the mammon of iniquity, that when you shall fail, they may receive you into everlasting dwellings.—Creed.

Offertory: Ps. xvii. 28, 32.

Thou wilt save the humble people, O Lord, and wilt bring down the eyes of the proud; for who is God but Thee, O Lord.

Pópulum húmilem salvum fácies, Dómine, et óculos superbórum humiliábis: quóniam quis Deus praeter te, Dómine?

Secret.

Receive, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the gifts, which of Thy bounty bestowed upon us, we offer again to Thee: and by the power of Thy grace, may these holy mysteries sanctify our lives in this world, and assure to us the everlasting joys of that which has to come. Through our Lord.

Súscipe, quaesumus, Dómine, múnera, quae tibi de tua largitáte deférimus: ut haec sacrosáncta mystéria, grátiae tuae operánte virtúte, et praeséntis vitae nos conversatióne sanctíficent, et ad gáudia sempitérna perdúcant. Per Dóminum.

Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 157. Third Secret, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160. Preface of Trinity Sunday, p. 55.

Communion: Ps. xxxiii-xxxix.

Taste and see that the Lord is sweet: blessed is the man that hopeth in Him.

Gustáte et vidéte, quóniam suávis est Dóminus: beátus vir, qui sperat in eo.

Postcommunion.

May this heavenly mystery, O Lord, avail us to our healing, in soul and in body: and may we ever feel within us the power of the sacrament we adore. Through our Lord.

Sit nobis, Dómine, reparátio mentis et corporis coeléste mystérium: ut, cujus exséquimur cultum, sentiámus efféctum. Per Dóminum.

Second Postcommunion: Mundet, p. 157. Third Postcommunion, at the option of the Priest, p. 160.

SECOND VESPERS.

All as in Common of the Sunday, p. 95, except:

Antiphon at the Magnificat: Luke xvi. 3.

What shall I do because my Lord taketh away from me the stewardship? To dig I am not able, to beg I am ashamed. I know what I will do, that when I shall be removed from the stewardship, they may receive me into their houses.

Quid fáciam,* quia dóminus meus aufert a me villicatiónem? fódere non váleo, mendicáre erubésco: scio quid fáciam, ut cum amótus fúero a villicatióne, recípiant me in domos suas.

Collect of the Mass, p. 1082.

"Jesus wept over Jerusalem" (Gospel).

Ninth Sunday after Pentecost.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

This day's liturgy puts before us in the Epistle and Gospel, the terrible punishments incurred by the people of Israel on account of their morals and irreligion. Twenty-three thousand Hebrews perished in one day on account of their lust; several were killed by serpents for having tempted God by complaining that they had no other food but manna; many were killed by the destroying angel on account of their murmuring (Epistle), and over a million Jews perished when Jerusalem was destroyed for having rejected the Messiah. They were thrown out of the Kingdom of God as the sellers were driven from the temple which is its figure, for having transformed the house of prayer into a den of thieves (Gospel). The Gentiles, called in their stead, must therefore be faithful to their vocation and take care not to fall in their turn (Epistle). Let them obey therefore with holy joy the commandments of the Lord (Offertory), let them worthily attend in the temple the Eucharistic mysteries in which the work of our redemption is daily enacted (Secret), and eat the flesh of Jesus which is the true manna of our souls (Communion).

Then will God always come to their help (Introit), He will open the ears of His mercy to their prayers (Collect), and will not allow them to be tempted beyond their strength (Epistle).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS: ECCE DEUS.

Introit: Ps. liii. 6, 7.

ECCE Deus ádjuvat me, et Dóminus suscéptor est ánimae meae: avérte mala inimícis meis, et in veritáte tua dispérde illos, protéctor meus, Dómine. Ps. Deus, in nómine tuo salvum me fac: et in virtúte tua líbera me. Glória Patri.

BEHOLD God is my helper, and the Lord is the protector of my soul: turn back the evils upon my enemies, and cut them off in Thy truth, O Lord my protector. Ps. liii. 3. Save me, O God, by Thy name, and deliver me in Thy strength. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collect.

Let Thy merciful ears, O Lord, be open to the prayers of Thy suppliants: and in order that to those who seek, Thou mayest surely give that for which they ask, make them to ask only for those things which are well-pleasing to Thee.

Páteant aures misericórdiae tuae, Dómine, précibus supplicántium: et ut peténtibus desideráta concédas; fac eos, quae tibi sunt plácita, postuláre. Per Dóminum.

Second Collect: A cunctis, p. 156. Third Collect, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

Epistle: 1 Cor. x. 6-13.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians.—BRETHREN, let us not covet evil things, as they also coveted. Neither become ye idolaters, as some of them: as it is written: The people sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play. Neither let us commit fornication, as some of them committed fornication, and there fell in one day three and twenty thousand. Neither let us tempt Christ, as some of them tempted, and perished by the serpents. Neither do you murmur, as some of them murmured, and were destroyed by the destroyer. Now all these things happened to them in figure, and they are written for our correction, upon whom the ends of the world are come. Wherefore he that thinketh himself to stand, let him take heed lest he fall. Let no temptation take hold on you, but such as is human: and God is faithful, Who will not suffer you to be tempted above that which you are able; but will make also with temptation issue, that you may be able to bear it.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Corínthios. — FRATRES: Non simus concupiscéntes malórum, sicut et illi concupiérunt. Neque idolólatrae efficiámini, sicut quidam ex ipsis: quemádmodum scriptum est: Sedit pópulus manducáre et bíbere, et surrexérunt lúdere. Neque fornicémur, sicut quidam ex ipsis fornicáti sunt, et cecidérunt una die vigínti tria míllia. Neque tentémus Christum, sicut quidam eórum tentavérunt, et a serpéntibus periérunt. Neque murmuravéritis, sicut quidam eórum murmuravérunt et periérunt ab exterminatóre. Haec autem ómnia in figúra contingébant illis: scripta sunt autem ad correptiónem nostram, in quos fines saeculórum devenérunt. Itaque qui se existimat stare, vídeat ne cadat. Tentátio vos non apprehéndat, nisi humána: fidélis autem Deus est, qui non patiétur vos tentári supra id quod potéstis, sed fáciet étiam cum tentatióne provéntum, ut possítis sustinére.

Gradual: Ps. viii. 2.

Dómine Dóminus noster, quam admirábile est nomen tuum in univérsa terra! ℣. Quóniam eleváta est magnificéntia tua super coelos.	O Lord our Lord, how admirable is Thy name in the whole earth! ℣. For Thy magnificence is elevated above the heavens.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. lviii. 2.

℣. Eripe me de inimícis meis, Deus meus: et ab insurgéntibus in me líbera me.—Allelúia.	℣. Deliver me from my enemies, O my God: and defend me from them that rise up against me.—Alleluia.

Gospel: Luke xix. 41-47.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam. — In illo témpore: Cum appropinquáret Jesus Jerúsalem, videns civitátem, flevit super illam, dicens: Quia si cognovísses et tu, et quidem in hac die tua, quae ad pacem tibi, nunc autem abscóndita sunt ab óculis tuis. Quia vénient dies in te: et circúmdabunt te inimíci tui vallo, et circúmdabunt te: et coangustábunt te úndique: et ad terram prostérnent te, et fílios tuos, qui in te sunt, et non relinquent in te lápidem super lápidem: eo quod non cognóveris tempus visitatiónis tuae. Et ingréssus in templum, coepit ejicere vendéntes in illo, et eméntes, dicens illis: Scriptum est: Quia domus mea domus oratiónis est. Vos autem fecístis illam spelúncam latrónum. Et erat docens quotídie in templo.—Credo.	✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—At that time, when Jesus drew near to Jerusalem, seeing the city, He wept over it saying: If thou also hadst known, and that in this day, the things that are to thy peace: but now they are hidden from thy eyes. For the days shall come upon thee, and thy enemies shall cast a trench about thee, and compass thee round, and straiten thee on every side; and beat thee flat to the ground, and thy children who are in thee; and they shall not leave in thee a stone upon a stone, because thou hast not known the time of thy visitation. And entering into the temple, He began to cast out them that sold therein, and them that bought, saying to them: It is written, My house is the house of prayer, but you have made it a den of thieves. And He was teaching daily in the temple.—Creed.

Offertory: Ps. xviii. 9, 10, 11, 12.

Justítiae Dómini rectae, laetificántes corda, et judícia ejus dulcióra super mel et favum:	The justices of the Lord are right, rejoicing hearts, and His judgments sweeter than honey and the honey-comb: for thy servant keepeth them.

nam et servus tuus custódit ea.

Secret.

Make us, we beseech thee, O Lord, to assist worthily and assiduously at these sacred mysteries: for as often as this saving Victim is offered up, so often is our Redeemer's work made to avail in our behalf. Through our Lord.

Concéde nobis, quaesumus, Dómine, haec digne frequentáre mystéria: quia, quóties hujus hóstiae commemorátio celebrátur, opus nostrae redemptiónis exercétur. Per Dóminum.

Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 157. Third Secret, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160. Preface of Trinity Sunday, p. 55.

Communion: John vi. 57.

He that eateth My Flesh, and drinketh My Blood, abideth in Me, and I in him; saith the Lord.

Qui mandúcat meam carnem, et bibit meum sánguinem in me manet, et ego in eo, dicit Dóminus.

Postcommunion.

May our having come together, O Lord, to receive Thy holy Sacrament, both cleanse us from sin and make us to be of one mind and one heart in Thy service.

Tui nobis, quaesumus, Dómine, commúnio, sacraménti, et purificatiónem cónferat, et tríbuat unitátem. Per Dóminum.

Second Postcommunion: Mundet, p. 157. Third Postcommunion, at the option of the Priest, p. 160.

SECOND VESPERS.

All as in Common of the Sunday, p. 95, except:

Antiphon at the Magnificat: Luke xix. 46.

It is written: My house is a house of prayer for all nations; but you have made it a den of thieves. And He was teaching daily in the temple.

Scriptum est enim: * quia domus mea domus oratiónis est cunctis géntibus: vos autem fecístis illam spelúncam latrónum: et erat quotídie docens in templo.

Collect of the Mass, p. 1086.

"I am not as this publican" (Gospel).

Tenth Sunday after Pentecost.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

Our sanctification is an impossible work if we undertake it alone, since our acts are only supernatural if they proceed from the Holy Ghost. That is what the Church impresses on us to-day in giving us a true notion of Christian humility.

Left to ourselves, we are powerless and given to sin; it is to God that we owe its avoidance or its pardon, and that we are even able to pronounce the name of Jesus affirming His divinity (Epistle).

Wherefore, in the Gospel of the Pharisee and the Publican, the Master stigmatises the pride which makes us put our trust in ourselves and always shows itself in our contempt for others. This pride is the enemy of God, for it attributes to itself the gifts which the Holy Ghost confers on each according to His pleasure (Epistle), and it therefore hinders His divine power from manifesting itself in us (Collect), since it makes us imagine that we need no help. The humble soul, on the contrary, is pleased to recognise its nothingness, knowing that it is only on this condition that the virtue of Christ will dwell in it.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS: CUM CLAMAREM.

Introit: Ps. liv. 17, 18, 20, 23.

CUM clamárem ad Dóminum, exaudívit vocem meam, ab his, qui appropínquant mihi: et humiliávit eos qui est ante saecula, et manet in aetérnum: jacta cogitátum tuum in Dómino, et ipse te enútriet. Ps. Exáudi, Deus, oratiónem meam, et ne despéxeris deprecatiónem meam: inténde mihi, et exáudi me. ℣. Glória Patri.

WHEN I cried to the Lord He heard my voice, from them that draw near to me; and He humbled them, Who is before all ages, and remains for ever: cast thy care upon the Lord, and He shall sustain thee. Ps. liv. 2. Hear, O God, my prayer, and despise not my supplication; be attentive to me and hear me. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collect.

O God Who, more than in all things else, showest forth Thine almighty power by sparing and by having mercy; multiply upon us Thy mercy; and make us, who run forward with trust in Thy promises, to be sharers in the good things of heaven. Through our Lord.

Deus, qui omnipoténtiam tuam parcéndo máxime et miserándo maniféstas: multíplica super nos misericórdiam tuam; ut ad tua promíssa curréntes, coeléstium bonórum fácias esse consórtes. Per Dóminum.

Second Collect: A cunctis, p. 156. Third Collect, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

Epistle: 1 Cor. xii. 2-11.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians.—BRETHREN, you know that, when you were heathens, you went to dumb idols, according as you were led. Wherefore I give you to understand, that no man, speaking by the Spirit of God, saith Anathema to Jesus; and no man can say: The Lord Jesus, but by the Holy Ghost. Now there are diversities of graces, but the same Spirit; and there are diversities of ministries, but the same Lord; and there are diversities of operations, but the same God, Who worketh all in all. And the manifestation of the Spirit is given to every man unto profit. To one indeed, by the Spirit, is given the word of wisdom; and to another, the word of knowledge, according to the same Spirit; to another the grace of healing in one Spirit; to another, the working of miracles; to another, prophecy; to another, the discerning of spirits; to another, divers kind of tongues; to another, Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Corínthios.—FRATRES: Scitis quóniam cum gentes essétis, ad simulácra muta prout ducebámini eúntes. Ideo notum vobis fácio, quod nemo in Spíritu Dei loquens, dicit anáthema Jesu. Et nemo potest dícere, Dóminus Jesus, nisi in Spíritu sancto. Divisiónes vero gratiárum sunt, idem autem Spíritus. Et divisiónes ministratiónum sunt, idem autem Dóminus. Et divisiónes operatiónum sunt, idem vero Deus, qui operátur ómnia in ómnibus. Unicuíque autem datur manifestátio Spíritus ad utilitátem. Alii quidem per Spíritum datur sermo sapiéntiae: álii autem sermo sciéntiae secúndum eúmdem Spíritum: álteri fides in eódem Spíritu: álii grátia sanitátum in uno Spíritu: álii operátio virtútum, álii prophetía, álii discrétio spirítuum, álii génera linguárum, álii interpretátio sermónum. Haec autem ómnia operátur unus atque idem Spíritus, dividens síngulis prout vult.

interpretation of speeches. But all these things one and the same Spirit worketh, dividing to every one according as He will.

Gradual: Ps. xvi. 8, 2.

Custódi me, Dómine, ut pupíllam óculi: sub umbra alárum tuárum prótege me. ℣. De vultu tuo judícium meum pródeat: óculi tui vídeant aequitátem.

Keep me, O Lord, as the apple of Thy eye: protect me under the shadow of Thy wings. ℣. Let my judgment come forth from Thy countenance: let Thy eyes behold the things that are equitable.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. lxiv. 2.

℣. Te decet hymnus, Deus, in Sion: et tibi reddétur votum in Jerúsalem.—Allelúia.

℣. A hymn, O God, becometh Thee in Sion: and a vow shall be paid to Thee in Jerusalem.—Alleluia.

Gospel: Luke xviii. 9-14.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam. — In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus ad quosdam, qui in se confidébant tamquam justi, et aspernabántur céteros, parábolam istam: Duo hómines ascendérunt in templum ut orárent: unus Pharisaeus et alter publicánus. Pharisaeus stans, haec apud se orábat: Deus, grátias ago tibi, quia non sum sicut céteri hóminum: raptóres, injústi, adúlteri: velut étiam hic publicánus. Jejúno bis in Sábbato: décimas do ómnium, quae possídeo. Et publicánus a longe stans nolébat nec óculos ad coelum leváre: sed percutiébat pectus suum, dicens: Deus, propitius esto mihi peccatóri. Dico vobis: descéndit hic justificátus in domum suam ab illo: quia omnis qui se exáltat, humiliábitur: et qui se humíliat, exaltábitur.—Credo.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—At that time, Jesus spoke this parable to some who trusted in themselves as just, and despised others. Two men went up into the temple to pray; the one was a Pharisee, and the other a Publican. The Pharisee standing, prayed thus with himself: O God, I give Thee thanks that I am not as the rest of men, extortioners, unjust, adulterers; as also is this publican. I fast twice in the week; I give tithes of all that I possess. And the Publican standing afar off, would not so much as lift up his eyes towards heaven, but struck his breast saying: O God, be merciful to me a sinner. I say to you, this man went down to his house justified rather than the other: because every one that exalteth himself shall be humbled, and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted.—Creed.

Offertory: Ps. xxiv. 1, 3.

To Thee, O Lord, have I lifted up my soul: in Thee, O my God, I put my trust, let me not be ashamed: neither let my enemies laugh at me: for none of them that wait on Thee shall be confounded.

Ad te, Dómine, levávi ánimam meam: Deus meus, in te confído, non erubéscam: neque irrídeant me inimíci mei: étenim univérsi, qui te exspéctant, non confundéntur.

Secret.

By Thee, O Lord, may this sacrifice be hallowed, which Thou hast appointed to be in such wise offered up to the glory of Thy name, that it may remain to us for a healing medicine in all our ills.

Tibi, Dómine, sacrifícia dicáta reddántur: quae sic ad honórem nóminis tui deferénda tribuísti, ut éadem remédia fíeri nostra praestáres. Per Dóminum.

Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 157. Third Secret, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

Communion: Ps. 51, 21.

Thou wilt accept the sacrifice of justice, oblations and holocausts, upon Thy altar, O Lord.

Acceptábis sacrifícium justítiae, oblatiónes, et holocáusta, super altáre tuum, Dómine.

Postcommunion.

Grant, we beseech Thee, O Lord our God, that Thy gracious help may never be lacking to us whose strength Thou ceaseth not to renew in Thine adorable sacrament.

Quaesumus, Dómine Deus noster: ut, quos divínis reparáre non désinis sacraméntis, tuis non destítuas benígnus auxíliis. Per Dóminum.

Second Postcommunion: Mundet, p. 157. Third Postcommunion, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

SECOND VESPERS.

All as in Common of the Sunday, p. 95, except:

Antiphon at the Magnificat: Luke xviii. 14.

This man went down into his house justified rather than the other; because every one that exalteth himself shall be humbled; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted.

Descéndit hic * justificátus in domum suam ab illo: quia omnis qui se exáltat, humiliábitur: et qui se humíliat, exaltábitur.

Collect of the Mass, p. 1090.

"And spitting He touched his tongue" (Gospel).

Eleventh Sunday after Pentecost.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

The Church on this day makes us celebrate the omnipotence of God and His infinite mercy in dealing with sinners. St. Paul repeats to the Corinthians the miraculous transformation which has taken place in him through the grace of God (Epistle).

The healing of the deaf and dumb, related by St. Mark, is the story of divine mercy towards each one of us (Gospel).

Deaf to the teachings of the Master, we had become dumb by sin and incapable of praising God. But repeating, according to His command, what Christ did, the Church in baptism has opened our ears and loosed our tongue, so that henceforth we may hear the divine word and freely proclaim our faith.*

Having put our hope in God, we have received succour (Gradual). The Lord has healed our wounds (Offertory) and has given us strength and courage (Introit).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS: DEUS IN LOCO.

Introit: Ps. lxvii. 6, 7, 36.

DEUS in loco sancto suo: Deus qui inhabitáre facit unánimes in domo: ipse dabit virtútem, et fortitúdinem plebi suae. Ps. Exsúrgat Deus, et dissipéntur inimíci ejus: et fúgiant, qui odérunt eum, a fácie ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

GOD in His holy place; God Who maketh men of one mind to dwell in a house; He shall give power and strength to His people. Ps. lxvii. 2. Let God arise, and let His enemies be scattered: and let them that hate Him flee from before His face. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

* The Priest in baptism takes saliva with his finger and touches the ears and the nostrils (above the lips) of the newly baptised, saying: Ephphéta, that is to say: Be open.

Collect.

Almighty and everlasting God, Who out of the abundance of Thy loving kindness, in answering the prayer of him who calleth upon Thee, are wont to go beyond the deserts and the hopes of the suppliant: do Thou pour forth upon us Thy mercy; forgive us those sins on account of which our conscience is afraid; and endow us with those good things for which our prayer ventures not to ask.

Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, qui abundántia pietátis tuae, et mérita súpplicum excédis et vota: effúnde super nos misericórdiam tuam; ut dimíttas quae consciéntia métuit, et adjícias quod orátio non praesúmit. Per Dóminum.

Second Collect: A cunctis, p. 156. Third Collect, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

Epistle: 1 Cor. xv. 1-10.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians.—Brethren: I make known unto you the gospel which I preached to you, which also you have received, and wherein you stand, by which also you are saved, if you hold fast after what manner I preached unto you, unless you have believed in vain. For I delivered unto you first of all, which I also received, how that Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures; and that He was buried, and that He rose again the third day according to the Scriptures; and that He was seen by Cephas, and after that by the eleven. Then was He seen by more than five hundred brethren at once; of whom many remain until this present, and some are fallen asleep. After that He was seen by James then by all the Apostles. And last of all He was seen also by me, as by one born out of due time. For I am the least of the Apostles, who am not worthy to Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Corínthios.—Fratres: Notum vobis fácio Evangélium, quod praedicávi vobis, quod et accepístis, in quo et statis, per quod et salvámini: qua ratióne praedicáverim vobis, si tenétis, nisi frustra credidístis. Trádidi enim vobis in primis, quod et accépi: quóniam Christus mórtuus est pro peccátis nostris secúndum Scriptúras: et quia sepúltus est, et quia resurréxit tértia die secúndum Scriptúras: et quia visus est Cephae, et post hoc úndecim. Deínde visus est plus quam quingéntis frátribus simul, ex quibus multi manent usque adhuc, quidam autem dormiérunt. Deínde visus est Jacóbo, deínde Apóstolis ómnibus: novíssime autem ómnium tamquam abortívo, visus est et mihi. Ego enim sum mínimus Apostolórum, qui non sum dignus vocári Apóstolus, quóniam persecútus sum Ecclésiam Dei. Grátia autem Dei sum id quod sum, et grátia ejus in me vácua non fuit.

be called an apostle, because I persecuted the church of God; but by the grace of God I am what I am; and His grace in me hath not been void.

Gradual: Ps. xxvii. 7, 1.

In Deo sperávit cor meum, et adjútus sum: et reflóruit caro mea, et ex voluntáte mea confitébor illi. ℣. Ad te, Dómine, clamávi: Deus meus, ne síleas: ne discédas a me.

In God hath my heart confided, and I have been helped; and my flesh hath flourished again; and with my will I will give praise to Him. ℣. Unto Thee will I cry, O Lord: O my God, be not then silent; depart not from me.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. lxxx. 2, 3.

℣. Exsultáte Deo adjutóri nostro, jubiláte Deo Jacob: súmite psalmum jucúndum cum cíthara.—Allelúia.

℣. Rejoice to God our helper: sing aloud to the God of Jacob; take a pleasant psalm with the harp.—Alleluia.

Gospel: Mark vii. 31-37.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Marcum.—In illo témpore: Exiens Jesus de fínibus Tyri, venit per Sidónem ad mare Galilaeae, inter médios fines Decapóleos. Et addúcunt ei surdum et mutum, et deprecabántur eum, ut impónat illi manum. Et apprehéndens eum de turba seórsum, misit digitos suos in auriculas ejus: et éxspuens, tétigit linguam ejus: et suspiciens in coelum, ingémuit, et ait illi: Ephpheta quod est adaperire. Et statim apértae sunt aures ejus, et solútum est vinculum linguae ejus, et loquebátur recte. Et praecépit illis, ne cui dícerent. Quanto autem eis praecipiébat, tanto magis plus praedicábant: et eo ámplius admirabántur, dicéntes: Bene ómnia fecit: et surdos fecit audíre, et mutos loqui. —Credo.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Mark.—At that time, Jesus going out to the coasts of Tyre, came by Sidon to the sea of Galilee, through the midst of the coasts of Decapolis. And they bring to Him one deaf and dumb, and they besought Him that He would lay His hand upon him. And taking him from the multitude apart, He put His fingers into his ears, and spitting, He touched his tongue; and looking up to heaven, He groaned and said to him: Ephpheta, that is, Be thou opened: and immediately his ears were opened, and the string of his tongue was loosed, and he spoke right. And He charged them that they should tell no man: but the more He charged them so much the more a great deal did they publish it; and so much the more did they wonder, saying: He hath done all things well; He hath made both the deaf to hear, and the dumb to speak.—Creed.

Offertory: Ps. xxix. 2, 3.

I will extol Thee, O Lord, for Thou hast upheld me; and hast not made my enemies to rejoice over me: O Lord, I have cried to Thee, and Thou hast healed me.

Exaltábo te, Dómine, quóniam suscepísti me, nec delectásti inimícos meos super me: Dómine, clamávi ad te, et sanásti me.

Secret.

Look down in mercy, we beseech Thee, O Lord, upon the lowliness of Thy servants: to Thee, may that which we offer be well pleasing, and to ourselves, in our weakness may it afford a support.

Réspice, Dómine, quaesumus, nostram propítius servitútem: ut, quod offérimus, sit tibi munus accéptum, et sit nostrae fragilitátis subsídium. Per Dóminum.

Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 157. Third Secret, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160. Preface of Trinity Sunday, p. 55.

Communion: Prov. iii. 9, 10.

Honour the Lord with thy substance, and with the first of all thy fruits: and thy barns shall be filled with abundance, and thy presses shall run over with wine.

Honóra Dóminum de tua substántia, et de primítiis frugum tuárum: et implebúntur hórrea tua saturitáte, et vino torculária redundábunt.

Postcommunion.

May we find, we beseech Thee, O Lord, in the having received Thy holy sacrament, help ourselves, in body and in soul; that in the one and in the other, being freed from evil, we may glory in the fulness of the power of the heavenly medicine Thou hast vouchsafed to bestow upon us.

Sentiámus, quaesumus, Dómine, tui perceptióne sacraménti, subsídium mentis et córporis: ut in utróque salváti, coeléstis remédii plenitúdine gloriémur. Per Dóminum.

Second Postcommunion: Mundet, p. 157. Third Postcommunion, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

SECOND VESPERS.

All as in Common of the Sunday, p. 95, except:

Antiphon at the Magnificat: Mark vii. 37.

He hath done all things well; He hath made both the deaf to hear and the dumb to speak.

Bene ómnia fecit,* et surdos fecit audíre, et mutos loqui.

Collect of the Mass, p. 1094.

" Brought him to an inn " (Gospel).

Twelfth Sunday after Pentecost.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

Having been initiated into supernatural life by Baptism, strengthened and perfected in this life by Confirmation, whose efficaciousness the feast of Pentecost has celebrated, the Church reminds us of the duty of Christian charity which derives therefrom.

She speaks to us of the law of Moses which was not wanting in a certain splendour and of the law of Christ which is its perfect development (Epistle).

If already the greatest of the commandments of the ancient Alliance is the love of God and that of one's neighbour, it is necessarily the same divine and perfected love which the New Alliance demands of us (Gospel). Let us beware of the pharisaical interpretation of the law which would reduce our religious duties to a few outward practices: " The letter kills," says St. Paul, " and the spirit quickens " (Epistle).

Neither the Mosaic law nor the Gospel separate the love of God from that we owe to our neighbour: in its origin it is a supernatural love, for it proceeds from the Holy Ghost, and in its object which is God in the person of our brothers.

The Jews only considered as their neighbours the people of their race, and the parable of the good Samaritan shows us that our neighbour is every man, known or unknown, friend or enemy, to whom we are united by the bonds of charity taught us by Jesus in healing our wounds (Gospel). The neighbour of this wounded Jew is not the man of his race, since Jews and Samaritans were hereditary rivals, but the man who bends charitably over him to help him. Union in Christ which will make us love even those who hate us and pardon those who have wronged us because God is in them or may come to them, that is the true love of one's neighbour.

Made divine by grace, we must imitate our heavenly Father Who, appeased by the prayer of Moses, a figure of the Saviour, only overwhelmed with benefits the people that had offended Him (Offertory, Communion).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

Introit : Ps. lxix. 2, 3.

INCLINE unto my aid, O God: O Lord, make haste to help me: let my enemies be confounded and ashamed, who seek my soul. Ps. lxix. 4. Let them be turned backward and blush for shame, who desire evils to me. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

DEUS, in adjutórium meum inténde: Dómine, ad adjuvándum me festína: confundántur et revereántur inimíci mei, qui quaerunt ánimam meam. Ps. Avertántur retrósum, et erubéscant: qui cógitant mihi mala. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.

Almighty and merciful God, Whose gift it is that Thy faithful render a true and worthy service to Thee: grant us, we beseech Thee, to run without stumbling to the fulfilment of Thy promises. Through our Lord.

Omnípotens et miséricors Deus, de cujus múnere venit, ut tibi a fidélibus tuis digne et laudabíliter serviátur; tríbue quaesumus, nobis; ut ad promissiónes tuas sine offensióne currámus. Per Dóminum.

Second Collect: A cunctis, p. 156. Third Collect, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

Epistle : 2 Cor. iii. 4-9.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians.—BRETHREN: such confidence we have through Christ towards God. Not that we are sufficient to think any thing of ourselves, as of ourselves; but our sufficiency is from God. Who also hath made us fit ministers of the new testament, not in the letter, but in the spirit: for the letter killeth, but the spirit quickeneth. Now if the ministration of death, engraven with letters upon stones, was glorious, so that the children of Israel could not steadfastly behold the face of Moses, for the glory of his countenance; which is made void: how shall not the ministration of the Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Corínthios.—FRATRES: Fidúciam talem habémus per Christum ad Deum: non quid sufficiéntes simus cogitáre áliquid a nobis, quasi ex nobis: sed sufficiéntia nostra ex Deo est: qui et idóneos nos fecit minístros novi testaménti: non líttera, sed spíritu: líttera enim occídit, spíritus autem vivíficat. Quod si ministrátio mortis, lítteris deformáta in lapídibus, fuit in glória; ita ut non possent inténdere fílii Israël in fáciem Móysi propter glóriam vultus ejus, quae evacuátur: quómodo non magis ministrátio Spíritus erit in glória? Nam si ministrátio damnatiónis glória est: multo magis abúndant ministérium justítiae in glória.

spirit be rather in glory? For if the ministration of condemnation be glory, much more the ministration of justice aboundeth in glory.

Gradual: Ps. xxxiii. 2, 3.

Benedícam Dóminum in omni témpore: semper laus ejus in ore meo. ℣. In Dómino laudábitur ánima mea: áudiant mansuéti, et laeténtur.

I will bless the Lord at all times; His praise shall ever be in my mouth ℣. In the Lord shall my soul be praised: let the meek hear, and rejoice.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. lxxxvii. 2.

℣. Dómine Deus salútis meae; in die clamávi et nocte coram te.—Allelúia.

℣. O Lord the God of my salvation, I have cried in the day, and in the night before Thee.—Alleluia.

Gospel: Luke x. 23-37.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.— In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Beáti óculi, qui vident quae vos vidétis. Dico enim vobis, quod multi prophétae et reges voluérunt vidére quae vos vidétis, et non vidérunt: et audíre quae audítis, et non audiérunt. Et ecce quidam legisperítus surréxit, tentans illum, et dicens: Magíster, quid faciéndo vitam aetérnam possidébo? At ille dixit ad eum: In lege quid scriptum est? quómodo legis? Ille respóndens, dixit: Díliges Dóminum Deum tuum ex toto corde tuo, et ex tota ánima tua, et ex ómnibus víribus tuis, et ex omni mente tua; et próximum tuum sicut teipsum. Dixitque illi: Recte respondísti: hoc fac, et vives. Ille autem volens justificáre seípsum, dixit ad Jesum: Et quis est meus próximus? Suscípiens autem Jesus, dixit: Homo swering, said: A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among robbers, who also stripped him, and having wounded him went away, leaving him half dead: and it chanced that a certain priest went down the same way, and seeing him, passed by. In like manner also a Levite, when he was near the place and saw him, passed by. But a certain Samaritan being on his journey, came near him, and seeing him, was moved with compassion, and going up to him, bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine; and setting him upon his own beast, brought him to an inn, and took care of him: and the next day he took out two pence, and gave to the host, and said: Take care of him, and whatsoever thou shalt spend over and above, I, at my return will repay thee. Which of these three, in thy opinion, was neighbour to him that fell among robbers? But he said: He that showed mercy to him. And Jesus said to him: Go and do thou in like manner.—Creed.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.— At that time, Jesus said to His disciples: Blessed are the eyes that see the things which you see. For I say to you, that many prophets and kings have desired to see the things that you see, and have not seen them; and to hear the things that you hear, and have not heard them. And behold a certain lawyer stood up, tempting Him, and saying: Master, what must I do to possess eternal life? But He said to him: What is written in the law? how readest thou? He answering, said: Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with thy whole heart, and with thy whole soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbour as thyself. And he said to him: Thou hast answered rightly: this do, and thou shalt live. But he, willing to justify himself, said to Jesus: And who is my neighbour? And Jesus an-

quidam descendébat ab Jerúsalem in Jéricho, et íncidit in latrónes, qui étiam despoliavérunt eum: et plagis impósitis abiérunt, semivívo relícto. Accidit autem, ut sacérdos quidam descénderet eádem via: et viso illo praetérivit. Simíliter et levíta, cum esset secus locum, et vidéret eum, pertránsiit. Samaritánus autem quidam iter fáciens, venit secus eum: et videns eum, misericórdia motus est. Et appropians, alligávit vúlnera ejus, infúndens óleum et vinum: et impónens illum in juméntum suum, duxit in stábulum, et curam ejus egit. Et áltera die prótulit duos denários, et dedit stabulário, et ait: Curam illíus habe: et quodcúmque supererogáveris, ego cum rediero, reddam tibi. Quis horum trium vidétur tibi próximus fuisse illi, qui incidit in latrónes? At ille dixit: Qui fecit misericórdiam in illum. Et ait illi Jesus: Vade, et tu fac simíliter.—Credo.

Offertory: Exodus xxxii. 11, 13, 14.

Moses prayed in the sight of the Lord his God, and said: Why, O Lord, is Thy indignation enkindled against Thy people? Let the anger of Thy mind cease; remember Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, to whom Thou didst swear to give a land flowing with milk and honey: and the Lord was appeased from doing the evil which He had spoken of doing against the people.

Precátus est Móyses in conspéctu Dómini Dei sui, et dixit Quare, Dómine, irásceris in pópulo tuo? Parce irae ánimae tuae: meménto Abraham, Isaac, et Jacob, quibus jurásti dare terram fluéntem lac et mel. Et placátus factus est Dóminus de malignitáte, quam dixit fácere pópulo suo.

Secret.

Hóstias, quaesumus, Dómine, propítius inténde, quas sacris altáribus exhibémus: ut nobis indulgéntiam largiéndo, tuo nómini dent honórem. Per Dóminum.

Mercifully regard, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the divine Victim, which we lay upon Thine altar: receive It to the rendering of honour to Thy name, and to its being heard in its pleading for the forgiveness of our sins. Through our Lord.

Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 157. Third Secret, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160. Preface of Trinity Sunday, p. 55.

Communion: Ps. ciii. 13, 14, 15.

De fructu óperum tuórum, Dómine, satiábitur terra: ut edúcas panem de terra, et vinum laetíficet cor hóminis: ut exhílaret fáciem in óleo, et panis cor hóminis confírmet.

The earth shall be filled with the fruit of Thy works, O Lord, that Thou mayest bring bread out of the earth, and that wine may cheer the heart of man; that he may make the face cheerful with oil; and that bread may strengthen man's heart.

Postcommunion.

Vivíficet nos, quaesumus Dómine, hujus participátio sancta mystérii: et páriter nobis expiatiónem tríbuat, et munímen. Per Dóminum.

May we be quickened, O Lord, by the having partaken of this holy mystery: may it profit us to the atoning for our sins and to the strengthening of our souls. Through our Lord.

Second Postcommunion: Mundet, p. 157. Third Postcommunion, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

SECOND VESPERS.

All as in Common of the Sunday, p. 95, except:

Antiphon at the Magnificat: Luke x. 30.

Homo quidam * descendébat ab Jerúsalem, in Jéricho et íncidit in latrónes; qui étiam despoliavérunt eum, et plagis impósitis abiérunt, semivívo relícto.

A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho and fell among robbers, who also stripped him, and having wounded him went away, leaving him half dead.

Collect of the Mass, p. 1098.

"And where are the nine others?" (Gospel).

Thirteenth Sunday after Pentecost.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

The Collect which prays for an increase of faith, hope and charity, re-echoes the teaching of the Apostle in the Epistle and that of the Master in the Gospel.

The Jews wanted to impose the Mosaic law on Christians; St. Paul shows that it is not this law which gives holiness to souls, since, before the law, Abraham, father of the Jewish people, was sanctified by his faith in Jesus. All those, therefore, Jews or pagans, who enter into the Church and put their faith in the merits of the Passion of Christ will be saved.

Our Divine Saviour indeed heals all the lepers, Jews or Samaritans, who have recourse to Him. "Arise," said Jesus to the latter, "thy faith hath made thee whole." It is He Who, through His Church, gives back health to the souls of those, whether Jews or Gentiles, who come to Him.

By faith we put in Jesus all our hope (Offertory) for He is our refuge (Alleluia) and we ask for the virtue of charity which makes us love the divine law (Collect) and makes us practise it (Postcommunion).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS: RESPICE, DOMINE.

Introit: Ps. lxxiii. 20 19, 23.

HAVE regard, O Lord, to Thy covenant, and forsake not to the end the souls of Thy poor: arise, O Lord, and judge Thy cause, and forget not the voices of them that seek Thee.	RESPICE, Dómine, in testaméntum tuum, et ánimas páuperum tuórum ne derelínquas in finem: exsúrge, Dómine, et júdica causam tuam, et ne obliviscáris voces quaeréntium te. Ps. Ut quid, Deus, repulísti in finem: irátus est furor tuus super oves páscuae tuae? ℣. Glória Patri.

Ps. lxxiii. 1. O God, why hast Thou cast us off unto the end: why is Thy wrath enkindled against the sheep of Thy pasture? ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collect.

Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, da nobis fídei, spei, et caritátis augméntum: et, ut mereámur ássequi quod promíttis, fac nos amáre quod praecipis. Per Dóminum.

Almighty and everlasting God, grant unto us an increase of faith, hope and charity: and that we may deserve to obtain what Thou dost promise, make us to love what Thou commandest.

Second Collect: A cunctis, p. 156. Third Collect, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

Epistle: Gal. iii. 16-22.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Gálatas.—Fratres: Abrahae dictae sunt promissiónes, et sémini ejus. Non dicit: Et semínibus, quasi in multis; sed quasi in uno: Et sémini tuo, qui est Christus. Hoc autem dico: testaméntum confirmátum a Deo, quae post quadringéntos et trigínta annos facta est lex, non irrítum facit ad evacuándam promissiónem. Nam si ex lege heréditas, jam non ex promissióne. Abrahae autem per repromissiónem donávit Deus. Quid ígitur lex? Propter transgressiónes pósita est donec veníret semen, cui promíserat, ordináta per Angelos in manu mediatóris. Mediátor autem uníus non est: Deus autem unus est. Lex ergo advérsus promíssa Dei? Absit. Si enim data esset lex, quae posset vivificáre, vere ex lege esset justítia. Sed conclúsit Scriptúra ómnia sub peccáto, ut promíssio ex fide Jesu Christi Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Galatians.—Brethren: To Abraham were the promises made, and to his seed. He saith not: And to his seeds, as of many; but as of one, and to thy seed, which is Christ. Now this I say, that the testament which was confirmed by God, the law which was made after four hundred and thirty years, doth not disannul; to make the promise of no effect. For if the inheritance be of the law, it is no more of promise. But God gave it to Abraham by promise. Why then was the law? It was set because of transgressions, until the seed should come, to whom He made the promise: being ordained by angels in the hand of a mediator. Now a mediator is not of one: but God is one. Was the law then against the promises of God? God forbid. For if there had been a law given, which could give life, verily justice should have been by the law. But the Scripture hath concluded all under sin, that the promise by the faith of Jesus Christ might be given to them that believe.

darétur credéntibus.

Gradual: Ps. lxxiii. 20, 19, 22.

Have regard, O Lord, to Thy covenant, and forsake not to the end the souls of Thy poor. ℣. Arise, O Lord, and judge Thy cause: remember the reproach of Thy servants.

Réspice, Dómine, in testaméntum tuum: et ánimas paúperum tuórum ne oblivis-cáris in finem. ℣. Exsúrge, Dómine, et júdica causam tu-am: memor esto oppróbrii servórum tuórum.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. lxxxix. 1.

Lord, thou hast been our refuge, from generation to generation.—Alleluia.

Dómine, refúgium factus es nobis a generatióne et progénie. —Allelúia.

Gospel: Luke xvii. 11-19.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—At that time, as Jesus was going to Jerusalem, he passed through the midst of Samaria and Galilee: and as He entered into a certain town, there met him ten men that were lepers, who stood afar off, and lifted up their voice, saying: Jesus, master, have mercy on us. Whom when He saw, He said: Go, show yourselves to the priests. And it came to pass, that, as they went, they were made clean. And one of them, when he saw that he was made clean, went back, with a loud voice glorifying God: and he fell on his face before His feet, giving thanks: and this was a Samaritan. And Jesus answering said: Were not ten made clean? And where are the nine? There is no one found to return, and give glory to God, but this stranger. And ✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo témpore: Dum iret Jesus in Jerúsalem, transíbat per médiam Samaríam et Galilaeam. Et cum ingrederétur quoddam castéllum, occurrérunt ei decem viri lepròsi qui stetérunt a longe: et levavérunt vocem, dicéntes: Jesu praecéptor, miserére nostri. Quos ut vidit, dixit: Ite, osténdite vos sacerdótibus. Et factum est, dum irent, mundáti sunt. Unus autem ex illis, ut vidit quia mundátus est, regréssus est, cum magna voce magníficans Deum, et cécidit in fáciem ante pedes ejus, grátias agens: et hic erat Samaritánus. Respóndens autem Jesus, dixit: Nonne decem mundáti sunt? et novem ubi sunt? Non est invéntus qui redíret, et daret glóriam Deo, nisi hic alienígena. Et ait illi:

Surge, vade; quia fides tua te salvum fecit.—Credo.	He said to him: Arise, go thy way; for thy faith hath made thee whole.—Creed.

Offertory: Ps. xxx. 15, 16.

In te sperávi, Dómine; dixi: Tu es Deus meus, in mánibus tuis témpora mea.	In Thee, O Lord, have I hoped: I said, Thou art my God, my times are in Thy hands.

Secret.

Propitiáre, Dómine, populo tuo, propitiáre munéribus: ut hac oblatióne placátus, et indulgéntiam nobis tríbuas, et postuláta concédas. Per Dóminum.	Look with favour, O Lord, upon Thy people; look with favour upon their offerings: and, appeased by this oblation, mercifully forgive us our sins and graciously hear our prayers.

Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 157. Third Secret, at the option of the Priest, p. 160. Preface of Trinity Sunday, p. 55.

Communion: Wisd. of Sol. xvi. 20.

Panem de coelo dedísti nobis, Dómine, habéntem omne delectaméntum, et omnem sapórem suavitátis.	Thou hadst given us, O Lord, bread from heaven, having in it all that is delicious, and the sweetness of every taste.

Postcommunion.

Sumptis, Dómine, celéstibus sacraméntis: ad redemptiónis aetérnae, quaesumus, proficiámus augméntum. Per Dóminum.	We have received O Lord, Thy heavenly sacrament: vouchsafe to us, we beseech Thee, to profit thereby the increase of our hope of everlasting redemption.

Second Postcommunion: Mundet, p. 157. Third Postcommunion, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

SECOND VESPERS.

All as in Common of the Sunday, p. 95, except:

Antiphon at the Magnificat: Luke xv. 17.

Unus autem ex illis, ut* vidit quod mundátus est, regréssus est, cum magna voce magníficans Deum, allelúia.	And one of them, when he saw that he was made clean, went back, with a loud voice glorifying God. Alleluia.

Collect of the Mass, p. 1103.

“Not even Solomon was arrayed as one of these” (Gospel).

Fourteenth Sunday after Pentecost.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

The Epistle and Gospel of to-day teach us that we cannot at the same time serve two masters, namely the flesh and the spirit. The spirit, or grace, given to us by the Holy Ghost, inclines us to supernatural and holy things. The flesh, or man with his bad and carnal instincts, makes us commit all manner of sins.

Let us attend to our temporal interests without exaggerated preoccupation, for such anxiety offends our Father in heaven.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS: PROTECTOR NOSTER.

Introit: Ps. lxxxiii. 10, 11.

BEHOLD, O God, our protector, and look on the face of Thy Christ: for better is one day in Thy courts above thousands. Ps. lxxxiii. 2. How lovely are Thy tabernacles, O Lord of hosts! my soul longeth and fainteth for the courts of the Lord. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

PROTECTOR noster, áspice, Deus, et réspice in fáciem Christi tui: quia mélior est dies una in átriis tuis super míllia. Ps. Quam dilécta tabernácula tua, Dómine virtútum! concupíscit et déficit ániam mea in átria Dómini. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.

Reconciled for evermore to Thy Church, do Thou watch over her, O Lord: and, since save

Custódi, Dómine, quaesumus, Ecclésiam tuam propitiatióne perpétua: et quia sine te lábitur humána mortálitus; tuis semper auxíliis et abstrahátur a nóxiis, et ad salutária dirigátur. Per Dóminum.

Thou uphold Him, mortal man most surely fall; keep us by Thy help from all hurtful things, and lead us to those that profit us to salvation. Through our Lord.

Second Collect: A cunctis, p. 156. Third Collect, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

Epistle: Gal. v. 16-24.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Gálatas.—FRATRES: Spíritu ambuláte, et desidéria carnis non perficiétis. Caro enim concupíscit advérsus spíritum, spíritus autem advérsus carnem: haec enim sibi ínvicem adversántur, ut non quaecúmque vultis, illa faciátis. Quod si spíritu ducímini, non estis sub lege. Maniféstá sunt autem ópera carnis, quae sunt fornicátio, immundítia, impudicítia, luxúria, idolórum sérvitus, venefícia, inimicítiae, contentiónes, aemulatiónes, irae, rixae, dissensiónes, sectae, invídiae, homicídia, ebrietátes, comessatiónes, et his simília: quae praedíco vobis, sicut praedíxi: quóniam, qui tália agunt, regnum Dei non consequéntur. Fructus autem Spíritus est: cáritas, gáudium, pax, patiéntia, benígnitas, bónitas, longanímitas, mansuetúdo, fides, modéstia, continéntia, cástitas. Advérsus hujúsmodi non est lex. Qui autem sunt Christi, carnem suam crucifixérunt cum vítiis et concupiscéntiis.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Galatians.—BRETHREN: Walk in the spirit, and you shall not fulfil the lusts of the flesh: for the flesh lusteth against the spirit, and the spirit against the flesh; for these are contrary one to another; so that you do not the things that you would. But if you are led by the spirit, you are not under the law. Now the works of the flesh are manifest; which are fornication, uncleanness, immodesty, luxury, idolatry, witchcrafts, enmities, contentions, emulations, wraths, quarrels, dissensions, sects, envies, murders, drunkenness, revellings, and such like; of the which I foretell you, as I have foretold to you, that they who do such things shall not obtain the kingdom of God. But the fruit of the spirit is, charity, joy, peace, patience, benignity, goodness, longanimity, mildness, faith, modesty, continency, chastity. Against such there is no law. And they that are Christ's have crucified their flesh with the vices and concupiscences.

Gradual: Ps. cxvii. 8, 9.

Bonum est confídere in Dómino, quam confídere in hómine. ℣. Bonum est speráre

It is good to confide in the Lord, rather than to have confidence in man. ℣. It is good to trust in the Lord, rather than to trust in princes.

in Dómino, quam speráre in princípibus.

Alleluia, alleluia : Ps. xciv. 1.

℣. Come, let us praise the Lord with joy; let us joyfully sing to God our Saviour.—Alleluia.

℣. Veníte, exsultémus Dómino, jubilémus Deo salutári nostro.—Allelúia.

Gospel : Matt. vi. 24-33.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew.—At that time Jesus said to His disciples: No man can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or he will sustain the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon. Therefore I say to you, be not solicitous for your life, what you shall eat, nor for your body, what you shall put on. Is not the life more than the meat, and the body more than the raiment? Behold the birds of the air; for they neither sow nor do they reap, nor gather into barns, and your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are you not of much more value than they? And which of you, by taking thought, can add to his stature one cubit? And for raiment why are you solicitous? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they labour not, neither do they spin; but I say to you, that not even Solomon in all his glory was arrayed as one of these. Now if God so clothe the grass of the field, which is to-day, and to-morrow is cast into the oven, how much more you, O ye of little faith! Be not solicitous therefore saying, what shall we eat, or what shall we drink, or wherewith shall we be clothed,

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Nemo potest duobus dóminis servíre: aut enim unum ódio habébit, et álterum díliget: aut unum sustinébit, et álterum contémnet. Non potéstis Deo servíre, et mammónae. Ideo dico vobis, ne sollíciti sitis ánimae vestrae quid manducétis, neque córpori vestro quid induámini. Nonne ánima plus est quam esca: et corpus plus quam vestiméntum? Respícite volatília coeli, quóniam non serunt, neque metunt, neque cóngregant in hórrea: et Pater vester coeléstis pascit illa. Nonne vos magis pluris estis illis? Quis autem vestrum cógitans potest adjícere ad statúram suam cúbitum unum? Et de vestiménto quid sollíciti estis? Consideráte lília agri quómodo crescunt: non labórant, neque nent. Dico autem vobis, quóniam nec Sálomon in omni glória sua coopértus est sicut unum ex istis. Si autem foenum agri, quod hódie est, et cras in clíbanum míttitur, Deus sic vestit: quanto magis vos módicae fídei? Nolíte ergo sollíciti esse, dicéntes: Quid manducábimus aut quid bibémus, aut quo operiémur? Haec enim omnia gentes inquírunt. Scit enim Pater vester, quia his ómnibus indigétis. Quaerite ergo primum regnum Dei, et justitiam ejus: et haec omnia adjiciéntur vobis.—Credo.

for after all these things do the heathen seek. For your Father knoweth that you have need of all these things. Seek ye therefore first the Kingdom of God, and His justice; and all these things shall be added unto you.—Creed.

Offertory: Ps. xxxiii. 8, 9.

Immíttet Angelus Dómini in circúitu timéntium eum, et erípiet eos: gustáte, et vidéte quóniam suávis est Dóminus.

The angel of the Lord shall encamp round about them that fear Him, and shall deliver them: O taste and see that the Lord is sweet!

Secret.

Concéde nobis, Dómine, quaesumus, ut haec hóstia salutáris, et nostrórum fiat purgátio delictórum, et tuae propitiátio potestátis. Per Dóminum.

Grant unto us, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that the saving Victim we offer, may atone for our sins, and in our behalf propitiate Thine almighty power. Through our Lord.

Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 157. Third Secret, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160. Preface of Trinity Sunday, p. 55.

Communion: Matt. vi. 33.

Primum quaerite regnum Dei, et ómnia adjiciéntur vobis, dicit Dóminus.

Seek first the Kingdom of God; and all things shall be added unto you, saith the Lord.

Postcommunion.

Puríficent semper et múniant tua sacraménta nos, Deus: et ad perpétuae ducant salvatiónis effectum. Per Dóminum.

May thy Sacraments, O Lord, at all times purify and strengthen us: and through them may we in the end attain to eternal salvation. Through our Lord.

Second Postcommunion: Mundet, p. 157. Third Postcommunion, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

SECOND VESPERS.

All as in Common of the Sunday, p. 95, except:

Antiphon at the Magnificat: Matt. vi. 33.

Quaerite primum * regnum Dei, et justítiam ejus, et haec ómnia adjiciéntur vobis, allelúia.

Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His justice, and all these things shall be added unto you. Alleluia.

Collect of the Mass, p. 1106.

"Young man, I say to thee : Arise" (Gospel)

Fifteenth Sunday after Pentecost.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

The Mass reminds us that having received the Holy Ghost at the Feast of Pentecost and Jesus in Holy Communion (Communion), our souls and bodies should be moved by the Spirit (Epistle) and entirely obedient to the operation of the divine gift of the Eucharist, so that it be no longer our own nature but the effect of this sacrament that dominates in us (Postcommunion).

Christ has snatched us from death of sin as He once snatched the young man of Naim from natural death, and in this He responds to the compassion He feels for our mother the Church who laments over sinners, just as He was moved by the poor widow who lamented over her son.

This supernatural life, which is that of the Church, must always dwell in us and bear fruit, making us not only avoid the works of the flesh, as St. Paul told us last Sunday, but also practise the works of the Spirit which are the love of our neighbour and mistrust in ourselves, since we are nothing without Jesus Christ (Epistle).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS : INCLINA, DOMINE.

Introit : Ps. lxxxv. 1, 2, 3.

BOW down Thy ear, O Lord, to me and hear me : Save Thy servant, O my God, that trusteth in Thee : have mercy on me, O Lord, for I have cried to Thee all day. Ps. lxxxv. 4. Give joy to the soul of Thy INCLINA, Dómine, aurem tuam ad me, et exáudi me : salvum fac servum tuum, Deus meus sperántem in te : miserére mihi, Dómine, quóniam ad te clamávi tota die. Ps. Laetífica ánimam servi tui: quia ad te, Dómine, ánimam meam levávi. ℣. Glória Patri.

servant; for to Thee, O Lord, I have lifted up my soul. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collect.

Ecclésiam tuam, Dómine, miserátio continuáta mundet et múniat: et quia sine te non potest salva consístere: tuo semper múnere gubernétur. Per Dóminum.

May Thine abiding loving kindness, O Lord, cleanse and fortify Thy Church: and forasmuch as without Thee it can never be well with her, may it be at all times Thy grace that governs her. Through our Lord.

Second Collect: A cunctis, p. 157. Third Collect, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

Epistle: Gal. v. 25, 26; vi. 1-10.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Gálatas.—FRATRES: Si spíritu vívimus, spíritu et ambulémus. Non efficiámur inánis glóriae cúpidi, ínvicem provocántes, ínvicem invidéntes. Fratres, et si praeoccupátus fúerit homo in áliquo delícto, vos, qui spirituáles estis, hujúsmodi instrúite in spíritu lenitátis, consíderans teípsum, ne et tu tentéris. Alter altérius ónera portáte, et sic adimplébitis legem Christi. Nam si quis exístimat se áliquid esse, cum nihil sit, ipse se sedúcit. Opus autem suum probet unusquísque, et sic in semetípso tantum glóriam habébit, et non in áltero. Unusquísque enim onus suum portábit. Commúnicet autem is, qui catechizátur verbo, ei, qui se catechízat, in ómnibus bonis. Nolíte erráre: Deus non irridétur. Quae enim semináverit homo, haec et metet. Quóniam qui séminat in carne sua, de carne et metet corruptiónem: qui autem séminat

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Galatians.—BRETHREN: If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit. Let us not be made desirous of vain-glory, provoking one another, envying one another. Brethren, and if a man be overtaken in any fault, you, who are spiritual, instruct such a one in the spirit of meekness, considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted. Bear ye one another's burthens, and so you shall fulfil the law of Christ. For if any man think himself to be something, whereas he is nothing, he deceiveth himself. But let everyone prove his own work, and so he shall have glory in himself only, and not in another. For every one shall bear his own burden. And let him that is instructed in the word, communicate to him that instructeth him, in all good things. Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for what things a man shall sow, those also shall he reap. For he that soweth in his flesh, of the flesh also shall reap corruption: but he that soweth in the spirit, of the spirit shall reap life everlasting. And in doing good, let us not fail; for in due time we shall reap, not failing. Therefore, whilst we have time, let us work good to all men, but especially to those who are of the household of the faith.

in spíritu, de spíritu metet vitam aetérnam. Bonum autem faciéntes, non deficiámus: témpore enim suo metémus, non deficiéntes. Ergo dum tempus habémus, operémur bonum ad omnes, máxime autem ad doméstícos fídei.

Gradual: Ps. xci. 2, 3.

It is good to give praise to the Lord; and to sing to Thy name, O most High. ℣. To show forth Thy mercy in the morning, and Thy truth in the night.

Bonum est confitéri Dómino: et psállere nómini tuo, Altíssime. ℣. Ad annuntiándum mane misericórdiam tuam, et veritátem tuam per noctem.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. cxiv. 3.

For the Lord is a great God, and a great King over all the earth.—Alleluia.

℣. Quóniam Deus magnus Dóminus, et Rex magnus super omnem terram.—Allelúia.

Gospel: Luke vii. 11-16.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—At that time, Jesus went into a city called Naim; and there went with Him His disciples, and a great multitude. And when He came nigh to the city, behold a dead man was carried out, the only son of his mother, and she was a widow, and much people of the city were with her. And when the Lord saw her, He had compassion on her, and said to her: Weep not. And He came near and touched the bier. And they that carried it stood still. And He said: Young man, I say to thee, Arise: and he that was dead sat up, and began to speak. And He delivered him to his mother. And there came a fear on them all: and they glorified God,

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo témpore: Ibat Jesus in civitátem, quae vocátur Naim: et ibant cum eo discípuli ejus, et turba copiósa. Cum autem appropinquáret portae civitátis, ecce defúnctus efferebátur fílius únicus matris suae: et haec vídua erat: et turba civitátis multa cum illa. Quam cum vidísset Dóminus, misericórdia motus super eam, dixit illi: Noli flere. Et accéssit, et tétigit lóculum. (Hi autem, qui portábant, stetérunt.) Et ait: Adoléscens, tibi dico, surge. Et resédit qui erat mórtuus, et coepit loqui. Et dedit illum matri suae. Accépit autem omnes timor: et magnificábant Deum, dicéntes: Quia prophéta magnus surréxit in nobis: et quia Deus visitávit plebem suam.—Credo.

saying: A great prophet is risen up amongst us, and God hath visited His people.—Creed.

Offertory: Ps. xxxix. 2, 3, 4.

Expéctans exspectávi Dóminum, et respéxit me: et exaudívit deprecatiónem meam: et immísit in os meum cánticum novum, hymnum Deo nostro.

With expectation I have waited for the Lord, and He had regard to me; and He heard my prayer, and He put a new canticle into my mouth, a song to our God.

Secret.

Tua nos, Dómine, sacraménta custódiant: et contra diabólicos semper tueántur incúrsus. Per Dóminum.

May Thy Sacraments, O Lord, be our safeguard: and may they defend us against all the attacks of the evil one. Through our Lord.

Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 157. Third Secret, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160. Preface of Trinity Sunday, p. 55.

Communion: John vi. 52.

Panis, quem ego dédero, caro mea est pro saeculi vita.

The bread that I will give is My flesh for the life of the world.

Postcommunion.

Mentes nostras, et córpora possídeat, quaesumus, Dómine, doni coeléstis operátio: ut non noster sensus in nobis, sed júgiter ejus praevéniat efféctus. Per Dóminum.

In soul and in body, O Lord, may we be ruled by the power working within us of the heavenly gift Thou hast vouchsafed us: so that, the graces flowing therefrom, and not the impulses of nature, may inspire all our actions. Through our Lord.

Second Postcommunion: Mundet, p. 157. Third Postcommunion, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

SECOND VESPERS.

All as in Common of the Sunday, p. 95, except:

Antiphon at the Magnificat: Luke vii. 16.

Prophéta magnus* surréxit in nobis, et quia Deus visitávit plebem suam.

A great prophet is risen among us; and God hath visited His people.

Collect of the Mass, p. 1111.

" But He, taking the man by the hand, healed him " (Gospel).

Sixteenth Sunday after Pentecost.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

The supernatural life of our souls requires that the grace of God should always be beforehand with us and accompany us (Collect). To Him therefore be glory (Epistle).

It is He Who heals our infirmities (Gospel), and Who is our support. Wherefore He teaches us in the Gospel the virtue of humility. In a short parable He shows that God raises whoever humiliates himself.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS: MISERERE MIHI.

Introit: Ps. lxxxv. 3, 5.

HAVE mercy on me, O Lord, for I have cried to Thee all the day; for Thou, O Lord, art sweet and mild, and plenteous in mercy to all that call upon Thee. Ps. Bow down thy ear to me, O Lord, and hear me; for I am needy and poor. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

MISERERE mihi, Dómine, quóniam ad te clamávi tota die: quia tu, Dómine, suávis ac mitis es, et copiósus in misericórdia ómnibus invocántibus te. Ps. Inclína, Dómine, aurem tuam mihi, et exáudi me: quóniam inops, et pauper sum ego. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.

May Thy grace, we beseech Thee, O Lord, ever both prevent us and follow us: and may it cause us to be zealous at all times in the doing of good works. Through our Lord.

Tua nos, quaesumus, Dómine, grátia semper et praevéniat et sequátur: ac bonis opéribus júgiter praestet esse inténtos. Per Dóminum.

Second Collect: A cunctis, p. 156. Third Collect, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

Epistle: Eph. iii. 13-21.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Ephésios.—FRATRES: Obsecro vos, ne deficiátis in tribulatiónibus meis pro vobis: quae est glória vestra. Hujus rei grátia flecto génua mea ad Patrem Dómini nostri Jesu Christi, ex quo omnis patérnitas in coelis et in terra nominátur, ut det vobis secúndum divítias glóriae suae, virtúte corroborári per Spíritum ejus in interiórem hóminem, Christum habitáre per fidem in córdibus vestris: in caritáte radicáti, et fundáti, ut possítis comprehéndere cum ómnibus sanctis, quae sit latitúdo, et longitúdo, et sublímitas, et profúndum: scire étiam supereminéntem sciéntiae caritátem Christi, ut impleámini in omnem plenitúdinem Dei. Ei autem, qui potens est ómnia fácere superabundánter quam pétimus, aut intellígimus, secúndum virtútem, quae operátur in nobis: ipsi glória in Ecclésia, et in Christo Jesu, in omnes generatiónes saeculi saeculórum. Amen.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Ephesians.—BRETHREN: I pray you not to faint at my tribulations for you, which are your glory. For this cause I bow my knees to the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, of Whom all paternity, in heaven and earth is named, that He would grant you, according to the riches of His glory, to be strengthened by His Spirit with might unto the inward man. That Christ may dwell by faith in your hearts; that being rooted and founded in charity, you may be able to comprehend with all the saints, what is the breadth and length, and height, and depth. To know also the charity of Christ, which surpasseth all knowledge; that you may be filled unto all the fulness of God. Now to Him who is able to do all things more abundantly than we desire or understand, according to the power that worketh in us: to Him be glory in the Church, and in Christ Jesus, unto all generations, world without end. Amen.

Gradual: Ps. ci. 16, 17.

Timébunt gentes nomen tuum, Dómine, et omnes reges terrae glóriam tuam. ℣. Quóniam aedificávit Dóminus Sion, et vidébitur in majestáte sua.

The Gentiles shall fear Thy name, O Lord, and all the kings of the earth Thy glory. ℣. For the Lord hath built up Sion, and he shall be seen in his majesty.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. xcvii. 1.

℣. Cantáte Dómino cánticum novum: quia mirabília fecit Dóminus.—Allelúia.

℣. Sing ye to the Lord a new canticle, because the Lord hath done wonderful things.—Alleluia.

Gospel: Luke xiv. 1-11.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—IN ✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—

At that time, when Jesus went into the house of one of the chief of the Pharisees on the sabbath-day to eat bread, they watched Him. And behold, there was a certain man before Him that had dropsy: and Jesus answering, spoke to the lawyers and Pharisees, saying: Is it lawful to heal on the sabbath-day? But they held their peace: but He taking him, healed him, and sent him away. And answering them, He said: Which of you shall have an ass or an ox fall into a pit, and will not immediately draw him out on the sabbath-day? And they could not answer Him these things. And He spoke a parable also to them that were invited, marking how they chose the first seats at the table, saying to them: When thou art invited to a wedding, sit not down in the first place, lest perhaps one more honourable than thou be invited by him; and he that invited thee and him, come and say to thee: Give this man place; and then thou begin with shame to take the lowest place. But when thou art invited, go, sit down in the lowest place: that when he who inviteth thee cometh, he may say to thee: Friend, go up higher: then shalt thou have glory before them that sit at table with thee: because every one that exalteth himself shall be humbled, and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted.—Creed.

illo témpore: Cum intráret Jesus in domum cujúsdam príncipis pharisaeórum sábbato manducáre panem, et ipsi observábant eum. Et ecce homo quidam hydrópicus erat ante illum. Et respóndens Jesus dixit ad legisperítos et pharisaeos, dicens: Si licet sábbato curáre? At illi tacuérunt. Ipse vero apprehénsum sanávit eum, ac dimísit. Et respóndens ad illos, dixit: Cujus vestrúm ásinus, aut bos in púteum cadet, et non contínuo éxtrahet illum die sábbati? Et non póterant ad haec respondére illi.—Dicébat autem et ad invitátos parábolam, inténdens quómodo primos accúbitus elígerent, dicens ad illos: Cum invitátus fúeris ad núptias, non discúmbas in primo loco, ne forte honorátior te sit invitátus ab illo, et véniens is, qui te, et illum vocávit, dicat tibi: Da huic locum: et tunc incípias cum rubóre novíssimum locum tenére. Sed cum vocátus fúeris, vade, recúmbe in novíssimo loco: ut, cum vénerit qui te invitávit, dicat tibi: Amíce, ascénde supérius. Tunc erit tibi glória coram simul discumbéntibus: quia omnis, qui se exáltat, humiliábitur: et qui se humíliat, exaltábitur.—Credo.

Offertory: Ps. xxxix 14, 15.

Look down, O Lord, to help me; let them be confounded and ashamed that seek after Dómine, in auxílium meum réspice: confundántur et revereántur, qui quaerunt áni-mam meam, ut áuferant eam: Dómine, in auxílium meum réspice.	my soul to take it away; look down, O Lord, to help me.

Secret.

Munda nos, quaesumus, Dómine, sacrifícii praeséntis efféctu: et pérfice miserátus in nobis; ut ejus mereámur esse partícipes. Per Dóminum.	Cleanse our hearts, we beseech Thee, O Lord, for the sake of the sacrifice we offer: and in Thy mercy make us worthy to partake thereof. Through our Lord.

Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 157. Third Secret, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160. Preface of Trinity Sunday, p. 55.

Communion: Ps. lxx. 16, 17, 18.

Dómine, memorábor justítiae tuáe solíus: Deus, docuísti me a juventúte mea: et usque in senéctam et sénium, Deus, ne derelínquas me.	O Lord, I will be mindful of Thy justice alone: Thou hast taught me, O God, from my youth, and unto old age and grey hairs, O God, forsake me not.

Postcommunion.

Puríﬁca, quaesumus, Dómine, mentes nostras benígnus, et rénova coeléstibus sacraméntis: ut consequénter et córporum praesens páriter, et futúrum capiámus auxílium. Per Dóminum.	In Thy loving kindness, O Lord, purify our souls, we beseech Thee: and quicken us to a new life in Thy sacrament, so that in the needs even of our bodies therein we may find succour. Through our Lord.

Second Postcommunion: Mundet, p. 157. Third Postcommunion, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

SECOND VESPERS.

All as in Common of the Sunday, p. 95, except:

Antiphon at the Magnificat: Luke xiv. 10.

Cum vocátus fúeris * ad núptias, recúmbe in novíssimo loco: ut dicat tibi qui te inpitávit: Amíce, ascénde supérius: et erit tibi glória coram simul discumbéntibus. Allelúia.	When thou art invited to a wedding, sit down in the lowest place, that he who invited thee may say to thee: Friend, go up higher. Then shalt thou have glory before them that sit at table with thee. Alleluia.

Collect of the Mass, p. 1114.

"Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself" (Gospel).

Seventeenth Sunday after Pentecost.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

To-day's Epistle and Gospel remind us of the great duty of charity towards God and our neighbours.

The unity of our faith, of our baptism and of our hopes, like unto the unity of the Holy Ghost, of Christ and of the Father, imposes on us all the duty, as St. Paul says, of being united in the bonds of charity, mutually bearing with one another (Epistle).

The commandment to love our neighbour, as Jesus also says, is akin to that which makes us love God, as it is for His sake that we love our neighbour. "Double is the commandment," declares St. Augustine, "but one is charity."

And to make evident His teaching to the Pharisees, Christ gives them in a text from David a proof of His divinity.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS: JUSTUS ES.

Introit: Ps. cxviii. 137, 124.

THOU art just, O Lord, and Thy judgment is right; deal with Thy servant according to Thy mercy. Ps. Blessed are the undefiled in the way: who walk in the law of the Lord. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

JUSTUS es, Dómine, et rectum judícium tuum: fac cum servo tuo secúndum misericórdiam tuam. Ps. Beáti immaculáti in via: qui ámbulant in lege Dómini. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.

Grant unto Thy people, O Lord, to withstand the temptations of the devil: and pure in heart, to follow Thee, Who alone art their God. Through our Lord.

Da, quaesumus, Dómine, pópulo tuo diabólica vitáre contágia: et te solum Deum pura mente sectári. Per Dóminum.

Second Collect: A cunctis, p. 156. Third Collect, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

Epistle: Eph. iv. 1-6.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Ephésios.—Fratres: Obsecro vos ego vinctus in Dómino, ut digne ambulétis vocatióne, qua vocáti estis, cum omni humilitáte, et mansuetúdine, cum patiéntia, supportántes ínvicem in caritáte, sollíciti serváre unitátem spíritus in vínculo pacis. Unum corpus, et unus spíritus, sicut vocáti estis in una spe vocatiónis vestrae. Unus Dóminus, una fides, unum baptísma. Unus Deus, et Pater ómnium, qui est super omnes, et per ómnia, et in ómnibus nobis. Qui est benedíctus in saecula saeculórum. Amen.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Ephesians.—Brethren: I, a prisoner of the Lord, beseech you that you walk worthy of the vocation in which you are called. With all humility and mildness, with patience, supporting one another in charity, careful to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace. One body and one spirit, as you are called in one hope of your calling. One Lord, one faith, one baptism. One God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in us all, who is blessed for ever and ever. Amen.

Gradual: Ps. xxxii. 12, 16.

Beáta gens, cujus est Dóminus Deus eórum: pópulus, quem elégit Dóminus in hereditátem sibi. ℣. Verbo Dómini coeli firmáti sunt: et spíritu oris ejus omnis virtus eórum.

Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord: the people whom He hath chosen for His inheritance. ℣. By the word of the Lord the heavens were established; and all the power of them by the spirit of his mouth.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. ci. 2.

℣. Dómine, exáudi oratiónem meam, et clamor meus ad te pervéniat.—Allelúia.

℣. O Lord, hear my prayer; and let my cry come to Thee.—Alleluia.

Gospel: Matt. xxii. 34-46.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Mathaeum.—In illo témpore: Accessérunt ad Jesum pharisaei: et interrogávit eum unus ex eis legis doctor, tentans eum: Magíster, quod est mandátum magnum in lege? Ait illi Jesus: Díliges

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew.—At that time the Pharisees came to Jesus, and one of them, a doctor of the law, asked Him, tempting him: Master, which is the great commandment of the law? Jesus said to him:

Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with thy whole heart, and with thy whole soul and with thy whole mind. This is the greatest and the first commandment. And the second is like to this: Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. On these two commandments dependeth the whole law and the prophets. And the Pharisees being gathered together, Jesus asked them, saying: What think you of Christ, whose son is He? They say to Him: David's. He saith to them: How then doth David, in spirit, call Him Lord, saying: The Lord said to my Lord: Sit on my right hand until I make Thy enemies Thy footstool? If David then call Him Lord, how is He his son? And no man was able to answer Him a word; neither durst any man, from that day forth, ask Him any more questions.—Creed.

Dóminium Deum tuum ex toto corde tuo, et in tota ánima tua, et in tota mente tua. Hoc est máximum et primum mandátum. Secúndum autem simile est huic: Diliges próximum tuum, sicut teipsum. In his duóbus mandátis univérsa lex pendet, et prophétae. Congregátis autem pharisaeis, interrogávit eos Jesus, dicens: Quid vobis vidétur de Christo? cujus fílius est? Dicunt ei: David. Ait illis: Quómodo ergo David in spíritu vocat eum Dóminum, dicens: Dixit Dóminus Dómino meo: sede a dextris meis, donec ponam inimícos tuos scabéllum pedum tuórum? Si ergo David vocat eum Dóminum, quómodo fílius ejus est? Et nemo póterat ei respondére verbum: neque ausus fuit quisquam ex illa die eum ámplius interrogáre.—Credo.

Offertory: Dan. ix. 9, 17, 18, 19.

I, Daniel, prayed to my God, saying: Hear, O Lord, the prayers of Thy servant; show Thy face upon Thy sanctuary, and favourably look down upon this people upon whom Thy name is invoked, O God.

Orávi Deum meum ego Dániel, dicens: Exáudi, Dómine, preces servi tui: illúmina fáciem tuam super sanctuárium tuum: et propítius inténde pópulum istum, super quem invocátum est nomen tuum, Deus.

Secret.

Very humbly, O Lord, we implore of Thy majesty, that the holy mysteries we are celebrating, may both free us from past sins and may save us from transgressing in the time to come. Through our Lord.

Majestátem tuam, Dómine, supplíciter deprecámur: ut haec sancta, quae gérimus, et a praetéritis nos delíctis éxuant et futúris. Per Dóminum.

Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 157. Third Secret, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160. Preface of Trinity Sunday, p. 55.

Communion : Ps. lxxv. 12, 13.

Vovéte, et réddite Dómino Deo vestro omnes, qui in circúitu ejus affértis múnera : terríbili, et ei qui aufert spíritum príncipum : terríbili apud omnes reges terrae.

Vow ye, and pray to the Lord your God, all you that round about Him bring presents : to Him that is terrible, even to Him who taketh away the spirit of princes ; to the terrible with all the kings of the earth.

Postcommunion.

Sanctificatiónibus tuis, omnipotens Deus, et vítia nostra curéntur, et remédia nobis aetérna provéniant. Per Dóminum.

By the grace of Thy sacraments, O Almighty God, may our passions be subdued and our eternal salvation assured. Through our Lord.

Second Postcommunion : Mundet, p. 156 ; Third Postcommunion, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

SECOND VESPERS.

All as in Common of the Sunday, p. 95, except :

Antiphon at the Magnificat : Luke v. 25.

Quid vobis * vidétur de Christo ? cujus fílius est ? Dicunt ei omnes : David. Dicit eis Jesus : Quómodo David in spíritu vocat eum Dóminum, dicens : Dixit Dóminus Dómino meo : Sede a dextris meis ?

What think you of Christ ? Whose Son is He ? They all say to Him : David's. Jesus saith to them : How then doth David in spirit call Him Lord, saying : The Lord said to my Lord, sit on my right hand ?

Collect of the Mass, p. 1118.

September Ember Days.—Ember Wednesday.

STATION AT ST. MARIA MAGGIORE.—Purple vestments.

As on other Wednesdays in Ember Days, the Station is held at St. Maria Maggiore.*

The Prophet Amos had foretold in the eighth century B.C. the destruction of the Kingdom of Israel and its coming restoration (1st reading). Later on, indeed, Nehemias and Esdras brought back the captives from Babylon and rebuilt Jerusalem. When this work was completed, they all assembled on the first day of the seventh month when Esdras read to them the Law of Moses and said to them : " This is the holy day of the Lord, be not sad for the joy of the Lord is our strength " (Second Lesson and Communion).

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510 G d 26.

The Wednesday in September Ember week, which month was formerly, as its name shows, the seventh of the year, recalls this joyous anniversary which was a figure of our redemption by Jesus; indeed the Introit tells us to be thrilled with joy in God our protector.

This joy is accompanied by the spirit of penitence expressed in the violet vestments used, and the Church prays that we, depriving ourselves of bodily nourishment, may also abstain from sins of the mind (Second Collect). The Gospel indeed speaks of the impure spirit which can only be dispelled by prayer and fasting.

Having fallen into sin through our weakness, let us pray and fast that God may give a remedy by His merciful help (Collect).

MASS: EXSULTATE DEO.

Introit: Ps. lxxx. 2, 3, 4, 5.

REJOICE to God our helper: sing aloud to the God of Jacob: take a pleasant psalm with the harp; blow the trumpet in the beginning of the month, for it is a commandment in Israel, and a judgment to the God of Jacob. Ps. He ordained it for a testimony in Joseph, when he came out of the land of Egypt: he heard a tongue which he knew not. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

EXSULTATE Deo adjutóri nostro: jubiláte Deo Jacob: súmite psalmum jucúndum cum cíthara; cánite in inítio mensis tuba, quia praecéptum in Israël est, et judícium Deo Jacob. Ps. Testimónium in Joseph pósuit illud, cum exíret de terra Aegypti: linguam quam non nóverat, audívit. V. Glória Patri.

After the Kyrie eleison the Priest says:

Let us pray. Let us kneel down. ℟. Rise up from your knees.

Oremus. Flectámus génua. ℟. Leváte.

Collect.

Succour, in Thy mercy, our weakness, we beseech thee, O Lord: and in pity renew that poor strength of ours which of its nature is ever wasting away. Through our Lord.

Misericórdiae tuae remédiis, quaesumus Dómine, fragílitas nostra subsístat: ut, quae sua conditióne attéritur, tua cleméntia reparétur. Per Dóminum.

First Lesson: Amos ix. 13, 14.

Lesson from Amos the Prophet.—THUS saith the Lord God: Behold the days come, when the ploughman shall overtake the reaper, and the treader of grapes

Léctio Amos Prophétae.—HAEC dicit Dóminus Deus: Ecce dies véniunt: et comprehéndet arátor messórem, et calcátor uvae mitténtem semen: et stillábunt montes dulcédinem, et omnes colles culti erunt. Et convértam captivitátem pópuli mei Israel: et aedificábunt civitátes desértas, et inhabitábunt: et plantábunt víneas, et bibent vinum eárum: et fácient hortos, et cómedent fructus eórum. Et plantábo eos super humum suam: et non evéllam eos ultra de terra sua, quam dedi eis: dicit Dóminus Deus tuus.

him that soweth seed, and the mountains shall drop sweetness, and every hill shall be tilled. And I will bring back the captivity of my people Israel, and they shall build the abandoned cities, and inhabit them; and they shall plant vineyards, and drink the wine of them; and shall make gardens, and eat the fruits of them: and I will plant them upon their own land: and I will no more pluck them out of their land which I have given them; saith the Lord Thy God.

Gradual: Ps. cxii. 5-7.

Quis sicut Dóminus Deus noster, qui in altis hábitat: et humília réspicit in coelo et in terra? ℣. Súscitans a terra inopem, et de stércore érigens páuperem.

Who is as the Lord our God, Who dwelleth on high; and looketh down on the low things in heaven and in earth? ℣. Raising up the needy from the earth; and lifting up the poor out of the dunghill.

The Priest says: Dominus vobiscum.

Collect.

Praesta, quaesumus, Dómine famíliae tuae supplicánti: ut, dum a cibis corporálibus se ábstinet, a vítiis quoque mente jejúnet. Per Dóminum.

To Thy suppliant family, grant, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that refusing food to our bodies we may steadfastly refrain from indulging our evil passions. Through our Lord.

Second Collect: A cunctis, p. 156. Third Collect, at the option of the Priest, p. 160.

Second Lesson: 2 Esdras viii. 1-10.

Léctio libri Esdrae. — In diébus illis: Congregátus est omnis pópulus quasi vir unus ad platéam, quae est ante portam aquárum: et dixérunt Esdrae scribae, ut afférret librum legis Moysi, quam praecéperat Dóminus Israéli,

Lesson from the Book of Esdras.— In those days, all the people were gathered together as one man, to the street which is before the water-gate, and they spoke to Esdras the scribe, to bring the book of the law of Moses, which the Lord had com_ manded to Israel. Then Esdras the priest brought the law before the multitude of men and women, and all those that could understand, on the first day of the seventh month. And he read it plainly in the street that was before the water-gate, from the morning until mid-day, before the men and women, and all those that could understand; and the ears of all the people were attentive to the book. And Esdras the Scribe stood upon a step of wood, which he made to speak upon. And he opened the book before all the people, for he was above all the people; and when he had opened it, all the people stood. And Esdras blessed the Lord the great God, and all the people answered: Amen, Amen, lifting up their hands; and they bowed down, and adored God, with their faces to the ground. Now the Levites made silence among the people to hear the law; and the people stood in their place: and they read in the book of the law of God distinctly and plainly to be understood; and they understood when it was read. And Nehemias, and Esdras the priest and scribe, and the Levites who interpreted to all the people, said: This is a holy day to the Lord our God; do not mourn nor weep. And he said to them: Go, eat fat meats and drink sweet wine, and send portions to them that have not prepared for themselves; because it is the holy day of the Lord, and be not sad, for the joy of the Lord is our strength.

Attulit ergo Esdras sacérdos legem coram multitúdine virórum et mulíerum, cunctísque qui póterant intellígere, in die prima mensis séptimi. Et legit in eo apérte in platéa, quae erat ante portam aquárum, de mane usque ad médiam diem, in conspéctu virórum, et mulíerum, et sapiéntium: et aures omnis pópuli erant eréctae ad librum. Stetit autem Esdras scriba super gradum lígneum, quem fécerat ad loquéndum. Et apéruit librum coram omni pópulo: super univérsum quippe pópulum eminébat: et cum aperuísset eum, stetit omnis pópulus. Et benedíxit Esdras Dómino Deo magno: et respóndit omnis pópulus: Amen, Amen: élevans manus suas: et incurváti sunt, et adoravérunt Deum proni in terram. Porro levítae siléntium faciébant in pópulo ad audiéndam legem: pópulus autem stabat in gradu suo. Et legérunt in libro legis Dei distíncte, et apérte ad intelligéndum: et intellexérunt cum legerétur. Dixit autem Nehemías, et Esdras sacérdos et scriba, et levítae interpretántes univérso pópulo: Dies sanctificátus est Dómino Deo nostro, nolíte lugére, et nolíte flere. Et dixit eis: Ite, comédite pínguia et bíbite mulsum, et míttite partes his, qui non praeparavérunt sibi: quia sanctus dies Dómini est, et nolíte contristári: gáudium étenim Dómini est fortitúdo nostra.

Gradual: Ps. xxxii. 12, 6.

Beáta gens, cujus est Dóminus Deus eórum: pópulus, quem elégit Dóminus in hereditátem sibi. ℣. Verbo Dómini coeli firmáti sunt: et spíritu oris ejus omnis virtus eórum.

Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord: the people whom the Lord hath chosen for His inheritance. ℣. By the word of the Lord the heavens were established: and all the power of them by the spirit of His mouth.

Gospel: Mark ix. 16-28.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Marcum.—In illo témpore: Respóndens unus de turba, dixit ad Jesum: Magíster, áttuli fílium meum ad te, habéntem spíritum mutum: qui ubicúmque eum apprehénderit, allídit illum, et spumat, et stridet déntibus, et aréscit: et dixi discípulis tuis, ut ejícerent illum, et non potuérunt. Qui respóndens eis, dixit: O generátio incrédula, quámdiu apud vos ero? quámdiu vos pátiar? Afférte illum ad me. Et attulérunt eum. Et cum vidísset eum, statim spíritus conturbávit illum: et elísus in terram, volutabátur spumans. Et interrogávit patrem ejus: Quantum témporis est, ex quo ei hoc áccidit? At ille ait: Ab infántia: et frequénter eum in ignem, et in aquas misit, ut eum pérderet. Sed si quid potes, ádjuva nos, misértus nostri. Jesus autem ait illi: Si potes crédere, ómnia possibília sunt credénti. Et contínuo exclámans pater púeri, cum lácrymis aiébat: Credo, Dómine: ádjuva incredulitátem meam. Et cum vidéret Jesus concurréntem turbam,

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Mark.—At that time, one of the multitude, answering, said to Jesus: Master, I have brought to Thee my son, having a dumb spirit; who, wheresoever he taketh him, dasheth him, and he foameth, and gnasheth with the teeth, and pineth away; and I spoke to Thy disciples to cast him out, and they could not. Who, answering them, said: O incredulous generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I suffer you? bring him unto Me: and they brought him; and when He had seen him, immediately the spirit troubled him; and being thrown down upon the ground he rolled about foaming. And He asked his father: How long time is it since this happened unto him? But he said: From his infancy: and oftentimes hath he cast him into the fire and into the waters to destroy him. But if Thou canst do anything, help us, having compassion on us. And Jesus saith to him: If thou canst believe, all things are possible to him that believeth. And immediately the father of the boy crying out, with tears, said: I do believe, Lord; help my unbelief. And when Jesus saw the multitude running together, He threatened the unclean spirit, saying to him: Deaf and dumb spirit, I command thee, go out of him, and enter not any more into him: and crying out and greatly tearing him, he went out of him; and he became as dead, so that many said: He is dead. But Jesus, taking him by the hand, lifted him up, and he arose. And when He was come into the house, His disciples secretly asked Him: Why could not we cast him out? And He said to them: This kind can go out by nothing, but by prayer and fasting.

comminátus est spirítui immúndo, dicens illi: Surde et mute spíritus, ego praecípio tibi, exi ab eo: et ámplius ne intróeas in eum. Et exclámans, et multum dicérpens eum, éxiit ab eo, et factus est sicut mórtuus, ita ut multi dícerent: Quia mórtuus est. Jesus autem tenens manum ejus, elevávit eum, et surréxit. Et cum introísset in domum, discípuli ejus secréto interrogábant eum: Quare nos non potúimus ejícere eum? Et dixit illis: Hoc genus in nullo potest exire, nisi in oratióne, et jejúnio.

Offertory: Ps. cxviii. 47, 48.

I will meditate on Thy commandments, which I have loved exceedingly: and lift up my hands to Thy commandments, which I have loved.

Meditábor in mandátis tuis, quae diléxi valde: et levábo manus meas ad mandáta tua, quae diléxi.

Secret.

May this Holy Victim, we beseech Thee, O Lord, wash away our sins: and, sanctifying us in both body and soul, make us worthy to offer sacrifice to Thee. Through our Lord.

Haec hóstia, Dómine, quaesumus, emúndet nostra delícta: et ad sacrifícium celebrándum, subditórum tibi córpora, mentésque sanctíficet. Per Dóminum.

Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 156. Third Secret, at the option of the Priest, p. 160.

Communion: 2 Esdras viii. 10.

Eat fat meats, and drink sweet wine, and send portions to them that have not prepared for themselves; because it is the holy day of the Lord; be not sad for the joy of the Lord is our strength.

Comédite pínguia, et bíbite mulsum, et míttite partes his, qui non praeparavérunt sibi: sanctus enim dies Dómini est, nolíte contristári: gáudium étenim Dómini est fortitúdo nostra.

Postcommunion.

Suméntes, Dómine, dona coeléstia, suppliciter deprecámur: ut, quae sédula servitúte donánte te gérimus, dignis sénsibus tuo múnere capiámus. Per Dóminum.

In the receiving, O Lord, of Thine adorable sacrament, we humbly pray that we, whom Thou enablest day by day to offer to Thee the worship Thou hast ordained, may, by Thy grace, become more and more worthy to share in this heavenly gift to mankind.

Second Postcommunion : Mundet, p. 157. Third Postcommunion, at the option of the Priest, p. 160.

Ember Friday in September.

STATION AT THE HOLY APOSTLES' CHURCH.—Purple vestments.

As on the other Fridays in Ember week of the year, the Station is held at the Church of the Holy Apostles in Rome.*

The Epistle reminds us of the words of the Prophet Osee to Israel: " Be converted to the Lord thy God, since thy iniquity has caused thee to fall." And Osee announces that the Almighty, seeing the spirit of prayer and penitence of the Israelites, will heal their bruises and turn away His anger from them. A fine harvest of olives, wheat and wine; that is to say, the riches of the autumnal season, consecrated to God by the September Ember Days; blessings from on high are promised thus symbolically to the chosen people.

What God did for repentant Israel, the Saviour did for Mary Magdalen, who, says the Gospel, " was pardoned many sins because she had loved much " (Gospel). And the Church ordains her priests during these days of penance so that they may repeat throughout the centuries their Master's example and pardon those who repent.

MASS : LAETETUR COR.

Introit : Ps. civ. 3, 4.

LAETETUR cor quaeréntium Dóminum: quaeríte Dóminum, et confirmámini: quaeríte fáciem ejus semper. Ps. Confitémini Dómino, et invocáte nomen ejus: annuntiáte inter gentes ópera ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

LET the heart of them rejoice that seek the Lord: seek ye the Lord and be strengthened: seek His face evermore. Ps. civ. 1. Give glory to the Lord, and call upon His name: declare His deeds among the Gentiles. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collect.

Praesta, quaesumus omnípotens Deus: ut observatiónes sacras ánnua devotióne reco-

Grant, O Almighty God, we beseech Thee, that by our devout keeping of the holy observances proper to each season of the year, we may, in body and in soul, give pleasure to Thee. Through our Lord.

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, E. d 3.

léntes, et córpore tibi placeámus, et mente. Per Dóminum.

Lesson: Hos. xiv. 2-10.

Lesson from Osee the Prophet.—THUS saith the Lord God: Return, O Israel, to the Lord thy God; for thou hast fallen down by thy iniquity. Take with you words, and return to the Lord, and say to Him: Take away all iniquity, and receive the good, and we will render the calves of our lips. Assyria shall not save us, we will not ride upon horses, neither will we say any more: The works of our hands are our gods; for Thou wilt have mercy on the fatherless that is in thee. I will heal their breaches, I will love them freely; for My wrath is turned away from them. I will be as the dew: Israel shall spring as the lily, and his root shall shoot forth as that of Libanus. His branches shall spread, and His glory shall be as the olive-tree, and His smell as that of Libanus. They shall be converted that sit under His shadow, they shall live upon wheat, and they shall blossom as a vine: His memorial shall be as the wine of Libanus. Ephraim shall say: What have I to do any more with idols? I will hear him, and I will make him flourish like a green fir-tree: from Me is thy fruit found. Who is wise, and he shall understand these things? prudent, and he shall know these things? for the ways of the Lord are right, and the just shall walk in them, but the transgressors shall fall in them.

Léctio Oséae Prophétae.—HAEC dicit Dóminus Deus: Convértere Israël ad Dóminum Deum tuum: quóniam corruisti in iniquitáte tua. Tóllite vobíscum verba, et convertímini ad Dóminum et dícite ei: Omnem aufer iniquitátem, áccipe bonum: et reddémus vítulos labiórum nostrórum. Assur non salvábit nos, super equum non ascendémus, nec dicémus ultra: Dii nostri ópera mánuum nostrárum: quia ejus, qui in te est, miseréberis pupílli. Sanábo contritiónes eórum, díligam eos spontánee: quia avérsus est furor meus ab eis. Ero quasi ros, Israel germinábit sicut lílium, et erúmpet radix ejus ut Líbani. Ibunt rami ejus et erit quasi olíva glória ejus: et odor ejus ut Líbani. Converténtur sedéntes in umbra ejus: vivent trítico, et germinábunt quasi vínea: memoriále ejus sicud vinum Líbani. Ephraïm, quid mihi ultra idóla? ego exáudiam, et dírigam eum ego ut abíetem viréntem: ex me fructus tuus invéntus est. Quis sápiens, et intélliget ista? intélligens, et sciet haec? Quia rectae viae Dómini, et justi ambulábunt in eis, praevaricatóres vero córruent in eis.

Gradual: lxxxix. 13, 1.

Convértere, Dómine aliquántulum, et deprecáre super servos tuos. ℣. Dómine, refúgium factus es nobis, a generatióne et progéne.

Return, O Lord, how long? and be entreated in favour of Thy servants. ℣. Lord, Thou hast been our refuge, from generation to generation.

Gospel: Luke vii. 36-50.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo témpore: Rogábat Jesum, quidam de pharisaeis, ut manducáret cum illo. Et ingréssus domum pharísaei, discúbuit. Et ecce múlier, quae erat in civitáte peccátrix, ut cognóvit, quod accubuísset in domo pharisaei, áttulit alabástrum unguénti: et stans retro secus pedes ejus, lácrymis coepit rigáre pedes ejus, et capíllis cápitis sui tergébat, et osculabátur pedes ejus, et unguénto ungébat. Videns autem pharisaeus, qui vocáverat eum, ait intra se, dicens: Hic si esset prophéta, sciret útique, quae et qualis est múlier, quae tangit eum: quia peccátrix est. Et respóndens Jesus, dixit ad illum: Simon, hábeo tibi áliquid dícere. At ille ait: Magister, dic. Duo debitóres erant cuídam foeneratóri: unus debébat denários quingéntos, et álius quinguagínta. Non habéntibus illis unde rédderent, donávit utrísque. Quis ergo eum plus díligit? Respóndens Simon, dixit: Aestimo quia is, cui plus donávit. At ille dixit ei: Recte judicásti. Et convérsus ad mulíerem, dixit Simóni: Vides hanc mulíerem? Intrávi in domum tuam, aquam pédibus meis non dedísti: haec judged rightly. And turning to the woman, He said unto Simon: Dost thou see this woman? I entered into thy house: thou gavest Me no water for My feet; but she with tears hath washed My feet, and with her hairs hath wiped them. Thou gavest Me no kiss; but she, since she came in, hath not ceased to kiss My feet. My head with oil thou didst not anoint; but she with ointment hath anointed My feet. Wherefore I say to thee: Many sins are forgiven her, because she hath loved much: but to whom less is forgiven, he loveth less. And he said to her: Thy sins are forgiven thee. And they that sat at meat with Him began to say within themselves: Who is this that forgiveth sins also? And he said to the woman: Thy faith hath made thee safe; go in peace.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—At that time, one of the Pharisees desired Jesus to eat with him; and He went into the house of the Pharisee, and sat down to meat. And behold a woman that was in the city, a sinner, when she knew that He sat at meat in the Pharisee's house, brought an alabaster box of ointment; and standing behind at His feet, she began to wash His feet with tears, and wiped them with the hairs of her head, and kissed His feet, and anointed them with the ointment. And the Pharisee, who had invited Him, seeing it, spoke within himself, saying: This man, if he were a prophet, would know surely who and what manner of woman this is that toucheth him, that she is a sinner. And Jesus answering, said to him: Simon, I have somewhat to say to thee; but he said: Master, say it. A certain creditor had two debtors, the one owed five hundred pence, and the other fifty. And whereas they had not wherewith to pay, he forgave them both. Which therefore of the two loveth him most? Simon answering, said: I suppose that he to whom he forgave most. And he said to him: Thou hast

autem lácrymis rigávit pedes meos, et capíllis suis tersit. Osculum mihi non dedísti: haec autem, ex quo intrávit, non cessávit osculári pedes meos. Oleo caput meum non unxísti: haec autem unguénto unxit pedes meos. Propter quod dico tibi: Remittúntur ei peccáta multa, quóniam diléxit multum. Cui autem minus dimíttitur, minus díligit. Dixit autem ad íllam: Remittúntur tibi peccáta. Et coepérunt, qui simul accumbébant, dícere intra se: Quis est hic, qui étiam peccáta dimíttit? Dixit autem ad mulíerem: Fides tua te salvam fecit: vade in pace.

Offertory: Ps. cii. 2-5.

Bless the Lord, O my soul, and never forget all He hath done for thee: and thy youth shall be renewed like the eagle's.

Bénedic ánima mea Dómino, et noli oblivísci omnes retributiónes ejus: et renovábitur, sicut áquilae, juvéntus tua.

Secret.

May our fasting, O Lord, be pleasing in Thy sight; may it satisfy for our sins: may it make us worthy of Thy favours; and may it plead for the fulfilment in our regard of Thine everlasting promises. Through our Lord.

Accépta tibi sint, Dómine, quaesumus, nostri dona jejúnii: quae et expiándo nos tua grátia dignos effíciant, et ad sempitérna promíssa perdúcant. Per Dóminum.

Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 157. Third Secret, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

Communion.

Remove from me reproach and contempt, because I have sought out Thy commandments,

Aufer a me oppróbrium et contémptum, quia mandáta tua exquisívi, Dómine: nam et testimónia tua meditátio mea est.	O Lord; for Thy testimonies are my meditation.

Postcommunion.

Quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut de percéptis munéribus prátias exhibéntes, benefícia potióra sumámus. Per Dóminum.	We beseech Thee, O Almighty God, on those who give thanks to Thee for gifts received from Thy bounty, to bestow blessings yet more excellent.

Second Postcommunion : Mundet, p. 157. Third Postcommunion, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

Ember Saturday in September.

STATION AT ST. PETER'S.*—Purple vestments.

On the fifteenth day of the seventh month of the year, the Jews used to celebrate at the conclusion of the harvest, the feast of Tabernacles and lived during eight days under tents or huts made of foliage in remembrance of the nomadic life of the Israelites in the desert (Second Lesson). This feast was preceded, on the tenth of the month, by the very solemn Day of Expiation, called Holy (First Lesson). On this day the High Priest purified himself in the basin which stood before the Sanctuary,† then taking the blood of the victims, he entered the Holy of Holies and prayed near the mercy-seat (Epistle).

The Saturday in the September Ember week, formerly the seventh month of the year, recalls this feast both of penance and joy.

The Prophets Micheas, Zacharias and Daniel, whose writings were read through during the night or vigil preceding the Sunday, ‡ speak in similar terms of the salvation brought by God to those who atone for their sins and implore His protection amid the dangers that threaten them. The Epistle shows the new alliance which Jesus Christ has established between our repentant souls and God by offering to Him in the real Holy of Holies, which is heaven, the blood which He shed upon the Cross to atone for our sins.

In the same way as Jesus delivered the woman whom Satan had bound for eighteen years, and like the gardener mentioned in the Gospel, the priests heal our souls and by their prayers and their untiring zeal ward off from souls the rigours of divine justice, making them produce sweet fruits of penance and good works ; this Mass is therefore eminently suited for an ordination.

After the First Lesson are ordained the Porters; after the Second, the Readers; after the Third the Exorcists; after the Fourth, the Acolytes; after the Fifth, the Sub-deacons; after the Epistle, the Deacons, and after the Gospel, the Priests.

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, E d 3.

† The holy water stoops in our Churches recall the basin known as the brazen sea.

‡ Formerly Mass was not said on the Saturday morning; but after a night passed in prayer and reading the Scriptures, the Holy Sacrifice was offered at dawn. Hence the large number of Collects and lessons which characterise the Mass of the Saturday in Ember week.

MASS: VENITE, ADOREMUS.

Introit: xciv. 6, 7.

COME let us adore God, and fall down before the Lord: let us weep before Him who made us; for He is the Lord our God. Ps. xciv. 1. Come let us praise the Lord with joy; let us joyfully sing to God our Saviour. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

VENITE, adorémus Deum, et procidámus ante Dóminum, plorémus ante eum, qui fecit nos: quia ipse est Dóminus, Deus noster. Ps. Veníte exsultémus Dómino: jubilémus Deo salutári nostro. ℣. Glória Patri.

After the Kyrie eleison is said:

Let us pray. Let us kneel down. ℟. Rise up from your knees.

Orémus. Flectámus génua. ℟. Leváte.

Collect.

Almighty and everlasting God, Who, by means of wholesome abstinence, dost neal us in soul and in body; very humbly we supplicate that Thy majesty be appeased by the fervent devotion with which we fast, and that Thou succour us in all our needs, whether for our happiness in this present life, or for the hope of that which has to come. Through our Lord.

Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, qui per continéntiam salutárem corpóribus medéris et méntibus: majestátem tuam súpplices exorámus; ut pia jejunántium deprecatióne placátus, et praeséntia nobis subsídia tríbuas, et futúra. Per Dóminum.

First Lesson: Lev. xxiii. 26-32.

Lesson from the Book of Leviticus.—IN those days, the Lord spoke to Moses, saying: Upon the tenth day of this seventh month shall be the day of atonement, it shall be most solemn, and shall be called holy; and you shall afflict your souls on that day, and shall offer a holocaust to the Lord. You shall do no servile work in the time of this day; because it is a day of propitiation, that the Lord your God may be merciful unto you. Every soul that is Léctio libri Levítici.—IN diebus illis: Locútus est Dóminus ad Móysen, dicens: Décimo die mensis hujus séptimi, dies expiatiónum erit celebérrimus, et vocábitur sanctus: affligetísque ánimas vestras in eo, et offerétis holocáustum Dómino. Omne opus servíle non faciétis in témpore diéi hujus: quia dies propitiatiónis est, ut propitiétur vobis Dóminus Deus vester. Omnis ánima, quae afflícta non fuérit die hac, peribit de pópulis suis; et quae óperis quidpiam fécerit, delébo eam de pópulo suo. Nihil ergo óperis faciétis in eo: legítimum sempitérnum erit vobis in cunctis generatiónibus, et habitatiónibus vestris. Sábbatum requietiónis est, et affligétis ánimas vestras die nono mensis: a véspera usque ad vésperam celebrábitis sábbata vestra: dicit Dóminus omnípotens.

not afflicted on this day, shall perish from among his people: and every soul that shall do any work, the same will I destroy from among his people. You shall do no work therefore on that day: it shall be an everlasting ordinance unto you in all your generations and dwellings. It is a sabbath of rest: and you shall afflict your souls, beginning on the ninth day of the month; from evening until evening you shall celebrate your sabbaths; saith the Lord Almighty.

Gradual: lxxviii. 9, 10.

Propítius esto, Dómine, peccátis nostris: ne quando dicant gentes: Ubi est Deus eórum? ℣. Adjuva nos Deus salutáris noster: et propter honórem nóminis tui Dómine líbera nos.

Orémus. Flectámus génua. ℟. Leváte.

Forgive us our sins, O Lord; lest they should say at any time among the Gentiles: Where is their God? ℣. Help us, O God our Saviour, and for the glory of Thy name, O Lord, deliver us.

Let us pray. Let us kneel down. ℟. Rise up from your knees.

Collect.

Da nobis, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut jejunándo, tua grátia satiémur; et abstinéndo, cunctis efficiámur hóstibus fortióres. Per Dóminum.

Grant unto us, O Lord, that fasting from food, we may be filled with Thy grace, and chastising our bodies may become strong above all our enemies. Through our Lord.

Second Lesson: Lev. xxiii. 39-43.

Léctio libri Levítici.—In diébus illis: Locútus est Dóminus ad Moysen, dicens: A quintodécimo die mensis séptimi, quando congregavéritis omnes fructus terrae vestrae, celebrábitis férias Dómini septum diébus: die primo et die octávo erit sábbatum, id est réquies. Sumetísque vobis die primo fructus árboris pulchérrimae, Lesson from the Book of Leviticus.—In those days, the Lord spoke to Moses, saying: From the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when you shall have gathered in all the fruits of your land, you shall celebrate the feast of the Lord seven days; on the first day and the eighth shall be a sabbath, that is a day of rest. And you shall take to you, on the first day, the fruits of the fairest tree, and branches of palm-trees, and boughs of thick trees, and willows of the brook, and you shall rejoice before the Lord your God; and you shall keep the solemnity thereof seven days in the year: it shall be an everlasting ordinance in your generations. In the seventh month shall you celebrate this feast; and you shall dwell in bowers seven days: every one that is of the race of Israel shall dwell in tabernacles; that your posterity may know, that I made the children of Israel to dwell in tabernacles, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt. I am the Lord your God.

spatulásque palmárum, et ramos ligni densárum fróndium, et sálices de torrénte, et laetabímini coram Dómino Deo vestro. Celebratitísque solemnitátem ejus septem diébus per annum: legítimum sempitérnum erit in generatiónibus vestris. Mense séptimo festa celebrábitis, et habitábitis in umbráculis septem diébus. Omnis, qui de génere est Israël, manébit in tabernáculis: ut discant pósteri vestri, quod in tabernáculis habitáre fécerim fílios Israël, cum edúcerem eos de terra Aegypti. Ego Dóminus Deus vester.

Gradual: Ps. lxxxiii. 10, 9.

Behold, O Lord our protector; and look on Thy servants. ℣. O Lord God of hosts, graciously hear the prayers of Thy servants.

Protéctor noster áspice, Deus, et réspice super servos tuos. ℣. Dómine Deus virtútum, exáudi preces servórum tuórum.

Let us pray. Let us kneel down. ℟. Rise up from your knees.

Orémus. Flectámus génua. ℟. Leváte.

Collect.

Guard, we beseech Thee, O Lord, Thine household, that by Thy bounty we may receive the life-giving helps which Thou Thyself inspirest us to seek. Through our Lord.

Tuére, quaesumus, Dómine, famíliam tuam: ut salútis aetérnae remédia, quae te inspiránte requírimus, te largiénte consequámur. Per Dóminum.

Second Lesson: Mic. vii. 14, 16, 18-20.

Lesson from Micheas, the Prophet.—O Lord our God, feed Thy people with Thy rod, the flock of Thy inheritance, them that dwell alone in the forest,

Léctio Michéae Prophétae.—Domine Deus noster, pasce pópulum tuum in virga tua, gregem hereditátis tuae, habitántes solos in saltu, juxta dies ántiquos. Vidébunt gentes, et confundéntur super omni fortitúdine sua. Quis Deus símilis tui, qui aufers iniquitátem, et transis peccátum reliquiárum hereditátis tuae? Non immíttet ultra furórem suum, quóniam volens misericórdiam est. Revertétur, et miserébitur nostri: depónet iniquitátes nostras, et projíciet in profúndum maris ómnia peccáta nostra. Dabis varitátem Jacob, misericórdiam Abraham: quae jurásti pátribus nostris a diébus antíquis: Dómine Deus noster.

according to the days of old. The nations shall see, and shall be confounded at all their strength. Who is a God like to Thee, Who takest away iniquity, and passest by the sin of the remnant of Thy inheritance? He will send his fury in no more, because He delighted in mercy. He will turn again, and have mercy on us: He will put away our iniquities, and He will cast all our sins into the bottom of the sea. Thou wilt perform the truth to Jacob, the mercy to Abraham, which Thou hast sworn to our fathers from the days of old, O Lord our God.

Gradual: Ps. lxxxix. 13, 1.

Convértere, Dómine, aliquántulum: et deprecáre super servos suos. ℣. Dómine, refúgium factus es nobis, a generatióne et progénie.

Return, O Lord, a little; and be entreated in favour of Thy servants. ℣. Lord, Thou hast been our refuge, from generation to generation.

Orémus. Flectámus génua. ℟. Leváte.

Let us pray. Let us kneel down. ℟. Riseup fromyour knees.

Collect.

Praesta, quaesumus, Dómine, sic nos ab épulis abstinére carnálibus: ut a vítiis irruéntibus páriter jejunémus. Per Dóminum.

Grant us, we beseech Thee, O Lord, in such wise to abstain from carnal feastings, that we may the more surely refuse to satisfy the evil desires that beset us. Through our Lord.

Fourth Lesson: Zech. viii. 14-19.

Léctio Zacharíae Prophétae.—In diébus illis: Factum est verbum Dómini ad me, dicens: Haec dicit Dóminus exercítuum: Sicut cogitávi, ut afflígerem vos, cum ad iracúndiam provocássent patres vestri me, dicit Dóminus, et non sum misértus: sic convérsus cogitá-

Lesson from Zacharias the Prophet.—In those days, the word of the Lord came to me, saying: Thus saith the Lord of Hosts, as I purposed to afflict you when your fathers had provoked Me to wrath, and I had no mercy: so turning again, I have thought in these days to do good to the house of Juda and Jerusalem: fear not. These then are the things which you shall do: Speak ye truth every one to his neighbour; judge ye truth and judgment of peace in your gates; and let none of you imagine evil in your hearts against his friend; and love not a false oath: for all these are the things that I hate, saith the Lord. And the word of the Lord of Hosts came to me, saying: Thus saith the Lord of Hosts, the fast of the fourth month, and the fast of the fifth, and the fast of the seventh, and the fast of the tenth, shall be to the house of Juda, joy and gladness, and great solemnities; only love ye truth, and peace: saith the Lord of Hosts.

vi in diébus istis, ut benefáciam dómui Juda et Jerúsalem: nolíte timere. Haec sunt ergo verba, quae faciétis: Loquímini veritátem, unusquísque cum próximo suo: veritátem, et judícium pacis judicáte in portis vestris. Et unusquísque malum contra amicum suum ne cogitétis in córdibus vestris: et juraméntum mendax ne diligátis: ómnia enim haec sunt, quae odi, dicit Dóminus.—Et factum est verbum Dómini exercítuum ad me, dicens: Haec dicit Dóminus exercítuum: Jejúnium quarti, et jejúnium quinti, et jejúnium séptimi, et jejúnium décimi erit dómui Juda in gáudium, et laetítiam, et in solemnitátes praecláras: veritátem tantum, et pacem dilígite: dicit Dóminus exercítuum.

Gradual: Ps. cxl. 2.

Let my prayer be directed like incense in Thy sight, O Lord. ℣. The lifting up of my hands as even sacrifice.

Dirigátur orátio mea sicut incénsum in conspéctu tuo, Dómine. ℣. Elevátio mánuum meárum sacrifícium vespertínum.

Let us pray. Let us kneel down. ℟. Riseup from your knees.

Orémus. Flectámus génua. ℟. Leváte.

Collect.

Thou hast appointed, O Lord, this solemn fast to be kept to Thy glory: do Thou, we beseech Thee, comfort us in Thy mercy, forgiving us our sins. Through our Lord.

Ut nobis, Dómine, tríbuis solémne tibi deférre jejúnium: sic nobis, quaesumus, indulgéntiae praesta subsídium. Per Dóminum.

Fifth Lesson: Daniel iii. 47-51;

and Hymn: Daniel iii. 52-56.—See Ember Saturday in Advent, pp. 364-365.

℣. Dóminus vobíscum.
℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

℣. The Lord be with you.
℟. And with thy spirit.

Collect.

Deus, qui tribus púeris mitigásti flammas ígnium: concéde propítius; ut nos fámulos tuos non exúrat flamma vitiórum. Per Dóminum.

O God, Who didst cause the three holy youths to pass unscathed through the flames of the fiery furnace: grant that no flame of guilt may ever lay waste the souls of Thy servants. Through our Lord.

Second Collect: A cunctis, p. 156. Third Collect, at the option of the Priest, see p. 157.

Epistle: Heb. ix. 2-12.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Hebraeos.—FRATRES: Tabernáculum factum est primum, in quo erant candelábra, et mensa, et propositio panum, quae dícitur Sancta. Post velaméntum autem secúndum, tabernáculum, quod dícitur Sancta sanctórum: áureum habens thuríbulum, et arcam testaménti circumtéctam ex omni parte auro, in qua urna áurea habens manna, et virga Aaron, quae frondúerat, et tábulae testaménti, supérque eám erant Chérubim glóriae obumbrántia propitiatórium: de quibus non est modo dicéndum per síngula. His vero ita compósitis; in prióri quidem tabernáculo semper introíbant sacerdótes, sacrificiórum offícia consummántes: in secúndo autem semel in anno solus póntifex, non sine sánguine, quem offert pro sua et pópuli ignorántia: hoc significánte Spíritu sancto, nondum propalátam esse sanctórum viam, adhuc prióre tabernáculo habénte statum. Quae parábola est tém-

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Hebrews.—BRETHREN: There was a tabernacle made the first, wherein were the candlesticks, and the table, and the setting forth of loaves, which is called the Holy. And after the second veil, the tabernacle which is called Holy of Holies, having the gold censer, and the ark of the testament covered about on every part with gold, in which was a golden pot that had manna, and the rod of Aaron that had blossomed, and the tables of the testament, and over it were the cherubim of glory overshadowing the propitiatory: of which it is not needful to speak now particularly. Now these things being thus ordered; into the first tabernacle the priests indeed always entered, accomplishing the offices of sacrifices. But into the second the high-priest alone, once a year, not without blood, which he offereth for his own and the people's ignorance; the Holy Ghost signifying this, that the way into the Holies was not yet made manifest, whilst the former tabernacle was yet standing: which is a parable of the time present, according to which gifts and sacrifices are offered, which cannot, as to the conscience, make him perfect that serveth, only in meats and in drinks, and divers washings, and justices of the flesh, laid on them until the time of correction. But Christ being come, a High-priest of the good things to come, by a greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands, that is, not of this creation, neither by the blood of goats nor of calves, but by His own blood, entered once into the Holies, having obtained eternal redemption.

poris instántis: juxta quam múnera, et hóstiae offerúntur, quae non possunt juxta consciéntiam perféctum fácere serviéntem, solúmmodo in cibis, et in pótibus, et váriis baptismátibus, et justítiis carnis usque ad tempus correctiónis impósitis. Christus autem assístens póntifex futurórum bonórum, per ámplius et perféctius tabernáculum non manufáctum, id est, non hujus creatiónis; neque per sánguinem hircórum aut vitulórum, sed per próprium sánguinem introívit semel in Sancta, aetérna redemptióne invénta.

Tract: Ps. cxvi. 1, 2.

O praise the Lord, all ye nations: and praise Him together, all ye people. ℣. For His mercy is confirmed upon us: and the truth of the Lord remaineth for ever.

Laudáte Dóminum omnes gentes: et collaudáte eum omnes pópuli. ℣. Quóniam confirmáta est super nos misericórdia ejus: et véritas Dómini manet in aetérnum.

Gospel: Luke xiii. 6-17.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—At that time, Jesus spoke to the multitude this parable: A certain man had a fig-tree planted in his vineyard, and he came seeking fruit on it, and found none; and he said to the dresser of the vineyard: Behold, for these three years I come seeking fruit on this fig-tree, and I find none. Cut it down, therefore: why cumbereth it the ground? But he answering, said to him: Lord, let it alone this year also, que dum fódiam circa illam, et mittam stércora: et si quidem fécerit fructum: sin autem, in futúrum succídes eam. Erat autem docens in synagóga eórum sábbatis. Et ecce múlier, quae habébat spíritum infirmitátis annis decem et octo: et erat inclináta, nec omníno póterat sursum respícere. Quam cum vidéret Jesus, vocávit eam ad se, et ait illi: Múlier, dimíssa es ab infirmitáte tua. Et impósuit illi manus, et conféstim erécta est, et glorificábat Deum. Respóndens autem archisynagógus, indígnans quia sábbato curásset Jesus, dicébat turbae: Sex dies sunt, in quibus opórtet operári: in his ergo veníte, et curámini, et non in die sábbati. Respóndens autem ad illum Dóminus, dixit: Hypócritae, unusquísque vestrum sábbato non solvit bovem suum, aut ásinum a praesépio, et ducit adaquáre? Hanc autem fíliam Abrahae, quam alligávit sátanas, ecce decem et octo annis, non opórtuit solvi a vínculo isto die sábbati? Et cum haec díceret, erubescébant omnes adversárii ejus: et omnis pópulus gaudébat in univérsis, quae glorióse fiébant in eo.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo témpore: Dicébat Jesus turbis hanc similitúdinem: Arborem fici habébat quidam plantátam in vínea sua, et venit quaerens fructum in illa, et non invénit. Dixit autem ad cultórem víneae: Ecce anni tres sunt ex quo vénio quaerens fructum in ficúlnea hac, et non invénio: succíde ergo illam: ut quid étiam terram óccupat? At ille respóndens, dicit illi: Dómine, dimítte illam et hoc anno, us-

until I dig about it, and dung it; and if happily it bear fruit; but if not, then after that thou shalt cut it down. And he was teaching in their synagogue on the sabbath: and behold there was a woman who had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years: and she was bowed together, neither could she look upwards at all. Whom when Jesus saw, He called her unto Him, and said to her: Woman thou art delivered from thy infirmity; and He laid His hands upon her, and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God. And the ruler of the synagogue (being angry that Jesus had healed on the sabbath) answering, said to the multitude: Six days there are wherein you ought to work. In them therefore come, and be healed, and not on the sabbath day. And the Lord answering him said: Ye hypocrites, doth not every one of you on the sabbath day loose his ox or his ass from the manger, and lead them to water? And ought not this daughter of Abraham, whom Satan hath bound, lo, these eighteen years, to be loosed from this bond on the Sabbath day? And when He said these things, all His adversaries were ashamed; and all the people rejoiced for all the things that were gloriously done by Him.

Offertory: Ps. lxxxvii. 2, 3.

Dómine Deus salútis meae, in die clamávi, et nocte coram te: intret orátio mea in conspéctu tuo, Dómine.

O Lord, the God of my salvation, I have cried in the day, and in the night before Thee; let my prayer come in before Thee, O Lord.

Secret.

Almighty God, grant, we beseech Thee, that this sacrifice offered up in the sight of Thy divine majesty, may ensure to us the grace of fervour, and may merit for us the enjoyment of a happy eternity.

Concéde, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut óculis tuae majestátis munus oblátum, et grátiam nobis devotiónis obtíneat, et efféctum beátae perennitátis acquírat. Per Dóminum.

Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 157. Third Secret, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

Communion: Lev. xxiii. 41, 43.

In the seventh month shall you celebrate this feast, as I made the children of Israel to dwell in tabernacles, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt: I am the Lord your God.

Mense séptimo festa celebrábitis, cum in tabernáculis habitáre fécerim fílios Israel, cum edúcerem eos de terra Aegypti, ego Dóminus Deus vester.

Postcommunion.

In us, we beseech Thee, O Lord, may Thy sacraments effect that which they signify: and may we one day see face to face, Him Who now is hidden from us under these appearances. Through our Lord.

Perfíciant in nobis, Dómine, quaesumus, tua sacraménta quod cóntinent: ut, quae nunc spécie gérimus, rerum veritáte capiámus. Per Dóminum.

Second Postcommunion: Mundet, p. 157. Third Postcommunion, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

" My son, thy sins are forgiven thee " (Gospel).

Eighteenth Sunday after Pentecost.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

This Sunday used to be called vacant, because it is inscribed in the Missal after the Saturday in Ember week. As the liturgy of Saturday lasted until the Sunday morning, this day had no proper Mass. When later on they no longer waited until evening in order to celebrate the Holy Sacrifice on the Saturday in Ember Week, they borrowed, for the eighteenth Sunday after Pentecost, the Mass composed in the sixth century for the Dedication of the Church of St. Michael, at Rome, which was celebrated on September 29. That is why all the chants relate to the consecration of a church. " I rejoiced when I was told that: We shall go into the house of the Lord " (Verse of Introit and Gradual). " Moses consecrated an altar to God," says the Offertory. " Enter the courts of the Lord and adore Him in His holy temple," adds the Communion.

This Mass, following Ordination Saturday, also alludes to the priesthood. The new priests have just been " blessed in Christ with all manner of riches both of utterance and knowledge " (Epistle). Like the Saviour, Who proved in healing the body of the palsied that He had also healed his soul, the priests have received power to pardon sinners. Palsy is indeed an image of sin, for just as it deprives the body of motion, sin destroys life in the soul (Gospel).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS: DA PACEM.

Introit: Ecclus. xxxvi. 18.

DA pacem, Dómine, sustinéntibus te, ut prophétae tui fidéles inveniántur: exáudi preces servi tui, et ple-	GIVE peace, O Lord, to them that patiently wait for Thee, that Thy prophets may be found faithful: hear the prayers of Thy servant, and of Thy people Israel. Ps. cxxi. 1. I rejoiced at the things that were said to me: We shall go into the house of the Lord. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

bis tuae Israel. Ps. Laetátus sum in his, quae dicta sunt mihi: in domum Dómini íbimus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.

In Thy tender mercy, guide aright, we beseech, O Lord, our hearts; for save Thou be with us, we avail not so to live as to be pleasing to Thee.

Dírigat corda nóstra, quaesumus, Dómine, tuae miseratiónis operátio: quia tibi sine te placére non póssumus. Per Dóminum.

Second Collect: A cunctis, p. 156. Third Collect, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

Epistle: 1 Cor. i. 4-8.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians.—BRETHREN, I give thanks to my God always for you, for the grace of God that is given you in Jesus Christ, that in all things you are made rich in Him, in all utterance and in all knowledge, as the testimony of Christ was confirmed in you, so that nothing is wanting to you in any grace, waiting for the manifestation of our Lord Jesus Christ. Who also will confirm you unto the end without crime, in the day of the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Corínthios.—FRATRES: Grátias ago Deo meo semper pro vobis in grátia Dei, quae data est vobis in Christo Jesu: quod in ómnibus dívites facti estis in illo, in omni verbo, et in omni sciéntia: sicut testimónium Christi confirmátum est in vobis: ita ut nihil vobis desit in ulla grátia, exspectántibus revelatiónem Dómini nostri Jesu Christi, qui et confirmábit vos usque in finem sine crímine, in die advéntus Dómini nostri Jesu Christi.

Gradual: Ps. cxxi. 1, 7.

I rejoiced at the things that were said to me: We shall go into the house of our Lord. ℣. Let peace be in thy strength, and abundance in thy towers.

Laetátus sum in his, quae dicta sunt mihi: in domum Dómini íbimus. ℣. Fiat pax in virtúte tua: et abundántia in túrribus tuis.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. ci. 16.

The Gentiles shall fear Thy name, O Lord: and all the kings of the earth Thy glory.—Alleluia.

℣. Timébunt gentes nomen tuum, Dómine: et omnes reges terrae glóriam tuam.—Allelúia.

Gospel: Matt. ix. 1-8.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Ascéndens Jesus in navículam, transfretávit, et venit in civitátem suam. Et ecce offerébant ei paralyticum jacéntem in lecto. Et videns Jesus fidem illórum, dixit paralytico: Confide, fili, remittúntur tibi peccáta tua. Et ecce quidam de scribis dixérunt intra se: Hic blasphémat. Et cum vidísset Jesus cogitatiónes eórum, dixit: Ut quid cogitátis mala in córdibus vestris? Quid est facílius, dícere: Dimittúntur tibi peccáta tua; an dícere: Surge, et ámbula? Ut autem sciátis, quia Filius hóminis habet potestátem in terra dimitténdi peccáta, tunc ait paralytico: Surge, tolle lectum tuum, et vade in domum tuam. Et surréxit, et ábiit in domum suam. Vidéntes autem turbae timuérunt et glorificavérunt Deum, qui dedit potestátem talem homínibus.—Credo.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew.—At that time, Jesus entering into a boat, passed over the water and came into His own city. And behold they brought Him one sick of the palsy lying in a bed; and Jesus seeing their faith, said to the man sick of the palsy: Be of good heart, son, thy sins are forgiven thee. And behold some of the Scribes said within themselves: He blasphemeth. And Jesus seeing their thoughts, said: Why do you think evil in your hearts? whether is it easier to say: Thy sins are forgiven thee; or to say: Arise and walk? But that you may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins (then said He to the man sick of the palsy): Arise, take up thy bed, and go into thy house. And he arose, and went into his house. And the multitude seeing it, feared, and glorified God Who had given such power to men.—Creed.

Offertory: Exod. xxiv. 4, 5.

Sanctificávit Móyses altáre Dómino, ófferens super illud holocáusta, et immolans víctimas: fecit sacrifícium vespertínum in ódorem suavitátis Dómino Deo, in conspéctu filiórum Israël.

Moses consecrated an altar to the Lord, offering upon it holocausts, and sacrificing victims: he made an evening sacrifice to the Lord God for an odour of sweetness, in the sight of the children of Israel.

Secret.

Deus, qui nos per hujus sacrifícii veneránda commércia, uníus summae divinitátis partícipes éfficis: praesta, quaesumus: ut, sicut tuam cognósci-

O God Who, through the communion with Thyself vouchsafed to us this venerable sacrifice, dost make us to be sharers in Thy one supreme Godhead:

grant, we beseech Thee, that having come to the knowledge of Thy truth, we may shape our lives in conformity therewith. Through our Lord.

mus veritátem, sic eam dignis móribus assequámur. Per Dóminum.

Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 157. Third Secret, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160. Preface of the Holy Trinity, p. 55.

Communion: Ps. xcv. 8, 9.

Bring up sacrifices, and come into His courts: adore ye the Lord in His holy court.

Tóllite hóstias, et introíte in átria ejus: adoráte Dóminum in aula sancta ejus.

Postcommunion.

Nourished by Thy sacred gift, we render thanks unto Thee, O Lord; and supplicate Thy mercy to make us ever worthy to partake thereof. Through our Lord.

Grátias tibi reférimus, Dómine, sacro múnere vegetáti: tuam misericórdiam deprecántes; ut dignos nos ejus participatióne perfícias. Per Dóminum.

Second Postcommunion: Mundet, p. 157. Third Postcommunion, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

SECOND VESPERS.

All as in Common of the Sunday, p. 95, except:

Antiphon at the Magnificat: Luke v. 25.

The man sick of the palsy therefore took up his bed in which he had been lying, glorifying God: and all the people, seeing it, gave praise to God.

Tulit ergo * paralyticus lectum suum, in quo jacébat, magníficans Deum: et omnis plebs, ut vidit, dedit laudem Deo.

Collect of the Mass, p. 1142.

Nineteenth Sunday after Pentecost.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

This Sunday, called on account of its Gospel, Sunday of the marriage guests, reminds us that all men are called to heavenly bliss. The Jews have refused to take part in the feast. Therefore the Apostles and the Church, filled with the Holy Ghost at Pentecost, have turned towards the Gentiles. But the beatific union is announced, prepared, and in a certain manner begun, by sacramental communion.

To take part in a marriage feast among the Jews, it was necessary to wear a ceremonial garment called wedding garment. Similarly, to receive the body of Jesus at the holy table and to be in communion with His Divinity in heaven, one must wear the nuptial robe of baptism and of the state of grace. Therefore the Apostle exhorts us to put on the new man.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS: SALUS POPULI.

Introit: Ps. lxxvii. 1.

SALUS pópuli ego sum, dicit Dóminus: de quacúmque tribulatióne clamáverint ad me, exáudiam eos: et ero illórum Dóminus in perpétuum. Ps. Atténdite, pópule meus, legem meam: inclináte aurem vestram in verba oris mei. ℣. Glória Patri.

I AM the salvation of the people, saith the Lord: in whatever tribulation they shall cry to Me, I will hear them; and I will be their Lord for ever. Ps. lxxvii. Attend, O My people, to My law; incline your ears to the words of My mouth. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collect.

Omnipotens et miséricors Deus, univérsa nobis adversántia propitiátus exclúde: ut mente et córpore páriter expe-

Almighty and merciful God, in Thy goodness put far from us all that may work us harm: that alert alike in mind and body, we may readily devote ourselves to the doing of Thy holy will. Through our Lord.

díti, quae tua sunt, líberis méntibus exsequámur. Per Dóminum.

Second Collect: A cunctis, p. 156. Third Collect, at the option of the Priest, p. 160.

Epistle: Eph. iv. 23-28.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Ephesians.—BRETHREN: Be ye renewed in the spirit of your mind, and put on the new man, who according to God is created in justice and holiness of truth. Wherefore, putting away lying, speak ye the truth every man with his neighbour, for we are members one of another. Be angry, and sin not. Let not the sun go down upon your anger. Give not place to the devil. He that stole, let him now steal no more; but rather let him labour, working with his hands the thing which is good, that he may have something to give to him that suffereth need.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Hebraeos.—FRATRES: Renovámini spíritu mentis vestrae, et indúite novum hóminem, qui secúndum Deum creátus est in justítia, et sanctitáte veritátis. Propter quod deponéntes mendácium, loquímini veritátem unusquísque sum próximo suo: quóniam sumus ínvicem membra. Irascímini, et nolíte peccáre: sol non óccidat super iracúndiam vestram. Nolíte locum dare diábolo: qui furabátur, jam non furétur; magis autem labóret, operándo mánibus suis, quod bonum est, ut hábeat unde tríbuat necessitátem patiénti.

Gradual: Ps. cxl. 2.

Let my prayer be directed as incense in Thy sight, O Lord. ℣. The lifting up of my hands as evening sacrifice.

Dirigátur orátio mea, sicut incénsum in conspéctu tuo Dómine. ℣. Elevátio mánuum meárum sacrifícium vespertínum.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. civ. 1.

Give glory to the Lord, and call upon His name: declare His deeds among the Gentiles.—Alleluia.

℣. Confitémini Dómino, et invocáte nomen ejus: annuntiáte inter gentes ópera ejus.—Allelúia.

Gospel: Matt. xxii. 1-14.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. —AT that time, Jesus spoke to the chief priests and the Phari-

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—IN illo témpore: Loquebátur Jesus princípibus sacerdótum et pharisaeis in parábolis dicens: Simile factum est regnum coelórum hómini regi, qui fecit núptias filio suo. Et misit servos suos vocáre invitátos ad núptias, et nolébant veníre. Iterum misit álios servos, dicens: Dícite invitátis: Ecce prándium meum parávi, tauri mei et altília occísa sunt, et ómnia paráta: veníte ad núptias. Illi autem neglexérunt: et abiérunt, álius in villam suam, álius vero ad negotiatiónem suam: réliqui vero tenuérunt servos ejus, et contuméliis affēctos occidérunt. Rex autem cum audísset, irátus est: et missis exercítibus suis, pérdidit homicídas illos, et civitátem illórum succéndit. Tunc ait servis suis: Núptiae quidem parátae sunt, sed qui invitáti erant, non fuérunt digni. Ite ergo ad éxitus viárum, et quoscúmque invenéritis, vocáte ad núptias. Et egréssi servi ejus in vias, congregavérunt omnes, quos invenérunt, malos et bonos: et implétae sunt núptiae discumbéntium. Intrávit autem rex, ut vidéret discumbéntes, et vidit ibi hóminem non vestítum veste nuptiáli. Et ait illi: Amice, quómodo huc intrásti, non habens vestem nuptiálem? At ille obmútuit. Tunc dixit rex minístris: Ligátis mánibus et pédibus ejus, míttite eum in ténebras exterióres: ibi erit fletus, et stridor déntium. Multi enim sunt vocáti, pauci vero elécti.

sees in parables, saying: The kingdom of heaven is likened to a king, who made a marriage for his son; and he sent his servants, to call them that were invited to the marriage, and they would not come. Again he sent other servants, saying: Tell them that were invited: Behold, I have prepared my dinner; my beeves and fatlings are killed, and all things are ready; come ye to the marriage. But they neglected: and went their ways, one to his farm, and another to his merchandise; and the rest laid hands on his servants, and having treated them contumeliously, put them to death. But when the king had heard of it, he was angry; and sending his armies, he destroyed those murderers, and burnt their city. Then he saith to his servants: The marriage indeed is ready, but they that were invited were not worthy. Go ye therefore into the highways, and as many as you shall find, call to the marriage. And his servants going forth into the ways, gathered together all that they found, both bad and good; and the marriage was filled with guests. And the king went in to see the guests; and he saw there a man who had not on a wedding garment: and he saith to him: Friend, how camest thou in hither, not having on a wedding garment? but he was silent. Then the king said to the waiters: Bind his hands and feet, and cast him into the exterior darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth. For many are called, but few are chosen.—Creed.

Offertory: Ps. cxxxvii. 7.

If I shall walk in the midst of tribulation, Thou wilt quicken me, O Lord; and Thou wilt stretch forth Thy hand against the wrath of my enemies; and Thy right hand shall save me.

Si ambulávero in médio tribulatiónis, vivificábis me, Dómine: et super iram inimicórum meórum exténdes manum tuam, et salvum me fáciet déxtera tua.

Secret.

Grant, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that the sacrifice which we offer up in the sight of Thy divine majesty, may avail us to salvation.

Haec múnera quaesumus, Dómine, quae óculis tuae magestátis offérimus, salutária nobis esse concéde. Per Dóminum.

Second Secret; Exaudi, p. 157. Third Secret, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160. Preface of the Holy Trinity, p. 55.

Communion: Ps. cxviii. 4, 5.

Thou hast commanded Thy commandments to be kept most diligently: O that my ways may be directed to keep Thy justifications.

Tu mandásti mandáta tua custódíri nimis: últinam dirigántur viae meae, ad custodiéndas justificatiónes tuas.

Postcommunion.

May the healing power of Thy grace, O Lord, mercifully rid us of all perverseness of heart, and make us ever to cleave to the keeping of Thy commandments. Through our Lord.

Tua nos, Dómine, medicinális operátio, et a nostris perversitátibus clementer expédiat, et tuis semper fáciat inhaerére mandátis. Per Dóminum.

Second Postcommunion: Mundet, p. 157. Third Postcommunion, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

SECOND VESPERS.

All as in Common of the Sunday, p. 95, except:

Antiphon at the Magnificat: Matt. xxii. 11.

And the king went in to see the guests; and he saw there a man who had not on a wedding garment. And he saith to him: Friend, how camest thou in hither not having on a wedding garment?

Intrávit autem Rex, * ut vidéret discumbéntes: et vidit ibi hóminem non vestítum veste nuptiáli, et ait illi: Amíce, quómodo huc intrásti, non habens vestem nuptiálem?

Collect of the Mass, p. 1145.

Twentieth Sunday after Pentecost.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

To-day's Mass makes us own that our misfortunes are caused by our unfaithfulness in conforming to the divine will (Introit, Epistle). Therefore, in the same way as the people of Israel when in exile lamented their sins and prayed that God's mercy should be manifested in their favour (Introit, Offertory), so the Christian people ask the Lord, through the prayers of His Spouse, the Church, to pardon their sins so that they may serve Him with a tranquil heart (Collect), by always obeying His commandments (Postcommunion).

All, filled with the Holy Ghost Who must fix our attention during the season following Pentecost, are gathered together in the temple and take a part in the ceremonies of worship (Epistle). They raise to the Lord their eyes full of hope and sing canticles to His glory (Gradual, Alleluia), for in Him alone do they put their trust (Communion).

Like the King's ruler of whom the Gospel speaks, they persevere with faith in their prayer, and, as he obtained the healing of his dying son, so do they obtain it for their souls to which God applies the heavenly remedies which purify them from all stain (Secret).

Let us join with faith in the prayer of the Church, that God, appeased thereby, may pardon us, purify us, and grant us to serve Him with confidence (Collects).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS: OMNIA, QUAE FECISTI.

Introit: Dan. iii. 31, 29, 35.

OMNIA, quae fecísti nobis, Dómine, in vero judício fecísti, quia peccávimus tibi, et mandátis tuis non obedívimus :	ALL that Thou hast done to us, O Lord, Thou hast done in true judgment; because we have sinned against Thee, and we have not obeyed Thy commandments: but give glory to Thy name, and deal with us according to the multitude of Thy mercy. Ps. cxviii. Blessed are the undefiled in the way; who walk in the law of the Lord. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

sed da glóriam nómini tuo, et fac nobíscum secúndum multitúdinem misericórdiae tuae. Ps. Beáti immaculáti in via: qui ámbulant in lege Dómini. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.

Be appeased, O Lord, we beseech Thee, and bestow pardon and peace upon Thy faithful people: so that our sins being forgiven us, in quietness of mind, we may give ourselves to Thy service.

Largíre, quaesumus, Dómine, fidélibus tuis indulgéntiam placátus et pacem: ut páriter ab ómnibus mundéntur offénsis, et secúra tibi mente desérviant. Per Dóminum nostrum.

Second Collect: A cunctis, p. 150. Third Collect, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

Epistle: Eph. v. 15-21.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Ephesians.—BRETHREN: See how you walk circumspectly, not as unwise, but as wise; redeeming the time, because the days are evil. Wherefore, become not unwise, but understanding what is the will of God. And be not drunk with wine, wherein is luxury: but be ye filled with the Holy Spirit, speaking to yourselves in psalms and hymns, and spiritual canticles, singing and making melody in your hearts to the Lord: giving thanks always for all things, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, to God and the Father; being subject one to another in the fear of Christ.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Ephésios.—FRATRES: Vidéte quómodo caute ambulátis: non quasi insipiéntes, sed ut sapiéntes, rediméntes tempus, quóniam dies mali sunt. Proptérea nolíte fíeri imprudéntes, sed intelligéntes, quae sit volúntas Dei. Et nolíte inebriári vino, in quo est luxúria: sed impléminì Spíritu sancto, loquéntes vobismetípsis in psalmis, et hymnis,et cánticis spirituálibus, cantántes, et psalléntes in córdibus vestris Dómino: grátias agéntes semper pro ómnibus, in nómine Dómini nostri Jesu Christi, Deo et Patri. Subjécti ínvicem in timóre Christi.

Gradual: Ps. cxliv. 15, 16.

The eyes of all hope in Thee, O Lord; and Thou givest them meat in due season. ℣. Thou Oculi ómnium in te sperant, Dómine: et tu das illis escam in témpore opportúno. ℣.

Aperis tu manum tuam: et imples omne ánimal benedictióne.

openest Thy hand, and fillest every living creature with Thy blessing.

Allelula, allelula: Ps. cvii. 2.

℣. Parátum cor meum, Deus, parátum cor meum: cantábo, et psallam tibi, glória mea.—Allelúia.

My heart is ready, O God, my heart is ready: I will sing, and will give praise to Thee, my glory.—Alleluia.

Gospel: John iv. 46-53.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Erat quidam régulus, cujus fílius infirmabátur Caphárnaum. Hic cum audísset, quia Jesus adveníret a Judaea in Galilaeam, ábiit ad eum, et rogábat eum ut descénderet, et sanáret fílium ejus: incipiébat enim mori. Dixit ergo Jesus ad eum: Nisi signa et prodígia vidéritis, non créditis. Dicit ad eum régulus: Dómine, descénde priúsquam moriátur fílius meus. Dicit ei Jesus: Vade fílius tuus vivit. Crédidit homo sermóni, quem dixit ei Jesus, et ibat. Jam autem eo descendénte, servi occurrérunt ei, et nuntiavérunt dicéntes, quia fílius ejus víveret. Interrogábat ergo horam ab eis, in qua mélius habúerit. Et dixérunt ei: Quia heri hora séptima relíquit eum febris. Cognóvit ergo pater, quia illa hora erat, in qua dixit ei Jesus: Fílius tuus vivit et crédidit ipse, et domus ejus tota.—Credo.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time, There was a certain ruler whose son was sick at Capharnaum. He having heard that Jesus was come from Judaea into Galilee, went to Him, and prayed Him to come down, and heal his son; for he was at the point of death. Jesus therefore said to him: Unless you see signs and wonders, you believe not. The ruler saith to Him: Lord, come down before my son die. Jesus saith to him: Go thy way, thy son liveth. The man believed the word which Jesus said to him, and went his way. And as he was going down, his servants met him, and they brought word, saying, that his son lived. He asked therefore of them the hour wherein he grew better. And they said to him: Yesterday at the seventh hour the fever left him. The father therefore knew that it was at the same hour that Jesus said to him: Thy son liveth; and himself believed, and his whole house.—Creed.

Offertory: Ps. cxxxvi. 1.

Super flúmina Babylónis illic sédimus, et flévimus: dum recordarémur tui, Sion.

Upon the rivers of Babylon there we sat and wept; when we remembered Thee, O Sion.

Secret.

May these mysteries, we beseech Thee, O Lord, bring us from heaven a healing medicine, and may they root out all vice from our hearts. Through our Lord.

Coeléstem nobis praebeant haec mystéria, quaesumus, Dómine, medicínam: et vítia nostri cordis expúrgent. Per Dóminum.

Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 157. Third Secret, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160. Preface of the Holy Trinity, p. 55.

Communion: Ps. cxviii. 49, 58.

Be Thou mindful of Thy word to Thy servant, O Lord, in which Thou hast given me hope: this hath comforted me in my humiliation.

Meménto verbi tui servo tuo, Dómine, in quo mihi spem dedísti: haec me consoláta est in humilitáte mea.

Postcommunion.

In order, O Lord, that we may become worthy of receiving the gift of Thine adorable sacrament, make us to be at all times observant of Thy commandments. Through our Lord.

Ut sacris, Dómine, reddámur digni munéribus: fac nos, quaesumus, tuis semper obedíre mandátis. Per Dóminum.

SECOND VESPERS.

All as in Common of the Sunday, p. 95, except:

Antiphon at the Magnificat: John iv. 53.

The father therefore knew that it was at the same hour that Jesus said to him: Thy son liveth: and himself believed and his whole house.

Cognóvit autem pater, * quia illa hora erat, in qua dixit Jesus: Fílius tuus vivit: et crédidit ipse, et domus ejus tota.

Collect of the Mass, p. 1150.

PATER • FILIUS • SPIRITUS SANCTUS

Twenty-first Sunday after Pentecost.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

The Church is nearing the end of the Cycle which reminds us of that last hour of the world when the devil will exert with more violence his power over men, for soon he will be deprived of it. With the relentlessness he showed Job by stripping him of his possessions and striking him down by bodily sufferings, he will then persecute especially the just (Offertory).

Therefore the Apostle describes for the Christian the armour he must put on to enable him to withstand in those woeful times the powers of hell (Epistle). He gives him a girdle, a cuirass, a shield, a helmet and a sword, so that, strengthened in the Lord, Whose will nothing can resist (Introit), he may be protected against those who persecute him (Communion).

Thus preserved from all adversity by the effect of the unceasing goodness of the Lord, the family of God, which is the Church, will be enabled to glorify His name by good works (Collect). Therefore the Gospel speaks to us of the charity towards our neighbour which is the abridgment of the whole morality of Christianity.

If God has been good towards us, we must be the same towards our brethren, or how shall we escape the proceedings of the powerful creditor whose debtor the whole world is, and to whom all will have to render account. If we pardon our neighbour from the bottom of our hearts, the Master will remit our debts, otherwise He would deliver us to the executors of His justice until we have paid all we owe Him.

Let us ask God to deliver us in His goodness from the assaults of the devil and to help us to imitate the divine mercy by the practice of charity (Collect).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS: IN VOLUNTATE TUA.

Introit: Esther xiii. 9, 10, 11.

ALL things are in Thy will, O Lord; and there is none that can resist Thy will: for Thou hast made all things, heaven and earth, and all things that are under the cope of heaven: Thou art Lord of all. Ps. cxviii. 1. Blessed are the undefiled in the way; who walk in the law of the Lord. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

IN voluntáte tua, Dómine, univérsa sunt pósita, et non est qui possit resístere voluntáti tuae: tu enim fecísti ómnia, coelum et terram, et univéra quae coeli ámbitu continéntur: Dóminus universórum tu es. Ps. Beáti immaculáti in via: qui ámbulant in lege Dómini. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.

In Thine unceasing loving-kindness, watch over Thine household, we beseech Thee, O Lord: that safeguarded by Thee from all evil, we may give ourselves with fervour to the doing of good works, to the glory of Thy holy name.

Famíliam tuam, quaesumus, Dómine, contínua pietáte custódi: ut a cunctis adversitátibus, te protegénte, sit líbera; et in bonis áctibus tuo nómini sit devóta. Per Dóminum.

Second Collect: A cunctis, p. 156. Third Collect, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

Epistle: Eph. vi. 10-17.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Ephesians.—BRETHREN: Be strengthened in the Lord, and in the might of His power. Put you on the armour of God, that you may be able to stand against the deceits of the devil. For our wrestling is not against flesh and blood, but against principalities and powers, against the rulers of the world of this darkness, against the spirits of wickedness in the high places. Therefore, take unto you the armour of God, that you may be able to resist in the evil day, and to stand in all things perfect; stand therefore having Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Ephésios.—FRATRES: Confortámini in Dómino, et in poténtia virtútis ejus. Indúite vos armatúram Dei, ut possítis stare advérsus insídias diáboli. Quóniam non est nobis colluctátio advérsus carnem et sánguinem: sed advérsus príncipes, et potestátes, advérsus mundi rectóres tenebrárum harum, contra spirituália nequítiae, in coeléstibus, Proptérea accípite armatúram Dei, ut possítis resístere in die malo, et in ómnibus perfécti stare. State ergo succíncti lumbos vestros in veritáte, et indúti loricam justítiae, et calceáti pedes in praeparatióne Evangélii pacis: in ómnibus suméntes scutum fídei, in quo possítis ómnia tela nequíssimi ígnea exstínguere: et gáleam salútis assúmite: et gládium spíritus, quod est verbum Dei.

your loins girt about with truth, and having on the breast-plate of justice, and your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace; in all things taking the shield of faith, wherewith you may be able to extinguish all the fiery darts of the most wicked one. And take unto you the helmet of salvation, and the Sword of the Spirit which is the Word of God.

Gradual: Ps. lxxxix. 1, 2.

Dómine, refúgium factus es nobis, a generatióne et progénie. ℣. Priúsquam montes fíerent, aut formarétur terra et orbis: a saeculo, et usque in saeculum tu es Deus.

Lord, Thou hast been our refuge from generation to generation. ℣. Before the mountains were made, or the earth and the world was formed; from eternity and to eternity Thou art God.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. cxiii. 1.

℣. In éxitu Israël de Aegypto, domus Jacob de pópulo bárbaro.—Allelúia.

℣. When Israel went out of Egypt, the house of Jacob from a barbarous people.—Alleluia.

Gospel: Matt. xviii. 23-35.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis parábolam hanc: Assimilátum est regnum coelórum hómini regi, qui vóluit ratiónem pónere cum servis suis. Et cum coepísset ratiónem pónere, oblátus est ei unus, qui debébat ei decem míllia talénta. Cum autem non habéret unde rédderet, jussit eum Dóminus ejus venúmdari, et uxórem ejus, et fílios, et ómnia quae habébat, et reddi. Prócidens autem servus ille, orábat eum, dicens: Patiéntiam habe in me, et ómnia reddam tibi. Misértus autem dóminus servi illíus, dimísit eum, et débitum dimísit ei. Egréssus autem servus ille, in-debt. But when that servant was gone out, he found one of his fellow-servants that owed him a hundred pence: and laying hold of him, he throttled him, saying: Pay what thou owest. And his fellow-servant falling down besought him, saying: Have patience with me, and I will pay thee all. And he would not; but went and cast him into prison till he paid the debt. Now his fellow-servants, seeing what was done, were very much grieved; and they came and told their lord all that was done. Then his lord called him, and saith to him: Thou wicked servant, I forgave thee all the debt, because thou besoughtest me; shouldst not thou then have had compassion also on thy fellow-servant, even as I had compassion on thee? And his lord being angry, delivered him to the torturers until he paid all the debt. So also shall my heavenly Father do to you, if you forgive not every one his brother from your hearts.—Creed.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. —At that time Jesus spoke to His disciples this parable: The kingdom of heaven is likened to a king, who would take an account of his servants. And when he had begun to take the account, one was brought to him that owed him ten thousand talents: and as he had not wherewith to pay it, his lord commanded that he should be sold, and his wife and children, and all that he had, and payment to be made. But that servant falling down, besought him saying: Have patience with me, and I will pay thee all. And the lord of that servant, being moved with pity, let him go; and forgave him the

vénit unum de consérvis suis, qui debébat ei centum denários et tenens suffocábat eum, dicens: Redde quod debes. Et prócidens consérvus ejus, rogábat eum, dicens: Patiéntiam habe in me, et ómnia reddam tibi. Ille autem nóluit: sed ábiit et misit eum in cárcerem donec rédderet débitum. Vidéntes autem consérvi ejus quae fiébant, contristáti sunt valde: et venérunt, et narravérunt dómino suo ómnia, quae facta fúerant. Tunc vocávit illum dóminus suus: et ait illi: Serve nequam, omne débitum dimísi tibi, quóniam rogásti me: nonne ergo opórtuit et te miseréri consérvi tui, sicut et ego tui misértus sum? Et irátus dóminus ejus, trádidit eum tortóribus, quoadúsque rédderet univérsum débitum. Sic et Pater meus coeléstis fáciet vobis, si non remiséritis unusquisque fratri suo de córdibus vestris.—Credo.

Offertory: Job 1.

There was a man in the land of Hus, whose name was Job, simple, and upright, and fearing God: whom Satan besought that he might tempt: and power was given him from the Lord over his possessions and his flesh; and he destroyed all his substance and his children; and wounded his flesh also with a grievous ulcer.

Vir erat in terra Hus, nómine Job: simplex et rectus, ac timens Deum: quem Satan pétiit, ut tentáret: et data est ei potéstas a Dómino in facultátes, et in carnem ejus: perdidítque omnem substántiam ipsíus, et fílios: carnem quoque ejus gravi úlcere vulnerávit.

Secret.

Graciously receive, O Lord, this holy offering, by which Súscipe, Dómine, propítius hóstias: quibus et te placári voluísti, et nobis salútem poténti pietáte restítui. Per Dóminum.

Thou hast willed to be appeased: and in Thine infinite mercy restore our souls to health.

Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 157. Third Secret, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160. Preface of Holy Trinity. p. 55.

Communion: Ps. cxviii. 81, 84, 86.

In salutári tuo ánima mea, et in verbum tuum sperávi: quando fácies de persequéntibus me judícium? iníqui persecúti sunt me, ádjuva me, Dómine Deus meus.

My soul is in Thy salvation, and in Thy word have I hoped: when wilt Thou execute judgment on them that persecute me? the wicked have persecuted me: help me, O Lord my God.

Postcommunion.

Immortalitátis alimóniam consecúti, quaesumus, Dómine: ut, quod ore percépimus, pura mente sectémur. Per Dóminum.

We have been fed with the bread of immortal life, O Lord: and beseech Thee, that what has passed our lips may be, in truth, as food to our souls. Through our Lord.

Second Postcommunion: Mundet, p. 157. Third Postcommunion, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

SECOND VESPERS.

All as in Common of the Sunday, p. 95, except:

Antiphon at the Magnificat: Matt. xviii. 22.

Serve nequam * omne débitum dimísi tibi, quóniam rogásti me: nonne ergo opórtuit et te miseréri consérvi tui, sicut et ego tui misertus sum? allelúia.

Thou wicked servant, I forgave thee all the debt because thou besoughtest me: shouldst thou not then have had compassion also on thy fellow-servant, even as I had compassion on thee? Alleluia.

Collect of the Mass, p. 1154.

Twenty-second Sunday after Pentecost.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

On this Sunday, one of the last of the ecclesiastical year, the Church is full of thought " of the day of Christ " (Epistle) or of the approaching end of the world. " If the Lord considers our iniquities, who will stand before Him? (Introit). Wherefore the liturgy speaks to us of divine mercy (Introit, Secret). But to obtain it we must be full of mercy ourselves. It is good and pleasant indeed for brothers to be united " (Gradual). In the hour of danger, let us use the prayers of the Church which have an eminently social and fraternal character, and which will by heard by God, the author of all charity (Collect) as King Assuerus heard the prayers of Queen Esther (Offertory).

Remembering in these days that the love of God and of our neighbour gives to the mind a greater understanding of divine things, " let then our charity increase more and more in light and in intelligence " (ibid.), that we may resist the more terrible assaults of the enemy. Wherefore last Sunday's Gospel, which used to be the Gospel of this day, speaks of divine mercy and of fraternal charity.

To-day's Gospel recalls to us a scene which took place on one of the last days of Jesus' life when He confounded, by a reply full of wisdom from above, His enemies who more than ever were compassing His ruin. The Jews, subjected to the Romans, had to pay tribute to Caesar, an obligation all the more odious to them that it went counter to the spirit of universal domination promised to Israel as they imagined. What would the Master reply to the question of the Pharisees? He would excite the Jewish people against Him if He told them to pay tribute or the Roman authorities and the Herodians, if He told them not to do so. The enemies of Jesus already thought they had sufficient cause to have Him arrested.

The Saviour ingeniously avoids the trap. " Whose image and superscription is this? " " Caesar's," they reply. The law required that to pay the tribute they should first change the national coin into coin bearing the effigy of the Roman Emperor. Jesus convicts them of having themselves answered the question by this very change. If you have procured coins with the effigy of Caesar, you must have had the intention of paying the tribute. " Render therefore to Caesar the things that are Caesar's." And the Master completes His lesson by saying " and render to God, the things that are God's " for the human soul, made to the image of its Creator, owes Him the tribute of its adoration and obedience.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS: SI INIQUITATES.

Introit: Ps. cxxix. 3, 4.

SI iniquitátes observáveris, Dómine, Dómine quis sustinébit? quia apud te propitiátio est, Deus Israel. Ps. De profúndis clamávi ad te Dómine: Dómine, exáudi vocem meam. ℣. Glória Patri.

IF Thou shalt observe iniquities, O Lord, Lord, who shall endure it? for with Thee is propitiation, O God of Israel. Ps. cxxix. 1, 2. From the depths I have cried to Thee, O Lord: Lord, hear my voice. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collect.

Deus, refúgium nostrum, et virtus: adésto piis Ecclésiae tuae précibus, auctor ipse pietátis, et praesta: ut, quod fidéliter pétimus, efficáciter consequámur. Per Dóminum.

O God, our refuge and our strength, Who Thyself art the fountain of all piety: look down, we beseech Thee, on the fervent prayers of Thy Church: and grant that what in faith we ask, we may in all profitable fulness receive.

Second Collect: A cunctis, p. 156. Third Collect, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

Epistle: Phil. i. 6-11.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Philippénses. — FRATRES: Confídimus in Dómino Jesu, quia qui coepit in vobis opus bonum, perfíciet usque in diem Christi Jesu. Sicut est mihi justum hoc sentíre pro ómnibus vobis: eo quod hábeam vos in corde, et in vínculis meis, et in defensióne, et confirmatióne Evangélii, sócios gáudii mei omnes vos esse. Testis enim mihi est Deus, quómodo cúpiam omnes vos in viscéribus Jesu Christi. Et hoc oro ut cáritas vestra magis ac magis abúndet in sciéntia, et in omni sensu: ut probétis potióra, ut sitis sincéri, et sine offénsa in diem Christi, repléti

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Philippians.—BRETHREN, we are confident in the Lord Jesus, that He Who hath begun a good work in you, will perfect it unto the day of Christ Jesus. As it is meet for me to think this for you all, for that I have you in my heart, and that in my bands, and in the defence and confirmation of the Gospel, you are all partakers of my joy. For God is my witness, how I long after you all in the bowels of Jesus Christ. And this I pray, that your charity may more and more abound in knowledge and in all understanding; that you may approve the better things; that you may be sincere and without offence unto the day of Christ; filled with the fruit of justice, through Jesus Christ, unto the glory and praise of God.

fructum justítae per Jesum Christum, in glóriam et laudem Dei.

Gradual: Ps. cxxxii. 1, 2.

Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity. ℣. It is like the precious ointment on the head, that ran down upon the beard, the beard of Aaron.

Ecce quam bonum, et quam jucúndum, habitáre fratres in unum! ℣. Sicut unguéntum in cápite, quod descéndit in barbam, barbam Aaron.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. cxiii. 11.

They that fear the Lord, let them hope in Him; He is their helper and protector.—Alleluia.

℣. Qui timent Dóminum sperent in eo: adjútor et protéctor eórum est.—Allelúia.

Gospel: Matt. xxii. 15-21.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. —At that time, the Pharisees went and consulted among themselves, how to ensnare Jesus in His speech. And they send to Him their disciples, with the Herodians, saying: Master, we know that Thou art a true speaker, and teachest the way of God in truth, neither carest Thou for any man, for Thou dost not regard the person of men. Tell us therefore, what dost Thou think? Is it lawful to give tribute to Caesar, or not? But Jesus knowing their wickedness, said: Why do you tempt Me, ye hypocrites? Show me the coin of the tribute. And they offered Him a penny. And Jesus saith to them: Whose image and superscription is this? They say to Him: Caesar's. Then He saith to them: Render therefore to Caesar the things that are Caesar's; and to God the things that are God's.—Creed.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Abeúntes pharisaei, consílium iniérunt ut cáperent Jesum in sermóne. Et mittunt ei discípulos suos cum Herodiánis, dicéntes: Magíster, scimus quia verax es, et viam Dei in veritáte doces, et non est tibi cura de áliquo: non enim réspicis persónam hóminum: dic ergo nobis quid tibi vidétur, licet censum dare Caesari, an non? Cógnita autem Jesus nequítia eórum, ait: Quid me tentátis, hypócritae? Osténdite mihi numísma census. At illi obtulérunt ei denárium. Et ait illis Jesus: Cujus est imágo haec, et superscriptio? Dicunt ei: Caesaris. Tunc ait illis: Réddite ergo quae sunt Caesaris, Caesari; et quae sunt Dei, Deo. —Credo.

Offertory : Esther xiv. 12, 13.

Recordáre mei, Dómine, omni potentátui dóminans : et da sermónem rectum in os meum, ut pláceant verba mea in conspéctu príncipis.

Remember me, O Lord, Thou Who rulest above all power ; and give a well-ordered speech in my mouth, that my words may be pleasing in the sight of the prince.

Secret.

Da, miséricors Deus : ut haec salutáris oblátio et a própriis nos reátibus indesinénter expédiat, et ab ómnibus tueátur advérsis. Per Dóminum.

Grant unto us, O merciful God, that this saving oblation may utterly free us from the evils we ourselves have wrought, and in all adversity be our shield. Through our Lord.

Second Secret : Exaudi, p. 157. Third Secret at the option of the Priest, see p. 160. Preface of Holy Trinity, p. 55.

Communion : Ps. xvi. 6.

Ego clamávi, quóniam exaudísti me, Deus : inclína aurem tuam, et exáudi verba mea.

I have cried for Thou, O God, hast heard me : O incline Thy ear unto me, and hear my words.

Postcommunion.

Súmpsimus, Dómine sacri dona mystérii, humíliter deprecántes : ut quae in tui commemoratiónem nos fácere praecepísti, in nostrae profíciant infirmitátis auxílium : Qui vivis.

We have received, O Lord, the adorable gift Thou dost vouchsafe to us in these sacred mysteries ; and most humbly entreat of Thee, that what Thou hast commanded us to do in memory of Thyself, may be to us a help and a stay in our weakness. Who livest.

SECOND VESPERS.

As in Common of the Sunday, p. 95, except :

Antiphon at the Magnificat : Matt. xxii. 21.

Réddite ergo * quae sunt Caesaris, Caesari : et quae sunt Dei, Deo, allelúia.

Render therefore to Caesar, the things that are Caesar's and to God, the things that are God's. Alleluia.

Collect of the Mass, p. 1159.

Twenty-third Sunday after Pentecost.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

The season after Pentecost is the symbol of the long pilgrimage of the Church towards heaven; that is why the last Sundays describe to us prophetically its last stages.

At the end of the world, the Lord foretold on one occasion, there will be such a recrudescence of evil that the charity of many will grow cold. Crushing trials will then afflict Christians as they once afflicted Israel when they turned away from the Cross (Epistle).

From the depths of the abyss the nations will cry to God (Gradual, Offertory) and God, Whose thoughts are of peace and not of anger (Introit), and Who always hears prayers made with faith (Communion), will pardon nations for their offences (Collect), and will deliver both the Gentiles and the Synagogue from their captivity (Introit, Gradual).

Both indeed are figured, as St. Jerome explains in his Homily on the Gospel, by the two women healed by Jesus. The one with an issue of blood is first restored to health, and the daughter of the prince of the Synagogue afterwards, for the Apostle has said: "When the fulness of the Gentiles shall have entered, then will all Israel be saved" *

This return to truth of the daughter of Sion, temporarily dead to the life of grace, will be the signal of the last day, "for it will put the last seal to the accomplishment of prophecies." "From the heavens will then come the Saviour, our Lord Jesus Christ, Who will transform our bodies making them similar to His glorious body" (Epistle). The corporal resurrections effected by the Saviour are indeed only the figure of our future resurrection.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

If this Sunday is the last after Pentecost, the Mass of the twenty-fourth following Sunday is taken, and the Mass of the twenty-third is said on the preceding Saturday, with Gloria in excelsis, Credo and Preface of the Holy Trinity.

* First lesson of the Third Nocturn of Matins.

MASS: DICIT DOMINUS.

Introit: Jer. xxix. 11, 12, 14.

DICIT Dóminus: Ego cógito cogitatiónes pacis, et non afflictiónis: invocábitis me, et ego exáudiam vos: et redúcam captivitátem vestram de cunctis locis. Ps. Benedixísti, Dómine, terram tuam: avertísti captivitátem Jacob. ℣. Glória Patri.

THE Lord saith: I think thoughts of peace, and not of affliction: you shall call upon Me, and I will hear you; and I will bring back your captivity from all places. Ps. lxxxiv. 2. Lord, Thou hast blessed Thy land: Thou hast turned away the captivity of Jacob. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collect.

Absólve, quaesumus, Dómine, tuórum delícta populórum: ut a peccatórum néxibus, quae pro nostra fragilitáte contráximus, tua benignitáte liberémur. Per Dóminum.

Absolve, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the sins of Thy people; that we may be delivered, by Thy goodness, from the bonds of sin which, by our frailty, we have contracted. Through our Lord.

Second Collect: A cunctis, p. 156. Third Collect, at the option of the Priest, p. 160.

Epistle: Phil. iii. 17-21; iv. 1, 3.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Philippénses. — FRATRES: Imitatóres mei estóte, et observáte eos qui ita ámbulant, sicut habétis formam nostram. Multi enim ámbulant, quos saepe dicébam vobis (nunc autem et flens dico) inimícos crucis Christi: quorum finis intéritus: quorum Deus venter est: et glória in confusióne ipsórum, qui terréna sápiunt. Nostra autem conversátio in coelis est: unde étiam Salvatórem exspectámus Dóminum nostrum Jesum Christum, qui reformábit corpus humilitátis nostrae, configurátum córpori claritátis suae, secúndum operatiónem, qua étiam

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Philippians.—BRETHREN, be followers of me, and observe them who walk so as you have our model. For many walk, of whom I have told you often (and now tell you weeping) that they are enemies of the cross of Christ; whose end is destruction, whose God is their belly, and whose glory is in their shame; who mind earthly things. But our conversation is in heaven; from whence also we look for the Saviour, our Lord Jesus Christ, Who will reform the body of our lowness, made like to the body of His glory, according to the operation whereby also He is able to subdue all things unto Himself. Therefore, my brethren, dearly beloved, and most desired, my joy and my crown: so stand fast in the Lord, my dearly beloved: I beg of Evodia, and I beseech Syntyche to be of one mind in the Lord: and I entreat thee also, my sincere companion; help those women who have laboured with me in the Gospel, with Clement and the rest of my fellow-labourers, whose names are in the book of life.

possit subjícere sibi ómnia. Itaque, fratres mei, caríssimi, et desideratíssimi, gáudium meum, et coróna mea; sic state in Dómino, caríssimi. Evódiam rogo, et Syntychen déprecor idípsum sápere in Dómino. Etiam rogo et te, germáne compar, ádjuva illas, quae necum laboravérunt in Evangélio cum Cleménte, et céteris adjutóribus meis, quorum nómina sunt in libro vitae.

Gradual: Ps. xliii. 8, 9.

Thou hast delivered us, O Lord, from them that afflict us: and hast put them to shame that hate us. ℣. In God we will glory all the day: and in Thy name we will give praise for ever.

Liberásti nos, Dómine, ex affligéntibus nos: et eos, qui nos odérunt, confudísti. ℣. In Deo laudábimur tota die, et in nómine tuo confitébimur in saecula.

Alleluia, alleluia: Ps. cxxix. 1, 2.

℣. From the depths I have cried to Thee, O Lord: Lord, hear my prayer.—Alleluia.

℣. De profúndis clamávi ad te, Dómine: Dómine, exáudi oratiónem meam.—Allelúia.

Gospel: Matt. ix. 18-26.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew.—At that time, as Jesus was speaking to the multitudes, behold a certain ruler came up, and adored Him, saying: Lord, my daughter is even now dead; but come lay Thy hand upon her, and she shall live. And Jesus, rising up, followed him, with His disciples. And behold a woman, who was troubled with an issue of blood twelve years, came behind Him, and touched the hem of His garment. For she said within herself: If I shall touch only His garment, I shall be healed. But Jesus turning and seeing her, said: Be of good heart, daughter, thy faith hath made thee whole. And the woman was made whole from that hour. And when Jesus was come into the house of the ruler, and saw the minstrels and the multitude making a tumult, He said: Give place; for the girl is not dead, but sleepeth. And they laughed Him to scorn. And when the multitude was put forth, He went in, and took her by the hand. And the maid arose. And the fame thereof went abroad into all that country.—Creed.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Loquénte Jesu ad turbas, ecce prínceps unus accéssit, et adorábat eum, dícens: Dómine, fília mea modo defúncta est: sed veni, impóne manum tuam super eam, et vivet. Et surgens Jesus sequebátur eum, et discípuli ejus. Et ecce múlier, quae sánguinis fluxum patiebátur duódecim annis, accéssit retro, et tétigit fímbriam vestiménti ejus. Dicébat enim intra se: Si tetígero tantum vestiméntum ejus, salva ero.

At Jesus convérsus, et videns eam, dixit: Confide, filia, fides tua te salvam fecit. Et salva facta est múlier ex illa hora. Et cum venísset Jesus in domum principis, et vidisset tibícines, et turbam tumultuántem dicébat: Recédite: non est enim mórtua puélla, sed dormit. Et deridébant eum. Et cum ejécta esset turba, intrávit, et ténuit manum ejus. Et surréxit puélla. Et éxiit fama haec in univérsam terram illam.—Credo.

Offertory: Ps. cxxix. 1, 2.

De profúndis clamávi ad te, Dómine: Dómine, exáudi oratiónem meam: de profúndis clamávi ad te, Dómine.

From the depths I have cried out to Thee, O Lord; Lord, hear my prayer: from the depths I have cried out to Thee, O Lord.

Secret.

Pro nostrae servitútis augménto sacrifícium tibi, Dómine, laudis offérimus: ut, quod imméritis contulísti, propítius exsequáris. Per Dóminum.

We offer to Thee, O Lord, this sacrifice of praise as an additional act of homage: that Thou wouldst mercifully accomplish what Thou hast granted to us without any merit on our side.

Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 157. Third Secret, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160. Preface of Holy Trinity, p. 55.

Communion: Mark xi. 24.

Amen dico vobis, quidquid orántes pétitis, crédite quia accipiétis, et fiet vobis.

Amen I say to you, whatsoever you ask when you pray, believe that you shall receive, and it shall be done to you.

Postcommunion.

Quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, quos divína tríbuis participatióne gaudére, humánis non sinas subjacére perículis. Per Dóminum.

We beseech Thee, Almighty God, that Thou wouldst not permit us to be subject to human dangers, to whom Thou givest to rejoice in the participation of divine mysteries, Through our Lord.

Second Postcommunion: Mundet, p. 157. Third Postcommunion, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160.

SECOND VESPERS.

As in Common of the Sunday, p. 95, except:

Antiphon at the Magnificat: Matt. ix. 22.

But Jesus turning and seeing her, said: Be of good heart, daughter, thy faith hath made thee whole. Alleluia.

At Jesus convérsus, * et videns eam, dixit: Confíde, fília, fides tua te salvam fecit, allelúia.

Collect as at Mass, p. 1163.

The Movable Sundays after Epiphany or the Additional Sundays after Pentecost.

If there are more than twenty-four Sundays after Pentecost, the Introit, Gradual (with Alleluia), Offertory and Communion of the twenty-third Sunday are repeated on all the remaining Sundays.

But the Collects, the Epistle and the Gospel are taken from those Sundays which were passed over that year after the Epiphany, in the following order:

If the number of Sundays after Pentecost is:				The Collects, Epistle and Gospel are taken from the Mass of the
28	27	26	25
On the 27th	26th	25th	24th	6th Sunday after Ep. p. 479
„ 26th	25th	24th	—	5th „ „ „ p. 475
„ 25th	24th	—	—	4th „ „ „ p. 472
„ 24th	—	—	—	3rd „ „ „ p. 468

The Mass appointed to the "twenty-fourth or last Sunday after Pentecost" is always said on the Sunday before Advent.

"And He shall send His Angels with a trumpet and a great voice."
(Gospel).

Twenty-fourth and last Sunday after Pentecost.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

The liturgical Cycle ends with this last week of the ecclesiastical year and with it the history of the world which it has recalled to our minds from its origins at the time of Advent to its final term on this twenty-fourth Sunday after Pentecost.

This mass has indeed a prophetic character. It makes us spectators of the convulsions which will shake the earth at the appearance of the Judge Who will render to each one according to his works. The preparation for the first advent of mercy engrossed the Church's care during the Season of Advent, the preparation for the second advent of justice has not ceased to preoccupy her since the coming of Jesus Who is the sole object of all her thoughts (Gospel). Wherefore she exhorts us with the apostle to bear ourselves in a manner worthy of the Saviour and to bring forth all manner of good works, in order that, strengthened by His glorious power, we may bear all trials with patience and joy, thanking God the Father for having made us capable of sharing the inheritance of the Saints at present in the Spirit, and on the last day in the body and soul through the redeeming blood of His well-beloved Son (Epistle).

In the midst of the anguish which will mark the end of the world at the last judgment and the anguish of death for each one of us, souls will cry to the Lord from the depths of the abyss, in order to receive from His mercy more powerful remedies (Collect). And God Who has said that He nourished thoughts of peace and not of anger (Introit), and Who has promised to hearken to prayers made with faith (Communion), will hear us favourably by ending our captivity (Introit) and opening heaven to us for evermore.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS: DICIT DOMINUS.

Introit: Jer. xxix. 12, 14.

THE Lord saith: I think thoughts of peace, and not of affliction; you shall call upon Me and I shall hear you; and I will bring back your captivity from all places. Ps. lxxxiv. 2. Lord, Thou hast blessed Thy land; Thou hast turned away the captivity of Jacob. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

DICIT Dóminus: Ego cógito cogitatiónes pacis, et non afflictiónis: invocábitis me, et ego exáudiam vos: et redúcam captivitátem vestram de cunctis locis. Ps. Benedixísti, Dómine, terram tuam: avertísti captivitátem Jacob. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.

Stir up the wills of Thy faithful, O Lord, we beseech Thee; that more earnestly seeking after the fruit of good works, they may receive more abundant helps from Thy mercy. Through our Lord.

Excita, quaesumus, Dómine, tuórum fidélium voluntátes: ut divíni óperis fructum propénsius exsequéntes; pietátis tuae remédia majóra percípiant. Per Dóminum.

Second Collect: A cunctis, p. 156. Third Collect, at the option of the Priest, p. 160.

Epistle: Col. i. 9-14.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Colossians.—BRETHREN: We cease not to pray for you, and to beg that you may be filled with the knowledge of the will of God, in all wisdom and spiritual understanding; that you may walk worthy of God, in all things pleasing, being fruitful in every good work, and increasing in the knowledge of God; strengthened with all might according to the power of His glory, in all patience and long suffering with joy; giving thanks to God the Father, Who hath made us worthy to be partakers of the lot of the saints in light; Who hath de-

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Colossénses. — FRATRES: Non cessámus pro vobis orántes, et postulántes ut impleámini agnitióne voluntátis Dei, in omni sapiéntia et intelléctu spiritáli: ut ambulétis digne Deo per ómnia placéntes: in omni ópere bono fructificántes, et crescéntes in sciéntia Dei: in omni virtúte confortáti secúndum poténtiam claritátis ejus in omni patiéntia, et longanimitáte cum gáudio, grátias agéntes Deo Patri, qui dignos nos fecit in partem sortis sanctórum in lúmine: qui erípuit nos de potestáte tenebrárum, et tránstulit in regnum Filii dilectiónis suae, in quo habémus redemptiónem per sánguinem ejus, remissiónem peccatórum.

livered us from the power of darkness, and hath translated us into the kingdom of the Son of His love, in whom we have redemption through His blood, the remission of sins.

Gradual and Alleluia, p. 1164.

Gospel: Matt. xxiv. 15-35.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Cum vidéritis abominatiónem desolatiónis, quae dicta est a Daniéle prophéta, stantem in loco sancto: qui legit, intélligat: tunc qui in Judaea sunt, fúgiant ad montes: et qui in tecto, non descéndat tóllere áliquid de domo sua: et qui in agro, non revertátur tóllere túnicam suam. Vae autem praegnántibus, et nutriéntibus in illis diébus. Oráte autem, ut non fiat fuga vestra in híeme, vel sábbato. Erit enim tunc tribulátio magna, qualis non fuit ab inítio mundi usque modo, neque fiet. Et nisi breviáti fuissent dies illi, non fíeret salva omnis caro: sed propter eléctos breviabúntur dies illi. Tunc si quis vobis díxerit: Ecce hic est Christus, aut illic: nolíte crédere. Surgent enim pseudochrísti, et pseudoprophétae: et dabunt signa magna, et prodígia, ita ut in errórem inducántur (si fíeri potest) étiam elécti. Ecce praedíxi vobis. Si ergo díxerint vobis: Ecce in desérto est, nolíte exíre: ecce in penetrálibus, nolíte crédere. Sicut enim fulgur exit ab Oriénte, et paret usque in Occidentem: ita erit et

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. —At that time, Jesus said to His disciples: When you shall see the abomination of desolation, which was spoken of by Daniel the prophet, standing in the holy place; (he that readeth, let him understand:) then they that are in Judea, let him flee to the mountains; and he that is on the house-top, let him not come down to take anything out of his house; and he that is in the field, let him not go back to take his coat. And woe to them that are with child, and that give suck, in those days. But pray that your flight be not in the winter, or on the sabbath: for there shall be then great tribulation, such as hath not been found from the beginning of the world until now, neither shall be: and unless those days had been shortened, no flesh should be saved; but for the sake of the elect, those days shall be shortened. Then if any man shall say to you: Lo, here is Christ, or there; do not believe him; for there shall arise false Christs, and false prophets, and shall show great signs and wonders, insomuch as to deceive (if possible) even the elect. Behold I have told

it to you beforehand: if therefore they shall say to you: Behold He is in the desert, go ye not out; Behold He is in the closets, believe it not. For as lightning cometh out of the east, and appeareth even into the west, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be. Wheresoever the body shall be, there shall the eagles also be gathered together. And immediately after the tribulation of those days, the sun shall be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars shall fall from heaven, and the powers of heaven shall be moved; And then shall appear the sign of the Son of man in heaven, and then shall all the tribes of the earth mourn; and they shall see the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven with much power and majesty; and He shall send His angels with a trumpet and a great voice, and they shall gather together His elect from the four winds, from the farthest parts of the heavens to the utmost bounds of them. And from the fig-tree learn a parable: when the branch thereof is now tender, and the leaves come forth, you know that summer is nigh. So you also, when you shall see all these things, know ye that it is nigh even at the doors. Amen I say to you, that this generation shall not pass till all these things be done. Heaven and earth shall pass away, but My words shall not pass away.—Creed.

advéntus Filii hóminis. Ubicúmque fúerit corpus, illic congregabúntur et áquilae. Statim autem post tribulatiónem diérum illórum sol obscurábitur, et luna non dabit lumen suum, et stellae cadent de coelo, et virtútes coelórum commovebúntur: et tunc parébit signum Filii hóminis in coelo: et tunc plangent omnes tribus terrae: et vidébunt Filium hóminis veniéntem in núbibus coeli cum virtúte multa, et majestáte. Et mittet Angelos suos cum tuba, et voce magna: et congregábunt eléctos ejus a quátuor ventis, a summis coelórum usque ad términos eórum. Ab árbore autem fici díscite parábolam: cum jam ramus ejus tener fúerit, et fólia nata, scitis quia prope est aetas: ita et vos cum vidéritis haec ómnia, scitóte quia prope est in jánuis. Amen dico vobis, quia non praeteríbit generátio haec, donec ómnia haec fiant. Coelum et terra tránsibunt, verba autem mea non praeteríbunt.—Credo.

Offertory, p. 1165.

Secret.

Be propitious, O Lord, to our supplications, and, accepting the offerings and prayers of Thy people, convert all our hearts to Thyself; that, delivered from

Propítius esto, Dómine, supplicatiónibus nostris: et pópuli tui oblatiónibus, precibúsque suscéptis, ómnium nostrum ad te corda convérte; ut a terrénis cupiditátibus liberáti, ad coeléstia desidéria transeámus. Per Dóminum.

earthly desires, we may go forward to desires of heaven. Through our Lord.

Second Secret: Exaudi, p. 157. Third Secret, at the option of the Priest, see p. 160. Preface of Holy Trinity, p. 55.

Communion, p. 1165.

Postcommunion.

Concéde nobis, quaesumus, Dómine: ut per haec sacraménta quae súmpsimus, quidquid in nostra mente vitiósum est, ipsórum medicatiónis dono curétur. Per Dóminum.

Grant us, we beseech Thee, O Lord, by this sacrament which we have received, that whatever is vitiated in our souls may be restored by the gift of its efficacy. Through our Lord.

Second Postcommunion: Mundet, p. 157. Third Postcommunion, at the option of the Priest, p. 160.

SECOND VESPERS.

As in Common of the Sunday, p. 95, except:

Antiphon at the Magnificat: Matt. xxiv. 34.

Amen dico vobis, * quia non praeteríbit generátio haec, donec ómnia fiant: coelum et terra transíbunt, verba autem mea non transíbunt, dicit Dóminus.

Amen, I say to you, that this generation shall not pass till all these things be done: heaven and earth shall pass, but My words shall not pass, saith the Lord.

Collect of the Mass, p. 1168.

END OF THE TEMPORAL CYCLE.

THE PROPER OF THE SAINTS.

See the explanations : Sanctoral Cycle.

NOVEMBER 29.

Vigil of Saint Andrew, APOSTLE.—Purple vestments.

The Gospel tells us that it was Saint John the Baptist, who, whilst fulfilling his mission of preparing souls for the coming of Our Lord, pointed out the Messiah to his disciple Andrew. The latter immediately went to Jesus and became one of His followers.—Let us prepare with fervour for the feast of to-morrow.

If the feast of Saint Andrew falls on a Monday, the Mass of the Vigil is said on the previous Saturday, but the commemoration of Saint Saturninus is made on the Sunday. The same rule holds good for the other vigils, with the exception of that of Christmas.—If the feast of Saint Andrew falls on a Sunday it is transferred to the first free day.

MASS.

Introit. Matt. iv. 18, 19.—The Lord walking by the Sea of Galilee, saw two brothers, Peter and Andrew ; and He called them : Come ye after Me, and I will make you to be fishers of men. Ps. xviii. 2. The heavens show forth the glory of God, and the firmament declareth the works of His hands. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus. — Dóminus secus mare Galilaeae vidit duos fratres, Petrum et Andréam, et vocávit eos : Veníte post me : fáciam vos fíeri piscatóres hóminum. Ps. Coeli enárrant glóriam Dei : et ópera mánuum ejus annúntiat firmaméntum. ℣. Glória Patri.

Orémus.—Quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut beátus Andréas Apóstolus, cujus praevenímus festivitátem, tuum pro nobis implóret auxílium; ut, a nostris reátibus absolúti, a cunctis étiam perículis eruámur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—We beseech Thee, O almighty God, that the blessed Apostle Andrew whose feast we anticipate, may implore Thy help for us; that, absolved from our sins, we may also be delivered from all dangers. Through our Lord.

If Advent has not begun, Second Collect of Saint Saturninus, p. 1175, Third Collect, Concede, p. 159. In Advent, Second Collect of the feria, Third Collect of Saint Saturninus, p. 1175. No Gloria.

Epistle: Benedíctio, of the Common, p. 203.

Graduále.—Nimis honoráti sunt amíci tui, Deus: nimis confortátus est principátus eórum. ℣. Dinumerábo eos: et super arénam multiplicabúntur.

Gradual. Ps. cxxxviii. 17, 18. —Thy friends, O God, are made exceedingly honourable; their power is become very great. ℣. If I should count them, they are more in number than the grains of sand.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Stabat Joánnes, et ex discípulis ejus duo. Et respiciens Jesum ambulántem, dicit: Ecce Agnus Dei. Et audiérunt eum duo discípuli loquéntem, et secúti sunt Jesum. Convérsus autem Jesus, et videns eos sequéntes se, dicit eis: Quid quaeritis? Qui dixérunt ei: Rabbi (quod dícitur interpretátum Magíster), ubi hábitas? Dicit eis: Veníte, et vidéte. Venérunt, et vidérunt ubi manéret, et apud eum mansérunt die illo: hora autem erat quasi décima. Erat autem Andréas frater Simónis Petri unus ex duóbus, qui audiérunt a Joánne, et secúti fúerant eum. Invénit hic primum fratrem suum Simónem, et dicit ei: Invénimus Messíam (quod est interpretátum Christus). Et ✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to Saint John i. 35-51.—At that time, John stood, and two of his disciples; and beholding Jesus walking, he saith: Behold the Lamb of God. And the two disciples heard him speak, and they followed Jesus. And Jesus turning, and seeing them following Him, saith to them: What seek you? Who said to Him: Rabbi (which is to say, being interpreted, Master), where dwellest Thou? He saith to them: Come, and see. They came, and saw where He abode; and they stayed with Him that day: now it was about the tenth hour. And Andrew the brother of Simon Peter was one of the two who had heard of John, and followed Him. He findeth first his brother Simon, and saith to him: We have found the Messiah: (which is, being interpreted, the Christ). And he brought him to Jesus; and Jesus, looking upon him, said: Thou art Simon, the son of Jona; thou shalt be called Cephas, which is interpreted, Peter. On the following day, He would go forth into Galilee; and He findeth Philip. And Jesus saith to him: Follow me. Now Philip was of Bethsaida, the city of Andrew and Peter. Philip findeth Nathanael, and saith to him: We have found Him of Whom Moses in the law and the prophets did write, Jesus the son of Joseph of Nazareth. And Nathanael saith to him: Can any thing of good come from Nazareth?* Philip saith to him: Come, and see. Jesus saw Nathanael coming to Him; and He saith to him: Behold an Israelite indeed, in whom there is no guile. Nathanael saith to Him: Whence knowest Thou me? Jesus answered, and said to him: Before that Philip called thee, when thou wast under the fig-tree, I saw thee.† Nathanael answered Him, and said: Rabbi, Thou art the Son of God, Thou art the King of Israel. Jesus answered, and said to him: Because I said unto thee, I saw thee under the fig-tree, thou believest; greater things than these shalt thou see. And He saith to him: Amen, amen I say to you, you shall see the heaven opened, and the angels of God ascending and descending upon the Son of man.‡

addúxit eum ad Jesum. Intúitus autem eum Jesus, dixit: Tu es Simon fílius Jona: tu vocáberis Cephas, quod interpretátur Petrus. In crástinum voluit exíre in Galilaeam, et invénit Philíppum. Et dicit ei Jesus: Séquere me. Erat autem Philíppus a Bethsáida, civitáte Andréae et Petri. Invénit Philíppus Nathánaël, et dicit ei: Quem scripsit Móyses in lege, et prophétae, invénimus Jesum fílium Joseph a Názareth. Et dixit ei Nathánaël: A Názareth potest âliquid boni esse? Dicit ei Philíppus: Veni, et vide. Vidit Jesus Nathánael veniéntem ad se, et dicit de eo: Ecce vere Israelíta, in quo dolus non est. Dicit ei Nathánael: Unde me nosti? Respóndit Jesus, et dixit ei: Priúsquam te Philíppus vocáret, cum esses sub ficu, vidi te. Respóndit ei Nathánael, et ait: Rabbi, tu es Fílius Dei, tu es Rex Israel. Respóndit Jesus, et dixit ei: Quia dixi tibi: Vidi te sub ficu, credis: magis his vidébis. Et dicit ei: Amen, amen dico vobis, vidébitis coelum apértum, et Angelos Dei ascendéntes et descendéntes supra Fílium hóminis.

* An expression of scorn, equivalent to: Could such an insignificant little town shelter the Messiah?

† These words must have reminded Nathanael of some secret incident in his life, in which he had proved himself particularly upright and loyal. This supernatural knowledge of our Lord caused Nathanael to believe in His divine mission.

‡ An allusion to the ladder, which Jacob saw in his dream at this place, that is to say, at Bethel near Sichem in Samaria (see map, p. 508). Jesus, King of heaven and earth, has the angels to serve Him.

Offertórium.—Glória et honóre coronásti eum: et constituísti eum super ópera mánuum tuárum, Dómine.

Offertory. Ps. viii. 6, 7.—Thou hast crowned him with glory and honour; and hast set him over the works of Thy hands.

Secréta. — Sacrándum tibi, Dómine, munus offérimus: quo beáti Andréae Apóstoli solémnia recoléntes, purificatiónem quoque nostris méntibus implorámus. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—We offer to Thee, O Lord, these gifts which are to be consecrated to Thee, by which, commemorating the solemn feast of blessed Andrew the Apostle, we implore also the purification of our souls. Through our Lord.

Before Advent, Second Secret of Saint Saturninus; Third Secret, p. 159.—During Advent, Second Secret of the feria; Third Secret of Saint Saturninus below.

Commúnio. — Dicit Andréas Simóni fratri suo: Invénimus Messíam, qui dícitur Christus: et addúxit eum ad Jesum.

Communion (John i. 41, 42).—Andrew saith to Simon his brother: We have found the Messiah, Who is called Christ; and he brought him to Jesus.

Postcommúnio. — Percéptis, Dómine, sacraméntis supplíciter exorámus: ut, intercedénte beáto Andréa Apóstolo tuo, quae pro illíus veneránda gérimus passióne, nobis profíciant ad medélam. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—Having received Thy sacraments, O Lord, we humbly beseech Thee, that by the intercession of Thy blessed Apostle Andrew, what we do in commemoration of his sufferings, may be a remedy for us. Through our Lord.

Before Advent, Second Postcommunion of Saint Saturninus; Third Postcommunion, p. 159.—During Advent, Second Postcommunion of the feria; Third Postcommunion of Saint Saturninus below.

The Same Day.

St. Saturninus.—*Red vestments.

First Bishop of Toulouse, he was martyred under Decius, about 250 A.D.

Mass: Laetabitur from the Common of one Martyr, p. 225, except:

Orémus.—Deus, qui nos beáti Saturníni Mártyris tui concédis natalítio pérfrui: ejus nos tríbue méritis adjuvári. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who grantest us to rejoice in the feast of Thy blessed martyr, Saturninus, grant us Thine aid through his merits. Through our Lord.

* See The Historical Summary, p. 1008.

Secret.—Sanctify, O Lord, the offerings devoted to Thee; and by the intercession of Thy blessed martyr, Saturninus, mayest Thou be appeased by them, and look down upon us. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Múnera, Dómine, tibi dicáta sanctífica: et, intercedénte beáto Saturníno Mártyre tuo, per haec éadem nos placátus inténde. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—Grant, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that we may be made holy by the reception of Thy sacrament; and that, by the intercession of Thy Saints, it may make us pleasing in Thy sight. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Sanctíficet nos, quaesumus, Dómine, tui percéptio sacraménti: et intercessióne Sanctórum tuórum tibi reddat accéptos. Per Dóminum.

NOVEMBER 30.

Saint Andrew, APOSTLE.—Double of the Second Class.—Red vestments.[*]

(In Scotland, St. Andrew being the Patron of that country, his feast is a Double of the First Class with an Octave.)

The Feast of St. Andrew has been kept since the fourth century on November 30.

St. Andrew was both an Apostle and a Martyr. The Collect tells us that he was called to govern and teach the Church; and the Epistle and the Gospel deal with the vocation of him who was the first among the Apostles to know Jesus Christ. When he was called he immediately left his nets to become a fisher of men (Gospel), and "his sound hath gone forth into all the earth to preach the gospel of peace" (Epistle). After the coming of the Holy Ghost he preached in Palestine, and then taught in Scythia, Epirus and Thrace.

"But all have not obeyed the Gospel" (Epistle), and Saint Andrew ere long became the Apostle of the Cross. The priests of Achaia describe his martyrdom at Patras. He died on that special form of cross which has ever since been called after him, and "the Lord received his sacrifice in the odour of sweetness" (Alleluia). His body, having been first taken to Constantinople, was in 1210 moved to the Cathedral at Amalfi, in the kingdom of Naples. In 1462 his head was placed by Pius II. in the basilica of St. Peter, his brother. His name is inscribed in the Canon of the Mass (first list, p. 59).

Let us, with Saint Andrew, follow Christ even to the cross.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

FIRST VESPERS (Nov. 29).†

The first four Psalms for Sunday, p. 98, and the Psalm Laudate Dominum, p. 127.

Ant. 1. Salve crux pretiósa, * súscipe discípulum ejus qui pepéndit in te magíster meus Christus.

Antiphon 1. — Hail, precious cross, receive the disciple of Him Who hung upon thee, even my Master Christ.

* See The Historical Summary, p. 1004 and 1007.

† The liturgical day begins in the evening at the hour of Vespers, called First Vespers, it ends the following day at Second Vespers.

2. The blessed Andrew prayed saying: O Lord, King of eternal glory, receive me hanging on this gibbet.

2. Beátus Andréas * orábat, dicens: Dómine, Rex aetérnae glóriae, súscipe me pendéntem in patíbulo.

3. Andrew was the servant of Christ, a worthy Apostle of God, the brother of Peter, and likened to him in his martyrdom.

3. Andréas Christi fámulus, * dignus Dei Apóstolus, germánus Petri, et in passióne sócius.

4. Christ's dear hand-maid, Maximilla, took away the body of the Apostle, and buried it with spices in an honourable place.

4. Maximílla Christo amábilis, * tulit corpus Apóstoli, óptimo loco cum aromátibus sepelívit.

5. O Lord, Thou hast caused them that persecuted the just to be swallowed up in hell, but to the just Thou hast Thyself shown the way on the tree of the cross.

5. Qui persequebántur justum, * demersísti eos Dómine in inférno, et in ligno crucis dux justi fuísti.

Chapter. Rom. x. 10.—Brethren, with the heart we believe unto justice; but, with the mouth, confession is made unto salvation. For the Scripture saith: Whosoever believeth in Him, shall not be confounded.

Capitulum.— Fratres: Corde enim créditur ad justítiam, ore autem conféssio fit ad salútem. * Dicit enim Scriptúra: Omnis, qui credit in illum, non confundétur.

Hymn: Exsultet orbis, and Versicle of the Common, p. 207.

Antiphon at the Magnificat. John i. 40.—One of the two who followed the Lord was Andrew, the brother of Simon Peter, alleluia.

Ant.—Unus ex duóbus, * qui secúti sunt Dóminum, erat Andréas frater Simónis Petri, allelúia.

During Advent, a Commemoration of the Feria is made.†

MASS.

Introit. Ps. cxxxviii. 17.—Thy friends, O God, are made exceedingly honourable; their power is become very great. Ps. cxxxviii. 1. Lord, Thou hast

Intróitus. — Mihi autem nimis honoráti sunt amíci tui, Deus: nimis confortátus est principátus eórum. Ps. Dómine, probásti me, et cognovísti me: tu cognovísti sessiónem meam, et resurrectiónem meam. ℣. Glória Patri.

† During Advent the prayers of the feria at Mass and at Vespers are the same as on the Sunday before.

proved me and known me; Thou hast known my sitting down and my rising up.* ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Majestátem tuam, Dómine, supplíciter exorámus: ut, sicut Ecclésiae tuae beátus Andréas Apóstolus éxstitit praedicátor et rector: ita apud te sit pro nobis perpétuus intercéssor. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—We humbly beseech Thy Majesty, O Lord, that as blessed Andrew the Apostle was both a preacher and a ruler of Thy Church, so he may unceasingly intercede for us with Thee. Through our Lord.

During Advent, a commemoration of the Feria is made (see note 1, p. 1178).

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Romános. — Fratres: Corde enim créditur ad justítiam: ore autem conféssio fit ad salútem. Dicit enim Scriptúra: Omnis, qui credit in illum non confundétur. Non enim est distínctio Judaei, et Graeci: nam idem Dóminus ómnium, dives in omnes, qui ínvocant illum. Omnis enim, quicúmque invocáverit nomen Dómini, salvus erit. Quómodo ergo invocábunt, in quem non credidérunt? Aut quómodo credent ei, quem non audiérunt? Quómodo autem áudient sine praedicánte? Quómodo vero praedicábunt, nisi mittántur? sicut scriptum est: Quam speciósi pedes evangelizántium pacem, evangelizántium bona! Sed non omnes obédiunt Evangélio. Isaías enim dicut: Dómine, quis crédidit audítui nostro? Ergo fides ex audítu, audítus autem per verbum Christi, Sed dico: Numquid non audiérunt? Et quidem in omnem terram exívit sonus eórum, et in fines orbis terrae verba eórum.

From the Epistle of the blessed Apostle Paul to the Romans, x. 10-18.—Brethren, with the heart we believe unto justice, but with the mouth confession is made unto salvation. For the Scripture saith: Whosoever believeth in Him shall not be confounded. For there is no distinction of the Jew and the Greek; for the same is Lord over all, rich unto all that call upon Him. For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord, shall be saved. How then shall they call on Him in Whom they have not believed? Or how shall they believe Him of Whom they have not heard? And how shall they hear, without a preacher? And how shall they preach, unless they be sent? as it is written: How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel of peace, of them that bring glad tidings of good things! But all have not obeyed the Gospel. For Isaias saith: Lord, who hath believed our report? Faith, then, cometh by hearing; and hearing by the word of Christ. But I say: Have

* That is to say: All that I do.

they not heard? Yes, verily, their sound hath gone forth into all the earth, and their words unto the ends of the whole world.

Gradual. Ps. xliv. 17, 18.—Thou shalt make them princes over all the earth; they shall perpetuate the glory of Thy name, O Lord. ℣. Instead of thy fathers, sons are born to thee: therefore shall peoples praise thee.

Graduále. — Constítues eos príncipes super omnem terram: mémores erunt nóminis tui, Dómine. ℣. Pro pátribus tuis nati sunt tibi fílii: proptérea pópuli confitebúntur tibi.

Alleluia, alleluia.—The Lord loved Andrew as an odour of sweetness. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — Diléxit Andréam Dóminus in odórem suavitátis. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to Saint Matthew, iv. 18-22.—At that time, Jesus, walking by the sea of Galilee, saw two brethren, Simon, who is called Peter, and Andrew his brother, casting their nets into the sea (for they were fishers). And He saith to them: Come ye after Me, and I will make you to be fishers of men: and they immediately leaving their nets followed Him. And going on from thence, He saw other two brethren, James, the son of Zebedee, and John his brother, in a ship with Zebedee their father, mending their nets; and He called them. And they forthwith left their nets and father, and followed Him.—Credo.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Ambulans Jesus juxta mare Galilaeae, vidit duos fratres, Simónem, qui vocátur Petrus, et Andréam fratrem ejus, mitténtes rete in mare (erant enim piscatóres), et ait illis: Veníte post me, et fáciam vos fíeri piscatóres hóminum. At illi contínuo, relictis rétibus, secúti sunt eum. Et procédens inde, vidit álios duos fratres, Jacóbum Zebedaei, et Joánnem fratrem ejus in navi cum Zebedaeo patre eórum, reficiéntes rétia sua: et vocávit eos. Illi autem statim relíctis rétibus et patre, secúti sunt eum.—Credo.

Offertory. Ps. cxxxviii. 17.—Thy friends, O God, are made exceedingly honourable; their power is become very great.

Offertórium.—Mihi autem nimis honoráti sunt amíci tui, Deus: nimis confortátus est principátus eórum.

Secret.—We beseech Thee, O Lord, that the holy prayer of the blessed Apostle Andrew may make our sacrifice pleasing to Thee; that it may be accepted

Secréta.—Sacrifícium nostrum tibi, Dómine, quaesumus, beáti Andréae, Apóstoli precátio sancta concíliet: ut, in cujus honóre solémniter exhibétur, ejus méritis efficiátur accéptum. Per Dóminum.

by the merits of him in whose honour it is solemnly offered. Through our Lord.

During Advent, a Commemoration of the Feria is made. Preface of the Apostles, p. 57.

Commúnio.—Veníte post me: fáciam vos fíeri piscatóres hóminum: at illi contínuo, relíctis rétibus, secúti sunt Dóminum.

Communion. Matt. iv. 19, 20. —Come ye after Me; and I will make you to be fishers of men; and they, immediately leaving their nets, followed the Lord.

Postcommúnio.—Súmpsimus, Dómine, divína mystéria, beáti Andréae festivitáte laetántes: quae, sicut tuis Sanctis ad glóriam, ita nobis, quaesumus, ad véniam prodésse perfícias. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—We beseech Thee, O Lord, that the divine mysteries, received by us rejoicing in this festival of blessed Andrew, may obtain pardon for us, as they procure glory for Thy saints. Through our Lord.

During Advent, a Commemoration of the Feria is made.

SECOND VESPERS (Nov. 30).*

Ant.—Cum pervenísset * beátus Andréas ad locum ubi crux paráta erat, exclamávit et dixit: O bona crux, diu desideráta, et jam concupiscénti ánimo praeparáta: secúrus et gaudens vénio ad te, ita et tu exsúltans suscípias me, discípulum ejus qui pepéndit in te.

Antiphon at the Magnificat.—When the blessed Andrew had come to the place where the cross was prepared, he cried out and said: O good Cross, so long desired, and now made ready for my longing soul! I come unto thee with confidence and joy; do thou also joyfully receive me, the disciple of Him, Who hung upon thee.

During Advent, a Commemoration of the Feria is made.

FEASTS OF DECEMBER.

December 2.

Saint Bibiana, Virgin and Martyr.—Semi-double.—Red vestments.†

Saint Bibiana was born in Rome of a noble Christian family; and as the Collect tells us, in her the flower of virginity was united with the palm of martyrdom.

* On great feasts or when the next day is not a feast, the Second Vespers are celebrated in honour of the same saint as the First Vespers.

† See The Historical Summary, p. 1010.

A wise and prudent virgin (Gradual) she was less afraid of the loss of all her goods and of the sufferings of imprisonment, than of the loss of that hidden treasure or that pearl of great price, of which the Gospel speaks. When delivered to the caresses and flattery of her gaoler Rufinus, who strove to pervert her, she called upon the Lord, Who saved her from destruction (Epistle). Rufinus then had recourse to violence, but with no greater success. Seeing which, the enraged governor of Rome ordered that Bibiana should be tied to a column, and beaten to death with thongs loaded with lead (A.D. 363). The basilica of Saint Mary Major* was built over her tomb.

Mass: Me exspectavérunt of the Common, p. 286, except:

Collect.—O God, the giver of all good gifts, Who didst unite in Thy servant Bibiana the flower of virginity with the palm of martyrdom, through her intercession deign to unite our souls with Thee in charity; that, dangers being removed, we may obtain eternal rewards. Through our Lord.

Orémus.—Deus, ómnium largítor bonórum, qui in fámula tua Bibiána cum virginitátis flore martyrii palmam conjunxísti: mentes nostras ejus intercessióne tibi caritáte conjúnge; ut, amótis perículis, praemia consequámur aetérna. Per Dóminum.

DECEMBER 3.

St. Francis Xavier, CONFESSOR.†—Greater-double.—White vestments.

Saint Francis Xavier (1506-1552), touched, after a long resistance, by the words constantly repeated to him by Saint Ignatius: "What doth it profit a man if he gain the whole world, and suffer the loss of his own soul," became one of his most zealous fellow-workers in the newly-formed Society of Jesus.

"Go ye into the whole world, and preach the Gospel to every creature," says the Gospel. "Their sound hath gone forth into all the earth, and their words unto the ends of the whole world," adds the Epistle. This was the programme of the whole life of Saint Francis Xavier, "whose preaching and miracles added to the church the nations of the Indies" (Collect). He preached the Gospel there, and in Japan, to more than fifty kingdoms, and converted innumerable pagans.

Let us share in the apostolic zeal of this saint, who has earned the glorious title of Patron of the Propagation of the Faith; and let us help this work with our prayers and our alms.

MASS.

Introit. Ps. cxviii. 46, 47.—I speak of Thy testimonies before kings; and I am not ashamed. I delight myself in Thy com-

Intróitus. — Loquébar de testimóniis tuis in conspéctu regum, et non confundébar: et meditábar in mandátis tuis,

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome p. 510.

† See The Historical Summary, p. 1015.

quae diléxi nimis. Ps. Laudáte Dóminum omnes gentes, laudáte eum omnes pópuli: quóniam confirmáta est super nos misericórdia ejus, et véritas Dómini manet in aetérnum. ℣. Glória Patri.

mandments, which I love. Ps. cxvi. 1, 2. Praise the Lord, all ye nations, and glorify Him, all ye people; because His mercy is confirmed upon us and the truth of the Lord remaineth for ever. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui Indiárum gentes beáti Francísci praedicatióne et miráculis Ecclésiae tuae aggregáre voluísti: concéde propítius; ut, cujus gloriósa mérita venerámur, virtútum quoque imitémur exémpla. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who didst please, by the preaching and miracles of blessed Francis, to add to Thy Church the nations of the Indies, grant, in Thy mercy, that we may imitate his virtues, as we venerate his glorious merits. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Feria.—Epistle: Fratres, corde, p. 1179.

Graduále.—Justus ut palma florébit: sicut cedrus Líbani multiplicábitur in domo Dómini. ℣. Ad annuntiándum mane misericórdiam tuam, et veritátem tuam per noctem.

Gradual. Ps. xci. 13, 14.—The just man flourishes like the palm tree; he grows up like the cedar of Libanus planted in the house of the Lord. ℣. Ibid. 3. To show forth Thy mercy in the morning, and Thy truth in the night.

Allelúia, allelúia.— ℣. Beátus vir, qui suffert tentatiónem: quóniam cum probátus fúerit, accípiet corónam vitae. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. James i. 12. — ℣. Blessed is the man that endureth temptation! For, when he hath been proved he shall receive the crown of life. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Marcum.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Eúntes in mundum univérsum, praedicáte Evangélium omni creatúrae. Qui credíderit, et baptizátus fúerit, salvus erit: qui vero non credíderit, condemnábitur. Signa autem eos, qui credíderint, haec sequéntur: In nómine meo daemónia ejícient: linguis loquéntur novis: serpéntes tol-

✠ Continuation of the Holy Gospel according to Saint Mark, xvi. 15-18.—At that time, Jesus said to His disciples: Go ye into the whole world, and preach the Gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not, shall be condemned. And these signs shall follow them that believe: In My name, they shall cast out devils; they shall speak with new tongues; they shall take up serpents; and if they shall drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them; they shall lay their hands upon the sick, and they shall recover.

lent: et si mortiferum quid biberint, non eis nocébit: super aegros manus impónent, et bene habébunt.

Offertory. Ps. lxxxviii. 25.—My truth and My mercy shall be with him, and in My name shall his horn be exalted, Offertórium. — Véritas mea, et misericórdia mea cum ipso: et in nómine meo exaltábitur cornu ejus.

Secret.—Grant us, we beseech Thee, O almighty God, that this oblation of our lowliness may be pleasing to Thee in honour of Thy saints, and may purify us, both in body and in soul. Through our Lord.

Secreta. — Praesta nobis, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut nostrae humilitátis oblátio, et pro tuórum tibi grata sit honóre Sanctórum, et nos córpore páriter et mente puríficet. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of the Feria.

Communion. Matt. xxiv. 46, 47.—Blessed is the servant, whom, when the Lord shall come, He shall find watching: amen I say unto you, He shall set him over all His goods.

Commúnio. — Beátus servus, quem, cum vénerit dóminus, invénerit vigilántem: amen díco vobis, super ómnia bona sua constítuet eum.

Postcommunion.—We beseech Thee, O almighty God, that we who have received heavenly food, may, by the intercession of blessed Francis, Thy Confessor, be defended by it against all adversity. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui coeléstia aliménta percépimus, intercedénte beáto Francísco Confessóre tuo, per haec contra ómnia advérsa muniámur. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of the Feria.

DECEMBER 4.

St. Peter Chrysologus, Bishop Confessor and Doctor.*

Double.—White vestments.

St. Peter gained the name Chrysologus, which means "speech of gold," by his great eloquence. As the Collect reminds us, his promotion to the See of Ravenna (A.D. 433), owing to an apparition of the Apostle St. Peter to Pope Sixtus III., was miraculous.

"You are the salt of the earth . . . and the light of the world," says the Gospel. "Preach the word; be instant in season, out of season; reprove, entreat, rebuke . . . do the work of an evangelist," continues the Epistle. That was what St. Peter did: he composed more than one hundred and sixty homilies, full of learning, which earned him the title of Doctor of the Church.

* See The Historical Summary, p. 1010.

It was he who wrote this well-known saying: "He who amuses himself with Satan cannot rejoice with Christ." He died at Imola in A.D. 450.—Let us listen lovingly to the word of God.

Mass: In medio, p. 263, except:

Orémus.—Deus, qui beátum Petrum Chrysólogum Doctórem egrégium, divínitus praemonstrátum, ad regéndam et instruéndam Ecclésiam tuam éligi voluísti: praesta, quaesumus, ut quem Doctórem vitae habúimus in terris, intercessórem habére mereámur in coelis. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who wert pleased to choose the blessed and illustrious Doctor Peter Chrysologus, by a divine direction, to govern and instruct Thy Church; grant, we beseech Thee, that we may deserve to have for our intercessor in heaven, him whom we have had as our teacher of life on earth. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Feria, then of St. Barbara.

Graduále. — Ecce sacérdos magnus qui in diébus suis plácuit Deo. ℣. Non est invéntus símilis illi, qui conserváret legem Excélsi.

Gradual. Eccles. xliv. 16.—Behold the great priest, who in his days pleased God. ℣. Eccl. xx. There was not found the like to him, who kept the law of the Most High.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Tu es sacerdos in aetérnum, secúndum órdinem Melchísedech Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. cix. 4. —℣. Thou art a priest for ever according to the order of Melchisedech. Alleluia.

Commúnio. — Dómine quinque talénta tradidísti mihi: ecce ália quinque superlucrátus sum. Euge serve bone et fidélis, quia in pauca fuísti fidélis, supra multa te constítuam: intra in gáudium Dómini tui.

Communion. Matt. xxv. 20.—O Lord, Thou gavest me five talents, and behold I have gained five more. Well done, thou good and faithful servant; because thou hast been faithful in few things, I will place thee over many things; enter thou in the joy of thy Lord.

Commemoration of the Feria, then of St. Barbara.

ON THE SAME DAY.

St. Barbara, VIRGIN AND MARTYR.*—Red vestments.

Died in Asia Minor about 235. She is on the list of the "Fourteen Auxiliary Saints."

Mass: Loquebar, p. 282.

 See Historical Notice, p. 1008.

DECEMBER 5.

St. Sabbas, ABBOT.*—White vestments.

The monastic order had to be represented in the escort of the Immaculate Virgin, of the Apostles, Pontiffs and Virgins, who walk before Christ. Therefore the Church commemorates St. Sabbas, a celebrated anchorite, who in the fifth century filled Palestine with the fame of his virtues and austerities. He organised monastic communities in Palestine and founded, among others, the celebrated monastery which bears his name. He died in 531 at the age of over ninety.

Mass: Os justi, of Abbots, p. 276.

DECEMBER 6.

St. Nicholas, BISHOP AND CONFESSOR.†—Double.—White vestments.

St. Nicholas, named the Great, was born in Asia Minor. God glorified him by an endless number of miracles, and the Church, remembering the power he exercised over flames, makes us pray that we may, through his intercession, be preserved from the flames of hell.

Having become archbishop of Myra, the wants of his flock were the first object of his pastoral care. He took part in the Council of Nicaea, which condemned Arianism.

Putting to profit the talents of which the Gospel speaks, he practised both spiritual and temporal works of mercy, as when he discreetly threw alms in at a window to save the honour of three young girls, an act still commemorated nowadays in Santa Claus when the children thank St. Nicholas for presents found on the hearth. He died in 324. His relics are preserved at Bari (Italy).

Let us help our neighbour in his spiritual and temporal needs.

MASS.

Introit: Státuit, p. 255, except:

Collect.—O God, who didst adorn the holy Bishop Nicholas with the working of countless miracles: moved by his merits and prayers, save us, we beseech Thee, from the flames of hell. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui beátum Nicoláum Pontíficem innúmeris decorásti miráculis: tríbue, quaesumus; ut ejus méritis et précibus a gehénnae incéndiis liberémur. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of the Feria.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Hebrews. xiii. 7-17.—BRETHREN, remember your prelates who have spoken the word

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Hebraeos.—FRATRES: Mementóte praepositórum vestrórum, qui vobis locúti sunt verbum Dei: quorum

* See Historical Notice, p. 1011. † Ibid., p. 1010.

intuéntes éxitum conversatiónis, imitámini fidem. Jesus Christus heri, et hódie: ipse et in saecula. Doctrinis váriis et peregrínis nolíte abdúci. Optímum est enim grátia stabilíre cor, non escis, quae non profuérunt ambulántibus in eis. Habémus altáre, de quo édere non habent potestátem, qui tabernáculo desérviunt. Quorum enim animálium inf értur sanguis pro peccáto in Sancta per pontíficem, horum córpora cremántur extra castra. Propter quod et Jesus, ut sanctificáret per suum sánguinem pópulum, extra portam passus est. Exeámus ígitur ad eum extra castra, impropérium ejus portántes. Non enim habémus hic manéntem civitátem, sed futúram inquírimus. Per ipsum ergo offerámus hóstiam laudis semper Deo, id est fructum labiórum confiténtium nómini ejus. Beneficéntiae autem, et communiónis nolíte oblivísci: tálibus enim hóstiis promerétur Deus. Obedíte praepósitis vestris, et subjacéte eis. Ipsi enim pervígilant, quasi ratiónem pro animábus vestris redditúri.

of God to you; whose faith follow, considering the end of their conversation. Jesus Christ yesterday, and to-day; and the same for ever. Be not led away with various and strange doctrines: for it is best that the heart be established with grace; not with meats, which have not profited those that walk in them. We have an altar, whereof they have no power to eat who serve the tabernacle. For the bodies of those beasts, whose blood is brought into the Holies by the high priest for sin, are burned without the camp. Wherefore Jesus also, that He might sanctify the people by His own blood, suffered without the gate. Let us go forth therefore to Him without the camp, bearing His reproach: for we have not here a lasting city, but we seek one that is to come. By Him therefore let us offer the sacrifice of praise always to God, that is to say, the fruit of lips confessing to His name. And do not forget to do good and to impart: for by such sacrifices God's favour is obtained. Obey your prelates, and be subject to them; for they watch as being to render an account for your souls.

Graduále. — Invéni David servum meum, óleo sancto meo unxi eum: manus enim mea auxiliábitur ei, et bráchium meum confortábit eum. ℣. Nihil profíciet inimícus in eo, et fílius iniquitátis non nocébit ei.

Gradual. Ps. lxxxviii. 21-23.— I have found David, my servant: with My holy oil I have anointed him; for My hand shall help him, and My arm shall strengthen him. ℣. The enemy shall have no advantage over him; nor the son of iniquity have power to hurt him.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. xci. 13. — ℣. The just man shall flourish like the palm tree : he shall grow up like the cedar of Libanus. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Justus ut palma florébit : sicut cedrus Líbani multiplicábitur. Allelúia.

Gospel : Homo péregre proficiscens, p. 257.

Offertory. Ps. lxxxviii. 25.— My truth and My mercy shall be with him : and in My name shall his horn be exalted.

Offertórium.—Véritas mea, et misericórdia mea cum ipso : et in nómine meo exaltábitur cornu ejus.

Secret.—Sanctify, we beseech Thee, O Lord, these gifts, which we offer on the festival of Thy holy Bishop Nicholas ; that by them our life may be ever directed in adversity and prosperity. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Sanctífica, quaesumus, Dómine Deus, haec múnera, quae in solemnitáte sancti Antístitis tui Nicolái offérimus : ut per ea, vita nostra inter advérsa et próspera ubíque dirigátur. Per Dóminum.

Communion. Ps. lxxxviii. 36-38.—Once I have sworn by my holiness, his seed shall endure for ever : and his throne as the sun before Me, and as the moon perfect for ever ; and a faithful witness in heaven.*

Communio. — Semel jurávi in sancto meo : semen ejus in aetérnum mannébit, et sedes ejus sicut sol in conspéctu meo, et sicut luna perfécta in aetérnum, et testis in coelo fidélis.

Postcommunion. — May the sacrifice, O Lord, of which we have partaken on this feast day of the holy bishop Nicholas, be to us a sure defence for evermore. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Sacrifícia, quae súmpsimus, Dómine, pro solemnitáte sancti Pontíficis tui Nicolái, sempitérna nos protectióne consérvent. Per Dóminum.

DECEMBER 7.

St. Ambrose, BISHOP, CONFESSOR AND DOCTOR.†—Double.— White vestments.

—St. Ambrose, born at Treves towards 335, was one of the four great doctors of the Latin Church. When he was still in his cradle some bees settled in his mouth as if to make honey there, presaging his future great eloquence.

While he was governor of Milan, Ambrose was providentially chosen as bishop by the voice of a child and he became the indefatigable preacher mentioned in the Epistle and Gospel. He opposed the heretics, humbled the emperor Theodosius and brought into the Church St. Augustine, whose conversion was worth that of entire kingdoms. He enriched the Divine office with sacred hymns, caused the psalms

* Here is meant the rainbow which testified to the divine promise after the flood.
† See Historical Summary, p. 1010.

to be chanted by the whole congregation divided into two choirs, and instituted the Ambrosian rite. This great bishop died in 397, during the night of Saturday in Holy Week, after having received the adorable body of Jesus Who received him into eternal beatitude.—Like Ambrose, let us always with gentle firmness maintain God's rights.

Mass : In médio, p. 263, except the following.

Commemoration of the Feria and also of the Vigil, p. 1190.

Graduále. — Ecce sacérdos magnus, qui in diébus suis plácuit Deo. ℣. Non est invéntus símilis illi, qui conserváret legem Excélsi.

Gradual. Ecclus. xliv. 44, 16. Ibid. 20.—Behold a great priest, who in his days pleased God. ℣. There was not any found like to him, who kept the law of the Most High.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Jurávit Dóminus, et non paenitébit eum : Tu es sacérdos in aetérnum, secúndum órdinem Melchísedech. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. cix. 4. —℣. The Lord hath sworn, and He will not repent. Thou art a priest for ever according to the order of Melchisedech. Alleluia.

Offertórium. — Véritas mea, et misericórdia mea cum ipso : et in nómine meo exaltábitur cornu ejus.

Offertory. Ps. lxxxviii. 25.—My truth and My mercy shall be with him : and in My name shall his horn be exalted.

Secréta. — Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, múnera tuae majestáti obláta, per intercessiónem beáti Ambrósii Confessóris tui atque Pontíficis, ad perpétuam nobis fac proviníre salútem. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—O Almighty and everlasting God, grant that by the intercession of blessed Ambrose, Thy bishop and confessor, the offerings made to Thy majesty may procure for us eternal salvation. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Feria, and also of the Vigil, p. 1192.

Commúnio. — Semel jurávi in sancto meo : semen ejus in aetérnum manébit, et sedes ejus sicut sol in conspéctu meo, et sicut luna perfécta in aetérnum, et testis in coelo fidélis.

Communion. Ps. lxxxviii. 36-38.—Once have I sworn by My holiness, his seed shall endure for ever : and his throne as the sun before Me, and as the moon perfect for ever ; and a faithful witness in heaven. *

Postcommúnio. — Sacraménta salútis nostrae suscipiéntes, concéde, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus : ut beáti Ambrósii

Postcommunion.—To us, O Lord, who have received the sacraments of our salvation, grant, we beseech Thee, that at all times and in all places, we may be succoured by the prayers of blessed Ambrose, Thy confessor and bishop, in whose honour we have this day offered up our sacrifice.

* See Remark 1, p. 1188.

Confessóris tui atque Pontíficis, nos ubíque orátio ádjuvet; in cujus veneratióne haec tuae obtúlimus majestáti. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of the Feria, and also of the Vigil.

At the end of the Mass: Gospel of the Vigil, p. 1191.

SAME DAY.

The Vigil of the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

A novena of prayers usually prepares souls for to-morrow's great feast, of which the vigil was in 1879 extended by Leo XIII to the whole Church.

Let us on this day ask the Immaculate to purify our hearts still more for to-morrow's solemnity (Collect).

Introit. Ps. lxv. 16.—Come and hear, all ye that fear God: and I will tell you what great things the Lord hath done for my soul. Shout with joy to God, all the earth, sing ye a psalm unto His name: give glory unto His praise. Glory be to the Father.

Introítus. — Veníte, audíte, et narrábo, omnes qui timétis Deum, quanta fecit Dóminus ánimae meae. Ps. Jubiláte Deo omnis térra: psalmum dicíte nómini ejus: date glóriam laudi ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

The Gloria in excelsis is not said.

Collect.—O God, Who in a wondrous wise didst, in her conception, preserve the Mother of Thine only-begotten Son from the taint of original sin: grant, we beseech Thee, that strengthened by her prayers, and being made clean of heart, we may devoutly assist in the keeping of her holy festival. Through our Lord Orémus. — Deus, qui Unigéniti tui Matrem ab origináli culpa in sua Conceptióne mirabíliter praeservásti: da, quaesumus; ut sua nos intercessióne munítos, corde mundos fácias suae interésse festivitáti. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Second of the Feria, Third of the Holy Ghost, p. 161.

Epistle. Lesson from the Book of Wisdom. Ecclus. xxiv. 23-21.—As the vine I have brought forth a pleasant odour, and my flowers are the fruit of Epistola.—Léctio libri Sapiéntiae.—Ego quasi vitis fructificávi suavitátem odóris: et flores mei, fructus honóris et honestátis. Ego mater pulchrae dilectiónis, et timóris, et agnitiónis, et sanctae spei. In me grátia omnis viae et veritátis: in me omnis spes vitae et virtútis. Transíte ad me omnes qui concupíscitis me, et a generatiónibus meis impleémini. Spíritus enim meus super mel dulcis, et heréditas mea super mel et favum. Memória mea in generatiónes saeculórum. Qui edunt me, adhuc esúrient: et qui bibunt me, adhuc sítient, Qui audit me, non confundétur: et qui operántur in me, non peccábunt. Qui elúcidant me vitam aetérnam habébunt.

honour and riches. I am the mother of fair love, and of fear, and of knowledge, and of holy hope. In me is all grace of the way and of the truth, in me is all hope of life and of virtue. Come over to me, all ye that desire me, and be filled with my fruits; for my spirit is sweet above honey, and my inheritance above honey and the honey-comb. My memory is unto everlasting generations. They that eat me, shall yet hunger; and they that drink me, shall yet thirst. He that hearkeneth to me shall not be confounded, and they that work by me shall not sin. They that explain me shall have life everlasting.

Graduále. — Sapiéntia aedificávit sibi domum, excídit colúmnas septem. ℣. Fundaménta ejus in móntibus sanctis: díligit Dóminus portas Sion super ómnia tabernácula Jacob.

Gradual. Prov. ix. 1.—Wisdom hath built herself a house, she hath hewn her out seven pillars. ℣. Her foundations are in the holy mountains: the Lord loveth the gates of Sion above all the dwellings of Jacob.

✠ Inítium Sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—Liber generatiónis Jesu Christi fílii David, fílii Abraham. Abraham génuit Isaac. Isaac autem génuit Jacob. Jacob autem génuit Judam, et fratres ejus. Judas autem génuit Phares, et Zaram de Thamar. Phares autem génuit Esron. Esron autem génuit Aram. Aram autem génuit Amínadab. Amínadab autem génuit Naásson. Naásson autem génuit Salmon. Salmon autem génuit Booz de Rahab. Booz autem génuit Obed ex Ruth. Obed autem begot Jesse; and Jesse begot David the King. And David the king begot Solomon, of her who had been the wife of Urias; and Solomon begot Roboam; and Roboam begot Abia; and Abia begot Asa; and Asa begot Josaphat; and Josaphat begot Joram; and Joram begot Ozias; and Ozias begot Joatham; and Joatham begot Achaz; and Achaz begot Ezechias; and Ezechias begot Manasses; and Manasses begot Amon; and Amon begot Josias; and Josias begot Jechonias and his brethren in the transmigration of Babylon. And after the transmigration of Babylon, Jechonias begot Salathiel; Salathiel begot Zorobabel; and Zorobabel begot Abiud; and Abiud begot Eliacim; and Eliacim begot Azor; and Azor begot Sadoc; and Sadoc begot Achim; and Achim begot Eliud; and Eliud begot Eleazar; and Eleazar begot Mathan; and Mathan begot Jacob; and Jacob begot Joseph, the husband of Mary, of whom was born Jesus; Who is called Christ.

✠ Beginning of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew i. 1-16. — The book of the generation of Jesus Christ, the Son of David, the Son of Abraham. Abraham begot Isaac; and Isaac begot Jacob; and Jacob begot Judas, and his brethren; and Judas begot Phares and Zara of Thamar; and Phares begot Esron; and Esron begot Aram; and Aram begot Aminadab; and Aminadba begot Naasson; and Naasson begot Salmon; and Salmon begot Booz of Rahab; and Booz begot Obed of Ruth; and Obed

génuit Jesse. Jesse autem génuit David regem. David autem rex génuit Salonónem ex ea, quae fuit Uríae. Sálomon autem génuit Róboam. Róboam autem génuit Abiam. Abias autem génuit Asa. Asa autem génuit Jósaphat. Jósaphat autem génuit Joram. Joram autem génuit Oziam. Ozias autem génuit Josíam. Jóatham autem génuit Achaz. Achaz autem génuit Ezechíam. Ezechías autem génuit Manássen. Manásses autem génuit Amon. Amon autem génuit Josiam. Josias autem génuit Jechoníam, et fratres ejus in transmigratióne Babylónis. Et post transmigratiónem Babylónis: Jechonías génuit Saláthiel. Saláthiel autem génuit Zoróbabel. Zoróbabel autem génuit Abíud. Abíud autem génuit Elíacim. Elíacim autem génuit Azor. Azor autem génuit Sadoc. Sadoc autem génuit Achim. Achim autem génuit Elíud. Elíud autem génuit Eleázar. Eleázar autem génuit Mathan. Mathan autem génuit Jacob. Jacob autem génuit Joseph virum Maríae, de qua natus est Jesus, qui vocátur Christus.

Offertory. Song of Sol. vi. 2. —I to my beloved and my beloved to me, who feedeth among the lilies.

Offertórium. — Ego diléсto meo, et diléctus meus mihi, qui páscitur interlília.

Secret.—May our offering be made acceptable in the sight of Thy mercy, O Lord, by the prayer of the Immaculate Mother of God: whom, in order

Secréta. — Múnera nostra, Dómine, apud tuam cleméntiam immaculátae Dei Genitrícis comméndet orátio: quam ab omni origináli labe praeservásti; ut dignum Fílii tui habitáculum éffici mererétur: Qui tecum.

that she might be a fitting dwelling place for Thy Son, Thou didst preserve from all stain of original sin. Who liveth and reigneth.

Second of the Feria; Third of the Holy Ghost, p. 161.

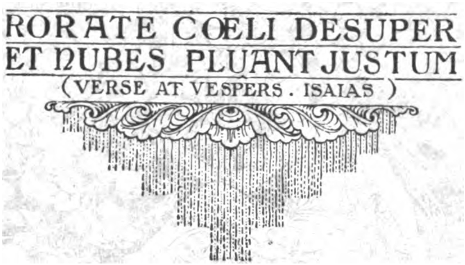
Common Preface, p. 51.



Commúnio.—Quae est ista, quae progréditur quasi auróra consúrgens, pulchra ut luna, elécta ut sol, terríbilis ut castrórum ácies ordináta?

Communion. Song of Sol. vi. 9.—Who is she that cometh forth as the morning rising, fair as the morn, bright as the sun, terrible as an army set in array?

Postcommúnio. — Concéde miséricors Deus, fragilitáti nostrae praesídium: ut, qui immaculátae Conceptiónis Genitrícis unigéniti Fílii tui nativitátem praevenímus; intercessiónis ejus auxílio a nostris iniquitátibus resurgámus. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—Afford us, we beseech Thee, O Lord, support in our weakness: and grant, that we who are preparing to keep the festival of the Immaculate Conception of the Mother of Thine only-begotten Son, may, helped by her prayers, rise up from our iniquities. Through the same Christ our Lord.

Second of the Feria; Third of the Holy Ghost, p. 161.

The Immaculate Conception.

DECEMBER 8.

The Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary.*

Double of the First Class.—White vestments.

Feast of Obligation (save in Countries where an exception has been made by a Concordat).

Having decided from all eternity to make Mary Mother of the Incarnate Word (Epistle), God willed that she should crush the head of the serpent from the moment of her conception. He covered her "with a mantle of holiness" (Introit) and made her soul, "which He preserved from all stain, a worthy dwelling place for His Son" (Collect). The feast of the "Conception" of the Virgin was, from the eighth century, celebrated in the East on December 9, from the ninth century in Ireland on May 3, and in the eleventh century in England on December 8. The Benedictines with St. Anselm, and the Franciscans with Duns Scotus (1308) favoured the feast of the "Immaculate Conception," which in 1128 was kept in Anglo-Saxon monasteries. In the fifteenth century Pope Sixtus IV, a Franciscan, erected at the Vatican the Sixtine Chapel in honour of the Conception of the Virgin. And on December 8, 1854, Pius IX. officially proclaimed this great dogma, making himself the mouthpiece of all the Christian tradition summed up in the words of the Angel: "Hail Mary, full of grace, the Lord is with thee, blessed art thou among women" (Gospel) "Thou art all beautiful, O Mary, and the original stain is not in thee" says in truth the alleluia verse. Like the dawn which announces the day (Communion), Mary precedes the star which will soon illumine the world of souls. Bringing to us her Son, it is she who first appears in the liturgical cycle. Let us ask God "to heal us and to deliver us from all our sins" (Secret, Postcommunion) in order that by the graces which specially belong to the feast of the "Immaculate" we may become more worthy of receiving Jesus in our hearts when He comes into them on December 25.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his parishioners.

FIRST VESPERS (DEC. 7).

Ant. 1. Tota pulchra es, María * et mácula originális non est in te.

Ant. 1.—Thou art all fair, O Mary: and the original stain is not in thee.

2. Vestiméntum tuum * cándidum quasi nix, et fácies tua sicut sol.

2. Thy vesture is white as snow; and thy face is as the sun.

3. Tu glória, Jerúsalem, * tu laetítia Israel, tu honorificéntia pópuli nostri.

3. Jud. xv. 10.—Thou art the glory of Jerusalem; thou art the joy of Israel; thou art the honour of our people.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1017.

4. Blessed art thou, O Virgin Mary, by the Lord the Most High, God above all women upon the earth.

4. Benedícta es tu * Virgo María, a Dómino Deo excélso prae ómnibus muliéribus super terram.

5. Song of Sol. i. 3.—Draw us O immaculate Virgin: we will run after thee in the odour of thy ointments.

5. Trahe nos * Virgo immaculáta, post te currémus in odórem unguentórum tuórum.

Chapter. Prov. viii. 22.—The Lord possessed me in the beginning of His ways, before He made anything from the beginning. I was set up from eternity, and of old before the earth was made. The depths were not as yet, and I was already conceived.

Capitulum.—Dóminus possédit me in inítio viárum suárum, ántequam quidquam fáceret a princípio. Ab aetérno ordináta sum, et ex antíquis ántequam terra fíeret. * Nondum erant abyssi, et ego jam concépta eram.

Hymn: Ave Maris stella, p. 187.

℣. To-day is the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

℣. Immaculáta Concéptio est hódie sanctae Maríae Vírginis.

℟. Who with her virginal foot crushed the head of the serpent.

℟. Quae serpéntis caput virgíneo pede contrívit.

Antiphon at the Magnificat. Luke i. 48.—All generations shall call me blessed; because He Who is powerful hath done great things to me. Alleluia

Ant.—Beátam me dicent * omnes generatiónes quia fecit mihi magna qui potens est, allelúia.

Commemoration of the Feria only.

MASS.

Introit. Isa. lxi. 10.—I will greatly rejoice in the Lord, and my soul shall be joyful in my God: for He hath clothed me with the garments of salvation, and with the robe of justice He hath covered me, as a bride adorned with her jewels. Ps. xxix. 2.

Intróitus. — Gaudens gaudébo in Dómino, et exsultábit ánima mea in Deo meo: quia índuit me vestiméntis salútis: et induménto justítiae circúmdedit me, quasi sponsam ornátam monílibus suis. Ps. Exaltábo te, Dómine, quóniam suscepísti me: nec delectásti inimícos meos super me. ℣. Glória Patri.

I will extol Thee, O Lord, for Thou hast upheld me: and hast not made my enemies to rejoice over me. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus.—Deus, qui per Immaculátam Vírginis Conceptiónem dignum Fílio tuo habitáculum praeparásti: quaesumus; ut, qui ex morte ejúsdem Fílii tui praevísa, eam ab omni labe praeservásti, nos quoque mundos ejus intercessióne ad te perveníre concédas. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Collect.—O God Who, by the Immaculate Conception of the Virgin, didst make ready a fitting dwelling-place for Thy Son: grant, we beseech Thee, that as through the death foreseen by Thee of the same Thy Son, Thou didst preserve His Mother unsullied by sin, so us, likewise, pure in heart, Thou wouldst make to come unto Thee. Through the same Lord.

A Commemoration of the Feria is made.

Epístola. — Léctio libri Sapiéntiae.—Dóminus possédit me in inítio viárum suárum, ántequam quidquam fáceret a princípio. Ab aetérno ordináta sum, et ex antíquis, ántequam terra fíeret. Nondum erant abyssi, et ego jam concépta eram: necdum fontes aquárum erúperant: necdum montes gravi mole constíterant: ante colles ego parturiébar: adhuc terram non fécerat, et flúmina, et cárdines orbis terrae. Quando praeparábat coelos, áderam: quando certa lege et gyro vallábat abyssos: quando aethera fírmábat sursum, et librábat fontes aquárum: quando circúmdabat mari términum suum, et legem ponébat aquis, ne transírent fines suos: quando appendébat fundaménta terrae. Cum eo eram cuncta compónens: et delectábar per síngulos dies, ludens coram eo

Epistle. Lesson from the Book of Wisdom. Prov. viii. 22-35.—The Lord possessed me in the beginning of His ways, before He made anything, from the beginning. I was set up from eternity, and of old, before the earth was made. The depths were not as yet, and I was already conceived; neither had the fountains of waters as yet sprung out; the mountains with their huge bulk had not as yet been established: before the hills I was brought forth; He had not yet made the earth, nor the rivers, nor the poles of the world. When He prepared the heavens, I was there; when with a certain law and compass He enclosed the depths; when He established the sky above, and poised the fountains of waters; when He compassed the sea with its bounds, and set a law to the waters that they should not pass their limits; when He balanced the foundations of the earth; I was with Him, forming all things, and was delighted every day, playing before Him at all times, playing in the world: and my delight is to be with the children of men. Now therefore, ye children, hear me: blessed are they that keep my ways. Hear instruction, and be wise, and refuse it not. Blessed is the man that heareth me, and that watcheth daily at my gates, and waiteth at the posts of my doors. He that shall find me shall find life, and shall have salvation from the Lord.

omni témpore: ludens in orbe terrárum: et delíciae meae esse cum fíliis hóminum. Nunc ergo, fílii, audíte me: Beáti, qui custódiunt vias meas. Audíte disciplínam, et estóte sapiéntes, et nolíte abjícere eam. Beátus homo, qui audit me, et qui vígilat ad fores meas quotídie, et obsérvat ad postes óstii mei. Qui me invénerit, invéniet vitam, et háuriet salútem a Dómino.

Gradual.—Judith xiii. 23.—Blessed art thou, O Virgin Mary, by the Lord the most high God above all women upon the earth. ℣. Thou art the glory of Jerusalem, thou art the joy of Israel, thou art the honour of our people.

Graduále.—Benedícta es tu, Virgo María, a Dómino Deo excélso, prae ómnibus muliéribus super terram. ℣. Tu glória Jerúsalem, tu laetítia Israël, tu honorificéntia pópuli nostri.

Alleluia, alleluia.—Song of Sol. iv. 7.—℣. Thou art all fair, O Mary, and there is in thee no stain of original sin. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Tota pulchra es, María: et mácula originális non est in te. Allelúia.

In Votive Masses after Septuagesima, the Alleluias and ℣. are omitted and the following is said:

Tract. Ps. lxxxvi. 1.—The foundations thereof are in the holy mountains: the Lord loveth the gates of Sion above all the tabernacles of Jacob. ℣. Glorious things are said of thee, O city of God. ℣. A man is born in her, and the Highest Himself hath founded her.

Tractus. — Fundaménta ejus in móntibus sanctis: díligit Dóminus portas Sion super ómnia tabernácula Jacob. ℣. Gloriósa dicta sunt de te, cívitas Dei. ℣. Homo natus est in ea, et ipse fundávit eam Altíssimus.

In Paschal Time the Gradual is omitted, and in its place is said:

Alleluia, alleluia. Judith xv. 10.—℣. Thou art the glory of Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Tu glória Jerúsalem, tu laetítia

Israel, tu honorificéntia pópuli nostri.

Jerusalem, thou art the joy of Israel, thou art the honour of our people.

Allelúia.—℣. Tota pulchra es María : et mácula originális non est in te. Allelúia.

Alleluia. Song of Sol. iv. 7.—℣. Thou art all fair, O Mary, and there is not a spot in thee. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo témpore : Missus est Angelus Gábriel a Deo in civitátem Galilaeae, cui nomen Názareth, ad Vírginem desponsátam viro, cui nomen erat Joseph, de domo David, et nomen Vírginis María. Et ingréssus Angelus ad eam dixit : Ave, grátia plena : Dóminus tecum : Benedícta tu in muliéribus.—Credo.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke. i. 26-28.—The Angel Gabriel was sent from God into a city of Galilee, called Nazareth, to a virgin espoused to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David : and the virgin's name was Mary. And the Angel being come in, said unto her : Hail, full of grace, the Lord is with thee : blessed art thou among women.—Creed.—and said during the Octave.

Offertórium.—Ave Maria, grátia plena : Dóminus tecum : benedícta tu in muliéribus, allelúia.

Offertory. Luke i. 28.—Hail Mary, full of grace ; the Lord is with thee ; blessed art thou among women, alleluia.

Secréta.—Salutárem hóstiam, quam in solemnitáte Immaculátae Conceptiónis beátae Vírginis Maríae tibi, Dómine, offérimus, súscipe et praesta : ut, sicut illam tua grátia praeveniénte ab omni labe immúnam profitémur : ita ejus intercessióne a culpis ómnibus liberémur. Per Dóminum.

Secret. Accept, O Lord, the saving oblation which we offer Thee on the solemn festival of the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary, and grant that, as we confess her to be free from all stain of sin by Thy prevenient grace ; so through her intercession we may be delivered from all our transgressions. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Feria.—Preface of our Blessed Lady, Et te in Conceptióne Immaculáta, p. 57, which is said during the Octave.

In Votive Masses: In commemoratione is said instead of In solemnitate.

Communion.—Glorious things are told of thee, O Mary, for He Who is mighty hath done great things unto thee.

Commúnio.—Gloriósa dicta sunt de te, María: quia fecit tibi magna qui potens est.

Postcommunion. — May the sacraments which we have received, O Lord our God, repair in us the wounds of that sin; from which Thou didst in a singular manner preserve the Immaculate Conception of Blessed Mary. Through our Lord Postcommúnio. — Sacraménta quae súmpsimus, Dómine Deus noster: illíus in nobis culpae vúlnera réparent; a qua Immaculátam beátae Maríae Conceptiónem singuláriter praeservásti. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of the Feria.

SECOND VESPERS (Dec. 8).

As in First Vespers: p. 1195, except.

Isa. xi. 1.—This day a rod came forth from the root of Jesse: this day Mary was conceived without any stain of sin: this day the head of the old serpent was crushed by her. Alleluia.

Ant.—Hódie egréssa est virga de radíce * Jesse: hódie sine ulla peccáti labe concépta est María: hódie contrítum est ab ea caput serpéntis antíqui, allelúia.

Commemoration of the Feria.

DECEMBER 9.

Second Day within the Octave.—Semi-double.—White vestments.

The Church prolongs during eight days the feast of Mary's victory over the devil and repeats the Mass celebrated yesterday.

The most important feasts of the Virgin are the Assumption and the Immaculate Conception, both of the first class and order with octave. That is why each day the Credo is said, that profession of faith fixed at the Council of Constantinople which was only chanted in the more solemn celebrations.

Let us prepare for the birth of Christ in our hearts by adorning them with a little of His mother's purity.

Mass is as on the Feast-day, p. 1190; Second Collect of the Feria, Third Collect of the Holy Ghost, p. 161.

DECEMBER 10.

St. Melchiades, POPE, MARTYR.*—Semi-double.—Red vestments.

" At Rome, death of St. Melchiades, Pope, who, after undergoing great sufferings in the persecution of Maximian, saw peace restored to the Church and died peacefully in 314 " (Roman Martyrology).

Mass : Státuit, p. 215.

DECEMBER 11.

St. Damasus, POPE, CONFESSOR.†—Semi-double.—White vestments.

St. Damasus, a Spaniard by birth, succeeded Liberius in the see of Peter in 366. He thus shared the dignity of the one whom the Epistle calls " the Holy Pontiff, innocent without stain, higher than the heavens." He governed the Church seventeen years and showed himself the faithful and prudent servant mentioned in the Gospel, to whom " the Lord entrusts His family to be nourished by him in due season."

The era of persecution being over, that of heresy began with the fourth century. Wherefore Damasus confirmed the second ecumenical council of Constantinople which had condemned Arianism. St. Jerome, by his command, translated the New Testament into Latin.

This holy Pope increased the splendour of worship by his rules for the singing of psalms and by decreeing that the Gloria Patri should be said at the end of psalms, thus baptising them, so to speak, in the Trinity. He died in 384.

Mass : Sacerdótes, p. 259, except :

Orémus.—Exáudi, Dómine, preces nostras: et, interveniénte beáto Dámaso, Confessóre tuo atque Pontífice, indulgéntiam nobis tríbue placátus, et pacem. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Hear, O Lord, our prayers; and, appeased by the intercession of blessed Damasus Thy confessor and bishop, grant us pardon and peace. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Octave, p. 1197, and of the Feria.

Graduále. — Ecce sacérdos magnus, qui in diébus suis plácuit Deo. ℣. Non est invéntus símilis illi, qui conserváret legem Excélsi.

Gradual. Ecclus. xliv. 16.—Behold a great priest, who in his days pleased God. Ibid. 20.—℣. There was not any found like to him, who kept the law of the Most High.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Tu es sacérdos in aetérnum secúndum órdinem Melchísedech. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. cix. 4.—℣. Thou art a priest for ever, according to the order of Melchisedech. Alleluia.

On account of the Octave the Credo is said.

Offertórium.—Invéni David servum meum, óleo sancto

Offertory. Ps. lxxxviii. 21, 22—I have found David My servant; with My holy oil I have anointed him, for My hand shall help him and My arm shall strengthen him.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1107. † Ibid., p. 1010.

meo unxi eum: manus enim mea auxiliábitur ei, et bráchium meum confortábit eum.

Secret.—May the offering of Thy holy people be accepted by Thee, O Lord, in honour of Thy saints, through whose merits they are sensible of having received help in tribulation. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Accépta tibi sit, Dómine, sacráta plebis oblátio, pro tuórum honóre Sanctórum: quorum se méritis percepísse de tribulatióne cognóscit auxílium. Per Dóminum.

Communion. Matt. xxv. 20, 21.—Lord, Thou didst deliver to me five talents, behold, I have gained other five over and above: Well done, thou good and faithful servant, because thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will place thee over many things: enter thou into the joy of Thy Lord.

Commúnio.—Dómine, quinque talénta tradidísti mihi, ecce ália quinque superlucrátus sum. Euge serve bone et fidélis, quia in pauca fuísti fidélis, supra multa te constítuam, intra in gáudium Dómini tui.

Postcommunion. — Vouchsafe to Thy faithful people, O Lord, we beseech Thee, ever gladly to venerate Thy saints, and ever to be strengthened by their holy prayers. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio.—Da, quaesumus, Dómine, fidélibus pópulis Sanctórum tuórum semper veneratióne laetári: et eórum perpétua supplicatióne muníri. Per Dóminum.

December 12.

Fifth Day of the Octave.—Semi-double.—White vestments.

To show that the Mother of Jesus occupies a special place in her worship, the Church reserves for her a Preface which is said at each of her feasts, and in which are noted, at each particular feast, the different mysteries of the life of Mary. Wherefore, during all this octave, the priest declares "that it is fitting and salutary to render thanks to God on this feast of the Immaculate Conception of Blessed Mary ever Virgin, who conceived His only Son by the operation of the Holy Ghost and who without losing her virginity gave birth to Jesus Christ our Lord."

Let us give thanks to God for this privilege of the Immaculate Conception and also for the feast which celebrates it each year, allowing us to imitate more and more this model of all purity.

Mass as on the feast, p. 1190; Second Collect of the Feria, Third Collect of the Holy Ghost, p. 161.

DECEMBER 13.

St. Lucy, VIRGIN, MARTYR.*—Double.—Red vestments.

Born in Sicily towards the end of the third century, of noble origin, St. Lucy, as the Gospel twice reminds us, gave away all her riches to the poor and when she had nothing more she gave herself to Jesus (Epistle).

Whilst the foolish virgins neglected to fill their lamps with the "oil of gladness" of which the Introit speaks, Lucy, whose name signifies light, waited with her lighted lamp in hand, that is with her soul filled with grace, the coming of her Spouse.

"Pure hearts are the temples of the Holy Ghost," she declared to her judge. It is this Spirit, also symbolised by the "oil of gladness" as we are told in the ceremonies of Maundy-Thursday, an oil that gave suppleness and strength to her soul in such a miraculous way that St. Lucy resisted her executioners unto death rather than lose the treasure of her virginity. Wherefore her name occurs in the Canon of the Mass (Second list, p. 65), and is repeated every day by thousands of priests who glorify God in her. She died in 303.

The lighted lamp in hand is the soul in a state of grace: let us in this season of Advent wait for the Spouse who will soon come.

MASS.

All as in the Mass: Dilexisti, p. 1197, except:

Orémus.—Exaúdi nos, Deus salutáris noster: ut sicut de beátae Luciae Virginis et Martyris tuae festivitáte gaúdemus: ita piae devotiónis erudiámur afféctu. Per Dóminum.	Collect.—Graciously hear us, O God of our salvation, and grant that we, who keep with joy the festival of Blessed Lucy, Thy Virgin, may, by our feeling of loving devotion, advance in our knowledge of Thee. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Octave, p. 1197, and of the Feria.

Graduále. — Dilexísti justítiam et odísti iniquitátem: proptérea unxit te Deus, Deus tuus, óleo laetítiae.	Gradual. Ps. xliv. 8.—Thou hast loved justice, and hated iniquity. ℣. Therefore God, thy God, hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness.
Allelúia, Allelúia.—℣. Diffúsa est grátia in lábiis tuis: proptérea benedíxit te Deus in aetérnum. Allelúia.	Alleluia, alleluia. Ibid. 3.—Grace is poured abroad in thy lips, therefore hath God blessed thee for ever. Alleluia.

Gospel: Simile est, p. 288.

On account of the Octave, the Credo is said.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009.

Offertory. Ps. xliv. 15, 16.—After her shall virgins be brought to the King: her neighbours shall be brought to Thee with gladness and rejoicing: they shall be brought into the temple to the Lord the King.

Offertórium.—Afferéntur regi vírgines post eam: próximae ejus afferéntur tibi in laetítia, et exsultatióne: adducéntur in templum regi Dómino.

Commemoration of the Octave, p. 1199, and of the Feria.
Preface of the Blessed Virgin Mary, p. 56.

Communion. Ps. cxviii., 161, 162.—Princes have persecuted me without cause, and my heart hath been in awe of Thy words: I will rejoice at Thy words, as one that hath found great spoil.

Commúnio. — Príncipes persecúti sunt me gratis, et a verbis tuis formidávit cor meum: laetábor ego super elóquia tua, quasi qui invénit spólia multa.

DECEMBER 14.

Seventh Day within the Octave.—Semi-double.—White vestments.

To symbolise the stainless purity of the Virgin, the priest puts on white vestments which in earlier times were the only ones used. The ancients said that white was a divine colour. Daniel (vii. 9) depicts God as appearing clothed in white. The Evangelists tell us that at the Transfiguration the garments of Jesus were of "dazzling whiteness" (Mark ix. 2). The liturgy of the feast of the Immaculate applies this text to the Virgin, saying that the "garment of salvation" (Introit) with which God has clothed her is a "vesture as white as snow" (Second Ant. at Vespers).

Let us with the Church ask the Blessed Virgin on her feast that we may "by her intercession be purified from all our sins" (Collect), and let us be in readiness to receive Jesus.

Mass as on the feast, p. 1196; Second Collect of the Feria, Third Collect of the Holy Ghost, p. 161.

DECEMBER 15.

Octave Day of the Immaculate Conception.—Greater double.—White vestments.

The Nativity of the Blessed Virgin on September 8 is happily chosen as the first of the feasts of Mary during this Season when the Church awaits "the Emmanuel whom a Virgin shall conceive" (Communion of the Wednesday in Advent Ember Week).

Devotion to the Mother of God holds an important place in the liturgy of Advent. One may say that the period comprising Advent, Christmas and Epiphany constitutes the real Season or Month of Mary.

The Church does not yet possess Jesus, but she already has His Mother, "the beginning of Christ" as Bossuet calls her. This period represents the first phase of the existence of the Saviour on earth. The divine Infant rests gently in Mary, a living tabernacle which the pious sculptors of the Middle Ages wished to honour when they made a statue of the Virgin as a tabernacle where the Eucharist would be preserved.—During this season of Advent let us fix our eyes on the Virgin who is to give us Christ.

Mass as on the feast, p. 1196. Second Collect of the Feria.

DECEMBER 16.

St. Eusebius, BISHOP, MARTYR.*—Semi-double.—Red vestments.

St. Eusebius was born in Sardinia in the fourth century, at a time when Arianism was bent on undermining the dogma of the divinity of Christ. Having become bishop of Vercelli in Italy, he seconded the efforts of Pope Liberius and of his successor St. Damasus, whose feast we celebrated a few days ago. The Arians in their irritation obtained his exile after making him suffer much ill-treatment.

The Mass describes the numerous persecutions he underwent at the hands of these heretics. Constant in the midst of trials, as the Epistle relates, he encouraged the clergy and people of Vercelli by the letters he wrote to them. The Church confers on him the title of Martyr, although he did not have to shed his blood, on account of his sufferings generously undergone and his intrepidity before death (Gospel). († 371.)

Let us confess with Eusebius the divinity of the Messiah whose advent we are awaiting.

Mass : Sacerdótes Dei, p. 219. Commemoration of the Feria.

DECEMBER 20.

Vigil of St. Thomas, APOSTLE.—Purple vestments.

Like nearly all the feasts of the Apostles, that of St. Thomas is preceded by a vigil which will enable our soul to prepare for it in a holy manner The Gospel recalls the vocation of this great Apostle who had the happiness continually to hear the word of Christ and to enjoy His intimacy. " I have called you friends because I have made known to you all that I have heard from my Father." " God," adds the Epistle, " has chosen him from among all men. He has given him His commandments, the law of life and of instruction."

Wherefore the Offertory declares that, having been chosen by Jesus to be one of the twelve Princes who would govern His Church, " the Lord has crowned him with glory and honour and has given him authority over the works of His hands."

" The Lord," the Epistle also says, " has given him his share of inheritance among the twelve tribes." The country of the Parthians and Persians was allotted to St. Thomas when the Apostles divided the world among themselves. Let us prepare for to-morrow's solemnity in union with the Holy Church.

Mass : Ego autem, p. 202. Commemoration of the Feria, Third Collect, Deus qui de beátae, p. 153.

If the Vigil falls on one of the Ember Days, the Mass is that of Ember Days with commemoration of the Vigil, but without the Gospel at the end.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010, below.

December 21.

St. Thomas, Apostle.*—Double of the Second Class.—Red vestments.

In the Mass of St. Thomas, the liturgy reminds us that the Apostles are the foundation of the Church of which Christ is the chief corner-stone (Epistle); that is why their feasts were formerly kept like Sundays.

The Gospel relates the famous scene which occurred in the coenaculum after the Lord's Resurrection. St. Thomas doubted: and it was only when Jesus made him put his finger into His wounds that, passing suddenly from incredulity to ardent faith, he exclaimed: "My Lord and My God." That finger, says a Father of the Church, has become the master of the world because it showed him the reality of the flesh of Jesus Christ. Let us therefore believe in the great mystery of an Incarnate Word which will soon be manifested to the world.—The name of St. Thomas figures in the Canon of the Mass (First list, p. 59).

The elevation having been instituted as a reply to the heresy of Berengarius who denied the real presence, let us contemplate in a spirit of faith the sacred elements when they are raised and say with St. Thomas: "My Lord and my God," a practice enriched by Pius X. with an indulgence of seven years and seven quarantines and a plenary indulgence once a week on the ordinary conditions.—The double elevation recalls the real separation of our Lord's Body and Blood on the Cross.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his parishioners.

FIRST VESPERS (Dec. 20).

The Common of Apostles p. 206, except:

Antiphon at the Magnificat. John xx. 29.—Because thou hast seen Me, Thomas, thou hast believed; blessed are they that have not seen, and have believed.

Ant.—Quia vidísti me * Thoma, credidísti: beáti qui non vidérunt, et credidérunt, allelúia.

Commemoration of the Feria. Ant. O Clavis or O Oriens, p. 350.

* See Historical Summary, pp. 1004 and 1,007

MASS.

Intróitus. — Mihi autem nimis honoráti sunt amíci tui, Deus: nimis confortátus est principátus eórum. Ps. Dómine, probásti me, et cognovísti me: tu cognovísti sessiónem meam, et resurrectiónem meam. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. cxxxviii 17.—To me Thy friends, O God, are made exceedingly honourable: their principality is exceedingly strengthened. Ps. Ibid. 1, 2. Lord Thou hast proved me, and known me; Thou hast known my sitting-down, and my rising up.* ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus.—Da nobis, quaesumus, Dómine, beáti Apóstoli tui Thomae solemnitátibus gloriári, ut ejus semper et patrocíniis sublevémur; et fidem cóngrua devotióne sectémur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Grant, O Lord, that it may be our glory to keep the feast-day of Thy blessed apostle Thomas; may his patronage ever help us, and may we at all times, with fitting fervour, imitate his faith. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Feria.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Ephésios.—Fratres: Jam non estis hóspites, et ádvenae: sed estis cives sanctórum, et doméstici Dei: superaedificáti super fundaméntum Apostolórum et Prophetárum, ipso summo angulári lápide Christo Jesu: in quo omnis aedificátio constrúcta crescit in templum sanctum in Dómino, in quo et vos coaedificámini in habitáculum Dei in Spíritu.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Ephesians. ii. 19-22.—Brethren: You are no more strangers and foreigners, but you are fellow-citizens with the saints, and domestics of God: built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ Himself being the chief corner-stone. In whom all the building being framed together, groweth up into a holy temple in the Lord. In whom you also are built together into an habitation of God in the Spirit.

Graduále. — Nimis honoráti sunt amíci tui, Deus: nimis confortátus est principátus eórum. ℣. Dinumerábo eos, et super arénam multiplicabúntur.

Gradual. Ps. cxxxviii. 17, 18. —Thy friends, O God, are made exceedingly honourable: their principality is exceedingly strengthened. ℣. I will number them, and they shall be multiplied above the sand.

* Which means: All my acts.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. xxxii. 1.—℣. Rejoice in the Lord, O ye just: praise becometh the upright. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Gaudéte justi in Dómino: rectos decet collaudátio. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John xx. 24-29.—At that time, Thomas, one of the twelve, who is called Didymus, was not with them when Jesus came. The other disciples therefore said to him: We have seen the Lord. But he said to them: Except I shall see in His hands the print of the nails, and put my hand into His side, I will not believe. And after eight days, again His disciples were within, and Thomas with them. Jesus cometh, the doors being shut and stood in the midst, and said: Peace be to you. Then He saith to Thomas: Put in thy finger hither, and see My hands, and bring hither thy hand, and put it into My side; and be not faithless but believing. Thomas answered, and said to Him: My Lord and my God. Jesus saith to him: Because thou hast seen Me, Thomas, thou hast believed: blessed are they that have not seen and have believed.—Creed.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Thomas, unus ex duódecim, qui dícitur Dídymus, non erat cum eis, quando venit Jesus. Dixérunt ergo ei álii discípuli: Vídimus Dóminum. Ille autem dixit eis: Nisi vídero in mánibus ejus fixúram clavórum, et mittam dígitum meum in locum clavórum, et mittam manum meam in latus ejus, non credam. Et post dies octo, íterum erant discípuli ejus intus, et Thomas cum eis. Venit Jesus jánuis clausis, et stetit in médio, et dixit: Pax vobis. Deínde dicit Thomae: Infer dígitum tuum huc, et vide manus meas. et affer manum tuum, et mitte in latus meum: et noli esse incrédulus, sed fidélis. Respóndit Thomas, et dixit ei: Dóminus meus, et Deus meus. Dixit ei Jesus: Quia vidísti me, Thoma, credidísti: beáti qui non vidérunt, et credidérunt.—Credo.

Offertory. Ps. xviii. 5.—Their sound went forth into all the earth; and their words to the ends of the world.

Offertórium.—In omnem terram exívit sonus eórum: et in fines orbis terrae verba eorum.

Secret.—We render to Thee, O Lord, the debt of our service, suppliantly entreating that Thou wouldst preserve in us Thy gifts by the suffrages of the blessed apostle Thomas, on whose hon-

Secréta.—Débitum tibi, Dómine, nostrae réddimus servitútis, supplíciter exorántes: suffrágiis beáti Thomae Apóstoli, in nobis tua múnera tueáris, cujus honoránda confes-sióne laudis tibi hóstias immolámus. Per Dóminum.

oured solemnity we offer to Thee the sacrifice of praise. Through our Lord.

Preface of the Apostles, p. 57.

Commúnio.—Mitte manum tuam, et cognósce loca clavórum: et noli esse incrédulus, sed fidélis.

Communion. John xx. 27.—Put thy hand and know the place of the nails, and be not incredulous, but believing.

Postcommúnio.— Adésto nobis, misericors Deus: et, intercedénte pro nobis beáto Thoma Apóstolo, tua circa nos propitiátus dona custódi. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—Come to our assistance, O merciful God, and, the blessed apostle Thomas interceding for us, mercifully preserve Thy gifts bestowed upon us Through our Lord.

Commemoration, and during Ember Week the Gospel of the Feria at the end of the Mass.

SECOND VESPERS (DEC. 21)

Of the Common, p. 208, except the Antiphon at the Magnificat, Quia, p. 1206. Common of the Feria. Antiphon O Oriens, or Rex géntium, p. 350.

FEASTS OF JANUARY.

The feasts of the Saints which are celebrated from December 26 to January 13 are to be found in the Proper of the Season, pp. 398 to 457.

JANUARY 11.

St. Hyginus, POPE AND MARTYR.*

" At Rome, holy death of St. Hyginus, pope, who generously suffered martyrdom during the persecution of the emperor Hadrian (117-138) " (Roman Martyrology).

Commemoration in the Mass of the Octave of the Epiphany. Prayers from Mass Státuit, p. 215, or, Mass Státuit (Red vestments.)

JANUARY 14.

St. Hilary, BISHOP AND DOCTOR.—Double.—White vestments.†

After having persecuted the Church during the first centuries, the Christian, but at the same time heretical emperors, continued their attacks by supporting Arianism which denied the divinity of Christ. In the Season after Epiphany, when Jesus affirms His divinity by His teaching and miracles, the first saint whom the church presents to us is one of the most intrepid defenders of this fundamental dogma of Christianity. St. Hilary, Bishop of Poitiers in 352 (Communion) endowed with great natural and supernatural talent, for " the Lord had filled him with the spirit of wisdom and intelligence " (Introit), fought with his pen and his eloquence against those " who closed their ears to truth and opened them to fables " (Epistle).

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007. † Ibid. p. 1010.

This salt of the earth, this light of God's house, would not suffer, under the false excuse of favouring peace and unity, the salt of true doctrine to be corrupted or the light of truth to be hidden under a bushel. " Having thus taught the practice of the commandments even to the last tittle, he is great in the kingdom of heaven " (Gospel), and the Church which is the earthly portion of this kingdom, by the voice of Pius IX., has awarded him the title of Doctor (Collect). He died in 368.

Let us have recourse to the intercession of St. Hilary in order always to be the intrepid defenders of the divinity of Christ.

Mass: In médio, p. 263. Com. of St. Felix, as below.

SAME DAY.

St. Felix, PRIEST AND MARTYR.*—Red vestments.

This holy priest was born at Nola, a little town in the South of Italy, and died towards 312. Violently persecuted for the faith, he earned the title of martyr although he survived the cruel torments which he underwent. Innumerable miracles made his tomb famous. According to St. Paulinus, who owed to him his conversion, Nola became, after Rome, the second place for pilgrimages, so numerous in the fourth century. Thus the divine power of the Master is proclaimed by this glorious servant.

Mass: Laetábitur, p. 225, with the following Collects:

Collect.—Stir up, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, to the leading of a better life by the example Thy saints have set us: so that while keeping their feast days, we may strive to imitate their good deeds. Through our Lord.

Orémus.—Concéde, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut ad meliórem vitam Sanctórum tuórum exémpla nos próvocent; quátenus, quorum solémnia ágimus, étiam actus imitémur. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Graciously receive, O Lord, the sacred victim which, relying on the merits of blessed Felix the martyr, we dedicate to Thee: and grant that to us it may for ever be a help. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Hóstias tibi, Dómine, beáti Felícis Mártyris tui dicátas méritis, benígnus assúme: et ad perpétuum nobis tríbue proveníre subsídium. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Filled, O Lord, with the divine food which Postcommúnio.—Quaesumus, Dómine, salutáribus repléti

* See Historical Summary, p. 1,009.

mystériis: ut, beáti Felícis Mártyris tui, cujus solémnia celebrámus, oratiónibus adjuvémur. Per Dóminum.

Thou dost vouchsafe to dispense in these sacred mysteries: we humbly beg the help of the prayers of blessed Felix, the holy martyr, whose feast we are keeping. Through our Lord.

JANUARY 15.

St. Paul, THE FIRST HERMIT.*—Double.—White vestments.

St. Paul, father of Hermits, had St. Jerome for his historian. Having become an orphan at the age of fifteen, he gave up his possessions and retired into a desert where a flourishing palm-tree, a symbol of his virtues (Introit) provided him with food and clothing.

He meditated in solitude on the science of sciences which is to know Jesus Christ (Epistle) and the Father whom Christ reveals to the humble (Gospel). He lived thus to the age of 112, enjoying in the heroic exercise of prayer and penance the sweetness of the Lord's yoke (ibid).

The great St. Anthony of the desert visited him a little before his death and St. Paul asked him, as a last favour, to allow him to sleep his last sleep in the cloak of St. Athanasius, the invincible defender of the divinity of Christ. He thereby affirmed that he died in the communion of the saint and that his own long life of penance had encouraged those who fought against the Arian heresy. He died towards 341.

During this season after Epiphany, consecrated to the manifestation of the divinity of Jesus, let us with St. Paul, the hermit, endeavour to convince ourselves that a Christian life consists in recognising Christ as the Son of God and in sanctifying ourselves by making His divine holiness our own (Epistle).

MASS.

Intróitus.—Justus ut palma florébit: sicut cedrus Líbani multiplicábitur: plantátus in domo Dómini: in átriis domus Dei nostri. Ps. Bonum est confitéri Dómino: et psállere nómini tuo, Altíssime.
℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. xci. 13, 14.—The just shall flourish like the palm tree; he shall grow up like the cedar of Libanus; planted in the house of the Lord, in the courts of the house of God. Ps. Ibid 2. It is good to give praise to the Lord; and to sing to Thy name, O Most High. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus.—Deus, qui nos beáti Pauli Confessóris tui ánnua solemnitáte laetíficas: concéde propítius; ut, cujus natalítia cólimus, étiam actiónes imitémur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who givest us joy by the annual solemnity of blessed Paul, Thy confessor, mercifully grant that we may imitate the actions of him whose festival we celebrate. Through our Lord.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010.

Commemoration of St. Maurus, Abbot.

Collect.—May the intercession, we beseech Thee, O Lord, of the blessed abbot Maurus plead for us with Thee: and those good gifts which our own merits avail not to win for us, may we, through his patronage, obtain.

Orémus. — Intercéssio nos, quaesumus, Dómine, beáti Mauri Abbátis comméndet: ut, quod nostris méritis non valémus, ejus patrocínio assequámur. Per Dóminum.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Philippians iii. 7-12.—Brethren, the things that were gain to me, the same I have counted loss for Christ. Furthermore, I count all things to be but loss, for the excellent knowledge of Jesus Christ my Lord; for whom I have suffered the loss of all things, and count them but as dung, that I may win Christ; and may be found in Him, not having my justice, which is of the law, but that which is of the faith of Christ Jesus, which is of God, justice in faith; that I may know Him, and the power of His resurrection, and the fellowship of His sufferings; being made conformable to His death, if by any means I may attain to the resurrection which is from the dead; not as though I had already attained, or were already perfect; but I follow after, if I may by any means apprehend wherein I am also apprehended by Christ Jesus.

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Philippénses.—Fratres: Quae mihi fuérunt lucra, haec arbitrátus sum propter Christum detriménta. Verúmtamen existímo ómnia detriméntum esse, propter eminéntem sciéntiam Jesu Christi Dómini mei: propter quem ómnia detriméntum feci, et árbitror ut stércora, ut Christum lucrifáciam, et invéniar in illo, non habens meam justítiam, quae ex lege est, sed illam quae ex fide est Christi Jesu: quae ex Deo est justítia in fide, ad cognoscéndum illum et virtútem resurrectiónis ejus, et societátem passiónum illíus: configurátus morti ejus: si quo modo occúrram ad resurrectiónem, quae est ex mórtuis: non quod jam accéperim, aut jam perféctus sim: sequor autem, si quo modo comprehéndam, in quo et comprehénsus sum a Christo Jesu.

Gradual. Ps. xci. 13, 14.—The just shall flourish like the palm tree: he shall grow up like the cedar of Libanus in the house of the Lord. ℣. To show forth Thy mercy in the morning, and Thy truth in the night.

Graduále.—Justus ut palma florébit: sicut cedrus Líbani multiplicábitur in domo Dómini. ℣. Ad annuntiándum mane misericórdiam tuam, et veritátem tuam per noctem.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Justus germinábit sicut lílium: et florébit in aetérnum ante Dóminum. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Hos. xiv. 6. —℣. The just man shall spring as the lily: and flourish for ever before the Lord. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum—In illo témpore: Respóndens Jesus, dixit: Confíteor tibi, Pater, Dómine coeli et terrae, quia abscondísti haec a sapiéntibus et prudéntibus, et revelásti ea párvulis. Ita Pater: quóniam sic fuit plácitum ante te. Omnia mihi trádita sunt a Patre meo. Et nemo novit Fílium, nisi Pater: neque Patrem quis novit, nisi Fílius, et cui volúerit Fílius reveláre. Veníte ad me omnes, qui laborátis, et oneráti estis, et ego refíciam vos. Tóllite jugem meum super vos, et díscite a me, quia mitis sum, et húmilis corde: et inveniétis réquiem animábus vestris. Jugum enim meum suáve est, et onus meum leve.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew xi. 25-30.—At that time, Jesus answered, and said: I praise Thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because Thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them to little ones. Yea, Father; for so it hath seemed good in Thy sight. All things are delivered to Me by My Father; and no one knoweth the Son, but the Father; neither doth anyone know the Father, but the Son, and he to whom it shall please the Son to reveal Him. Come to me, all you that labour, and are burdened; and I will refresh you. Take up My yoke upon you, and learn of Me, because I am meek, and humble of heart; and you shall find rest to your souls: for My yoke is sweet, and My burden light.

Offertórium.—In virtúte tua, Dómine, laetábitur justus, et super salutáre tuum exsultábit veheménter: desidérium ánimae ejus tribuísti ei.

Offertory. Ps. xx. 2, 3.—In Thy strength, O Lord, the just shall joy, and in Thy salvation he shall rejoice exceedingly: Thou hast given him his heart's desire.

Secréta.—Laudis tibi, Dómine, hóstias immolámus in tuórum commemoratióne Sanctórum: quibus nos et praeséntibus éxui malis confídimus, et futúris. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—To Thee, O Lord, in memory of Thy saints, we offer up the sacrifice of praise: trusting for its sake to be delivered from all evils, as well from those that now trouble us, as from those yet to come.

Secret.—Through the prayers of the holy abbot Maurus, may, O Lord, we beseech Thee, the offerings which we have laid upon Thine altar be of avail for our salvation. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Sacris altáribus, Dómine, hóstias superpósitas sanctus Maúrus Abbas, quaesumus, in salútem nobis provenire depóscat. Per Dóminum.

Communion. Ps. lxiii. 11.—The just shall rejoice in the Lord, and shall hope in Him; and all the upright in heart shall be praised.

Commúnio.—Laetábitur justus in Dómino, et sperábit in eo: et laudabúntur omnes recti corde.

Postcommunion. — Strengthened with meat and drink from heaven, we humbly pray Thee, O Lord our God, that the prayers of the Saint in memory of whom we have received Thy sacrament, may be to us a sure defence. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio.—Reféctì cibo, potúque coeléstì, Deus noster, te súpplices exorámus: ut, in cujus haec commemoratióne percépimus, ejus muniámur et précibus. Per Dóminum.

Of St. Maurus.

Postcommunion. — Together with our having received Thy sacrament, may, O Lord, the intercession of the holy abbot Maurus ensure us Thy protection; and may we thus not only profit by the lessons he has left us in his life, but benefit by his prayers. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Prótegat nos, Dómine, cum tui perceptióne sacraménti beátus Maúrus Abbas, pro nobis intercecéndo: ut et conversatiónis ejus experiámur insígnia, et intercessiónis percipiámus suffrágia. Per Dóminum.

SAME DAY.

St. Maurus, ABBOT.*—White vestments.

Having been committed in his earliest childhood by the Senator Eutychius his father, to the care of St. Benedict, the great Patriarch of the Monks of the West, St. Maurus faithfully reproduced all the virtues of his Master. The latter having commanded him to succour young Placidus who was drowning, he walked with simple confidence on the waters of a pond and brought him back safe and sound. Having been sent to Gaul, he promulgated "the Holy Rule of St. Benedict," as it is called by the Councils, founded the monastery at Glanfeuil and wrought many miracles.

By his doctrine, permeated by evangelical perfection, and by his works, that is to say by thousands of abbeys which during twelve centuries covered France, and which all sprang from the one he had founded, he bore striking testimony to the divinity of Jesus. He died in 584.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1011.

Mass: Os justi, from the Common of Abbots, p. 276.

JANUARY 16.

St. Marcellus, Pope, Martyr.*—Semi-double.—Red vestments.

As supreme head of the Church (Introit, Gradual) at the time of the last persecutions of the Roman emperors, St. Marcellus bore witness to the divinity of Christ " by losing his life for His sake " (Gospel)

The holy widow Lucina having offered him her house, he transformed it into a church now called St. Marcellus's. Maxentius transferred there certain deer from the public stables and condemned the holy Pope to keep them. His sufferings tempered by divine consolation made him feel all the more for the troubles of his flock (Epistle). Exhausted by ill-treatment, conquered by pain, he died in 309.

His heroic resistance against which the Caesar's violence was broken proves that Jesus is God, for " it is His powerful hand that succours his servant, and His arm which strengthens him so that the enemy shall not get the better of him " (Gradual). The divine reign of the Saviour will indeed soon be acknowledged and with the Emperor Constantine, the Church of Rome, " Queen of Churches," as St. Marcellus called her, will be queen of the world, not only in the spiritual order but also in the temporal.

Let us imitate the courage of the Holy Pontiff Marcellus in defending the divine rights of Christ in order that they may be manifested again by the triumph of the Church.

MASS.

Intróitus.—Statúit ei Dóminus testaméntum pacis, et príncipem fecit eum: ut sit illi sacerdótii dígnatis in aetérnum. Ps. Meménto, Dómine, David: et omnis mansuetúdinis ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit Ecclus. xlv. 30.—The Lord made to him a covenant of peace, and made him a prince; that the dignity of priesthood should be to him for ever.

Ps. cxxxi. 1.—O Lord, remember David and all his meekness. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus.—Preces pópuli tui, quaesumus, Dómine, cleménter exáudi: ut beáti Marcélli Mártyris tui atque Pontifícis, méritis adjuvémur, cujus passióne laetámur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Graciously hear, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the prayers of Thy people; and grant that we, rejoicing in the triumph of blessed Marcellus Thy martyr and bishop, may be admitted to share in his merits. Through our Lord.

Epistle: Benedictus Deus, p. 219.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007.

Gradual. Ps. lxxxviii. 21-23.—I have found David My servant; with My holy oil I have anointed him. For My hand shall help him, and My arm shall strengthen him. ℣. The enemy shall have no advantage over him, nor the son of iniquity have power to hurt him.

Graduále.—Invéni David servum meum, óleo sancto meo unxi eum: manus enim mea auxiliábitur ei, et bráchium meum confortábit eum. ℣. Nihil profíciet inímicus in eo, et fílius iniquitátis non nocébit ei.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. cix. 4.—Thou art a priest for ever, according to the order of Melchisedech. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Tu es sacérdos in aetérnum, secúndum órdinem Melchisédech. Allelúia.

Gospel: Si quis vult, p. 220.

Offertory. Ps. lxxxviii. 25.—My truth and My mercy shall be with him; and in My name shall his horn be exalted.

Offertórium.—Véritas mea, et misericórdia mea cum ipso: et in nómine meo exaltábitur cornu ejus.

Secret.—Graciously receive the offerings made to Thee, O Lord, we beseech Thee; and the merits of blessed Marcellus, Thy martyr and bishop, pleading for us, grant them to become a help to our salvation. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Súscipe, quaesumus, Dómine, múnera dignánter obláta: et beáti Marcélli Mártyris tui atque Pontíficis suffragántibus méritis, ad nostrae salútis auxílium proveníre concéde. Per Dóminum.

Communion. Matt. xxv. 20, 21.—Lord, Thou didst deliver to me five talents, behold I have gained other five over and above: well done, thou good and faithful servant; because thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will set thee over many things: enter thou into the joy of Thy Lord.

Commúnio.—Dómine, quinque talénta tradidísti mihi: ecce ália quinque superlucrátus sum. Euge serve bone et fidélis, quia in pauca fuísti fidelis, supra multa te constítuam, intra in gáudium Dómini tui.

Postcommunion.—Thou hast fed Thy family, O Lord, with holy gifts; we beseech Thee ever to comfort us by his intercession whose festival we celebrate Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio.—Satiásti, Dómine, famíliam tuam munéribus sacris: ejus, quaesumus, semper, interventióne nos refove, cujus solémnia celebrámus. Per Dóminum.

JANUARY 17.

St. Anthony, ABBOT.*—Double.—White vestments.

After St. Paul, Father of the Anchorites, the Christmas Cycle honours St. Anthony, Father of the Cenobites.

When he was eighteen he retired into the Egyptian desert and led the life of a hermit. The devil, in order to frighten him and drive him from the solitude, would appear to him in the most hideous shapes; "but the Lord made him formidable to his foes: one word from his mouth reduced these prodigies to nothingness" (Epistle).

His holiness soon attracted souls desirous to see the divine Kingship of Christ more perfectly confirmed in themselves. As a new lawgiver, he gave them "the doctrine and rule of life that he had received from God in prayer" (Epistle).

St. Anthony, the first of Abbots, instituted monastic life in common, by which are formed noble souls always ready, like their father in God, to receive the Lord when He shall come to take them from this world (Gospel). Wherefore to-day's Mass is that of the Common Abbots.

He also strenuously fought against Arianism and with St. Athanasius who honoured him with his friendship, he successfully defended the dogma of the divinity of Christ. He died in 356 at the age of 105 years.

Let us show forth by the perfection of our lives that we share in the divinity of Jesus.

Mass: Os justi, of the Abbots, p. 276, except the Gospel; Sint lumbi, p. 272.

JANUARY 18.

St. Peter's Chair at Rome.†—Greater-double.—White vestments.

The manifestation of the divinity of Jesus, which characterises the Season after Epiphany, demands of us the recognition of His Kingship over our souls. (See Picture, p. 459.)

Christ is the Head of the Church. But as He is to reascend some day to heaven, He communicates His divine power to a man, for after the Incarnation, it is by human intermediaries that God wills normally to establish His dealings with us. The man whom Jesus constitutes "Prince" of souls (Introit), and "on whom He builds His Church" (Gospel), is St. Peter. As Vicar of Christ he will sit in the infallible chair occupied by Jesus and will hold in his hands the keys as symbol of supreme authority (Collect, Gospel) (3). ‡

We read in the Epistle, the beginning of the first letter of St. Peter. All the letters of the Apostle bear the mark of his primacy. Rome is to be the Capital of the kingdom of heaven upon earth. It is to Rome that Peter will come, it is on Rome's blessed soil that he will shed his blood, he will be Bishop of Rome. Wherefore we must see in this feast a liturgical testimony to the primacy of honour and jurisdiction

* See Historical Summary. p. 1010. † See Historical Summary, p. 1005.

‡ This scene, in which Jesus foretells to St. Peter that He will give him divine powers, occurred at Caesarea Philippi, a town situated north of the lake of Genesareth (see map p. 508), where Jesus had taken refuge the third year of His ministry, because in Judea and even in Galilee they already sought to put Him to death.

attached to the chair of Rome which is still preserved in the apse of the basilica of St. Peter.

St. Paul, during his sojourn at Corinth, in the year 58, wrote an Epistle to the Romans. Towards the year 62, he was led to Rome a captive and remained there two years. Imprisoned again in the year 67, he was put to death, like St. Peter, in the henceforth eternal city. Wherefore the liturgy associates, in a second Collect, the glorious name of the Apostle with that of the first Bishop of Rome.

Let us to-day pray for the Pope, successor of St. Peter, that he may freely exercise the divine powers communicated to him by Jesus, Son of God.

MASS.

Introit. Ecclus. xlv. 30.—The Lord made to him a covenant of peace, and made him a prince; that the dignity of priesthood should be to him for ever. Ps. cxxxi. 1. O Lord, remember David and all his meekness. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus.—Státuit ei Dóminus testaméntum pacis, et príncipem fecit eum: ut sit illi sacerdótii dígnitas in aetérnum. Ps. Meménto, Dómine, David: et omnis mansuetúdinis ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—O God, Who, upon blessed Peter, Thine apostle, didst bestow the priestly power of binding and loosing, and didst give to him the keys of the kingdom of heaven: grant that his intercession may ensure our deliverance from the bondage of sin. Who livest and reignest.

Orémus.—Deus, qui beáto Petro Apóstolo tuo, collátis clávibus regni coeléstis, ligándi atque solvéndi pontifícium tradidísti: concéde; ut, intercessiónis ejus auxílio, a peccatórum nostrórum néxibus liberémur: Qui vivis.

Commemoration of St. Paul the Apostle.

Collect.—O God, Who by the preaching of blessed Paul, the apostle, didst teach the multitudes of the Gentiles, grant that we who devoutly make com memoration of him, may feel the might of his advocacy with Thee on our behalf. Through our Lord.

Orémus.—Deus, qui multitúdinem géntium beáti Pauli Apóstolli praedicatióne docuísti: da nobis, quaesumus; ut cujus commemoratiónem cólimus, ejus apud te patrocínia sentiámus. Per Dóminum.]

Of St. Prisca, see p. 1222.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Peter the Apostle. 1 Pet. i. 1-7.—Peter, an apostle of Jesus Christ, to the strangers dispersed through Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia,

Léctio Epistolæ beáti Petri Apóstoli — Petrus Apóstolus Jesu Christi, eléctis ádvenis dispersiónis Ponti, Galátiae, Cappadóciae, Asiae et Bithyniae, secúndum praesciéntiam

Dei Patris, in sanctificatiónem Spíritus, in obediéntiam, et aspersiónem sánguinis Jesu Christi: grátia vobis, et pax multiplicétur. Benedíctus Deus, et Pater Dómini nostri Jesu Christi, qui secúndum misericórdiam suam magnam regenerávit nos in spem vivam, per resurrectiónem Jesu Christi ex mórtuis, in hereditátem incorruptíbilem, et incontaminátam, et immarcescíbilem, conservátam in coelis in vobis, qui in virtúte Dei custodímini per fidem in salútem, parátam revelári in témpore novissimo. In quo exsultábitis módicum nunc si opórtet contristári in váriis tentatiónibus: ut probátio vestrae fídei multo pretiósior auro (quod per ignem probátur) inveniátur in laudem, et glóriam, et honórem, in revelatióne Jesu Christi Dómini nostri.

elect according to the foreknowledge of God the Father, unto the sanctification of the Spirit, unto obedience, and sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ; grace unto you and peace be multiplied. Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, Who according to His great mercy hath regenerated us unto a lively hope, by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, unto an inheritance incorruptible and undefiled, and that cannot fade, reserved in heaven for you, who by the power of God are kept by faith unto salvation, ready to be revealed in the last time. Wherein you shall greatly rejoice, if now you must be for a little time made sorrowful in divers temptations: that the trial of your faith, much more precious than gold (which is tried by the fire), may be found unto praise, and glory, and honour, at the appear ing of Jesus Christ our Lord.

Graduále.—Exáltent eum in ecclésia plebis: et in cáthedra seniórum laudent eum. ℣. Confiteántur Dómino misericórdiae ejus, et mirabília ejus fíliis hóminum.

Gradual. Ps. cvi. 32, 31.—Let them exalt in the church of the people; and praise him in the chair of the ancients. ℣. Let the mercies of the Lord give glory to him: and His wonderful works to the children of men.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Tu es Petrus, et super hanc petram aedificábo Ecclésiam meam. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Matt. xvi. 18.—℣. Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build My church. Alleluia.

After Septuagesima, in place of the Alleluia and Verse, the following is said:

Tractus.—Tu es Petrus, et super hanc petram aedificábo Ecclésiam meam. ℣. Et por-Tract. Matt. xvi. 18-19.—Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build My church. ℣.

And the gates of hell shall not prevail against it; and to thee I will give the keys of the kingdom of heaven. ℣. Whatsoever thou shalt bind upon earth, shall be bound also in heaven. ℣. And whatsoever thou shalt loose upon earth, shall be loosed also in heaven.

tae ínferi non praevalébunt advérsus eam: et tibi dabo claves regni coelórum. ℣. Quodcúmque ligáveris super terram erit ligátum et in coelis. ℣. Et quodcúmque sólveris super terram, erit solútum et in coelis.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew xvi. 13-19.—At that time, Jesus came into the quarters of Caesarea Philippi, and He asked His disciples saying: Whom do men say that the Son of man is? But they said: Some, John the Baptist, and other some, Elias, and others, Jeremias, or one of the prophets. Jesus saith to them: But whom do you say that I am? Simon Peter answered, and said: Thou art Christ, the Son of the living God. And Jesus answering, said to him: Blessed art thou, Simon Bar-Jona, because flesh and blood hath not revealed it to thee, but my Father Who is in heaven: and I say to thee: That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it; and to thee I will give the keys of the kingdom of heaven; and whatsoever thou shalt bind upon earth, it shall be bound also in heaven; and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth, it shall be loosed also in heaven.—Creed.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Venit Jesus in partes Caesaréae Philíppi, et interrogábat discípulos suos, dicens: Quem dicunt hómines esse Fílium hóminis? At illi dixérunt: Alii Joánnem Baptístam, álii autem Elíam, álii vero Jeremíam, aut unum ex prophétis. Dicit illis Jesus: Vos autem quem me esse dícitis? Respóndens Simon Petrus, dixit: Tu es Christus Fílius Dei vivi. Respóndens autem Jesus, dixit ei: Beátus es, Simon Bar Jona: quia caro et sanguis non revelávit tibi, sed Pater meus, qui in coelis est. Et ego dico tibi, quia tu es Petrus, et super hanc petram aedificábo Ecclésiam meam, et portae ínferi non praevalébunt advérsus eam. Et tibi dabo claves regni coelórum. Et quodcúmque ligáveris super terram, erit ligátum et in coelis: et quodcúmque sólveris super terram, erit solútum et in coelis.

Offertory. Matt. xvi. 18, 19.—Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build My church, and Offertórium.—Tu es Petrus, et super hanc petram aedificábo Ecclésiam meam: et portae ínferi non praevalébunt advérsus eam: et tibi dabo claves regni coelórum.

the gates of hell shall not prevail against it; and I will give to Thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven.

Secréta. — Ecclésiae tuae, quaesumus, Dómine, preces et hóstias beáti Petri Apóstoli comméndet orátio: ut, quod pro illíus glória celebrámus, nobis prosit ad veniam. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—We beseech Thee, O Lord, that the prayer of the blessed apostle Peter may commend to Thee the prayers and sacrifice of Thy Church; that what we celebrate in his honour may procure for us pardon. Through our Lord.

Of St. Paul.

Secréta.—Apóstoli tui Pauli précibus, Dómine, plebis tuae dona sanctífica: ut, quae tibi tuo grata sunt institúto, gratióra fiant patrocínio supplicántis. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Sanctify, O Lord, the offerings of Thy people through the prayers of Thy apostle Paul, that what are pleasing to Thee by Thy institution, may become more pleasing by the patronage of him supplicating for us. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of St. Prisca, p. 1222.

Preface of the Apostles, p. 27.

Commúnio.—Tu es Petrus, et super hanc petram aedificábo Ecclésiam meam.

Communion. Matt. xvi. 18.—Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build My church.

Postcommúnio. — Laetíficet nos, Dómine, munus oblátum: ut, sicut in Apóstolo tuo Petro te mirábilem praedicámus, sic per illum tuae sumámus indulgéntiae largitátem. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—May the sacrifice we have offered give us joy, O Lord; that as we proclaim Thee wonderful in Thy apostle Peter, we may receive through him the gift of Thy pardon. Through our Lord.

Of St. Paul.

Postcommúnio. — Sanctificáti, Dómine, salutári mystério: quaesumus; ut nobis ejus non desit orátio, cujus nos donásti patrocínio gubernári. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—Being sanctified, O Lord, by Thy saving mysteries, we beseech Thee, that his prayer may not fail us, by whose patronage Thou hast granted us to be directed.

Commemoration of St. Prisca, p. 1222.

Same Day.

St. Prisca, Virgin and Martyr.*—Red vestments.

St. Prisca at the age of thirteen suffered cruel torments under the Emperor Claudius in the first century. In spite of the efforts made to force her to adore idols, her great faith filled her with the divine strength of Jesus and she went to heaven wearing the double crown of her virginity and of her martyrdom.

Mass: Me Exspectavérunt, p. 288, with the following Collects:

Collect.—Make us, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, who celebrate the festival of blessed Prisca, Thy virgin-martyr, year by year to keep with rejoicing this her birthday to heaven, and, encouraged by the great example she has left us, ever to grow in the love of Thee. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Da, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui beátae Priscae Vírginis et Mártyris tuae natalítia cólimus; et ánnua sólemnitáte laetémur, et tantae fídei proficiámus exémplo. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—May the divine Victim, which we offer up, O Lord, in order with due honour to keep the natal-days of Thy saints, loose us from the chains with which our evil deeds have bound us, and secure to us the riches of Thy mercy. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Haec hóstia, quaesumus, Dómine, quam Sanctórum tuórum natalítia recenséntes offérimus, et víncula nostrae pravitátis absólvat, et tuae nobis misericórdiae dona concíliet. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — We who have been filled with the mysterious bread from heaven, humbly crave, O Lord, to be helped by the prayers of the Saint whose feast day we are keeping. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio.—Quaesumus, Dómine, salutáribus repléti mystériis: ut, cujus solémnia celebrámus, ejus orationibus adjuvémur. Per Dóminum.

January 19.

SS. Marius, Martha, Audifax and Abachus, Martyrs.†

Simple.—Red vestments.

Marius and Martha his wife were Persian nobles, who with their two sons Audifax and Abachus came to Rome to worship God in the reign of Claudius II. There they visited Christians cast into prison for their faith: "You had compassion on prisoners," says the Epistle. They devoted themselves in many ways to the service of religion and soon had themselves to bear the great fight by suffering, for "they were tortured and put to death" (Gospel). "Without fearing the persecutors" (Communion), they underwent all these torments with prayers of thanksgiving on their lips, for in them they saw like "the sparrow liberated from the bird-catcher's net and who escapes towards heaven" (Offertory), the means of going to enjoy God for evermore (Introit). They were martyred in 270. Let us ask Jesus Christ "Who showed Himself so admirably in these martyrs" (Alleluia) also to make manifest in our souls the effects of His divine power so that, "enjoying peace in this life, we may in the other receive the eternal reward" (Collect).

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008. † Ibid. 1009.

MASS.

Intróitus.—Justi epuléntur, et exsúltent in conspéctu Dei, et delecténtur in laetítia. Ps. Exsúrgat Deus, et dissipéntur inimíci ejus: et fúgiant qui odérunt eum, a fácie ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. lxvii. 4.—Let the just feast, and rejoice before God: and be delighted with gladness. Ps. Ibid. 2. Let God arise, and let His enemies be scattered: and let them that hate Him flee from before His face. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus.—Exáudi, Dómine, pópulum tuum cum Sanctórum tuórum patrocínio supplicántem: ut et temporális vitae nos tríbuas pace gaudére; et aetérnae reperire subsidium. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Hear Thy people, O Lord, supplicating Thee through the intercession of Thy saints: that Thou wouldst grant us to rejoice in a peaceful life in time, and to find the comfort of life eternal. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of St. Canute, p. 1224.

Epistle: Rememorámini, p. 239.

Graduále. — Justórum ánimae in manu Dei sunt: et non tanget illos torméntum malítiae. ℣. Visi sunt óculis insipiéntium mori: illi autem sunt in pace.

Gradual. Wisd. of Sol. iii. 1, 2, 3.—The souls of the just are in the hands of God, and the torment of death shall not touch them. ℣. In the sight of the unwise they seemed to die: but they are in peace.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Mirábilis Deus noster in sanctis suis. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. lxvii. 36. —℣. God is wonderful in his saints. Alleluia.

After Septuagesima instead of the Alleluia and Verse, the following is said:

Tractus.—Qui séminant in lácrimis, in gáudio metent. ℣. Eúntes ibant et flebant, Tract. Ps. cxxv. 5, 6.—They that sow in tears, shall reap in joy. ℣. Going, they went and wept, casting their seeds. ℣. But coming, they shall come with joyfulness, carrying their sheaves.

mitténtes sémina sua. ℣. Veniéntes autem vénient cum exsultatióne, portántes manípulos suos.

Gospel: Sedénte Jesu, p. 241.

Offertory. Ps. cxxiii. 7.—Our soul hath been delivered as a sparrow out of the snare of the fowlers: the snare is broken, and we are delivered.

Offertórium.—Anima nostra sicut passer, erépta est de láqueo venántium: láqueus contrítus est, et nos liberáti sumus.

Secret.—Regard, O Lord, the prayers and offerings of Thy faithful, that they may both be pleasing to Thee on the festival of Thy saints, and confer upon us the help of Thy mercy. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Preces, Dómine, tuórum réspice, oblationésque fidélium: ut et tibi grata sint pro tuórum festivitáte Sanctórum, et nobis cónferant tuae propitiatiónis auxílium. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of St. Canute, as below.

Communion. Luke xii. 4.—But I say to you, my friends, be not afraid of those who persecute you.

Commúnio.—Dico autem vobis amícis meis: ne terreámini ab his qui vos persequúntur.

Postcommunion. — Appeased by the intercession of Thy saints, grant, O Lord, we beseech Thee, that what we celebrate in time, we may receive in eternal salvation. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio.— Sanctórum tuórum, Dómine, intercessióne placátus: praesta, quaesumus; ut, quae temporáli celebrámus actióne, perpétua salvatióne capiámus. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of St. Canute, as below.

SAME DAY.

St. Canute IV., KING AND MARTYR.*—Red vestments.

St. Canute having ascended the throne of Denmark (1080-1086), ardently endeavoured to spread the faith in his kingdom. His charity and his zeal for religion soon made him enemies who put him to death while praying at the foot of the altar in the church of St. Alban. God made manifest the holiness of His servant by numerous miracles wrought at his tomb.

Mass: In virtúte tua, p. 222, except:

Collect.—O God, Who for the glory of Thy Church didst vouchsafe to honour the blessed King

Orémus.—Deus, qui ad illustrándam Ecclésiam tuam, beatum Canútum regem martyrii

* See Historical Summary, p. 1012.

palma et gloriósis miráculis decoráre dignátus es: concéde propítius; ut, sicut ipse Domínicae passiónis imitátor fuit, ita nos per ejus vestígia gradiéntes, ad gáudia sempitérna perveníre mereámur. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Canute, by bestowing upon him the crown of martyrdom, and by the working of mighty miracles: grant, we beseech Thee, that, walking in his footsteps, we may ever follow our suffering Lord, and thereby deserve to enter into everlasting joy. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Accépta sit in conspéctu tuo, Dómine, nostra devótio: et ejus nobis fiat supplicatióne salutáris, pro cujus solemnitáte defértur. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—May our devout offerings, O Lord, be acceptable in Thy sight, and, by the intercession of the holy martyr on whose festival they are laid before Thee, may they profit us unto salvation. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio.—Refécti participatióne múneris sacri, quaesumus, Dómine Deus noster: ut, cujus exséquimur cultum, intercedénte beáto Canúto Mártyre tuo, sentiámus efféctum. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.— Being fed with the participation of the holy gift, we beseech Thee, O Lord our God, that by the intercession of Thy holy martyr Canute, we may experience the effect of what we celebrate. Through our Lord.

JANUARY 20.

St. Fabian, POPE,* AND St. Sebastian,† MARTYRS.—Double.—Red vestments.

The two great Roman martyrs, Fabian and Sebastian, made manifest, the first in 250 in the persecution of Decius, the second in 284 in that of Diocletian, the divine power of Christ " Who operated wonders in them " (Gradual). The ancient martyrologies unite their names.

The appearance of the Holy Ghost, in the form of a dove, had attested the divinity of Jesus on the day of His baptism. It was also a dove hovering above Fabian that pointed him out to the Church as vicar of Jesus Christ.

St. Sebastian, an officer of the imperial household and commander of a cohort, encouraged his brothers in arms subjected to torments on account of their faith. Diocletian ordered him to be pierced with arrows. Sebastian, having escaped death, reappeared before the emperor and reproached him with his crimes. He was condemned to be flogged to death.

Like the martyrs mentioned in the Epistle, these two saints " were found perfect in the testimony they bore of their faith in Jesus Christ," for "it is for the cause of the Son of Man that they suffered persecution" (Gospel). Numerous cures were wrought by St. Sebastian or rather by the virtue of Christ which was in him (Gospel and Communion).

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007. † Ibid., p. 1009.

Let us in our weakness have recourse (Collect) to the powerful protection of these glorious martyrs.

MASS.

Introit. Ps. lxxviii. 11, 12, 10.—Let the sighing of the prisoners come in before Thee, O Lord; render to our neighbours sevenfold in their bosom, revenge the blood of Thy saints which hath been shed. Ps. Ibid. 1. O God, the heathens are come into Thy inheritance; they have defiled Thy holy temple; they have made Jerusalem as a place to keep fruit. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus.—Intret in conspéctu tuo, Dómine, gémitus compeditórum: redde vícinis nostris séptuplum in sinu eórum: víndica sánguinem sanctórum tuórum, qui effúsus est. Ps. Deus, venérunt gentes in haereditátem tuam: polluérunt templum sanctum tuum: posuérunt Jerúsalem in pomórum custódiam. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—Have regard to our weakness, O Almighty God: and grant that, borne down as we are by the weight of our own evil deeds, the glorious intercession of Thy holy martyrs, Fabian and Sebastian, may be to us a sure defence. Through our Lord.

Orémus.—Infirmitátem nostram réspice, omnípotens Deus: et, quia pondus própriae actiónis gravat, beatórum Mártyrum tuórum Fabiáni et Sebastiáni intercéssio gloriósa nos prótegat. Per Dóminum.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Hebrews xi. 33-39.—BRETHREN, the saints through faith subdued kingdoms, wrought justice, obtained promises, stopped the mouths of lions, quenched the violence of fire, escaped the edge of the sword, recovered strength from weakness, became valiant in battle, put to flight the armies of foreigners: women received their dead raised to life again: but others were racked, not accepting deliverance, that they might find a better resurrection; and others had trial of mockeries and stripes,

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Hebraeos.—FRATRES: Sancti per fidem vicérunt regna, operáti sunt justítiam, adépti sunt repromissiónes, obturavérunt ora leónum, exstinxérunt ímpetum ignis, effugérunt áciem gládii, convaluérunt de infirmitáte, fortes facti sunt in bello, castra vertérunt exterórum: accepérunt mulíeres de resurrectióne mórtuos suos: álii autem disténti sunt, non suscipiéntes redemptiónem, ut meliórem invenírent resurrectiónem: álii vero ludíbria, et vérbera expérti, ínsuper et víncula, et cárceres: lapidáti sunt, secti sunt, tentáti sunt, in occisióne gládii mórtui sunt: circuiérunt in melótis, in péllibus caprínis, egéntes, angustiáti, afflicti: quibus dignus non erat mundus: in solitudínibus errántes, in móntibus, et spelúncis, et in cavérnis terrae. Et hi omnes testimónio fídei probáti, invénti sunt in Christo Jesu Dómino nostro.

moreover also of bands and prisons: they were stoned, they were cut asunder, they were tempted, they were put to death by the sword, they wandered about in sheep-skins, and in goat-skins, being in want, distressed, afflicted, of whom the world was not worthy; wandering in deserts, in mountains, and in dens, and in caves of the earth. And all these were found approved by the testimony of faith, in Christ Jesus our Lord.

Graduále. — Gloriósus Deus in Sanctis suis: mirábilis in majestáte, fáciens prodígia. ℣. Déxtera tua, Dómine, glorificáta est in virtúte: déxtera manus tua confrégit inimícos.

Gradual. Exod. xv. 11.—God is glorious in his saints, wonderful in majesty, doing wonders. Ibid 6. ℣. Thy right hand, O Lord, is glorified in strength; Thy right hand hath broken the enemies.

Allelúia, allelúia.— ℣ Sancti tui, Dómine, benedícent te: glóriam regni tui dicent. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. cxliv. 10, 11.—℣. Thy saints shall bless Thee, O Lord; they shall speak of the glory of Thy kingdom. Alleluia.

After Septuagesima, instead of the Alleluia and Verse, the following is said:

Tractus.—Qui séminant in lácrimis, in gáudio metent. ℣. Eúntes ibant et flebant, mitténtes sémina sua. ℣. Veniéntes autem vénient cum exsultatióne, portántes manípulos suos.

Tract. Ps. cxxv. 5, 6.—They that sow in tears, shall reap in joy. ℣. Going, they went and wept, casting their seed. ℣. But coming, they shall come with joyfulness, carrying their sheaves.

Gospel: Descéndens Jesus, p. 237.

Offertórium. — Laetámini in Dómino, et exsultáte justi: et gloriámini omnes recti corde.

Offertory. Ps. xxxi. 11.—Be glad in the Lord, and rejoice, ye just; and glory all ye right of heart.

Secréta.—Hóstias tibi, Dómine, beatórum Mártyrum tuórum Fabiáni et Sebastiáni dicátas méritis, benígnus as-

Secret.—Graciously receive, O Lord, the sacred victim which we, honouring the merits of Thy blessed martyrs, Fabian and Sebastian, offer up to Thee; and grant that to ourselves it may impart strength for evermore. Through our Lord.

súme: et ad perpétuum nobis tríbue proveníre subsídium. Per Dóminum.

Communion. 1 Luke vi. 6, 8, 19—A multitude of sick, and they that were troubled with unclean spirits, came to Him; for virtue went out from Him and healed all.

Commúnio.—Multitúdo languéntium, et qui vexabántur a spirítibus immúndis, veniébant ad eum: quia virtus de illo exíbat, et sanábat omnes.

Postcommunion.—Our strength renewed, from having shared in Thy sacred gift, we beseech Thee, O Lord our God, that by the intercession of Thy holy martyrs Fabian and Sebastian, we may ever feel within us the power of the sacrament we worship. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio.— Refécti participatióne múneris sacri, quaesumus, Dómine Deus noster: ut, cujus exséquimur cultum intercedéntibus sanctis Martyribus tuis Fabiáno et Sebastiáno, sentiámus efféctum. Per Dóminum.

JANUARY 21.

St. Agnes, VIRGIN, MARTYR.*—Double.—Red vestments.

To-day's Mass commemorates one of the most touching and glorious triumphs of Jesus over the world. Agnes, a daughter of one of the noblest families of Rome, goes to meet the Spouse (Gospel) and consecrates herself to Him at the age of ten. Jesus in return "works through her wonderful prodigies" (Gradual). The son of the prefect of Rome asks for her hand in marriage and she replies: "The one to whom I am betrothed is Christ whom the angels serve."

Then they attempted to dishonour her by violence, but "God delivered her body from perdition" (Epistle). She was thrown on a burning pile, but "the flames did her no harm" (ibid).

When condemned to be beheaded, she thus encouraged the hesitating executioner: "Strike without fear, for the bride does her spouse an injury if she makes him wait." At the age of thirteen (about 304) this weak girl confounds the powerful of the earth (Introit).

Over her tomb, in the Via Nomentana, was raised the magnificent basilica which still exists, and her name, towards the end of the fifth century, was inscribed in the Canon of the Mass with those of five other female martyrs. (Second list, p. 65.)

A convent is attached to the basilica of St. Agnes. There, the nuns rear the lambs with whose wool the palliums are woven. Every year, on January 21, the Pope blesses these palliums which are then placed in a box on the tomb of the Holy Apostles. He sends them to archbishops as the special insignia of their dignity and also, by privilege, to a few bishops. The pallium consists in a narrow band of white woollen tissue and is worn over the chasuble.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009.

MASS.

Introitus. — Me exspectavérunt peccatóres, ut pérderent me: testimónia tua, Dómine, intelléxi: omnis consummatiónis vidi finem: latum mandátum tuum nimis. Ps. Beáti immaculáti in via: qui ámbulant in lege Dómini. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. cxviii. 95, 96.—The wicked have waited for me to destroy me: I have understood Thy testimonies, O Lord: I have seen an end of all perfection: Thy commandment is exceedingly broad. Ps. Ibid. 1. Blessed are the undefiled in the way, who walk in the law of the Lord. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus.—Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, qui infírma mundi éligis, ut fórtia quaeque confúndas: concéde propítius; qui beátae Agnétis Vírginis et Mártyris tuae solémnia cólimus, ejus apud te patrocínia sentiámus. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O Almighty and everlasting God, Who dost choose the weak things of the world, that Thou mayest confound whatever is strong, mercifully grant, that we who celebrate the solemnity of blessed Agnes, Thy virgin and martyr, may experience her patronage with Thee. Through our Lord.

Epistle: Confitébor, p. 282.

Graduále.—Diffusa est grátia in lábiis tuis: proptérea benedíxit te Deus in aetérnum. ℣. Propter veritátem, et mansuetúdinem, et justítiam: et dedúcet te mirabíliter déxtera tua.

Gradual. Ps. xliv. 3.—Grace is poured abroad in thy lips: therefore hath God blessed thee for ever. Ibid. 5. ℣. Because of truth, and meekness, and justice: and thy right hand shall conduct thee wonderfully.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Quinque prudéntes vírgines accepérunt óleum in vasis suis cum lampádibus: média autem nocte clamor factus est: Ecce sponsus venit: exíte óbviam Christo Dómino. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Matt. xxv. 4 6.—℣. The five wise virgins took oil in their vessels with the lamps; but at midnight there was a cry made: Behold the bridegroom cometh, go ye forth to meet Christ our Lord. Alleluia.

After Septuagesima, instead of the Alleluia and Verse, the following is said: Veni Sponsa, p. 283.

Gospel: Simile erit, p. 284.—Offertory: Afferéntur, p. 285.

Secréta.—Hóstias, Dómine, quas tibi offérimus, propítius súscipe: et intercédente beáta

Secret.—Mercifully receive, O Lord, the sacrifice which we offer to Thee; and by the intercession of blessed Agnes, Thy virgin and martyr, loose the bonds of our sins. Through our Lord.

Agnéte Vírgine et Mártyre tua, víncula peccatórum nostrórum absólve. Per Dóminum.

Communion. Matt. xxv. 4, 6. —The five wise virgins took oil in their vessels with the lamps: but at midnight there was a cry made: Behold the bridegroom cometh, go ye forth to meet Christ our Lord.

Commúnio. — Quinque prudéntes vírgines accepérunt óleum in vasis suis cum lampádibus: média autem nocte clamor factus est: Ecce sponsus venit: exíte óbviam Christo Dómino.

Postcommunion.— Refreshed with heavenly meat and drink, we humbly beseech Thee, our God, that we may be defended by her prayers, in whose commemoration we have received these blessings. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Reféсti cibo potúque coeléstі, Deus noster, te súpplices exorámus: ut in cujus haec commemoratióne percépimus, ejus muniámur et précibus. Per Dóminum.

January 22.

SS. Vincent and Anastasius, Martyrs.*—Semi-double.— Red vestments.

Vincent, the deacon of Saragossa, and Anastasius, a monk of Persia, died the same day with an interval of 300 years (304-628). Both were buried at Rome, where two famous churches are dedicated to them in common and their names are associated in one worship throughout the whole Church. "Their name shall live for evermore" (Alleluia).

Under the emperors Diocletian and Maximian, the Deacon Vincent as formerly the deacon Lawrence, is placed on a gridiron over burning coals. "God has tried them like gold in the furnace" (Epistle); wherefore the names of Lawrence and Vincent follow one another in the litany of the Saints for their "victorious" brows are wreathed with the same "laurels."

St. Anastasius was beheaded after suffering atrocious torments, but he was upheld by Christ for Whose cause he was persecuted: "Thy right hand, O Lord, hath broken the enemies" (Gradual).

On the burning coals Vincent exclaims: "I thought your cruelty would go still further." Anastasius also says: "I expected a more cruel kind of death."

Let us ask God, by the intercession of these holy martyrs, to help us to overcome our temptations and vices and work out our salvation, Collect, Secret, Postcommunion).

Mass: Intret, p. 232, except the Collects.

Collect.—Listen, O Lord, to the humble prayers of those who,

Orémus.—Adésto, Dómine supplicatiónibus nostris: ut,

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009 and 1011.

qui ex iniquitáte nostra reos nos esse cognóscimus, beatórum Mártyrum tuórum Vincéntii et Anastásii intercessióne liberémur. Per Dóminum.

knowing full well how guilty their many transgressions have made them, entreat to be therefore freed, by the intercession of Thy blessed martyrs Vincent and Anastasius. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Múnera tibi, Dómine, nostrae devotiónis offérimus: quae et pro tuórum tibi grata sint honóre justórum, et nobis salutária, te miseránte, reddántur. Per Dóminum.

Secret. — With devotion of heart, O Lord, we offer to Thee our gifts: may they please Thee as honouring Thy saints, and through Thy mercy, may they be of profit to ourselves. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui coeléstia aliménta percépimus, intercedéntibus beátis Martyribus tuis Vincéntio et Anastásio, per haec contra ómnia advérsa muniámur. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.— Vouchsafe, we beseech Thee, Almighty God, to us who have been fed with bread from heaven, by the intercession of Thy blessed martyrs Vincent and Anastasius, therefrom to draw our strength in all time of our distress. Through our Lord.

JANUARY 23.

St. Raymund of Pennafort, CONFESSOR.*—Semi-double. White vestments.

St. Raymund was born in 1175 of the noble Spanish family of Pennafort. Christ by His teaching and miracles showed Himself to be the Son of God. The Church shows us to-day how, by the knowledge and miracles of St. Raymund and thanks to her saints, she also has a part in the divinity of the Word.

Having given up everything to enter the order of St. Dominic, one of whose glories he is, St. Raymund "meditated on the law of God" (Introit) and wrote the Summa of cases of conscience, a summary of Christian morals which is much esteemed. Wherefore the Church awarded him the title of "eminent minister of the Sacrament of penance" (Collect).

The Collect alludes to the miracle by which, having spread out his cloak on the waters, St. Raymund in six hours crossed the 53 leagues of sea which separate the island of Majorca from Barcelona.

He persuaded St. Peter of Nolasco to sacrifice his fortune for the ransoming of Christians detained as captives in the Barbary States, and with that end in view obtained the institution of the Order of Mercy.

St. Raymund, unwilling to be surprised by the sudden arrival of the Lord (Gospel), employed the last 35 years of his life in a very special manner in preparing himself for death. The saint gave up his soul to God in 1275 at the age of 99.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1013.

Through the intercession of St. Raymund, who was the eminent minister of the Sacrament of penance and who miraculously crossed the sea, let us obtain to produce worthy fruits of penance and to reach the haven of eternal salvation (Collect).

Mass : Os justi, p. 270, except :

Collect.—O God, Who didst elect blessed Raymund to be eminent above others, by a wise and holy administering of the sacrament of penance, and didst cause him in wondrous wise to walk upon the waves of the sea, grant that we, helped by his prayers, may bring forth worthy fruits of penance, and may in the end safely reach the harbour of eternal life.

Orémus.—Deus, qui beátum Raymúndum poeniténtiae sacraménti insígnem minístrum elegísti, et per maris undas mirabíliter traduxísti : concéde ; ut ejus intercessióne dignos poeniténtiae fructus fácere, et ad aetérnae salútis portum perveníre valeámus. Per Dóminum.

Second Collect of St. Emerentiana : Indulgéntiam, p. 286 ; Third Collect : Deus qui salútis, p. 155.

SAME DAY.

St. Emerentiana, VIRGIN, MARTYR.*—Red vestments.

A foster-sister of St. Agnes, the virgin Emerentiana, while still a catechumen shed tears on the tomb of her friend who had just been martyred. Some Pagans mocked at her grief. She, full of the divine virtue of which Jesus is the source (Collect), reproached the idolaters with their cruelty towards Agnes, and they in their fury stoned her on that very tomb. Baptised in her own blood, she went to join for evermore her Spouse and her sister (about 304).

Mass : Me exspectavérunt, p. 286.

JANUARY 24.

St. Timothy, BISHOP, MARTYR.†—Double.—Red vestments.

St. Timothy, born at Lystra (Asia-Minor) of a pagan father and a Jewish mother, was already a Christian when St. Paul came to that town. St. Paul, whose conversion we celebrate to-morrow, was struck by his holiness and took him as a companion in his travels. St. Timothy thereupon gave up everything and became his disciple (Gospel).

St. Paul conferred on him full sacerdotal powers (Introit) and committed to his care the government of the Church of Ephesus. We read in the Epistle a passage of one of the two admirable letters which his Master wrote to him. St. Timothy was stoned to death in his episcopal city († 97).

Let us with Timothy confess the divinity of Christ in this Season after Epiphany, which is its liturgical manifestation.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009. † Ibid., p. 1005.

Mass: Státuit, of a Martyr, Pont., p. 215 except:

Léctio Epistolae beáti Paúli Apóstoli ad Timótheum.—CARISSIME: Sectáre justítiam, pietátem, fidem, caritátem, patiéntiam, mansuetúdinem. Certa bonum certámen fídei, apprehénde vitam aetérnam, in qua vocátus es, et conféssus bonam confessiónem coram multis téstibus. Praecípio tibi coram Deo, qui vivíficat ómnia, et Christo Jesu, qui testimónium réddidit sub Póntio Piláto, bonam confessiónem: ut serves mandátum sine mácula, irreprehensíbile usque in advéntum Dómini nostri Jesu Christi, quem suis tempóribus osténdet beátus, et solus potens, Rex regum, et Dóminus dominántium: qui solus habet immortalitátem, et lucem inhábitat inaccessíbilem: quem nullus hóminum vidit, sed nec vidére potest: cui honor et impérium sempitérnum. Amen.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to Timothy. 1 Tim. vi. 11-16.—DEARLY beloved: Follow after justice, godliness, faith, charity, patience, mildness. Fight the good fight of faith; lay hold on eternal life, whereunto thou art called, and hast confessed a good confession before many witnesses. I charge thee before God, Who quickeneth all things, and before Christ Jesus, Who gave testimony under Pontius Pilate, a good confession; that thou keep the commandment without spot, blameless, unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ; which, in His times, He shall show who is the Blessed and only Mighty, the King of kings, and Lord of lords; Who alone hath immortality, and inhabiteth light inaccessible; Whom no man hath seen, nor can see; to Whom be honour and empire everlasting. Amen.

JANUARY 25.

The Conversion of St. Paul.*—Greater-double.—White vestments.

Paul of Tarsus was a Jew of the tribe of Benjamin. A most zealous Pharisee, he appears in the Epistle as full of hatred "for the disciples of the Lord." He becomes a "vessel of election" so filled with the Holy Ghost (Epistle), "that all nations shall drink of its fulness," says St. Ambrose, and shall learn through him that "Jesus is the Son of God" (Epistle).

St. Paul is the twelfth Apostle of Christ (Alleluia), "he shall sit in one of the twelve seats and shall judge the world when the Son of Man shall Himself be seated on the throne which belongs to Him as Son of God" (Gospel).

We owe it to to-day's feast, which follows by a few days that of the Chair of St. Peter at Rome, and which had for its origin a translation of the body of St. Paul, that we are enabled to see the whole Season after Epiphany represented in a picture giving us an admirable vision of the Kingship of Jesus (see p. 459). In the foreground are the two witnesses of the Divinity of Christ, St. Peter more especially sent to the sons of Israel and St. Paul to the Gentiles (Collect, Gradual). In the background is Galilee with its verdant hills where we perceive Cana, the Synagogue of Nazareth and the lake of Genesareth, where Jesus by His miracles proved that He was the Son of God.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1005.

Following the example of St. Paul, let us show by our faith and by a new life that Jesus is God and that He is our King.

MASS.

Introit. 2. Tim. i. 12.—I know Whom I have believed, and I am certain that He is able to keep that which I have committed to Him, against that day; being a just Judge. Ps. cxxxviii. 1, 2. Lord, Thou hast proved me and known me: Thou hast known my sitting down, and my rising up. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus.—Scio cui crédidi et certus sum, quia potens est depósitum meum serváre in illum diem, justus judex. Ps. Dómine, probásti me, et cognovísti me: tu cognovísti sessiónem meam, et resurrectiónem meam. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—O God, Who didst set up Blessed Paul, the Apostle, to be the teacher of all mankind: vouchsafe that we, who this day celebrate his conversion, may be drawn to Thee by the example he has left us. Through our Lord.

Orémus.—Deus, qui univérsum mundum beáti Pauli Apóstoli praedicatióne docuísti: da nobis, quaesumus; ut, qui ejus hódie Conversiónem cólimus, per ejus ad te exémpla gradiámur. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of St. Peter.

Collect.—O God, Who upon blessed Peter, Thine apostle, didst bestow the priestly power of binding and loosing, and didst give to him the keys of the kingdom of heaven: grant that his intercession may ensure our deliverance from the bondage of sin: Who livest and reignest.

Orémus.—Deus, qui beáto Petro Apóstolo tuo, collátis clávibus regni coeléstis, ligándi atque solvéndi pontifícium tradidísti: concéde; ut, intercessiónis ejus auxílio, a peccatórum nostrórum néxibus liberémur: Qui vivis.

Epistle.—Lesson from the Acts of the Apostles ix. 1-22.—In those days, Saul, as yet breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples

Epistola. — Léctio Actuum Apóstolorum. — In diébus illis: Saulus adhuc spírans minárum, et coedis in discípulos Dómini, accéssit ad prín-cipem sacerdótum, et pétiit ab eo epístolas in Damáscum ad synagógas: ut si quos invenísset hujus viae viros, ac mulíeres, vinctos perdúceret in Jerúsalem. Et cum iter fáceret, cóntigit, ut appropinquáret Damásco: et súbito circumfúlsit eum lux de coelo. Et cadens in terram, audívit vocem dicéntem sibi: Saule, Saule, quid me perséqueris? Qui dixit: Quis es, Dómine? Et ille: Ego sum Jesus, quem tu perséqueris: durum est tibi contra stímulum calcitráre. Et tremens, ac stupens, dixit: Dómine, quid me vis fácere? Et Dóminus ad eum: Surge, et ingrédere civitátem, et ibi dicétur tibi quid te opórteat fácere. Viri autem illi, qui comitabántur cum eo, stabant stupefácti, audiéntes quidem vocem, néminem autem vidéntes. Surréxit autem Saulus de terra, apertísque óculis nihil vidébat. Ad manus autem illum trahéntes, introduxérunt Damáscum. Et erat ibi tribus diébus non videns, et non manducávit, neque bibit. Erat autem quidam discípulus Damásci, nómine Ananías: et dixit ad illum in visu Dóminus: Ananía. At ille ait: Ecce ego, Dómine. Et Dóminus ad eum: Surge, et vade in vicum, qui vocátur Rectus: et quaere in domo Judae Saulum nómine Tarsénsem: ecce enim orat. (Et vidit virum, Ananiam nómine, introeúntem, et imponéntem sibi manus, ut visum recípiat.)

of the Lord, went to the high priest, and asked of him letters to Damascus, to the synagogues; that if he found any men and women of this way, he might bring them bound to Jerusalem. And as he went on his journey, it came to pass that he drew nigh to Damascus: and suddenly a light from heaven shined round about him. And falling on the ground, he heard a voice saying to him: Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou Me! Who said: Who art Thou, Lord? And He said: I am Jesus of Nazareth, Whom thou persecutest. It is hard for thee to kick against the goad. And he trembling and astonished, said: Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do! And the Lord said to him: Arise, and go into the city, and there it shall be told thee what thou must do. Now the men who went in company with him stood amazed, hearing indeed a voice, but seeing no man. And Saul arose from the ground, and when his eyes were opened, he saw nothing. But they, leading him by the hand, brought him to Damascus. And he was there three days without sight; and he did neither eat nor drink. Now there was a certain disciple at Damascus, named Ananias: and the Lord said to him in a vision: Ananias. And he said: Behold I am here, Lord. And the Lord said to him: Arise and go into the street that is called Strait, and seek in the house of Judas, one named Saul of Tarsus; for behold he prayeth. (And he saw a man, named Ananias, coming in, and putting his hands upon him, that he might recover his sight.) But Ananias answered: Lord, I have heard by many of this man, how much evil he hath done to Thy saints in Jerusalem: and here he hath authority from the chief priests to bind all that invoke Thy name. And the Lord said to him: Go thy way; for this man is to me a vessel of election, to carry My name before the Gentiles, and kings, and the children of Israel. For I will show him how great things he must suffer for My name's sake. And Ananias went his way, and entered into the house, and laying his hands upon him, he said: Brother Saul, the Lord Jesus hath sent me, He that appeared to thee in the way as thou camest, that thou mayest receive thy sight, and be filled with the Holy Ghost. And immediately there fell from his eyes as it were scales, and he received his sight; and rising up he was baptised. And when he had taken meat, he was strengthened. And he was with the disciples that were at Damascus for some days. And immediately he preached Jesus in the synagogues, that He is the Son of God. And all that heard him were astonished, and said: Is not this he who persecuted in Jerusalem those who called upon this name: and came hither for that intent, that he might carry them bound to the chief priest?

Respóndit autem Ananías: Dómine, audívi a multis de viro hoc, quanta mala fécerit sanctis tuis in Jerúsalem: et hic habet potestátem a princípibus sacerdótum alligándi omnes, qui invócant nomen tuum. Dixit autem ad eum Dóminus: Vade, quóniam vas electiónis est mihi iste, ut portet nomen meum coram géntibus, et régibus, et fíliis Israël. Ego enim osténdam illi, quanta opórteat eum pro nómine meo pati. Et ábiit Ananías, et introívit in domum: et impónens ei manus, dixit: Saule frater, Dóminus misit me Jesus, qui appáruit tibi in via, qua veniébas, ut vídeas, et impleáris Spíritu Sancto. Et conféstim cecidérunt ab óculis ejus tanquam squamae, et visum recépit: et surgens baptizátus est. Et cum accepísset cibum, confortátus est. Fuit autem cum discípulis, qui erant Damásci, per dies áliquot. Et contínuo in synagógis praedicábat Jesum, quóniam hic est Fílius Dei. Stupébant autem omnes, qui audiébant, et dicébant: Nonne hic est, qui expugnábat in Jerúsalem eos, qui invocábant nomen istud: et huc ad hoc venit, ut vinctos illos dúceret ad príncipes sacerdótum? Saulus autem multo magis convalescébat, et confundébat Judaeos, qui habitábant Damásci, affírmans quóniam hic est Christus.

But Saul increased much more in strength, and confounded the Jews who dwelt in Damascus, affirming that this is the Christ.

Graduále.—Qui operátus est Petro in apostolátum, operátus est et mihi inter gentes: et cognovérunt grátiam Dei, quae data est mihi. ℣. Grátia Dei in me vácua non fuit: sed grátia ejus semper in me manet.

Gradual. Gal. ii. 8, 9.—He Who wrought in Peter to the apostleship, wrought in me also among the Gentiles, and they knew the grace of God which was given to me. ℣. The grace of God in me hath not been void; but His grace always remaineth in me.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Magnus sanctus Paulus, vas electiónis, vere digne est glorificándus, qui et méruit thronum duodécimum possidére. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia.—The great saint Paul, the vessel of election, is truly worthy of all glory; for he hath deserved to possess the twelfth throne. Alleluia.

After Septuagesima, instead of the Alleluia and Verse, the following is said:

Tractus.— Tu es vas electiónis, sancte Paule Apóstole: vere digne es glorificándus. ℣. Praedicátor veritátis, et doctor géntium in fide et veritáte. ℣. Per te omnes gentes cognovérunt grátiam Dei. ℣. Inter céde pro nobis ad Deum, qui te elégit.

Tract. — Thou art a vessel of election, holy Paul the Apostle: truly thou art worthy to be glorified. ℣. The preacher of truth, and doctor of the Gentiles, in faith and truth. ℣. Through thee all the Gentiles have known the grace of God. ℣. Intercede for us to God, Who chose thee.

Gospel: Ecce nos, p. 278.—The Credo is said.

Offertórium. — Mihi autem nimis honoráti sunt amíci tui, Deus: nimis confortátus est principátus eórum.

Offertory. Ps. cxxxviii. 17.—But to me Thy friends, O God, are made exceedingly honourable: their principality is exceedingly strengthened.

Secret: Apostoli tui, p. 1221.

Commúnio. — Amen dico vobis: quod vos, qui reliquístis ómnia, et secúti estis me, céntuplum accipiétis, et vitam aetérnam possidébitis.

Communion. Matt. xix. 28, 29.—Amen I say to you, that you who have left all things, and followed Me, shall receive a hundredfold, and shall possess life everlasting.

Postcommunion: Sanctificáti Dómine, p. 1221.

For St. Peter: Laetificet nos, p. 1221.

JANUARY 26.

St. Polycarp, BISHOP AND MARTYR.*—Double.—Red vestments.

St. Polycarp, a disciple of St. John, was by him invested with full sacerdotal powers (Introit) and made bishop of Smyrna. In a letter he writes to the Philippians, he quotes the first Epistle of his Master, of which a passage is read in to-day's liturgy. "Whoever," he declares after St. John, "does not confess that Christ has come in the flesh is an antichrist." He claims for Jesus the reality of His quality of Son of God against the heretics of his day who affirmed that the Incarnation of the Word was only a semblance. One day when the heretic Marcian asked him if he was known to him, the holy bishop replied "that he knew him as the eldest son of Satan." And to-day's Epistle enables us to distinguish "the sons of God from those who are the sons of Satan." Those who, like Christ, love their brethren, and, like Him, give their lives for them, are of God. That is what St. Polycarp will do. Martyred in the persecution under Commodus, he bore testimony to Christ (Gospel). He was burned in the middle of the amphitheatre and then struck with the sword, in the year 155. He was 86 years old.

Like Polycarp (which name signifies much fruit) let us produce much fruit by loving our neighbour for Jesus's sake.

Mass : Sacerdótes, p. 219, except :

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed John the Apostle. 1 John iii. 10-16.—MOST dearly beloved, whosoever is not just, is not of God, nor he that loveth not his brother. For this is the declaration, which you have heard from the beginning, that you should love one another. Not as Cain, who was of the wicked one, and killed his brother. And wherefore did he kill him? Because his own works were wicked, and his brother's just. Wonder not, brethren, if the world hate you. We know that we have passed from death to life: because we love the brethren. He that loveth not, abideth in death. Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer. And you know that no murderer hath eternal life abiding in himself. In this we have known the Léctio Epistolae beáti Joánnis Apóstoli.—CARISSIMI : Omnis qui non est justus, non est ex Deo, et qui non díligit fratrem suum : quóniam haec est annuntiátio, quam audístis ab inítio, ut diligátis altérutrum. Non sicut Cain, qui ex malígno erat, et occídit fratrem suum. Et propter quid occídit eum? Quóniam ópera ejus malígna erant: fratris autem ejus justa. Nolíte mirári, fratres, si odit vos mundus. Nos scimus, quóniam transláti sumus de morte ad vitam, quóniam diligámus fratres. Qui non díligit, manet in morte : omnis qui odit fratrem suum, homicída est. Et scitis, quóniam omnis homicída non habet vitam aetérnam in semetipso manéntem. In hoc cognóvimus caritátem Dei, quóniam ille ánimam suam pro nobis pósuit: et nos debémus pro frátribus ánimas pónere.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1003.

charity of God, because He hath laid down His life for us; and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Nihil est opértum, quod non revelábitur: et occúltum, quod non sciétur. Quod dico vobis in ténebris, dícite in lúmine: et quod in aure audítis, praedicáte super tecta. Et nolíte timére eos, qui occídunt corpus, ánimam autem non possunt occídere; sed pótius timéte eum, qui potest et ánimam et corpus pérdere in gehénnam. Nonne duo pásseres asse véneunt: et unus ex illis non cadet super terram sine Patre vestro? Vestri autem capílli cápitis omnes numeráti sunt. Nolíte ergo timére: multis passéribus melióres estis vos. Omnis ergo, qui confitébitur me coram homínibus, confitébor et ego eum coram Patre meo, qui in coelis est.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew x. 26-32.—At that time, Jesus said to His disciples: Nothing is covered that shall not be revealed; nor hid, that shall not be known. That which I tell you in the dark, speak ye in the light; and that which you hear in the ear, preach ye upon the house-tops. And fear ye not them that kill the body, and are not able to kill the soul; but rather fear him that can destroy both soul and body in hell. Are not two sparrows sold for a farthing, and not one of them shall fall on the ground without your Father; but the very hairs of your head are all numbered. Fear not, therefore; better are you than many sparrows. Every one therefore that shall confess Me before men, I will also confess him before My Father Who is in heaven.

Postcommúnio.—Refécti participatióne múneris sacri, quaesumus, Dómine Deus noster: ut, cujus exséquimur cultum, intercedénte beáto Polycárpo Mártyre tuo atque Pontífice, sentiámus efféctum. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—Being refreshed with the participation of the holy gift, we beseech Thee, O Lord our God, that by the intercession of blessed Polycarp, Thy martyr and bishop, we may experience the effect of what we celebrate. Through our Lord.

JANUARY 27.

St. John Chrysostom, Bishop, Confessor and Doctor of the Church.*—Double.—White vestments.

St. John Chrysostom, born at Antioch towards 347, was a great genius and his powerful eloquence earned for him the surname of Chrysostom, or golden mouthed. The people of Constantinople, eager to hear him, crowded his cathedral.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010.

He ardently loved St. Paul, of whom he would say: "The heart of Paul is the heart of Christ." He also passionately loved Christ, and like the great Apostle he suffered everything rather than allow His divine rights to be impaired.

With St. Athanasius, St. Gregory of Nazianzen and St. Basil, he forms the group of the four great doctors of the Eastern Church (Introit). Anointed archbishop of the imperial city, he always distributed to those whose father he had become the bread of the word and of grace (Communion). His courage in branding vice, "in correcting in season and out of seasons" (Epistle), in order always to be the salt of wisdom which preserves souls from corruption (Gospel) caused him to be exiled and ill-treated in all manner of ways (Alleluia). He died in Pontus on September 14, 407. January 27 is the anniversary of the translation of his relics under Theodore II. in 438.

Let us love to hear the divine word, and let us keep it in our hearts, so that our lives reflect the life of God.

Mass: In médio, p. 263, except:

Collect.—We beseech Thee, O Lord, that heavenly grace may increase Thy Church, which Thou wert pleased to illustrate by the glorious merits and teaching of blessed John Thy confessor and bishop. Through our Lord.	Orémus.—Ecclésiam tuam, quaesumus, Dómine, grátia coeléstis amplíficet: quam beáti Joánnis Chrysóstomi Confessóris tui atque Pontíficis illustráre voluísti gloriósis méritis et doctrínis. Per Dóminum.
Gradual. Ecclus. xliv. 16.—Behold a great priest who in his days pleased God. ℣. Ibid. 20. There was not any found like to him, who kept the law of the Most High.	Graduále. — Ecce sacérdos magnus, qui in diébus suis plácuit Deo. ℣. Non est invéntus símilis illi, qui conserváret legem Excélsi.
Alleluia, alleluia. Jas. i. 12.—Blessed is the man that endureth temptation: for when he hath been proved, he shall receive the crown of life. Alleluia.	Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Beátus vir, qui suffert tentatiónem: quóniam cum probátus fúerit, accípiet corónam vitae. Allelúia.

After Septuagesima, instead of Alleluia and Verse, the following is said:

Tract. Ps. cxi. 1-3.—Blessed is the man that feareth the Lord: he delights exceedingly in His commandments. ℣. His seed shall be mighty upon earth: the	Tractus.—Beátus vir, qui timet Dóminum: in mandátis ejus cupit nimis. ℣. Potens in terra erit semen ejus: generátio rectórum benedicétur. ℣.

Glória et divitíae in domo ejus: et justítia ejus manet in saeculum saeculi.

generation of the righteous shall be blessed. ℣. Glory and wealth shall be in his house: and his justice remaineth for ever and ever.

JANUARY 28.

St. Agnes, for the Second Time.—Simple.—Red vestments.

Eight days after the martyrdom of St. Agnes, her parents came to pray at her tomb. The saint appeared to them surrounded by a "bevy of virgins" (Introit), resplendent with light. "On her right hand was a lamb whiter than snow: it was Christ consecrating His union with the one who by her virginity and martyrdom became His spouse." *

MASS.

Intróitus. — Vultum tuum deprecabúntur omnes dívites plebis: adducéntur regi vírgines post eam: próximae ejus adducéntur tibi in laetítia et exsultatióne. Ps. Eructávit cor meum verbum bonum: dico ego ópera mea Regi. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. xliv. 13, 15, 16.—All the rich among the people shall entreat Thy countenance: after her shall virgins be brought to the King: her neighbours shall be brought to Thee in gladness and rejoicing. Ps. My heart hath uttered a good word: I speak my works to the King. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus.—Deus, qui nos ánnua beátae Agnétis Vírginis et Mártyris tuae solemnitáte laetíficas: da, quaesumus; ut, quam venerámur offício, étiam piae conversatiónis sequámur exémplo. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who each year dost gladden us with the return of the feast-day of blessed Agnes, Thy virgin-martyr, make us, we beseech Thee, while devoutly venerating her memory, ever to strive to model our lives upon the holy example she has left us Through our Lord.

Epistle: Qui gloriátur, p. 291.—Gradual: Spécie tua and Alleluia: Adducéntur, or after Sept. Tract: Audi fília, p. 292.—Gospel: Símile est, p. 288, and Offertory: Diffúsa est, p. 288.

Secréta.—Super has, quaesumus, Dómine, hóstias benedíctio copiósa descéndat: quae et sanctificatiónem nobis cleménter operétur, et de Mártyrum nos solemnitáte laetíficet. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Upon this our sacrifice, send down, we beseech Thee, O Lord, Thine abundant blessing: through it may Thy mercy work out our sanctification, and so impart true joy to us who keep the festivals of Thy holy martyrs. Through our Lord.

* Ant. of Vespers at the Magnificat.

Communion. Matt. xiii. 45-46.—The kingdom of heaven is like to a merchant seeking good pearls; who, when he had found one pearl of great price, gave all that he had, and bought it.

Commúnio.—Símile est regnum coelorum hómini negotiatóri, quaerénti bonas margarítas: invénta autem una pretiósa margaríta, dedit ómnia sua, et comparávit eam.

Postcommunion.—Thou hast bestowed upon us, O Lord, the sacraments we, with exceeding desire, have sought to receive on this annual festival day; grant, we beseech Thee, that they be to us a healing remedy in the ills of this life, and a pledge of the blessedness to which we look as our lot, in that which is eternal. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio.—Súmpsimus, Dómine, celebritátis ánnuae votíva sacraménta: praesta, quaesumus; ut et temporális vitae nobis remédia praebeant, et aetérnae. Per Dóminum.

JANUARY 29.

St. Francis of Sales, BISHOP, CONFESSOR AND DOCTOR OF THE CHURCH.*—Double.—White vestments.

The Word made flesh makes known to us by his teaching the mysteries of His divine wisdom, and by His miracles His eternal love. St. Francis of Sales, a doctor of the Church, had a share in the knowledge of the Incarnate Word (Gradual), and like Him, by his gentle charity (Collect) worked wonders of conversion.

Sent to " preach the word of God to the calvinists of Chablais, he brought back sixty thousand to the catholic faith " (Breviary). Having become the Father of the church at Geneva and founder of the Order of the Visitation, he shed over this double family (Communion) the rays of his apostolic zeal and of his gentle holiness.

" May your light shine before men, so that seeing your works they may glorify your Father who is in heaven " (Gospel). It is especially God's goodness which this saint revealed. " If we must fall into some excess," St. Francis of Sales would say, " let it be on the side of gentleness."

" I wish to love him so much, this dear neighbour, I wish to love him so much! It has pleased God so to make my heart! Oh! when shall we be impregnated with gentleness and in charity towards our neighbour?"

St. Francis of Sales died at Lyons in 1622.

Let us remember this saint's two sayings: " You can catch more flies with a spoonful of honey than with a hundred barrels of vinegar." " What is good makes no noise, noise does no good."

Mass: In médio, p. 263, except:

Collect.—O God Who, in order that souls might be saved, didst will that blessed Francis should become all things to all men: fill our hearts, we beseech Thee,

Orátio.—Deus, qui ad animárum salútem beátum Francíscum, Confessórem tuum atque Pontíficem, ómnibus ómnia factum esse voluísti: concéde

* See Historical Summary, p. 1016.

propítius: ut caritátis tuae dulcédine perfúsi, ejus dirigéntibus mónitis, ac suffragántibus méritis, aetérna gáudia consequámur. Per Dóminum.

with that charity which is sweet; so that, guided by his teaching, and having part in his merits, we may attain to everlasting happiness. Through our Lord.

JANUARY 30.

St. Martina, VIRGIN, MARTYR.*—Semi-double.—Red vestments.

The cycle makes us honour to-day a virgin who, by her constancy in the midst of the most atrocious torments, bore witness before all (Introit) to the divinity of Christ her spouse (Gospel). "I am a Christian," she declares to her executioners, "and I confess Jesus Christ."

The Epistle puts on her lips the words of Wisdom: "Lord, my Saviour, Thou has become my help and protector." And she herself said, in the midst of her sufferings: "I love my Lord Jesus Christ Who strengthens me."

St. Martina was beheaded in 228 and joined in heaven the train of Virgins who surround the divine King (Alleluia). Her remains rest in a former temple of Mars, transformed into a church which bears the name of this virgin, whose name recalls that of the god of war.—Let us arm ourselves, to defend the divinity of Jesus, with the love of purity.

Mass: Loquébar, p. 282.

JANUARY 31.

St. Peter Nolasco, CONFESSOR.†—Double.—White vestments.

Jesus has manifested His divinity by healing both souls and bodies. St. Peter Nolasco, impelled by this example of divine charity and by a heavenly inspiration (Collect) of which St. Raymund of Pennafort was the instrument, spent all the money he possessed (Gospel) in delivering Christians from the captivity in which their bodies languished among the infidels and their souls were exposed to great dangers.

The Order of our Lady of Mercy, founded with this object, shows how the Kingship of Jesus extends to both the natural and supernatural worlds. By a special vow the religious bound themselves to become prisoners of the pagans, if necessary, for the deliverance of their brethren in Christ (Epistle). He died in 1256, and was buried with his cuirass and sword.

Mass: Justus, p. 273, except:

Orémus.—Deus, qui in tuae caritátis exémplum, ad fidélium redemptiónem sanctum Petrum Ecclésiam tuam nova prole foecundáre divínitus docuísti: ipsíus nobis interces-

Collect. Ps. cxxxi. 1.—O God Who, after the example of Thy charity, didst divinely teach holy Peter to render Thy Church fruitful in a new progeny for the redemption of the faithful; grant us, through his intercession, that, being loosed from our sins, we may enjoy perpetual liberty in our heavenly country. Through our Lord.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008. † Ibid., p. 1012.

sióne concéde; a peccáti servitúte solútis, in coelésti pátria perpétua libertáte gaudére: Qui vivis.

Secret and Postcommunion of the Mass: Os justi, p. 270.

FEASTS OF FEBRUARY.

FEBRUARY 1.

St. Ignatius, BISHOP AND MARTYR.*—Double.—Red vestments.

The affirmation of the divinity of Jesus, founded on the wisdom of His words and the miracles of His life, is the object aimed at in what is put before us by the Season after Epiphany which ends to-morrow. St. Ignatius, illustrious for his teaching, corroborates these different testimonies by his martyrdom, one of the most glorious.

This third successor of St. Peter at Antioch (Gradual) was condemned to the wild beasts during the persecution of Trajan and sent in chains to Rome. The Introit and Epistle sum up the sentiments of his heart. " Let fire, cross, beasts, and all the torments of the devil come upon me, so long as I enjoy Jesus Christ."

" The grain of wheat must die in order to bring forth much fruit " (Gospel). And St. Ignatius on hearing the roaring of the lions exclaimed " I am the wheat of Jesus Christ: may I be ground by the fangs of wild beasts and become a bread agreeable to my Lord Jesus Christ " (Communion). He was martyred at Rome in 107. His name is mentioned in the Canon of the Mass (Second list, p. 65).

Let us like this saint die to the world and to ourselves as a testimony that it is Jesus who lives in us (Alleluia).

MASS.

Introit. Gal. vi. 14.—God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ: by Whom the world is crucified to me, and I to the world. Ps. cxxxi. 1.—O Lord, remember David, and all his meekness. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Introítus. — Mihi autem absit gloriári, nisi in cruce Dómini nostri Jesu Christi, per quem mihi mundus crucifíxus est, et ego mundo. Ps. Meménto, Dómine, David: et omnis mansuetúdinis ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—Have regard to our weakness, O Almighty God, and, as the weight of our own deeds is grievous to us, may the glorious intercession of blessed Ignatius, Thy martyr and bishop, protect us. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Infirmitátem nostram réspice omnípotens Deus: et, quia pondus própriae actiónis gravat, beáti Ignátii Mártyris tui atque Pontíficis intercéssio gloriósa nos prótegat. Per Dóminum.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008.

Léctio Epístolae béati Pauli Apóstoli ad Romános.—FRATRES: Quis nos separábit a caritáte Christi? tribulátio, an angústia, an fames, an núditas, an perículum, an persecútio, an gládius? (sicut scriptum est: Quia propter te mortificámur tota die: aestimáti sumus sicut oves occisiónis.) Sed in his ómnibus superámus propter eum, qui diléxit nos. Certus sum enim, quia neque mors, neque vita, neque ángeli, neque principátus, neque virtútes, neque instántia, neque fútura, neque fortitúdo, neque altitúdo, neque profúndum, neque creatúra ália póterit nos separáre a caritáte Dei, quae est in Christo Jesu Dómino nostro.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Romans viii. 35-39.—BRETHREN, who shall separate us from the love of Christ? shall tribulation? or distress? or famine? or nakedness? or danger? or persecution? or the sword? (As it is written: For Thy sake we are put to death all the day long: we are accounted as sheep for the slaughter.) But in all these things we overcome because of Him that hath loved us. For I am sure that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor might, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord

Graduále. — Ecce sacérdos magnus, qui in diébus suis plácuit Deo. ℣. Non est invéntus símilis illi, qui conserváret legem Excélsi.

Gradual. Ecclus. xliv. 16.—Behold a great priest, who in his days pleased God. ℣. Ibid. 20.—There was not any found like to him, who kept the law of the Most High.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Christo confíxus sum cruci: vivo ego, jam non ego, vivit vero in me Christus. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Gal. ii. 19, 20.—With Christ I am nailed to the cross: I live, now not I, but Christ liveth in me. Alleluia.

After Septuagesima, instead of the Alleluia and Verse, the following is said:

Tractus. — Desidérium ánimae ejus tribuísti ei: et voluntáte labiórum ejus non fraudásti eum. ℣. Quóniam praevenísti eum in benedictiónibus dulcédinis. ℣. Posuísti in cápite ejus corónam de lápide pretióso.

Tract. Ps. xx. 3, 4.—Thou hast given him his heart's desire, and hast not withholden from him the will of his lips. ℣. For Thou hast prevented him with blessings of sweetness. ℣. Thou hast set on his head a crown of precious stones.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John xii. 24-26.—At that time, Jesus said to His disciples: Amen, amen I say to you, unless the grain of wheat falling into the ground, die, itself remaineth alone: but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit. He that loveth his life, shall lose it; and he that hateth his life in this world, keepeth it unto life eternal. If any man minister to Me, let him follow Me; and where I am, there also shall My minister be. If any man minister to Me, him will My Father honour.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem. — In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Amen, amen dico vobis, nisi granum fruménti cadens in terram, mórtuum fúerit, ipsum solum manet: si autem mórtuum fúerit, multum fructum affert Qui amat ánimam suam, perdet eam: et qui odit ánimam súam in hoc mundo, in vitam aetérnam custódit eam. Si quis mihi minístrat, me sequátur: et ubi sum ego, illic et minister meus erit. Si quis mihi ministráverit, honorificábit eum Pater meus.

Offertory. Ps. viii. 6, 7.—Thou hast crowned Him with glory and honour: and hast set Him over the works of Thy hands, O Lord.

Offertórium.—Glória et honóre coronásti eum: et constituísti eum super ópera mánuum tuárum, Dómine.

Secret.—Graciously accept, O Lord, the offerings devoted to Thee, through the merits of blessed Ignatius, Thy martyr and bishop; and grant that they may become a perpetual support to us. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Hóstias tibi, Dómine, beáti Ignátii Mártyris tui atque Pontíficis dicátas méritis, benígnus assúme: et ad perpétuum nobis tríbue proveníre subsídium. Per Dóminum.

Communion. Act. S. Ign.—I am the wheat of Christ; may I be ground by the teeth of beasts, that I may be found pure bread.

Commúnio. — Fruméntum Christi sum: déntibus bestiárum molar, ut panis mundus invéniar.

Postcommunion. — Being refreshed with the participation of the holy gift, we beseech Thee, O Lord our God, that by the intercession of blessed Ignatius, Thy martyr and bishop, we may experience the effect of what we celebrate. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio.—Refécti participatióne múneris sacri, quaesumus, Dómine Deus noster: ut, cujus exséquimur cultum, intercedénte beáto Ignátio Mártyre tuo atque Pontífice, sentiámus efféctum. Per Dóminum.

FEBRUARY 2.

The Purification of the Blessed Virgin Mary.—Double of the Second Class.—White vestments.

With the feast of the Purification ends the Sanctoral Cycle of the Season after Epiphany.* It is one of the oldest feasts of the Virgin and at Rome in the seventh century it ranked after the Assumption. The feast is held on February 2, because Mary, wishing to obey the Mosaic law, had to go to Jerusalem forty days after the birth of Jesus (December 25-February 2) to offer the prescribed sacrifice.† Mothers were to offer a lamb, or if their means did not allow, " two doves or two young pigeons."

The Blessed Virgin took with her to Jerusalem the infant Jesus, and the Candlemas procession recalls the journey of Mary and Joseph ascending to the temple to present " the Angel of the Covenant " (Epistle, Introit), as Malachy had prophesied.

" The wax of the candles signifies the virginal flesh of the Divine Infant," says St. Anselm, " the wick figures His soul and the flame His divinity."

The Purification to which the mother of the Saviour was not obliged to conform, as her motherhood was beyond ordinary laws, is not placed in the foreground by the liturgy and the Presentation of Jesus is the principal object of this feast.

If this solemnity is considered as belonging to the Season of Christmas, Jesus will be seen manifested by Simeon as the God Who " shall illumine the Gentiles with His light and shall be the glory of the people of Israel " (Gospel); and if, as belonging to the Season after Epiphany, we shall adore Jesus in the accomplishment of this prophecy, either at the marriage feast at Cana, where He commences to " manifest His glory " (Gospel of Second Sunday), or in the midst of the multitude, when He spreads the light of His doctrine (Gospel of the fifth and sixth Sundays).

* See Liturgical Summary, p. 461.

† The Church has instituted for Christian mothers the fine ceremony of churching. See supplementary part concerning baptism.

We may read the fourth Collect of the blessing of candles in order to understand the symbolism of the lamp of the sanctuary and the candles blessed on this day, and to know the right use to be made of them by the bed of the dying, during storms and in the perils to which may be exposed " our bodies and souls on land and on the waters " (First Collect of the blessing of candles).

If the feast of the Purification falls on a privileged Sunday, it is solemnised on the following day; nevertheless the blessing of the candles takes place before the Sunday Mass.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his parishioners.

FIRST VESPERS (FEBRUARY 1).

Antiphons and Psalms of the Circumcision, p. 429.

Chapter, Hymn and Verse of Second Vespers, p. 1256.

Antiphon at the Magnificat.—The old man held the child in his arms, but the child was the old man's Lord. Him Whom a virgin brought forth, remaining a virgin still, that same did she adore.

Ant.—Senex * púerum portábat, puer autem senem regébat: quem virgo péperit, et post partum virgo permánsit: ipsum quem génuit, adorávit.

Collect, p. 1253.

Commemoration of St. Ignatius, Martyr: Antiphon Qui vult; ℣. Justus, p. 229.

THE BLESSING OF THE CANDLES.

℣. The Lord be with you.
℟. And with thy spirit.

℣. Dóminus vobíscum. ℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

Collect.—O holy Lord, Father Almighty, eternal God, Who didst create all things out of nothing, and by Thy command didst cause this liquid to come by the labour of bees to the perfection of wax; and on this day didst fulfil the petition of the just man Simeon; we humbly beseech Thee, that by the invocation of Thy most holy name, and by the intercession of blessed Mary ever virgin, whose festival is this day devoutly celebrated, and by the prayers of all Thy

Orémus. — Dómine sancte Pater omnípotens, aetérne Deus, qui ómnia ex níhilo creásti, ut jussu tuo per ópera apum, hunc liquórem ad perfectiónem cérei veníre fecísti: et qui hodiérna die petiónem justi Simeónis implésti: te humíliter deprecámur; ut has candélas ad usus hóminum, et sanitátem córporum et animárum, sive in terra, sive in aquis, per invocatiónem tui sanctíssimi nóminis, et per intercessiónem beatae Maríae semper Vírginis, cujus hódie festa devóte celebrántur, et per preces ómnium Sanctórum tuórum, bene ✠ dícere, et sancti ✠ ficáre dignéris: et hujus plebis tuae, quae illas honoríﬁce in mánibus desíderat portáre, teque cantándo laudáre, exáudias voces de coelo sancto tuo, et de sede majestátis tuae: et propítius sis ómnibus clamántibus ad te, quos redemísti pretióso sánguine Fílii tui: Qui tecum.

saints, Thou wouldst vouchsafe to bless ✠ and sanctify ✠ these candles for the use of men, and the health of bodies and souls whether upon the earth, or in the waters; and wouldst hear from Thy holy heaven, and from the seat of Thy majesty, the voices of this Thy people, who desire to bear them with honour in their hands, and to praise Thee with hymns; and wouldst be propitious to all that call upon Thee, whom Thou hast redeemed with the precious blood of Thy Son; Who lives and reigns with Thee in the unity of the Holy Ghost, God, world without end. Amen.

Orémus. — Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, qui hodiérna die Unigénitum tuum ulnis sancti Simeónis in templo sancto tuo suscipiéndum praesentásti: tuam súpplices deprecámur cleméntiam; ut has candélas, quas nos fámuli tui, in tui nóminis magnificéntiam suscipiéntes, gestare cúpimus luce accénsas, bene ✠ dícere et sancti ✠ ficáre, atque lúmine supérnae benedictiónis accéndere dignéris: quátenus eas tibi Dómino Deo nostro offeréndo digni, et sancto igne dulcíssimae caritátis tuae succénsi, in templo sancto glóriae tuae repraesentári mereámur. Per eúmdem Dóminum nostrum. ℟. Amen.

Collect.—O almighty and everlasting God, Who didst this day present Thy only-begotten Son to be received in the arms of holy Simeon in Thy holy temple; we humbly implore Thy clemency, that Thou wouldst vouchsafe to bless ✠, sanctify ✠, and burn with the light of heavenly benediction these candles, which we Thy servants receiving desire to carry lighted to magnify Thy name; that by offering them to Thee, the Lord our God, being worthily inflamed with the holy fire of Thy most sweet charity, we may deserve to be presented in the, holy temple of Thy glory. Through the same our Lord. ℟. Amen.

Orémus. — Dómine Jesu Christe, lux vera, quae illúminas omnem hóminem veniéntem in hunc mundum: effúnde bene ✠ dictiónem tuam super hos céreos, et sancti ✠ fíca eos lúmine grátiae tuae, et con-

Collect.—O Lord Jesus Christ, the true light, Who enlightenest every man coming into this world, pour forth Thy blessing ✠ upon these tapers, and sanctify ✠ them with the light of Thy grace; and mercifully grant, that as these lights enkindled with visible fire dispel nocturnal darkness, so our hearts illumined by invisible fire, that is, the brightness of the Holy Spirit, may be free from the blindness of all vice; that our mental eye being purified, we may perceive those things which are pleasing to Thee and profitable to our salvation; so that after the dark perils of this world, we may deserve to arrive at never-failing light: through Thee, Christ Jesus, Saviour of the world, Who in perfect Trinity livest and reignest God, world without end. ℟. Amen.

céde propítius; ut, sicut haec luminária igne visíbili accénsa noctúrnas depéllunt ténebras; ita corda nostra invisíbili igne, id est, Sancti Spíritus splendóre illustráta, ómnium vitiórum caecitáte cáreant: ut, purgáto mentis óculo, ea cérnere possímus, quae tibi sunt plácita, et nostrae salúti utília; quátenus post hujus saeculi caliginósa discrímina, ad lucem indeficiéntem perveníre mereámur. Per te, Christe Jesu, Salvátor mundi, qui in Trinitáte perfécta vivis et regnas Deus, per ómnia saecula saeculórum. ℟. Amen.

Collect.—O Almighty, everlasting God, Who didst command the purest oil to be prepared by Thy servant Moses to keep lamps continually before Thee; graciously pour forth the grace of Thy blessing ✠ upon these tapers, that they may so afford external light, that by Thy gift the light of Thy Spirit may not fail interiorly in our minds. Through our Lord Jesus Christ, in the unity of the same Holy Spirit. ℟. Amen.

Orémus. — Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, qui per Móysen fámulum tuum puríssimum ólei liquórem ad luminária ante conspéctum tuum júgiter concinnánda praeparári jussísti: bene ✠ dictiónis tuae grátiam super hos céreos benígnus infúnde; quátenus sic adminístrent lumen extérius, ut, te donánte, lumen Spíritus tui nostris non desit méntibus intérius. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem. ℟. Amen.

Collect.—O Lord Jesus Christ, Who appearing this day among men in the substance of our flesh, wert presented by Thy parents in the temple; Whom the venerable old man Simeon, enlightened by the light of Thy Spirit, knew, received, and blessed; mercifully grant, that, enlightened and taught by the grace of the same Holy Spirit, we may truly acknowledge Thee, and Orémus. — Dómine Jesu Christe, qui hodiérna die in nostrae carnis substántia inter hómines appárens, a paréntibus in templo es praesentátus: quem Símeon venerábilis senex, lúmine Spíritus tui irradiátus, agnóvit, suscépit, et benedíxit: praesta propítius; ut ejúsdem Spíritus Sancti grátia illumináti, atque edócti, te veráciter agnoscámus et fidéliter diligámus: Qui cum Deo Patre in unitáte ejúsdem Spíritus Sancti vivis et regnas Deus, per ómnia saecula saeculórum. ℟. Amen.

faithfully love Thee; Who with God the Father in the unity of the same Holy Spirit livest and reignest God, world without ehd. ℟. Amen.

Here the Priest sprinkles the candles three times with holy water saying the Ant.: Asperges me Domine, without chant nor psalm, and he incenses the candles three times.—Each person kneeling, and kissing first the Priest's hand, and then the candle, as he receives it. When the distribution begins, the Choir sings as follows:

Ant.—Lumen ad revelatiónem géntium: et glóriam plebis tuae Israël.

Ant. Luke ii. 32.—A light to the revelation of the Gentiles, and the glory of Thy people Israel.

Canticle: Nunc dimittis, p. 146. The Antiphon: Lumen is repeated after each Verse.

After which the following Antiphon is sung.

Ant.—Exsúrge, Dómine, adjúva nos: et líbera nos propter nomen tuum. Ps. Deus, áuribus nostris audívimus: patres nostri annuntiáverunt nobis. ℣. Glória Patri.

Ant. Ps. xliii. 26.—Arise, O Lord, help us, and deliver us, for Thy name's sake. Ps. Ibid 2. We have heard, O God, with our ears: our fathers have declared to us. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Antiphon: Exsurge Dómine, as above.

If after Septuagesima, and not on a Sunday the Priest adds:

Flectámus génua.
℟. Leváte.

Let us kneel down.
℟. Rise up again.

Orémus. — Exáudi, quaesumus, Dómine, plebem tuam: et, quae extrínsecus ánnua tríbuis devotióne venerári, intérius ássequi grátiae tuae luce concéde. Per Christum Dóminum nostrum. ℟. Amen.

Collect.—Hear Thy people, O Lord, we beseech Thee, and grant us to obtain those things interiorly by the light of Thy grace, which Thou permittest us outwardly to venerate with annual devotion. Through Christ our Lord. ℟. Amen.

PROCESSION.

The deacon turns to the people and says:

℣. Procedámus in pace.
℟. In nómine Christi. Amen.

℣. Let us set forth in peace.
℟. In the name of Christ. Amen.

All bear lighted candles in their hands: the following Anthems from the Greek liturgy are sung:

Ant.—O Daughter of Sion, adorn thy bridal chamber, and welcome Christ the King: greet Mary with loving embrace for she, who is the very gate of heaven, bringeth to Thee the glorious King of the new light. Though in her arms she bears a Son begotten before the day-star, yet ever she remaineth a pure virgin. Hers was the Child whom Simeon, taking up into his arms, declared unto all the peoples to be the Lord of life and of death, the Saviour of the world.

Ant. — Adórna thálamum tuum, Sion, et súscipe Regem Christum: ampléctere Maríam, quae est coeléstis porta: ipsa enim portat Regem glóriae novi lúminis: subsístit Virgo, addúcens mánibus Fílium ante lucíferum génitum: quem accípiens Símeon in ulnas suas, praedicávit pópulis, Dóminum eum esse vitae et mortis, et Salvatórem mundi.

Another Ant. Luke ii. 26, 27, 28, 29.—Simeon received an answer from the Holy Ghost, that he should not see death before he had seen the Christ of the Lord; and when they brought the Child into the temple, he took Him into his arms, and blessed God, and said: Now dost Thou dismiss Thy servant, O Lord, in peace. ℣. When His parents brought in the Child Jesus, to do for Him according to the custom of the law, he took Him in his arms.

Alia Ant. — Respónsum accépit Símeon a Spíritu Sancto, non visúrum se mortem, nisi vidéret Christum Dómini: et cum indúcerent púerum in templum, accépit eum in ulnas suas, et benedíxit Deum, et dixit: Nunc dimíttis, servum tuum, Dómine, in pace. ℣. Cum indúcerent púerum Jesum paréntes ejus, ut fácerent secúndum consuetúdinem legis pro eo, ipse accépit eum in ulnas suas.

When the Procession re-enters the Church, the Choir sings:

℣. They offered for Him to the Lord a pair of turtle doves, or two young pigeons: * As it is written in the law of the Lord.

℣. Obtulérunt pro eo Dómino par túrturum, aut duos pullos columbárum: * Sicut scriptum est in lege Dómini.

℣. After the days of the purification of Mary, according to the law of Moses, were fulfilled, they carried Jesus to Jerusalem to present Him to the Lord,* as it is written in the law of the Lord. ℣. Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost. As it is written in the law of the Lord.

℣. Postquam impléti sunt dies purgatiónis Maríae, secúndum legem Móysi, tulérunt Jesum in Jerúsalem, ut sísterent eum Dómino. * Sicut scriptum est in lege Dómini. ℣. Glória Patri, et Fílio, et Spíritui sancto. * Sicut scriptum est.

MASS.—(White vestments).

Intróitus.—Suscépimus, Deus, misericórdiam tuam in médio templi tui; secúndum nomen tuum Deus, ita et laus tua in fines terrae: justítia plena est déxtera tua. Ps. Magnus Dóminus, et laudábilis nimis; in civitáte Dei nostri, in monte sancto ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. xlvii. 10, 11.—We have received Thy mercy, O God, in the midst of Thy temple: according to Thy name, O God, so also is Thy praise unto the ends of the earth: Thy right hand is full of justice. Ps. Ibid. 2. Great is the Lord, and exceedingly to be praised: in the city of our God, in His holy mountain. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus.—Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, majestátem tuam súpplices exorámus: ut, sicut unigénitus Fílius tuus hodiérna die cum nostrae carnis substántia in templo est praesentátus; ita nos facias purificátis tibi méntibus praesentári. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Collect.—O Almighty and everlasting God, we suppliantly beseech Thy Majesty; that as Thy only-begotten Son was this day presented in the temple in the substance of our flesh, so Thou wouldst grant us to be presented to Thee with purified souls. Through the same Lord.

Epistóla.—Léctio Malachíae Prophétae.—Haec dicit Dóminus Deus: Ecce ego mitto Angelum meum, et praeparábit viam ante fáciem meam. Et statim véniet ad templum suum Dominátor, quem vos quaerítis, et Angelus testaménti, quem vos vultis. Ecce venit, dicit Dóminus exercítuum: et quis póterit cogitáre diem advéntus ejus, et quis stabit ad vidéndum eum? Ipse enim quasi ignis conflans, et quasi herba fullónum: et sedébit conflans, et emúndans argéntum, et purgábit fílios Levi et colábit eos quasi aurum et quasi argéntum: et erunt Dómino offeréntes sacrifícia in justítia. Et placébit Dómino sacrifícium Juda, et Jerúsalem,

Epistle.—Lesson from the Prophet Malachias iii. 1-4.—Thus saith the Lord God: Behold I send My angel, and he shall prepare the way before My face; and presently the Lord, Whom you seek, and the Angel of the testament, whom you desire, shall come to His temple. Behold He cometh, saith the Lord of Hosts; and who shall be able to think of the day of His coming? and who shall stand to see Him? for He is like a refining fire, and like the fuller's herb; and He shall sit refining and cleansing the silver, and He shall purify the sons of Levi, and shall refine them as gold, and as silver, and they shall offer sacrifices to the Lord in justice. And the sacrifice of Juda and of Jerusalem shall please the Lord, as in the days of old, and in the ancient years; saith the Lord Almighty.

sicut dies saeculi, et sicut anni antíqui: dicit Dóminus omnípotens.

Gradual. Ps. xlvii. 10, 11, 9.—We have received Thy mercy, O God, in the midst of Thy temple: according to Thy name, O God, so also is Thy praise unto the ends of the earth. ℣. As we have heard, so have we seen, in the city of our God, and in His holy mountain.

Graduále.—Suscépimus, Deus, misericórdiam tuam in médio templi tui: secúndum nomen tuum, Deus, ita et laus tua in fines terrae. ℣. Sicut audívimus, ita et vídimus, in civitáte Dei nostri, in monte sancto ejus.

Alleluia, alleluia. St. Aug.—The old man carried the Child: but the Child governed the old man. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Senex púerum portábat: Puer autem senem regébat. Allelúia.

After Septuagesima, instead of the Alleluia and Verse, the following is said:

Tract. Luke ii. 29, 30, 32.—Now Thou dost dismiss Thy servant, O Lord, according to Thy word in peace. ℣. Because my eyes have seen Thy salvation. ℣. Which Thou hast prepared before the face of all peoples: ℣. A light to the revelation of the Gentiles, and the glory of Thy people Israel.

Tractus.—Nunc dimíttis servum tuum, Dómine, secúndum verbum tuum in pace. ℣. Quia vidérunt óculi mei salutáre tuum. ℣. Quod parásti ante fáciem ómnium populórum. ℣. Lumen ad revelatiónem géntium et glóriam plebis tuae Israël.

The blessed candle should be held lighted in the hand during the Gospel, and also from the Sanctus to the Communion.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke ii. 22-32.—At that time, after the days of Mary's purification, according to the law of Moses, were accomplished, they carried Jesus to Jerusalem, to present Him to the Lord; as it is written in the law of the Lord: Every male opening the womb shall be called holy to the Lord; and to offer a sacrifice, according as it is written in the ✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo témpore: Postquam impléti sunt dies purgatiónis Maríae, secúndum legem Móysi, tulérunt Jesum in Jerúsalem, ut sísterent eum Dómino, sicut scriptum est in lege Dómini: Quia omne masculínum adapériens vulvam sanctum Dómino vocábitur. Et ut darent hóstiam secúndum quod dictum est in lege Dómini, par túrturum, aut duos pullos columbárum. Et ecce homo erat in Jerúsalem, cui nomen Símeon, et homo iste justus et timorátus, exspéctans consolatiónem Israel, et Spíritus Sanctus erat in eo. Et respónsum accéperat a Spíritu Sancto, non visúrum se mortem, nisi prius vidéret Christum Dómini. Et vénit in spíritu in templum. Et cum indúcerent púerum Jesum paréntes ejus, ut fácerent secúndum consuetúdinem legis pro eo : et ipse accépit eum in ulnas suas, et benedíxit Deum, et dixit : Nunc dimíttis servum tuum, Dómine, secúndum verbum tuum in pace : Quia vidérunt óculi mei salutáre tuum : Quod parásti ante fáciem ómnium populórum : Lumen ad revelatiónem géntium, et glóriam plebis tuae Israel.—Credo.

law of the Lord, a pair of turtle doves, or two young pigeons. And behold there was a man in Jerusalem named Simeon, and this man was just and devout, waiting for the consolation of Israel, and the Holy Ghost was in him : and he had received an answer from the Holy Ghost, that he should not see death, before he had seen the Christ of the Lord. And he came by the Spirit into the temple. And when his parents brought in the Child Jesus, to do for Him according to the custom of the law, he also took Him into his arms, and blessed God, and said : Now Thou dost dismiss Thy servant, O Lord, according to Thy word in peace ; because my eyes have seen Thy salvation, which Thou hast prepared before the face of all peoples ; a light to the revelation of the Gentiles, and the glory of Thy people Israel.—Creed.

Offertórium.—Diffúsa est grátia in lábiis tuis : proptérea benedíxit te Deus in aetérnum, et in saeculum saeculi.

Offertory. Ps. xliv. 3.—Grace is poured abroad in thy lips : therefore hath God blessed thee for ever, and for ages of ages.

Secréta.—Exáudi, Dómine, preces nostras : et, ut digna sint múnera, quae óculis tuae majestátis offérimus, subsídium nobis tuae pietátis impénde. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Graciously hear our prayers, O Lord ; and that the gifts we offer to the eyes of Thy majesty may be worthy, extend to us the help of Thy mercy. Through our Lord.

Preface of the Nativity, p. 51.

Commúnio.— Respónsum accépit Símeon a Spíritu sancto, non visúrum se mortem, nisi vidéret Christum Dómini.

Communion. Luke ii. 26.—Simeon received an answer from the Holy Ghost, that he should not see death, until he had seen the Christ of the Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Quaesumus, Dómine Deus noster : ut

Postcommunion.—We beseech Thee, O Lord our God, that Thou wouldst make the most holy mysteries which Thou hast conferred for the preservation of our spiritual life, by the intercession of blessed Mary ever virgin, a remedy for us both for the present and for the future. Through our Lord.

sacrosancta mystéria, quae pro reparatiónis nostrae munímine contulisti, intercedénte beáta María semper Vírgine, et praesens nobis remédium esse fácias, et futúrum. Per Dóminum.

SECOND VESPERS.

Ant. 1. Luke ii. 25.—Simeon a just man and devout, waited for the redemption of Israel, and the Holy Ghost was in him.

Ant.—Símeon justus * et timorátus exspectábat redemptiónem Israel, et Spíritus sanctus erat in eo.

2. Ibid. 11. 26.—Simeon received an answer from the Holy Ghost, that he should not see death until he had seen the Lord.

2. Respónsum accépit Símeon * a Spíritu sancto, non visúrum se mortem, nisi vidéret Dóminum.

3. Ibid. ii. 28.—Simeon taking the Child into his arms, gave thanks and blessed the Lord.

3. Accípiens Símeon * puerum in mánibus, grátias agens, benedíxit Dóminum.

4. Ibid. ii. 32.—A light to the revelation of the Gentiles, and the glory of Thy people Israel.

4. Lumen * ad revelatiónem géntium, et gloriam plebis tuae Israel.

5. Ibid. ii. 24.—They offered for him unto the Lord a pair of turtle doves, or two young pigeons.

5. Obtulérunt * pro eo Dómino par túrturum, aut duos pullos columbárum.

Chapter. Mal. iii. 1.—Behold, I send My angel, and he shall prepare the way before My face, and presently the Lord Whom you seek and the Angel of the Testament whom you desire shall come to His temple.

Capitulum.—Ecce ego mitto Angelum meum, et praeparábit viam ante fáciem meam. Et statim véniet ad templum sanctum suum Dominátor, quem vos quaeritis et Angelus testaménti quem vos vultis.

Hymn : Ave Maris Stella, p. 187.

℣. Luke ii. 26.—Simeon received an answer from the Holy ℣. Respónsum accépit Símeon a Spíritu sancto. ℟. Non visúrum se mortem, nisi vidéret Christum Dómini.

Ghost. ℟. That he should not see death, until he had seen Christ the Lord.

Ant.—Hódie * beáta Virgo Maria púerum Jesum praesentávit in templo, et Símeon replétus Spíritu sancto accépit eum in ulnas suas, et benedíxit Deum in aetérnum.

Antiphon at the Magnificat.—This day the Blessed Virgin Mary presented the Child Jesus in the temple; and Simeon, filled with the Holy Ghost, took Him up into his arms, and blessed God for ever and ever.

Commemoration of St. Blase: Antiphon Iste sanctus, and ℣. Glória, p. 215.

FEBRUARY 3.

St. Blase, BISHOP, MARTYR.*—Simple.—Red vestments.

St. Blase, elected bishop of Sebaste in Armenia (Introit) took part in the redemption of the Saviour. "The sufferings of the Saviour abound in him," (Epistle) and after a life of severe penance passed among wild beasts in a cave on Mount Argaeus "he gave his life for Jesus" (Gospel). Having suffered the most atrocious torments under Licinius, he was beheaded in 317.

Like the Redeemer, St. Blase healed bodies while healing souls, wherefore his intercession was often prayed for. In consequence of his having saved the life of a child who was dying, choked by a bone which had stuck in his throat, the Church recognises his "prerogative for healing all diseases of the throat." † She blesses two candles to this effect and asks God for all those, whose necks the candles will touch, that they may be delivered from throat disease or from any other ill through the merits of this holy martyr's passion. He is one of the fourteen "Auxiliary Saints" (see engraving of July 25).

Let us with St. Blase take part in the sufferings of the Redeemer so as to be able with him to take part in his triumph (Epistle).

Mass: Sacerdótes, of a Martyr Pontiff, p. 219.

FEBRUARY 4.

St. Andrew Corsini, BISHOP AND CONFESSOR.‡—Double.—White vestments.

St. Andrew, of the noble family of Corsini, was born at Florence, and from his birth was consecrated to the Blessed Virgin. His mother dreamed that she had given birth to a wolf which, on entering into the Carmelite church, was suddenly changed into a lamb. Her son indeed led a dissolute life in his youth. But Jesus exerted His redeeming power over him and Andrew entered the Carmelite order and soon became its head in Tuscany (Communion).

Having thus turned to good use the talents God had favoured him with, he rose to a still higher dignity (Gospel) and as Bishop of Fiesole

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009.
† Ritual: Blessing of Candles on the Feast of St. Blase, Bishop, Martyr.
‡ See Historical Summary, p. 1013.

he had a share in the priesthood by which Christ accomplishes His work of reconciling souls with God. Thus, having been sent to Bologna as legate by Urban V., he succeeded by his great prudence in extinguishing the burning hatred which had armed the citizens against each other (Epistle). The Blessed Virgin foretold him his death, which occurred in 1373.

Made wolves by sin, let us like St. Andrew become lambs by penance, in order that, "following in the footsteps of this holy confessor, we may obtain the same rewards" (Collect).

Mass : Státuit, of a Confessor Pontiff, p. 255, except :

Collect.—O God, Who in every age settest up in Thy Church fresh patterns of virtue: make Thy people so to walk in the footsteps of blessed Andrew, Thy confessor-bishop, as to attain to the reward now enjoyed by him. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui in Ecclésia tua nova semper instáuras exémpla virtútum: da pópulo tuo beáti Andréae Confessóris tui atque Pontíficis ita sequi vestígia; ut assequátur et praemia. Per Dóminum.

FEBRUARY 5.

St. Agatha, VIRGIN AND MARTYR.*—Double.—Red vestments.

St. Agatha, virgin and martyr (Collect), was born in Sicily of noble parentage, but she estimated that for her the highest nobility would be to belong to Jesus, whom she took as her Spouse (Gospel).

Endowed with remarkable beauty, she had to resist the solicitations of the governor Quintianus, who, unable to attain his end by persuasion, had recourse to violence. Her breast was torn by his order, but was healed on the following night, by the Apostle St. Peter, who appeared to her in her prison (Communion). Then the body of the saint was rolled on pieces of broken pottery and on burning coals, and when she was brought back to her cell, she expired while praying. This happened at Catana in 251, during the persecution of the emperor Decius. God Almighty, by granting the victory of martyrdom to a feeble woman (Collect), wished to show that He alone is our Redeemer, for it is with this "end in view that He chooses what is weak in the world to confound with their nothingness those who trust their own strength" (Epistle).

On several occasions the virginal veil which covered the tomb of St. Agatha held up the torrents of burning lava rushing down from Etna and threatening to ruin the town. God thus honoured the resistance that her very pure soul had shown to all the assaults of passion. Her name is mentioned in the Canon of the Mass (Second list, p. 65). Her feast was already celebrated at Rome in the sixth century.

Let us invoke St. Agatha to preserve our homes from fire and to extinguish, through the spirit of penitence, the impure flames that consume our bodies and our souls.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Gaudeámus omnes in Dómino, diem festum celebrántes sub honóre beátae Agathae Vírginis et Mártyris: de cujus passióne gaudent Angeli, et colláudant Fílium Dei. Ps. Eructávit cor meum verbum bonum: dico ego ópera mea Regi.— ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit.—Let us all rejoice in the Lord, celebrating a festival day in honour of blessed Agatha, virgin and martyr; at whose passion the Angels rejoice, and give praise to the Son of God. Ps. xliv. 2. My heart hath uttered a good word: I speak my works to the King.— ℣. Glory be to the Father. *

Orémus. — Deus, qui inter cétera poténtiae tuae mirácula étiam in sexu frágili victóriam martyrii contulísti: concéde propítius; ut, qui beátae Agathae Vírginis et Mártyris tuae natalítia cólimus, per ejus ad te exémpla gradiámur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who among other miracles of Thy power, hast granted even to the weaker sex the victory of martyrdom, grant, we beseech Thee, that we who celebrate the festival of blessed Agatha, Thy virgin and martyr, may walk to Thee by her example. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Feria during Lent.

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Corínthios.—Fratres: Vidéte vocatiónem vestram, quia non multi sapiéntes secúndum carnem, non multi poténtes, non multi nóbiles: sed quae stulta sunt mundi elégit Deus, ut confúndat fórtia: et ignobília mundi, et contemptibília elégit Deus, et ea quae non sunt, ut ea quae sunt destrúeret: ut non gloriétur omnis caro in conspéctu ejus. Ex ipso autem vos estis in Christo Jesu, qui factus est nobis sapiéntia a Deo, et justítia, et sanctificátio, et redémptio: ut quemádmodum scriptum est: Qui gloriátur, in Dómino gloriétur.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians. 1 Cor. i. 26-31.—Brethren: See your vocation, that there are not many wise according to the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble: but the foolish things of the world hath God chosen, that He may confound the wise, and the weak things of the world hath God chosen, that He may confound the strong; and the base things of the world, and the things that are contemptible hath God chosen, and things that are not, that He might bring to nought things that are: that no flesh should glory in His sight. But of Him are you in Christ Jesus, Who of God is made unto us wisdom, and justice, and sanctification, and redemption; that as it is written: He that glorieth may glory in the Lord.

* The Introit Gaudeamus, which is used for many feasts, is taken from the Mass of St. Agatha.

Gradual. Ps. xlv. 6.—God will help her with His countenance; God is in the midst of her; she shall not be moved. ℣. Ibid. 5. The stream of the river maketh the city of God joyful; the Most High hath sanctified His own tabernacle.

Graduále. — Adjuvábit eam Deus vultu suo: Deus in médio ejus, non commovébitur. ℣. Flúminis ímpetus laetíficat civitátem Dei: sanctificávit tabernáculum suum Altíssimus.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. cxviii. 46.—I spoke of Thy testimonies before kings, and I was not ashamed. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Loquébar de testimóniis tuis in conspéctu regum, et non confundébar. Allelúia.

After Septuagesima, instead of the Alleluia and Verse, the following is said:

Tract. Ps. cxxv. 5, 6.—They that sow in tears reap in joy. ℣. Going they went, and wept, casting their seeds. ℣. But coming, they shall come with joyfulness, carrying their sheaves.

Tractus. — Qui séminant in lácrimis, in gaúdio metent. ℣. Eúntes ibant, et flebant, mittéutes sémina sua. ℣. Veniéntes autem vénient cum exsultatióne, portántes manípulas suos.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew xix. 3-12.—At that time, the Pharisees came to Jesus tempting Him, and saying: Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause? Who answering, said to them: Have ye not read, that He Who made man from the beginning, made them male and female? And He said: For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and cleave to his wife, and they two shall be in one flesh. Therefore now they are not two, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let no man put asunder. They say to Him: Why then did Moses command to give a bill of divorce, and to put away? He saith to them: Because Moses, by reason of the ✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii sécundum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Accessérunt ad Jesum Pharisaei tentántes eum, et dicéntes: Si licet hómini dimíttere uxórem suam quacúmque ex causa? Qui respóndens, ait eis: non legístis, quia, qui fecit hóminem ab inítio, másculum et féminam fecit eos? et dixit: Propter hoc dimíttet homo patrem, et matrem, et adhaerébit uxóri suae, et erunt duo in carne una. Itaque jam non sunt duo, sed una caro. Quod ergo Deus conjúnxit, homo non séparet. Dícunt illi: Quid ergo Móyses mandávit dare libéllum repúdii, et dimíttere? Ait illis: Quoniam Móyses ad durítiam cordis vestri permísit vobis dimíttere uxóres vestras: ab iníti-

autem non fuit sic. Dico autem vobis, quia quicúmque dimíserit uxórem suam, nisi ob fornicatiónem, et áliam dúxerit, moechátur: et qui dimíssam dúxerit, moechátur. Dicunt ei discípuli ejus: Si ita est causa hóminis cum uxóre, non éxpedit núbere. Qui dixit illis: Non omnes cápiunt verbum istud, sed quibus datum est. Sunt enim eunúchi, qui de matris útero sic nati sunt: et sunt eunúchi, qui facti sunt ab homínibus: et sunt eunúchi, qui seípsos castravérunt propter regnum coelórum. Qui potest cápere, cápiat.

hardness of your heart, permitted you to put away your wives; but from the beginning it was not so. And I say to you, that whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and shall marry another, committeth adultery; and he that shall marry her that is put away, committeth adultery. His disciples say unto Him: If the case of a man with his wife be so, it is not expedient to marry. Who said to them: All men take not this word, but they to whom it is given; for there are eunuchs, who were born so from their mother's womb; and there are eunuchs who were made so by man; and there are eunuchs who have made themselves eunuchs for the kingdom of heaven. He that can take it, let him take it.

Offertórium.—Afferéntur regi vírgines post eam: próximae ejus afferéntur tibi.

Offertory. Ps. xliv. 15.—After her shall virgins be brought to the King; her neighbours shall be brought to Thee.

Secréta. — Súscipe, Dómine, múnera, quae in beátae Agáthae Vírginis et Mártyris tuae solemnitáte deférimus: cujus nos confídimus patrocínio liberári. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Receive, O Lord, the offerings we bring on the solemn festival of Thy blessed virgin and martyr, Agatha; by whose intercession we hope for deliverance. Through our Lord.

During Lent, Commemoration of the Feria.

Commúnio. — Qui me dignátus est ab omni plaga curáre, et mamíllam meam meo péctori restitúere, ipsum ínvoco Deum vivum.

Communion.—I invoke Him the living God, Who vouchsafed to cure me of every wound, and to restore my breast to my body.

Postcommúnio. — Auxiliéntur nobis, Dómine, sumpta mystéria: et, intercedénte beáta Agatha, Vírgine et Mártyre tua, sempitérna fáciant pro-

Postcommunion.—May we be helped, O Lord, by the mysteries we have received; and blessed Agatha, Thy virgin and martyr, interceding for us, may they confirm us with everlasting protection. Through our Lord.

tectióne gaudére. Per Dóminum.

During Lent, Commemoration and Last Gospel of the Feria.

FEBRUARY 6.

St. Titus, BISHOP, CONFESSOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

Like the divine Sower mentioned in the Gospel of Sexagesima Sunday, † Titus, the well-beloved disciple of St. Paul ‡ "endured the fatigues of numerous and distant voyages on land and sea to go and sow the divine word among nations of different countries speaking different tongues." § Wherefore the Church declares that "God had adorned him with the virtues of an apostle" (Collect), and that he was one of the "husbandmen which the Master of the harvest had sent to gather it in" (Gospel).

Employed by St. Paul in important circumstances, || he landed with him in Crete and was made by the apostle, bishop of the island ¶ (Introit, Epistle, Offertory). It was there that he received from his master a letter included in the New Testament, of which we find extracts in the Epistle of certain masses. In to-day's Mass, we read, as Christ had already said (Communion), that the Bishop is "God's steward,"  and that "Jesus is the Saviour who has given Himself to redeem us." †† St. Titus died at the age of 94, towards the year 105, and his name is highly praised by St. John Chrysostom and by St. Jerome.

Mass: Státuit, of a Confessor Pontiff, p. 255, except:

Collect.—O God, Who didst adorn blessed Titus, Thy confessor and bishop, with the virtues of an apostle: for the sake of his merits and prayers, make us to live piously and justly in this world, and thereby to become worthy to reach our heavenly fatherland. Through our Lord.

Orémus.—Deus, qui beátum Titum Confessórem tuum atque Pontíficem, apostólicis virtútibus decorásti: ejus méritis et intercessióne concéde; ut juste et pie vivéntes in hoc saeculo, ad coeléstem pátriam per veníre mereámur. Per Dóminum.

During Lent, Commemoration of the Feria and of St. Dorothy. p. 1263.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke x. 1-9.—AT that time, the Lord appointed also other seventy-two; and he sent them two and two

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam. — IN illo témpore: Designávit Dóminus et álios septuagínta duos: et misit illos binos ante fáciem

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007.
† See p. 497.
‡ II. Cor. vii. 6.
§ Matins: Fifth Lesson.
|| The name of Titus occurs ten times in the Epistles written by St. Paul to the Corinthians and to Timothy.
¶ St. Titus 1, 5.
 Ibid. 1, 7.
†† Ibid. 2, 13.

suam in omnem civitátem et locum, quo erat ipse ventúrus. Et dicébat illis: Messis quidem multa, operárii autem pauci. Rogáte ergo Dóminum messis, ut mittat operários in messem suam. Ite: ecce, ego mitto vos sicut agnos inter lupos. Nolíte portáre sácculum, neque peram, neque calceaménta; et néminem per viam salutavéritis. In quamcúmque domum intravéritis, primum dícite: Pax huic dómui: et si ibi fúerit fílius pacis, requiéscet super illum pax vestra: sin autem, ad vos revertétur. In eádem autem domo manéte, edéntes, et bibéntes quae apud illos sunt: dignus est enim operárius mercéde sua. Nolíte transíre de domo in domum. Et in quamcúmque civitátem intravéritis, et suscéperint vos, manducáte quae apponúntur vobis: et curáte infírmos, qui in illa sunt, et dícite illis: Appropinquávit in vos regnum Dei.

before His face into every city and place whither He Himself was to come. And He said to them: The harvest indeed is great, but the labourers are few: pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest that He send labourers into His harvest. Go, behold I send you as lambs among wolves. Carry neither purse, nor scrip, nor shoes; and salute no man by the way. Into whatsoever house you enter, first say: Peace be to this house: and if the son of peace be there, your peace shall rest upon him: but if not, it shall return to you. and in the same house remain, eating and drinking such things as they have: for the labourer is worthy of his hire. Remove not from house to house. And into what city soever you enter, and they receive you, eat such things as are set before you; and heal the sick that are therein; and say to them: The kingdom of God is come nigh unto you.

Commemoration of the Feria if it be Lent; then of St. Dorothy.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Dorothy, VIRGIN, MARTYR.*—Red vestments.

St. Dorothy, a virgin of Caesarea in Cappadocia, was condemned to be beheaded: she received the double palm of virginity and martyrdom towards the end of the third century.

Mass: Me exspectavérunt of the Common, p. 286.

FEBRUARY 7.

St. Romuald, ABBOT.†—Double.—White vestments.

St. Romuald was born at Ravenna, in Italy, and left the world at the age of 20 (Gospel) to give himself up in prayer and meditation (Introit) to the work of penance undertaken by Jesus.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009. † Ibid., p. 1012.

Attacked by Satan, who tried to ensnare him, he always drove him away in terror (Epistle). He enjoyed over princes and kings a great influence (Ibid) which he used for the good of souls.

St. Romuald founded one of the branches of the Order of St. Benedict (Communion). Like the Patriarch Jacob, he saw in a vision a ladder which reached from earth to heaven, on which ascended and descended monks clothed in white. He acquired the field in which he then was and whose owner was called Maldule. There he built the monastery which he called Camaldule (Maldule's field), the name of his Order.

He died in 1027 at the age of 120 and his body, found intact five years later, was placed in the church of the monastery at Fabrieno. St. Romuald always showed in the midst of his austerities a face so full of joy that those who saw him rejoiced. Let us imitate him in this holy Season of Lent.

Mass: Os justi of Abbots, p. 276. In Lent, Commemoration and Last Gospel of the Feria.

FEBRUARY 8.

St. John of Matha, CONFESSOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

St. John of Matha was born in Provence and from his earliest childhood distinguished himself by his charity to the poor.

Ordained priest in Paris, he, at his first Mass, had a vision in which God commanded him to establish the Order of the Holy Trinity for the ransoming of captives (Collect). He therefore retired into solitude and during three years lived in prayer and contemplation with St. Felix of Valois (Introit). A second vision determined them to approach Innocent III., who gave his approbation to the new institution commanded by God.

Thanks to the abundant alms (Epistle) which St. John of Matha obtained from the kings and princes of France and Spain, he was enabled to ransom a large number of Christians fallen into the hands of infidels.

He passed his last two years at Rome in continual mortification and prayer and was thus the faithful servant who watched for the coming of his Master at every hour of his life (Gospel).† He died in 1213.

Mass: Os justi, of a Confessor not a Bishop, p. 270, except:

Collect.—O God, Who didst vouchsafe to institute by direction from heaven, through St. John, the order of the Holy Trinity, for redeeming captives from the power of the Saracens, grant, we beseech Thee, that by the suffrage of his merits, we may be delivered by Thy grace from captivity of soul and body. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui per sanctum Joánnem órdinem sanctíssimae Trinitátis ad rediméndum de potestáte Saracenórum captívos coelitus institúere dignátus es: praesta, quaesumus; ut, ejus suffragántibus méritis, a captivitáte córporis et ánimae, te adjuvánte, liberémur. Per Dóminum.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1012.

† The Second Vigil lasted from 9 o'clock to midnight and the third from midnight to 3 o'clock in the morning (See fig. p. 490).

In Lent, Commemoration and Last Gospel of the Feria.

FEBRUARY 9.

St. Cyril of Alexandria, BISHOP, CONFESSOR AND DOCTOR.*

Double.—White vestments.

Jesus must be a Man to atone for man's sin and a God to make reparation for the offence against God. The Cycle celebrates on this day the feast of the Doctor who raised his voice in the Church (Introit) to condemn in the name of Pope Celestine, at the Council of Ephesus, the heresy of Nestorius.* Crushing under foot the salt which has lost its savour (Gospel), St. Cyril, bishop of Alexandria, attacks the heresiarch who instead "of the true doctrine only teaches fables" (Epistle), and he affirms that in Jesus there is only one divine person and that consequently the Saviour is at the same time God and Man and that His Mother is the Mother of God (Collect). He died in 444.

Mass: In medio, p. 263, except:

Orémus.—Deus, qui beátum Cyríllum Confessórem tuum atque Pontíficem divínae maternitátis beatíssimae Vírginis Maríae assertórem invíctum effecísti: concéde, ipso intercedénte; ut, qui vere eam Genitrícem Dei crédimus, matérna ejúsdem protectióne salvémur. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who didst render blessed Cyril, Thy confessor and bishop, the invincible champion of the divine motherhood of the most blessed Virgin Mary; grant that by his intercession, we who believe her to be truly Mother of God, may be saved through her maternal intercession. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Feria in Lent, and of St. Apollonia from the Collects of the Mass: Loquébar, p. 282. The Credo is said.

Secréta. — Múnera nostra, omnípotens Deus, benignus respice: et, intercedénte beáto Cyríllo, praesta; ut unigénitum tuum Jesum Christum Dóminum nostrum in tua tecum glória coaetérnum, in córdibus nostris digne suscípere mereámur: Qui tecum.

Secret.—Look down graciously on these our offerings, O Almighty God, and grant that, through the intercession of blessed Cyril, we may merit worthily to receive into our hearts Jesus Christ our Lord, Thine only-begotten Son, coeternal with Thee in Thy glory. Who liveth and reigneth.

Commemoration of the Feria in Lent, and of St. Apollonia, p. 285.

Postcommúnio. — Divínis, Dómine, refécti mystériis, te súpplices deprecámur: ut exémplis et méritis beáti Cyrílli Pontíficis adjúti, sanctíssimae

Postcommunion. — Refreshed with these divine mysteries we suppliantly entreat Thee, O God, that aided by the example and merits of blessed Cyril, Thy

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010.

bishop, we may be enabled worthily to serve the most holy Mother of Thine only-begotten Son. Who liveth.

Genitríci Unigéniti tui digne famulári valeámus : Qui tecum.

Commemoration and Last Gospel of the Feria and of St. Apollonia p. 285.

SAME DAY.

St. Apollonia, VIRGIN, MARTYR.*—Red vestments.

St. Apollonia, a virgin of Alexandria, was arrested during a bloody persecution of the Christians in 249. After having her teeth broken and torn out, she joyfully threw herself under the impulsion of the Spirit of God, into the coal fire prepared for her. There, while her frail body was consumed on earth, her very pure soul was borne into glory in heaven (Collect).

Mass : Loquébar of the Common, p. 282.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008.

February 10.

St. Scholastica, Virgin.*—Double.—White vestments.

St. Scholastica, the twin sister of St. Benedict, was born at Nursia in Italy, in 480. It was a unique event in the annals of the Church, that brother and sister should have founded the two branches of an Order still full of vitality after an existence of fourteen centuries.

A scholar, as her name implies, of the Patriarch of the Monks of the West, from her earliest childhood she attended the school † of his virtues, for she saw in him Christ ‡ whose Spouse she was (Epistle).

Following the teaching of the Master §, a repetition of that of Jesus in His public life, all his life is summed up in two sayings: "Love what is good, hate iniquity" (Introit).

The divine Spouse who was about to call her unto Him (Gospel), miraculously granted the prayer of his well-beloved. Benedict, a faithful observer of monastic discipline, had refused to continue the spiritual conversation which each year he granted his sister in a dependency of the abbey. Scholastica, leaning with her elbows on the table and holding her forehead in her hands, began to shed tears. Immediately a violent storm burst forth and rain fell in torrents. Benedict understood that God sanctions the brotherly love which had united them all their lives, and passed the whole night conversing with his sister about the joys of heaven. Three days later (543), while at prayer, before the night office, he saw the innocent soul of St. Scholastica ascend to heaven in the shape of a dove (Collect). Her body was placed in the tomb her brother had prepared for himself, in which he was also placed a few weeks later. "Thus it happened," writes St. Gregory, "that one tomb united the bodies of those whose souls had always been intimately united in God."

* See Historical Summary, p. 1011.

† "We establish a school for the service of the Lord" (Rule of St. Benedict: Prologue).

‡ The Abbot occupies the place of Christ whose name he bears: "Abbot. Father" (Ibid. ch. ii.)

§ Hear, O son, the precepts of the Master (Rule of St. Benedict: Prologue).

Let us ask "God, Who received into heaven the soul of the blessed virgin Scholastica in the shape of a dove to show us the way of innocence, to grant us by her merits and prayers to live so innocently that we may deserve to attain eternal joys" (Collect).

Mass : Dilexísti, p. 291, except :

Collect.—O God, Who didst cause the soul of the blessed virgin Scholastica to enter heaven in the form of a dove, to show the way of innocence, grant us, by her prayers and merits, to live so innocently, that we may deserve to arrive at eternal joys. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui ánimam beátae Vírginis tuae Scholásticae ad ostendéndam innocéntiae viam in colúmbae spécie coelum penetráre fecísti : da nobis ejus méritis et précibus ita innocénter vívere ; ut ad aetérna mereámur gáudia perveníre. Per Dóminum.

In Lent, Commemoration and Last Gospel of the Feria.

FEBRUARY 11.

The Apparition of our Blessed Lady at Lourdes.*

Greater-double.—White vestments.

From February 11 to July 16, 1858, the Virgin came down 18 times from heaven (Introit), and showed herself to Bernadette Soubirous (Collect) in the cave of the rock at Massabielle (Gradual). On March 25, she said to the little shepherdess of 14 years of age : " I am the Immaculate Conception." † To-day's feast therefore recalls Mary's triumph over the serpent (Tract) which the septuagesimal liturgy has in mind.

Like the woman seen by St. John " clothed in the sun, with the moon under her feet and a crown of 12 stars over her head " (Epistle), the Virgin of Lourdes " is clothed in a robe and veil as white as snow ; she wears a blue girdle and on her bare feet rests a golden rose," ‡ all symbolic of her original love. She exhorts to penance the unfortunate children of Eve who have not been like herself preserved from sin. On the day of the Annunciation § she declared her name to us, to manifest that it is on account of the Incarnation (Collect) that God has vouchsafed to her " not to be tainted with the original stain " (Tract).

Remembering that Mary is " the ark of the new covenant " (Epistle), let us go with confidence to her who " full of grace " (Offertory) " visits our earth to multiply in us the gifts of her riches " (Communion).

MASS.

Introit. Apoc xxi. 2.—I saw the holy city, the new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven

Intróitus. — Vidi civitátem sanctam, Jerúsalem novam descendéntem de coelo a Deo,

* See Historical Summary, p. 1017. † Fourth Lesson of Matins.
‡ and § Fourth Lesson of Matins.

parátum sicut sponsam ornátam viro suo. Ps. Eructávit cor meum verbum bonum, dico ego ópera mea regi. ℣. Glória Patri.

from God, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband. Ps. xliv. 2. My heart hath uttered a good word ; I speak my works to the King. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui per immaculátam Vírginis Conceptiónem dignum Fílio tuo habitáculum praeparásti : súpplices a te quaesumus ; ut ejúsdem Vírginis Apparitiónem celebrántes, salútem mentis et córporis consequámur. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who by the Immaculate Conception of the Virgin didst, for Thy Son, make ready a fitting dwelling-place : very humbly do we who celebrate the feast of the apparition of the same holy Virgin, put up to Thee our prayers for health both of body and soul. Through our Lord.

In Lent, Commemoration of the Feria.

Epistola. — Léctio libri Apocalypsis beáti Joánnis Apóstoli. —Apértum est templum Dei in coelo : et visa est arca testaménti ejus in templo ejus, et facta sunt fúlgura, et voces, et terraemótus, et grando magna. Et signum magnum appáruit in coelo : Múlier amícta sole, et luna sub pédibus ejus et in cápite ejus coróna stellárum duódecim. Et audívi vocem magnam in coelo dicéntem : Nunc facta est salus, et virtus et regnum Dei nostri, et potéstas Christi ejus.

Epistle. Lesson from the Apocalypse of blessed John, the Apostle. Apoc. xi. 19; xii. 1, 10.—And the temple of God was opened in heaven ; and the ark of His testament was seen in His temple, and there were lightnings and voices, and an earthquake and great hail. And a great sign appeared in heaven : A woman clothed with the sun, and the moon under her feet, and on her head a crown of twelve stars. And I heard a loud voice in heaven saying : Now is come salvation and strength and the Kingdom of our God and the power of His Christ.

Graduále. — Flores apparuérunt in terra nostra, tempus putatiónis advénit, vox túrturis audíta est in terra nostra. ℣. Surge, amíca mea, speciósa mea, et veni : colúmba mea in foramínibus petrae, in cavérna macériae.

Gradual. Song of Sol. ii. 12.—The flowers have appeared in our land, the time of pruning is come, the voice of the turtle is heard in our land. ℣. Ibid. 10, 14. Arise my love, my beautiful one ; and come ; my dove in the clefts of the rock, in the hollow places of the wall.

Alleluia, alleluia.—℣. Show Me thy face, let thy voice sound in My ears, for thy voice is sweet and thy face comely. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Osténde mihi fáciem tuam, sonet vox tua in áuribus meis : vox enim tua dulcis, et fácies tua decóra. Allelúia.

Tract. Judith xv. 10.—Thou art the glory of Jerusalem, thou art the joy of Israel, thou art the honour of our people. ℣. Thou art all fair, O Mary, and there is no stain of original sin in thee. ℣. Truly happy art thou, O sacred Virgin Mary, and of all high praise most worthy; for with thy virgin foot thou hast crushed the serpent's head.

Tractus.—Tu glória Jerúsalem, tu laetítia Israel, tu honorificéntia pópuli nostri. ℣. Tota pulchra es, María : et mácula originális non est in te. ℣. Felix es, sacra Virgo María, et omni laude digníssima, quae serpéntis caput virgíneo pede contrivísti.

Gospel : Missus est, p. 193, to : Vocabis nomen ejus Jesum—and thou shalt call His name Jesus, Offertory. Luke i. 28.—Hail, full of grace, the Lord is with thee blessed art thou amongst women.

Offertórium. — Ave, grátia plena : Dóminus tecum : benedícta tu in muliéribus.

Secret.—May the sacrifice of praise which, relying on the merits of the glorious and Immaculate Virgin, we offer up to Thee, O Lord, mount as an odour of sweetness in Thy sight : and may it avail to our healing both in body and in soul. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Hóstia laudis, quam tibi, Dómine, per mérita gloriósae et immaculátae Vírginis offérimus, sit tibi in odórem suavitátis, et nobis optátam cónferat córporis et ánimae sanitátem. Per Dóminum.

In Lent, Commemoration of the Feria.—Preface : Et te in Conceptióne immaculáta, p. 56.

Communion. Ps. lxiv. 10.—Thou hast visited the earth, and hast plentifully watered it ; thou hast many ways enriched it.

Communio.—Visitásti terram et inebriásti eam, multiplicásti locupletáre eam.

Postcommunion.—Thou hast fed us plenteously, O Lord, with bread from heaven ; may the right hand of Thine Immaculate Mother raise us up, and by her

Postcommúnio. — Quos coeléstl, Dómine, aliménto satiásti, súblevet déxtera Genitrícis tuae immaculátae : ut ad aetérnam pátriam, ipsa adjuvánte, pervenire mereámur: Qui vivis.

help may we reach our everlasting fatherland. Who livest and reignest.

In Lent, Commemoration and last Gospel of the Feria.

FEBRUARY 12.

The Seven Holy Founders of the Servite Order, CONFESSORS.*—Double.—White vestments.

The liturgy to-day honours seven noble Florentines who "in 1223 enriched the Church with a new religious family" (Collect). They received by a providential circumstance, from the mouth of little children (Introit) the name of "Servants of Mary." Illustrious by their birth, these founders became still more so by the salutary influence of their Order (Communion) in France, Germany and Poland. "Their race endures for ever and their glory shall never be dimmed" (Epistle), for they survive in their disciples. Leaving everything, they retire to Monte Senario, near Florence, atone by their austerities for the sins of guilty men † and, clothed in a mourning habit shown to them by the Virgin, they constantly meditate on the Passion of Jesus and the dolours of Mary at the foot of the Cross (Collect, Postcommunion).

"Burning with love for the sorrowful Mother of Jesus" (Secret) "let us join in the tears" (Collect) of the Saints whom we honour to-day, in order that "deserving to enjoy the fruits of Christ's Redemption" (Postcommunion) "we may also have a share in their joys" (Collect).

MASS.

Intróitus.—Justi decantavérunt, Dómine, nomen sanctum tuum, et victrícem manum tuam laudavérunt páriter: quóniam sapiéntia apéruit os mutum, et linguas infántium fecit disértus. Ps. Dómine Dóminus noster, quam admirábile est nomen tuum in univérsa terra! ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Wisd. of Sol. x. 20, 21.—The just sang to Thy holy name, O Lord, they praised with one accord Thy victorious hand. For wisdom opened the mouth of the dumb, and made the tongues of infants eloquent. Ps. viii. 2. O Lord our Lord, how admirable is Thy name in the whole earth. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Dómine Jesu Christe, qui ad recoléndam memóriam dolórum sanctíssimae Genitrícis tuae, per septem beátos Patres nova Servórum ejus família Ecclésiam tuam foecundásti: concéde propítius; ita nos eórum consociári fléti-

Collect.—O Lord Jesus Christ Who, in order to renew the memory of the sorrows of Thy most holy Mother, hast through the seven blessed fathers enriched Thy Church with a new family of her servants; mercifully grant that we may be so

* See Historical Summary, p. 1013. † Hymn at Matins.

united in their sorrows as to share in their joys. Who livest and reignest.

bus, ut perfruámur et gáudiis: Qui vivis.

In Lent, Commemoration of the Feria.

Epistle. Lesson from the Book of Wisdom. Ecclus. xliv. 1-15.—LET us now praise men of renown, and our fathers in their generation. The Lord hath wrought great glory through His magnificence from the beginning. Such as have borne rule in their dominions, men of great power and endued with their wisdom, showing forth in the prophets the dignity of prophets. And ruling over the present people, and by the strength of wisdom instructing the people in most holy words. Such as by their skill sought our musical tunes, and published canticles of the Scriptures. Rich men in virtues, lovers of beautifulness: living at peace in their houses. All these have gained glory in their generations, and were praised in their days. They that were born of them have left a name behind them, that their praises might be related. And there are some of whom there is no memorial; who are perished, as if they had never been, and are born as if they had never been born, and their children with them. But these were men of mercy, whose godly deeds have not failed. Good things continue with their seed. Their posterity are a holy inheritance, and their seed hath stood in the covenants. And their children for their sakes Epistola. — Léctio libri Sapiéntiae.—Laudémus viros gloriósos, et paréntes nostros in generatióne sua. Multam glóriam fecit Dóminus magnificéntia sua a saeculo. Dominántes in potestátibus suis, hómines magni virtúte, et prudéntia sua praediti, nuntiántes in prophétis dignitátem prophetárum, et imperántes in praesénti populo, et virtúte prndéntiae pópulis sanctíssima verba. In perítia sua requiréntes modos musicos, et narrántes cármina scripturárum. Hómines dívites in virtúte, pulchritúdinis stúdium habéntes: pacificántes in dómibus suis. Omnes isti in generatiónibus gentis suae glóriam adépti sunt, et in diébus suis habéntur in láudibus. Qui de illis nati sunt, reliquérunt nomen narrándi laudes eórum. Et sunt quorum non est memória: periérunt quasi qui non fúerint: et nati sunt, quasi non nati, et fílii ipsórum cum ipsis. Sed illi viri misericórdiae sunt, quorum pietátes non defuérunt: cum sémine eórum pérmanent bona, heréditas sancta nepótes eórum, et in testaméntis stetit semen eórum: et fílii eórum propter illos usque in aetérnum manent: semen eórum et glória eórum non derelinquétur. Córpora ipsórum in pace sepúlta sunt, et nomen eórum vivit in generatiónem et generatiónem.

Sapiéntiam ipsórum narrent pópuli, et laudem eórum núntiet Ecclésia.

remain for ever; their seed and their glory shall not be forsaken. Their bodies are buried in peace, and their name liveth unto generation and generation. Let the people show forth their wisdom, and the church declare their praise.

Graduále.—Elécti mei non laborábunt frustra, neque germinábunt in conturbatióne: quia semen benedictórum Dómini est, et nepótes eórum cum eis. ℣. Córpora ipsórum in pace, sepúlta sunt, et nomen eórum vivit in generatiónem et generatiónem.

Gradual. Isa. lxv. 23.—My elect shall not labour in vain, nor bring forth in trouble, for they are the seed of the blessed of the Lord, and their posterity with them. ℣. Ecclus. xliv. 14. Their bodies are buried in peace, and their name liveth unto generation and generation.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Sapiéntiam ipsórum narrent pópuli, et laudem eórum núntiet Ecclésia. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ibid. 15.—℣. Let the people show forth their wisdom, and the Church declare their praise. Alleluia.

After Septuagesima, instead of the Alleluias and Verse, the following is said:

Tractus.—Qui séminant in lácrymis, in exsultatióne metent. ℣. Euntes ibant et flebant, mitténtes, sémina sua. ℣. Veniéntes autem vénient cum exsultatióne, portántes manípulos suos.

Tract. Ps. cxxv. 5, 6.—They that sow in tears shall reap in joy. ℣. Going they went and wept, casting their seeds. ℣. But coming they shall come with joyfulness, carrying their sheaves.

Gospel: Ecce nos, p. 278.

Offertórium.—Addúcam eos in montem sanctum meum, et laetificábo eos in domo oratiónis meae: holocáusta eórum, et victimae eórum placébunt mihi super altáre meum.

Offertory. Isa. lvi. 7.—I will bring them into My holy mount, and will make them joyful in My house of prayer; their holocausts and their victims shall please Me upon My altar.

Secréta.—Accipe, quaesumus, Dómine, hóstias quas tibi offérimus: et praesta; ut, intercedéntibus Sanctis tuis, líbera tibi mente serviámus, et perdoléntis Vírginis Genitrícis Fílii

Secret.— Favourably regard, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the sacrifice we offer up; and do Thou grant that, through the prayers of Thy Saints, we may with our whole heart give ourselves to Thee, and by burning love of the sorrowful Virgin, the Mother of Thy Son, may be kindled to fervour in Thy service. Through the same Christ our Lord.

tui amóre inflammémur. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

In Lent, Commemoration of the Feria.

Communion. John xv. 16.—I have chosen you from the world that you should go and bring forth fruit, and your fruit should remain.

Commúnio.—Ego vos elégi de mundo, ut eátis, et fructum afferátis: et fructus vester máneat.

Postcommunion. — Quickened anew, O Lord, by the heavenly food Thou vouchsafest to us in these divine mysteries, we beseech Thee, that, after the example set us by the saints whose feast we are keeping, we may steadfastly abide at the foot of the cross of Jesus in company with Mary His mother, and may merit to have part in the fruits of the Redemption He has wrought thereon. Through the same Christ our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Coeléstibus reficti mystériis te, Dómine, deprecámur: ut quórum festa percólimus imitántes exémpla; juxta crucem Jesu cum María Matre ejus fidéliter adstémus, et ejúsdem redemptiónis fructum percípere mereámur. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

In Lent, Commemoration and Last Gospel of the Feria.

FEBRUARY 14.

St. Valentine, PRIEST AND MARTYR.*—Simple.—Red vestments.

St. Valentine was a holy priest of Rome who was martyred under the Emperor Aurelian in 270. He co-operated in the Saviour's Redemption "by bearing the cross after Him" (Gospel). "Having made the sacrifice of his life for Him, he finds it again" (Ibid), for, "victorious in his terrible fight" (Epistle), God "crowns him in heaven with glory and honour" (Offertory).

Sharing in a spirit of penitence the redeeming sufferings of the Saviour, let us ask Him "through the intercession of St. Valentine, to be delivered from all the ills that threaten us" (Collect).

Mass: In virtúte, p. 222, except:

Collect.—Grant unto us who keep the festival day of Thy holy martyr Valentine, O Almighty God, we beseech Thee, to be, by his intercession, de-

Orémus. — Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui beáti Valentíni Martyris tui natalítia cólimus, a cunctis malis imminéntibus, ejus inter-

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009.

cessióne, liberémur. Per Dóminum.

livered from the many dangers which beset us. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Súscipe, quaesumus, Dómine, múnera dignánter obláta: et beáti Valentini Mártyris tui suffragántibus méritis, ad nostrae salútis auxílium proveníre concéde. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Be appeased, we beseech Thee, O Lord, by the gifts we offer, and by the intercession of blessed Valentine, Thy martyr, defend us from all dangers. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Sit nobis, Dómine, reparátio mentis et córporis coeléste mystérium: ut, cujus exséquimur actiónem, intercedénte beáto Valentíno Mártyre tuo, sentiámus efféctum. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — May the heavenly mystery be to us, O Lord, the reparation of soul and body, that, by the intercession of blessed Valentine, Thy martyr, we may perceive the effect of what we celebrate. Through our Lord.

FEBRUARY 15.

SS. Faustinus and Jovita, MARTYRS.*—Simple.—Red vestments.

St. Faustinus and St. Jovita, both born at Brescia, were brothers and of noble origin. During the persecution, " they stood the assault of sufferings, disgrace and tribulations " (Epistle) in several towns of Italy.

" They were tortured to death " (Gospel) at Brescia, at the beginning of Trajan's reign in 117.

" Following the example of the holy Martyr Faustinus and Jovita, let us apply ourselves with ardour to penance so that we may enjoy the fruits of the redemption."

Mass: Salus autem, p. 238. Secret and Postcommunion, p. 235.

FEBRUARY 18.

St. Simeon, BISHOP, MARTYR.†—Simple.—Red vestments.

St. Simeon, son of Cleophas and of Mary, who was so closely related to the Blessed Virgin as to be called her sister, " was anointed with holy oil " (Gradual) and became Bishop of Jerusalem after the apostle St. James.

A disciple of Christ, Whom he had known, he was for this reason arrested and crucified (Gospel). Although he was 120 years of age, the venerable old man " suffered this cruel punishment with constancy and received the crown of life which God prepares for those who love Him " (Epistle). His martyrdom took place in 106.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008. † Ibid., p. 1008.

Like St. Simeon, let us unite ourselves to Jesus by dying to sin at this holy season of penance.

Mass: Státuit of the Common of a Martyr, p. 215.

FEBRUARY 22.

The Chair of St. Peter at Antioch*—Greater-double.—Whit vestments.

To honour the dignity of the "prince" (Introit) to whom Jesus com mitted the power of the keys (Collect), the Church instituted the feast of the "Chair of St. Peter,"† which is found in the Roman calendar in the year 354.

As it often falls in Lent, certain churches celebrated it at an earlier date, in January. Hence the two feasts of the Chair of St. Peter, which the Church distinguished by connecting the more ancient one ‡ on February 22, with the Chair at Antioch and that on January 18 with the Chair of Rome.

The Gentiles who gave forth worthy fruits of penance, having taken the place of the Jews, Antioch supplanted Jerusalem and it is there that St. Peter resided before establishing his see at Rome.

For it is to St. Peter, who proclaimed that Jesus was "the Christ, Son of the living God" (Gospel) when all Palestine rejected Him § that the Master commits the power to bind Satan by closing the gates of hell, to open for us the gates of heaven (Gospel). And the Head of the Church teaches us in his first Epistle that it is "by faith in the sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ that the Holy Ghost sanctifies us and reconciles us to the Father."

The commemoration of St. Paul immediately follows the Collect of the feast, for the liturgy does not separate those who have so justly been called the two pillars of the Church (see picture, p. 459).

Let us to-day honour the Head of the Church who continues here below the redeeming work of Jesus and ask him to deliver us from the bonds of sin.

Mass: as on the Feast of St Peter's Chair at Rome, p. 1218.
Commemoration of St. Paul, p. 1218, and of the Feria, in Lent.

FEBRUARY 23.

St. Peter Damian, BISHOP, CONFESSOR AND DOCTOR.‖—Double—White vestments.

St. Peter Damian showed remarkable piety from his childhood. Having, by chance, picked up a coin, he gave it to a priest requesting him to offer up the divine sacrifice for the soul of his father. He added to his name that of Damian his brother out of gratitude, because it was to

* See Historical Summary, p. 1005.
† The word cathedra (chair) is the throne established where the Bishop resides, hence the name cathedral, given to the church where this seat is placed. Metaphorically, it represents the episcopal authority itself. "The Chair of St. Peter" means, therefore, the primacy of St. Peter as head of the Church.
‡ Rome, until the sixteenth century only celebrated this feast.
§ See p. 1217, note 3.
‖ See Historical Summary, p. 1012.

him he owed to be able to pursue his studies. " Despising earthly riches " (Collect), he entered a monastery of Camaldules of the Benedictine observance and soon became its abbot (Communion).

" As a light of souls, he was to be placed on the candlestick " (Gospel), and became Bishop of Ostia and Cardinal. He rendered immense services to the Sovereign Pontiffs by his learning, his commissions as legate and many other works. Taking his share in the apostolic life of Jesus, he combated the heresy of the Simonists and died at Faenza in 1072. Leo XII. gave him the title of Doctor of the Church.

Let us imitate in his ardour for penance, St. Peter Damian, who contributed so much by his example and counsel, to spread the habit of self-discipline as an atonement for sin.

Mass : In médio, p. 263, except :

Orémus. — Concéde nos, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus : beáti Petri, Confessóris tui atque Pontíficis mónita et exémpla sectári ; ut per terréstrium rerum contémptum aetérna gáudia consequámur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Grant us, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, to follow the admonitions and examples of blessed Peter, Thy confessor and bishop ; that by the contempt of terrestrial things we may obtain eternal joys. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Feria in Lent and of the Vigil of St. Mathias, the apostle, if it be not Leap Year when the Vigil is on the 24th. In Lent the last Gospel at the end of the Mass is that of the Feria.

FEBRUARY 23 OR 24.

Vigil of St. Mathias, APOSTLE.—Simple.—Purple vestments.

The Church attaches great importance to the feasts of the Apostles, which are preceded by a Vigil (Collect).

St. Mathias, elected by the will of God (Gospel), received Judas' share in the inheritance of the Church which was figured by the Promised Land divided into twelve tribes (Epistle). Called " to give his life " (Gospel), like Jesus, to crown his apostolic career, he suffered martyrdom and was " clothed by God in resplendent glory " (Communion).

Let us ask God to prepare us piously to celebrate the feast of His apostle, St. Mathias.

Mass : Ego autem, p. 202.

FEBRUARY (IN LEAP YEAR FEB. 25) 24.

St. Mathias, APOSTLE.*—Double of the Second Class.—Red vestments.

St. Peter, in the Book of Acts (Epistle), says that the prophet had Judas in view when he declares " that his episcopate would pass into other hands." † It is the Lord Himself Who showed the one He had chosen to be associated with the eleven apostles (Epistle).

It is to St. Mathias that He confided the secrets made known to Him in the bosom of His Father (Gospel). Wherefore this holy Apostle shares the glory " of the princes whom God has established over souls " (Offertory) and " He shall judge the twelve tribes of Israel " (Communion). Since their infidelity, indeed, " their house has become deserted " (Epistle) ‡ and the Kingdom of Heaven is transferred to the Gentiles who do penance. His name figures in the Canon of the Mass (Second list, p. 65).

Let us ask " God, Who has included blessed Mathias in the College of the Apostles, to grant us through his intercession " (Collect) that we may " atone for our sins " (Secret), so as to obtain " peace and pardon " (Postcommunion).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his parishioners.

FIRST VESPERS (FEBRUARY 23 OR 24).

The Common of Apostles, p. 206.

If it be not Leap Year, Commemoration of St. Peter Damian.

Antiphon : O Doctor . . . beáte Petre, p. 263. ℣. Justum, p. 262, and Common of the Feria, in Lent.

MASS.

Introit. Ps. cxxxviii. 17.—To me Thy friends, O God, are made exceedingly honourable : their

Intróitus. — Mihi autem nimis honoráti sunt amíci tui, Deus : nimis confortátus est

* See Historical Summary, p. 1004. † Ps. cviii. 7.
‡ Luke xiii. 35 also says : " Your house shall be left to you desolate."

principátus eórum. Ps. Dómine, probásti me, et cognovísti me: tu cognovísti sessiónem meam, et resurrectiónem meam. ℣. Glória Patri.

principality is exceedingly strengthened. Ps. Ibid. 1, 2. Lord, Thou hast proved me, and known my sitting down, and my rising up. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui beátum Matthíam Apostolórum tuórum collégio sociásti: tríbue, quaesumus; ut ejus interventióne, tuae circa nos pietátis semper víscera sentiámus. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who didst associate blessed Mathias to the company of Thy apostles, grant, we beseech Thee, that by his intercession, we may ever experience Thy tender mercy towards us. Through our Lord.

In Lent, Commemoration of the Feria.

Epistola. — Léctio Actuum Apostolórum. — In diébus illis exsúrgens Petrus in médio fratrum, dixit (erat autem turba hóminum simul, fere centum vigínti): Viri fratres, opórtet impléri Scriptúram, quam praedíxit Spíritus Sanctus per os David de Juda, qui fuit dux eórum, qui comprehendérunt Jesum: qui connumerátus erat in nobis, et sortítus est sortem ministérii hujus. Et hic quidem possédit agrum de mercéde iniquitátis, et suspénsus crépuit médius: et diffúsa sunt ómnia víscera ejus. Et notum factum est ómnibus habitántibus Jerúsalem, ita ut appellarétur ager ille, lingua eórum, Hacéldama, hoc est, ager sánguinis. Scriptum est enim in libro Psalmórum: Fiat commorátio eórum desérta, et non sit qui inhábitet in ea: et episcopátum ejus accípiat alter. Opórtet ergo ex his viris, qui nobíscum sunt congregáti in omni témpore, quo intrávit et exívit inter nos Dóminus Jesus, Epistle. Lesson from the Acts of the Apostles i. 15-26.—In those days, Peter rising up in the midst of the brethren, said (now the number of persons together was about a hundred and twenty): Men and brethren, the Scripture must needs be fulfilled which the Holy Ghost spoke before by the mouth of David concerning Judas, who was the leader of them that apprehended Jesus; who was numbered with us, and had obtained part of this ministry. And he indeed hath possessed a field of the reward of iniquity; and, being hanged, burst asunder in the midst; and all his bowels gushed out. And it became known to all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so that the same field was called in their tongue Haceldama, that is to say, the field of blood. For it is written in the book of Psalms: Let their habitation become desolate, and let there be none to dwell therein: and his bishopric let another take. Wherefore of these men who have companied with us, all the time that the Lord Jesus came in and went out among us, beginning from the baptism of John until the day wherein He was taken up from us, one of these must be made a witness with us of His resurrection. And they appointed two, Joseph called Barsabas, who was surnamed Justus, and Mathias. And praying they said: Thou Lord, Who knowest the hearts of all men, show whether of these two Thou hast chosen, to take the place of this ministry and apostleship, from which Judas hath by transgression fallen, that he might go to his own place. And they gave them lots, and the lot fell upon Mathias, and he was numbered with the eleven apostles.

incípiens a baptísmate Joánnis usque in diem, qua assúmptus est a nobis, testem resurrectiónis ejus nobíscum fíeri unum ex istis. Et statuérunt duos, Joseph, qui vocabátur Bársabas, qui cognominátus est Justus, et Matthíam. Et orántes dixérunt: Tu, Dómine, qui corda nostri ómnium, osténde, quem elégeris ex his duóbus unum, accípere locum ministérii hujus, et apostolátus, de quo praevaricátus est Judas, ut abíret in locum suum. Et dedérunt sortes eis, et cécidit sors super Matthíam, et annumerátus est cum úndecim Apóstolis.

Gradual. Ps. cxxxviii. 17, 18.—Thy friends, O God, are exceedingly honourable: their principality is exceedingly strengthened. ℣. I will number them, and they shall be multiplied above the sand.

Graduále. — Nimis honoráti sunt amíci tui, Deus: nimis confortátus est principátus eórum. ℣. Dinumerábo eos, et super arénam multiplicabúntur.

Tract. Ps. xx. 3, 4.—Thou hast given him his soul's desire, and hast not withholden from him the will of his lips. ℣. For Thou hast prevented him with blessings of sweetness. ℣. Thou hast set on his head a crown of precious stones.

Tractus. — Desidérium ánimae ejus tribuísti ei: et voluntáte labiórum ejus non fraudásti eum. ℣. Quóniam praevenísti eum in benedictiónibus dulcédinis. ℣. Posuísti in cápite ejus corónam de lápide pretióso.

Gospel: Confitéor tibi, Pater, p. 1213.

The Credo is said.

Offertory. Ps. xliv. 17, 18.—Thou shalt make them princes over all the earth: they shall remember Thy name, O Lord, in every progeny and generation.

Offertórium. — Constitues eos príncipes super omnem terram: mémores erunt nóminis tui, Dómine, in omni progénie et generatióne.

Secréta. — Hóstias tibi, Dómine, quas nómini tuo sacrándas offérimus, sancti Matthíae Apóstoli tui prosequátur orátio: per quam nos expiári fácias, et deféndi. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—May the prayer of Thy holy apostle Mathias, accompany the sacrifice which we offer to Thy name, O Lord, by which mayest Thou grant us to be purified and defended. Through our Lord.

In Lent, Common of the Feria.—Preface of the Apostles, p. 57.

Commúnio. — Vos, qui secúti estis me, sedébitis super sedes, judicántes duódecim tribus Israël.

Communion. Matt. xix. 28.—You who have followed Me shall sit on seats judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

Postcommúnio. — Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut per haec sancta, quae súmpsimus, interveniénte beáto Matthíae Apóstolo tuo, véniam consequámur, et pacem. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—Grant, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, that by these holy mysteries which we have received, through the intercession of Thy blessed apostle Mathias, we may obtain pardon and peace. Through our Lord.

In Lent, Commemoration and Last Gospel of the Feria.

SECOND VESPERS (FEB. 24 OR 25).

The Common of the Apostles, p. 208.—Common of the Feria, in Lent.

FEASTS OF MARCH.

MARCH 4.

St. Casimir, CONFESSOR.*—Semi-double.—White vestments.

St. Casimir, son of Casimir IV., king of Poland, and of Elizabeth of Austria, practised the most sublime virtues amid all the danger of the Court (Collect). He continually meditated on the Passion of Jesus, which inspired him with a great love for corporal mortification and for the poor, those suffering members of Christ. The abundant alms (Epistle) which he distributed made him to be called "the father and defender of the poor and unfortunate." Always ready for the coming of the Lord (Gospel), he foretold the day of his death, which happened on March 4, 1483.

Imitating the fortitude and constancy of St. Casimer, let us unite ourselves to the Saviour Who atones for our sins and let us despise worldly for heavenly treasures (Collect).

* See Historical Summary, p. 1014.

Mass: Os justi, p. 270, except:

O God, Who amidst the delights of royalty, and the snares of the world, didst strengthen holy Casimir with the virtue of constancy, we beseech Thee, that by his intercession Thy faithful may despise earthly things, and ever aspire to those that are heavenly. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui inter regáles delícias, et mundi illécebras sanctum Casimírum virtúte constántiae roborásti: quaesumus: ut ejus intercessióne fidéles tui terréna despíciant, et ad coeléstia semper aspírent. Per Dóminum.

In Lent, Common and Last Gospel of the Feria.

SAME DAY.

St. Lucius I., POPE AND MARTYR.*

Lucius, whose name evokes the idea of light, shone by his courage in the midst of the greatest persecution. He governed the Church under the Emperors Gallus and Volusian and was martyred in 254.

Like Jesus in His public life, he was, says St. Cyprian, "the Pastor who guards the flock, the Pilot who steers the ship, the King who leads his people, and in one word the Bishop of the Church."

Mass: Sacerdótes Dei, p. 219, except:

Collect.—O God, Who givest us joy by the annual solemnity of blessed Lucius, Thy martyr and bishop, mercifully grant that we may rejoice in the protection of him whose festival we celebrate. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui nos beáti Lúcii Mártyris tui atque Pontíficis ánnua solemnitáte laetíficas: concéde propítius: ut, cujus natalítia cólimus, de ejúsdem étiam protectióne gaudeámus. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Graciously accept, O Lord, the offerings devoted to Thee, through the merits of blessed Lucius, Thy martyr and bishop; and grant that they may become a perpetual support to us. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Hóstias tíbi, Dómine, beáti Lúcii Mártyris tui atque Pontíficis dicátas méritis, benígnus assúme: et ad perpétuum nobis tríbue proveníre subsídium. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—Being refreshed with the participation of the holy gift, we beseech Thee, O Lord our God, that by the intercession of blessed Lucius, Thy martyr and bishop, we may experience the effect of what we celebrate. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Refécti participatióne múneris sacri, quaesumus, Dómine Deus noster: ut, cujus exséquimur cultum, intercedénte beáto Lúcio Mártyre tuo atque Pontífice, sentiámus effectum. Per Dóminum.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007.

MARCH 6.

SS. Perpetua and Felicitas, MARTYRS.*—Double.—Red vestments.

St. Perpetua had just become a mother and St. Felicitas was on the point of becoming one, when they were arrested at Carthage during the persecution of Severus.

When thrown into prison they united their prayers and tears, fearing to escape martyrdom. "God heard them" (Epistle).

When the judge told them that they were condemned to the wild beasts, they were transported with joy, like the merchant of the Gospel, for at that price they would purchase heaven. They were exposed in the amphitheatre to the fury of a fierce cow and killed by the sword towards 202.

Let us undergo in body and in spirit the martyrdom of penance, so as to obtain the "perpetual felicity" which the names of these two saints recall, as St. Augustine ingeniously remarks.

Mass : Me exspectavérunt, p. 300, except :

Collect : Da nobis, p. 301, and Secret : Intende, p. 303.

In Lent, Commemoration of the Feria.

Postcommúnio. — Mysticis, Dómine, repléti sumus votis et gaúdiis : praesta, quaesumus ; ut intercessiónibus sanctárum Mártyrum tuárum Perpétuae et Felicitátis, quae temporáliter ágimus, spirituáliter conseqámur. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—Filled with the mystical joys which are the object of our desires, grant us, we beseech Thee, O Lord, to obtain by the intercession of Thy holy martyrs Perpetua and Felicitae the everlasting effects of what we do in life. Through our Lord.

In Lent, Last Gospel of the Feria.

MARCH 7.

St. Thomas Aquinas, CONFESSOR AND DOCTOR.†—Double.—White vestments.

St. Thomás, son of the Count of Aquino and of Theodora of Naples, was at the age of five committed to the care of the Benedictine monks of Monte Cassino.

As a young man he determined, in spite of family opposition, to enter the Order of St. Dominic, whose greatest glory he is, and on this occasion he so completely conquered the demon of impurity that from then he was exempt from all temptation. His intelligence henceforth sounded the depths of divine mysteries aided by a supernatural light (Introit). Wherefore the Church, comparing him to the spirits of the blessed as much for his innocence as for his genius, awarded him the title of "Angelic Doctor."

"A light of the world" (Gospel), his teaching is such a faithful echo of the "words of true doctrine" of Christ (Epistle), that the Council of Trent placed the Theological Summa next to the Bible in the hall where it sat. He died in the Cistercian monastery of Fossa Nuova on his way to the Council of Lyons, March 7, 1274.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008. † Ibid., p. 1013.

Leo XIII. declared him, by letters apostolic, the patron of all Catholic schools. At this season, when the liturgy recalls the public ministry of Jesus, let us ask St. Thomas so to penetrate us with the spirit of penance that we may have a clear vision of the teachings of the Master and put them into practice (Collect), as he did.

Mass: In médio, p. 263, except:

Collect.—O God, Who dost enlighten Thy Church with the wonderful erudition of blessed Thomas, Thy confessor, and dost render it fruitful by his holy works, grant us, we beseech Thee, to behold with our understanding what he taught, and to accomplish by imitation what he did. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui Ecclésiam tuam beáti Thomae Confessóris tui mira eruditióne claríficas, et sancta operatióne foecúndas: da nobis, quaesumus; et quae dócuit, intelléctu conspícere, et quae egit, imitatióne complére. Per Dóminum.

In Lent, Commemoration of the Feria.

Epistle. Lesson from the Book of Wisdom. Wisd. of Sol. vii. 7-14.—I wished, and understanding was given me; and I called, and the spirit of wisdom came upon me; and I preferred her before kingdoms and thrones, and esteemed riches nothing in comparison of her. Neither did I compare unto her any precious stone, for all gold in comparison of her is as a little sand, and silver in respect to her shall be counted as clay. I loved her above health and beauty, and chose to have her instead of light, for her light cannot be put out. Now all good things came to me together with her, and innumerable riches through her hands. And I rejoiced in them all; for this wisdom went before me, and I knew not that she was the mother of them all: which I have learned without guile, and communicate without envy and her riches I hide not;

Epistola.—Léctio libri Sapiéntiae.—Optávi, et datus est míhi sensus: et invocávi, et venit in me spíritus sapiéntiae: et praepósui illam regnis et sédibus, et divítias nihil esse duxi in comparatióne illíus: nec comparávi illi lápidem pretiósum: quóniam omne aurum in comparatióne illíus, aréna est exígua, et tamquam lutum aestimábitur argéntum in conspéctu illíus. Super salútem et spéciem diléxi illam, et propósui pro luce habére illam quóniam inexstinguíbile est lumen illíus. Venérunt autem mihi ómnia bona páriter cum illa, et innumerábilis honéstas per manus illíus, et laetátus sum in ómnibus: quóniam antecedébat me ista sapiéntia, et ignorábam quóniam horum ómnium mater est. Quam sine fictióne dídici, et sine invídia commúnico, et honestátem illíus non abscóndo. Infinítus enim thesáurus est homínibus: quo qui usi sunt, partícipes facti sunt amicítiae Dei, propter disciplínae dona commendáti.

for she is an infinite treasure to men, which they that use become the friends of God, being commended for the gifts of discipline.

In Lent, Last Gospel of the Feria.

MARCH 8.

St. John of God, CONFESSOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

St. John of God was born in Portugal in 1495. After a stormy youth, at the age of 40 he was one day listening to the word of God, when he felt himself so inflamed with divine charity towards his neighbour, that he distributed all he possessed to the poor and consecrated his life to their service. The love of God is one with that of our neighbour, says the Gospel, for men bear in themselves the image of the heavenly Father, whose sons they are, in virtue of their union with God and Jesus by grace.

Through his disinterestedness, and thanks to alms (Epistle) which St. John obtained for the erection of two large hospitals at Granada, " he enriched the Church with a new family " (Collect), which took the name of Brothers Hospitallers of St. John of God, and which, imitating Christ in His apostolic life, devotes itself to the healing of bodies and of souls.

A great fire having broken out in a hospital, he fearlessly rushed into the flames and saved all the sick, because the fire kindling in his heart was greater than that which raged around (Collect). St. John, whose divine love caused his name to be joined to the name of God, was continually absorbed in the contemplation of heavenly things (Introit). Struck down by a severe illness, after receiving the last sacraments, he fell on his knees and died pressing to his heart the image of Jesus crucified. This was in 1550.

Leo XIII. declared him Patron of hospitallers and of the sick and commanded his name to be placed in the Litanies of the dying.

Following the example of St. John of God, let us fill our hearts with the fire of divine charity which will purify us of our vices and let us have recourse to the protection of this saint that we may always be provided with the remedies which conduce to eternal life (Collect).

Mass: Os justi, p. 270, except:

Orémus. — Deus, qui beátum Joánnem, tuo amóre succénsum, inter flammas innóxium incédere fecísti, et per eum Ecclésiam tuam nova prole foecundásti: praesta ipsíus suffragántibus méritis; ut igne caritátis tuae vítia nostra curéntur, et remédia

Collect.—O God, Who didst cause blessed John, when burning with love of Thee, to walk unscathed through flames, and Who didst by his means enrich Thy Church with a new religious order: grant that, his merits pleading in our behalf, our evil passions may, to the everlasting healing of our souls, be burned up in the fire of our love of Thee. Through our Lord.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1015.

nobis aetérna provéniant. Per Dóminum.

In Lent, Commemoration of the Feria.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew xxii. 35-46.—AT that time the Pharisees came to Jesus, and one of them, a doctor of the law, asked Him, tempting Him: Master, which is the great commandment of the law? Jesus said to him: Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with thy whole heart, and with thy whole soul, and with thy whole mind. This is the greatest and the first commandment. And the second is like to this: Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. On these two commandments dependeth the whole law and the prophets. And the Pharisees being gathered together, Jesus asked them, saying: What think you of Christ; whose Son is He? They say to Him: David's. He saith to them: How then doth David, in spirit, call Him Lord; saying: The Lord said to my Lord: Sit on My right hand until I make Thy enemies Thy footstool? If David then call Him Lord, how is He his Son? And no man was able to answer Him a word; neither durst any man, from that day forth, ask Him any more questions.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—IN illo témpore: Accessérunt ad Jesum pharisaei: et interrogávit eum unus ex eis legis doctor, tentans eum: Magíster, quod est mandátum magnum in lege? Ait illi Jesus: Díliges Dóminum Deum tuum ex toto corde tuo, et in tota ánima tua et in tota mente tua. Hoc est máximum, et primum mandátum. Secúndum autem símile est huic: Díliges próximum tuum, sicut teípsum. In his duóbus mandátis univérsa lex pendet, et prophétae. Congregátis autem pharisaeis, interrogávit eos Jesus, dícens: Quid vobis vidétur de Christo? cujus fílius est? Dicunt ei: David. Ait illis: Quómodo ergo David in spíritu vocat eum Dóminum, dicens: Dixit Dóminus Dómino meo: sede a dextris meis, donec ponam inimícos tuos scabéllum pedum tuórum? Si ergo David vocat eum Dóminum, quómodo fílius ejus est? Et nemo póterat ei respondére verbum: neque ausus fuit quisquam ex illa die eum ámplius interrogáre.

In Lent, Last Gospel of the Feria.

MARCH 9.

St. Frances of Rome, WIDOW.*—Double.—White vestments.

Saint Frances, a noble Roman lady, showed forth the strength of virtues mentioned in the Epistle. She was married at the age of eleven to Lorenzo de Ponziani, and was for forty years the type of a perfect Christian spouse.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1014.

Avoiding festivities, wearing the simplest apparel, devoting to prayer and to the care of the poor all her spare time after she had accomplished her domestic duties, she founded at Rome the House of the Oblates of the Congregation of Mount Olivet, under the rule of St. Benedict (1433).

After the death of her husband, she retired there in order to purchase at the price of all her possessions, the precious pearl of eternal life (Gospel). Having thus become "the spouse of Christ" (Tract), she acquired by the continual contemplation of the Passion of Jesus the divine energy which enabled her to obtain a perfect mastery over her senses. To sustain her in her terrible encounters with the Spirit of Evil, God favoured her with the visible presence of her guardian Angel, with whom she conversed familiarly (Collect). She died in 1440.

At this holy season of penance let us, like St. Frances, imitate the life full of sacrifice of the Saviour.

Mass : Cognóvi, p. 304, except :

Orémus.—Deus, qui beátam Francíscam fámulam tuam, inter cétera grátiae tuae dona, familiári Angeli consuetúdine decorásti: concéde, quaesumus; ut intercessiónis ejus auxílio, Angelórum consórtium cónsequi mereámur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God Who, among the other wonders of Thy grace, didst privilege Thy servant Frances oftentimes to have speech of an Angel: grant, we beseech Thee, that, helped by her prayers, we likewise may one day be admitted into the company of the holy Angels. Through our Lord.

In Lent, Common and Last Gospel of the Feria.

MARCH 10.

The Holy Forty Martyrs.*—Semi-double.—Red vestments.

Under the Emperor Licinius, in 320, forty soldiers of the garrison of Sebaste, in Armenia, bore glorious testimony to Christ (Epistle). For refusing to sacrifice to idols, they were, out of hatred for the name of Jesus (Gospel), "thrown into prison and tortured in many ways" (Epistle). At last they were stripped of their clothes and exposed on a frozen pond. They asked God that "the forty who had entered the lists might be forty to win the crown, 40 being the number consecrated by the fasts of Jesus, Moses and Elias." † One of them, whose courage failed, threw himself into a bath of tepid water prepared hard by and perished in it. But their guard, touched by grace from above, took his place, and there were forty martyrs. When they had expired, their bodies were carried away on chariots to be burned, all except the youngest, who was still alive and whom they hoped to pervert to the worship of the gods. But his mother, who above all was his mother in Christ

* See Historical Summary, p. 1909. † Lesson of Matins.

(Communion) took him in her arms, followed the convoy, and when her son had breathed his last she lay him with those who were more than ever his brothers in Jesus (Gospel—Communion).

They were thus united in death as in life, and their souls entered heaven together. " How pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity! " (Gradual). The Communion, which alludes to this charity, is the same as that of the seven holy martyrs and their mother on July 10.

Let us imitate the fortitude of these forty martyrs in the confession of their faith and not grow slack during the forty days of Lent.

MASS.

Introit. Ps. xxxiii. 18.—The just cried, and the Lord heard them; and delivered them out of all their troubles. Ps. Ibid. 2. I will bless the Lord at all times: His praise shall be ever in my mouth. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus. — Clamavérunt justi, et Dóminus exaudívit eos: et ex ómnibus tribulatiónibus eórum liberávit eos. Ps. Benedícam Dóminum in omni témpore: semper laus ejus in ore meo. ℟. Glória Patri.

Collect.—Grant, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, that we, who venerate the steadfastness in bearing witness to Thee of Thy glorious martyrs, may feel that Thou hearest the loving prayers they put up on our behalf. Through our Lord.

Orémus.—Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui gloriósos Mártyres fortes in sua confessióne cognóvimus, pios apud te in nostra intercessióne sentiámus. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of the Feria.

Epistle: Sancti per fidem, p. 1226.

Gradual. Ps. cxxxii. 1, 2..—Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity. V. It is like the precious ointment on the head, that ran down upon the beard, the beard of Aaron.

Graduále.—Ecce quam bonum, et quam jucúndum, habitáre fratres in unum! ℣. Sicut unguéntum in cápite, quod descéndit in barbam, barbam Aaron.

Tract. Ps. cxxv. 5, 6.—They that sow in tears, shall reap in joy. ℣. Going they went and wept, casting their seeds. ℣. But coming they shall come with joyfulness, carrying their sheaves.

Tractus.—Qui séminant in lacrymis, in gáudio metent. ℣. Eúntes ibant et flebant, mitténtes sémina sua. ℣. Venientes autem vénient cum exsultatióne, portántes manípulos suos.

Gospel: Descéndens Jesus, p. 237.

Offertórium.—Laetámini in Domino, et exsultáte justi: et gloriámini omnes recti corde.

Offertory. Ps. xxxi. 11.—Be glad in the Lord, and rejoice ye just; and glory all ye right of heart.

Secréta. — Preces, Dómine, tuórum respice, oblationésque fidélium: ut et tibi gratae sint pro tuórum festivitáte Sanctórum, et nobis cónferant tuae propitiatiónis auxílium. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Look favourably, O Lord, on the prayers and oblations of Thy faithful; may they be agreeable to Thee when we celebrate the feast of Thy Saints, and may they obtain for us the help of Thy mercy. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Feria.

Commúnio.—Quicúmque fécerit voluntátem Patris mei, qui in coelis est: ipse meus frater, et soror, et mater est, dicit Dóminus.

Communion. Matt. xii. 50.—Whosoever shall do the will of My Father Who is in heaven, the same is My brother and sister, and mother, saith the Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Sanctórum tuórum, Dómine, intercessióne placátus: praesta, quaesumus; ut quae tempórali celebrámus actióne, perpétua salvatióne capíamus. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Appeased, O Lord, by the intercession of Thy Saints, grant us, we beseech Thee, to obtain by the celebration of this temporal act our eternal salvation. Through our Lord.

Commemoration and Last Gospel of the Feria.

MARCH 12.

St. Gregory I., The Great, POPE AND DOCTOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

Born at Rome in 540, St. Gregory, the historian of St. Benedict, transformed his house into a monastery where the great patriarch's rule was observed. Elected successively Abbot, Cardinal and Supreme Pontiff, he was one of the greatest popes established by God over his family (Communion). While he actively propagated the truth through the barbarian world, he watched over the temporal interests of his Roman people with supreme intelligence and devotion, and has justly been named Gregory the Great.

He is with St. Ambrose, St. Augustine and St. Jerome one of the four great Latin doctors and the torch of his doctrine raised on the candlestick (Gospel), shines throughout the world.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010.

England owes to him her conversion: he sent her a company of Benedictine monks under whose guidance he hoped the Angles would become Angels.

To him chiefly belongs the honour of having collected and published the beautiful and chaste forms of liturgical prayer and those harmonious melodies called for ever after him "Gregorian Chant." *

"The Gregorian Chant, says Pius X. possesses in the highest degree the qualities proper to the liturgy which are especially holiness and excellence of form, whence spontaneously springs another character, namely universality. Consequently the Gregorian Chant properly belongs to the Roman Church; it is the only chant she has inherited from the ancient Fathers, which she has jealously guarded through the ages in her liturgical manuscripts, which she directly proposes to the faithful as her own, and which, in certain parts of the liturgy, she prescribes exclusively.

"For these reasons the Gregorian Chant has always been considered the supreme model of sacred music. The traditional ancient chant is therefore to be made good use of in the functions of the church, all being well assured that an ecclesiastical function loses nothing of its solemnity when no other music accompanies it. And particular care should be taken to re-establish the Gregorian Chant in popular practice, in order that the faithful may again take a more active part in the celebration of ecclesiastical offices, as was once the custom" (Motu propio, Nov. 22, 1903). † St. Gregory died on March 12, 604.

At this season, consecrated to penance, let us ask God, through the intercession of this Saint, to deliver us from the weight of our sins (Collect).

MASS.

Introit. Dan. iii. 84, 87.—O ye priests of God, bless the Lord: O ye holy and humble of heart, praise God. Ps. Ibid. 57. All ye works of the Lord, bless the Lord; praise and exalt him above all for ever. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus. — Sacerdótes Dei benedícite Dóminum: sancti, et húmiles corde laudáte Deum. Ps. Benedícite ómnia ópera Dómini Dómino: laudáte et superexultáte eum in saecula. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—O God, Who didst bestow upon the soul of Thy servant Gregory the rewards of eternal happiness; mercifully grant, that we who are oppressed by the weight of our sins, may be

Orémus.—Deus, qui ánimae fámuli tui Gregorii aetérnae beatitúdinis praemia contulísti concéde propítius; ut, qui peccatórum nostrórum póndera prémimur, ejus apud te préci-

* The Gregorian Chant expresses most perfectly and piously the thoughts contained in the liturgical texts, if what La Bruyere says is observed: "There are things where mediocrity is intolerable, namely poetry, painting and music." A good execution will be further enhanced if, remembering the origin of this chant, the Roman pronunciation is adopted. The official prayer of the Church, of which music is an integral part, is it not one, holy, catholic, apostolic and Roman?

† Cf. Catholic Liturgy, by Dom Lefebvre, ch. 17. (Sands & Co.)

bus sublevémur. Per Dóminum.

relieved by his intercession with Thee. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Feria.

Epistle: Testíficor, p. 264.

Graduále.—Jurávit Dóminus, et non paenitébit eum: Tu es sacérdos in aetérnum, secúndum órdinem Merchísedech. ℣. Dixit Dóminus Dómino meo: Sede a dextris meis.

Gradual. Ps. cix. 4, 1.—The Lord hath sworn, and He will not repent: thou art a priest for ever according to the order of Melchisedech. ℣. The Lord said to my Lord: Sit Thou at My right hand.

Tractus.—Beátus vir, qui timet Dóminum: in mandátis ejus cupit nimis. ℣. Potens in terra erit semen ejus: generátio rectórum benedicétur. ℣. Glória et divítiae in domo ejus: et justítia ejus manet in saeculum saeculi.

Tract. Ps. cxi. 1-3.—Blessed is the man that feareth the Lord: in His commandments he delighteth exceedingly. ℣. His seed shall be mighty upon earth; the generation of the righteous shall be blessed. ℣. Glory and wealth shall be in his house; and his justice remaineth for ever and ever.

Gospel: Vos estis sal terrae, p. 265.—Credo.

Offertórium.—Véritas mea, et misericórdia mea cum ipso: et in nómine meo exaltábitur cornu ejus.

Offertory. Ps. lxxxviii. 25.—My truth and My mercy shall be with him: and in My name shall his horn be exalted.

Secréta.—Annue nobis, quaesumus, Dómine: ut intercessióne beáti Gregórii haec nobis prosit oblátio, quam immolándo totíus mundi tribuísti relaxári delicta. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Vouchsafe, O Lord, we beseech Thee, that through the intercession of blessed Gregory, this sacrifice may be of avail to us: for in the offering of it up, Thou, in Thy mercy, didst wash away the sins of mankind. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Feria.

Commúnio.—Fidélis servus et prudens, quem constítuit Dóminus super famíliam suam: ut det illis in témpore trítici mensúram.

Communion. Luke xii. 42.—A faithful and wise steward, whom the Lord set over His family, to give them their measure of wheat in due season.

Postcommunion.—O God, Who didst make the blessed Pontiff Gregory equal in merits to Thy saints, grant in Thy mercy that we who celebrate a festival in commemoration of him, may also imitate the example of his life. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio.—Deus, qui beátum Gregórium Pontíficem Sanctórum tuórum méritis coaequásti: concéde propítius; ut, qui commemoratiónis ejus festa percólimus, vitae quoque imitémur exémpla. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration and Last Gospel of the Feria.

MARCH 17.

St. Patrick, BISHOP, CONFESSOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

Whilst in the fifth century the Franks, Germans, and other northern peoples had not yet received the light of the Gospel, God raised up " the confessor and bishop St. Patrick to announce His glory to the pagans " of Ireland (Collect). This holy Bishop (Introit) put to such profit the talents he had received from God (Gospel) that he became the Father of all this people (Communion) and that Ireland has preserved for him, after thirteen centuries, an ardent and tender devotion which nothing has been able to weaken.

Strengthened by help from above (Offertory), he was great before kings and princes (Epistle). At first hostile, they ended by listening to him and helped him during his 33 years' apostleship to cover with churches, monasteries and schools the island which was soon to deserve the appellation of Isle of the Saints. St. Patrick died in 464. March 17 is a national day and a day of obligation in Ireland.

Through the merits of this Saint, whose austerities have remained celebrated, let us ask of God the grace to accomplish the penances commanded by Him (Collect).

Mass: Státuit, p. 255.

Collect.—O God, Who didst vouchsafe to send blessed Patrick, confessor and bishop, to preach Thy glory to the Gentiles, grant, through his merits and intercession, that what Thou commandest us to do, we may be enabled to accomplish by Thy mercy. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui ad praedicándam géntibus glóriam tuam beátum Patrícium Confessórem atque Pontíficem, míttere dignátus es: ejus méritis et intercessióne concéde; ut, quae nobis agénda praecipis, te miseránte adimplére possímus. Per Dómínum.

Commemoration and Last Gospel of the Feria.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1011.

MARCH 18.

St. Cyril of Jerusalem, BISHOP, CONFESSOR.*—Double.— White vestments.

During the season of Lent, the catechumens were committed to the care of a priest who had to instruct them. Like St. John Chrysostom at Antioch, and St. Augustine at Hippo, St. Cyril discharged this duty at Jerusalem. We still possess most of the admirable homilies, so pious and full of divine wisdom (Epistle), which he preached every day for seven weeks before Easter, between Prime and Terce.† He there explains the Holy Scriptures, and during the sixth and seventh weeks the Credo, article by article. Wherefore the Church counts him among her Doctors. (Introit).

Having become Bishop of Jerusalem (Communion) he was, like our Lord in the course of His public life (Gospel), the butt of injustice and persecution. Thrice exiled by the Arians, who denied the divinity of Christ, he always affirmed this great dogma (Collect), and was honourably replaced on his throne by the Emperor Theodosius. He then governed his church in peace, predicted that Julian the Apostate's efforts to restore the Temple of Jerusalem would be fruitless, took part in the Council of Constantinople, which again condemned the Arian heresy, and died in 386.

Let us sanctify by penance our minds and hearts that we may deserve at the feast of Easter to be made partakers of the divine nature (Collect).

Mass : In médio, p. 263, except :

Orémus. — Da nobis quaesumus, omnípotens Deus, beáto Cyríllo Pontífice intercedénte : te solum verum Deum, et quem misísti Jesum Christum ita cognóscere ; ut inter oves, quae vocem ejus áudiunt, perpétuo connumerári mereámur. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Collect.—Give unto us, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, so to know Thee, Who alone art the true God, and Him Whom Thou hast sent, Jesus Christ, that we may be accounted worthy to be numbered among the sheep who are His own, and who for ever shall hear His voice. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Feria. Epistle : Justus cor suum, p. 267.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—IN illo témpore : Dixit Jesus discípulis suis : Cum persequéntur vos in civitáte ista, fúgite in áliam. Amen dico vobis, non consummábitis civitátes Israel,

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew, x. 23-28.—AT that time, Jesus said to His disciples : When they shall persecute you in this city, flee into another. Amen, I say to you, you shall not finish all the cities of Israel till the Son of man come. The disciple is not above the master, nor the servant above his lord. It is enough for the disciple that he be as his master, and the servant as his lord. If they have called the good man of the house Beelzebub, how much more them of his household? Therefore fear them not; for nothing is covered that shall not be revealed; nor hid that shall not be known. That which I tell you in the dark, speak ye in the light; and that which you hear in the ear, preach ye upon the house-tops. And fear ye not them that kill the body, and are not able to kill the soul; but rather fear Him that can destroy both soul and body into hell.—Credo.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1011.
† Prime is the Office which was recited at the first hour (about 6 o'clock) and Terce at the Third hour (9 o'clock), see p. 490.

donec véniat Fílius hóminis. Non est discípulus super magistrum, nec servus super dóminum suum. Súfficit discípulo, ut sit sicut magister ejus: et servo, sicut dóminus ejus. Si patremfamílias Beélzebub vocavérunt; quanto magis domésticos ejus? Ne ergo timuéritis eos. Nihil enim est opértum, quod non revelábitur; et occúltum, quod non sciétur. Quod dico vobis in ténebris, dicíte in lúmine: et quod in aure audítis, praedicáte super tecta. Et nolíte timére eos, qui occídunt corpus, ánimam autem non possunt occídere: sed pótius timéte eum, qui potest et ánimam, et corpus pérdere in gehénnam.—Credo.

Secret.—Look down with favour, we beseech Thee, O Lord, upon the spotless victim we offer up to Thee: and grant that by the merits of blessed Cyril, Thy confessor and bishop, we may ever strive to receive it into a heart undefiled. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Réspice, Dómine, immaculátam hóstiam, quam tibi offérimus: et praesta; ut méritis beáti Pontíficis et Confessóris tui Cyrílli eam mundo corde suscipere studeámus. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — May, O Lord Jesus Christ, the sacrament of Thine own body and blood which we have received, in virtue of the prayers of the holy pontiff Cyril, sanctify our minds and hearts, thereby making us worthy to become partakers of the divine nature. Who livest and reignest.

Postcommúnio. — Sacraménta córporis et sanguinis tui, quae súmpsimus, Dómine Jesu Christe, beáti Cyrílli Pontíficis précibus, mentes et corda nostra sanctíficent: ut divínae consórtes natúrae éffici mereámur: Qui vivis.

Commemoration and Last Gospel of the Feria.

MARCH 19.

St. Joseph, CONFESSOR, SPOUSE OF THE BLESSED VIRGIN MARY.*

Double of the First Class.—White vestments.

The Church always honours St. Joseph with Mary and Jesus, especially during the Christmas solemnities. This day's Gospel is indeed that of December 24. A Coptic calendar tells us that St. Joseph was liturgically honoured in a special way on July 20, from the eighth century. At the end of the fifteenth century his feast was kept on March 19 and in 1621 Gregory XV. extended it to the whole Church. In 1870, Pius IX. proclaimed St. Joseph protector of the universal Church.

This Saint "of the royal race of David" was a just man (Gospel). As by his marriage with the Blessed Virgin St. Joseph has certain rights over the blessed fruit of the virginal womb of his spouse, a moral affinity exists between him and Jesus. He exercised over the Child-God a certain paternal authority, which the Preface of St. Joseph delicately alludes to as that of a foster-father. Without having begotten Jesus, St. Joseph by the bonds which unite him to Mary, is legally and morally the Father of the Son of the Blessed Virgin.

It follows that we must honour by a special homage this dignity or supernatural excellence of St. Joseph. "In the family of Nazareth," says Cornelius a Lapide, "were the three greatest and most excellent persons in the world, the Christ God-man, the Virgin Mother of God, Joseph matrimonial father of Christ. Wherefore to Christ is due the divine worship, to the Virgin the highest worship due to Saints and to St. Joseph the full worship due to Saints."† God revealed to him the mystery of the Incarnation (Ibid) and "chose him among all" (Epistle) to commit to his care the Incarnate Word and the Virginity of Mary.‡

The hymn of the Lauds says that : "Christ and the Virgin were with him at his last hour and watched by him, their faces gleaming with sweet serenity." St. Joseph went to heaven for ever to enjoy the beatific vision of the Word whose humanity he had so long and so closely contemplated on earth. This Saint is therefore justly considered the patron and model of interior and contemplative souls. And in the heavenly home St. Joseph has a powerful influence over the heart of the Son of his most blessed Spouse (Collect).

Let us imitate at this holy season the purity, humility, the spirit of prayer and meditation of Joseph at Nazareth, where he lived with God like Moses in the cloud (Epistle).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his parishioners.

FIRST VESPERS.

The First Four Psalms of Sunday, p. 98, and the Psalm : Laudáte Dóminum, p. 127.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1015. † On St. Matthew. I. 16.

‡ It belonged to the father to give a name to his son. The Angel sent by God to give this mission to Joseph thereby shows that Joseph had with regard to Jesus the same rights as if He were his son.

Saint Joseph, Patron of a Happy Death.

Ant.—1. Jacob autem * génuit Joseph virum Maríae, de qua natus est Jesus, qui vocátur Christus.

Ant 1. Matt. i. 16.—Jacob begot Joseph, the husband of Mary, of whom was born Jesus, Who is called Christ.

2. Missus est * Angelus Gábriel a Deo ad vírginem desponsátam viro, cui nomen erat Joseph, de domo David: et nomen vírginis Maria.

2. Luke i. 26.—The angel Gabriel was sent from God unto a virgin espoused to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David, and the virgin's name was Mary.

3. Cum esset desponsáta * mater Jesu María Joseph, ántequam convenírent, invénta est in útero habens de Spíritu sancto.

3. Matt. i. 18.—When Mary the mother of Jesus was espoused to Joseph, before they came together she was found with child by the Holy Ghost.

4. Joseph vir ejus, * cum esset justus, et nollet eam tradúcere, vóluit occúlte dimíttere eam.

4. Ibid. i. 19.—Joseph her husband, being a just man, and not willing to expose her to shame, was minded to put her away privately.

5. Angelus Dómini * appáruit Joseph, dicens: Joseph fílii David, noli timére accípere Maríam cónjugem tuam: quod enim in ea natum est, de Spíritu sancto est: páriet autem fílium, et vocábis nomen ejus Jesum.

5. Ibid i. 20.—The angel of the Lord appeared unto Joseph, and saying: Joseph, son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife, for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost, and she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call His name Jesus.

Capitulum.—Vir fidélis multum laudábitur. * Et qui custos est Dómini sui, glorificábitur.

Chapter. Prov. xxviii. 20, 27, 18.—A faithful man shall be greatly praised, and he that is the keeper of his Lord shall be glorified.

Hymn : see p. 1324.

℣. Constítuit eum dóminum domus suae.

℟. Et príncipem omnis possessiónis suae.

℣. Ps. civ. 21. He made him lord over his household.

℟. And the ruler of all his possessions.

Ant. at the Magnificat.— Joseph, rising up, did as the angel of the Lord commanded him, and took unto himself his wife.

Ant.—Exsúrgens Joseph a somno * fecit sicut praecépit ei Angelus Dómini, et accépit cónjugem suam.

Commemoration of the Feria, in Lent.

MASS.

Introit. Ps. xci. 13, 14.— The just shall flourish like the palm tree; he shall grow up like the cedar of Libanus: planted in the house of the Lord, in the courts of the house of our God. (P.T. Alleluia, alleluia.) Ps. Ibid. 2. It is good to give praise to the Lord; and to sing to Thy name, O most High. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Introitus.—Justus ut palma florébit: sicut cedrus Líbani multiplicábitur: plantátus in domo Dómini, in átriis domus Dei nostri. (T.P. allelúia, allelúia.) Ps. Bonum est confitéri Dómino: et psállere nómini tuo, Altíssime. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—We beseech Thee, O Lord, that we may be assisted by the merits of the Spouse of Thy most holy Mother, that what of ourselves we are unable to obtain, may be given to us by his intercession. Who livest and reignest.

Orémus.—Sanctíssimae Genitrícis tuae Sponsi, quaesumus, Dómine, méritis adjuvémur: ut, quod possibílitas nostra non óbtinet, ejus nobis intercessióne donétur: Qui vivis.

Commemoration of the Feria, in Lent.

Epistle: Diléctus Deo, p. 276.—Gradual and Tract: p. 277.

In Paschal Time, in place of the Gradual and Tract, is said:

Alleluia, alleluia. Ecclus xlv. 9.—℣. The Lord loved him, and adorned him; He clothed him with a robe of glory.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Amávit eum Dóminus, et ornávit eum: stolam glóriae induit eum.

Alleluia.—℣. The just shall spring as the lily; and shall flourish for ever before the Lord. Alleluia.

Allelúia. ℣. Justus germinábit sicut lílium: et florébit in aetérnum ante Dóminum. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew ix. 18-21.—When Mary, the mother of Jesus, was espoused to Joseph, before they bens de Spíritu sancto. Joseph autem vir ejus, cum esset justus, et nollet eam tradúcere, vóluit occúlte dimíttere eam. Haec autem eo cogitánte, ecce Angelus Dómini appáruit in somnis ei, dicens: Joseph, fili David, noli timére accípere Maríam cónjungem tuam: quod enim in ea natum est, de Spíritu sancto est. Páriet autem fílium et vocábis nomen ejus Jesum: ipse enim salvum fáciet pópulum suum a peccátis eórum.—Credo.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—Cum esset desponsáta mater Jesu Mary Joseph, ántequam convenírent, invénta est in útero ha-

came together, she was found with child, of the Holy Ghost. Whereupon Joseph her husband, being a just man, and not willing publicly to expose her, was minded to put her away privately. But while he thought on these things, behold the Angel of the Lord appeared to him in his sleep, saying: Joseph, son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife, for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost. And she shall bring forth a son; and thou shalt call His name Jesus. For He shall save His people from their sins.—Credo.

Offertórium.—Véritas mea, et misericórdia mea cum ipso: et in nómine meo exaltábitur cornu ejus. (T.P. Allelúia.) Offertory. Ps. lxxxviii. 25.—My truth and My mercy are with him: and in My name his horn shall be exalted.

Secréta.—Débitum tibi, Dómine, nostrae réddimus servitútis, supplíciter exorántes: ut, suffrágiis beáti Joseph, Sponsi Genitrícis Fílii tui Jesu Christi Dómini nostri, in nobis tua múnera tueáris, ob cujus venerándam festivitátem laudis tibi hóstias immolámus. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Secret.—We render Thee, O Lord, the debt of our service, suppliantly entreating that Thou wouldst preserve in us Thy gifts by the suffrages of blessed Joseph, the Spouse of the mother of Thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord; on whose venerated festival we offer to Thee the sacrifice of praise. Through the same Lord.

Commemoration of the Feria, in Lent.

Commúnio. — Joseph fili David, noli timére accípere Maríam cónjugem tuam: quod enim in ea natum est, de Spíritu sancto est. (T.P. Allelúia).

Communion. Matt. i. 20.—Joseph, son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife: for that which is born in her is of the Holy Ghost. (P.T. Alleluia.)

Postcommúnio.—Adésto nobis, quaesumus, miséricors Deus: et, intercedénte pro nobis beáto Joseph Confessóre, tua

Postcommunion.—Come to our assistance, we beseech Thee, O merciful God; and by the intercession of the blessed confessor Joseph for us, be appeased and preserve Thy gifts to us. Through our Lord.

circa nos propitiátus dona custódi. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration and Last Gospel of the Feria.

SECOND VESPERS.

Second Vespers: Psalms, Chapter and Hymn as in First Vespers, p. 1295.

Ant. 1. Luke ii. 41.—The parents of Jesus went up every year to Jerusalem at the solemn feast of the Pasch.

Ant. 1. Ibant * paréntes Jesu per omnes annos in Jerúsalem in die solémni Paschae.

2. Ibid ii. 43.—When they returned, the Child Jesus tarried behind in Jerusalem, and His parents knew it not.

2. Cum redirent * remánsit puer Jesus in Jerúsalem, et non cognovérunt paréntes ejus.

3. Ibid. ii. 45.—And not finding Jesus, they went back to Jerusalem, seeking Him, and after three days they found Him in the temple, sitting in the midst of the doctors, hearing them and asking them questions.

3. Non inveniéntes Jesum * regréssi sunt in Jerúsalem requiréntes eum: et post tríduum invenérunt illum in templo sedéntem in médio doctórum, audiéntem et interrogántem eos.

4. Ibid. ii. 48.—His mother said unto Him: Son, wherefore hast Thou done so to us? behold Thy father and I have sought Thee sorrowing.

4. Dixit mater ejus ad illum: * Fili, quid fecísti nobis sic? Ecce pater tuus, et ego doléntes quaerebámus te.

5. Ibid. ii. 51.—Jesus went down with them, and came unto Nazareth, and was subject unto them.

5. Descéndit * Jesus cum eis, et venit Názareth, et erat súbditus illis.

Hymn, p. 1324.

℣. Matt. xxiv. 45.—Glory and riches are in His house.

℟. And His justice remaineth for ever and ever.

℣. Glória et divítiae in domo ejus.

℟. Et justítia ejus manet in saeculum saeculi.

Ant. at the Magnificat.—Behold a faithful and wise servant, whom the Lord hath set over His household.

Ant.—Ecce fidélis servus * et prudens, quem constítuit Dóminus super famíliam suam.

Commemoration of the Feria.

MARCH 21.*

St. Benedict, ABBOT.†—Greater-double.—White vestments.

God raises at every turning of history some great saints in order to strengthen the supernatural hold over souls exercised by the Church in virtue of her divine mission.

The Roman Empire had crumbled down and the Barbarians had invaded the whole of Europe. Then appears Benedict, as chief of the monks of the West. He was born at Nursia, in Umbria, in 480. Sent to Rome for his studies, but already endowed with the wisdom of age, says St. Gregory, he fled from the world to the solitude of Subiaco. After spending three years in a cave, he attracted crowds by his virtues. The great Roman families sent their children to him and he soon founded in the mountains twelve monasteries " schools for the Lord's service " ‡ where, under the direction of an Abbot, the monks learn, by the exercise of public prayer, of private prayer and of work, to forget self and live in God. St. Benedict, in his Holy Rule, orders the examination of novices to ascertain if " they are full of solicitude for the work of God, for obedience and for humiliation." §

As " idleness is the enemy of the soul " ‖ the holy Lawgiver adding example to His words, showed His disciples how they were to clear lands and hearts. Uniting manual labour " with constant preaching to the pagan population of Monte Cassino " ¶ he left to his sons the monastic motto : Ora et labora ; pray and work.

* St. Benedict is represented holding a broken vase out of which comes a dragon: for he was once given a vase filled wth poisoned wine which broke to pieces when he blessed it. He holds his Holy Rule where he gives to his sons the motto U.I.O.G.D. which means Ut in omnibus glorificetur Deus, or That God may be glorified in all things. At his feet a raven clutches a poisoned loaf also given to St. Benedict to encompass his death. He called the bird and ordered it to carry the loaf to a place where it should harm no one. The bird obeyed, carried away the loaf and returned three hours after as if to show the man of God that he had been obedient.

† See Historical Summary, p. 1011. ‡ Prologue.
§ Holy Rule, ch. 58. ‖ Ibid., ch. 48. ¶ Dialogues of St. Gregory.

Forty days after the death of his sister St. Scholastica, St. Bendict, standing at the foot of the altar where he had just, by holy communion, taken a part in the sacrifice of the Mass and of Calvary, and supported by his disciples who surrounded him, he gave up to God his soul transfigured by 63 years of austere penance and of fidelity to the divine law which he kept in his heart (Introit). This was in 543.

Like Moses on Sinai (Epistle), Benedict on Monte Cassino was the Lawgiver of his people, and God established over His house this prudent servant (Communion). "The Holy Rule," as the Councils called it, "inspired by the same Spirit Who has dictated the Sacred Canons" * has sanctified thousands of souls † which, especially during the six centuries when only the Order of St. Benedict existed in Europe ‡ left everything, following the example of the glorious Patriarch of the West (Gospel), "to enrol themselves in the militia of Christ" § under the Benedictine observance. ‖ The first of his precepts recommends not to prefer anything to the liturgical worship in which adoration finds its most perfect expression.

St. Benedict is called the Doctor of humility. ¶ He was a prophet and wrought miracles  and "was filled with the spirit of all the just" says St. Gregory.

Among his sons are counted more than 20 Popes, and an immense number of Bishops, Doctors ††, Apostles ‡‡, learned men and Educators who have deserved well of humanity and of the Church.

By his life he powerfully co-operated in the work of redemption and his glorious death has made him the patron of holy dying.

"Let us keep our lives in all purity so as to atone for and correct during the holy season of Lent all the negligences of other times." §§

Mass : Os justi, p. 276 (the Benedictines have a proper Mass).

* Council of Douzi.

† A recent commentator names 57,000 known Benedictine saints, of which 5,555 for Monte Cassino alone.

‡ St. Benedict lived in the sixth century, St. Dominic and St. Francis in the thirteenth St. Ignatius in the sixteenth, St. Vincent of Paul in the seventeenth, etc.

§ Prologue of the Rule of St. Benedict.

‖ Italy and France in the seventh and eighth centuries were covered with monasteries which counted up to a thousand monks or nuns. Even then numerous laymen forming confraternities entered the institution of secular oblates which allowed them, as the Third Orders later did, to participate in all the merits of the Benedictine family. In 1780, says Godescard, the Order counted 30,000 houses. Reduced to 2,000 after the Revolution, it actually counts with its branches over 14,000 subjects.

¶ St. Benedict in the 7th chapter of his rule presents a ladder which leads souls to heaven by twelve degrees of humility and love of God.

 His empire over devils is still exercised nowadays by the medal of St. Benedict which works wonders especially in missionary countries where Satan is most powerful.

†† Five sons of St. Benedict are numbered among the Doctors of the Church.

‡‡ St. Augustine of Canterbury converted England, St. Boniface, Germany ; St. Amandus, St. Willibroard, St. Anscharius and others brought to the faith more than twenty pagan nations.

§§ Holy Rule, ch. 49.

"The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee and the Holy which shall be born of thee shall be called the Son of God." (Gospel.)

MARCH 24.

Saint Gabriel, ARCHANGEL.—Greater double.—White vestments.

Saint Gabriel was sent to Daniel to enlighten him as to the time when Christ would be born (Epistle), and to Zachary, at the hour in which he offered incense in the temple (Offertory), to announce to him the birth of John the Baptist, the Precursor of the Messias (Gospel). "Only Gabriel, a name that means 'Power of God,' was found worthy among all the Angels," says St. Bernard, "to announce to Mary the designs of God with regard to her" ((Matins). "He was chosen from among all the Angels," says the Collect, "to proclaim the mystery of the Incarnation."

With a feeling of holy reverence, Saint Gabriel came to the Virgin who from all eternity had been chosen to be the mother on earth of Him of Whom God is the Father in heaven. In the words inspired by the Most High, and which the Church desires us to repeat frequently, he said to her: "Hail, full of grace, the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women."

And seeing that Mary was taken aback by this salutation, the Angel explained that he had come to obtain her consent—her Fiat—that the great mystery might be accomplished on which depended the redemption of mankind. "I am Gabriel who stand before God, and I have been sent to speak to thee aud to tell thee these good tidings" (Matins).

It was Mary's wish to remain a virgin, and the Angel of the Lord announced that she would conceive of the Holy Ghost and that she would give birth to a son to whom she would give the name of Jesus, that is to say, Saviour.

Mary then, without hesitating, submitted with the most profound humility: Behold the handmaid of the Lord: be it done to me according to Thy word.

And in that instant was accomplished the greatest of all miracles, when God raised unto Himself and into union with Him the blessed fruit of the womb of the Virgin : "And the Word was made flesh and It dwelt among us." The Word took upon Him our humanity, our poverty, our nothingness, and gave us in return His divinity.

The Angel then returned to heaven.

" Having learnt by the mouth of Gabriel the Incarnation of the Word, may it be given to us to obtain by his help the fruits of that same Incarnation " (Postcommunion).

Benedict XV. extended the Feast of St. Gabriel to the whole Church.

MASS.

Introit. Ps. cii. 20.—Bless the Lord, all ye His Angels: you that are mighty in strength, and execute His word, hearkening to the voice of His orders. Ps. cii. 1. Bless the Lord, O my soul: and let all that is within me bless His holy name. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus. — Benedícite Dóminum omnes Angeli ejus: poténtes virtúte qui fácitis verbum ejus, ad audiéndam vocem sermónum ejus. Ps. Bénedic ánima mea Dómino: et ómnia, quae intra me sunt, nómini sancto ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—O God, Who didst choose from among all the other Angels the Archangel Gabriel to announce the mystery of Thy incarnation, grant in Thy mercy that after celebrating his feast on earth we may reap in heaven the effect of his protection. Who livest.

Orémus.—Deus qui inter céteros Angelos, ad annuntiándum Incarnatiónis tuae mystérium Gabriélem Archángelum elegísti: concéde propítius; ut qui festum ejus celebrámus in terris, ipsíus patrocínium sentiámus in coelis. Qui vivis.

In Lent there is a Commemoration of the Feria, the Gospel of which is read at the end of Mass.

Epistle from the Prophet Daniel, ix. 21-26.—In those days behold the man Gabriel, whom I had seen in the vision at the beginning flying swiftly, touched me at the time of the evening sacrifice. And he instructed me and spoke to me and said: O Daniel, I am now come forth to teach thee, that thou mightest understand. From the beginning of thy prayers the word came forth: and I am come to show it to thee, because thou art a man of desires. Therefore, do

Epistola Daniélis prophetae. —In diébus illis: Ecce vir Gábriel, quem víderam in visióne a princípio, cito volans tétigit me in témpore sacrifícii vespertíni. Et dócuit me, et locútus est mihi, dixítque: Dániel, nunc egréssus sum ut docérem te, et intellígeres. Ab exórdio precum tuárum egréssus est sermo: ego autem veni ut indicárem tibi, quia vir desideriórum es: tu ergo animadvérte sermónem, et intéllige visiónem. Septuagínta hebdómades abbreviátae sunt super pópulum tuum, et super urbem sanctam tuam ut consummétur praevaricátio, et finem accípiat peccátum, et deleátur iníquitas, et adducátur justítia sempitérna, et impleátur vísio, et prophetía et ungátur Sanctus sanctórum. Scito ergo, et animadvérte: Ab éxitu sermónis, ut íterum aedificétur Jerúsalem usque ad Christum ducem, hebdómades septem, et hebdómades sexagínta duae erunt: et rursum aedifiábitur platéa et muri in angústia témporum. Et post hebdómades sexagínta duas occidétur Christus: et non erit ejus pópulus, qui eum negatúrus est. Et civitátem et sanctuárium dissipábit pópulus cum duce ventúro: et finis ejus vástitas et post finem belli statúta desolátio.

thou mark the word and understand the vision. Seventy weeks are shortened upon thy people and upon thy holy city, that transgression may be finished and sin may have an end and iniquity may be abolished and everlasting justice may be brought and vision and prophecy may be fulfilled and the Saint of Saints may be anointed. Know thou therefore and take notice: that from the going forth of the word to build up Jerusalem again, unto Christ the Prince, there shall be seven weeks and sixty-two weeks: and the street shall be built again, and the walls in straitness of times. And after sixty-two weeks Christ shall be slain: and the people that shall deny Him shall not be His. And a people, with their leader that shall come, shall destroy the city and the sanctuary: and the end thereof shall be waste, and after the end of the war the appointed desolation.

Graduále. — Benedícite Dóminum omnes Angeli ejus, poténtes virtúte, qui fácitis verbum ejus. ℣. Bénedic ánima mea Dóminum, et ómnia interióra mea nomen sanctum ejus.

Gradual. Ps. cii. 2.—Bless the Lord, all ye His Angels, you that are mighty in strength and execute His word. ℣. Bless the Lord, O my soul, and let all that is within me bless His holy name.

Allelúia, allelúia.—Benedícite Dómino, omnes vitatutes ejus: ministri ejus, qui facitis volúntatem ejus. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. cii. 21.—Bless the Lord, all ye His hosts: you ministers of His that do His will. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo témpore missus est Angelus Gábriel a Deo in civitátem Galiléae, cui nomen Názareth,

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke, i. 26-38.—In those days, the Angel Gabriel was sent from God into a city of Galilee, called Nazareth to a virgin espoused to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David: and the virgin's name was Mary. And the Angel being come in, said unto her: Hail, full of grace, the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women. Who having heard, was troubled at his saying and thought with herself what manner of salutation this should be. And the Angel said to her: Fear not, Mary, for thou hast found grace with God. Behold thou shalt conceive in thy womb and shalt bring forth a son: and thou shalt call his name Jesus. He shall be great and shall be called the Son of the Most High. And the Lord God shall give unto Him the throne of David His father: and He shall reign in the house of Jacob for ever. And of His kingdom there shall be no end. And Mary said to the Angel: How shall this be done, because I know not man ? And the Angel answering, said to her: The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee and the power of the Most High shall overshadow thee. And therefore also the Holy which shall be born of thee shall be called the Son of God. And behold thy cousin Elizabeth, she also hath conceived a son in her old age: and this is the sixth month with her that is called barren. Because no word shall be impossible with God. And Mary said: Behold the handmaid of the Lord: be it done to me according to thy word.—Creed.

ad vírginem desponsátam viro, cui nomen erat Joseph, de domo David, et nomen vírginis María. Et ingréssus Angelus ad eam dixit: Ave grátia plena: Dóminus tecum: Benedícta tu in muliéribus. Quae cum audísset, turbáta est in sermóne ejus, et cogitábat qualis esset ista salutátio. Et ait Angelus ei: Ne tímeas María, invenísti enim grátiam apud Deum: ecce concípies in útero, et páries fílium, et vocábis nomen ejus Jesum. Hic erit magnus, et Fílius Altíssimi vocábitur, et dabit illi Dóminus Deus sedem David patris ejus: et regnábit in domo Jacob in aetérnum et regni ejus non erit finis. Dixit autem María ad Angelum: Quómodo fiet istud, quóniam virum non cognósco? Et respóndens Angelus dixit ei: Spirítus sanctus supervéniet in te, et virtus Altíssimi obumbrábit tibi. Ideóque et quod nascétur ex te Sanctum vocábitur Fílius Dei. Et ecce Elísabeth cognáta tua, et ipsa concépit fílium in senectúte sua: et hic mensis sextus est illi, quae vocátur stérilis: quia non erit impossíbile apud Deum omne verbum. Dixit autem María: Eccb ancílla Dómini, fiat mihi secúndum verbum tuum.—Credo.

Offertory. Apoc. viii. 3, 4.—An Angel stood near the altar of Offertórium. — Stetit Angelus juxta aram templi, habens

thuríbulum áureum in manu sua: et data sunt ei incénsa multa et ascéndit fumus arómatum in conspéctu Dei.

the temple, having a golden censer in his hand: and there was given to Him much incense and the smoke of the perfumes ascended before God.

Secréta.—Accéptum fiat in conspéctu tuo Dómine nostrae servitútis munus et beáti Archángeli Gabriélis orátio: ut qui a nobis venerátur in terris, sit apud te pro nobis advocátus in coelis. Per Dóminum.

Secret. Dan. iii. 50.—Receive favourably, O Lord, the gift of our service and the prayer of the blessed Archangel Gabriel: that he whom we venerate on earth to-day may be an intercessor for us with Thee in heaven. Through our Lord.

Commúnio.—Benedícite omnes Angeli Dómini Dómino: hymnum dícite, et superexaltáte eum in saecula.

Communion. Dan. iii. 58.—All ye Angels of the Lord, bless the Lord: sing a hymn, and exalt Him above all for ever.

Postcommúnio.—Córporis tui et Sánguinis sumptis mystériis, tuam Dómine Deus noster deprecámur cleméntiam: ut sicut Gabriéle nuntiánte Incarnatiónem tuam cognóvimus, ita ipso adjuvánte, Incarnatiónis ejúsdem benefícia consequámur. Qui vivis et regnas.

Postcommunion. Ps. cxxxvii. 1.—Having partaken of the mysteries of Thy Body and Blood, we implore Thy clemency, O Lord our God: that, as we have learnt Thy Incarnation through the message of Gabriel, so we may obtain with his help the benefits of that same Incarnation. Who livest and reignest.

MARCH 25.

The Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary.—Double of the First Class.—White vestments.

March, which was formerly the first month of the civil year, has already distinguished itself in the short space of four days by the feasts of St. Joseph, of St. Benedict and of Archangel St. Gabriel. To-day it recalls the greatest event in history, the Incarnation of our Lord (Gospel) in the womb of a Virgin (Epistle). On this day the Word was made flesh, and has united to itself for ever the humanity of Jesus. March 25 is indeed the anniversary of the ordination of Christ as priest, for it is by he anointing of the divinity that He has become supreme pontiff,

The Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

Mediator between God and man. The mystery of the Incarnation has earned for Mary her most glorious title, that of "Mother of God" (Collect), in Greek "Θεοτοχος," a name which the Eastern Church always inscribed in letters of gold, like a diadem, on the forehead of its images or statues. "Standing on the threshold of divinity" * since she gave to the Word of God the flesh to which he was hypostatically united, the Virgin has always been honoured by a supereminent worship, that of hyperdulia. "The Son of the Father and the Son of the Virgin naturally become a single and identical son," says St. Anselm; hence Mary is Queen of the human race and is to be venerated by all (Introit).

To March 25 will correspond, nine months later, December 25, the day on which will be manifested to the world the miracle as yet only known to heaven and to the humble Virgin. The date March 25, according to ancient martyrologies, would also be that of the death of the Saviour. It reminds us during these forty holy days, as is sung in the Credo, that it is "for us men and for our salvation that the Son of God came down from heaven, was made incarnate by the operation of the Holy Ghost in the womb of the Virgin Mary, that He was made man, that He suffered under Pontius Pilate, was buried and rose the third day from the dead."

Since the title of Mother of God makes Mary all powerful with her Son, let us have recourse to her intercession with Him (Collect), so that by the merits of His Passion and Crucifixion we may have part in the glory of His resurrection (Postcommunion).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his parishioners.

FIRST VESPERS (MARCH 24).

As at Second Vespers, except:

Ant.—Spíritus Sanctus * in te descéndet María, et virtus Altíssimi obumbrábit tibi.

Ant. of the Magnificat. Luke i. 35—The Holy Ghost shall come down upon thee, Mary, and the power of the Highest shall overshadow thee.

Commemoration of St. Gabriel.

Ant.—Archángelus Gabriel ait ad Maríam: non erit impossíbile apud Deum omne verbum; Dixit autem María: Ecce ancílla Dómini, fiat mihi secúndum verbum tuum. Et discéssit ab ea Angelus.

Ant.—The Archangel Gabriel said unto Mary: No word shall be impossible with God. And Mary answered: Behold the handmaid of the Lord, be it done to me according to Thy word. And the Angel departed from her.

℣. In conspéctu Angelórum, psallam tibi Deus meus.

℣. In the presence of the Angels I will sing hymns to Thee, my God.

* St. Thomas.

℟. I will adore in Thy holy temple and I will glorify Thy name.

℟. Adorábo ad templum sanctum tuum et confitébor nómini tuo.

Collect: Deus qui inter, p. 1302.

MASS.

Introit. Ps. xliv. 13, 15, 16.—All the rich among the people shall entreat thy countenance; after her shall virgins be brought to the King: her neighbours shall be brought to Thee in gladness and rejoicing. Ps. My heart hath uttered a good word: I speak my works to the King. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus. — Vultum tuum deprecabúntur omnes dívites plebis: adducéntur regi vírgines post eam: próximae ejus adducéntur tibi in laetítia et exsultatióne. (T.P. Allelúia, allelúia.) Ps. Eructávit cor meum verbum bonum: dico ego ópera mea Regi. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—O God Who didst please that Thy Word should take flesh, at the message of an Angel, in the womb of the blessed Virgin Mary, grant to Thy suppliants, that we who believe her to be truly the Mother of God, may be helped by her intercession with Thee. Through our Lord.

Orémus.—Deus, qui de beátae Maríae Vírginis útero Verbum tuum, Angelo nuntiánte, carnem suscípere voluísti: praesta supplícibus tuis; ut, qui vere eam Genitrícem Dei crédimus, ejus apud te intercessiónibus adjuvémur. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

In Lent, Commemoration of the Feria.

Epistle: Locútus est, p. 193.

Gradual. Ps. xliv. 3, 5.—Grace is poured abroad in thy lips; therefore hath God blessed thee for ever. ℣. Because of truth and meekness, and justice; and thy right hand shall conduct thee wonderfully.

Graduále.—Diffúsa est grátia in lábiis tuis: proptérea benedíxit te Deus in aetérnum. ℣. Propter veritátem, et mansuetúdinem, et justítiam: et dedúcet te mirabíliter déxtera tua.

Tract. Ibid. ii. 12.—Hearken, O daughter, and see, and incline thy ear: for the King hath greatly desired thy beauty. ℣.

Tractus.—Audi, fília et vide, et inclína aurem tuam: quia concupívit rex spéciem tuam. ℣. Vultum tuum deprecabúntur omnes dívites plebis: fíliae regum in honóre tuo. ℣. Adducéntur regi vírgines post eam: próximae ejus afferéntur tibi. ℣. Adducéntur in laetítia, et exsultatióne: adducéntur in templum Regis.

All the rich among the people shall entreat thy countenance: the daughters of kings in thy honour ℣. Ibid. 13, 10. After her shall virgins be brought to the King; her neighbours shall be brought to Thee. ℣. Ibid. 15-16. They shall be brought with gladness and rejoicing; they shall be brought into the temple of the King.

After Easter, the Gradual and Tract are omitted and the following is said:

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Ave María, grátia plena: Dóminus tecum: benedicta tu in muliéribus.

Alleluia, alleluia. Luke i. 28.—℣. Hail, Mary, full of grace: the Lord is with thee: Blessed art thou among women.

Allelúia. ℣. Virga Jesse flóruit: Virgo Deum et hóminem génuit: pacem Deus réddidit, in se reconcílians ima summis. Allelúia.

Alleluia. Num. xvii. 8.—℣. The rod of Jesse hath blossomed: a virgin hath brought forth God and man: God hath given peace, reconciling the lowest with the highest in Himself.—Alleluia.

From the Gospel, see Mass, p. 193.—Alleluia is added at the Offertory and at the Communion, during Paschal Time.—The Credo is said. Preface of the Blessed Virgin Mary, p. 56.

In Lent, Commemoration and Last Gospel of the Feria.

Should, on account of March 25 falling in Holy Week or Easter Week, it not be possible to keep the Feast of the Annunciation on that day, it is celebrated on the Monday after Low Sunday.

SECOND VESPERS (MARCH 25).

Psalms of the Blessed Virgin Mary: (1) Dixit Dóminus, p. 98; (2) Laudáte púeri, p. 102; (3) Laetátus sum, p. 128; (4) Nisi Dóminus, p. 129; (5) Laúda Jerúsalem, p. 134.

Ant. 1. Missus est * Gábriel Angelus ad Maríam Vírginem desponsátam Joseph. (T.P. Allelúia.)

Ant. 1. Luke i. 26.—The Angel Gabriel was sent to Mary, a virgin espoused to Joseph.

2. Ibid. i. 28.—Hail, Mary, full of grace; the Lord is with thee; blessed art thou among women.

2. Ave Maria, * grátia plena, Dóminus tecum: benedícta tu in muliéribus. (T.P. Allelúia.)

3. Ibid. i. 30.—Fear not, Mary, for thou hast found grace with the Lord; behold thou shall conceive and bring forth a son.

3. Ne tímeas, * María: invenísti grátiam apud Dóminum: ecce concípies, et páries fílium. (T.P. Allelúia.)

4. Ibid. i. 32.—The Lord shall give unto Him the throne of His father David, and He shall reign for ever and ever.

4. Dabit ei Dóminus * sedem David patris ejus, et regnábit in aetérnum. (T.P. Allelúia.)

5. Ibid. i. 38.—Behold the handmaid of the Lord; be it done unto me according to thy word.

5. Ecce ancilla Dómini * fiat mihi secúndum verbum tuum. (T.P. Allelúia.)

Chapter. Isa. vii. 14.—Behold, a virgin shall conceive, and shall bring forth a son, and his name shall be called Emanuel: butter and honey shall he eat, that he may know to refuse the evil and to choose the good.

Capitulum.—Ecce virgo concípiet et páriet fílium, * et vocábitur nomen ejus Emmánuel, * Butyrum, et mel cómedet, ut sciat reprobáre malum, et elígere bonum.

Hymn: Ave Maris Stella, p. 187.

℣. Luke i. 28.—Hail, Mary, full of grace. (P.T. Alleluia.)
℟. The Lord is with thee (P.T. Alleluia).

℣. Ave María, grátia plena (T.P. Allelúia).
℟. Dóminus tecum. (T.P. Allelúia.)

Ant. at the Magnificat. Luke i. 28.—The Angel Gabriel spake unto Mary and said: Hail, full of grace, the Lord is with thee; blessed art thou among women. (P.T. alleluia.)

Ant.—Gábriel Angelus * locútus est Maríae, dicens: Ave grátia plena, Dóminus tecum: benedícta tu in muliéribus. (T.P. allelúia.)

Commemoration of the Feria in Lent.

MARCH 27.

St. John Damascene, CONFESSOR AND DOCTOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

John, surnamed Damascene (or of Damascus), was raised up by God to defend the worship of images, at a time when the Emperor Leo the Isurian endeavoured to destroy it. Filled with divine knowledge

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010.

(Epistle), he strongly opposed the Iconoclasts (or destroyers of images in Greek); "his heavenly teaching and his admirable power of mind" (Collect) earned for him the title of Doctor. His biography, written in the tenth century by the Patriarch John of Jerusalem, relates several legends recalled in the liturgy of his mass.

It says, for instance, that the emperor, having accused him of betraying the Caliph of Damascus, whose counsellor and minister he was, he was condemned to have his right hand cut off. But as in the case of the man with the dried up hand, mentioned in the Gospel of this mass, his hand was miraculously restored to him, for he promised the Virgin to use it henceforth in writing her praises. He kept his promise.

His numerous works, rich in knowledge and piety, and his eloquence caused him to be compared by the Second Council of Nicaea to a "river of gold" and to be proclaimed Doctor by Leo XIII.

St. John Damascene fell asleep in the peace of Christ towards 756.

Let us venerate holy images so as to obtain the protection of those they represent.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Tenuísti manum déxteram meam: et in voluntáte tua deduxísti me, et cum glória suscepísti me. Ps. Quam bonus Israel Deus his, qui recto sunt corde! ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. lxxii. 24.—Thou hast held me by my right hand, and by Thy will Thou hast conducted me, and with Thy glory Thou hast received me. Ps. How good is God to Israel, to them that are right of heart! ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, quí ad cultum sacrárum imáginum asseréndum, beátum Joánnem coeléstì doctrína et admirábili spíritus fortitúdine imbuísti: concéde nobis ejus intercessióne et exémplo; ut, quorum cólimus imágines, virtútes imitémur ac patrocínia sentiámus. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Almighty and everlasting God, Who, for the justifying of the worship due to holy images, didst endue blessed John with heaven-sent learning, and with marvellous steadfastness of heart: by virtue of his intercession and of the example he has left us, make us to strive to imitate the virtues of the saints to whose images we do honour, and ever to rely upon their patronage. Through our Lord.

In Lent, Commemoration of the Feria.

Epistola. — Léctio libri Sapiéntiae. — Justum dedúxit Dóminus per vias rectas, et Epistle. — Lesson from the Book of Wisdom. Wisd. of Sol. x. 10-17.—The Lord conducted the just through the right ways, and showed him the Kingdom of God, and gave him the knowledge of holy things; made him honourable in his labours, and accomplished his labours. In the deceit of them that overreached him, he stood by him, and made him honourable. He kept him safe from his enemies, and defended him from seducers, and gave him a strong conflict, that he might overcome, and know that wisdom is mightier than all. She forsook not the just when he was sold, but delivered him from sinners: she went down with him into the pit, and in bands she left him not, till she brought him the sceptre of the Kingdom, and power against those that oppressed him; and showed them to be liars that had accused him: and the Lord our God gave him everlasting glory. She entered into the soul of the servant of God, and stood against dreadful kings in wonders and signs. And she rendered to the just the wages of their labours.

osténdit illi regnum Dei, et dedit illi sciéntiam sanctórum: honestávit illum in labóribus, et complévit labóres illíus. In fraude circumveniéntium illum áffuit illi: et honéstum fecit illum. Custodívit illum ab inimícis, et a seductóribus tutávit illum, et certámen forte dedit illi, ut vínceret, et sciret, quóniam ómnium poténtior est sapiéntia. Haec vénditum justum non derelíquit, sed a peccatóribus liberávit eum: descendítque cum illo in fóveam et in vínculis non derelíquit illum,* donec afférret illi sceptrum regni, et poténtiam advérsus eos, qui eum deprimébant: et mendáces osténdit, qui maculavérunt illum, et dedit illi claritátem aetérnam. Haec pópulum justum, et semen sine queréla liberávit a natiónibus, quae illum depremébant. Intrávit in ánimam servi Dei, et stetit contra reges horréndos in porténtis et signis. Et réddidit justis mercédem labórum suórum.

Gradual. Ps. xvii. 33, 35.—God, Who hath girt me with strength: and made my way blameless. Who teacheth my hands to war: and hast made my arms like a brazen bow.

Graduále. — Deus, qui praecínxit me virtúte: et pósuit immaclátam viam meam. ℣. Qui docet manus meas ad praelium: et posuísti, ut arcum aereum, bráchia mea.

Tract. Ibid. 38, 39, 50.—I will pursue after my enemies, and overtake them. ℣. I will break them, and they shall not be able to stand: they shall fall under my feet. ℣. Therefore will I

Tractus. — Pérsequar inimícos meos, et comprehéndam illos. ℣. Confríngam illos, nec póterunt stare: cadent subtus pedes meos. ℣. Proptérea confitébor in natiónibus, Dómine, et nómini tuo psalmum dicam.

give glory to Thee, O Lord, among the nations, and I will sing a psalm to Thy name.

In Paschal Time, in place of the Gradual or Tract, is said:

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Dóminus salvávit manum tuam tibi: quia praelia Dómini tu praeliáris.

Alleluia, alleluia. 1 Kings xxv. 26, 28.—℣. The Lord hath saved thy hand to thee: because thou fightest the battles of the Lord.

Allelúia. ℣. Benedictus Dóminus Deus meus, qui docet manus meas ad praelium, et dígitos meos ad bellum. Allelúia.

Alleluia. Ps. cxliii. 1.—℣. Blessed by the Lord my God, Who teacheth my hands to fight, and my fingers to war. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam. — In illo témpore: Factum est et in álio sábbato, ut intráret Jesus in synagógam, et docéret, Et erat ibi homo, et manus ejus déxtera erat árida. Observábant autem scribae et pharisaei, si in sábbato curáret: ut invenírent unde accusárent eum. Ipse vero sciébat cogitatiónes eórum: et ait hómini, qui habébat manum áridam: Surge, et sta in médium. Et surgens stetit. Ait autem ad illos Jesus: Intérrogo vos, si licet sábbatis benefácere, an male: ánimam salvam fácere, an pérdere? Et circumspéctis ómnibus dixit hómini: Exténde manum tuam. Et exténdit: et restitúta est manus ejus. Ipsi autem repléti sunt insipiéntia, et colloquebántur ad ínvicem, quidnam fácerent Jesu.—Credo.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke vi. 6-11.—At that time: It came to pass also on another sabbath, that Jesus entered into the synagogue, and taught. And there was a man, whose right hand was withered. And the Scribes and Pharisees watched if He would heal on the sabbath; that they might find an accusation against Him. But He knew their thoughts; and said to the man who had the withered hand: Arise, and stand forth in the midst. And rising he stood forth. Then Jesus said to them: I ask you, if it be lawful on the sabbath days to do good or to do evil; to save life, or to destroy? And looking round about on them all, He said to the man: Stretch forth thy hand. And he stretched it forth; and his hand was restored. And they were filled with madness; and they talked one with another, what they might do to Jesus.—Credo.

Offertory. Job. xiv. 7.—A tree hath hope: if it be cut, it groweth green again, and the boughs thereof sprout.

Offertórium. — Lignum habet spem: si praecísum fúerit, rursum viréscit, et rami ejus púllulant.

Secret.—Together with the prayer of blessed John, may the pleading of Thy saints, the presence of whose pictures and statues, in Thy temples, his zeal upheld, obtain for us, O Lord, that the gifts we offer be accounted worthy in Thy sight. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Ut, quae tibi, Dómine, offérimus, dona tuo sint digna conspéctu: beáti Joánnis et Sanctórum, quos ejus ópera expósitos in templis cólimus, pia suffragátio conspíret. Per Dóminum.

In Lent, Commemoration of the Feria.

Communion.—The arms of the wicked shall be broken in pieces, but the Lord strengtheneth the just.

Commúnio. — Bráchia peccatórum conteréntur, confírmat autem justos Dóminus.

Postcommunion.— May, O Lord, the holy gifts we have received, be heavenly weapons in our defence: and together with blessed John, may all Thy saints, the worship of whose pictures and statues by Thy Church he triumphantly upheld, plead with one voice in our behalf. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Sumpta nos, quaesumus, Dómine, dona coeléstibus armis tueántur: et beáti Joánnis patrocínia circúmdent Sanctórum unánimi suffrágio cumuláta; quorum imágines evícit in Ecclésia esse venerándas. Per Dóminum.

In Lent, Commemoration and Last Gospel of the Feria.

MARCH 28.

St. John of Capistran.*—Semi-double.—White vestments.

St. John, born at Capistrano in the Abruzzi on June 24, 1385, entered the order of St. Francis at the age of 39. He was chosen by God to deliver Europe from Islam, which threatened to invade it in the fifteenth century. Mahommed II. had taken Constantinople, capital of the Eastern Empire, and was marching on Belgrade. Pope Callixtus III. decreed a crusade. St. John preached it (Gospel) in Pannonia and other provinces. Supported by the noble Hungarian, John Hunyades, he enrolled 70,000 Christians. These improvised warriors had no other arms but forks and flails. John, whose "strength was the Lord" (Introit), "obtained by their bravery the victory after severe fighting" and thus assured the triumph of the Cross over the Crescent (Collect). That very evening 120,000 Turks lay dead or had fled and Mahommed wounded, renounced his projects against Christian Europe. He died in 1456.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1014.

Let us have recourse to the protection of St. John and to penance in order to repel the attacks of the evil spirit (Postcommunion).

MASS.

Intróitus. — Ego autem in Dómino gaudébo et exsultábo in Deo Jesu meo: Deus Dóminus fortitúdo mea. Ps. Exsultáte Deo adjutóri nostro, jubiláte Deo Jacob. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Hab. iii. 18, 19.—I will rejoice in the Lord; and I will joy in God my Jesus: the Lord God is my strength. Ps. Rejoice to God our helper: sing aloud to the God of Jacob. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui per beátum Joánnem fidéles tuos in virtúte sanctíssimi nóminis Jesu de crucis inimícis triumpháre fecísti: praesta, quaesumus; ut, spirituálium hóstium, ejus intercessióne, superátis insídiis, corónam justítiae a te accípere mereámur. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who through blessed John didst make Thy faithful to triumph over the enemies of the cross by the power of the most holy name of Jesus: grant, we beseech Thee, that by his intercession we may overcome the snares of our spiritual enemies, and deserve to receive from Thee a crown of righteousness. Through the same Lord.

Commemoration of the Feria in Lent.

Epistle: Justum dedúxit to Non derelíquit illum, p. 1312.

Graduále. — Qui timétis Dóminum, laudáte eum: univérsum semen Jacob glorificáte eum. ℣. Tímeat eum omne semen Israel: quóniam non sprevit, neque despéxit deprecatiónem páuperis.

Gradual. Ps. xxi. 24, 25.—Ye that fear the Lord, praise Him: all ye seed of Jacob, glorify Him! ℣. Let all the seed of Israel fear Him; because He hath not slighted nor despised the supplication of the poor man.

Tract. Exod. xv. 2, 3.—The Lord is my strength and my praise, and He is become salvation to me: He is my God, and I will glorify Him. ℣. Ps. lxxv. 4. The Lord is a man of war, Almighty is His name. ℣ The Lord Who breaketh battles; the Lord is His name.

Tractus. — Fortitúdo mea, et laus mea Dóminus, et factus est mihi in salútem: iste Deus meus, et glorificábo eum. ℣. Dóminus quasi vir pugnátor, omnípotens nomen ejus. ℣. Dóminus cónterens bella: Dóminus nomen est illi.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke ix. 1-6.—At that time, Jesus calling together the twelve apostles, gave them power and authority over all devils, and to cure diseases. And He sent them to preach the kingdom of God, and to heal the sick. And He said to them: Take nothing for your journey; neither staff, nor scrip, nor bread, nor money: neither have two coats: and whatsoever house you shall enter into, abide there, and depart not from thence. And whosoever will not receive you, when ye go out of that city, shake off even the dust of your feet for a testimony against them. And going out, they went about through the towns; preaching the gospel; and healing everywhere.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo témpore: Convocátis Jesus duódecim Apóstolis, dedit illis virtútem, et potestátem super ómnia daemónia, et ut languóres curárent. Et misit illos praedicáre regnum Dei, et sanáre infírmos. Et ait ad illos: Nihil tuléritis in via, neque virgam, neque peram, neque panem, neque pecúniam, neque duas túnicas habeátis. Et in quamcúmque domum intravéritis, ibi manéte, et inde ne exeátis. Et quicúmque non recéperint vos: exeúntes de civitáte illa, étiam púlverem pedum vestrórum excútite in testimónium supra illos. Egréssi autem circuíbant per castélla, evangelizántes, et curántes ubíque.

Offertory. Ecclus. xlvi. 6.—He called upon the most high Sovereign when the enemies assaulted him on every side, and the great and holy God heard him.

Offertórium. — Invocávit Altíssimum poténtem in oppugnándo inimícos úndique, et audívit illum magnus et sanctus Deus.

Secret.—Look down in pity, O Lord, upon the sacrifice we offer up: through the intercession of blessed John, Thy confessor, Secréta. — Sacrifícium, Dómine, quod immolámus, placátus inténde: ut, intercedénte beáto Joánne Confessóre tuo, ad conteréndas inimicórum insidias nos in tuae protectiónis securitáte constítuat. Per Dóminum.

may it ensure us safety under Thy protection and enable us to bring to nought the attacks of our enemies. Through our Lord.

In Lent, Commemoration of the Feria.

Commúnio. — Decantavérunt, Dómine, nomen sanctum tuum, et victrícem manum tuam laudavérunt.

Communion. Wisd. of Sol. x. 20.—They sung to Thy holy name, O Lord, and praised Thy victorious hand.

Postcommúnio. — Repléti alimónia coeléstí et spirituáli póculo recreáti, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, intercedénte beáto Joánne Confessóre tuo, nos ab hoste malígno defféndas, et Ecclésiam tuam perpétua pace custódias. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Filled with heavenly food and with spiritual drink, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, that, moved by the prayers of blessed John, Thy Confessor, Thou defend us from our cruel enemy, and ensure lasting peace to Thy Church Through our Lord.

In Lent, Commemoration and Last Gospel of the Feria.

WEDNESDAY IN THE SECOND WEEK AFTER THE OCTAVE OF EASTER.

The Solemnity of St. Joseph.

SPOUSE OF THE B.V. MARY, CONFESSOR AND PATRON OF THE UNIVERSAL CHURCH.—Double of the First Class, with Octave.—White vestments.

To-day's Mass might be represented by a triptych showing us that St. Joseph is the protector which divine Providence has chosen for His Church.

1. The Epistle speaks to us of Joseph who in the Old Testament is a figure of St. Joseph. The dying Jacob prophesies that his son Joseph "shall be the pastor and strength of Israel and that the Almighty shall shower blessings upon him." And Joseph was established by Pharaoh over the entire land of Egypt, so that the salvation of all depended upon him*. The whole Church has recourse to St. Joseph with confidence.

2. The Gospel, Collect and Communion, explaining the connection between the heavenly Trinity and the trinity on earth, show forth the power of St. Joseph. Jesus is at the same time Son of God and Son of man. Mary is the spouse of the Holy Ghost, and it is the will of God the Father that St. Joseph should be considered father of Christ and that he should exercise paternal rights over Him. (Preface).

3. Lastly, the Introit, Collects, Alleluia and Offertory show us in St. Joseph as the guardian of the new Jerusalem, which is the Church, to watch over her in the midst of all her tribulations.

Full of confidence in the Patronage of St. Joseph, let us honour his title of Protector on earth so as to deserve his help in heaven. (Collect).

MASS.

Introit.—Ps. xxxii. 20, 21.—The Lord is our helper and protector: in Him our heart shall rejoice, and in His holy name we have trusted, alleluia, Intróitus.—Adjútor, et protéctor noster est Dóminus: ídeo laetábitur cor nostrum, et in nómine sancto ejus sperávimus, allelúia, allelúia. Ps.

* The Lessons and Responses of the First Nocturn of Matins.

Qui regis Israël, inténde: qui dedúcis, velut ovem, Joseph. ℣. Glória Patri.

alleluia. Ps. lxxix. Give ear, O Thou that rulest Israel: Thou that leadest Joseph like a sheep. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui ineffábili providéntia beátum Joseph sanctíssimae Genitrícis tuae Sponsum elígere dignátus es: praesta quaesumus: ut quem protectórem venerámur in terris, intercessórem habére mereámur in coelis: Qui vivis et regnas.

Collect.—O God, Who in Thine unspeakable providence wast pleased to choose blessed Joseph for Thy most holy mother's spouse; grant, we beseech Thee, that we may become worthy to have him for our intercessor in heaven whom we venerate as our protector upon earth: Who livest.

Epistola. — Léctio libri Génesis. — Filius accréscens Joseph, fílius accréscens, et decórus aspéctu: fíliae discurrérunt super murum. Sed exasperavérunt eum, et jurgáti sunt, invidéruntque illi habéntes jácula. Sedit in forti arcus ejus, et dissolúta sunt vincula brachiórum, et mánuum illíus per manus poténtis Jacob: inde pastor egréssus est, lapis Israël. Deus patris tui erit adjútor tuus, et Omnípotens benedícet tibi benedictiónibus coeli désuper, benedictiónibus abyssi jacéntis deórsum, benedictiónibus úberum et vulvae. Benedictiónes patris tui confortátae sunt benedictiónibus patrum ejus, donec veníret desidérium cóllium aeternórum: fiant in cápite Joseph, et in vértice Nazaraei inter fratres suos.

Epistle. Gen. xlix. 22-25.—Joseph was a growing son, a growing son, and comely to behold: the daughters run to and fro upon the wall. But they that held darts provoked him, and qarrelled with him and envied him. His bow rested upon the strong, and the bands of his arms and his hands were loosed, by the hands of the mighty one of Jacob: thence he came forth a pastor, the stone of Israel. The God of thy father shall be thy helper, and the Almighty shall bless thee with the blessings of heaven above, with the blessings of the deep that lieth beneath, with the blessings of the breasts and of the womb. The blessings of thy father are strengthened with the blessings of his fathers: until the desire of the everlasting hills shall come; may they be upon the head of Joseph, and upon the crown of the Nazarite among his brethren.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. De quacúmque tribulatióne clamáverint ad me exáudiam eos, et Alleluia, alleluia, Ps. xxxvi. ℣. In whatever tribulation they shall cry to Me, I will hear them and be their protector always. Alleluia. ℣. Obtain for us, Joseph, grace to lead an innocent life; and may our life ever be shielded by thy patronage. Alleluia.

ero protéctor eórum semper. Allelúia. ℣. Fac nos innócuam, Joseph, decúrrere vitam: sitque tuo semper tuta patrocínio. Allelúia.

In Votive Masses out of Paschal Time the following is said:

Gradual. Ps. xx. 4, 5.—O Lord, Thou hast presented him with blessings of sweetness; Thou hast set on his head a crown of precious stones. ℣. He asked life of Thee, and Thou hast given him length of days for ever and ever.

Graduále. — Dómine, praevenísti eum in benedictiónibus dulcédínis; posúisti in cápite ejus corónam de lápide pretióso. ℣. Vitam pétiit a te, et tribuísti ei longitúdinem diérum in saeculum saeculi.

Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. Obtain for us, Joseph, grace to lead an innocent life; and may our life ever be shielded by thy patronage. Allelúia.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Fac nos innócuam, Joseph, decúrrere vitam: sitque tuo semper tuta patrocínio. Allelúia.

From Septuagesima to Easter, instead of Alleluia and verse, is said: Tract: Beátus vir, p. 256.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke iii. 21, 23.—At that time: It came to pass, when all the people were baptised, that Jesus also being baptised and praying, heaven was opened: and the Holy Ghost descended in a bodily shape as a dove upon him: and a voice came from heaven: Thou art My beloved Son, in Thee I am well pleased. And Jesus Himself was beginning about the age of thirty years: being (as it was supposed) the son of Joseph.—Creed.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam. — In illo témpore: Factum est autem cum baptizarétur omnis pópulus, et Jesu baptizáto, et oránte, apértum est coelum: et descéndit Spíritus sanctus corporáli spécie sicut colúmba in ipsum: et vox de coelo facta est: Tu es Fílius meus diléctus, in te complácui mihi. Et ipse Jesus erat incípiens quasi annórum trigínta, ut putabátur, fílius Joseph.—Credo.

Offertory.—Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem, because He hath strengthened the bolts of thy gates: He hath blessed thy children within thee. Alleluia, alleluia.

Offertórium. — Lauda Jerúsalem Dóminum: quóniam confortávit seras portárum tuárum: benedíxit fílius tuis in te.

Secréta.—Sanctíssimae Genitrícis tuae Sponsi patrocínio suffúlti, rogámus, Dómine, cleméntiam tuam; ut corda nostra fácias terréna cuncta despícere, ac te verum Deum perfécta caritáte dilígere: Qui vivis et regnas.

Secret.—Supported by the patronage of the spouse of Thy most holy mother, we beseech Thy clemency, O Lord: that Thou wouldst make our hearts despise all earthly things, and love Thee, the true God, with perfect charity: Who livest.

Preface of St. Joseph, p. 57, during the Octave.

Commúnio. — Jacob autem génuit Joseph virum Maríae, de qua natus est Jesus, qui vocátur Christus, allelúia, allelúia.

Communion. — But Jacob begot Joseph, the husband of Mary, of whom was born Jesus, who is called Christ, alleluia, alleluia.

Postcommúnio. — Divíni múneris fonte reffécti, quaesumus, Dómine Deus noster: ut sicut nos facis beáti Joseph protectióne gaudére: ita ejus méritis et intercessióne, coeléstis glóriae fácias sse partícipes. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. Ps. xx. 4, 5. —We who have been refreshed at the fountain of divine blessing, beseech Thee, O Lord our God: that as Thou dost gladden us by the protection of blessed Joseph, so by his merits and intercession Thou wouldst make us partakers of his glory in heaven. Through our Lord.

SECOND VESPERS.

First Four Psalms of Sunday, p. 98, and Psalm: Laudate Dominum, p. 127.

Ant. 1. Jacob autem * génuit Joseph virum Maríae, de qua natus est Jesus, qui vocátur Christus, allelúia.

Ant. 1. Matt. i 16. Jacob begat Joseph, the husband of Mary, of whom was born Jesus, who is called Christ, alleluia.

2. Missus est * Angelus Gábriel a Deo in civitátem Galilaeae, cui nomen Názareth, ad vírginem desponsátam viro, cui nomen erat Joseph, allelúia.

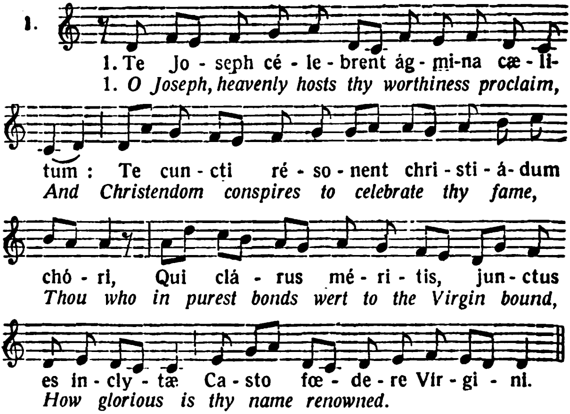
2. Luke i. 26. The angel Gabriel was sent from God unto a city of Galilee, called Nazareth, to a virgin espoused to a man whose name was Joseph. Alleluia.

3. Ascéndit autem Joseph * a Galilaea de civitáte Názareth, in Judaeam in civitátem David, quae vocátur Béthlehem, allelúia.

3. Luke ii. 4. And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth into Judea, to the city of David, which is called Bethlehem, alleluia.

4. Ibid. ii. 16. And they came with haste; and they found Mary and Joseph, and the Infant lying in a manger, alleluia.

4. Et venérunt * festinántes, et invenérunt Mariam et Joseph, et infántem pósitum in praesépio, allelúia.



5. Ibid. iii. 23. And Jesus Himself was beginning about the age of thirty years; being (as it was supposed) the son of Joseph. Alleluia.

5. Et ipse Jesus * erat incípiens quasi annórum trigínta, ut putabátur, fílius Joseph, allelúia.

Chapter.—Gen. xlix. 26. The blessings of Thy father are strengthened with the blessings of his fathers, until the desire of the everlasting hills should come: may they be upon the head of Joseph and upon the crown of the Nazarite among his brethren.

Capitulum. — Benedictiónes patris tui confortátae sunt benedictiónibus patrum ejus: * donec veníret desidérium cóllium aeternórum: * fiant in cápite Joseph, et in vértice Nazaraei inter fratres suos.

Hymn (I Modus).

Thou, when thou didst behold
thy spouse about to bear,
Wast sore oppressed with doubt,
wert filled with wondering care.
At length the Angel's word thy anxious heart relieved:
She by the Spirit hath conceived.

Almo cum túmidam gérmine cónjugem
Admírans, dúbio tángeris ánxius,
Afflátu súperi Fláminis Angelus
Concéptum púerum docet.

Tu natum Dóminum stringis, ad éxteras
Aegypti prófugum tu séqueris plagas:
Amíssum Sólymis quaeris, et ínvenis,
Miscens gáudia flétibus.

Thou with thy new born Lord didst seek far Egypt's land
As wandering pilgrims ye fled o'er the desert sand;
That Lord when lost, by thee is in the Temple found,
While tears are shed and joys abound.

Post mortem réliquos mors pia cónsecrat,
Palmámque eméritos glória súscipit:
Tu vivens, Súperis par, frúeris Deo,
Mira sorte beátior.

Not till death's hour is past do other men obtain
The meed of holiness and glorious rest attain;
Thou like to Angels made, in life completely blest,
Didst clasp thy God unto thy breast.

Nobis, summa Trias, parce precántibus:
Da Joseph méritis sidera scándere,
Ut tandem líceat nos tibi pérpetim
Gratum prómere cánticum.
Amen.

O Holy Trinity Thy suppliant servants spare,
Grant us to rise to heaven for Joseph's sake and prayer,
And so our grateful hearts to Thee shall ever raise Exulting canticles of praise.
Amen.

℣. Sub umbra illíus quem desideráveram sedi, allelúia.
℟. Et fructus ejus dulcis gútturi meo, allelúia.

℣. I sat down under His shadow whom I desired. Alleluia.
℟. And His fruit was sweet to my palate. Alleluia.

Ant. Fili, * quid fecísti nobis sic? Ecce pater tuus et ego doléntes quaerebámus te, allelúia.

Ant. of the Magnificat.—Son, why hast Thou done so to us? Behold Thy father and I sought Thee sorrowing. Alleluia.

FROM THURSDAY TO WEDNESDAY IN THE OCTAVE OF ST. JOSEPH.
Semi-double.—White vestments.

OCTAVE OF THE SOLEMNITY OF ST. JOSEPH.
Greater double.—White vestments.

Mass: as on the Feast, p. 1320.

FEASTS OF APRIL.

April 2.

St. Francis of Paula, Confessor.*—Double.—White vestments.

St. Francis was born at Paola in Calabria in 1416. When 13 years of age, "abandoning everything to acquire a treasure in the kingdom of heaven" (Gospel), he retired into a desert and led such a holy life there that numerous disciples soon came to place themselves under his guidance, He then founded the Order to which in his humility he gave the name of Minims, that is to say, of the least in the house of God.

"Despising everything to gain Christ, he endeavoured to resemble Him in His sufferings, so as to be able to participate in the glory of His resurrection" (Epistle). God, Who exalts the humble (Collect), made him celebrated by numerous miracles and by the gift of prophecy. He died at the age of 91 in 1507.

Let us imitate the humility and penitence of St. Francis in order that we may attain the rewards promised to humble and mortified souls (Collect).

Mass: Justus, p. 273, except:

Collect.—O God Who, setting up on high the lowly ones of this earth, hast numbered blessed Francis with Thy saints in glory: grant, we beseech Thee, that, helped by his merits and walking in his footsteps, we too may deserve the happiness Thou hast promised to them that are humble of heart. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus humílium celsitúdo, qui beátum Franciscum Confessórem Sanctórum tuórum glória sublimásti: tríbue, quaesumus; ut, ejus méritis et imitatióne, promíssa humílibus praemia felíciter consequámur. Per Dóminum.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1015.

Commemoration of the Feria, in Lent.

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Philippénses. — Fratres: Quae mihi fuérunt lucra, haec arbitrátus sum propter Christum detriménta. Verúmtamen exístimo ómnia detriméntum esse, propter eminéntem sciéntiam Jesu Christi Dómini mei: propter quem ómnia detriméntum feci, et árbitror ut stércora, ut Christum lucrifáciam, et invéniar in illo, non habens meam justítiam, quae ex lege est, sed illam quae ex fide est Christi Jesu: quae ex Deo est justítia in fide, ad cognoscéndum illum, et virtútem resurrectiónis ejus, et societátem passiónum illíus: configurátus morti ejus: si quo modo occúrram ad resurrectiónem, quae est ex mórtuis: non quod jam accéperim, aut jam perféctus sim: sequor autem, si quo modo comprehéndam, in quo et comprehénsus sum a Christo Jesu.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Philippians iii. 7-12. — Brethren, the things that were gain to me, the same I have counted loss for Christ. Furthermore, I count all things to be but loss, for the excellent knowledge of Jesus Christ my Lord: for Whom I have suffered the loss of all things, and count them but as dung, that I may win Christ; and may be found in Him, not having my justice, which is of the law, but that which is of the faith of Christ Jesus, which is of God, justice in faith; that I may know Him, and the power of His resurrection, and the fellowship of His sufferings; being made conformable to His death, if by any means I may attain to the resurrection which is from the dead; not as though I had already attained, or were already perfect; but I follow after, if I may by any means apprehend wherein I am also apprehended by Christ Jesus.

Secréta. — Haec dona devótae plebis, Dómine, quibus tua cumulámus altária, beáti Francísci méritis tibi grata, nobísque salutária, te miseránte, reddántur. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—May these offerings of a devoted people, with which we cover Thy altar, O Lord, be rendered by the merits of blessed Francis pleasing to Thee, and by Thy mercy salutary to us. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Feria in Lent.

Postcommúnio. — Sumpta, Dómine, sacraménta coeléstia, beáto Francísco Confessóre tuo intercedénte, precámur; ut et temporális vitae subsídia nobis

Postcommunion. — We pray Thee, O Lord, that the sacrament we have received, may by the intercession of blessed Francis, Thy confessor, confer upon us help for life temporal and eternal. Through our Lord.	cónferant, et aetérnae. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration and Last Gospel of the Feria in Lent.

APRIL 4.

St. Isidore, BISHOP, CONFESSOR AND DOCTOR.*—Double.— White vestments.

St. Isidore, brother of St. Leander, succeeded him in 601 as Archbishop of Sevilla (Communion). In his homily on the Gospel of the day, where Jesus compares the apostles and their successors " to the salt of the earth and to the light that sheds its rays on all those within the house," the Saint lays down the duties of a bishop. " Above all a bishop, to accomplish his office must read the Scriptures, study the Canons, imitate the examples of the Saints, devote himself to watching, fasting and prayer, unite humility with authority and place his chastity under the guard of charity, a virtue without which all the others are nothing."

He realised this ideal. Versed in all knowledge, he was considered the most learned man of his century. An indefatigable preacher of the Gospel, he opposed the Arians and other heretics " who closed their ears to truth and opened them to fables " (Epistle).

Wherefore, hardly 16 years after his death in 636, the Synod of Toledo, composed of 52 Bishops, proclaimed him " excellent Doctor (Collect) and the most recent glory of the Catholic Church."

St. Isidore was for us here below a Doctor of life ; may he now intercede for us in heaven (Collect).

Mass : In médio, p. 263.

Commemoration and Last Gospel of the Feria in Lent.

APRIL 5.

St. Vincent Ferrer, BISHOP, CONFESSOR.†—Double.— White vestments.

Vincent, born in Spain in 1350, entered at the age of 18 the Order of Preachers and gave lustre to the Church by his virtues and his preaching (Collect). He was called the " Angel of the Judgment " and he went over the whole of Europe, warning sinners " to be ready for the Son of man Who will come at an unexpected hour " (Gospel). The words of the prophet : " Arise, ye dead, and come to judgment," which he constantly repeated, caused the many miraculous conversions of which his life is full (Epistle). He put forth the prosposal to end the Western schism by deposing the three Popes who claimed the tiara and declared himself in favour of Martin V. He died at Vannes in Brittany, in 1419.

Let us deserve by penance to escape being condemned by the One who is to judge us some day.

Mass : Os justi, p. 270, except :

Collect.—O God, Who wast pleased to ennoble Thy Church	Orémus. — Deus, qui Ecclésiam tuam beáti Vincéntii

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010. † Ibid., p. 1014.

Confessóris tui méritis et praedicatióne illustráre dignátus es: concéde nobis fámulis tuis; ut et ipsíus instruámur exémplis, et ab ómnibus ejus patrocínio liberémur advérsis. Per Dóminum.

by the merits and by the preaching of blessed Vincent, Thy Confessor, grant unto us Thy servants, ever to follow the example of holy living he has left us, and in his holy patronage, at all times to find sure deliverance from evil. Through our Lord.

Commemoration and Last Gospel of the Feria in Lent.

April 11.

St. Leo I., Pope, Confessor, and Doctor.*—Double.—White vestments.

St. Leo, surnamed the Great, was called to govern the Church (Communion). In him are verified the words of the Introit, taken from the Book of Wisdom: "The Lord has opened his mouth in the midst of the Church and has filled him with the Spirit of wisdom and intelligence" and also the words of the Offertory: "I have anointed My servant with holy oil and I lend him the strength of My arm."

As Doctor of the Church and defender of civilisation, he gained signal victories over heretics and barbarians.

He opposed Eutyches who denied Christ's two natures, and Nestorius who affirmed that there were two persons in Jesus; which fatal doctrines tended towards the destruction of the great work of Redemption celebrated by the Paschal Cycle. The Council of Chalcedon exclaimed: "Peter has spoken by the mouth of Leo." Wherefore the Gospel reminds us of the prerogatives of the Chief Pastor of the Church.

St. Leo stopped the advance of Attila, "the scourge of God," at the gates of Rome and decided him to retire to Pannonia. He died on April 11, 461.

Let us ask God, through his intercession, to apply to us the merits of Christ risen to free us from all our sins (Collect).

Mass: In médio, p. 263, except:

Orémus. — Exáudi, quaesumus, Dómine, preces nostras, quas in beáti Leónis Confessóris tui atque Pontíficis solemnitáte deférimus: et, qui tibi digne méruit famulári, ejus intercedéntibus méritis ab ómnibus nos absólve peccátis. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Graciously hear our prayers, O Lord, we beseech Thee, which we offer in the solemn commemoration of blessed Leo, Thy confessor and bishop; and absolve us from all sins by the merits of him who served Thee worthily, interceding for us. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Feria in Lent.

Epistle: Justus cor suum, p. 267.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010.

Gospel: Venit Jesus, p. 1459.

Offertory. Ps. lxxxviii. 21, 22. —I have found David My servant: with My holy oil I have anointed him: for My hand shall help him and My arm shall strengthen him.

Offertórium.—Invéni David servum meum, óleo sancto meo unxi eum: manus enim mea auxiliábitur ei, et bráchium meum confortábit eum. (T.P. Allelúia.)

Secret.—May the festival we keep year by year in honour of blessed Leo, Thy Confessor and bishop, make us pleasing, O Lord, to Thy loving kindness: and by virtue of this devout service of propitiation while assuring him his happy reward, may it obtain for us the gifts of Thy grace. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Sancti Leónis Confessóris tui atque Pontíficis, quaesumus, Dómine, ánnua solémnitas pietáti tuae nos reddat accéptos: ut per haec piae placatiónis offícia, et illum beáta retribútio committétur, et nobis grátiae tuae dona concíliet. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of the Feria in Lent.

Communion.—Blessed is the servant, whom when his Lord shall come, He shall find him watching: amen, I say to you, He shall set him over all his goods. (P.T. Alleluia.)

Commúnio.—Beátus servus, quem, cum vénerit dóminus, invénerit vigilántem: amen dico vobis, super ómnia bona sua constítuet eum. (T.P. Allelúia.)

Postcommunion.—O God, the rewarder of faithful souls, grant that through the prayers of blessed Leo, Thy Confessor and bishop, whose venerable feastday we are celebrating, we may receive from Thee the pardon of our sins. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio.—Deus, fidélium remunerátor animárum: praesta; ut beáti Leónis Confessóris tui atque Pontíficis, cujus venerándam celebrámus festivitátem, précibus indulgéntiam consequámur. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of the Feria in Lent.

APRIL 13.

St. Hermenegild, Martyr.*—Semi-double.—Red vestments.

Hermenegild, son of the King of the Visigoths in Spain, married the daughter of the Frankish King of Austrasia, and was converted to Catholicism, his family being Arian. His father in his anger threw him into a dungeon and in the night of Easter caused an Arian bishop to take Communion to him. "But God did not abandon him in his prison" (Epistle). Hermenegild sacrificed to the love of God the love of his father and of his own life (Gospel), and indignantly repelled the heretical bishop.

* See Historical Summary p. 1011.

Put to death on April 13, 586, he shared the triumph of Christ Who " in the kingdom of God gave him the royal sceptre " (Epistle). His father died recommending the martyr's brother, Recarede, to bring back the nation to the true faith. Thus Spain became Christian.

" Following the example of St. Hermenegild, who preferred heavenly to earthly royalty, let us despise perishable possessions and only seek the eternal ones." (Collect.)

Out of Paschal Time, Mass : In virtúte, p. 222. In Paschal Time, Mass : Protexísti, p. 243, except :

Orémus.—Deus, qui beátum Hermenegíldum Mártyrem tuum coeléști regno terrénum postpónere docuísti : da, quaesumus, nobis ; ejus exémplo cadúca despícere, atque aetérna sectári. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who didst teach blessed Hermenegild, Thy Martyr, to value the kingdom of heaven more than an earthly throne : vouchsafe that we learn from him to think little of the passing goods of this world, and to strive after those which fail not for evermore. Through our Lord.

Common of the Feria in Lent.—Gospel : Si quis, p. 217.

Secréta.—Munéribus nostris, quaesumus, Dómine, precibúsque suscéptis : et coeléstibus nos munda mystériis, et cleménter exáudi. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Receive, we beseech Thee, O Lord, our offerings and prayers : cleanse us by virtue of these heavenly mysteries and graciously hear us.

Commemoration of the Feria in Lent.

Postcommúnio. — Da, quaesumus, Dómine Deus noster : ut, sicut tuórum commemoratióne Sanctórum temporáli gratulámur offício ; ita perpétuo laetémur aspéctu. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—Grant, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that we who on earth discharge with joy the duty of honouring Thy Saints may be gladdened by their company for ever in heaven. Through our Lord.

Commemoration and Last Gospel of the Feria in Lent.

April 14.

St. Justin, Martyr.*—Double.—Red vestments.

The Church in the second century had to oppose the errors of pagan philosophers and suffer cruel persecution. But God raised courageous men, known as the Apologist Fathers, who defended Christian dogma at the price of their lives.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008.

The most illustrious at that time was St. Justin who was born at Nablus (Samaria) about the year 100. As a pagan philosopher, he examined the teaching of the pagan philosophical systems and only found error and false wisdom; for human intelligence rejecting supernatural light soon goes astray (Epistle, Gradual). St. Justin then studied the word of the crucified God and became a Christian. Seeing in reason a precious auxiliary of faith, he opened at Rome the first school of Christian philosophy and there taught "the eminent science of Jesus Christ" (Collect).

He became celebrated especially by the two Apologies which he had the courage (Gospel) to address successively to the persecuting emperors Antonius and Marcus Aurelius (Introit).

An edict of Antonius mitigated the persecution. Marcus Aurelius on the contrary caused St. Justin to be scourged and condemned him to death. He died a martyr on April 13, 162.

"Let us conform to the teaching of the blessed martyr Justin" (Postcommunion) "so that we may remain firm in the faith" (Collect).

MASS.

Introit. Ps. cxviii. 85, 46.—The wicked have told me fables, but not as Thy law; but I spoke of Thy testimonies before kings, and I was not ashamed. (Alleluia, alleluia.). Ps. Ibid. 1. Blessed are the undefiled in the way, who walk in the law of the Lord. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus.—Narravérunt mihi iníqui fabulatiónes, sed non ut lex tua: ego autem loquébar de testimóniis tuis in conspéctu regum et non confundébar. (T.P. Allelúia, allelúia.) Ps. Beáti immaculáti in via, qui ámbulant in lege Dómini. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—O God, Who by the foolishness of the cross, didst wonderfully teach blessed Justin, Thy martyr, the excellent knowledge of Jesus Christ; grant us, through his intercession, to escape all the wiles of error, and to obtain steadfastness of faith. Through the same Lord.

Orémus.—Deus, qui per stultítiam crucis eminéntem Jesu Christi sciéntiam beátum Justinum Mártyrem mirabíliter docuísti; ejus nobis intercessióne concéde; ut, errórum circumventióne depúlsa, fídei firmitátem consequámur. Per eúmdum Dóminum.

Commemoration of the Feria in Lent, and of Holy Martyrs Tiburtius and Companions, p. 1336.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians. 1 Cor. i. 18, etc.—BRETHREN, the word of the cross, to them indeed that perish, is foolishness; but to them that

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Corínthios.—FRATRES: Verbum crucis pereúntibus quidem stultítia est: iis autem, qui salvi fíunt, id est nobis, Dei virtus est. Scriptum est enim: Perdam sapiéntiam sapiéntium, et prudéntiam prudéntium reprobábo. Ubi sápiens? ubi scriba? ubi conquisítor hujus saeculi? Nonne stultam fecit Deus sapiéntiam hujus mundi? Nam quia in Dei sapiéntia non cognóvit mundus per sapiéntiam Deum: plácuit Deo per stultítiam praedicatiónis salvos fácere credéntes. Quóniam et Judaei signa petunt, et Graeci sapiéntiam quaerunt: nos autem praedicámus Christum crucifíxum: Judaeis quidem scándalum, géntibus autem stultítiam, ipsis autem vocátis Judaeis, atque Graecis, Christum Dei virtútem, et Dei sapiéntiam: quia quod stultum est Dei, sapiéntius est homínibus: et quod infírmum est Dei, fórtius est homínibus. Ex ipso autem vos estis in Christo Jesu, qui factus est nobis sapiéntia a Deo, et justítia, et sanctificátio, et redémptio.

are saved, that is, to us, it is the power of God. For it is written: I will destroy the wisdom of the wise; and the prudence of the prudent I will reject. Where is the wise? Where is the scribe? Where is the disputer of this world? Hath not God made foolish the wisdom of this world? For seeing that in the wisdom of God the world by wisdom knew not God; it pleased God by the foolishness of our preaching to save them that believe. For both the Jews require signs, and the Greeks seek after wisdom; but we preach Christ crucified, unto the Jews indeed a stumbling-block, and unto the Gentiles foolishness; but unto them that are called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God. For the foolishness of God is wiser than men, and the weakness of God is stronger than men. But of him are you in Christ Jesus, Who of God is made unto us wisdom, and justice, and sanctification, and redemption.

Graduále.—Sapiéntia hujus mundi stultítia est apud Deum, scriptum est enim: Dóminus novit cogitatiónes sapiéntium, quóniam vanae sunt. ℣. Perdam sapiéntiam sapiéntium, et prudéntiam prudéntium reprobábo.

Gradual. 1 Cor. iii. 19, 20.—The wisdom of this world is foolishness with God, for it is written: The Lord knoweth the thoughts of the wise, that they are vain. ℣. Ibid. 1, 19. I will destroy the wisdom of the wise, and the prudence of the prudent I will reject.

Tractus.—Non judicávi me scire áliquid inter vos nisi Jesum Christum, et hunc crucifíxum. ℣. Lóquimur Dei sapiéntiam in mystério, quae ab-

Tract. 1 Cor. ii. 2, 7, 8.—I judged not myself to know anything among you but Jesus Christ, and Him crucified. ℣. We speak the wisdom of God in a mystery, which is hidden, which God ordained before the world, unto our glory. ℣. Which none of the princes of this world knew; for if they had known it, they would never have crucified the Lord of glory.

scóndita est, quam praedestinávit Deus ante saecula in glóriam nostram. ℣. Quam nemo príncipum hujus saeculi cognóvit. Si enim cognovíssent, nunquam Dóminum glóriae crucifixíssent.

Alleluia, alleluia. 1 Cor. iii. 19, 20.—℣. The wisdom of this world is foolishness with God, for it is written: The Lord knoweth the thoughts of the wise, that they are vain.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Sapiéntia hujus mundi stultítia est apud Deum, scriptum est enim: Dóminus novit cogitatiónes sapiéntium, quóniam vanae sunt.

Alleluia. Phil. iii. 8.—℣. Furthermore, I count all things to be but loss, for the excellent knowledge of Jesus Christ my Lord. Alleluia.

Allelúia.—Verúmtamen exístimo ómnia detriméntum esse propter eminéntem sciéntiam Jesu Christi Dómini mei. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke xii. 2.—At that time, Jesus said to His disciples: There is nothing covered that shall not be revealed: nor hidden, that shall not be known. For whatsoever things you have spoken in darkness, shall be published in the light; and that which you have spoken in the ear in the chambers shall be preached on the house-tops. And I say to you, my friends: Be not afraid of them who kill the body, and after that have no more that they can do. But I will show you whom you shall fear: fear ye Him Who, after He hath killed, hath power to cast into hell. Yea, I say to you, fear Him. Are not five sparrows sold for two farthings, and not one of them is forgotten before God? Yea, the very hairs of your head are all numbered.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam. — In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Nihil opértum est quod non revelétur: neque abscónditum, quod non sciátur. Quóniam quae in ténebris dixístis, in lúmine dicéntur: et quod in aurem locúti estis in cubículis, praedicábitur in tectis. Dico autem vobis amícis meis: Ne terreámini ab his qui occídunt corpus, et post haec non habent ámplius quid fácient. Osténdam autem vobis quem timeátis: timéte eum, qui, postquam occíderit habet potestátem míttere in gehénnam; ita dico vobis, hunc timéte. Nonne quinque pásseres véneunt dipóndio, et unus ex illis non est in oblivióne coram Deo? Sed et capílli cápitis vestri omnes numeráti sunt. Nolíte ergo timére: multis passéribus plu-ris estis vos. Dico autem vobis: Omnis quicúmque conféssus fúerit me coram homínibus, et Fílius hóminis confitébitur illum coram Angelis Dei.

Fear not, therefore: you are more value than many sparrows. And I say to you: Whosoever shall confess Me before men, him shall the Son of man also confess before the angels of God.

Offertórium. — Non enim judicávi me scire áliquid inter vos nisi Jesum Christum, et hunc crucifíxum. (T.P. Allelúia.)

Offertory. 1 Cor. ii. 2.—For I judged not myself to know anything among you, but Jesus Christ; and Him crucified. (P.T. Alleluia.)

Secréta. — Múnera nostra, Dómine Deus, benígnus súscipe: quorum mirábile mystérium sanctus Martyr Justínus advérsus impiórum calúmnias strénue defféndit. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Graciously receive, O Lord, these our offerings, the marvellous mystery of which Thy holy martyr Justin resolutely defended against the calumnies of ungodly men. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Feria in Lent, and of SS. Tiburtius and Companions (see below).

Commúnio. — Repósita est mihi coróna justítiae, quam reddet mihi Dóminus in illa die justus judex. (T.P. Allelúia.)

Communion.—There is laid up for me a crown of justice, which the Lord, the just Judge, will render to me in that day. (P.T. Alleluia.)

Postcommúnio. — Coeléstí alimónia refécti, súpplices te, Dómine, deprecámur: ut, beáti Justíni Mártyris tui mónitis, de accéptis donis semper in gratiárum actióne maneámus. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Refreshed with heavenly food, we humbly entreat Thee, O Lord, that following the admonitions of blessed Justin, Thy martyr, we may ever continue in thanksgiving for the gifts we have received from Thee. Through our Lord.

Commemoration and Last Gospel of the Feria in Lent.

Commemoration of SS. Tiburtius and Companions, Martyrs, see below.

SAME DAY.

Commemoration of SS. Tiburtius, Valerian and Maximus, MM.*

Valerian, the Spouse of St. Cecilia, Tiburtius, his brother, and Maximus, their executioner, who was converted at the sight of their courage, united in 229 their martyrdom to that of the crucified God and shared the glory of Jesus risen again.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008.

Out of Paschal Time, Mass: Sapiéntiam, p. 235 and in Paschal Time, Mass: Sancti tui, p. 249, with Epistle and Gospel of the Mass Protexisti, p. 244, except:

Collect.—Make us, we beseech Thee, Almighty God, to strive to imitate the virtues of Thy holy martyrs Tiburtius, Valerian and Maximus, whose feast-day we are celebrating. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Tibúrtii, Valeriáni et Máximi solémnia cólimus; eórum étiam virtútes imitémur. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—May this sacred Victim, O Lord, which in celebration of the natal-day of Thy holy martyrs we devoutly offer up, be to us an assurance of Thy pardon, and of the continuance of Thy gracious favour. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Haec hóstia, quaesumus, Dómine, quam sanctórum Mártyrum natalítia recenséntes offérimus: et víncula nostrae pravitátis absólvat, et tuae nobis misericórdiae dona concíliet. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—Filled with Thy sacred gifts, we beseech Thee, O Lord, to suffer us to take our having been permitted, thus dutifully, to minister to Thee, as an assurance of our having grown in Thy grace. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Sacro múnere satiáti, súpplices te, Dómine, deprecámur: ut, quod débitae servitútis celebrámus offício, salvatiónis tuae sentiámus augméntum. Per Dóminum.

April 17.

St. Anicetus, Pope and Martyr.*—Simple.—Red vestments.

The Paschal Cycle surrounds the King of Martyrs, Whose triumph it celebrates, with a bevy of Saints who "followed Him bearing their crosses and who, having lost their lives for His sake," found the life of which Jesus risen again is the model (Gospel).

St. Anicetus invested with full sacerdotal power (Introit) succeeded St. Pius as Pope. He governed the Church from 150 to 161 and took such a part in the sufferings of Christ (Epistle) that although he did not shed his blood for the faith he was given the title of martyr.

He preserved his flock from the heresies of Valentinus and Marcion and "filled with the consolations of Jesus, he was enabled in turn to console those who suffered" (Epistle). The great St. Polycarp came to him at Rome to confer especially about the date of the celebration of Easter, for by the coincidence of this feast with that of the Jews it was right to claim that the mysteries of the death and resurrection of Jesus had realised and taken the place of the immolation of the paschal Lamb.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007.

"Let us rejoice for the annual solemnity of blessed Anicetus" (Collect). It recalls to us the date when, after having died with Christ on earth, this holy martyr went to share the glory of His resurrection in heaven.

Mass: Protexísti, p. 243, except:

Orémus. — Deus, qui nos beáti Anicéti Mártyris tui atque Pontíficis ánnua solemnitáte laetíficas: concéde propítius; ut, cujus natalítia cólimus, de ejúsdem étiam protectióne gaudeámus. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who dost gladden us by the yearly festival of Blessed Anicetus, Thy martyr and bishop, mercifully grant that we who celebrate his birthday to Heaven may ever live with joy in his holy keeping. Through our Lord.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis: Amen, amen dico vobis: quia plorábitis, et flébitis vos, mundus autem gaudébit: vos autem contristabímini, sed tristítia vestra vertétur in gáudium. Múlier cum parit, tristítiam habet, quia venit hora ejus: cum autem pepérerit púerum, jam non méminit pressúrae propter gáudium: quia natus est homo in mundum. Et vos ígitur nunc quidem tristitíam habétis, íterum autem vidébo vos, et gaudébit cor vestrum et gaúdium vestrum nemo tollet a vobis.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John xvi. 20-22.—At that time, Jesus said to His disciples: Amen, amen I say to you, that you shall lament and weep, but the world shall rejoice; and you shall be made sorrowful, but your sorrow shall be turned into joy. A woman when she is in labour, hath sorrow, because her hour is come; but when she hath brought forth the child, she remembereth no more the anguish, for joy that a man is born into the world. So also you now indeed have sorrow; but I will see you again, and your heart shall rejoice; and your joy no man shall take from you.

Secréta.—Múnera tibi, Dómine, dicáta sanctífica: et intercedénte beáto Anicéto Mártyre tuo atque Pontifíce, per eádem nos placátus inténde. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Sanctify, O Lord, the gifts we offer to Thee, and blessed Anicetus, Thy martyr and bishop, interceding for us, appeased thereby, graciously look down upon us. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Haec nos commúnio, Dómine, purget a

Postcommunion. — May this communion, O Lord, cleanse us from guilt, and by the intercession of blessed Anicetus, Thy martyr and bishop, unite us in Him Who is the heavenly medicine of our souls. Through our Lord.

crímine: et, intercedénte beáto Anicéto Mártyre tuo atque Pontífice coeléstis remédii fáciat esse consórtes Per Dóminum.

Out of Paschal Time, Mass: Sacerdótes Dei, p. 219.

April 21.

St. Anselm, Bishop, Confessor and Doctor.*—Double.—White vestments.

A monk in the celebrated Benedictine Abbey of Ste. Marie du Bec in Normandy, St. Anselm became its Abbot and later Archbishop of Canterbury (Communion). " Filled with divine wisdom " (Introit) and endowed with superior talents, he endeavoured to develop the science of God by a rational method which cleared the way for scholastic theologians. " I do not try to understand in order to believe, he declared, but I believe in order to understand." Thereby he realised the saying of the Gospel " You are the light of the world " and the Church has awarded him the title of Doctor.

" A hero for doctrine and virtue," declares Urban II., " he was equally intrepid in fighting for the faith." Like a courageous pastor, he defended " in season and out of season," (Epistle) against the ambitious tyranny of William Rufus, the sacred liberty which Jesus had bought for His flock with His blood. " Christ, he affirms, loves nothing so much in this world as the liberty of His Church."

He died at the age of 73 on April 21, 1109.

Let us honour St. Anselm " so that he who was a Doctor of truth on earth may intercede for us in heaven " (Collect).

Mass: In médio, p. 263.

April 22.

SS. Soter and Caius, Popes and Martyrs.†—Semi-double.—Red vestments.

Soter succeeded Pope Anicetus in 161 and was martyred ten years later under Marcus Aurelius. Caius, whose relics are kept in the sanctuary of St. Sylvester at Rome, governed the Church a century later and was put to death in 296.

Like all the Sovereign Pontiffs of the first centuries they united their sacrifice to that of Christ and " in Him bore much fruit " (Epistle).

* See Historical Summary, p. 1012. † Ibid., p. 1009.

"God then avenged the blood of His servants and invited them to the marriage feast of the Lamb" (Epistle), to associate them in His triumph and happiness. (Gospel—Offertory—Communion).

Let us honour the blessed martyrs Soter and Caius in order that in heaven their powerful intercession may obtain for us divine protection (Collect).

Mass: Sancti tui, p. 249, except:

Orémus.—Beatórum Mártyrum paritérque Pontíficum Sotéris et Caji nos, quaesumus, Dómine, festa tueántur: et eórum comméndet orátio veneránda. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—May the festival of the blessed martyrs and bishops Soter and Caius, be, we beseech Thee, O Lord, to us a safeguard; and may their venerable prayer commend us to Thee. Through our Lord.

Epistola.—Léctio libri Apocalypsis beáti Joánnis Apóstoli.—In diébus illis: Post haec ego Joánnes audívi quasi vocem turbárum multárum in coelo, dicéntium: Allelúia: salus, et glória, et virtus Deo nostro est: quia vera et justa judícia sunt ejus, qui judicávit de meretríce magna, quae corrúpit terram in prostitutióne sua, et vindicávit sánguinem servórum suórum de mánibus ejus. Et íterum dixérunt: Allelúia. Et fumus ejus ascéndit in saecula saeculórum. Et cecidérunt senióres vígintiquátuor, et quátuor animália, et adoravérunt Deum sedéntem super thronum, dicéntes: Amen: Allelúia. Et vox de throno exívit, dicens: Laudem dícite Deo nostro omnes servi ejus; et qui timétis eum, pusílli et magni. Et audívi quasi vocem turbae magnae, et sicut vocem aquárum multárum, et sicut vocem tonitruórum magnórum, dicéntium: Allelúia: quóniam regnávit Dóminus Deus noster omnipotens. Gaudeámus, et exul-

Epistle. Lesson from the Book of the Apocalypse of blessed John the apostle. Apoc. xix. 1-9.—In those days, after these things, I, John, heard as it were the voice of many multitudes in heaven, saying: Alleluia: Salvation, and glory, and power is to our God; for true and just are His judgments, Who hath judged the great harlot which corrupted the earth with her fornication, and hath revenged the blood of His servants at her hands. And again they said: Alleluia. And her smoke ascendeth for ever and ever. And the four and twenty ancients, and the four living creatures fell down and adored God that sitteth upon the throne, saying: Amen, Alleluia: and a voice came out from the throne, saying: Give praise to our God, all ye His servants; and you that fear Him, little and great. And I heard as it were the voice of a great multitude and as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of great thunders, saying:

Alleluia; for the Lord our God, the Almighty hath reigned. Let us be glad and rejoice, and give glory to Him; for the marriage of the Lamb is come, and his wife hath prepared herself; and it is granted to her that she should clothe herself with fine linen glittering and white: for the fine linen are the justifications of the Saints. And He said to me: Write, blessed are they that are called to the marriage-supper of the Lamb.

témus, et demus glóriam ei: quia venérunt núptiae Agni, et uxor ejus praeparávit se. Et datum est illi ut coopériat se byssino splendénti, et cándido. Byssinum enim justificatiónes sunt sanctórum. Et dixit mihi: Scribe: Beáti, qui ad caenam nuptiárum Agni vocáti sunt.

Secret.—Give ear, O Lord, to our supplication, that we who put no trust in our own justice may be helped by the merits of those who have been pleasing to Thee. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Adésto, Dómines supplicatiónibus nostris, quae in sanctórum commemoratióne deférimus: ut, qui nostrae justítiae fidúciam non habémus, eórum qui tibí placuérunt, méritis adjuvémur. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—Satisfied by these saving mysteries, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that their prayers may help us whose festival we celebrate. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Quaesumus, Dómine, salutáribus repléti mystériis: ut, quorum solémnia celebrámus, eórum oratiónibus adjuvémur. Per Dóminum.

April 23.

St. George, Martyr.*—Semi-double.—Red vestments.

St. George, born of an illustrious family in Cappadocia, was promoted by Diocletian to the first ranks in the army.

When the Emperor had published at Nicomedia his first edict against the Christians, St. George reproached him with his cruelty. Immediately cast into prison, he was subjected to such atrocious torments that the Eastern Church calls him the Great Martyr. He was beheaded in 273.

This patron of armies is venerated by Greeks and Latins. Rome possesses a sanctuary erected in his honour where the Station is held on the Thursday after Ash Wednesday (†). England chose him for her patron in 800. Therefore in this country his feast is a double of first class with an octave. He is one of the 14 auxiliary saints (see engraving, July 25).

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009.
† See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, E e 14.

Mass: Protexísti, p. 243, except:

Orémus. — Deus, qui nos beáti Geórgii Mártyris tui méritis et intercessióne laetíficas: concéde propítius: ut, qui tua per eum benefícia póscimus dono tuae grátiae consequámur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who by calling us to have part in the merits and prayers of blessed George Thy martyr, dost give us cause of great joy: deny us not, we beseech Thee, the good gifts which, relying upon his help, we implore from Thy loving kindness. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Múnera, Dómine, obláta sanctifíca, et, intercedénte beáto Geórgio Mártyre tuo, nos per haec a peccatórum nostrórum máculis emúnda. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Sanctify, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the gifts we offer: and, blessed George, Thy martyr, pleading in our behalf, for their sake cleanse us from all stain of sin. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio.—Súpplices te rogámus, omnípotens Deus: ut, quos tuis réficis sacraméntis, intercedénte beáto Geórgio Mártyre tuo, tibi étiam plácitis móribus dignánter tribuas deservíre. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—Most humbly, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, that through the prayers of blessed George, Thy martyr, we, whom Thy holy sacrament has quickened to newness of life, may henceforth, by Thy grace, ever render Thee an acceptable service. Through our Lord.

April 24.

St. Fidelis of Sigmaringen, Martyr.*—Double.—Red vestments.

St. Fidelis was born at Sigmaringen (Suabia) in 1577. He was at first a magistrate and took so much interest in the poor that he was called "the Advocate of the poor." He entered the seraphic Order of St. Francis. Intimately united to God in continual prayer and work, he asked and obtained from Him to shed his blood for the Catholic faith. He was sent to the country of the Grisons where protestant soldiers, fearing his influence, stabbed him to death at Sévis in 1627 (Collect).

This holy martyr who, in the Paschal Cycle, takes his place among the attendants of the risen Lord, shares with Him the felicity of the sons of God (Epistle).

The Gospel of the Martyrs' Mass in the Paschal Season is, like the Gospels after Easter, a passage from the last discourse pronounced by the Master on the eve of His death. On the symbolical vine, which is Jesus, there are two sorts of branches which receive different treatment. Those without fruit are cut off and thrown into the fire. Those that bear fruit are on the contrary " carefully pruned in order that they may produce still more." That is why St. Fidelis was persecuted and put to death.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1016.

Let us obtain by the merits of this saint to be, like him, " so confirmed in faith and charity that we may be faithful in God's service unto death " (Collect).

Mass : Protexísti, p. 243, except :

Collect.—O God, Who, having enkindled in the heart of blessed Fidelis a love burning as that of the Seraphim, didst moreover bestow upon him the crown of martyrdom, and the grace of working miracles : moved by his merits and prayers, so strengthen us by the might of Thy grace, in faith and in charity, that we may deserve to be of the number of those, Thy servants, who shall be found faithful unto death. Through our Lord.	Orémus. — Deus, qui beátum Fidélem, seráphico spíritus ardóre succénsum, in verae fídei propagatióne martyrii palma et gloriósis miráculis decoráre dignátus es : ejus, quaesumus, méritis et intercessióne, ita nos per grátiam tuam in fide et caritáte confírma ; ut in servítio fidéles usque ad mortem inveníri mereámur. Per Dóminum.

Secret (3) : Munéribus nostris, p. 246.—Postcommunion (3) : Da quaesumus, p. 247.

April 25.

1. Major Litanies.*—Violet vestments. Station at St. Peters.†

The Church celebrates to-day two solemnities which have nothing in common : The major Litanies and the feast of St. Mark which is of later date.

In ancient Rome, on April 25, used to be celebrated the pagan feast of Robigalia. It consisted principally in a procession which, leaving the town by the Flaminian gate, went to the bridge of Milvius and ended in a suburban sanctuary situated on the Claudian Way. There a ewe was sacrificed in honour of a god or goddess of the name of Robigo (‡). The major litany was the substitution of a Christian for a pagan ceremony. Its itinerary is known to us by a convocation of St. Gregory the Great.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1011.
† See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, AB c 38.
‡ God or Goddess of frost.

It is approximately the same as that of the pagan procession. All the faithful in Rome betook themselves to the Church of St. Lawrence in Lucina, the nearest to the Flaminian Gate. Leaving by this gate, the procession made a station at St. Valentine's, crossed the Milvian bridge and branched off to the left towards the Vatican. After halting at a cross, it entered the basilica of St. Peter for the celebration of the Holy Mysteries.

PLAN OF ROME SHOWING THE ROAD FOLLOWED BY THE PROCESSION FOR THE GREATER LITANIES UNDER ST. GREGORY THE GREAT

This litany is recited throughout the Church to keep away calamities, and to draw down the blessing of God on the harvest. "Vouchsafe to grant us to preserve the fruits of the earth, we pray Thee, hear us," is sung by the procession through the countryside.

The whole Mass shows what assiduous prayer may obtain, when in the midst of our adversities (Collects— Offertory) we have recourse with confidence to our Father in heaven (Epistle, Gospel, Communion).

If the feast of St. Mark is transferred, the Litanies are not transferred, unless they fall on Easter Sunday. In which case they are transferred to the following Tuesday.

See Litanies of the Saints, p. 317.

2. St. Mark, the Evangelist.*—Double of the Second Class.—Red vestments.

St. Mark, the disciple of St. Peter, is one of the four Evangelists (Collect) who wrote, under the inspiration of the Holy Ghost, an abridgment of the life of Jesus. His narration begins by the mission of St. John the Baptist whose " voice was heard in the desert " ; he is represented with a lion lying at his feet, because the lion, one of the four symbolical animals in the vision of Ezechiel (Epistle) makes the desert re-echo with its roaring.

He was one of the seventy-two disciples (Gospel) and went to Egypt where he was the first to announce Christ at Alexandria. The preaching of the Gospel, which his martyrdom confirmed, made him to enter into glory (Secret) where St. John shows him to us as one of the four symbolical animals who attend the triumph of the immolated Lamb.

His body was taken to Venice, whose patron he is since the ninth century. Rome possesses a church dedicated to St. Mark, where a Station is held on the Monday of the third week in Lent.†

Let us profit by the teaching of St. Mark who wrote the Gospel of Christ and preached it, and let us have recourse to his prayers (Collect).

First Vespers (April 24) of the Common in P.T., p. 209.

For the Procession : Litanies : as on Rogation Days, p. 317. The Mass of Rogation Days is said, p. 931, without Commemoration of St. Mark.

MASS.

Introit. Ps. lxiii. 3.—Thou hast protected me, O God, from the assembly of the malignant, alleluia : from the multitude of the workers of iniquity, alleluia, Intróitus. — Protexísti me, Deus, a convéntu malignántium, allelúia : a multitúdine operántium iniquitátem, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Exáudi,

* See Historical Summary, p. 1005. † See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510.

E d. 22.

Deus, oratiónem meam cum déprecor: a timóre inimíci éripe ánimam meam. ℣. Glória Patri.

alleluia. Ps. lxiii. 2. Hear, O God, my prayer when I make supplication to Thee: deliver my soul from the fear of the enemy. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus.—Deus, qui beátum Marcum Evangelístam tuum evangélicae praedicatiónis grátia sublimásti: tríbue, quaesumus; ejus nos semper et eruditióne profícere, et oratióne defféndi. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who didst exalt blessed Mark, Thy evangelist, by the grace of preaching the Gospel, grant, we beseech Thee, that we may ever profit by his erudition, and be defended by his prayer. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Rogations, should the Mass of Rogation Days be not celebrated.

Epístola. — Léctio Ezechiélis Prophétae.—SIMILITUDO vultus quátuor animálium: fácies hóminis, et fácies leónis a dextris ipsórum quátuor: fácies autem bovis a sinístris ipsórum quátuor, et fácies áquilae désuper ipsórum quátuor. Fácies eórum, et pennae eórum exténtae désuper: duae pennae singulórum jungebántur, et duae tegébant córpora eórum: et unumquódque eórum coram fácie sua ambulábat: ubi erat ímpetus spíritus, illuc gradiebántur, nec revertebántur cum ambulárent. Et similitúdo animálium, aspéctus eórum quasi carbónum ignis ardéntium, et quasi aspéctus lampadárum. Haec erat vísio discúrrens in médio animálium, splendor ignis, et de igne fulgur egrédiens. Et animália ibant, et revertebántur in similitúdinem fúlguris coruscántis.

Epistle. Lesson from Ezechiel the Prophet i. 10-14.—As for the likeness of the faces of the four living creatures; there was the face of a man, and the face of a lion on the right side of all the four; and the face of an eagle over all the four. And their faces and their wings were stretched upward; two wings of every one were joined, and two covered their bodies; and every one of them went straight forward; whither the impulse of the spirit was to go, thither they went, and they turned not when they went. And as for the likeness of the living creatures, their appearance was like that of burning coals of fire, and like the appearance of lamps. This was the vision running to and fro in the midst of the living creatures, a bright fire, and lightning going forth from the fire. And the living creatures ran and returned like flashes of lightning.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. lxxxviii. 6.—The heavens shall confess Thy wonders, O Lord, and Thy truth in the church of the Saints.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Confitebúntur coeli mirabília tua, Dómine: étenim veritátem tuam in ecclésia sanctórum.

Alleluia.—℣. Thou hast set upon his head, O Lord, a crown of precious stones. Alleluia.

Allěluia.—℣. Posuísti, Dómine super caput ejus corónam de lápide pretióso. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke x. 1-9.—At that time, The Lord appointed also other seventy-two; and He sent them two and two before His face into every city and place whither He Himself was to come. And He said to them: The harvest indeed is great, but the labourers are few: pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that He send labourers into His harvest. Go, behold I send you as lambs among wolves. Carry neither purse, nor scrip, nor shoes; and salute no man by the way. Into whatsoever house you enter, first say: Peace be to this house: and if the son of peace be there, your peace shall rest upon him: but if not, it shall return to you. And in the same house remain, eating and drinking such things as they have: for the labourer is worthy of his hire. Remove not from house to house. And into what city soever you enter, and they receive you, eat such things as are set before you: and heal the sick that are therein; and say to them: The kingdom of God is come nigh unto you.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo témpore: Designávit Dóminus et álios septuagínta duos: et mísit illos binos ante fáciem suam in omnem civitátem et locum, quo erat ipse ventúrus. Et dicébat illis: Messis quidem multa, operárii autem pauci. Rogáte ergo Dóminum messis ut mittat operários in messem suam. Ite: ecce ego mitto vos sicut agnos inter lupos. Nolite portáre sácculum, neque peram, neque calceaménta, et néminem per viam salutavéritis. In quamcúmque domum intravéritis, primum dícite: Pax huic dómui: et si ibi fúerit fílius pacis, requiéscet super illum pax vestra: sin autem, ad vos revertétur. In eádem autem domo manéte edéntes, et bibéntes quae apud illos sunt: dignus est enim operárius mercéde sua. Nolíte transíre de domo in domum. Et in quamcúmque civitátem intravéritis, et suscéperint vos, manducáte quae apponúntur vobis: et curáte infírmos, qui in illa sunt, et dícite illis: Appropinquávit in vos regnum Dei.

Offertory. Ps. lxxxviii. 6.—The heavens shall confess Thy Offertórium.—Confitebúntur coeli mirabília tua, Dómine, et veritátem tuam in ecclésia sanctórum, allelúia, allelúia.

wonders, O Lord, and Thy truth in the church of the saints, alleluia, alleluia.

Secréta.—Beáti Marci Evangelístae tui solemnitáte, tibi múnera deferéntes, quaesumus, Dómine: ut, sicut illum praedicátio evangélica fecit gloriósum: ita nos ejus intercéssio et verbo, et ópere tibi reddat accéptos. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—We beseech Thee, O Lord, offering Thee gifts of the solemnity of blessed Mark, Thy evangelist, that, as the preaching of the gospel made him glorious, so his intercession may render us acceptable to Thee, both in word and work. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Rogations.—Preface of the Apostles, p. 57.

Commúnio. — Laetábitur justus in Dómino, et sperábit in eo: et laudabúntur omnes recti corde, allelúia, allelúia.

Communion. Ps. lxiii. 11.—The just shall rejoice in the Lord, and shall hope in Him: and all the upright in heart shall be praised, alleluia, alleluia.

Postcommúnio. — Tríbuant nobis, quaesumus, Dómine, contínuum tua sancta praesídium: quo, beáti Marci Evangelístae tui précibus, nos ab ómnibus semper tueántur advérsis. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — We beseech Thee, O Lord, that Thy holy mysteries may afford us continual protection; by which, through the prayers of blessed Mark, Thy evangelist, they may ever defend us from all adversity. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Rogations.

Second Vespers: The Common in P.T., p. 212. Commemoration of SS. Cletus and Marcellinus: Antiphon: Lux perpétua and ℣. Sancti et justi, p. 212.

APRIL 26.

SS. Cletus and Marcellinus, PP. AND MARTYRS.*

Semi-double.—Red vestments.

St. Cletus is the third pope. Born at Rome, he was converted by St. Peter and succeeded St. Linus on the pontifical throne. He received the crown of martyrdom in 91, under the Emperor Domitian and was buried near the Prince of the Apostles.

St. Marcellinus was also a Roman. He governed the Church from 293 to 304, during the terrible persecution of Diocletian who caused him to be beheaded. The name of St. Cletus is in the Canon.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007.

Their Mass is that of Martyrs in the Paschal Season. It shows how faith in the virtue of the resurrection of Christ sustains souls in the midst of the sufferings they have to undergo on earth after Christ (Epistle), before sharing in His triumph in heaven (Introit, Epistle, Gospel, Offertory, Communion).

Let us glorify Jesus, Whose members we are, by producing many fruits of patience, as did these holy martyrs (Gospel).

Mass: Sancti tui, p. 249, except:

Collect.—May the precious witness borne to Thee, O Lord, by the martyr-popes, Sts. Cletus and Marcellinus, be our solace: and may their kindly prayers ever be to us a sure defence. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Beatórum Mártyrum, paritérque Pontíficum Cleti et Marcellíni nos, Dómine, fóveat pretiósa conféssio: et pia júgiter intercéssio tueátur. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Give ear, O Lord, to our supplication, that we who put no trust in our own justice may be helped by the merits of those who have been pleasing to Thee. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Adésto, Dómine, supplicatiónibus nostris, quas in Sanctórum commemoratióne deférimus: ut, qui nostrae justítiae fidúciam non habémus, eórum qui tibi placuérunt, méritis adjuvémur. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Satisfied by these saving mysteries, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that their prayers may help us whose festival we celebrate. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Quaesumus, Dómine, salutáribus repléti mystériis: ut, quorum solémnia celebrámus, eórum oratiónibus adjuvémur. Per Dóminum.

APRIL 28.

St. Paul of the Cross, CONFESSOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

St. Paul of the Cross was born at Ovada in the State of Genoa in 1694. As his name indicates, he had during all his life a burning love for Jesus crucified. "Nailed to the Cross with Christ" (Gospel), he devoted himself to preaching everywhere with singular charity, the mystery of the Cross (Collect, Epistle). He instituted, to carry out this great work in the Church (Gospel), the Passionists who make a vow to propagate the blessed memory of the Saviour's Passion.

Consumed by the love which he drew from the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, "which is the perpetual memorial of the boundless charity of Christ" (Postcommunion) he offered himself to God with Jesus "as an oblation of agreeable odour" (Offertory) and died in 1775.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1016.

Let us, like St. Paul of the Cross, suffer with the crucified Saviour, so that we may rejoice with Jesus risen again (Alleluia, Communion).

MASS.

Intróitus. — Christo confíxus sum cruci: vivo autem, jam non ego: vivit vero in me Christus: in fide vivo Fílii Dei, qui diléxít me, et trádidit semetípsum pro me, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Beátus qui intélligit super egénum, et páuperem: in die mala liberábit eum Dóminus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Gal. ii. 19, 20.—With Christ I am nailed to the cross: but I live, now not I: but Christ liveth in me: I live in the faith of the Son of God, Who loved me, and delivered Himself for me, alleluia, alleluia. Ps. xl. 2. Blessed is he that understandeth concerning the needy and the poor: the Lord will deliver him in the evil day. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Dómine Jesu Christe, qui ad mystérium crucis praedicándum, sanctum Paulum siguléri caritáte donásti, et per eum novam in Ecclésia famíliam floréscere voluísti: ipsíus nobis intercessióne concéde; ut passiónem tuam júgiter recoléntes in terris, ejúsdem fructum cónsequi mereámur in coelis. Qui vivis.

Collect.—O Lord Jesus Christ, Who didst endow holy Paul with singular charity to preach the mystery of the cross, and wert pleased that through him a new family should flourish in the Church: grant us, through his intercession, that ever recalling the memory of Thy passion upon earth, we may deserve to obtain the fruit of it in heaven. Who livest and reignest.

Commemoration of St. Vitalis: Praesta quaesumus, p. 244.

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Corínthios.—Fratres: Non misit me Christus baptizáre sed evangelizáre: non in sapiéntia verbi, ut non evacuétur crux Christi. Verbum enim crucis pereúntibus quidem stultítia est: iis autem, qui salvi fiunt, id est nobis, Dei virtus est. Scriptum est enim: Perdam sapiéntiam sapiéntium, et prudéntiam prudéntium reprobábo. Ubi sápiens? ubi

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians i. 17-25.—Brethren, Christ sent me not to baptise, but to preach the gospel: not in wisdom of speech, lest the cross of Christ should be made void. For the word of the cross, to them indeed that perish, is foolishness: but to them that are saved, that is, to us, it is the power of God. For it is written: I will destroy the wisdom of the wise, and the prudence of the prudent I will reject. Where is the wise? Where is the scribe? Where is the disputer of this world? Hath not God made foolish the wisdom of this world? For seeing that in the wisdom of God the world by wisdom knew not God, it pleased God by the foolishness of our preaching to save them that believe. For both the Jews require signs, and the Greeks seek after wisdom: But we preach Christ crucified, unto the Jews indeed a stumbling-block, and unto the Gentiles foolishness; But unto them that are called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God, and the wisdom of God. For the foolishness of God is wiser than men; and the weakness of God is stronger than men.

scriba? ubi conquisítor hujus saeculi? Nonne stultam fecit Deus sapiéntiam hujus mundi? Nam quia in Dei sapiéntia non cognóvit mundus per sapiéntiam Deum: plácuit Deo per stultítiam praedicatiónis salvos fácere credéntes. Quóniam et Judaei signa petunt, et Graeci sapiéntiam quaerunt: nos autem praedicámus Christum crucifíxum: Judaeis quidem scándalum, géntibus autem stultítiam, ipsis autem vocátis Judaeis atque Graecis, Christum Dei virtútem et Dei sapiéntiam: quia quod stultum est Dei, sapiéntius est homínibus: et quod infírmum est Dei, fórtius est homínibus.

Alleluia, Alleluia. 2. Cor. v. 15.—℣. Christ died for all; that they also who live may not now live to themselves, but to Him Who died for them, and rose again.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Pro ómnibus mórtuus est Christus: ut, et qui vivunt jam non sibi vivant sed ei, qui pro ipsis mórtuus est, et resurréxit.

Alleluia. Rom. viii. 17.—℣. And if sons, heirs also: heirs indeed of God, and joint heirs with Christ; yet so if we suffer with Him, that we may be also glorified with Him. Alleluia.

Allelúia. ℣. Si filii, et herédes: herédes quidem Dei, coherédes autem Christi: si tamen compátimur, ut et conglorificémur. Allelúia.

Gospel: Designávit, p. 1346.

Offertory. Eph. v. 2.—Walk in love, as Christ also hath loved us, and hath delivered Himself for us an oblation and a sacrifice to God, for an odour of sweetness. Alleluia.

Offertórium. — Ambuláte in dilectióne, sicut et Christus diléxit nos, et trádidit semetípsum pro nobis oblatiónem, et hóstiam Deo in odórem suavitátis, allelúia.

Secréta. — Coeléstem nobis, Dómine, praebeant mystéria haec passiónis et mortis tuae fervórem : quo sanctus Paulus, ea offeréndo, corpus suum hóstiam vivéntem, sanctam, tibíque placéntem exhíbuit : Qui vivis.

Secret.—May these mysteries of Thy Passion and Death, O Lord, confer upon us the heavenly fervour with which holy Paul, in offering them, exhibited his body a living sacrifice, holy and pleasing to Thee. Who livest and reignest.

Commemoration of St. Vitalis : Munéribus, p. 246.

Commúnio. — Communicántes Christi passiónibus gaudéte, ut in revelatióne glóriae ejus gaudeátis exsultántes, allelúia.

Communion. 1 Pet. iv. 13.—If you partake of the sufferings of Christ, rejoice, that when His glory shall be revealed, you may also be glad with exceeding joy. Alleluia.

Postcommúnio. — Súmpsimus, Dómine, divínum sacraméntum imménsae caritátis tuae memoriále perpétuum : tríbue, quaesumus ; ut, sancti Pauli méritis et imitatióne, aquam de fóntibus tuis hauriámus in vitam aetérnam saliéntem, et tuam sacratíssimam passiónem córdibus nostris impréssam móribus et vita teneámus : Qui vivis.

Postcommunion.—We have received, O Lord, the divine Sacrament, the perpetual memorial of Thy immense love; grant, we beseech Thee, that by the merits and imitation of holy Paul, we may draw from Thy fountains water springing up to eternal life, and keep Thy most holy Passion impressed on our hearts, morals and life. Who livest and reignest.

Commemoration of St. Vitalis : Da, quaesumus, p. 247.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Vitalis, MARTYR.*

St. Vitalis, father of SS. Gervase and Protase, was put to death at Ravenna under Marcus Aurelius (third century). Having been tortured on the rack he was thrown into a deep hole and stoned to death. A church was consecrated to him in Rome ; the Station on the Friday in the Second Week in Lent. †

Mass : Protexísti, p. 243.—Collects, p. 222 and 225.

APRIL 29.

St. Peter of Verona, MARTYR.‡—Double.—Red vestments.

Born at Verona towards 1205 from Manichean parents, St. Peter from childhood opposed the heretics and entered the Order of St Dominic. He preserved such purity of body and soul that he never committed a mortal sin.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008. † See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, P d 42.
‡ See Historical Summary, p. 1013.

We read in the Bull of his Canonisation: " A chosen branch from the vine of the Church has filled with its generous juice the royal chalice; the branch from which it has been cut by the sword, was of those which most strongly adhered to the divine stem " (Gospel).

The ardour of his faith so enflamed him that he wished to die for it and his prayer was heard. " As he lived piously in Christ it was necessary that he should be persecuted " (Epistle) and an impious assassin sent by the Manichees murdered him on the road from Como to Milan in 1252.

Let us ask God to grant us, through the merits of St. Peter, a faith so strong (Collect) that it may obtain for us, after all the adversities of this life (Postcommunion) the joys of the resurrection (Epistle, Communion).

Mass: Protexísti, p. 243, except:

Collect.—Make us, O Almighty God, we beseech Thee, with ardent devotion to strive for the faith of blessed Peter, Thy martyr, who, because of his zeal for the spreading of that same faith, was accounted worthy of the palm of martyrdom. Through our Lord.

Orémus.—Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut beáti Petri Mártyris tui fidem cóngrua devotióne sectémur; qui, pro ejúsdem fídei dilatatióne, martyrii palmam méruit obtinére.* Per Dóminum.

Epistle: Memor esto, p. 226.

Secret.—Be moved, we beseech Thee, O Lord, by the prayers of Thy blessed martyr Peter, to give favourable ear to our supplications: and be Thou ever a defence to all who fight in the cause of the true faith. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Preces, quas tibi, Dómine, offérimus intercedénte beáto Petro Mártyre tuo, cleménter inténde: et propugnatóres fídei sub tua protectióne custódi. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — May the Sacraments of which we have partaken defend Thy faithful people, O Lord, and by the intercession of blessed Peter, Thy martyr, ensure them safety against all the attacks of their enemies. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Fidéles tuos, Dómine, custódiant sacraménta, quae súmpsimus: et intercedénte beáto Petro Mártyre tuo, contra omnes advérsos tueántur incúrsus. Per Dóminum.

April 30.

St. Catherine of Sienna, Virgin.*—Double.—White vestments.

" The Holy Order of Preachers which yesterday offered a red rose to Jesus risen again, offers Him to-day a lily of dazzling whiteness." †

* See Historical Summary, p. 1014.

† Liturgical Year by Dom Guéranger: Paschal Season, Vol. II. April 30.

St. Catherine of Sienna (1347-1380) was the last but one of 24 children. In her childhood she chose Jesus for her Spouse (Epistle). Subjecting her delicate body to frightful mortifications, her only support during her prolonged fasts was holy communion (Postcommunion).

She received from the crucified Lord the stigmata and inspired knowledge concerning the most profound mysteries of religion. It was by her persuasion that Gregory XI. left Avignon to return to Rome.

When, like Christ, she had reached her 33rd year, she entered heaven with her divine Spouse to take part in the nuptial banquet (Gospel) in the holy joys of the eternal Passover (Introit, Alleluia).

" Let us offer to God on this day the sacred Host embalmed with the virginal perfume of blessed Catherine " (Secret), so that He may grant us in return life eternal (Postcommunion).

Mass : Dilexísti, p. 291, except :

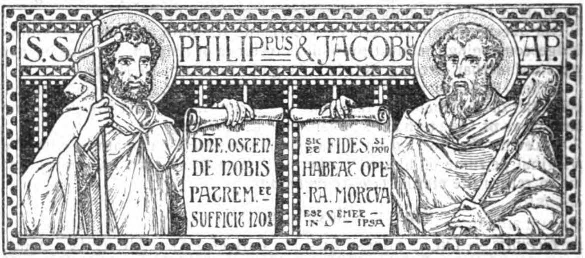
Orémus.— Da, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus : ut, qui beátae Catharínae Vírginis tuae natalítia cólimus ; et ánnua solemnitáte laetémur, et tantae virtútis proficiámus exémplo. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O Almighty God, grant, we beseech Thee, unto us, who commemorate the passing from this life of Thy blessed virgin Catharine, year by year to keep with rejoicing this her festival, and unceasingly to profit by the great example of virtue she has left us. Through our Lord.



Secréta.—Ascéndant ad te, Dómine, quas in beátae Catharínae solemnitáte offérimus, preces, et hóstia salutáris, virgíneo fragrans odóre. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—In the virginal fragrance of the virtues of blessed Catharine, whose feast-day we are keeping, together with the saving victim to be laid upon Thine altar, may our prayers, O Lord, mount on high to Thee. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Aeternitátem nobis, Dómine, cónferat, qua pasti sumus, mensa coeléstis : quae beátae Catharínae Vírginis vitam étiam áluit temporálem. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — May the heavenly banquet at which we have been seated, O Lord, ensure to us the possession of that life which is eternal : for this sacred food sustained even the earthly life of the blessed Catharine. Through our Lord.

FEASTS OF MAY.

MAY 1.

SS. Philip and James, APOSTLES.*—Double of the Second Class. Red vestments.

The feasts of the Apostles celebrated in the course of the year used to be feasts of obligation. That of St. Philip and St. James at this date recalls the translation of their relics at Rome where the Church of the Holy Apostles, consecrated on May 1 (the date of St. Philip's feast), was dedicated to them and received their relics. There was held the Station on all Fridays in Ember Week and on Easter Thursday. †

St. Philip, like Peter and Andrew, was of Bethsaida in Galilee. He died at Hierapolis in Phrygia, crucified as they were. It is he whom Jesus addresses at the multiplication of the loaves ‡ and it is through him as intermediary that the Gentiles seek to address the Saviour. § To him also we owe what the Master said in His discourse at the Last Supper: " Philip, who seeth Me, seeth My Father " (Gospel). To go to Christ is to go to God, for the works of the Messiah have proved His divinity (Ibid.). It is in virtue of His divine nature that He rose again, and the two Apostles whose feast coincides with the Easter feasts, by their martyrdom (Introit, Epistle) confirm the truth of which they have been witness.

St. James, called the Minor, was of Cana in Galilee. A cousin of our Lord, he had for brother the Apostle Jude, and was made, by Peter, Bishop of Jerusalem. It is of him that St. Paul speaks when he says: " I did not see any Apostle except James the brother of the Lord " ||. Called upon by the High Priest to deny Jesus, he was thrown down from the terrace of the Temple and his head was broken by the blow of a club.

Their names are inscribed in the Canon of the Mass (first list, p. 59).

Following the example of the Holy Apostles Philip and James (Collect), let us confess by a generous life the Divinity of the risen Christ.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1004. † See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, Ed. 3.
‡ John vi. 5. § Ibid., xii. 21. || St. Paul to the Galatians i. 19.

FIRST VESPERS.

First Four Psalms of Sunday, p. 98, and Psalm Laudáte Dóminum, p. 227.—Antiphons of Second Vespers, p. 1357.—Chapter, Hymn and Verse of the Common in Paschal Time, p. 210.

Ant.—Non turbétur * cor vestrum, neque formídet; créditis in Deum, et in me crédite: in domo Patris mei mansiónes multae sunt, allelúia, allelúia.

Ant. at the Magnificat. John xiv. 1.—Let not your heart be troubled, nor fear; you believe in God, believe also in Me. In My Father's house there are many mansions. Alleluia, alleluia.

Collect of the Mass.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Clamavérunt, ad te, Dómine, in témpore afflictiónis suae, et tu de coelo exaudísti eos, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Exsultáte justi in Dómino: rectos decet collaudátio. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. 2 Esdras ix. 27.—In the time of their tribulation they cried to Thee, O Lord, and Thou heardest them from heaven, alleluia, alleluia. Ps. xxxii. 1. Rejoice in the Lord, ye just: praise becometh the upright. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui nos ánnua Apostolórum tuórum Philíppi et Jacóbi solemnitáte laetíficas: praesta, quaesumus; ut, quorum gaudémus meritis, instruámur exémplis. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who year by year, dost gladden us by the return of the festival-day of Thy holy apostles Philip and James: grant unto us, we beseech Thee, who gain by their merits, to profit likewise by the example they have left us. Through our Lord.

Epistle: Stabunt justi, p. 244.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Confitebúntur coeli mirabília tua, Dómine: étenim veritátem tuam in ecclésia sanctórum.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. lxxxviii. 6.—℣. The heavens shall confess Thy wonders, O Lord; and Thy truth in the church of the saints.

Allelúia. ℣. Tanto témpore vobíscum sum, et non cognovístis me? Philíppe, qui videt me, videt et Patrem meum. Allelúia.

Alleluia. John xiv. 9.—℣. So long a time have I been with you, and have you not known Me? Philip, he that seeth Me, seeth My Father also. Alleluia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John. xiv. 1-13.—At that time, Jesus said to His disciples: Let not your heart be troubled; you believe in God, believe also in Me. In My Father's house there are many mansions. If not, I would have told you, that I go to prepare a place for you. And if I shall go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and will take you to Myself, that where I am you also may be. And whither I go you know, and the way you know. Thomas saith to Him: Lord, we know not whither Thou goest; and how can we know the way? Jesus saith to him: I am the life. No man cometh to the Father, but by Me. If you had known Me, you would without doubt have known My Father also: and from henceforth you shall know Him; and you have seen Him. Philip saith to Him: Lord, show us the Father, and it is enough for us. Jesus saith to him: So long a time have I been with you, and have you not known Me? Philip, he that seeth Me, seeth the Father also. How sayest thou. Show us the Father? Do you not believe that I am in the Father, and the Father in Me? The words that I speak to you, I speak not of Myself. But the Father Who abideth in Me, He doeth the works. Believe you not that I am in the Father, and the Father in Me? Otherwise, believe for the very works' sake. Amen, amen, I say to you, he that believeth in Me, the works that I do, he also shall do; and greater than these ✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Non turbétur cor vestrum. Créditis in Deum, et in me crédite. In domo Patris mei mansiónes multae sunt. Si quo minus dixíssem vobis: Quia vado paráre vobis locum. Et si abíero, et praeparávero vobis locum: íterum vénio, et accípiam vos ad meípsum, ut ubi sum ego, et vos sitis. Et quo ego vado scitis, et viam scitis. Dicit et Thomas: Dómine, nescímus quo vadis: et quómodo póssumus viam scire? Dicit ei Jesus: Ego sum via, véritas, et vita; nemo venit ad Patrem, nisi per me. Si cognovissétis me, et Patrem meum útique cognovissétis: et ámodo cognoscétis eum, et vidístis eum. Dicit ei Philíppus: Dómine, osténde nobis Patrem, et súfficit nobis. Dicit ei Jesus: Tanto témpore vobíscum sum, et non cognovístis me? Philíppe, qui videt me, videt et Patrem. Quómodo tu dicis: Osténde nobis Patrem? Non créditis, quia ego in Patre, et Pater in me est? Alióquin propter ópera ipsa crédite. Amen, amen dico vobis, qui credit in me, ópera quae ego fácio, et ipse fáciet, et majóra horum fáciet: quia ego ad Patrem vado. Et quodcúmque petiéritis Patrem in nómine meo, hoc fáciam.—Credo.

shall he do. Because I go to the Father: and whatsoever you shall ask the Father in My name, that will I do.—Credo.

Offertórium.— Confitebúntur coeli mirabília tua, Dómine: et veritátem tuam in Ecclésia sanctórum, allelúia, allelúia.

Offertory.—The heavens shall confess Thy wonders, O Lord; and Thy truth in the Church of the Saints. Alleluia, alleluia.

Secréta.—Múnera, Dómine, quae pro Apostolórum tuórum Philíppi et Jacóbi solemnitáte deférimus, propítius súscipe: et mala ómnia, quae merémur, avérte. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Accept, O Lord, the offerings we make on this the festival-day of Thy holy apostles Philip and James: and mercifully turn aside all the evils our sins have deserved. Through our Lord.

Preface of the Apostles, p. 57.

Commúnio. — Tanto témpore vobíscum sum, et non cognovístis me? Philíppe, qui videt me, videt et Patrem meum, allelúia: non credis, quia ego in Patre, et Pater in me est? Allelúia, allelúia.

Communion.—So long a time have I been with you, and have you not known Me? Philip, he that seeth Me, seeth My Father also, alleluia; believest thou not that I am in the Father, and the Father in Me? Alleluia, alleluia.

Postcommúnio.—Quaesumus, Dómine, salutáribus repléti mystériis: ut, quorum solémnia celebrámus, eórum oratiónibus adjuvémur. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Filled, O Lord, with these saving mysteries, we entreat of Thee that we may be succoured by the prayers of the saints whose feast-day we are keeping. Through our Lord.

SECOND VESPERS

Psalms from Common of Apostles, p. 212.

Ant.—1. Dómine * osténde nobis Patrem, et sússicit nobis, allelúia.

Ant. 1. John xiv. 8.—Lord show unto us the Father, and it sufficeth us. Alleluia.

2. Philíppe, * qui videt me, videt et Patrem meum, allelúia.

2. John xiv. 9.—Philip, he that seeth Me, seeth My Father also. Alleluia.

3. Tanto témpore * vobíscum sum, et non cognovístis

3. John xiv. 9.—So long a time have I been with you, and you have not known Me? Philip, he that seeth Me, seeth My Father also. Alleluia.

me? Philíppe, qui videt me, videt et Patrem meum, allelúia.

4. John xiv. 7.—If you had known Me, you would have known My Father also; and from henceforth you shall know Him, and you have seen Him. Alleluia, alleluia, alleluia.

4. Si cognovissétis me * et Patrem meum útique cognovissétis, et ámodo cognoscétis eum, et vidístis eum, allelúia, allelúia, allelúia.

5. John xiv. 15.—If you love Me, keep My commandments. Alleluia, alleluia, alleluia.

5. Si diligitis me * mandáta mea serváte, allelúia, allelúia, allelúia.

Chapter and Hymn from the Common (P.T.) p. 210. ℣. p. 212.

Ant. at the Magnificat. John xv. 7.—If you abide in Me, and My words abide in you, whatever you shall ask it shall be done unto you, alleluia, alleluia, alleluia.

Ant.—Si mansériti in me * et verba mea in vobis mánserint, quodcúmque petiéritis, fiet vobis, allelúia, allelúia, allelúia.

Commemoration of St. Athanasius: Antiphon: O Doctor . . . beáte Athanási, p. 263. ℣. Amávit, p. 255.

MAY 2.

St. Athanasius, Bishop, Confessor and Doctor.*.—Double. White vestments.

The Church, still covered with the blood of her martyrs, had, in the fifth century, to sustain the yet more dreadful assaults of heretics. Arius dared to despoil the divine Redeemer of all His glory as Son of God; to make of Him a simple creature only higher in grace than others.

God then raised St. Athanasius, " He fills him with the spirit of wisdom" (Introit), and " anoints him as Bishop of Alexandria, with his holy oil" (Offertory), for, as an athlete of Christ, he had to preach the Master's truth, at the price of innumerable sacrifices (Epistle, Gospel).

In 325, Athanasius was the herald of the illustrious assembly of the 318 bishops who condemned Arius at the Council of Nicaea, proclaiming that Jesus was the Son consubstantial with the Father. That is why he is often represented with a symbol of the Trinity as an emblem. He died in 373 and was named Doctor of the Church.

Let us, like St. Athanasius, affirm the Divinity of Jesus risen again.

MASS.

Introit. Ecclus. xv. 5.—In the midst of the Church the Lord

Intróitus.—In médio Ecclésiae apéruit os ejus: et implévit

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010.

eum Dóminus spíritu sapiéntiae et intelléctus: stolam glória induit eum, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Bonum est confitéri Dómino: et psállere nómini tuo, Altíssime. ℣. Glória Patri.

opened his mouth: and filled him with the Spirit of wisdom and understanding: He clothed him with a robe of glory. Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. xci.. 2 It is good to give praise to the Lord; and to sing to Thy name O Most High. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Exáudi, quaesumus, Dómine, preces nostras, quas in beáti Athanásii Confessóris tui atque Pontíficis solemnitáte deférimus: et, qui tibi digne méruit famulári, ejus intercedéntibus méritis, ab ómnibus nos absólve peccátis. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Graciously hear our prayers, O Lord, we beseech Thee, which we offer in solemn commemoration of blessed Athanasius, Thy Confessor and bishop; and absolve us from all sins, by the merits of him who served Thee worthily, interceding for us. Through our Lord.

Léctio Epistolae beátis Pauli Apóstoli ad Corínthios. — FRATRES: Non nosmetípsos praedicámus, sed Jesum Christum Dóminum nostrum: nos autem servos vestros per Jesum: quóniam Deus, qui dixit de ténebris lucem splendéscere, ipse illúxit in córdibus nostris ad illuminatiónem sciéntiae claritátis Dei, in fácie Christi Jesu. Habémus autem thesáurum istum in vasis fictílibus: ut sublímitas sit virtútis Dei, et non ex nobis. In ómnibus tribulatiónem pátimur, sed non angustiámur: aporiámur, sed non destitúimur: persecutiónem pátimur, sed non derelínquimur: dejícimur, sed non perímus: semper mortificatiónem Jesu in córpore nostro circumferéntes, ut et vita Jesu manifestétur in corpóribus nostris.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians. 2 Cor. iv. 5-14.—BRETHREN, We preach not ourselves, but Jesus Christ our Lord; and ourselves your servants through Jesus. For God, Who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God, in the face of Christ Jesus. But we have this treasure in earthen vessels that the excellency may be of the power of God and not of us. In all things we suffer tribulation, but are not distressed; we are straitened, but are not destitute; we suffer persecution, but are not forsaken; we are cast down, but we perish not; always bearing about in our body the mortification of Jesus, that the life also of Jesus may be made manifest in our bodies. For we who live are always delivered unto death for Jesus' sake; that the life also of Jesus may be made manifest in our mortal flesh. So then death worketh in us, but life in you. But having the same spirit of faith, as it is written, I believed, for which cause I have spoken; we also believe, for which cause we speak also: knowing that He Who raised up Jesus will raise up us also with Jesus, and place us with you.

Semper enim nos, qui vívimus, in mortem trádimur propter Jesum: ut et vita Jesu manifestétur in carne nostra mortáli. Ergo mors in nobis operátur, vita autem in vobis. Habéntes autem eúmdem spíritum fídei, sicut scriptum est: Crédidi, propter quod locútus sum: et nos crédimus, propter quod et lóquimur: sciéntes, quóniam qui suscitávit Jesum, et nos cum Jesu suscitábit, et constítuet vobíscum.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. cix. 4.—℣. Thou art a priest for ever, according to the order of Melchisedech.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Tu es sacérdos in aetérnum secúndum órdinem Melchísedech.

Alleluia. Jas. 1. 12.—Blessed is the man that endureth temptation; for when he hath been proved, he shall receive the crown of life. Alleluia.

Allelúia. — ℣. Beátus vir, qui suffert tentatiónem: quóniam cum probátus fúerit, accípiet corónam vitae. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew x. 23-28.—At that time, Jesus said to His disciples: When they shall persecute you in this city, flee into another. Amen, I say to you, you shall not finish all the cities of Israel till the Son of man come. The disciple is not above the master, nor the servant above his lord. It is enough for the disciple that he be as his master, and the servant as his lord. If they have called the good man of the house Beelzebub, how much more them of his household? Therefore fear them not; for nothing is covered that shall not be revealed; nor hid that shall not be known. That which I tell you in the dark, speak ye in the light; and that which you hear in the ear, preach ye upon the house-tops. And fear ye not them that kill the body, and are not able to kill the soul; but rather fear Him that can destroy both soul and body in hell.—Credo.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Cum persequéntur vos in civitáte ista, fúgite in alíam. Amen dico vobis, non consummábitis civitátes Israel, donec véniat Fílius hóminis. Non est discípulus super magístrum, nec servus super dóminum suum. Súfficit discípulo, ut sit sicut magíster ejus: et servo, sicut dóminus ejus. Si patremfamílias Beélzebub vocavérunt: quanto magis doméstiocs ejus? Ne ergo timuéritis eos. Nihil enim est opértum, quod non revelábitur; et occúltum, quod non sciétur. Quod dico vobis in ténebris, dícite in lúmine: et quod in aure audítis, praedicáte super tecta. Et nolíte timére eos, qui occídunt corpus, ánimam autem non possunt occídere: sed pótius timéte eum, qui potest ánimam et corpus pérdere in gehénnam.—Credo.

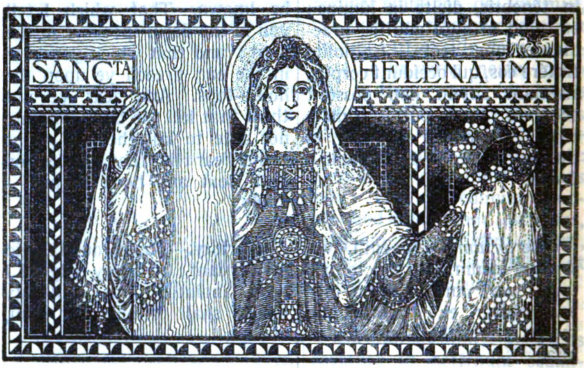
Offertórium. — Invéni David servum meum, óleo sancto meo unxi eum: manus enim mea auxiliábitur ei, et bráchium meum confortábit eum, allelúia.

Offertory.—I have found David My servant: with My holy oil I have anointed him, and My hand shall strengthen him, alleluia.

Secréta. — Sancti Athanásii Confessóris tui atque Pontíficis, quaesumus, Dómine, ánnua solémnitas pietáti tuae nos reddat accéptos: ut, per haec piae placatiónis offícia, et illum beáta retribútio comitétur, et nobis grátiae tuae dona concíliet. Per Dóminum.



Secret.—We beseech, O Lord, that the annual solemnity of holy Athanasius, Thy Confessor and bishop, may render us acceptable to Thy mercy; that by these offices of pious expiation, while a blessed reward attends him, he may procure for us the gifts of Thy grace. Through our Lord.

Commúnio. — Quod dico vobis in ténebris, dícite in lúmine, dicit Dóminus: et quod in aure audítis, praedicáte super tecta, allelúia.

Communion. Matt. x. 27.—That which I tell you in the dark, speak ye in the light, saith the Lord; and that which you hear in the ear, preach ye upon the house-tops, alleluia.

Postcommúnio. — Deus, fidélium remunerátor animárum: praesta; ut beáti Athanásii Confessóris tui atque Pontíficis, cujus venerándam celebrámus festivitátem, précibus indulgéntiam consequámur. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — O God, the rewarder of faithful souls, grant that we may obtain pardon by the prayers of blessed Athanasius, Thy Confessor and bishop, whose venerable festival we celebrate. Through our Lord.

MAY 3.

The Finding of the Holy Cross.*—Double of the Second Class.
Red vestments.

After the victory gained by Constantine by virtue of the Cross which appeared to him in the skies, and whose sign he reproduced in the Labarum, St. Helen, his mother, went to Jerusalem to try to find the true Cross. At the beginning of the second century, Hadrian had discovered Calvary and the Holy Sepulchre under a terrace of 100 metres in length, on which had been erected a statue of Jupiter and a temple of Venus. The Empress razed them to the ground, and, in digging up the soil, they discovered the nails (Alleluia) and the glorious trophy to which we owe " life, salvation and resurrection " (Introit). The miraculous cure of a woman authenticated the sacred tree (Collect).

St. Helen divided into three the precious wood which had been " worthy to bear the King of Heaven " (Alleluia), which had merely been figured by the cross on which the brazen serpent was raised. One part was deposited in Rome in the Church which on this account was called Holy Cross in Jerusalem † the second in Constantinople and the third in Jerusalem, This last relic having been carried off by the Persians and recovered by Heraclius, this emperor solemnly brought it back to Jerusalem on May 3, 628. Covered with gold and precious stones, the Emperor suddenly felt himself stopped by an invincible power. At this sight, Zacharias, Bishop of Jerusalem, told him to imitate the poverty and humility of Jesus bearing His cross. Heraclius thereupon covered his shoulders with a common cloak and without further hindrance went his way. (Breviary, September 14.)

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009.

† See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, K i. 10.

FIRST VESPERS.

As at Second Vespers, except:

Ant.—O Crux * splendídior cunctis astris, mundo célebris, homínibus multum amábilis, sánctior univérsis: quae sola fuísti digna portáre taléntum mundi: dulce lignum, dulces clavos, dúlcia ferens póndera: salva praeséntem catérvam in tuis hódie láudibus congregátam. (T. P. Allelúia, allelúia).

Ant. at the Magnificat.—O Cross, brighter than all the stars, famed throughout the world, lovely unto men, of all things the most holy, who alone wast worthy to bear the ransom of the world: O sweet tree, O sweet nails, that bear so sweet a burden, deliver the multitude this day assembled in Thy praise. (P.T. Alleluia, alleluia.)

Commemoration of St. Athanasius: Antiphon: O Doctor . . . beáte Athanási, p. 263. ℣. Justum, p. 262.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Nos autem gloriári opórtet in cruce Dómini nostri Jesu Christi: in quo est salus, vita, et resurréctio nostra per quem salváti, et liberáti sumus, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Deus misereátur nostri, et benedícat nobis: illúminet vultum suum super nos, et misereátur nostri. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Gal. vi. 14.—But it behoves us to glory in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ: in Whom is our salvation, life and resurrection: by Whom we are saved, and delivered, alleluia, alleluia. Ps. lxvi. 2. May God have mercy on us and bless us: may He cause the light of His countenance to shine upon us, and may He have mercy on us ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus.—Deus, qui in praeclára salutíferae Crucis Inventióne, passiónis tuae mirácula suscitásti: concéde; ut vitális ligni prétio, aetérnae vitae suffrágia consequámur: Qui vivis.

Collect.—O God, Who, in the remarkable finding of the saving cross, didst revive the miracles of Thy Passion, grant that by the price of the wood of life, we may obtain the suffrages of life eternal. Who livest and reignest.

At low Masses only: Commemoration of SS. Alexander and Companions, p. 1368.

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Philippénses. — FRATRES: Hoc enim sentíte in vobis, quod et in Christo Jesu:

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Philippians ii. 5-11.—BRETHREN, Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus; Who being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God; but made Himself as nothing, taking the form of a servant, being made in the likeness of men, and in habit found as a man. He humbled Himself, becoming obedient unto death, even the death of the cross. For which cause God also hath exalted Him, and hath given Him a name which is above all names: (Here all kneel down) that in the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of those that are in heaven, on earth, and under the earth; and that every tongue should confess that the Lord Jesus Christ is in the glory of God the Father.

qui cum in forma Dei esset, non rapínam arbitrátus est esse se aequálem Deo: sed semetípsum exinanívit formam servi accípiens, in similitúdinem hóminum factus, et hábitu invéntus ut homo. Humiliávit semetípsum, factus obédiens usque ad mortem, mortem autem crucis. Propter quod et Deus exaltávit illum: et donávit illi nomen, quod est super omne nomen: (hic genuflectitur) ut in nómine Jesu omne genu flectátur coeléstium, terréstrium, et infernórum: et omnis língua confiteátur, quia Dóminus Jesus Christus in glória est Dei Patris.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. xcv. 10. — ℣. Say ye among the Gentiles, that the Lord hath reigned from the wood.

Allelúia, allelúia.— ℣. Dícite in géntibus, quia Dóminus regnávit a ligno.

Alleluia.— ℣. Sweet the wood, sweet the nails, sweet the load that hangs thereon. to bear up the King and Lord of heaven, no tree was worthy, save thou, O holy cross. Alleluia.

Allelúia.— ℣. Dulce lignum, dulces clavos, dúlcia ferens póndera: quae sola fuísti digna sustinére Regem coelórum, et Dóminum. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John iii. 1-15.—At that time, there was a man of the Pharisees, named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews. This man came to Jesus by night; and said to Him: Rabbi, we know that Thou art come, a teacher from God; for no man can do these signs which Thou dost, unless God be with him. Jesus answered, and said to him: Amen, amen I say to ✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Erat homo ex Pharisaeis, Nicodémus nómine, princeps Judaeórum. Hic venit ad Jesum nocte, et dixit ei: Rabbi, scimus quia a Deo venísti magíster, nemo enim potest haec signa fácere, quae tu facis, nisi fúerit Deus cum eo. Respóndit Jesus, et dixit ei: Amen, amen dico tibi, nisi quis renátus fúerit dénuo, non potest vidére regnum Dei. Dicit ad eum Nicodémus: Quómodo potest homo nasci, cum sit senex? numquid potest in ventrem matris suae iteráto introíre, et renásci? Respóndit Jesus: Amen, amen dico tibi, nisi quis renátus fúerit ex aqua, et Spíritu Sancto, non potest introíre in regnum Dei. Quod natum est ex carne, caro est: et quod natum est ex spíritu, spíritus est. Non miréris quia dixi tibi: opórtet vos nasci dénuo. Spíritus ubi vult spirat, et vocem ejus audis, sed nescis unde véniat, aut quo vadat: sic est omnis, qui natus est ex spíritu. Respóndit Nicodémus, et dixit ei: Quómodo possunt haec fieri? Respóndit Jesus, et dixit ei: Tu es magíster in Israel, et haec ignóras? Amen, amen dico tibi, quia quod scimus lóquimur, et quod vídimus testámur, et testimónium nostrum non accípitis. Si terréna dixi vobis, et non créditis: quómodo, si díxero vobis coeléstia, credétis? Et nemo ascéndit in coelum nisi qui descéndit de coelo, Fílius hóminis, qui est in coelo. Et sicut Móyses exaltávit serpéntem in desérto; ita exaltári opórtet Fílium hóminis: ut omnis qui credit in ipsum, non péreat, sed hábeat vitam aetérnam.—Credo.

thee, unless a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God. Nicodemus saith to Him: How can a man be born again, when he is old? can he enter a second time into his mother's womb, and be born again? Jesus answered: Amen, amen I say to thee, unless a man be born again of water and the Holy Ghost, he cannot enter the kingdom of God. That which is born of the flesh, is flesh; and that which is born of the spirit, is spirit. Wonder not that I said to thee: You must be born again. The Spirit breatheth where He will; and thou hearest His voice, but thou knowest not whence He cometh, nor whither He goeth; so is every one that is born of the Spirit. Nicodemus answered, and said to Him: How can these things be done? Jesus answered, and said to him: Art thou a master in Israel, and knowest not these things? Amen, amen I say to thee, that we speak what we know, and we testify what we have seen, and you receive not our testimony. If I have spoken to you earthly things, and you believe not; how will you believe if I shall speak to you heavenly things? And no man hath ascended into heaven, but He that descended from heaven, the Son of man Who is in heaven. And as Moses lifted up the serpent in the desert, so must the Son of man be lifted up; that whosoever believeth in Him may not perish, but may have life everlasting.—Credo.

Offertórium.—Déxtera Dómini fecit virtútem, dextera Dómini exaltávit me: non mó-

Offertory. Ps. cxvii. 16, 17.—The right hand of the Lord hath wrought strength, the right hand of the Lord hath exalted me; I shall not die, but live, and shall declare the works of the Lord, alleluia.

riar, sed vivam, et narrábo ópera Dómini, allelúia.

Secret.—Regard in mercy, O Lord, the sacrifice we offer up: for its sake may be spared all the horrors of war, and, escaping the snares set for us by our enemies, may we, under the banner of the holy cross of Thy Son, be established in that peace which Thy protection ensures. Through the same Lord.

Secréta. — Sacrifícium Dómine, quod tibi immolámus, placátus inténde: ut ab omni nos éruat bellórum nequitia, et per vexíllum sanctae Crucis Fílii tui, ad conteréndas potestátis advérsae insídias, nos in tuae protectiónis securitáte constítuat. Per eúmdum Dóminum.

At low Masses, Commemoration of the Holy Martyrs, p. 1368.—Preface of the Cross p. 53.

Communion.—By the sign of the cross, deliver us from our enemies, O Thou our God, alleluia.

Commúnio. — Per signum Crucis de inimícis nostris líbera nos, Deus noster, allelúia.

Postcommunion. — Filled now with bread from heaven, and quickened with the cup of the Spirit, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, to save from the craft of the evil one, those whom Thou hast bidden to take part in the triumph of Thy Divine Son; for it was on the wood of the holy Cross, the instrument of Thy justice, that He wrought out the salvation of the whole world. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Repléti alimónia coeléstí, et spiritáli póculo recreáti, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut ab hoste malígno deféndas, quos per lignum sanctae Crucis Fílii tui, arma justítiae pro salúte mundi, triumpháre jussísti. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

At low Masses, Commemoration of the Holy Martyrs, p. 1369.

SECOND VESPERS.

The First Four Psalms for Sunday, p. 98, and Psalm Laudáte Dóminum, p. 127.

Ant. 1.—O marvellous work of mercy! Death then died when Life died on the tree. (P.T. Alleluia).*

Ant. 1.—O magnum *pietátis opus! mors mórtua tunc est, in ligno quando mórtua vita fuit. (T.P. Allelúia).*

* This verse was read on the Cross in the Baptistery of St. Peter (Sixth century).

2.—Salva nos * Christe Salvátor, per virtútem Crucis : qui salvásti Petrum in mari, miserére nobis. (T.P. Allelúia.)

2. Save us, O Christ our Saviour, through the power of the Cross. O Thou Who didst save Peter in the sea, have mercy on us. (P.T. Alleluia.)

3.—Ecce Crucem Dómini * fúgite partes advérsae: vicit leo de tribu Juda, radix David. Allelúia.

3. Behold, the Lord's cross. Flee ye that are His enemies, the lion of the tribe of Judah, even the Root of David, hath gained victory, alleluia.

4. Nos autem * gloriári opórtet in cruce Dómini nostri Jesu Christi. (T.P. Allelúia.)

4. But it behoveth us to glory in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ. (P.T. Alleluia.).

5. Per signum Crucis * de inimícis nostris líbera nos Deus noster. (T.P. Allelúia.)

5. By the sign of the cross deliver us from our enemies, O our God. (P.T. Alleluia.)

Capitulum.—Fratres: Hoc enim sentíte in vobis, quod et in Christo Jesu: qui cum in forma Dei esset, non rapínam arbitrátus est esse se aequálem Deo: sed semetípsum exinanivit, formam servi accípiens, in similitúdinem hóminum factus, et hábitu invéntus ut homo.

Chapter. Phil. ii. 5.—Brethren, Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus; Who being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God; but made Himself as nothing, taking the form of a servant, being made in the likeness of men, and in habit found as a man.

Hymn : Vexilla Regis—as on Passion Sunday, p. 681, except the sixth verse which is as follows:

6. * O crux, ave, spes única,
Paschále, quae fers gáudium.
Piis adáuge grátiam,
Reísque dele crimina.

6. * Hail Cross! sole hope of our release,
Now in this joyous Paschal time;
Justice in godly souls increase
And free the guilty from their crime.

7. Te, fons salútis, Trínitas,
Colláudet omnis spíritus :

7. To Thee, Eternal Three in One,
Let homage meet by all be done :

* Here all kneel.

As by the Cross Thou dost restore,
So rule and guide us evermore. Amen.

Quibus Crucis victóriam
Largíris, adde praemium.
Amen.

℣. This sign of the cross shall be in heaven. Alleluia.
℞. When the Lord shall come to judgment. Alleluia.

℣. Hoc signum Crucis erit in coelo. Allelúia.
℞. Cum Dóminus ad judicándum vénerit. Allelúia.

Ant. at the Magnificat.—He Who broke the power of hell, humbled Himself to the holy cross; He was girded about with power, and the third day He rose again. Alleluia.

Ant. — Crucem sanctam súbiit, * qui inférnum confrégit: accínctus est poténtia, surréxit die tértia. Allelúia.

Commemoration of St. Monica: Antiphon: Simíle est, p. 300. ℣. Spécie tua, p. 300.

THE SAME DAY.

Commemoration of St. Alexander I., POPE, Eventius and Theodulus, MARTYRS, AND OF St. Juvenal, BISHOP, CONFESSOR *

Alexander governed the Church under the Emperor Hadrian. He prescribed water to be mixed with the wine at Mass on account of the blood and water that flowed from the side of Jesus. His name is inscribed in the Canon of the Mass (Second list, p. 65). He was martyred at the same time as the priests Eventius and Theodulus, in 117, and their bodies rest in Rome, in the church of St. Sabinus, where a Station is held on Ash Wednesday. † St. Juvenal, Bishop of Narni, fell asleep on this day in the peace of Christ risen, towards 377.

Mass: Sancti tui, p. 249, except:

Collect.—Grant, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, unto us who keep the natal day of Thy saints Alexander, Eventius, Theodulus and Juvenalis, to be, by virtue of their prayers, saved from the evils which hang over us. Through our Lord.

Orátio.—Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui sanctórum tuórum Alexándri, Evéntii, Theodúli, atque Juvenális natalítia cólimus; a cunctis malis imminéntibus, eórum intercessiónibus liberémur. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—May thine abundant blessings, O Lord, come down upon this oblation: may it mercifully work out our salvation;

Secréta.—Super has hóstias, quaesumus, Dómine, benedíctio copiósa descéndat: quae et sanctificatiónem nobis cle-

* See Historical Summary, pp. 1007 and 1010.
† See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, E 1 38.

ménter operétur, et de Sanctórum nos solemnitáte laetíficet. Per Dóminum.

and may through it, the festival of Thy saints be truly for us a day of great joy. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Refécti participatióne múneris sacri, quaesumus, Dómine Deus noster: ut, cujus exséquimur cultum, intercedéntibus sanctis tuis Alexándro, Evéntio, Theodúlo, et Juvenále, sentiámus efféctum. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—Our strength renewed from having shared in Thy sacred gift, we beseech Thee, O Lord our God, that by the intercession of Thy Saints, Alexander, Eventius, Theodulus and Juvenalis, we may ever feel the mighty power of the sacrament we worship. Through our Lord.

May 4.

St. Monica, Widow.*—Double.—White vestments.

Born in Africa, St. Monica married a pagan whom she converted by her virtues. Having become a widow, she devoted herself to her son, Augustine, whose mind was corrupted by the errors of Manichaeism and his soul by the dissolute manners of Rome. "Night and day she prayed" (Epistle) and "she shed for him more tears than other mothers shed over a coffin." †

For above all else she was penetrated by the fear of God (Introit), and she knew that the soul, not to be rejected at the last separation of the good from the wicked, must sacrifice itself (Gospel). She atoned for the sins of Augustine. "Could you, O Lord, despise the contrite and humble heart of a chaste and sober widow? Could you reject the tears of one who asked not for money, nor for any temporal thing, but only the salvation of her son's soul?"

"God, in His mercy, accepted the tears of charity of blessed Monica" (Collect) and these two souls now share in the joy (Communion) of Jesus risen again.

St. Monica died at Ostia, in 387.

Mass: Cognóvi, p. 304, except

Orémus.—Deus, moeréntium consolátor et in te sperántium salus, qui beátae Mónicae pias lácrymas in conversióne fílii sui Augustíni misericórditer suscepísti: da nobis utriúsque intervéntu, peccáta nostra deploráre, et grátiae tuae indul-

Collect.—O God, the comforter of the sorrowful and the salvation of them that put their trust in Thee, Who, in bringing about the conversion of her son Augustine, had merciful regard to the loving tears of blessed Monica: grant that we, in behalf of whom the one and the other plead, may grieve over our sins and may win grace and pardon from Thee. Through our Lord.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010. † Confessions of St. Augustine, Book III. ch. 2.

géntiam invenire. Per Dóminum.

Epistle: Viduas honóra, p. 307.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke vii. 11-16.—At that time, Jesus went into a city called Naim; and there went with Him His disciples, and a great multitude. And when He came nigh to the city, behold a dead man was carried out, the only son of his mother; and she was a widow, and much people in the city were with her. And when the Lord saw her, He had compassion on her, and said to her: Weep not. And He came near, and touched the bier. And they that carried it stood still. And He said: Young man, I say to thee, arise: and he that was dead sat up, and began to speak. And He delivered him to his mother. And there came a fear on them all: and they glorified God, saying: A great prophet is risen up amongst us, and God hath visited His people.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam. — In illo témpore: Ibat Jesus in civitátem, quae vocátur Naim: et ibant cum eo discípuli ejus, et turba copiósa. Cum autem appropinquáret portae civitátis, ecce defúnctus efferebátur filius únicus matris suae: et haec vídua erat: et turba civitátis multa cum illa. Quam cum vidísset Dóminus, misericórdia motus super eam, dixit illi: Noli flere. Et accéssit, et tétigit lóculum. (Hi autem, qui portábant, stetérunt.) Et ait: Adoléscens, tibi dico, surge. Et resédit qui erat mórtuus, et coepit loqui. Et dedit illum matri suae. Accépit autem omnes timor: et magnificábant Deum, dicéntes: Quia prophéta magnus surréxit in nobis: et quia Deus visitávit plebem suam.

May 5.

St. Pius V., Pope, Confessor.*—Double.—White vestments.

Pius, born at Bosco in Lombardy, entered, at the age of fourteen, the Order of Preachers. As Bishop, Cardinal and Pope (Introit, Epistle, Communion), he put to profit the talents entrusted to him by God (Gospel).

His pontificate, although short, was one of the most glorious of the sixteenth century. Protestantism had proclaimed the reformation and Islam threatened the West. To remedy the ills under which Christendom groaned, St. Pius V. enforced obedience to the decrees of the Council of Trent, published a new edition of the Missal and Breviary and obtained, by the prayers he asked for, the glorious victory won by the Christian forces at Lepanto in 1571. He instituted, on that occasion, the feast of our Lady of Victories which became, later on, the feast of the Most Holy Rosary.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1015.

He died on May 5, 1572, reciting the hymn of the Paschal Season.

Mass : Státuit, p. 255, except :

Orémus. — Deus, qui ad conteréndos Ecclésiae tuae hostes, et ad divínum cultum reparándum, beátum Pium Pontíficem máximum elígere dignátus es : fac nos ipsíus deféndi praesídiis, et ita tuis inhaerére obséquiis : ut, ómnium hóstium superátis insídiis, perpétua pace laetémur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who for the overthrowing of the enemies of Thy Church and for the restoring of the beauty of Thy worship, didst advance blessed Pius to the dignity of the supreme pontificate : grant that his prayers be ever our defence, and that we so cling to the observance of Thy commandments, that, escaping all the snares of our enemies, we abide in Thy peace for evermore. Through our Lord.

MAY 6.

St. John before the Latin Gate.*—Greater Double.—Red vestments.

Jesus had promised James and John, sons of Zebedee, that they would drink the chalice of His Passion so as to participate in the triumph of His resurrection (Gospel).

The Emperor Domitian caused John to be brought to Rome and condemned him to be plunged into a caldron of boiling oil.

But St. John, by a striking miracle, came forth from this torment more healthy and vigorous than before. A Sanctuary was built on this spot near the Latin gate and dedicated to the holy Apostle. There, is held the Station on Passion Saturday. †

Mass : Protexísti, p. 243, except :

Orémus. — Deus, qui cónspicis quia nos úndique mala nostra pertúrbant : praesta, quaesumus ; ut beáti Joánnis Apóstoli tui et Evangelístae intercéssio glorióa nos prótegat. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who knowest that on every side we are borne down by our sins : deny us not, we entreat of Thee, the safeguard of the glorious intercession of blessed John Thine apostle and evangelist. Through our Lord.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007 † See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510 G h 17.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. xci. 13.—℣. The just shall flourish like the palm tree; he shall grow up like the cedar of Libanus.

Allelúia, allelúia ℣. Justus ut palma florébit: sicut cedrus Líbani multiplicábitur.

Alleluia. Hos. xiv. 6.—℣. The just shall spring as the lily: and flourish for ever before the Lord. Alleluia.

Allelúia. ℣. Justus germinábit sicut lílium: et florébit in aetérnum ante Dóminum. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew xx. 20, 23.—At that time, the mother of the sons of Zebedee came to Jesus with her sons, worshipping, and asking something of Him. Who said to her: What wilt thou? She saith to Him: Say that these my two sons may sit, the one on Thy right hand, and the other on Thy left, in Thy kingdom. And Jesus answering said: You know not what you ask, can you drink the chalice that I shall drink? They say to Him: We can. He saith to them: My chalice indeed you shall drink; but to sit on my right or left hand is not mine to give to you, but to them for whom it is prepared by My Father.—Credo.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secundum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Accéssit ad Jesum mater filiórum Zebedaei cum fíliis suis, adórans, et petens áliquid ab eo. Qui dixit ei: Quid vis? Ait illi: Dic ut sédeant hi duo fílii mei, unus ad déxteram tuam, et unus ad sinístram in regno tuo. Respóndens autem Jesus, dixit: Nescítis quid petátis. Potéstis bíbere cálicem, quem ego bibitúrus sum? Dicunt ei: Póssumus. Ait illis: Cálicem quidem meum bibétis: sedére autem ad déxteram meam, vel sinístram, non est meum dare vobis, sed quibus parátum est a Patre meo.—Credo.

Secret.—Receive, we beseech Thee, O Lord, these our offerings and prayers: cleanse us by virtue of these heavenly mysteries, and graciously hear us. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Munéribus nostris, quaesusmus, Dómine, precibúsque suscéptis: et coeléstibus nos munda mystériis, et cleménter exáudi. Per Dóminum.

Preface of the Apostles, p. 57.

Postcommunion.— Comforted, O Lord, with bread from heaven, we beg of Thee, by its virtue, to quicken us unto life everlasting. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Refécti, Dómine, pane coeléssti: ad vitam, quaesumus, nutriámur aetérnam. Per Dóminum.

May 7.

St. Stanislaus, Bishop, Martyr.*—Double.—Red vestments.

Stanislaus, born in Poland, was made Bishop of Cracow in 1072. He became an object of hatred to Boleslas II., whom he reproached for his tyranny and dissolute life. One day, while he was saying Mass, the Prince rushed at him and slew him (Collect). This was in 1079. The Saint is the patron of Poland.

Mass : Protexísti, p. 243, except :

Orémus.—Deus, pro cujus honóre gloriósus Póntifex Stanisláus gládiis impiórum occúbuit : praesta, quaesumus : ut omnes, qui ejus implórant auxílium, petitiónis suae salutárem consequántur efféctum. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, in defence of Whose honour the glorious bishop Stanislaus fell before the sword of the wicked : grant, we beseech Thee, that to all prayers put up to him, there be vouchsafed in all fulness the wished for answer. Through our Lord.

Secret and Postcommunion, p. 221.

May 8.

The Apparition of St. Michael the Archangel.†—Greater double.—White vestments.

The Easter feasts are those of angelical spirits, for the Resurrection "gives joy also to the Angels," says St. Gregory, "because in opening heaven to us again, it makes up for the losses which their ranks had sustained." The feast of the apparition of St. Michael, the chief of the celestial hosts, shows forth, in this Paschal Season, all the grandeur of the Saviour's triumph.

St. Michael himself comes to defend us in battle (Alleluia). He came down from heaven (Ibid.) and appeared in Italy towards 525 under the pontificate of Gelasius I., in Apulia, on the summit of Monte Gargano, near the Adriatic, on the same line as Rome to the west. He requested that a sanctuary should be erected to him where God should be worshipped, in memory of himself and all the angels, and this place became celebrated on account of numerous miracles.

Mass : Benedicite Dominum. As on the Feast of St. Michael, September 29, adding the Alleluias for P.T. at Introit, Offertory and Communion.

Instead of the Gradual and Alleluia the following is said.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Sancte Michael Archángele, défende nos in prælio : ut non pereámus in treméndo judício.

Alleluia, alleluia.—℣. Holy Archangel Michael defend us in battle : that we may not perish in the dreadful judgment.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1012. † Ibid., p. 1010.

Alleluia.— ℣. The sea was shaken, and the earth trembled when the Archangel Michael came down from heaven. Alleluia.

Allelúia.— ℣. Concússum est mare, et contrémuit terra, ubi Archángelus Míchael descéndit de coelo. Allelúia.

MAY 9.

St. Gregory Nazianzen, Bishop, Confessor, Doctor.*—Double.—White vestments.

Gregory was born at Nazianzus in Cappadocia. He was educated at Athens in all the sciences, at the same time as St. Basil the Great, with whom he was always united in the bonds of a holy friendship. Brothers in their studies, they remained brothers in their monastic life and in the Episcopate. Having become Bishop of Nazianzus and later Patriarch of Constantinople (Communion), he was " light which raised on the candlestick sheds its rays on all those who dwell in the house " (Gospel). Filled with " the spirit of wisdom and intelligence " (Introit, Epistle), his profound knowledge of the Scriptures earned for him the title of Doctor and Theologian, which the Church has confirmed. St. Gregory died in 389.

Mass : In médio, p. 263, and Epistle : Justus, p. 267.

MAY 10.

St. Antoninus, Bishop, Confessor.†—Double.—White vestments.

At the age of 16 he entered the Order of St. Dominic. Having become Archbishop of Florence (Communion), St. Antoninus excelled in his pastoral office by the austerity of his life, his charity and his sacerdotal zeal (Introit, Epistle, Alleluia). His prudence earned for him the title of Antoninus of Counsel. He died rich in merits in 1459.

Mass : Státuit, p. 255, except :

Collect.—May the merits, O Lord, of St. Antoninus, Thy confessor and bishop, avail us : and may we who praise Thee because of the wonders Thou didst work in him, have cause ourselves to glory in the mercy Thou shalt show to us. Through our Lord.

Orátio. — Sancti Antoníni, Dómine, Confessóris tui atque Pontifícis, méritis adjuvémur : ut, sicut te in illo mirábilem praedicámus, ita in nos misericórdem fuisse gloriémur. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of SS. Gordian and Epimachus, as below.

THE SAME DAY.

SS. Gordian and Epimachus, Martyrs.‡

Gordian, a Roman judge, was converted by a holy priest whom Julian, the Apostate, would have liked him to condemn. He was martyred towards 360 and was buried in the crypt where already lay the remains of the martyr St. Epimachus, brought from Alexandria.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010. † Ibid., pp. 1014. ‡ Ibid., pp. 1008 and 1010

Mass: Sancti tui, p. 249, except:

Orémus. — Da, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui beatórum Mártyrum tuórum Gordiáni et Epimáchi solémnia cólimus, eórum apud te intercessiónibus adjuvémur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Grant, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, that the intercession of Thy holy martyrs Gordian and Epimachus, whose feast-day we are keeping, may avail with Thee on our behalf. Through our Lord.

Epistle: Post haec, p. 1339.

Secréta. — Hóstias tibi, Dómine, beatórum Mártyrum tuórum Gordiáni et Epímachi dicátas méritis, benígnus ássume: et ad perpétuum nobis tríbue proveníre subsídium. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Graciously receive, O Lord, the sacred victim, which, relying on the merits of Thy holy martyrs Gordian and Epimachus, we dedicate to Thee: and grant that it may be for us an everlasting help. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio.—Quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui coeléstia aliménta percépimus, intercedéntibus sanctis Martyribus tuis Gordiáno et Epimácho, per haec contra ómnia advérsa muniámur. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — O Almighty God, vouchsafe, we beseech Thee, that, through the prayers of Thy holy martyrs Gordian and Epimachus, the heavenly food of which we have eaten may be our sure defence in all adversity. Through our Lord.

MAY 12.

SS. Nereus, Achilleus, Domitilla and Pancras, MARTYRS.*

Semi-double.—Red vestments.

Nereus and Achilleus, officers of the household of Flavia Domitilla, a niece of the Emperors Titus and Domitian, were baptised by St. Peter. The Gospel praises their faith when it praises that of the officer who obtained the cure of his son and believed in Jesus.

These Saints having inspired Domitilla with the resolution to consecrate her virginity to God, Aurelianus, her betrothed, accused them all three of being Christians, and, out of hatred for Christ, they were put to death under the Emperor Domitian at Terracina (first century). Their bodies rest in Rome in the Church of St. Nereus and Achilleus. †

St. Pancras was arrested in Rome at the age of fourteen and put to death towards 275, under Aurelianus, for having refused to sacrifice to the gods. His constancy earned for him a place among the saints whose joy he shares (Epistle, Communion).

*See Historical Summary, pp. 1007, 1008 and 1009.
† See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, Fig 30.

MASS.

Introit. Ps. xxxii. 1, 19, 20.—Behold the eyes of the Lord are on them that fear Him, hoping in His mercy, alleluia : to deliver their souls from death : for He is our helper and protector, alleluia, alleluia. ℣. Ibid. 1. Rejoice in the Lord ye just : praise becometh the upright. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus. — Ecce óculi Dómini super timéntes eum, sperántes in misericórdia ejus, allelúia : ut erípiat a morte ánimas eórum : quóniam adjútor, et protéctor noster est, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Exsultáte justi in Dómino : rectos decet collaudátio. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—May each year, O Lord, the return of the happy day of the triumph of Thy martyrs, Nereus, Achilleus, Domitilla and Pancras, be of solace to us, and ever make us more worthy to minister to Thee. Through our Lord.

Orémus.—Semper nos, Dómine, Mártyrum tuórum Nérei, Achíllei, Domitillae atque Pancrátii foveat, quaesumus, beáta solémnitas : et tuo dignos reddat obséquio. Per Dóminum.

Epistle : Stabunt justi, p. 244.

Alleluia, alleluia.—℣. This is the true brotherhood, which overcame the wickedness of the world : it followed Christ, attaining the noble kingdom of heaven.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Haec est vera fratérnitas : quae vicit mundi crímina, Christum secúta est, inclyta tenens regna coeléstia.

Alleluia.—℣. The white-robed army of martyrs praises Thee, O Lord. Alleluia.

Allelúia. ℣. Te Mártyrum candidátus laudat exércitus, Dómine. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John iv. 46-53.—At that time, There was a certain ruler whose son was sick at Capharnaum. He having heard that Jesus was come from Judaea into Galilee, went to Him, and prayed Him to come down and heal his son ; for he was at the point of death. Jesus therefore said to him : Unless you see signs and wonders, you believe not. The mine, descénde priúsquam moriátur filius meus. Dicit ei Jesus: Vade, filius tuus vivit. Crédidit homo sermóni, quem dixit ei Jesus, et ibat. Jam autem eo descendénte, servi occurrérunt ei, et nuntiavérunt dicéntes, quia filíus ejus víveret. Interrogábat ergo horam ab eis, in qua mélius habúerit. Et dixérunt ei: Quia heri hora séptima relíquit eum febris. Cognóvit ergo pater, quia illa hora erat, in qua dixit illi Jesus: Fílius tuus vivit: et crédidit ipse, et domus ejus tota.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore : Erat quidam régulus, cujus fílius infirmabátur Caphárnaum. Hic cum audísset quia Jesus adveníret a Judaea in Galilaeam, ábiit ad eum, et rogábat eum ut descénderet, et sanáret fílium ejus : incipiébat enim mori. Dixit ergo Jesus ad eum : Nisi signa et prodígia vidéritis, non créditis. Dicit ad eum régulus : Dó-

ruler saith to Him, Lord, come down before that my son die. Jesus saith to him: Go thy way, thy son liveth. The man believed the word which Jesus said to him, and went his way. And as he was going down, his servants met him, and they brought word, saying, that his son lived. He asked, therefore, of them the hour wherein he grew better. And they said to him: Yesterday at the seventh hour the fever left him. The father, therefore, knew that it was at the same hour that Jesus said to him: Thy son liveth; and himself believed, and his whole house.

Offertory: Confitebúntur, p. 245.

Secréta. — Sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum, quaesumus, Dómine, Nérei, Achíllei, Domitíllae atque Pancrátii sit tibi grata conféssio: quae et múnera nostra comméndet, et tuam nobis indulgéntiam semper implóret. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—May, O Lord, the confession of Thy name by Thy holy martyrs Nereus, Achilleus, Domitilla and Pancras, ever be grateful in Thy sight; for its sake may our offerings be approved; and may it ever plead with Thee in our behalf. Through our Lord.

Commúnio. — Gaudéte justi in Dómino, allelúia: rectos decet collaudátio, allelúia.

Communion. Ps. xxxii. 1.—Rejoice, ye just, in the Lord, alleluia: praise becometh the upright, alleluia.

Postcommúnio. — Quaesumus, Dómine: ut beatórum Mártyrum tuórum Nérei, Achíllei, Domitíllae atque Pancrátii deprecatiónibus, sacraménta sancta, quae súmpsimus, ad tuae nobis profíciant placatiónis augméntum. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — May the prayers of Thy blessed martyrs Nereus, Achilleus, Domitilla and Pancras, obtain for us, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that the sacraments we have received, more and more appease Thee in our regard. Through our Lord.

MAY 14.

St. Boniface, MARTYR.*—Simple.—Red vestments.

The victory of Jesus risen again and ascended to heaven extends to all the members of His mystical body, who, united to Him as the branches of the vine are to the stem, bear in Him abundance of fruit (Gospel). †

Arrested at Tarsus, Boniface " bore himself with much fortitude in presence of his torturers " (Epistle). They tore his body with iron hooks, they thrust pointed reeds under his nails, and poured molten lead into his mouth. He was beheaded at Tarsus on May 14, towards 275, under the Emperor Aurelian. His remains were brought to Rome and deposited on Mount Aventine, in the church which took his name.

Mass : Protexísti, p. 243, except:

Collect.—Grant us, O Almighty God, we beseech Thee, that the intercession of Thy holy martyr Boniface, whose feast-day we are keeping, may avail with Thee on our behalf. Through our Lord Orémus — Da, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui beáti Bonifátii Mártyris tui solémnia cólimus, ejus apud te intercessiónibus adjuvémur. Per Dóminum.

Secret : (3) Munéribus, p. 246.—Postcommunion : Refécti, p. 247.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009.

† This Gospel is part of the discourse of our Lord at the Last Supper, as are also the Gospels of the Sundays after Easter.

May 15.

St. John Baptist de la Salle, Confessor.*—Double.—White vestments.

Born at Rheims on April 30, 1651, of an illustrious family, St. John Baptist de la Salle made himself, from childhood, dear to all by the virtues of his soul, the gentleness of his nature and the keenness of his mind. He went to Paris to study theology at the Sorbonne. At 17 he was a Canon of the Cathedral. When he reached priesthood, he offered the Holy Sacrifice with fervent faith and intense love ; these never left him when he was at the altar. God had raised him " to give a Christian education to the poor and to confirm youths in the way of truth " (Collect). With this object in view he founded a new religious congregation which he called " Brothers of the Christian Schools " and which soon spread throughout the world.

Out of humility and out of love for poverty, he gave up his canonry and gave all he had to the poor (Epistle). " Inflamed with zeal for the salvation of souls, he spent himself during his whole life," says the Breviary, "for their greatest good." Assiduously treating himself with rigour, in fastings, flagellations and other austerities, he passed the night in prayer (Introit). Such was his manner of life, until, remarkable for every virtue, especially for his obedience, his zeal for the accomplishment of the divine will, his love and devotion towards the Apostolic See, and loaded with merits, he fell asleep in the Lord at Rouen on Good Friday, April 7, 1719, at the age of 68."

After striving to pass his life in the most humble duties, by serving Jesus in little children (Gospel), he was called to heaven by the divine Redeemer Whose glory he shares, and Who still blesses his work throughout the world.

" Let us burn with zeal like this saint to procure the glory of God by saving souls, so that we may share his reward in heaven " (Collect).

* See Historical Summary, p. 1016.

This Saint has a proper Mass, which is said in the Institutes of the Brothers of Christian Schools.

Mass: Os justi, p. 270, except:

Collect.—O God, Who didst raise up the holy confessor John Baptist, for the Christian education of the poor and for the strengthening of the steps of youth in the way of truth; whom, moreover, Thou hast made to be the father of a new family of Religious: grant us, we beseech Thee, helped by his prayers and example, to burn with zeal for Thy glory in the salvation of souls, and to become worthy of a share in his heavenly crown. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui ad christiánam páuperum eruditiónem, et ad juvéntam in via veritátis firmándam, sanctum Joánnem Baptístam Confessórem excitásti, et novam per eum in Ecclésia famíliam collegísti: concéde propítius; ut ejus intercessióne et exémplo, stúdio glóriae tuae in animárum salúte fervéntes, ejus in coelis corónae partícipes fíeri valeámus. Per Dóminum.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew xviii. 1-5.—At that time the disciples came to Jesus saying: Who thinkest Thou is the greater in the kingdom of Heaven? And Jesus calling unto Him a little child, set him in the midst of them and said: Amen, I say to you, unless you be converted and become as little children, you shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this little child, he is the greater in the kingdom of heaven. And he that shall receive one such little child in My name, receiveth Me.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Accessérunt discípuli ad Jesum, dicéntes: Quis, putas, major est in regno coelórum? Et ádvocans Jesus párvulum, státuit eum in médio eórum, et dixit: Amen dico vobis, nisi convérsi fuéritis, et efficiámini sicut párvuli, non intrábitis in regnum coelórum. Quicúmque ergo humiliáverit se sicut párvulus iste, hic est major in regno coelórum. Et qui suscéperit unum párvulum talem in nómine meo, me súscipit.

May 16.

St. Ubaldus, Bishop, Confessor.*—Semi-double.—White vestments.

Ubaldus, born at Gubbio in Umbria, received episcopal consecration (Introit, Epistle, Alleluia) and was obliged by Pope Honorius II. to take the government of that church (Communion).

* See Historical Summary, p. 1012.

After having, under the guidance of the Holy Ghost, by his charity and apostolic zeal, put to full advantage the talents which God had entrusted to him, he piously fell asleep and "entered into the joy of his Lord" (Gospel) on Whitsunday evening.

He died in 1160 and his body has remained intact up to our time. Let us ask of this Saint, to whom God gave special power against Satan, to preserve us from all the malice of the devil (Collect).

Mass: Státuit, p. 255, except:

Orémus. — Auxílium tuum nobis, Dómine, quaesumus, placátus impénde: et, intercessióne beáti Ubáldi Confessóris tui atque Pontíficis, contra omnis diáboli nequítias déxteram super nos tuae propitiatiónis exténde. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Graciously, O Lord, vouchsafe to come to our aid: and because of the prayer, in our behalf, of blessed Ubaldus, Thy confessor and bishop, save us from all the craft of the devil, stretching forth in our defence the right hand of Thy mercy. Through our Lord.

MAY 17.

St. Paschal Baylon, CONFESSOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

Born in the kingdom of Aragon in Spain, St. Paschal in his childhood tended flocks. At 20, he entered the Order of St. Francis where he became a model of the greatest austerity, of the most complete obedience and of the most perfect seraphic poverty (Epistle).

His meditation on the things of God (Introit) was so profound that he was absorbed into ecstasies of love. It gave him a knowledge of divine things which enabled him to speak about the most obscure mysteries of the faith. He was especially celebrated for his devotion to the Blessed Sacrament (Collect), and would spend hours in prayer before the tabernacle. Pope Leo XIII. declared him protector of all Eucharistic Congresses and works. Like " the servants who await the coming of their master " (Gospel), St. Paschal awaited the coming of Jesus at the exact hour he had foretold, May 17, 1592, on Whitsunday, the anniversary of his birth, and he ascended to heaven following the risen Christ.

Let us imitate the love of St. Paschal for the Eucharist " so that we may deserve to draw from this banquet the same abundance of graces which he found there " (Collect).

Mass: Os justi, p. 270, except:

Orémus.—Deus, qui beátum Paschálem Confessórem tuum mirífica erga córporis et sánguinis tui sacra mystéria dilectióne decorásti: concéde propí-

Collect.—O God, Who didst imbue blessed Paschal, Thy confessor, with wondrous love of the sacred mysteries of Thy body and blood: teach us, like him, to draw fatness of soul from this divine banquet. Who livest and reignest.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1012.

tius ; ut, quam ille ex hoc divíno convívio spíritus percépit pinguédinem, eámdem et nos percípere mereámur : Qui vivis.

May 18.

St. Venantius, Martyr.*—Double.—Red vestments.

The Church, anxious during this part of the Paschal Cycle to glorify God for the victory of His Son, "consecrates this day by the triumph of the blessed Martyr Venantius" (Collect). "Living in Jesus and Jesus in him, he bore much fruit" (Gospel), "and was persecuted in order that he should bear still more" (Ibid.).

Born at Camerino in Umbria, he was led at the age of fifteen before Antiochus, governor of the town under the Emperor Decius. He was made to suffer cruel torments, but Angels came and assisted him. "His tormentors were touched with repentance by his constancy" (Epistle) and many were converted. He was beheaded towards 250. His body lies at Camerino in the church dedicated to him.

"Let us honour the merits of St. Venantius and imitate the constancy of his faith" (Collect).

In P.T. Mass : Protexísti, p. 243, except :

Collect.—O God, Who hast hallowed this day by the triumph of Thy blessed martyr Venantius : graciously listen to the prayers of Thy people, and grant that we who seek to do honour to his merit, may learn from him to be steadfast in the faith. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui hunc diem beáti Venántii Mártyris tui triúmpho consecrásti : exáudi preces pópuli tui, et praesta ; ut, qui ejus mérita venerámur, fidei constántiam imitémur. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—May the merits of blessed Venantius render, O Almighty God, this our oblation well-pleasing in Thy sight : may we be helped by his prayers, and may we one day be called to share in his glory. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Hanc oblatiónem, omnípotens Deus, beáti Venántii mérita tibi reddant accéptam : ut, ipsíus subsídiis adjúti, glóriae ejus consórtes efficiámur. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Most humbly we entreat of Thee, O Lord, that the prayers of blessed Venantius, Thy martyr, may Postcommúnio.—Súmpsimus, Dómine, aetérnae vitae sacraménta, te humíliter deprecántes : ut, beáto Venántio Márty-

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008.

re tuo pro nobis deprecánte, véniam nobis concílient, et grátiam. Per Dóminum.

avail to win for us Thy forgiveness and favour, whom Thou hast fed with the sacrament of life everlasting. Through our Lord.

Out of P.T.: Mass: In virtúte, p. 222, with Collects above.

MAY 19.

St. Peter Celestine, POPE, CONFESSOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

Among all the pastors to whom Jesus, risen again, committed the care of His Church, St. Peter Celestine is the one who most particularly shows forth the virtue of humility, the foundation of all holiness † according to St. Benedict, his father in God. Born in 1221, he retired into the desert when hardly adolescent (Gospel), and his virtues soon drew disciples around him. Such was the origin of the branch of the Benedictine Order known since under the name of Celestines, from the name which St. Peter took when he became Pope.

At the age of seventy-two, he was dragged out of his sweet solitude, received full sacerdotal power (Introit, Epistle) and occupied the chair of St. Peter (Communion), which had been vacant 27 months. Raised to this eminent dignity, he thought himself incapable of bearing such a burden and " placing humility above that elevation " (Collect), he voluntarily descended from the pontifical throne. He ended his days in contemplation, which his soul craved for, and died on May 19, in 1296.

Following the example of St. Peter Celestine, let us despise the honours of this world, in order happily to attain possession of the rewards promised to the humble (Collect).

Mass: Státuit, p. 255, except:

Orémus — Deus, qui beátum Petrum Coelestínum ad summi pontificátus ápicem sublimásti quique illum humilitáti postpónere docuísti: concéde propítius; ut ejus exémplo cuncta mundi despícere, et ad promíssa humílibus praemia perveníre felíciter mereámur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who wast pleased to raise blessed Peter Celestine to the supreme Pontificate, and nevertheless, didst teach him to set before that highest of earthly dignities the practising of the virtue of humility: make us, we beseech Thee, following his example, to care not at all for the high things of this world, and thereby to ensure for ourselves, the reward Thou hast promised to the humble of heart. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of St. Pudentiana, by the Collects of the Mass: Dilexísti, p. 291.

Gospel: Ecce nos relíquimus, p. 278.

* Historical Summary, p. 1013. † Rule of St. Benedict: Chap. 7.

THE SAME DAY.

Commemoration of St. Pudentiana, VIRGIN.*

St. Pudentiana, in this part of the Cycle, participates in the triumph of Christ over the devil, the flesh and the world. The daughter of Pudens, a Roman senator, she and her sister, Praxedes, consecrated their virginity to Jesus. At the death of her father she distributed all her riches to the poor, in agreement with her sister, and she was barely sixteen years old when she was martyred under the Emperor Antoninus. Her remains rest in her house which she had converted into a church. Her grandfather had received St. Peter there and she had placed it at the disposal of Pope Pius I., who celebrated the Holy Mysteries there during the persecution. This is the sanctuary of St. Pudentiana, where the Station of the Tuesday in the Third Week in Lent is held.†

Mass: Dilexísti, p. 291.

MAY 20.

St. Bernardine of Sienna, CONFESSOR.‡—Semi-double.—White vestments.

At this season of the year, when Jesus by His triumph has realised His name of Saviour, the Cycle celebrates the Feast of St. Bernardine who was consumed "by the very ardent love of this divine name" (Collect).

Born of a noble family of Sienna, St. Bernardine renounced all his possessions. He kept his chastity intact, in spite of the dangers which his handsome features exposed him to. The Church applies to him the words of Holy Scripture: "He had it in his power to violate the commandment of God, and he did not violate it" (Epistle). "Not placing his hope in money and treasures" (Ibid.) he left all, to follow Christ (Gospel), and entered the Order of St. Francis, one of whose glories he is. Travelling through towns and villages, everywhere he preached the name of Jesus (Collect) and thereby wrought many miracles.

St. Peter Celestine appeared to him to warn him of his approaching end which came on Ascension Eve, in 1444.

Let us ask God to grant us, through the intercession and merits of St. Bernardine, a great love for the name of Jesus and thereby to kindle in us the flame of divine charity (Collect).

Mass: Os justi, p. 270, except:

Collect.—O Lord Jesus, Who didst imbue blessed Bernardine, Thy confessor, with wondrous love of Thy name: moved by Orémus. — Dómine Jesu, qui beáto Bernardíno, Confessóri tuo, exímium sancti nóminis tui amórem tribuísti: ejus, quae-

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008.
† See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, G d. 37. The name of Title was bestowed in the first centuries of the Church to places in Rome where the Christians met.
‡ See Historical Summary, p. 1014.

sumus, méritis et intercessióne, spíritum nobis tuae dilectiónis benígnus infúnde: Qui vivis.

his merits and prayers, graciously pour forth, we beseech Thee, into our hearts, the spirit of love of Thee. Who livest and reignest.

Gospel: Ecce nos relínquimus, p. 278.

MAY 25.

St. Gregory VII., POPE, CONFESSOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

Born at Soana in Tuscany, Hildebrand became a monk in the famous Benedictine monastery of Cluny, on which, at the time, depended 2,000 Abbeys. He soon became Prior, and was later elected Abbot of the Monastery of St. Paul beyond the Walls, and made a Cardinal of the Roman Church. At the death of Alexander II, he was elected Pope and took the name of Gregory VII. Thus entrusted with the government of the house of God (Gospel, Communion), he participated in the full priesthood of Jesus (Introit, Epistle).

At a time when the bishops, mostly simoniacal, were the dependents of lay princes, he strove with such constancy to defend the liberty of the Church (Collect) that, as we are assured, no Pontiff since the time of the Apostles undertook more labours for her or fought more courageously for her independence.

While he was saying Mass, a dove was seen to come down on him: the Holy Ghost thereby bore witness of the supernatural views that guided him in the government of the Church. Forced to leave Rome, he died at Salerno in 1085, saying those words, the first of which are from Ps. xliv.: "I have loved justice and have hated iniquity: that is why I die in exile."

Following the example of St. Gregory, let us overcome with courage all adversities (Collect).

Mass: Státuit, p. 255, except:

Orémus.—Deus, in te sperántium fortitúdo, qui beátum Gregórium, Confessórem tuum atque Pontíficem, pro tuénda Ecclésiae libertáte, virtúte constántiae roborásti: da nobis, ejus exémplo et intercessióne, ómnia adversántia fórtiter superáre. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, the strength of them that put their trust in Thee, Who for the defence of the liberty of Thy Church didst endue blessed Gregory, Thy confessor and bishop, with the virtue of steadfastness: grant that, helped by his prayers and example, we, too, may bravely overcome whatsoever stands between us and Thee. Through our Lord.

Gospel: Vigiláte, p. 261

* See Historical Summary, p. 1912.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Urban I., POPE, MARTYR.*

It was Pope Urban who baptised Valerian, spouse of St. Cecilia, Tiburtius, brother of Valerian, and Maximus, their gaoler, whom we honoured on April 14. St. Urban was martyred in 230.

Mass : Protexisti, p. 243, except:

Collect.—Grant, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, that the intercession of Thy holy martyr and bishop Urban, whose feast-day we are keeping, avail with Thee on our behalf. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Da, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui beáti Urbáni Martyris tui atque Pontíficis solémnia cólimus, ejus apud te intercessiónibus, adjuvémur. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—May this sacred Victim, O Lord, cleanse us from our sins: and may it hallow Thy servants, to the worthier offering up of the same divine sacrifice. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Haec hóstia, Dómine, quaesumus, emúndet nostra delícta: et ad sacrifícium celebrándum, subditórum tibi córpora, mentésque sanctíficet. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Our strength renewed from having shared in Thy sacred gift, we beseech Thee, O Lord our God, that through the intercession of blessed Urban, Thy martyr and bishop, we may ever feel the mighty power of the sacrament we worship. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Refécti participatióne múneris sacri, quaesumus, Dómine Deus noster: ut, cujus exséquimur cultem, intercedénte beáto Urbáno, Mártyre tuo atque Pontífice, sentiámus efféctum. Per Dóminum.

MAY 26.

St. Philip Neri, CONFESSOR.†—Double.—White vestments.

St. Philip, born at Florence in the sixteenth century, left everything to serve the divine Master (Gospel), and founded the Congregation of the Oratory.

The Holy Ghost had inflamed him with such love for God (Introit, Alleluia, Secret), that the palpitations of his heart broke two of his ribs (Communion).

He would spend whole nights in the contemplation of heavenly things, and the Spirit of Truth " taught him true wisdom " (Epistle). His conversations with Jesus filled him with such intense joy that he exclaimed: " Enough, Lord, enough ! "

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007. † Ibid., p. 1015.

He loved young men: "Amuse yourselves," he said to them, "but do not offend God."

He died in 1595 on the feast of Corpus Christi.

Like St. Philip, with our hearts full of a holy and loving joy, let us run in the way of the commandments of God (Collect).

MASS.

Introitus. — Cáritas Dei diffúsa est in córdibus nostris, per inhabitántem Spíritum ejus in nobis. (T.P. Allelúia, allelúia.) Ps. Bénedic ánima mea Dómino: et ómnia quae intra me sunt, nómini sancto ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. — Rom. v. 5. The charity of God is poured forth in our hearts, by His Spirit dwelling within us (P.T. Alleluia, alleluia). Ps. cii. 1. Bless the Lord, O my soul; and let all that is within me bless His holy name. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui beátum Philíppum Confessórem tuum Sanctórum tuórum glória sublimásti: concéde propítius; ut cujus solemnitáte laetámur, ejus virtútum proficiámus exémplo. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God; Who hast numbered blessed Philip, Thy confessor, with Thy saints in glory: vouchsafe, we beseech Thee, to us who, with rejoicing, keep his feast-day, to profit by the manifold examples of virtue he has left us. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of St. Eleutherius: Infirmitátem, p. 216.

Epistola. Léctio libri Sapiéntiae. — OPTAVI, et datus est mihi sensus: et invocávi, et venit in me spíritus sapiéntiae: et praepósui illam regnis et sédibus, et divítias nihil esse duxi in comparatióne illíus: nec comparávi illi lápidem pretiósum: quóniam omne aurum in comparatióne illíus, aréna est exígua, et tamquam lutum aestimábitur argéntum in conspéctu illíus. Super salútem et spéciem diléxi illam, et propósui pro luce habére illam: quóniam inexstinguíbile est lumen illíus. Venérunt autem mihi ómnia bona páriter cum illa, et innumerábilis honéstas

Epistle. Lesson from the Book of Wisdom. Wisd. of Sol. vii. 7-14.—I WISHED, and understanding was given me; and I called, and the spirit of wisdom came upon me; and I preferred her before kingdoms and thrones, and esteemed riches nothing in comparison of her. Neither did I compare unto her any precious stone, for all gold in comparison of her is as a little sand, and silver in respect to her shall be counted as clay. I loved her above health and beauty, and chose to have her instead of light, for her light cannot be put out. Now all good things came to me together with her, and innumerable riches through her hands. And I rejoiced in them all; for this wisdom went before me, and I knew not that she was the mother of them all: which I have learned without guile, and communicate without envy, and her riches I hide not; for she is an infinite treasure to men, which they that use become the friends of God, being commended for the gifts of discipline.

per manus illíus, et laetátus sum in ómnibus: quóniam antecedébat me ista sapiéntia et ignorábam quóniam horum ómnium mater est. Quam sine fictióne dídici, et sine invídia commúnico, et honestátem illíus non abscóndo. Infinítus enim thesáurus est homínibus quo qui usi sunt, partícipes facti sunt,amicítiae Dei,propter disciplínae dona commendáti.

Gradual. Ps. xxxiii. 12, 6.—Come, children, hearken to me: I will teach you the fear of the Lord. ℣. Come ye to Him, and be enlightened: and your faces shall not be confounded.

Graduále. — Veníte, fílii, audíte me: timórem Dómini docébo vos. ℣. Accédite ad eum, et illuminámini: et fácies vestrae non confundéntur.

Alleluia, alleluia. Lam. i. 13.—℣. From above He hath sent a fire into my bones, and hath instructed me. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. De excélso misit ignem in óssibus meis, et erudívit me. Allelúia.

In Paschal Time, in place of the Gradual, is said:

℣. Ps. xxxviii. 4. My heart grew hot within me, and in my meditation a fire shall flame out. Alleluia.

℣. Concáluit cor meum intra me: et in meditatióne mea exardéscet ignis. Allelúia.

Gospel: Sint lumbi, p. 272.

Offertory. Ps. cxviii. 32.—I have run the way of Thy commandments, when Thou didst enlarge my heart. (P.T. alleluia.)

Offertórium. — Viam mandatórum, tuórum cucúrri cum dilatásti cor meum. (T.P. Allelúia.)

Secret.—Mercifully regard, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the sacrifice laid upon Thine altar: and may the Holy Ghost enkindle within us that same sacred fire which, in wondrous wise, utterly consumed St. Philip's heart. Through our Lord . . . in the unity of the same.

Secréta. — Sacrifíciis praeséntibus, quaesumus, Dómine, inténde placátus: et praesta; ut illo nos igne Spíritus Sanctus inflámmet, quo beáti Philíppi cor mirabíliter penetrávit. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

Commemoration of St. Eleutherius: Múnera, p. 221.

Commúnio.—Cor meum et caro mea exsultavérunt, in Deum vivum. (T.P. Allelúia.)

Communion. Ps. lxxxiii. 3.—My heart and my flesh have rejoiced in the living God. (P.T. Alleluia.)

Postcommúnio. — Coeléstibus, Dómine, pasti delíciis: quaesumus; ut beáti Philíppi Confessóris tui méritis et imitatióne, semper éadem, per quae verácitcr vívimus, appetámus. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—Thou hast filled our hearts, O Lord, with the delights of heaven: may the merits and example of blessed Philip, Thy confessor, make us ever to hunger for that food which alone is the true bread of life. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of St. Eleutherius: Haec nos, p. 221.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Eleutherius, POPE, MARTYR.*

St. Eleutherius governed the Church during the period that followed the persecution of the Emperor Commodus. Faith, at the time, made great progress in the whole world. After a pontificate lasting fifteen years, he died in 185 and was buried in the Vatican Mount near the body of St. Peter.

Mass: In Paschal Time: Protexísti, p. 243. Collects of the preceding Mass.—Out of Paschal Time: Státuit, p. 255.

MAY 27.

St. Bede, The Venerable, CONFESSOR, DOCTOR.†—Double.—White vestments.

Born at Yarrow in Northumberland, Bede was committed, as a child, to St. Benedict Biscop, Abbot of the Benedictine monastery at Wearmouth, and became, himself, a son of the great Patriarch of the Monks of the West.

The Holy Ghost filled him with wisdom and intelligence (Introit), wherefore his writings, penetrated by holy doctrine (Epistle), were read aloud in the churches, even in his lifetime. As it was not permissible to call him Saint, he was called "The Venerable," a title he kept after his death. He was one of the most learned Churchmen in the VIII. century and his name is found among those of the Doctors of the Church.

Not satisfied with teaching men the Law and the Prophets, he also practised the most beautiful virtues (Gospel). On the Eve of the Ascension he received the Last Sacraments, embraced his brethren, lay down on the ground upon his hair-cloth, said: Glory be to the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost, and fell asleep in the Lord on May 27, in 735.

Let us honour Bede, the holy Doctor, that we may always be enlightened by his wisdom and helped by his merits (Collect).

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007. † Ibid., p. 1010.

Mass: In médio, p. 263, except:

Collect.—O God, Who by the learning of blessed Bede, Thy confessor and doctor, hast covered Thy church with glory: to us Thy servants mercifully vouchsafe that his wisdom be a guiding light, and his merits a help to salvation. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui Ecclésiam tuam beáti Bedae Confessóris tui atque Doctóris eruditióne claríficas: concéde propítius fámulis tuis; ejus semper illustrári sapiéntia et méritis adjuvári. Per Dóminum.

THE SAME DAY.

St. John I., POPE, MARTYR.*

Pope St. John I. (525-526) governed the Church at the time when the Arian King Theodoric ravaged Italy. This king, having artfully enticed him to Ravenna, caused him to be thrown into a dark dungeon where he died. His body was buried at Rome, in the Basilica of St. Peter.

Mass: In P.T., Protexísti, p. 243.—Out of P.T., Sacerdótes, p. 219, with Collects as above.

MAY 28.

St. Augustine of Canterbury, ARCHBISHOP, CONFESSOR.†—Double.—White vestments.

The Cycle celebrates to-day the feast of another son of St. Benedict, who, filled with the Holy Ghost, like the Apostles, was sent to Great Britain by St. Gregory (596), with 40 monks of his community, in order to convert to Christ the people of that country (Collect).

Wherefore the Gospel recalls the seventy-two disciples whom Jesus sent to preach the kingdom of God, and the Epistle alludes to the apostolate of St. Paul who was busy night and day preaching the Gospel of God.

Received by King Ethelbert, at Canterbury, the capital of his kingdom, Augustine built a monastery there and later on established there his episcopal seat (Introit). The example of his life, added to his preaching and miracles, brought the King over to the true faith, and St. Augustine baptised over ten thousand Englishmen one Christmas Day. He died in 604.

Let us ask God through the intercession of St. Augustine to bring back erring hearts to the unity of Christian truth (Collect).

Mass: Sacerdótes tui, p. 259, except:

Collect.—O God, Who, by means of the preaching and miracle-working of blessed Au-

Orémus. — Deus, qui Anglórum gentes praedicatióne et miráculis beáti Augustíni Con-

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010. † Ibid., p. 1011.

fessóris tui atque Pontíficis, verae fídei luce illustráre dignátus es : concéde ; ut, ipso interveniénte, errántium corda ad veritátis tuae rédeant unitátem, et nos in tua simus voluntáte concórdes. Per Dóminum.

gustine, Thy confessor and bishop, didst vouchsafe to enlighten the English people with the light of the true faith: moved by his prayers, vouchsafe that the hearts of them that yet wander, may return to Thy truth, which is one, and that we ourselves be of one mind in the doing of Thy will. Through our Lord.

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Thessalonicénses. —FRATRES : Fidúciam habúimus in Deo nostro loqui ad vos Evangélium Dei in multa sollicitúdine. Exhortátio enim nostra non de erróre, neque de immundítia, neque in dolo, sed sicut probáti sumus a Deo, ut crederétur nobis Evangélium : ita lóquimur, non quasi homínibus placéntes, sed Deo qui probat corda nostra. Neque enim aliquándo fúimus in sermóne adulatiónis, sicut scitis : neque in occasióne avarítiae : Deus testis est : nec quaeréntes ab homínibus glóriam, neque a vobis, neque ab áliis ; cum possémus vobis óneri esse ut Christi Apóstoli ; sed facti sumus párvuli in médio vestrum, tamquam si nutrix fóveat fílios suos. Ita desiderántes vos, cúpide volebámus trádere vobis non solum Evangélium Dei, sed étiam ánimas nostras : quóniam caríssimi nobis facti estis. Mémores enim estis, fratres, labóris nostri, et fatigatiónis : nocte ac die operántes, ne quem vestrum gravarémus, praedicávimus in vobis Evangélium Dei.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Thessalonians. 1 Thess. 2-9.—BRETHREN, we had confidence in our God to speak unto you the gospel of God in much carefulness. For our exhortation was not of error, nor of uncleanness, nor in deceit. But, as we were approved by God that the gospel should be committed to us, even so we speak, not as pleasing men, but God, Who proveth our hearts. For neither have we used at any time the speech of flattery, as you know ; nor taken an occasion of covetousness, God is witness : nor sought we glory of men, neither of you, nor of others. Whereas we might have been burdensome to you, as the Apostles of Christ : but we became little ones in the midst of you, as if a nurse should cherish her children : so desirous of you we would gladly impart unto you not only the gospel of God, but also our own souls ; because you were become most dear unto us. For, you remember, brethren, our labour and toil : working night and day lest we should be chargeable to any of you, we preached unto you the gospel of God.

Gospel: Designávit, p. 1346.

Secret.—Very humbly, O Lord, on this the festival day of blessed Augustine, Thy confessor and bishop, we offer up our sacrifice to Thee: beseeching that those sheep which have been lost, may once more be gathered into the one fold, to be quickened by this saving food. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Sacrifícium tibi offérimus, Dómine, in solemnitáte beáti Augustíni Pontíficis et Confessóris tui, humíliter deprecántes: ut oves, quae periérunt, ad unum ovíle revérsae, hoc salutári pábulo nutriántur. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Comforted through our having partaken of this life-giving Victim, most humbly, O Lord, we entreat of Thee, that listening to the prayers of blessed Augustine, Thy confessor and bishop, Thou bring about that in every place, day by day, this same Victim be offered up to the glory of Thy name. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio.—Hóstia salutári refécti: te, Dómine, súpplices exorámus; ut eádem, beáti Augustíni interveniénte suffrágio, in omni loco nómini tuo júgiter immolétur. Per Dóminum.

MAY 29.

St. Mary Magdalen dei Pazzi, VIRGIN.*—Semi-double.— White vestments.

Born at Florence (1566) of the illustrious Pazzi family, St. Mary Magdalen, at the age of 10, consecrated her virginity to Christ, Whom she chose as her spouse (Epistle, Gospel, Communion). Wherefore God loved her with a love of preference (Introit), and made her one of the virgins who form His court of honour (Offertory).

She took the Carmelite habit (1584) and subjected herself to frightful mortifications. The Holy Ghost, Who, from heaven, sent Jesus risen again to her, inflamed her with such love that she had to pour fresh water on her burning breast.

She would bitterly deplore that the infidels and sinners were in the way to perdition and offered to endure any torments for their salvation.

Her motto was "Suffer and not die." She died in 1607 and her body which she mortified in every way has remained incorrupt to our day.

Mass: Dilexísti, p. 291, except:

Collect.—O God, the lover of chastity, Who wast pleased to enkindle in the heart of blessed

Orémus.—Deus, virginitátis amátor, qui beátam Maríam Magdalénam Vírginem, tuo

* See Historical Summary, p. 1016.

amóre succénsum, coeléstibus donis decorásti: da; ut, quam festíva celebritáte venerámur, puritáte et caritáte imitémur. Per Dóminum.

Mary Magdalen, the virgin, a fierce fire of love for Thee, and to endow her, moreover, with heavenly gifts: we beseech Thee, enable us, who keep this feast-day in her honour, to strive after a purity and charity like unto hers. Through our Lord.

MAY 30.

St. Felix, POPE, MARTYR.*—Simple.—Red vestments.

St. Felix ascended in 269 the throne of Peter to whom Jesus before His Ascension had committed His Church. He commanded Masses to be celebrated over the tombs of martyrs, and it is in remembrance of this prescription that the relics of martyrs are placed in a small cavity of the altar stone, called tomb. The altar, nowadays, has indeed often the shape of a tomb, this being a relic of the "Confession" or underground tomb which is found under the High Altar in Roman basilicas, which is reached by stairs. The custom of uniting the remembrance of martyrs to the sacrifice of the Mass or of Calvary, shows that these martyrs, having entered into the bosom of Jesus (Gospel), have found there the strength to confess their faith before their enemies and the grace of being children of the Father (Epistle).

St. Felix bore witness to Christ in 274, under the persecution of Aurelian.

Mass: In Paschal Time, Protexísti, p. 243, with Collects of Mass: Státuit, p. 215. (Out of Paschal Time, Mass: Státuit, p. 255.)

MAY 31

St. Angela Merici, VIRGIN.†—Double.—White vestments.

Born at Desenzano, on the Lake of Garda, of pious parents, Angela, from her childhood, ever tried to please Jesus, the Spouse of her soul (Epistle, Gospel, Communion). She adopted the rule of the Third Order of St. Francis and united evangelical poverty to the merit of virginity. She "loved justice and hated iniquity" (Introit) and subjected her body to the severest austerities to atone for the sins of the world. "The disorders of society," she used to say, "are caused by those in families; there are few Christian mothers, because the education of young girls is neglected." In consequence of a vision she successfully formed, in 1535, in the Church, a new society of holy virgins (Collect). Its object being the Christian education of youth, she placed it under the patronage of St Ursula, the chief of an army of virgins. She died in 1540 at Brescia with the name of Jesus on her lips.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007. † Ibid., p. 1015.

Mass: Dilexísti, p. 291, except:

Collect.—O God, Who didst will that blessed Angela should plant, to bring forth flowers in Thy church, a new society of consecrated virgins: grant that, through her intercession, we, too, may live a life guileless as that of the Angels, and by detaching our hearts from the love of the things of earth, be accounted worthy of eternal happiness. Through our Lord.

Orémus.—Deus, qui novum per beátam Angelam sacrárum vírginum collégium in Ecclésia tua doréscere voluísti; da nobis, ejus intercessióne, angélicis móribus vívere; ut, terrénis ómnibus abdicátis, gáudiis pérfrui mereámur aetérnis. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of St. Petronilla, by the Collects of the Mass: Dilexísti, p. 291.

Secret.—May the sacrifice, O Lord, which we offer Thee in remembrance of blessed Angela, both implore for us the pardon of our iniquity, and procure for us the gifts of Thy grace. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Hóstia, Dómine, quam tibi beátae Angelae memóriam recoléntes offérimus, et nostrae pravitátis véniam implóret, et grátiae tuae nobis dona concíliet. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Refreshed with heavenly food, we suppliantly beseech Thee, O Lord, that by the prayers and example of blessed Angela, being cleansed from all sin, we may be pleasing to Thee both in body and mind. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio.—Coeléstì alimónia refécti, súpplices te, Dómine, deprecámur: ut beátae Angelae précibus et exémplo, ab omni labe mundáti et córpore tibi placeámus et mente. Per Dóminum.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Petronilla, VIRGIN.*

Aurelia Petronilla was the spiritual daughter of the prince of the Apostles in the first century. God delivered her, by sudden death, from the snares laid to imperil her virginity. Her body rests in the Basilica of St. Peter who had taught her the faith. It was near the tomb of St. Petronilla that the daughter of Pepin le Bref was baptised in Rome, and she has always been specially honoured by the kings of France.

Mass: Vultum túum, p. 294.—Collects, from Mass: Dilexísti, p. 291.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008.

FEASTS OF JUNE.

JUNE 2.

SS. Marcellinus, Peter and Erasmus, BISHOPS, MARTYRS.*

Simple.—Red vestments.

The exorcist Peter, sent to prison under the Emperor Diocletian, converted his gaoler and all his family, and brought them to the priest Marcellinus who baptised them. The judge Serenus ordered them both to appear before him and they bore witness to Jesus Christ (Gospel). They were condemned to death and, after atrocious torments, were beheaded, towards 303.

Possessing the first fruits of the Holy Ghost, they awaited with sighs the adoption of the children of God and their sufferings nowise compared with the glory which now shines forth in them (Epistle). Both Saints are mentioned in the Canon of the Mass (second list, p. 65). We have already seen that the Station of the Saturday in the Second Week of Lent is held in the church dedicated to them.†

St. Erasmus, bishop, one of the "fourteen auxiliary Saints,"‡ lived in the solitudes of Lebanon. Cruelly martyred in Campania under the Emperors Diocletian and Maximian, he obtained in 303 the glorious palm of martyrdom. St. Benedict had a great devotion towards St. Erasmus. He is invoked for internal diseases.

Let us follow with fervour the examples of courage and fortitude of these Holy Martyrs, whose merits are our joy (Collect).

MASS.

Intróitus. — Clamavérunt justi, et Dóminus exaudívit eos: et ex ómnibus tribulatiónibus eórum liberávit eos. Ps. Benedícam Dóminum in omni témpore: semper laus ejus in ore meo. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. xxxiii. 18.—The just cried, and the Lord heard them: and delivered them out of all their troubles. Ibid. 2 I will bless the Lord at all times: His praise shall be ever in my mouth. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus.—Deus, qui nos ánnua sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Marcellíni, Petri atque Erásmi solemnitáte laetíficas: praesta, quaesumus; ut, quorum gaudémus méritis, accendámur exémplis. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who givest us joy in the annual solemnity of Thy blessed martyrs, Marcellinus, Peter and Erasmus: grant, we beseech Thee, that we may be animated by the examples of those in whose merits we rejoice. Through our Lord.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009.
† See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, G t 24.
‡ See Engraving, July 25, feast of St. Christopher.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Romans viii. 18-23.—BRETHREN, I reckon that the sufferings of this time are not worthy to be compared with the glory to come, that shall be revealed in us. For the expectation of the creature waiteth for the revelation of the sons of God. For the creature was made subject to vanity, not willingly, but by reason of Him that made it subject in hope; because the creature also itself shall be delivered from the servitude of corruption, into the liberty of the glory of the children of God. For we know that every creature groaneth, and travaileth in pain, even till now; and not only it, but ourselves also, who have the first fruits of the spirit, even we ourselves groan within ourselves, waiting for the adoption of the sons of God, the redemption of our body.

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli apóstoli ad Romános.—FRATRES: Non sunt condígnae passiónes hujus témporis ad futúram glóriam, quae revelábitur in nobis. Nam expectátio creatúrae revelatiónem filiórum Dei exspéctat. Vanitáti enim creatúra subjécta est non volens, sed propter eum, qui subjécit eam in spe: quia et ipsa creatúra liberábitur a servitúte corruptiónis, in libertátem glóriae filiórum Dei. Scimus enim quod omnis creatúra ingemíscit, et párturit usque adhuc. Non solum autem illa, sed et nos ipsi primítias spíritus habéntes: et ipsi intra nos gémimus adoptiónem filiórum Dei exspectántes, redemptiónem córporis nostri.

Gradual. Ps. xxxiii. 18, 19.—The just cried, and the Lord heard them, and delivered them out of all their troubles. ℣ The Lord is nigh unto them that are of a contrite heart: and He will save the humble of spirit.

Graduále. — Clamavérunt justi, et Dóminus exaudívit eos: et ex ómnibus tribulatiónibus eórum liberávit eos. ℣. Juxta est Dóminus his, qui tribuláto sunt corde: et húmiles spíritu salvábit.

Alleluia, alleluia.—℣. I have chosen you out of the world, that ye should go, and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should endure. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Ego vos elégi de mundo, ut eátis et fructum afferátis; et fructus vester máneat. Allelúia.

Gospel: Cum audiéritis, p. 234.

Offertory. Ps. xxxi. 11.—Be glad in the Lord, and rejoice ye just; and glory all ye right heart.

Offertórium. — Laetámini in Dómino, et exultáte justi: et gloriámini omnes recti corde.

Secréta.—Haec hóstia, quaesumus, Dómine, quam sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum natalítia recenséntes offérimus: et víncula nostrae pravitátis absólvat, et tuae nobis misericórdiae dona concíliet. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—May this sacred Victim, O Lord, which we offer up in celebration of the natal day of Thy holy martyrs, be to us an assurance both of Thy pardon and of the continuance of Thy gracious favours. Through our Lord.

Commúnio. — Justórum ánimae in manu Dei sunt, et non tanget illos torméntum malítiae: visi sunt óculis insipiéntium mori: illi autem sunt in pace.

Communion. Wisd. of Sol. iii. 1, 2, 3.—The souls of the just are in the hand of God, and the torment of malice shall not touch them: in the sight of the unwise they seemed to die, but they are in peace.

Postcommúnio. — Sacro múnere satiáti, súpplices te, Dómine, deprecámur: ut quod débitae servitútis celebrámus officio, salvatiónis tuae sentiámus augméntum. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Filled with Thy sacred gifts, we beseech Thee, O Lord, to suffer us to look upon our having thus been permitted dutifully to minister to Thee, as an assurance of our growth in Thy grace. Through our Lord.

In Paschal Time, Mass: Sancti tui, p. 249, with Collects and Epistle as before. The Gradual is omitted, and after the first verse of the Alleluia, is said:

℣. Pretiósa in conspéctu Dómini mors sanctórum ejus. Allelúia.

℣. Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of His saints. Alleluia.

JUNE 4.

St. Francis Caracciolo, CONFESSOR*—Double—White vestments.

Francis, of the noble family of Caracciolo, in the Abruzzi, determined, during a severe illness, to devote himself entirely to the service of God, so as to be ready when the Master should come to take him away (Gospel).

A letter delivered to him by mistake apprised him of a project of two pious men to found a new religious institute. In this he saw a providential sign and he became one of the founders of the Order of Minor Clerks regular.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1916.

At his profession he took the name of Francis on account of his devotion to St. Francis of Assisi. To the love of penance he added a great zeal for prayer (Collect). Burning with love for the Blessed Sacrament, his heart melted like wax when he was in the presence of the Tabernacle (Introit); for there he felt the overflowing sweetness prepared by God for those who fear Him (Communion). He died at the age of forty, in 1608, on the Vigil of Corpus Christi, and "although his life was short, he completed a long course, for a spotless life is equivalent to protracted years." (Epistle).

Following St. Francis' example, let us pray and reduce our bodies to subjection (Collect) so that, burning like him with the fire of charity, we may worthily kneel at the sacred table (Secret).

MASS.

Introit. Ps. xxi. 15, 68, 10.—My heart is become like wax melting in the midst of my bowels: for the zeal of Thy house hath eaten me up. (P.T. Alleluia, alleluia.) Ps. lxxii. 1. How good is God to Israel: to them that are of a right heart. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus.—Factum est cor meum tamquam cera liquéscens in médio ventris mei: quóniam zelus domus tuae comédit me. (T.P. Allelúia, allelúia). Ps. Quam bonus Israël Deus: his, qui recto sunt corde. ℣. Glória Patri Collect.—O God, Who didst adorn blessed Francis, the institutor of a new order, with a desire of prayer and a love of penance; grant Thy servants to make such progress by imitating him, that, praying always, and bringing their bodies into subjection, they may deserve to arrive at heavenly glory. Through our Lord.

Orémus.—Deus, qui beátum Francíscum, novi órdinis institutórem, orándi stúdio et poeniténtiae amóre decorásti: da fámulis tuis in ejus imitatióne ita profícere; ut, semper orántes et corpus in servitútem redigéntes, ad coeléstem glóriam perveníre mereántur. Per Dóminum.

Epistle. Lesson from the Book of Wisdom. Wisd. of Sol. iv. 7-14.—THE just man, if he be prevented with death, shall be in rest. For venerable age is not that of long time, nor counted by the number of years; but the understanding of a man is grey hairs. And a spotless life is old age. He pleased God and was beloved, and living

Epístola.—Léctio libri Sapiéntiae.—JUSTUS, si morte praeoccupátus fúerit, in refrigério erit. Senéctus enim venerábilis est non diutúrna, neque annórum número computáta: cani autem sunt sensus hóminis, et aetas senectútis vita immaculáta. Placens Deo factus est diléctus, et vivens inter peccatóres translátus est. Raptus est ne malítia mutáret intelléctum ejus, aut ne fíctio decíperet ánimam illíus. Fascinátio enim nugacitátis obscúrat bona, et inconstántia concupiscéntiae transvértit sensum sine malítia. Consummátus in brevi explévit témpora multa, plácita enim erat Deo ánima illíus: propter hoc properávit edúcere illum de médio iniquitátum.

among sinners he was translated. He was taken away lest wickedness should alter his understanding, or deceit beguile his soul. For the bewitching of vanity obscureth good things, and the wandering of concupiscence overturneth the innocent mind. Being made perfect in a short space, he fulfilled a long time. For his soul pleased God: therefore He hastened to bring him out of the midst of iniquities.

Graduále. — Quemádmodum desíderat cervus ad fontes aquárum: ita desíderat ánima mea ad te, Deus. ℣. Sitívit ánima mea ad Deum fortem vivum.

Gradual. Ps. xli. 2.—As the hart panteth after the fountains of waters, so my soul panteth after Thee, O God. ℣. Ibid. 3. My soul hath thirsted after the strong living God.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Defécit caro mea, et cor meum: Deus cordis mei, et pars mea Deus in aetérnum. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. lxxii. 26. —℣. My flesh and my heart hath fainted away: Thou art the God that is my portion for ever. Alleluia.

In Paschal Time, in place of the Gradual is said:

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Beátus quem elegísti, et assumpsísti: inhabitávit in átriis tuis.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. lxiv 5.—℣. Blessed is he whom Thou hast chosen and taken to Thee, he shall dwell in Thy courts.

Allelúia.—℣. Dispérsit, dedit paupéribus: justítia ejus manet in saeculum saeculi. Allelúia.

Alleluia. Ps. cxi. 9.—℣. He hath distributed, He hath given to the poor, His justice remaineth for ever and ever Alleluia.

Gospel: Sint lumbi vestri, p. 272.

Offertórium. — Justus ut palma florébit; sicut cedrus Líbani multiplicábitur. (T.P. Allelúia.)

Offertory. Ps. xci. 13.—The just man shall flourish like the palm-tree: he shall grow up like the cedar of Libanus.

Secret. — Enkindle in our hearts, O most merciful Jesus, that fire of love which burned in the heart of blessed Francis, to whose glorious merits we are striving to do honour : and thereby make us worthy to kneel around Thy sacred table. Who livest and reignest.

Secréta. — Da nobis, clementíssime Jesu : ut praeclára beáti Francísci mérita recoléntes, eódem nos, ac ille, caritátis igne succénsi, digne in circúitu sacrae hujus mensae tuae esse valeámus : Qui vivis.

Communion. Ps. xxx. 20.—O how great is the multitude of Thy sweetness, O Lord, which Thou hast hidden from them that fear Thee! (P.T. Alleluia.)

Commúnio.—Quam magna multitúdo dulcédinis tuae, Dómine, quam abscondísti timéntibus te! (T.P. Allelúia.)

Postcommunion. — May we ever, O Lord, thankfully call to mind, and ever more and more profit by the divine sacrifice we have offered up to Thy majesty on this day, consecrated to the memory of Francis Thy saint. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio — Sacrosáncti sacrifícii, quaesumus, Dómine, quod hódie in solemnitáte beáti Francísci tuae obtúlimus majestáti, grata semper in méntibus nostris memória persevéret, et fructus. Per Dóminum.

JUNE 5.

St. Boniface, BISHOP, MARTYR.*—Double.—Red vestments.

St. Boniface was born in England at the end of the seventh century. He is one of the great glories of the Order of St. Benedict. Gregory II. sent him to Germany where, with a select band of monks, he announced the Good News, as Jesus risen had commanded His Apostles to do, to the people of Hesse, Saxony and Thuringia (Collect).

Made a legate of the Apostolic See by Gregory II., he called together several synods, among which was the famous Council of Leptines in the diocese of Cambrai. Appointed Archbishop of Mainz by Pope Zachary, he, by his order, anointed Pepin, King of the Franks.

After the death of St. Willibrord, the Church of Utrecht in Frisia was committed to his care. The Frisians massacred him at Dokkum with thirty of his monks, in June 755. His body was buried in the celebrated Abbey of Fulda which he had founded.

MASS.

Introit. Isa. lxv. 19, 23.— I will rejoice in Jerusalem, and joy in My people, and the voice

Intróitus. — Exsultábo in Jerúsalem, et gaudébo in pópulo meo : et non audiétur in eo

* See Historical Summary, p. 1011.

ultra vox fletus et vox clamóris. Elécti mei non laborábunt frustra, neque generábunt in conturbatióne: quia semen benedictórum Dómini est, et nepótes eórum cum eis. (T.P. Allelúia, allelúia). Ps. Deus, áuribus nostris audívimus: patres nostri narravérunt opus, quod operátus es in diébus eórum ℣. Glória Patri.

of weeping shall no more be heard in her, nor the voice of crying. My elect shall not labour in vain, nor bring forth in trouble: for they are the seed of the blessed of the Lord, and their posterity with them. (P.T. Alleluia, alleluia.) Ps. xliii. 2. We have heard, O God, with our ears: our fathers have declared to us the work Thou hast wrought in their days. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui multitúdinem populórum, beáti Bonifátii Mártyris tui atque Pontíficis zelo, ad agnitiónem tui nóminis vocáre dignátus es: concéde propítius; ut, cujus solémnia cólimus, étiam patrocínia sentiámus. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who didst vouchsafe by the zeal of blessed Boniface, Thy martyr and bishop, to call a great multitude of peoples to the knowledge of Thy name; enable us, we beseech Thee, who keep this festival day in his honour, to profit by his prayers in our behalf. Through our Lord.

Epistola. Léctio libri Sapiéntiae.—Laudémus viros glorιósos, et paréntes nostros in generatióne sua. Multam glóriam fecit Dóminus magnificéntia, sua a saeculo. Dominántes in potestátibus suis, hómines magni virtúte, et prudéntia sua praediti, nuntiántes in prophétis dignitátem prophetárum, et imperántes in praesénti pópulo, et virtúte prudéntiae pópulis sanctíssima verba. In perítia sua requiréntes modos músicos, et narrántes cármina scripturárum. Hómines dívites in virtúte, pulchritúdinis stúdium habéntes: pacificántes in dómibus suis. Omnes isti in generatiónibus gentis suae glóriam adépti sunt, et in diébus suis Epistle. Lesson from the Book of Ecclesiasticus xliv. 1-15.—LET us praise men of renown and our fathers in their generation. The Lord hath wrought great glory through His magnificence from the beginning. Such as have borne rule in their dominions, men of great power, and endued with their wisdom, showing forth in the prophets: and ruling over the present people, and by the strength of wisdom instructing the people in most holy words. Such as by their skill sought out musical tones, and published canticles of the scriptures. Rich men in virtue, studying beautifulness, living at peace in their houses. All these have gained glory in their generations, and were praised in their days. They that were born of them have left a name behind them, that their praises might be related: and there are some, of whom there is no memorial: who are perished, as if they had never been: and are born, as if they had never been born, and their children with them. But these were men of mercy, whose godly deeds have not failed: good things continue with their seed; their posterity are a holy inheritance, and their seed hath stood in the covenants. And their children for their sakes remain for ever: their seed and their glory shall not be forsaken. Their bodies are buried in peace, and their name liveth unto generation and generation. Let the people show forth their wisdom, and the church declare their praise.

habéntur in láudibus. Qui de illis nati sunt, reliquérunt nomen narrándi laudes eórum. Et sunt quorum non est memória: periérunt quasi qui non fúerint: et nati sunt, quasi non nati, et fílii ipsórum cum ipsis. Sed illi viri misericórdiae sunt, quorum pietátes non defuérunt: cum sémine eórum pérmanent bona, heréditas sancta nepótes eórum, et in testaméntis stetit semen eórum: et fílii eórum propter illos usque in aetérnum manent: semen eórum et glória eórum non derelinquétur. Córpora ipsórum in pace sepúlta sunt, et nomen eórum vivit in generatiónem et generatiónem. Sapiéntiam ipsorum narrent pópuli, et laudem eórum núntiet Ecclésia.

Gradual. 1 Pet. iv. 13, 14.—Partaking of the sufferings of Christ rejoice, that when His glory shall be revealed, you may also be glad with exceeding joy. ℣. If you be reproached for the name of Christ, you shall be blessed: for that which is of the honour, glory and power of God, and that which is His spirit resteth upon you.

Graduále. — Communicántes Christi passiónibus gaudéte, ut in revelatióne glóriae ejus gaudeátis exsultántes. ℣. Si exprobrámini in nómine Christi, beáti éritis: quóniam quod est honóris, glóriae, et virtútis Dei, et qui est ejus Spíritus, super vos requiéscet.

Alleluia, alleluia. Isa. lxvi. 12. —℣. I will bring upon him as it were a river of peace, and as an overflowing torrent the glory. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Declinábo super eum quasi flúvium pacis, et quasi torréntem inundántem glóriam. Allelúia.

In Paschal Time, in place of the Gradual is said.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ibid. lxvi. 10, 14.—℣. Rejoice with Jerusa-

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Laetámini cum Jerúsalem, et exsultâte in ea omnes, qui dilígitis Dóminum.

Allelúia. ℣. Vidébitis, et gaudébit cor vestrum : cognoscétur manus Dómini in servis ejus. Allelúia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore : Videns Jesus turbas, ascéndit in montem, et cum sedísset accessérunt ad eum discípuli ejus, et apériens os suum docébat eos, dicens : Beáti páuperes spíritu : quóniam ipsórum est regnum coelórum. Beáti mites : quóniam ipsi possidébunt terram. Beáti qui lugent : quóniam ipsi consolabúntur. Beáti qui esúriunt et sítiunt justítiam : quóniam ipsi saturabúntur. Beáti misericórdes : quóniam ipsi misericórdiam consequéntur. Beáti mundo corde : quóniam ipsi Deum vidébunt. Beáti pacífici : quóniam fílii Dei vocabúntur. Beáti qui persecutiónem patiúntur propter justítiam : quóniam ipsórum est regnum coelórum. Beáti estis cum maledíxerint vobis, et persecúti vos fúerint, et díxerint omne malum advérsum vos, mentiéntes, propter me : gaudéte, et exultáte, quóniam merces vestra copiósa est in coelis.—Credo.

Offertórium. — Benedícam Dóminum, qui tríbuit mihi intelléctum : providébam Deum in conspéctu meo semper, quóniam a dextris est mihi ne commóvear. (T.P. Allelúia.)

lem, and be glad with her, all you that love the Lord.

Alleluia.—℣. You shall see, and your heart shall rejoice : the hand of the Lord shall be known to His servants. Alleluia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew v. 1-12.—At that time Jesus seeing the multitudes, went up into a mountain ; and when He was sat down, His disciples came unto Him. And opening His mouth, He taught them, saying : Blessed are the poor in spirit ; for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are the meek ; for they shall possess the land. Blessed are they that mourn ; for they shall be comforted. Blessed are they that hunger and thirst after justice : for they shall have their fill. Blessed are the clean of heart ; for they shall see God. Blessed are the peace-makers ; for they shall be called the children of God. Blessed are they that suffer persecution for justice sake ; for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are ye when they shall revile you, and persecute you, and speak all that is evil against you, untruly, for My sake : be glad and rejoice, for your reward is very great in heaven.—Credo.

Offertory. Ps. xv. 7, 8.—I will bless the Lord Who hath given me understanding : I set the Lord always in my sight ; for He is at my right hand, that I be not moved. (P.T. Alleluia.)

Secret. — May, we beseech Thee, O Lord, Thine abundant blessing come down upon this our sacrifice: may that blessing in Thy mercy, work out our sanctification, and make us to recall with rejoicing of heart this feast of St. Boniface, Thy martyr and bishop. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Super has hóstias, Dómine, quaesumus, benedíctio copiósa descéndat: quae et sanctificatiónem nostram misericórditer operétur: et de sancti Bonifátii Mártyris tui atque Pontíficis fáciat solenmitáte gaudére. Per Dóminum.

Communion. Apoc. iii. 21.— To him that shall overcome, I will give to sit with Me in My throne: as I also have overcome, and am set down with My Father in His throne. (P.T. Alleluia.)

Commúnio.—Qui vícerit, dabo ei sedére mecum in throno meo: sicut et ego vici, et sedi cum Patre meo in throno ejus. (T.P. Allelúia.)

Postcommunion. — Thou hast sanctified us, O Lord, by this mystery of salvation: let not, we beseech Thee, at any time fail us the intercession of St. Boniface, Thy martyr and bishop, whom, in Thy goodness, Thou hast set over us to be our advocate in heaven. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio.—Sanctificáti, Dómine, salutári mystério: quaesumus; ut nobis sancti Bonifátii Mártyris tui atque Pontíficis pia non desit orátio, cujus nos donásti patrocínio gubernári. Per Dóminum.

June 6.

St. Norbert, Bishop, Confessor.*—Double.—White vestments.

Norbert, born in 1080 at Xanten near Cologne, was educated at the Emperor's Court. One day when he was riding accompanied by a servant, he was surprised by a hurricane. Like St. Paul, on the way to Damascus, he heard a voice calling him to the service of the Church. At this moment a crash of thunder threw him to the ground. He got up again, determined to consecrate himself to God. Having been admitted to holy orders, he devoted himself entirely to preaching the word of God (Collect).

Later on, guided by the Holy Ghost, Who continually sanctifies the Church through the centuries, he chose a retreat in a deserted spot, called Prémontré, not far from Soissons, and founded there the Order which bears this name (Collect). At the death of this holy Founder, this new family numbered at this place alone over one thousand Canons regular. St. Norbert shared the full priesthood of Christ, being anointed Archbishop of Magdeburg (Introit, Epistle, Gradual, Offertory). He helped Pope Innocent II. to triumph over the anti-pope Anacletus and was the friend of St. Bernard.

After having put to full profit the talents with which God had entrusted him for the government of his religious family and diocese (Gospel, Communion), "This man of God," says the breviary, "full of the Holy Ghost and laden with merits, fell asleep in the Lord, A.D. 1134."

Let us ask of God "to practise what St. Norbert taught by word and by example" (Collect).

Mass: Státuit, p. 255, except:

Orémus.—Deus, qui beátum Norbértum, Confessórem tuum atque Pontíficem, verbi tui

Collect.—O God, Who didst raise up blessed Norbert, Thy confessor and bishop, to be a powerful preacher of Thy word, and through him didst bestow fresh spiritual offspring upon Thy church: for the sake of his merits, grant, we beseech Thee, that Thy grace may strengthen us to put in practice the lessons he, both by word and by work, has taught us. Through our Lord.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1012.

praecónem exímium effecísti, et per eum Ecclésiam tuam nova prole fecundásti: praesta, quaesumus; ut, ejúsdem suffragántibus méritis, quod ore simul et ópere dócuit, te adjuvánte, exercére, valeámus. Per Dóminum.

JUNE 9.

SS. Primus and Felician, MARTYRS.*—Simple.—Red vestments.

Primus and Felician were Romans. Brothers by blood, they became brothers still more when, having been called to bear much fruit (Offertory), they confessed their faith in Jesus Christ. Accused and arrested under Diocletian and Maximian, they were, in spite of their great age, cast into prison.

The Holy Ghost filled them "with His virtue and His strength" (Offertory). Giving them the breast-plate of justice and the impenetrable shield of equity (Epistle), He made them experience how sweet is the yoke of the Lord, which they had taken upon themselves, and how light is His burden (Gospel).

The constancy of Felician was first put to the test. Nailed by his hands and feet to the trunk of a tree, he remained hanging there for three days, without eating or drinking. They then tried to make his brother believe that he had sacrificed to the idols, but Primus declared that he knew Felician was happy in the midst of his sufferings and that he would remain united to him in martyrdom. "This is," as the Alleluia sings, "the true brotherhood which has triumphed over the criminal world." The pretor then ordered that molten lead should be poured into his mouth, in presence of his brother.

They were led to the amphitheatre, but the lions who were to devour them crouched at their feet. So they were beheaded (286).

Their names live as centuries roll on (Introit), for they have received in heaven, from the hand of the Lord, a kingdom of glory and a crown of sparkling beauty (Epistle).

Let us join, in heart, the faithful of Rome who, on this day, honour the precious remains of these two martyrs at the Church of St. Stephen on Mount Coelius.†

Out of Paschal Time, Mass: Sapiéntiam, p. 235, except:

Collect.—Make us, we beseech Thee, O Lord, ever to keep in a worthy manner, the feast of Orémus.—Fac nos, quaesumus, Dómine, sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Primi et Felici-

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009.
† See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, G f 12.

áni semper festa sectári: quorum suffrágiis protectiónis tuae dona sentiámus. Per Dóminum.

Thy holy martyrs Primus and Felician: and may their loving intercession enable us to feel, that Thy compassionate hand is at all times stretched out to protect us. Through our Lord.

Graduále. — Confitebúntur coeli mirabília tua, Dómine: étenim veritátem tuam in Ecclésia sanctórum. ℣. Misericórdias tuas, Dómine, in aetérnum cantábo, in generatióne et progénie.

Gradual. Ps. lxxxviii. 6, 2.—The heavens shall confess Thy wonders, O Lord, and Thy truth in the church of the saints. ℣. Thy mercy, O Lord, I will sing for ever, to generation and generation.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Haec est vera fratérnitas, quae vicit mundi crímina: Christum secúta, est, inclyta tenens regna coeléstia. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia.—This is the true brotherhood which overcame the wickedness of the world; it followed Christ, attaining the noble kingdom of heaven. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Respóndens Jesus, dixit: Confíteor tibi, Pater, Dómine coeli et terrae, quia abscóndisti haec a sapiéntibus et prudéntibus, et revelásti ea párvulis. Ita Pater: quóniam sic fuit plácitum ante te. Omnia mihi trádita sunt a Patre meo. Et nemo novit Fílium, nisi Pater: neque Patrem quis novit, nisi Fílius, et cui volúerit Fílius reveláre. Veníte ad me omnes, qui laborátis, et oneráti estis, et ego refíciam vos. Tóllite jugum meum super vos, et díscite a me, quia mitis sum, et húmilis corde: et inveniétis réquiem animábus vestris. Jugum enim meum suáve est, et onus meum leve.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew xi. 25-30.—At that time, Jesus answered, and said: I praise Thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because Thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them to little ones. Yea, Father; for so it hath seemed good in Thy sight. All things are delivered to Me by My Father; and no one knoweth the Son, but the Father; neither doth anyone know the Father, but the Son, and he to whom it shall please the Son to reveal Him. Come to Me, all you that labour, and are burdened; and I will refresh you. Take up My yoke upon you, and learn of Me, because I am meek, and humble of heart; and you shall find rest to your souls; for My yoke is sweet and My burden light.

Offertory. Ps. lxvii. 36.—God is wonderful in His saints: the God of Israel is He Who will give power and strength to His people, blessed be God. Alleluia.

Offertórium.—Mirábilis Deus in sanctis suis: Deus Israël, ipse dabit virtútem, et fortitúdinem plebi suae: benedíctus Deus, allelúia.

Secret.—May the sacrifice, O Lord, which we are about to offer up in memory of the precious death of Thy holy martyrs, appease Thy wrath; may it wash away our sins, and may it lead Thee to listen graciously to the prayers of Thy servants. Through our Lord.

Secréta.— Fiat tibi, quaesumus, Dómine, hóstia sacránda placábilis, pretiósi celebritáte martyrii quae et peccáta nostra puríficet, et tuórum tibi vota concíliet famulórum. Per Dóminum.

Communion. John xv. 16.—I have chosen you out of the world, that you should go, and should bring forth fruit, and your fruit should remain.

Commúnio. — Ego vos elégi de mundo, ut eátis, et fructum afferátis; et fructus vester máneat.

Postcommunion. — O Almighty God, we beseech Thee, that our having had part in Thy heavenly mysteries, on this solemn festival of Thy holy martyrs, Primus and Felician, may be to us an assurance of Thy merciful forgiveness. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Primi et Feliciáni coeléstibus mystériis celebráta solémnitas, indulgéntiam nobis tuae propitiatiónis acquírat. Per Dóminum.

In Paschal Time, Mass: Sancti tui, p. 249, with Collects and Gospel as above.

The Gradual is omitted. The Alleluia is said and as second verse:

℣. The white-robed army of martyrs praiseth Thee, O Lord. Alleluia.

℣. Te Mártyrum candidátus laudat exércitus, Dómine. Allelúia.

JUNE 10.

St. Margaret, QUEEN OF SCOTLAND.*—Semi-double.—White vestments.

Margaret, Queen of Scotland, was descended from the English kings by her father and from the Caesars by her mother. Like the prudent woman, mentioned in the Epistle, the practice of Christian virtues made her still more illustrious.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1012.

Filled with the fear of God (Introit), she subjected herself to fearful mortifications and by her example she brought the King, her husband, to a better life and her subjects to more Christian morals. She brought up her eight children with such piety that several of them led a life of high perfection. Nothing, however, was more admirable in her than her ardent charity towards her neighbour (Collect). She was called the mother of orphans and the treasurer of the poor of Jesus Christ. Such was the price at which she bought the precious pearl of the Kingdom of Heaven (Gospel).

Purified by six months of bodily suffering, she gave up her soul to God in 1093 at Edinburgh. The holiness of her life and numerous miracles wrought after her death have made her worship celebrated in the whole world. She was chosen by Clement X. as patron of the Scottish nation over which she had reigned for thirty years.

Let us admire the work of the Holy Ghost in the soul of the holy queen whom He chose for the furtherance of Christ's Kingdom in Scotland and let us invoke her for the return of Scotland to Roman unity.

Mass: Cognóvi, p. 304, except:

Orémus. — Deus, qui beátam Margarítam regínam exímia in páuperes caritáte mirábilem effecísti: da; ut ejus intercessióne et exémplo, tua in córdibus nostris cáritas júgiter augeátur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who didst imbue the blessed Queen Margaret with a spirit of singular charity in regard to Thy poor: grant that, through her prayers and example, in our hearts likewise Thy charity may more and more deeply take root. Through our Lord.

June 11.

St. Barnabas, Apostle.*—Greater-double.—Red vestments.

The Church, founded by Jesus and filled with the Holy Ghost at Pentecost, was to spread throughout the world. When St. Paul, after his long retreat in Arabia, came to Jerusalem for the first time after his conversion, and wished to submit to the approval of Peter the mission to the Gentiles committed to him by the Master Himself, it was St. Barnabas who presented him to the Apostles.

"A good man and full of the Holy Ghost" (Epistle) St. Barnabas evangelised, during twelve years, with St. Paul, the pagans in the island of Cyprus and in a great number of towns and countries (Gradual). Wherefore the Church honours him as an Apostle and the liturgy applies to him the words of Jesus announcing to the twelve that having been established as princes over the whole earth (Offertory), they would be seated on thrones to judge the twelve tribes of Israel (Communion). Having separated from St. Paul, he returned to Cyprus where the Jews of Salamis plotted against him. Remembering then the words of the Master Who sent His Apostles like sheep in the midst of wolves (Gospel), he said to the faithful: "The wolf only attacks the shepherd first to throw himself next upon the flock. Be firm in the faith." The Holy Ghost dictated to him the words he had to say to the Jews (Gospel); but they stoned him as a blasphemer. He was buried with the Gospel of St. Matthew which he had copied with his own hand. His name is mentioned in the Canon of the Mass immediately after that of St. Mathias (second list, p. 65).*

* See Historical Summary, p. 1004.

Let us imitate the Apostolic spirit of St. Barnabas whose soul was all inflamed with the ardours of the Holy Ghost.

MASS.

Introit. Ps. cxxxviii. 17.—To me Thy friends, O God, are made exceedingly honourable; their principality is exceedingly strengthened. Ibid. i. 2. Lord, Thou hast proved me, and known me: Thou hast known my sitting down and my rising up. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus. — Mihi autem nimis honoráti sunt amíci tui, Deus: nimis confortátus est principátus eórum. Ps. Dómine, probásti me, et cognovísti me, tu cognovísti sessiónem meam, et resurrectiónem meam. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—O God, Who givest us joy by the merits and intercession of blessed Barnabas, Thy apostle, mercifully grant that we, who beg blessings of Thee through him, may obtain them by the gift of Thy grace. Through our Lord.

Orémus.—Deus, qui nos beáti Bárnabae Apóstoli tui méritis et intercessióne laetíficas: concéde propítius; ut, qui tua per eum benefícia póscimus, dono tuae grátiae consequámur. Per Dóminum.

Epistle. Lesson from the Acts of the Apostles xi. 21-26, xiii. 1-3.—In those days, a great number of believers at Antioch were converted to the Lord; and the tidings came to the ears of the Church that was at Jerusalem touching these things, and they sent Barnabas as far as Antioch: who, when

Epistola. Léctio Actuum Apostolórum.—In diébus illis: Multus númerus credéntium Antiochíae convérsus est ad Dóminum. Pervénit autem sermo ad aures ecclésiae, quae erat Jerosólymis, super istis: et misérunt Bárnabam usque ad Antiochíam. Qui cum perveníssèt, et vidísset

* In the "Communicantes" figure eleven of the apostles chosen by our Lord Himself and St. Paul whom the Church does not separate from St. Peter.—St. Mathias and St. Barnabas are mentioned at the "nobis quoque peccatoribus" because they were called to the Apostleship after the death of the Saviour. There are then altogether fourteen apostles mentioned in the two places, just as during the year there are feasts of fourteen apostles.

grátiam Dei, gavísus est: et hortabátur omnes in propósito cordis permanére in Dómino: quia erat vir bonus, et plenus Spíritu Sancto, et fide. Et appósita est multa turba Dómino. Proféctus est autem Bárnabas Tarsum, ut quaereret Saulum: quem cum invenísset, perdúxit Antiochíam. Et annum totum conversáti sunt ibi in ecclésia: et docuérunt turbam multam, ita ut cognominaréntur primum Antiochíae discípuli, Christiáni. Erant autem in ecclésia, quae erat Antiochíae, prophétae et doctóres, in quibus Bárnabis et Simon, qui vocabátur Niger, et Lúcius Cyrenénsis, et Mánahen, qui erat Heródis Tetrárchae collactáneus, et Saulus. Ministrántibus autem illis Dómino, et jejunántibus, dixit illis Spíritus Sanctus: Segregáte mihi Saulum, et Bárnabam in opus, ad quod assúmpsi eos. Tunc jejunántes et orántes, imponentésque eis manus, dimsiérunt illos.

he was come, and had seen the grace of God, rejoiced: and he exhorted them all with purpose of heart to continue in the Lord: for he was a good man, and full of the Holy Ghost and of faith. And a great multitude was added to the Lord. And Barnabas went to Tarsus, to seek Saul; whom, when he had found, he brought to Antioch. And they conversed there in the Church a whole year; and they taught a great multitude; so that at Antioch the disciples were first named Christians. Now there were in the Church which was at Antioch, prophets and doctors, among whom was Barnabas, and Simon, who was called Niger, and Lucius of Cyrene, and Manahen, who was the foster-brother of Herod the Tetrarch, and Saul. And as they were ministering to the Lord, and fasting, the Holy Ghost said to them: Separate me Saul and Barnabas, for the work whereunto I have taken them. Then they fasting and praying, and imposing their hands upon them, sent them away.

Graduále.—In omnem terram exívit sonus eórum: et in fines orbis terrae verba eórum. ℣. Coeli enárrant glóriam Dei: et ópera mánuum ejus annúntiat firmaméntum.

Gradual. Ps. xviii. 5, 2.—Their sound went forth into all the earth; and their words to the ends of the world. ℣. The heavens show forth the glory of God; and the firmament declareth the work of His hands.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Ego vos elégi de mundo, ut eátis, et fructum afferátis, et fructus vester máneat. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. John xv. 16.—℣. I have chosen you out of the world, that you should go, and should bring forth fruit; and your fruit should remain. Alleluia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew x. 16-22.—AT that time, Jesus said to His disciples: Behold I send you as sheep in the midst of wolves. Be ye therefore wise as serpents, and simple as doves. But beware of men: for they will deliver you up in councils, and they will scourge you in their synagogues. And you shall be brought before governors, and before kings, for My sake, for a testimony to them and to the Gentiles. But when they shall deliver you up, take no thought how, or what, to speak; for it shall be given you in that hour what to speak: for it is not you that speak, but the Spirit of your Father that speaketh in you. The brother also shall deliver up the brother to death, and the father the son; and the children shall rise up against the parents, and shall put them to death; and you shall be hated by all men for My name's sake: but he that shall persevere to the end, he shall be saved.—Credo.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—IN illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Ecce ego mitto vos sicut oves in médio lupórum. Estóte ergo prudéntes sicut serpéntes, et símplices sicut colúmbae. Cavéte autem ab homínibus. Tradent enim vos in concíliis et in synagógis suis flagellábunt vos: et ad praesides, et ad reges ducémini propter me in testimónium illis, et géntibus. Cum autem tradent vos, nolíte cogitáre quómodo, aut quid loquámini: dábitur enim vobis in illa hora quid loquámini. Non enim vos estis qui loquímini, sed Spíritus Patris vestri, qui lóquitur in vobis. Tradet autem frater fratrem in mortem, et pater fílium: et insúrgent fílii in paréntes, et morte eos affícient: et éritis ódio ómnibus propter nómen meum: qui autem perseveráverit usque in finem, hic salvus erit.—Credo.

Offertory. Ps. xliv. 17, 18.—Thou shalt make them princes over all the earth: they shall remember Thy name, O Lord, throughout all generations.

Offertórium. — Constítues eos príncipes super omnem terram: mémores erunt nóminis tui, Dómine, in omni progénie et generatióne.

Secret.—Sanctify, O Lord, the gifts we offer, and by the intercession of blessed Barnabas, Thy apostle, cleanse us by them from the stains of our sins. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Múnera, Dómine, obláta sanctífica, et intercedénte beáto Bárnaba Apóstolo tuo, nos per haec a peccatórum nostrórum máculis emúnda. Per Dóminum.

Preface of the Apostles, p. 57.

Commúnio.—Vos, qui secúti estis me, sedébitis super sedes, judicántes duódecim tribus Israël.

Communion. Matt. xix. 28.—You, who have followed Me, shall sit on seats, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

Postcommúnio.—Súpplices te rogámus, omnípotens Deus : ut, quos tuis réficis sacraméntis, intercedénte beáto Bárnaba Apóstolo tuo, tibi étiam plácitis móribus dignánter tríbuas deservíre. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — We humbly beseech Thee, O Almighty God, that, by the intercession of blessed Barnabas, Thy apostle, Thou wouldst enable those to serve Thee worthily, whom Thou dost refresh by Thy sacraments. Through our Lord.

In Paschal Time, the Mass : Protexísti is said, p. 243, with Collects, Epistle and Gospel as above.

JUNE 12

St. John of St. Facundus, CONFESSOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

St. John was born at San Facondo in Spain and his youth was spent in a Benedictine monastery. Favoured by the Holy Ghost with a marvellous gift for peace-making (Collect), from childhood he exhorted other children to concord. During the civil war he preached for peace in Salamanca and succeeded in putting an end to factions there.

He distributed his rich revenues among the poor (Epistle) and devoted his time to works of charity, to prayer and to the contemplation of divine wisdom (Introit).

In order to be ready when the Master came to fetch him (Gospel) he entered the Order of St. Augustine, where he was distinguished for his extraordinary devotion during Holy Mass. He died in 1470, crying out : " Lord, I place all my confidence in Thee at this last hour, and into Thy hands I commit my soul."

Let us ask the Holy Ghost, author of peace, and source of divine charity, to fill us with the love and spirit of reconciliation of which St. John gave us the example, so that we may never be separated from Jesus (Collect).

Mass : Os justi, p. 270, except:

Orémus.—Deus, auctor pacis et amátor caritátis, qui beátum Joánnem Confessórem tuum mirífica dissidéntes componéndi grátia decorásti : ejus méritis et intercessióne concéde ; ut, in

Collect.—O God, the author of peace, and lover of charity, Who didst adorn blessed John, Thy confessor, with a wonderful grace for reconciling those at variance ; grant by his merits and intercession, that, being established in Thy charity, we may not by any temptations be separated from Thee. Through our Lord.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1014.

tua caritáte firmáti, nullis a te tentatiónibus separémur. Per Dóminum.

THE SAME DAY.

SS. Basilides, Cyrinus, Nabor and Nazarius, MARTYRS.*

These Saints, Roman soldiers, noble by birth and illustrious by their virtues, became Christians under Diocletian. Arrested and cast into prison, they were condemned to death and beheaded. Their bodies were thrown to the wild beasts who respected them, and were buried with honour by the Christians.

Mass : Intret, p. 232.

Collect.—May, O Lord, our keeping this festival in honour of the natal-day of Thy holy martyrs, Basilides, Cyrinus, Nabor and Nazarius, shed brightness on our lives : and may such high place in glory as their unfailing excellence won for them, be to us the reward of the devout service we pay Thee. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Basílidis, Cyríni, Náboris atque Nazárii, quaesumus, Dómine, natalítia nobis votíva respléndeant : et, quod illis cóntulit excelléntia sempitérna, frúctibus nostrae devotiónis accréscat. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—We venerate, O Lord, this day, the blood shed by Thy holy martyrs ; and in their honour we offer up this solemn sacrifice in which are rehearsed the miracles of Thy grace, by which so great a victory was won. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Pro sanctórum tuórum Basílidis, Cyríni, Náboris atque Nazárii sánguine venerándo, hóstias tibi, Dómine solémniter immolámus, tua mirabília pertractántes : per quem talis est perfécta victória. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Grant, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, that we who year by year keep the festival-day of Thy holy martyrs Basilides, Cyrinus, Nabor and Nazarius, may at all times profit by the prayers they put up to Thee on our behalf. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio.—Semper, Dómine sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Basílidis, Cyríni, Náboris atque Nazárii solémnia celebrántes : praesta, quaesumus ; ut eórum patrocínia júgiter sentiámus. Per Dóminum.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009.

JUNE 13.

St. Antony of Padua, CONFESSOR.—*Double.—White vestments.

" Always present and living in the Church, the Holy Ghost raised up, in the 13th century, the sons of Dominic and of Francis " writes Dom Guéranger. These new hosts, organised for new needs, threw themselves into the arena, pursuing heretics, thundering against vice, mixing with the people whom they enrolled in crowds in their third orders, the assured refuge of Christian life. Of all the sons of the patriarch of Assisi, the best known, the most powerful before God and men, is Antony, whose feast we are celebrating." †

Born at Lisbon, of noble parents, he despised all riches (Gospel). Full of the Holy Ghost, Who transformed the Apostles, he entered the religious host so as to be able to fight for the faith and to be ready when the Master came (Gospel).

Living a retired life in Tuscany, he gave himself up to divine contemplation (Introit); he then received the mission to preach the Gospel. The wisdom of his doctrine and his eloquence caused him to be called the Ark of the Testament and the Hammer of Heretics. A year before his death he came to Padua where, loaded with merits, he died at the age of thirty-five in 1231, and was established by Jesus over all His riches (Communion).

Remembering how Antony recovered, by divine intervention, a sacred book that had been stolen from him, let us ask this Saint not only to make us recover earthly and perishable things, but also to obtain for us the spiritual help by which we may deserve to enjoy eternal riches (Collect).

Mass : Os justi, p. 270, except:

Orémus. — Ecclésiam tuam, Deus, beáti Antónii Confessóris tui solémnitas votíva laetíficet: ut spirituálibus semper muniátur auxíliis, et gáudiis pérfrui mereátur aetérnis. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—May the votive solemnity of blessed Antony, Thy confessor, give joy to Thy Church, O God; that it may be ever defended by spiritual assistance, and deserve to possess eternal joys. Through our Lord.

Epistle : Spectáculum facti, p. 274.

After the Gradual, p. 267, in place of ℣. Beatus vir, is said:

℣. Amávit eum Dóminus, et ornávit eum: stolam glóriae induit eum. Allelúia.

℣. Ecclus. xlv. 9.—The Lord loved him, and adorned him: He clothed him with a robe of glory. Alleluia.

Secréta. — Praesens oblátio fiat, Dómine, pópulo tuo salutáris: pro quo dignátus es

Secret.—May this sacrifice, O Lord, avail Thy people unto salvation: since it is for their

* See Historical Summary, p. 1013. † Liturgical Year, June 13.

sake that Thou hast vouchsafed to offer Thyself to the Father, a living victim. Who, with the same God the Father and the Holy Ghost.

Patri tuo te vivéntem hóstiam immoláre: Qui cum eódem Deo Patre, et Spíritu sancto vivis et regnas Deus, per ómnia saecula saeculórum.

Postcommunion. — Being filled with divine gifts, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that by the merits and intercession of blessed Antony, Thy confessor, we may experience the effect of the salutary sacrifice. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio.—Divínis, Dómine, munéribus satiáti: quaesumus; ut beáti Antónii Confessóris tui méritis et intercessióne, salutáris sacrifícii sentiámus efféctum. Per Dóminum.

JUNE 14.

St. Basil the Great, Bishop, Confessor and Doctor.*—
Double.—White vestments.

St. Basil was born at Caesarea in Cappadocia. After having completed his studies at Constantinople and Athens with his intimate friend Gregory of Nazianzen, he renounced the world, left his family (Gospel), and embraced monastic life in the province of Pontus. Like full seasoned salt (Gospel), he gave to his teaching the full flavour of the Gospel and nourished with holy Truth the people of Caesarea committed to his care (Communion).

He was the author of the famous rule which bears his name; it was praised by St. Benedict and is still observed by the monks of the East. The Holy Ghost filled him with His divine wisdom and with intelligence (Introit): when, therefore, he wrote against those who rebelled against the sound doctrine (Epistle), he attacked the Arians, who denied the divinity of Jesus Christ and prepared the triumph of orthodoxy over the error of the Macedonians by firmly establishing the Catholic dogma regarding the Holy Ghost.

He is one of the four great Doctors of the East. He died in 379.

Let us ask St. Basil to fill us with his faith in the divinity of the third Person of the Holy Trinity, and to deliver us from sin (Offertory) which hinders the working of the Holy Ghost in our souls.

Mass: In médio, p. 263, except:

Collect.—Graciously hear, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the prayers we offer Thee on this festival-day of blessed Basil, Thy confessor and bishop: he deserved to render Thee a

Orémus.—Exáudi, quaesumus, Dómine, preces nostras, quas in beáti Basílii Confessóris tui atque Pontíficis solemnitáte deférimus: et, qui tibi digne méruit famulári, ejus interce-

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010.

déntibus méritis, ab ómnibus nos absólve peccátis. Per Dóminum.

worthy service; may his merits appeal to Thee to free us from all our sins. Through our Lord.

At the end of the Gradual : Os justi, in place of ℣. Amavit, is said:

℣. Invéni David servum meum, óleo sancto meo unxi eum. Allelúia.

℣. Ps. lxxxviii. 21.—I have found David My servant: with My holy oil I have anointed him. Alleluia.

Gospel: Si quis venit, p. 217, to which is added:

Bonum est sal. Si autem sal evanúerit, in quo condiétur? Neque in terram, neque in sterquilínium útile est, sed foras mittétur. Qui habet aures audiéndi, áudiat.—Credo.

Salt is good: but if the salt shall lose its savour, wherewith shall it be seasoned? It is neither profitable for the land, nor for the dunghill, but shall be cast out. He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.—Credo.

Offertórium.—Véritas mea, et misericórdia mea cum ipso: et in nómine meo exaltábitur cornu ejus.

Offertory. Ps. lxxxviii. 25.—My truth and My mercy shall be with him, and in My name shall his horn be exalted.

Secréta.—Sancti Basilíi Conféssóris tui atque Pontíficis, quaesumus, Dómine, ánnua solémnitas pietáti tuae nos reddat accéptos: ut, per haec piae placatiónis offícia, et illum beáta retribútio comitétur, et nobis grátiae tuae dona concíliet. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—May the festival we keep year by year in honour of blessed Basil, Thy confessor and bishop, make us pleasing, O Lord, to Thy loving kindness, and, by virtue of this devout service of propitiation, while assuring him his happy reward, obtain for us the gifts of Thy grace. Through our Lord

Commúnio.—Fidélis servus et prudens, quem constítuit dóminus super famíliam suam: ut det illis in témpore trítici mensúram.

Communion. Luke xii. 42.—A faithful and wise servant, whom the Lord hath set over His family, to give them their measure of wheat in due season.

Postcommúnio.—Deus, fidélium remunerátor animárum: praesta; ut beáti Basílii Conféssóris tui atque Pontíficis, Postcommunion. — O God, the rewarder of faithful souls, grant through the prayers of blessed Basil, Thy confessor and bishop, whose venerable feast-day we are celebrating, we may receive the pardon of our sins. Through our Lord.

cujus venerándam celebrámus festivitátem, précibus indulgéntiam consequámur. Per Dóminum.

June 15.

SS. Vitus, Modestus and Crescentia, Martyrs.*—Simple.—Red vestments.

Vitus, also called Guy, belonged to an illustrious Sicilian family. His father (unknown to whom he had been baptised), having delivered him to the judge Valerian to be scourged, was struck blind. The prayers of the Saint obtained his recovery but did not convert him. Vitus was then saved from his father's cruelty by Modestus, his tutor, and by Crescentia his nurse who took him to another part of the country. There his holiness became so famous that Diocletian had recourse to him to deliver his son tormented by the devil. Guy healed him (Gospel). But the ungrateful prince having failed to induce the Saint to worship the false gods, caused him to be arrested with Modestus and Crescentia. They were plunged into a caldron of molten lead and flaming resin and were then quartered. After having tested them like gold in the furnace (Epistle), God delivered them from all these sufferings (Introit) and rejoiced them by giving them a place of honour at the heavenly banquet (Gradual). They died in 303. St. Vitus is one of the fourteen auxiliary saints.†

Let us have recourse to St. Vitus, to be preserved from the bite of mad dogs and from the sad disease which bears his name. He will obtain for us great docility towards the Holy Ghost, in order that we do good in all liberty, humility and charity (Collect).

Mass: Introit, Multae tribulatiónes, p. 1445.

Collect.—Grant to Thy Church, we beseech Thee, O Lord, by the intercession of Thy holy martyrs, Vitus, Modestus and Crescentia, not to be proud-minded, but to make progress in Thy sight by pleasing humility; that despising what is evil, it may exercise with free charity the things which are right. Through our Lord.

Orémus.—Da Ecclésiae tuae, quaesumus, Dómine, sanctis Martyribus tuis Vito, Modésto atque Crescéntia intercedéntibus, supérbe non sápere, sed tibi plácita humilitáte profícere: ut, prava despíciens, quaecúmque recta sunt, líbera exérceat caritáte. Per Dóminum.

Epistle: Justórum ánimae, p. 233.

Gradual. Ps. cxlix. 5, 1.—The saints shall rejoice in glory:

Graduále. — Exsultábunt sancti in glória: laetabúntur in

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009.
† See Engraving, July 25, feast of St. Christopher.

cubílibus suis. ℣. Cantáte Dómino cánticum novum: laus ejus in ecclésia sanctórum.

they shall be joyful in their beds. ℣. Sing ye to the Lord a new canticle: let His praise be in the Church of the saints.

Allelúia, allelúia.— ℣. Sancti tui, Dómine, benedícent te: glóriam regni tui dicent. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. cxliv. 10, 11.— ℣. Thy saints shall bless Thee, O Lord, they shall speak of the glory of Thy kingdom. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Qui vos audit, me audit: et qui vos spernit, me spernit. Qui autem me spernit, spernit eum qui misit me. Revérsi sunt autem septuagínta duo cum gáudio, dicéntes: Dómine, étiam daemónia subjiciúntur nobis in nómine tuo. Et ait illis: Vidébam sátanam sicut fulgar de coelo cadéntem. Ecce dedi vobis potestátem calcándi supra serpéntes et scorpiónes, et super omnem virtútem inimíci: et nihil vobis nocébit. Verúmtamen in hoc nolíte gaudére, quia spíritus vobis subjiciúntur: gaudéte autem, quod nómina vestra scripta sunt in coelis.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke x. 16-20.—At that time, Jesus said to His disciples: He that heareth you, heareth Me; and he that despiseth you, despiseth Me; and he that despiseth Me, despiseth Him that sent Me. And the seventy-two returned with joy, saying: Lord, the devils also are subject to us in Thy name: and He said to them: I saw Satan like lightning falling from heaven. Behold, I have given you power to tread upon serpents, and scorpions, and upon all the power of the enemy: and nothing shall hurt you. But yet rejoice not in this, that spirits are subject to you; but rejoice in this, that your names are written in heaven.

Offertórium. — Mirábilis Deus in sanctis suis: Deus Israël ipse dabit virtútem et fortitúdinem plebis suae; benedíctus Deus.

Offertory. Ps. lxvii. 36.—God is wonderful in His saints, the God of Israel is He Who will give power and strength to His people: blessed be God.

Secréta. — Sicut glóriam divínae poténtiae múnera pro Sanctis obláta testántur: sic nobis efféctum, Dómine, tuae salvatiónis impéndant. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—The offering we lay before Thee, O Lord, in honour of Thy saints, bears witness to Thine Almighty power: may it ensure to us the happiness which it is Thine to bestow. Through our Lord.

Communion. Wisd. of Sol. iii. 1, 2, 3.—The souls of the just are in the hand of God, and the torment of malice shall not touch them: in the sight of the unwise they seemed to die; but they are in peace.

Commúnio. — Justórum ánimae in manu Dei sunt, et non tanget illos torméntum malítiae: visi sunt óculis insipiéntium mori: illi autem sunt in pace.

Postcommunion. — Thy solemn blessing, O Lord, now rests upon us. Through the prayers of Thy holy martyrs Vitus, Modestus and Crescentia, may the healing sacrament we have received avail us in body and in soul.

Postcommúnio. — Repléti, Dómine, benedictióne solémni: quaesumus; ut per intercessiónem sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Viti, Modésti et Crescéntiae, medicína sacraménti et corpóribus nostris prosit, et méntibus. Per Dóminum.

In Paschal Time, Mass: Sancti tui, p. 249, with Collects and Gospel as above.

JUNE 18.

St. Ephrem, DEACON, CONFESSOR, DOCTOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

St. Ephrem was born at Nisibis in Mesopotamia and was one of the lights of the Church (Gospel). His father, a pagan priest, cast him from his home. He then lived as a hermit in the desert and was ordained Deacon of Edessa (Communion). Led by the Holy Ghost to Caesarea in Cappadocia, he saw St. Basil there. In order to refute the numerous errors which were being spread by the prayers and canticles of the heretics, he wrote poems and Christian hymns, celebrating the mysteries of the lives of Christ, the Blessed Virgin and the Saints. That is why he is called "the harp of the Holy Ghost." He always had a great devotion to Our Lady. He died at Edessa in 379 under the Emperor Valens. Benedict XV. proclaimed him a Doctor of the universal Church (Collect).

Let us ask God, through the intercession of St. Ephrem, to defend His Church against the snares of error and perverseness (Collect).

Mass: In médio, p. 263, except:

Collect.—O God, Who hast willed to enlighten Thy Church by the wondrous learning and excellent merits of the life of blessed Ephrem Thy confessor and doctor: we suppliantly beseech Thee that at his inter-

Orémus. — Deus, qui Ecclésiam tuam beati Ephraem Confessóris tui et Doctóris mira eruditióne et praecláris vitae méritis illustráre voluísti: te súpplices exorámus; ut, ipso intercédente, eam advérsus

* See Historical Summary, p. 1017.

errória et pravitátis insídias perénni tua virtúte deféndas. Per Dóminum.

cession Thou mayest defend it by Thine everlasting power against the snares of error and wickedness. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of SS. Mark and Marcellianus, from the next Mass.

THE SAME DAY.

SS. Mark and Marcellianus, MARTYRS.*—Simple.—Red vestments.

Brothers by birth, St. Mark and Marcellianus were brothers especially because they generously shed their blood for the sake of Christ (Alleluia). Persecuted for their faith, like the Prophets and the Apostles (Gospel), they were arrested under the Emperor Diocletian and were nailed by the feet to a post where they remained hanging.

The Holy Ghost, Who filled their hearts with the holy love of God and the hope of an eternal reward, sustained them in their torments (Epistle) and protected them in their tribulations (Introit). " Never," they exclaimed, " have we enjoyed such delights as those we feel in suffering for Jesus Christ."

After a day and night of suffering, they were pierced with arrows, in A.D. 286, and their souls " delivered like the sparrow from the bird-catcher's net " (Offertory) entered for ever " into the kingdom which had been prepared for them from the beginning of the world " (Communion).

On this day, the anniversary of the heavenly birth of these two Holy Martyrs, let us ask God, through their intercession, to deliver us from all the ills that threaten us (Collect).

Mass : Introit : Salus autem, p. 238.

Orémus. — Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus, ut, qui sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Marci et Marcelliáni natalítia cólimus ; a cunctis malis imminéntibus eórum intercessiónibus liberémur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Grant, we beseech Thee, Almighty God, that we who celebrate the birthday of Thy holy martyrs Mark and Marcellianus, may, through their intercession, be delivered from all the evils that are ready to fall upon us. Through our Lord.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Romános.—FRATRES : Justificáti ex fide, pacem habeámus ad Deum per Dóminum nostrum Jesum Christum : per quem et habémus accéssum per fidem in grátiam istam, in

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Romans v. 1-5.—BRETHREN, being justified by faith, let us have peace with God, through our Lord Jesus Christ ; by whom also we have access through faith into His grace, wherein we stand, and glory in the hope of the glory of the sons of God. And not only so, but we glory also in tribulations; knowing that tribulation worketh patience, and patience trial, and trial hope, and hope confoundeth not; because the charity of God is poured forth in our hearts by the Holy Ghost Who is given to us.

* See Historical Summary p. 1900.

qua stamus, et gloriámur in spe glóriae filiórum Dei. Non solum autem, sed et gloriámur in tribulatiónibus: sciéntes quod tribulátio patiéntiam operátur, patiéntia autem probatiónem, probátio vero spem, spes autem non confúndit: quia cáritas Dei diffúsa est in córdibus nostris per Spíritum sanctum, qui datus est nobis.

Gradual.—The souls of the just are in the hand of God; and the torment of malice shall not touch them. ℣. In the sight of the unwise they seemed to die: but they are in peace.

Graduále.—Justórum ánimae in manu Dei sunt, et non tanget illos torméntum malítiae. ℣. Visi sunt óculis insipiéntium mori: illi autem sunt in pace.

Alleluia, alleluia.—This is the true brotherhood, which conquered the wickedness of the world: it followed Christ, and possesses the noble kingdom of heaven.

Allelúia, allelúia.— ℣. Haec est vera fratérnitas, quae vicit mundi crímina: Christum secúta est, ínclyta tenens regna coeléstia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel, according to St. Luke xi. 47-51.—At that time, Jesus said to the Scribes and Pharisees: Woe to you who build the monuments of the prophets: and your fathers killed them. Truly you bear witness that you consent to the doings of your fathers: for they indeed killed them, and you build their sepulchres. For this cause also the wisdom of God said, I will send to them prophets and apostles, and some of them they will kill and persecute. That the blood of all prophets, which was shed from the foundation of the world, may be required que ad sanguinem Zacharíae, qui périit inter altáre et aedem. Ita dico vobis, requirétur ab hac generatióne.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo témpore: Dicébat Jesus Scribis et Pharisaeis: Vae vobis, qui aedificátis monuménta Prophetárum: patres autem vestri occidérunt illos. Profécto testificámini quod consentítis opéribus patrum vestrórum quóniam ipsi quidem eos occidérunt, vos autem aedificátis eórum sepúlcra. Proptérea et sapiéntia Dei dixit: Mittam ad illos Prophétas, et Apóstolos, et ex illis occídent, et persequéntur: ut inquirátur sanguis ómnium Prophetárum, qui effúsus est a constitutióne mundi a generatióne ista, a sánguine Abel us-

of this generation; from the blood of Abel unto the blood of Zacharias, who was slain between the altar and the temple. Yea, I say to you, it shall be required of this generation.

Offertórium.—Anima nostra, sicut passer erépta est de láqueo venántium: láqueus contrítus est, et nos liberáti sumus.

Offertory. Ps. cxxiii. 7.—Our soul hath been delivered, as a sparrow out of the snare of the fowlers: the snare is broken, and we are delivered.

Secréta.—Múnera tibi, Dómine, dicáta sanctífica: et, intercedéntibus sanctis Martyribus tuis Marco et Marcelliáno, per éadem nos placátus inténde. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Sanctify, O Lord, the offerings devoted to Thee, and by the intercession of Thy holy martyrs, Mark and Marcellianus, by the same look favourably upon us. Through our Lord.

Commúnio. — Amen dico vobis, quod uni ex mínimis meis fecístis, mihi fecístis: venite benedícti Patris mei, possidéte parátum vobis regnum ab initio saeculi.

Communion. Matt. xxv. 40, 34.—Amen, I say to you: what you did to one of my least, you did to Me: Come, ye blessed of My Father, possess the kingdom prepared for you from the beginning of the world.

Postcommúnio. — Salutáris tui, Dómine, múnere satiáti, súpplices exorámus: ut, cujus laetámur gustu, intercedéntibus sanctis Martyribus tuis Marco et Marcelliáno, renovémur efféctu. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — We who have been filled with the gift of Thy salvation, humbly beseech Thee, O Lord, that, by the intercession of Thy holy martyrs Mark and Marcellianus, we may be renewed by the fruit of that which we delight to taste. Through our Lord.

In Paschal Time, Mass: Sancti tui, p. 249, with Collects, Alleluia and Gospel as above. To the Alleluia is added: Te Mártyrum, p. 239.

June 19.

St. Juliana Falconieri, Virgin.*—Double.—White vestments.

Born at Florence in 1270, of the illustrious family of Falconieri, Juliana, from childhood, gave such signs of holiness that her uncle St. Alexis

* See Historical Summary, p. 1014.

Falconieri declared to her mother that she had given birth to an angel. Never in the course of her life did she raise her eyes to look at a man's face, and to hear sin spoken of made her tremble (Introit).

At the age of 15, she solemnly consecrated her virginity to God (Epistle, Gospel). " O Juliana, only longing for the nuptials of the heavenly Lamb, you leave your paternal roof and conduct a choir of virgins. You sigh night and day for the dolours of your Spouse, nailed to the cross, and you shed tears at the feet of the Mother of God, whose heart is pierced by seven swords." *

Having founded the Order of Mantellati † she was asked by St. Philip Beniti to take charge of the whole Order of Servites which honours in a special manner the Dolours of the Virgin.

On two days a week her only food was the bread of Angels. At the age of 70, not being able to retain any food, she lamented the impossibility of receiving Holy Communion. She asked that at least the Blessed Sacrament should be held near her heart and the Sacred Bread miraculously disappeared leaving an impression in the shape of a host representing the image of Jesus crucified (Collect). She then breathed her last and was joyfully conducted to the throne of the Divine King (Gradual). It was on June 19, 1340.

Let us beseech the Holy Ghost to grant that we may, like St. Juliana, be nourished and strengthened in our agony by the body of Christ which will be our viaticum to the heavenly home (Collect).

Mass : Dilexísti, p. 291, except:

Collect.—O God, Who, blessed Juliana Thy virgin being sick unto death, didst in wondrous wise solace her with the precious body of Thy Son : for the sake of her merits, vouchsafe unto us, we beseech Thee, that when our last hour shall have come, we may in like manner be comforted and strengthened by holy communion, and may be by Thee safely guided into our heavenly country. Through the same Lord.

Orémus.—Deus, qui beátam Juliánam Vírginem tuam extrémo morbo laborátem, pretióso Fílii tui córpore mirabíliter recreáre dignátus es : concéde, quaesumus ; ut, ejus intercedéntibus méritis, nos quoque eódem in mortis agóne refécti ac roboráti, ad coeléstem pátriam perducámur. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Commemoration of SS. Gervase and Protase by the Collects below.

THE SAME DAY.

SS. Gervase and Protase, MARTYRS.‡—Red vestments.

Sons of St. Vitalus and St. Valeria, these two saints were martyred under Nero at Milan A.D. 170. Gervase was beaten to death, and Protase, after having been scourged, was beheaded. St. Ambrose discovered their bodies in 386. Their names are included in the litanies of the Saints.

* Hymn at First Vespers.
† They were called Mantellati on account of the short mantle they wore.
‡ See Historical Summary, p. 1008.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Loquétur Dóminus pacem in plebem suam: et super sanctos suos, et in eos, qui convertúntur ad ipsum. Ps. Benedixísti, Dómine, terram tuam, avertísti captivitátem Jacob. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. lxxxiv. 9.—The Lord will speak peace unto His people: and unto His saints: and unto them that are converted to the heart. Ibid. 2. O Lord, Thou hast blessed Thy land: Thou hast turned away the captivity of Jacob. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collects of the Mass: Salus autem, p. 238.

Léctio Epistolae beáti Petri apóstoli. — Carissimi: Communicántes Christi passiónibus gaudéte, ut et in revelatióne glóriae ejus gaudeátis exultántes. Si exprobrámini in nómine Christi beáti éritis: quóniam quod est honóris, glóriae, et virtútis Dei, et qui est ejus Spíritus, super vos requiéscit. Nemo autem vestrum patiátur ut homicída, aut fur, aut malédicus, aut alienórum appetítor. Si autem ut christiánus, non erubéscat, glorificet autem Deum in isto nómine. Quóniam tempus est ut incípiat judícium a domo Dei. Si autem primum a nobis: quis finis eórum qui non credunt Dei Evangélio? Et si justus vix salvábitur, ímpius et peccátor ubi parébunt? Itaque et hi, qui patiúntur secúndum voluntátem Dei, fidéli Creatóri comméndent ánimas suas in benefáctis.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Peter the Apostle. 1 Pet. iv. 13-19.—Dearly beloved, if you partake of the sufferings of Christ, rejoice that when His glory shall be revealed, you may also be glad with exceeding joy. If you be reproached for the name of Christ, you shall be blessed: for that which is of the honour, glory, and power of God, and that which is His Spirit, resteth upon you. But let none of you suffer as a murderer, or a thief, or a railer, or a coveter of other men's things. But, if as a Christian, let him not be ashamed, but let him glorify God in that name. For the time is, that judgment should begin at the house of God. And, if first at us, what shall be the end of them that believe not the gospel of God? And if the just man shall scarcely be saved, where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear? Wherefore let them also that suffer according to the will of God, commend their souls in good deeds to the faithful Creator.

Graduále.—Gloriósus Deus in sanctis suis: mirábilis in Gradual. Exod. xv. 11.—The Lord is glorious in holiness, terrible and praise-worthy, doing wonders. ℣. Ibid. 6. Thy right hand, O Lord, is magnified in strength : Thy right hand, O Lord, hath slain the enemy.

majestáte, fáciens prodígia. ℣. Déxtera tua, Dómine, glorificáta est in virtúte : déxtera manus tua confrégit inimícos.

Alleluia, alleluia.— ℣. This is the true brotherhood, which overcame the wickedness of the world ; it followed Christ, attaining the noble kingdom of heaven. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Haec est vera fratérnitas, quae vicit mundi crímina : Christum secúta est, ínclyta tenens regna coeléstia. Allelúia.

Gospel : Descéndens, p. 237.—Offertory : Laetámini, p. 251.

Communion. Ps. lxxviii. 2, 11.—O God, they have given the dead bodies of Thy servants to be meat for the fowls of the air : the flesh of Thy saints for the beasts of the earth : according to the greatness of Thy arm, take possession of the children of them that have been put to death.

Commúnio.—Posuérunt mortália servórum tuórum, Dómine, escas volatílibus coeli, carnes sanctórum tuórum béstiis terrae : secúndum magnitúdinem brachii tui pósside fílios morte punitórum.

June 20.

St. Silverius, Pope, Martyr.*—Simple.—Red vestments.

A son of Pope Hormisdas, who was married before receiving holy orders, Silverius was invested with full sacerdotal powers on succeeding Agapitus on the Pontifical throne (Introit, Alleluia). Theodora, Empress of Constantinople, entreated him to restore to the pontifical throne of that city, a heresiarch, who, " living a slave to his impious wishes and not having the Spirit of God " (Epistle), had been deposed by Agapitus. The Pope having refused, Theodora caused him to be exiled in the Island of Ponza.

As a disciple of Christ, the holy Pontiff followed Him bearing his heavy cross (Gospel), and from there governed the Church " taking for his food," as he is reported to have said, " the bread of affliction and the water of anguish."

A short time after, Silverius, worn out by privations and sufferings, fell asleep in the Lord in 538. His body, carried to Rome and buried in the Vatican Basilica, was illustrated by numerous miracles.

Guided by the Holy Ghost, let us beseech God to help our weakness (Collect), and to fill us with the courage shown by blessed Silverius in the defence of truth.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010.

Mass: Statúit, p. 215, except:

Léctio Epistolae beáti Judae Apóstoli. — CARISSIMI: Mémores estóte verbórum, quae praedícta sunt ab Apóstolis Dómini nostri Jesu Christi, qui dicébant vobis, quóniam in novíssimo témpore vénient illusóres, secúndum desidéria sua ambulántes in impietátibus. Hi sunt, qui ségregant semetípsos, animáles, Spíritum non habéntes. Vos autem, caríssimi, superaedificántes vosmetípsos sanctíssimae vestrae fídei, in Spíritu Sancto orántes, vosmetípsos in dilectióne Dei serváte, exspectántes misericórdiam Dómini nostri Jesu Christi in vitam aetérnam.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Jude the Apostle 17-21. —DEARLY beloved, be mindful of the words, which have been spoken before by the apostles, of our Lord Jesus Christ, Who told you, that in the last time there should come mockers, walking, according to their own desires, in ungodliness. These are they who separate themselves; sensual men, having not the Spirit. But you, my beloved, building yourselves upon your most holy faith, praying in the Holy Ghost, keep yourselves in the love of God, waiting for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto life everlasting.

JUNE 21.

St. Aloysius Gonzaga, CONFESSOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

The Holy Ghost, " distributor of heavenly gifts " (Collect), made of Aloysius, a young prince of the noble family of Gonzaga, an angel on earth, uniting in him all the marvels of innocence and mortification (Ibid). Wherefore the Church applies to him the verse of the Psalm where the humanity of Adam before the fall and that of Christ are declared hardly inferior to angelic nature (Introit). His birth to a heavenly life preceded in a certain manner his natural birth, for he was born at the Castle of Castiglione in Spain in such perilous circumstances that they hastened his baptism (Gradual). As an infant, all those who carried him in their arms thought they held an angel. At the age of nine, at Florence, he made a vow of virginity before the altar of the Blessed Virgin, and practised during his whole life the strictest modesty in his looks. Amid the seductions of the princely courts, to which his father sent him, he kept his first innocence so faithfully that he seemed confirmed in grace (Epistle). Towards the age of eleven, he received for the first time the bread of Angels from the hands of St. Charles Borromeo (Communion). At sixteen he entered at Rome the Company of Jesus, of which he is one of the glories. He so distinguished himself by his mortification and love of God that he is compared to the elect in the state they are fixed in at the general resurrection. " They live like angels," says Jesus, because the soul will exercise full command over the body which will participate in its spiritual nature.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1015.

At the age of twenty-two (1591), wearing his innocence like a nuptial robe, on which shone the pearls of his continual tears, he died a victim to his devotion to the plague-stricken and ascended the holy mountain to take part in the heavenly banquet to which God invites the pure of heart (Secret, Offertory, Gradual).

Let us have recourse to the merits and intercession of St. Aloysius. Benedict XIII. gave him as a pattern to young people, in order that, not having always imitated him in his innocence, they may at least imitate him by doing penance (Collect).

MASS.

Introit. Ps. viii. 6.—Thou hast made him a little less than the Angels: Thou hast crowned him with glory. Ps. cxlviii. 2. Praise ye the Lord, all His Angels: praise ye Him, all His hosts. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus. — Minuísti eum paulo minus ab Angelis: glória et honóre coronásti eum. Ps. Laudáte Dóminum omnes Angeli ejus: laudáte eum omnes virtútes ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—O God, Who, in distributing Thy heavenly gifts, didst in the angelic youth Aloysius, unite wonderful innocence of life with a singular spirit of penance: for the sake of his merits and prayers, vouchsafe unto us, who are no longer innocent as he was, the grace to live like him as penitents. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Coeléstium donórum distribútor, Deus, qui in angélico júvene Aloísio miram vitae innocéntiam pari cum poeniténtia sociásti: ejus méritis et précibus concéde; ut, innocéntem non secúti, paeniténtem imitémur. Per Dóminum.

Epistle: Beátus vir, p. 270, as far as: bona illíus in Dómino.

Gradual. Ps. lxx. 5, 6.—My hope, O Lord, from my youth: by Thee have I been confirmed from the womb; from my mother's womb Thou art my protector. ℣. Ps. xl. 13. But Thou hast upheld me by reason of my innocence, and hast established me in Thy sight for ever.

Graduále. — Dómine, spes mea a juventúte mea: in te confirmátus sum ex útero: de ventre matris meae tu es protéctor meus. ℣. Me autem propter innocéntiam suscepísti: et confirmásti me in conspéctu tuo in aetérnum.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. lxiv. 5.—℣. Blessed is he whom Thou hast chosen and taken to Thee; he shall dwell in Thy courts. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia.— ℣. Beátus quem elegísti et assumpsísti: inhabitábit in átriis tuis. Allelúia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum. — In illo témpore: Respóndens Jesus, ait Sadducaeis: Errátis, nesciéntes Scriptúras, neque virtútem Dei. In resurrectióne enim neque nubent, neque nubéntur: sed erunt sicut Angeli Dei in coelo. De resurrectióne autem mortuórum non legístis quod dictum est a Deo dicénte vobis: Ego sum Deus Abraham, et Deus Isaac, et Deus Jacob? Non est Deus mortuórum, sed vivéntium. Et audiéntes turbae, mirabántur in doctrína ejus. Pharisaei autem audiéntes quod siléntium imposuísset Sadducaeis, convenérunt in unum: et interrogávit eum unus ex eis legis doctor, tentans eum: Magíster, quod est mandátum magnum in lege? Ait illi Jesus: Díliges Dóminum Deum tuum ex toto corde tuo, et in tota ánima tua, et in tota mente tua. Hoc est máximum, et primum mandátum. Secúndum autem símile est huic: Díliges próximum tuum, sicut teipsum. In his duóbus mandátis universa lex pendet, et prophétae.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew xxii. 29-40.—At that time, Jesus answering, said to the Sadducees: You err, not knowing the Scriptures, nor the power of God. For in the resurrection they shall neither marry nor be married; but shall be as the Angels of God in heaven. And concerning the resurrection of the dead, have you not read that which was spoken by God, saying to you: I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob? He is not the God of the dead, but of the living. And the multitudes hearing it, were in admiration at His doctrine. But the Pharisees, hearing that He had silenced the Sadducees, came together, and one of them, a doctor of the law, asked Him, tempting Him: Master, which is the great commandment in the law? Jesus said to him: Thou shalt love the Lord Thy God with thy whole heart, and with thy whole soul, and with thy whole mind. This is the greatest and the first commandment. And the second is like to this: Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. On these two commandments dependeth the whole law and the prophets.

Offertórium.—Quis ascéndet in montem Dómini, aut quis stabit in loco sancto ejus? Innocens mánibus, et mundo corde.

Offertory. Ps. xxiii. 3, 4.—Who shall ascend unto the mountain of the Lord? or who shall stand in His holy place? the innocent in hands, and clean of heart.

Secréta.—Coeléсti convívio fac nos, Dómine, nuptiáli veste

Secret.—Grant, O Lord, that we may sit at the heavenly banquet clothed in the wedding-garment which the godly and continual tears of blessed Aloysius adorned with priceless pearls. Through our Lord.

indútos accúmbere: quam beáti Aloísii pia praeparátio, et juges lácrymae inaestimabílibus ornábant margarítis. Per Dóminum.

Communion. Ps. lxxvii. 24, 25.—He gave them the bread of heaven: man ate the bread of angels.

Commúnio. — Panem coeli dedit eis: panem Angelórum manducávit homo.

Postcommunion. — Grant, O Lord, that we who have been fed with the food of angels, may also live the lives of angels; and by the example of him whom we honour on this day, may always continue to give Thee thanks. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Angelórum esca nutrítos, angélicis étiam, Dómine, da móribus vívere: et ejus, quem hódie cólimus, exémplo, in gratiárum semper actióne manére. Per Dóminum.

JUNE 22.

St. Paulinus, BISHOP, CONFESSOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

Paulinus, born in 353 of a very distinguished Roman family at Bordeaux, in Aquitaine, distinguished himself in his studies and became Senator at the age of twenty-five. Elected Consul, he established his residence at Nola, in Campania, near the tomb of St. Felix, the martyred priest whose feast the Church celebrates on January 14,† he was suddenly touched by grace and was soon after baptised. Following the example of Christ, "Who, being rich, made Himself poor" (Epistle), and Who counselled the practice of the virtue of poverty (Gospel), he abandoned his great riches and at this price bought the kingdom of heaven. Having separated from his wife, who also gave herself to God, he became a priest. Later he was made Bishop of Nola (Introit, Gradual, Alleluia, Offertory, Communion).

His former friends blamed him. He "is content with the approval of Jesus."‡ Soon afterwards the Goths ravaged Campania and while they despoiled the rich of Rome, not gaining any merits thereby, St. Paulinus, who had abandoned his riches voluntarily and for Christ's sake, is rewarded a hundredfold hereafter and eternal life. He died in 431 at the age of seventy-eight, and was buried near St. Felix at Nola.

MASS.

Introit. Ps. cxxxi. 9-10.—Let Thy priests, O Lord, be clothed with justice, and let Thy saints rejoice: for Thy servant David's sake, turn not away the face of Intróitus. — Sacerdótes tui, Dómine, índuant justítiam: et sancti tui exsúltent: propter David servum tuum, non avértas fáciem Christi tui. Ps. Me-méntо, Dómine, David: et omnis mansuetúdinis ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010. † See p. 1210. ‡ Poem X. ad Ausonium.

Thy anointed. Ibid. 1. O Lord, remember David and all his meekness. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui ómnia pro te in hoc saeculo relinquéntibus, céntuplum in futúro et vitam aetérnam promisísti: concéde propítius; ut sancti Pontíficis Paulíni vestígiis inhaeréntes, valeámus terréna despícere, et sola coeléstia desideráre: Qui vivis.

Collect.—O God, Who hast promised a hundredfold hereafter and life everlasting to those who leave all things in this world for Thy sake; grant in Thy mercy that we may follow in the footsteps of the holy bishop Paulinus and may learn to despise the things of this world and desire only those of heaven. Who livest and reignest.

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Corínthios.—FRATRES: Scitis grátiam Dómini nostri Jesu Christi, quóniam propter vos egénus factus est, cum esset dives, ut illíus inópia vos dívites essétis. Et consílium in hoc do: hoc enim vobis útile est, qui non solum fácere, sed et velle coepístis ab anno prióre: nunc vero et facto perfícite: ut quemádmodum promptus est ánimus voluntátis, ita sit et perficiéndi ex eo quod habétis. Si enim volúntas prompta est, secúndum id quod habet, accépta est, non secúndum id quod non habet. Non enim ut áliis sit remíssio, vobis autem tribulátio, sed ex aequalitáte. In praesénti témpore vestra abundántia illórum inópiam súppleat: ut et illórum abundántia vestrae inópiae sit suppleméntum, ut fiat aequálitas, sicut scriptum est: Qui multum, non abundávit: et qui módicum, non minorávit.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians. 2 Cor. viii. 9-15.—BRETHREN: You know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, being rich, He became poor for your sakes; that through His poverty you might be rich. And herein I give my counsel: for this is profitable for you, who have begun not only to do, but also to be willing, a year ago; now therefore perform it also in deed: that, as your mind is forward to be willing, so it may be also to perform, out of that which you have. For if the will be forward, it is accepted according to that which a man hath, not according to that which he hath not. For I mean not that others should be eased, and you burthened, but by an equality. In this present time let your abundance supply their want, that their abundance also may supply your want; that there may be an equality, as it is written: He that had much had nothing over; and he that had little had no want.

Gradual. Ecclus. xliv. 16.—Behold a great priest, who in his days pleased God. ℣. Ibid. 20. There was not any found like to him, who kept the law of the Most High.

Graduále. — Ecce sacérdos magnus, qui in diébus suis plácuit Deo. ℣. Non est invéntus símilis illi, qui conserváret legem Excélsi.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. cix. 4.—℣. Thou art a priest for ever according to the order of Melchisedech. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Tu es sacérdos in aeternum, secúndum órdinem Melchísedech. Allelúia.

Gospel : Nolíte timére, p. 275.

Offertory. Ps. lxxxviii. 21, 22.—I have found David My servant, with My holy oil I have anointed him ; for My hand shall help him, and My arm shall strengthen him.

Offertórium. — Invéni David servum meum, óleo sancto meo unxi eum : manus enim mea auxiliábitur ei, et bráchium meum confortábit eum.

Secret.—Give unto us, O Lord, after the example of the holy bishop Paulinus, to unite a sacrifice of perfect charity with the offering we lay upon Thine altar ; and by our readiness to do good to others to win for ourselves a share in Thine everlasting mercies. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Da nobis, Dómine, perféctae caritátis sacrifícium, exémplo sancti Pontíficis Paulíni, cum altáris oblatióne conjúngere : et beneficéntiae stúdio sempitérnam misericórdiam promeréri. Per Dóminum.

Communion. Luke xii. 42.—A faithful and wise servant, whom the Lord hath set over his family, to give them their measure of wheat in due season.

Commúnio. — Fidélis servus et prudens, quem constítuit dóminus super famíliam suam : ut det illis in témpore trítici mensúram.

Postcommunion. — For the sake of these sacred mysteries, O Lord, do Thou bestow upon us that spirit of love and of humility, which Thy holy bishop Paulinus drew from this divine source ; and, listening to his prayers, do Thou, in Thy loving kindness, pour out the riches of Thy grace upon all who call upon Thee Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio,—Tribue nobis per haec sancta, Dómine, illum pietátis et humilitátis affectum, quem ex hoc divíno fonte hausit sanctus Póntifex tuus Paulínus : et, ipsíus intercessióne, in omnes, qui te deprecántur, grátiae tuae divítias benígnus effúnde. Per Dóminum.

June 23.

The Vigil of St. John the Baptist.—Purple vestments.

In the Gospel of March 25, we read that the Angel Gabriel announced to Mary that three months later, Elizabeth, in virtue of a divine miracle, would have a son. This is why the Nativity of St. John the Baptist is celebrated towards the end of June. This important feast is preceded by a Vigil.

MASS.

Intróitus.—Ne timeas, Zacharía, exaudíta est orátio tua: et Elísabeth uxor tua páriet tibi fílium, et vocábis nomen ejus Joánnem: et erit magnus coram Dómino: et Spíritu sancto replébitur adhuc ex útero matris suae: et multi in nativitáte ejus gaudébunt. ℣. Dómine, in virtúte tua laetábitur rex: et super salutáre tuum exsultábit veheménter. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Luke i. 13, 15, 14.—Fear not Zachary; thy prayer is heard, and thy wife Elizabeth shall bear thee a son, and thou shalt call his name John; and he shall be great before the Lord and he shall be filled with the Holy Ghost even from his mother's womb; and many shall rejoice at his birth. Ps. xx. 2. In Thy strength, O Lord, the king shall joy: and in Thy salvation he shall rejoice exceedingly. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus ut família tua per viam salútis incédat; et beáti Joánnis praecursóris hortaménta sectándo, ad eum quem praedíxit, secúra pervéniat, Dóminum nostrum Jesum Christum Fílium tuum: Qui tecum.

Collect.—Grant, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, that Thy servants may walk on in the way of salvation; and by following the exhortations of blessed John the precursor, may securely attain the possession of Him Whom he foretold, our Lord Jesus Christ, Who liveth, etc

Second Collect: Concéde, p. 159; Third Collect: Ecclésiae, p. 154, or Deus omnium, p. 155.

Léctio Jeremíae Prophétae. —In diébus illis: Factum est verbum Dómini ad me, dicens: Príusquam te formárem in útero, novi te: et ántequam exíres de vulva, sanctificávi, te et prophétam in géntibus dedi te. Et dixi: A, a, a, Dómine Deus: ecce néscio loqui, quia puer ego sum. Et dixit Dó-

Epistle.—Lesson from Jeremias the Prophet i. 4-10.—In those days the word of the Lord came to me, saying: Before I formed thee in the bowels of thy mother, I knew thee; and before thou camest forth out of the womb I sanctified thee, and made thee a prophet unto the nations. And I said: Ah, ah, ah, Lord God; behold I cannot speak, for I am a child. And the Lord said to me: Say not, I am a child: for thou shalt go to all that I shall send thee; and whatever I shall command thee, thou shalt speak. Be not afraid at their presence; for I am with thee to deliver thee, saith the Lord. And the Lord put forth His hand, and touched my mouth: and the Lord said to me: Behold I have given My words in thy mouth: lo, I have set thee this day over the nations, and over kingdoms, to root up, and to pull down, and to waste, and to destroy, and to build, and to plant; saith the Lord Almighty.

minus ad me: Noli dícere: Puer sum: quóniam ad ómnia, quae mittam te, ibis: et univérsa, quaecúmque mandávero tibi, loquéris. Ne tímeas a fácie eórum: quia tecum ego sum, ut éruam te, dicit Dóminus. Et misit Dóminus manum suam, et tétigit os meum: et dixit Dóminus ad me: Ecce dedi verba mea in ore tuo: ecce constítui te hódie super gentes, et super regna, ut evéllas, et déstruas, et dispérdas, et díssipes, et aedífices, et plantes: dicit Dóminus omnípotens.

Gradual. John i. 6, 7.—There was a man sent from God, whose name was John. ℣. This man came to bear witness of the light, to prepare unto the Lord a perfect people.

Graduále.—Fuit homo missus a Deo, cui nomen erat Joánnes. ℣. Hic venit ut testimónium perhibéret de lúmine, paráre Dómino plebem perféctam.

✠ The Beginning of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke i. 5-17.—THERE was, in the days of Herod, the king of Judea, a certain priest named Zachary, of the course of Abia: and his wife was of the daughters of Aaron, and her name Elizabeth: and they were both just before God, walking in all the commandments and justifications of the Lord without blame. And they had no son, for that Elizabeth was barren, and they both were well advanced in years. And it came to pass, when he executed his priestly function, in the order of his course, before God, according to the custom of the priestly office, it was his lot

✠ Inítium sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—Fuit in diébus Heródis, regis Judaeae, sacérdos quidam nómine Zacharías, de vice Abía, et uxor illíus de filiábus Aaron, et nomen ejus Elísabeth. Erant autem justi ambo ante Deum, incedéntein ómnibus mandátis, et justificatiónibus Dómini sine queréla, et non erat illis fílius, eo quod esset Elisabeth stérilis, et ambo processissent in diébus suis. Factum est autem, cum sacerdótio fungerétur in órdine vicis suae ante Deum, secúndum consuetúdinem sacerdótii, sorte éxiit, ut incénsum póneret ingréssus in templum Dómini: et omnis multitúdo pópuli erat orans foris hora incénsi. Appáruit autem illi Angelus Dómini, stans a dextris altáris incénsi. Et Zacharías turbátus est, videns, et timor írruit super eum. Ait autem ad illum Angelus: Ne tímeas Zacharía, quóniam exaudíta est deprecátio tua: et uxor tua Elisabeth páriet tibi fílium, et vocábis nomen ejus Joánnem: et erit gáudium tibi, et exsultátio, et multi in nativitáte ejus gaudébunt: erit enim magnus coram Dómino: et vinum, et siceram non bibet, et Spíritu Sancto replébitur adhuc ex útero matris suae: et multos filiórum Israël convértet a Dóminum Deum ipsórum: et ipse praecédet ante illum in spíritu, et virtúte Elíae: ut convértat corda patrum in fílios et incrédulos ad prudéntiam justórum, paráre Dómino plebem perféctam.

to offer incense, going into the temple of the Lord; and all the multitude of the people was praying without at the hour of incense. And there appeared to him an angel of the Lord, standing on the right side of the altar of incense. And Zachary seeing him was troubled, and fear fell upon him; but the angel said to him: Fear not, Zachary, for thy prayer is heard, and thy wife Elizabeth shall bear thee a son, and thou shalt call his name John: and thou shalt have joy and gladness, and many shall rejoice at his nativity. For he shall be great before the Lord; and shall drink no wine nor strong drink, and he shall be filled with the Holy Ghost even from his mother's womb. And he shall convert many of the children of Israel to the Lord their God: and he shall go before Him in the spirit and power of Elias, that he may turn the hearts of the fathers to the children, and the incredulous of the wisdom of the just, to prepare unto the Lord a perfect people.

Offertórium. — Glória et honóre coronásti eum: et constituísti eum super ópera mánuum tuárum, Dómine.

Offertory. Ps. viii. 6, 7.—Thou hast crowned him with glory and honour, and hast set him over the works of Thy hands, O Lord.

Secréta.—Múnera, Dómine, obláta sanctífica: et, intercedénte beáto Joánne Baptísta, nos per haec a peccatórum nostrórum máculis emúnda. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Sanctify, O Lord, the offerings we make; and by the intercession of blessed John Baptist, cleanse us by these from the stains of our sins. Through our Lord.

Other Secrets, pp. 159 and 154-155.

Commúnio.—Magna est glória ejus in salutári tuo: glóri-

Communion. Ps. xx. 6.—His glory is great in Thy salvation; glory and great beauty shalt Thou lay upon him, O Lord.

Postcommunion. — May the excellent prayer of blessed John Baptist accompany us, O Lord; and may he obtain for us the mercy of Him whose coming he foretold, our Lord Jesus Christ, Thy Son, Who livest, etc.

am et magnum decórem impónes super eum, Dómine.

Postcommúnio. — Beáti Joánnis Baptístae nos, Dómine, praeclára comitétur orátio: et quem ventúrum esse praedíxit, poscat nobis fore placátum Dóminum nostrum Jesum Christum Fílium tuum: Qui tecum.

Other Postcommunions, pp. 159 and 154-155.

June 24.

The Nativity of St. John the Baptist.*—Double of the First Class with an Octave.—White vestments.

"A Prophet of the Most High" (Alleluia), St. John is pre-figured by Isaias and Jeremias (Introit, Epistle, Gradual); still more, he was consecrated before birth to announce Jesus (Secret) and to prepare souls for His coming.

The Gospel narrates the prodigies which accompanied his birth. Zachary gives his child the name which St. Gabriel has brought him from heaven, which signifies: The Lord has pardoned. He immediately recovers his speech and, filled with the Holy Ghost, he foretells the greatness of his son: "He shall walk before the face of the Lord to give unto the people the knowledge of salvation."

The angel Gabriel had announced to Zachary that "many would rejoice in the birth of St. John the Baptist" † Indeed, not only "the neighbours and relations of Elizabeth" ‡ solemnised the event, but every year, on its anniversary, the whole Church invites her children to share in this holy joy. She knows that the nativity "of this Prophet of the Most High" § at this summer Christmas is intimately connected with the Advent of the Messiah.

After the feast of the Nativity of St. John, the days become shorter, while, on the contrary, after the Nativity of the Saviour, of which this feast is the prelude, the days become longer. The Precursor must efface himself before Jesus Who is the true light of souls. "He must increase," says St. John, "and I must decrease." ||

The solstices were the occasion of pagan feasts when fires were lighted to honour the orb which gives us light. The Church christianised these rites seeing in them a symbol of St. John who was "a burning and brilliant lamp." ¶ Indeed "she encouraged this kind of manifestation which corresponded so well with the character of the feast. The St. John bonfires happily completed the liturgical solemnity; they showed the

* See Historical Summary, p. 1002.
† Luke i. 15.
‡ Ibid. i. 57.
§ Ibid., i. 76.
|| John iii. 30.
¶ Ibid. v. 35.

Church and the earthly city united in one thought." † The name of the Precursor is inscribed in the Canon of the Mass at the head of the Second List, p. 65.

Formerly, on his feast day three masses were celebrated in his honour, and numerous churches were dedicated to him. Parents loved to give his name to their children.

Paul the Deacon, a monk of Monte Cassino and a friend of Charlemagne, had composed, in honour of St. John the Baptist, the hymn: "Ut queant laxis." In the thirteenth century the Benedictine monk Guy of Arezzo noticed that the notes sung on the first syllables formed the sequence of the first six degrees of the scale. He named each degree by the corresponding syllable: (Ut, re, mi, fa, sol, la, si) and thereby greatly facilitated the study of musical intervals.

Ut queant laxis *re*sonare fibris	(Do-re)	see p. 1443.
*Mi*ra gestorum *fa*mieli tuorum	(Mi-fa)
*So*lve polluti *la*bii reatum	(Sol-la)
*S*ancte *J*ohannes	(Si) ‡

"That Thy servants may sing with full voice the marvels of Thy works, purify their sullied lips, O St. John."

Immediately Zachary made signs that he wished to call his son John,. he recovered his speech; and lo! a hymn composed in honour of the Prophet, whose voice resounds in the desert, becomes the occasion of a new progress in music.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

FIRST VESPERS.

The First Four Psalms for Sunday, p. 98, and Psalm: Laudáte Dóminum, p. 127.

Ant.—1. Ipse praeíbit * ante illum in spíritu et virtúte Elíae paráre Dómino plebem perféctam.	Ant. 1. Luke i. 17.— He shall go before Him in the spirit and power of Elias, to prepare unto the Lord a perfect people.
2. Joánnes * est nomen ejus: vinum et síceram non bibet, et multi in nativitáte ejus gaudébunt.	2. Ibid. i. 63, i. 14.—John is his name. Wine and strong drink shall he not drink, and many shall rejoice in his birth.
3. Ex útero senectútis * et stérili Joánnes natus est praecúrsor Dómini.	3. From an aged and barren womb was born John, the forerunner of the Lord.
4. Iste puer * magnus coram Dómino: nam et manus ejus cum ipso est.	4. Ibid. i. 15.—This child is great before the Lord, for the hand of God is with him.
5. Nazaraeus * vocábitur puer iste: vinum et síceram non	5. Ibid. i. 15.—This child shall be called a Nazarite; wine and † Liturgical Year by Dom Guéranger: The Nativity of St. John the Baptist.

‡ S.J.—Si.

St. John the Baptist, the Precursor of Christ.

bibet, et omne immúndum non manducábit ex útero matris suae.

strong drink shall he not drink, and from his mother's womb shall he eat nothing unclean.

Chapter and Hymn of the Second Vespers, p. 1442

℣. Fuit homo missus a Deo.

℟. Cui nomen erat Joánnes.

℣. John xi. 6.—There was a man sent from God.

℟. Whose name was John.

Ant.—Ingrésso * Zacharía templum Dómini, appáruit ei Gábriel Angelus, stans a dextris altáris incénsi.

Ant. at the Magnificat. Luke i. 9.—When Zacharias had entered the temple of the Lord, there appeared to him the angel Gabriel, standing at the right hand of the altar of incense.

MASS.

Intróitus. — De ventre matris meae vocávit me Dóminus nómine meo : et pósuit os meum ut gládium acútum : sub teguménto manus suae protéxit me, et pósuit me quasi sagíttam eléctam. Ps. Bonum est confitéri Dómino : et psállere nómini tuo, Altíssime. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Isa. xlix. 1, 2.—The Lord hath called me by my name from the womb of my mother, and He hath made my mouth like a sharp sword ; in the shadow of His hand He hath protected me, and hath made me as a chosen arrow. Ps. xci. 2. It is good to give praise to the Lord, and to sing to Thy name, O Most High. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui praeséntem diem honorábilem nobis in beáti Joánnis nativitáte fecísti : da pópulis tuis spirituálium grátiam gaudiórum ; et ómnium fidélium mentes dírige in viam salútis aetérnae. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who hast made this day to be honoured by us, because upon it blessed John was born into this world : pour forth upon Thy people the grace of spiritual joy, and guide the feet of all the faithful into the way of eternal salvation. Through our Lord.

Epistola. Léctio Isaíae Prophétae. — Audíte ínsulae, et atténdite pópuli de longe : Dóminus ab útero vocávit me, de ventre matris meae recordátus est nóminis mei.

Epistle. — Lesson from Isaias the Prophet xlix. 1, 3, 5, 6, 7.—Give ear, ye islands, and hearken, ye people from afar. The Lord hath called me from the womb, from the bowels of my mother He hath been mindful of my name. And he hath made my mouth like a sharp sword; in the shadow of His hand He hath protected me, and hath made me as a chosen arrow; in His quiver He has hidden me. And He said to me: Thou art My servant Israel, for in thee will I glory. And now saith the Lord that formed me from the womb to be His servant: Behold I have given thee to be the light of the Gentiles, that thou mayest be My salvation even to the farthest part of the earth. Kings shall see and princes shall rise up, and adore for the Lord's sake, and for the Holy One of Israel, Who hath chosen thee.

Et pósuit os meum quasi gládium acútum: in umbra manus suae protéxit me, et pósuit me sicut sagíttam eléctam: in pháretra sua abscóndit me. Et dixit mihi: Servus meus es tu, Israël, quia in te gloriábor. Et nunc dicit Dóminus, formans me ex útero servum sibi: Ecce dedi te in lucem géntium, ut sis salus mea usque ad extrémum terrae. Reges vidébunt, et consúrgent príncipes, et adorábunt propter Dóminum, et sanctum Israël, qui elégit te.

Gradual.—Before I formed thee in the bowels of thy mother, I knew thee: and before thou camest forth out of the womb, I sanctified thee. ℣. The Lord put forth His hand, and touched my mouth: and said to me.

Graduále. — Priúsquam te formárem in útero, novi te: et ántequam exíres de ventre, sanctificávi te. ℣. Misit Dóminus manum suam, et tétigit os meum, et dixit mihi.

Alleluia, alleluia.—℣. Thou, child, shalt be called the Prophet of the Highest; thou shalt go before the Lord to prepare His ways. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Tu, puer, prophéta Altíssimi vocáberis: praeíbis ante Dóminum paráre vias ejus. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke i. 57-68.—ELIZABETH's full time of being delivered was come, and she brought forth a son. And her neighbours and kinsfolk heard that the Lord had showed His great mercy towards her, and they congratulated with her. And it came to pass that on the eighth day they came to circumcise the child, and they called him by his father's name, ✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—ELISABETH implétum est tempus pariéndi, et péperit fílium. Et audiérunt vicíni, et cognáti ejus, quia magnificávit Dóminus misericórdiam suam cum illa, et congratulabántur ei. Et factum est in die octávo, venérunt circumcídere púerum, et vocábant eum nómine patris sui Zacharíam. Et respóndens mater ejus, dixit: Nequáquam sed vocábitur Joánnes. Et dixérunt ad illam: Quia nemo est in cognatióne tua, qui vocétur hoc nómine. Innuébant autem patri ejus, quem vellet vocári eum. Et póstulans pugillárem, scripsit, dicens: Joánnes est nomen ejus. Et miráti sunt univérsi. Apértum est autem illico os ejus, et lingua ejus, et loquebátur benedícens Deum. Et factus est timor super omnes vicínos eórum: et super ómnia montána Judaeae divulgabántur ómnia verba haec: et posuérunt omnes, qui audíerant in corde suo, dicéntes: Quis, putas, puer iste erit? Etenim manus Dómini erat cum illo. Et Zacharías pater ejus replétus est Spíritu Sancto, et prophetávit, dicens: Benedíctus Dóminus Deus Israël, quia visitávit et fecit redemptiónem plebis suae.

Zachary. And his mother answering, said, not so, but he shall be called John. And they said to her, There is none of thy kindred that is called by that name. And they made signs to his father, how he would have him called. And demanding a writing-table, he wrote, saying, John is his name: and they all wondered. And immediately his mouth was opened, and his tongue loosed; and he spoke, blessing God. And fear came upon all their neighbours; and all these things were noised abroad over all the hill country of Judea; and they that had heard them, laid them up in their heart, saying, What a one, think ye, shall this child be? For the hand of the Lord was with him. And Zachary his father was filled with the Holy Ghost; and he prophesied, saying, Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, because He hath visited, and wrought the redemption of His people.

Offertórium.—Justus ut palma florébit: sicut cedrus, quae in Líbano est, multiplicábitur.

Offertory. Ps. cxi. 13.—The just shall flourish like the palm-tree; he shall grow up like the cedar of Libanus.

Secréta. — Tua, Dómine, munéribus altária cumulámus: illíus nativitátem honóre débito celebrántes, qui Salvatórem mundi et cécinit adfutúrum, et adésse monstrávit, Dóminum nostrum Jesum Christum Filium tuum: Qui tecum.

Secret.—We heap up gifts upon Thine altars, O Lord, to give due honour to the birthday of him who both foretold the coming of the Saviour of the world and proclaimed Him, when He came, our Lord Jesus Christ, Thy Son: Who liveth.

Commúnio. — Tu, puer, prophéta Altíssimi vocáberis: praeíbis enim ante fáciem Dó-Communion. Luke i. 76.—Thou child, shalt be called the Prophet of the Most High; for thou shalt go before the face of the Lord to prepare His ways.

mini paráre vias ejus.

Postcommunion. — Let Thy Church, O God, be glad at the birth of blessed John the Baptist; for through him she knew the author of her new birth, our Lord Jesus Christ, Thy Son: Who liveth.

Postcommúnio.—Sumat Ecclésia tua, Deus, beáti Joánnis Baptístae generatióne laetítiam: per quem suae regeneratiónis cognóvit auctórem, Dóminum nostrum Jesum Christum Fílium tuum: Qui tecum.

SECOND VESPERS.

The First Four Psalms for Sunday, p. 98, and Psalm cxvi: Laudáte Dóminum, p. 127.

Ant.—1. Elizabeth, the wife of Zacharias, gave birth to a man of might, the forerunner of the Lord.

*Ant.*1.—Elísabeth Zacharíae * magnum virum génuit, Joánnem Baptístam praecursórem Dómini.

2. Luke i. 62.—They made signs unto his father, by what name he should be called: and he wrote, saying: His name is John.

2.—Innuébant * patri ejus, quem vellet vocári eum: et scripsit, dicens: Joánnes est nomen ejus.

3. Ibid. i. 14.—His name shall be called John, and many shall rejoice in his birth.

3.—Joánnes vocábitur * nomen ejus: et in nativitáte ejus multi gaudébunt.

4. Matt. xi. 11.—Among those born of women, there hath not risen a greater than John the Baptist.

4.—Inter natos * mulíerum non surréxit major Joánne Baptísta.

5. Luke i. 76.—Thou, child, shalt be called the Prophet of the Highest, thou shalt go before the Lord to prepare His ways.

5.—Tu puer * Prophéta Altíssimi vocáberis: praeíbis ante Dóminum paráre vias ejus.

Chapter. Isa. xlix. 1.—Give ear ye isles, and hearken ye people from afar: the Lord hath called me from the womb, from the bowels of my mother hath He been mindful of my name.

Capitulum.—Audite insulae, et atténdite pópuli de longe: Dóminus ab útero vocávit me * de ventre matris meae recordátus est nóminis mei.

Hymn.

2 Núntius celso véniens Olympo,
Te patri magnum fore nascitúrum,
Nomen, et vitae sériem geréndae
Ordíne promit.

3. Ille promíssi dúbius supérni,
Pérdidit promptae módulos loquélae:
Sed reformásti génitus perémptae
Organa vocis.

4. Ventris obstrúso récubans cubíli
Sénseras Regem thálamo manéntem:
Hinc parens nati méritis utérque
Abdita pandit.

2. Oh, lot sublime! an Angel quits the skies,
Thy birth, thy name, thy glory to declare Unto thy priestly sire; while to the Lord
He offers Israel's prayer.

3. Mistrustful of the promise from on high,
His speech forsakes him at the angel's word;
But thou on thine eighth day dost re-attune
For him the vocal chord.

4. No marvel; since yet cloister'd in the womb,
The presence of thy King had thee inspir'd;
What time Elizabeth and Mary sang
With joy prophetic fir'd.

5. Immortal glory to the Father be,
With his Almighty sole-begotten Son,
And Thee, co-equal Spirit, One in Three,
While endless ages run. Amen.

5. Sit decus Patri, genitaeque Proli,
Et tibi compar utriúsque virtus,
Spíritus semper, Deus unus, omni
Témporis aevo. Amen.

℣. Luke i. 15. — This child is great before the Lord.
℟. Luke i. 66.—For in truth His hand is with him.

℣. Iste puer magnus coram Dómino.
℣. Nam et manus ejus cum ipso est.

Ant. at the Magnificat. Matt. xi. 9.—The child that is born to us is more than a prophet; for this is he of whom the Saviour said: Among those born of women there hath not risen a greater than John the Baptist.

Ant.—Puer * qui natus est nobis, plus quam prophéta est: hic est enim, de quo Salvátor ait: Inter natos muliérum non surréxit major Joánne Baptísta.

Commemoration of St. William: Antiphon: Similábo, p. 270, ℣. Amávit, p. 269.

JUNE 25.

St. William, ABBOT.*—Double.—White vestments.

William was born of noble parents at Vercelli, in Piedmont. Having left his family and renounced his riches (Gospel), he built a monastery on Monte Vergine. Like Moses, to whom God gave His Law on the mountain (Epistle), under the guidance of heaven he gave to the congregation of hermits, whose Father he became (Communion), a rule, inspired, in a great measure, by that of St. Benedict. His holy life was entirely spent in the meditation of divine things (Introit), and he became renowned by his numerous miracles.

After having foretold the moment of his death, he fell asleep in the Lord in 1142, and in heaven his brow was encircled with "the crown of precious stones" (Gradual, Offertory), the symbol of his virtues.

Let us walk in the footsteps of St. William, with the help of his prayers (Collect).

Mass: Os justi, p. 276, except:

Collect.—O God, Who, to help our weakness, hast given us Thy saints to be our example and protection in the way of eternal life; grant that we may

Orémus. — Deus, qui infirmitáti nostrae, ad teréndam salútis viam in Sanctis tuis exémplum et praesídium collocásti: da nobis, ita beáti Guliélmi Ab-

* See Historical Summary, p. 1012.

bátis mérita venerári ; ut ejúsdem excipiámus suffrágia, et vestígia prosequámur. Per Dóminum.

so venerate the merits of the blessed abbot William, so that we may both gain his prayers and follow in his footsteps. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Octave of St. John the Baptist, p. 1439.

JUNE 26.

SS. John and Paul, MARTYRS.*—Double.—Red vestments.

The two brothers John and Paul were Romans and in the service of Constantius, son of Constantine. Julian the Apostate, having invited them to be among his familiar friends, they refused, so as to remain faithful to Jesus.

Ten days were allowed them to deliberate, and they used them in distributing all they possessed to the poor. They were then arrested and " without fearing those who can only kill the body and beyond that can do nothing more " (Gospel), they became in 362 brothers more than ever, by the same faith and the same martyrdom (Collect, Gradual, Alleluia). The Church compares them " to the two olive trees and to the two candlesticks, mentioned in the Apocalypse, which shine before the Lord." † " These just men," she adds, " have stood before the Lord and have not been separated from one another." ‡ Wherefore both their names, mentioned in the Canon of the Mass (First List, p. 59) pass on from generation to generation, while their bodies rest in peace (Epistle) in the ancient Church erected in their honour on Mount Coelius at Rome. It is there that the Station is held on the Friday after Ash-Wednesday.§

Let us enjoy to-day with the Church, the double triumph of SS. John and Paul (Collect) and let us, like them, courageously confess Jesus before men so that He may recognise us for His own before His angels (Gospel).

MASS

Intróitus.—Multae tribulatiónes justórum, et de his ómnibus liberávit eos Dóminus : Dóminus custódit ómnia ossa eórum : unum ex his non conterétur. Ps. Benedícam Dóminum in omni témpore . semper laus ejus in ore meo. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. xxxiii. 20, 21.—Many are the afflictions of the just, and out of all these the Lord hath delivered them : the Lord keepeth all their bones ; not one of them shall be broken. Ibid. 2. I will bless the Lord at all times : His praise shall be always in my mouth. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010.
† Response at Matins.
‡ Anthem at the Magnificat.
§ See Plan of the Stations at Rome p. 510, Ff 16.

Collect.—Grant, we beseech Thee, Almighty God, that we may receive twofold joy on this day's festival of the triumph of blessed John and Paul, whom the same faith and the same martyrdom made to be truly brethren. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Quaesumus, omnípotens Deus : ut nos gemináta laetítia hodiérnae festivitatis excípiat, quae de beatorum Joánnis et Pauli glorificatióne procédit ; quos éadem fides et pássio vere fecit esse germános. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of the Octave of St. John : Deus qui, p. 1439.

Epistle. Lesson from the book of Wisdom. Ecclus. xliv. 10-15.—These are men of mercy, whose godly deeds have not failed : good things continue with their seed, their posterity are a holy inheritance, and their seed hath stood in the covenants : and their children for their sakes remain for ever : their seed and their glory shall not be forsaken. Their bodies are buried in peace, and their name liveth unto generation and generation. Let the people shew forth their wisdom, and the church declare their praise.

Epistola. Léctio libri Sapiéntiae. — Hi viri misericórdiae sunt, quorum pietátes non defuérunt : cum sémine eórum pérmanent bona, heréditas sancta nepótes eórum, et in testaméntis stetit semen eórum : et fílii eórum propter illos usque in aetérnum manent : semen eórum, et glória eórum non derelinquétur. Córpora ipsórum in pace sepúlta sunt, et nomen eórum vivit in generatiónem et generatiónem. Sapiéntiam ipsórum narrent pópuli, et laudem eórum núntiet ecclésia.

Gradual. Ps. cxxxii. 1, 2.—Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity. ℣. It is like the precious ointment on the head, that ran down upon the beard, the beard of Aaron.

Graduále. — Ecce quam bonum et quam jucúndum habitáre fratres in unum. ℣. Sicut unguéntum in cápite, quod descéndit in barbam, barbam Aaron.

Alleluia, alleluia.— ℣. This is the true fraternity, which overcame the guilt of the world : they followed Christ, and attained the glorious kingdom of heaven. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Haec est vera fratérnitas, quae vicit mundi crímina : Christum secúta est, ínclyta tenens regna coeléstia. Allelúia.

Gospel : Atténdite, p. 240.

Offertory. Ps. v. 12, 13.—All they that love Thy name shall glory in Thee, for Thou, O Lord, wilt bless the just : O Lord, Offertórium. — Gloriabúntur in te omnes, qui díligunt nomen tuum, quóniam tu, Dómine, benedíces justo : Dómine, ut scuto bonae voluntátis tuae coronásti nos.

Thou hast crowned us, as with a shield of Thy good will.

Secréta.—Hóstias tibi, Dómine, sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Joánnis et Pauli dicátas méritis, benígnus assúme: et ad perpétuum nobis tribue provenire subsídium. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Graciously receive, O Lord, the sacred victim, we, relying on the merits of Thy holy martyrs, John and Paul, offer up to Thee: and grant that it may be to us an everlasting help. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Octave of St. John the Baptist: Tua Dómine, p. 1441.

Commúnio. — Et si coram homínibus torménta passi sunt, Deus tentávit eos: tamquam aurum in fornáce probávit eos, et quasi holocáusta accépit eos.

Communion. Wisd. of Sol. iii. 4, 5, 6.—Though in the sight of men they suffered torments, God hath tried them: as gold in the furnace He hath proved them, and as a holocaust He hath received them.

Postcommúnio.—Súmpsimus, Dómine, sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Joánnis et Pauli solémnia célebrántes, sacraménta coeléstia: praesta, quaesumus; ut, quod temporáliter gérimus, aetérnis gáudiis consequámur. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — We have received, O Lord, Thy heavenly sacraments on this feast-day, kept by us in honour of Thy holy martyrs, John and Paul: do Thou, we beseech Thee, vouchsafe to make ours for eternity, the divine gift Thou in this lifetime after time bestowest upon us. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Octave of St. John the Baptist: Sumat, p. 1442.

JUNE 27.

Third Day of the Octave of St. John.

The Church, honouring the Saints in proportion to the part they played in the mystery of the Incarnation of the Word, gives to St. John a special place.*

Each day in the Mass, as well as at the Confiteor, at the Suscipe and at the Nobis quoque peccatoribus, the name of St. John the Baptist precedes that of the Apostles. It is the same in the Litanies of all the

* The rubrics which accompany the Bull Divino Afflatu of Pius X. establish the following order among the feasts: "The feasts of the Lord, of the Blessed Virgin Mary, of the Angels, of St. John the Baptist, of St. Joseph, of the holy Apostles."

Saints. His feast immediately precedes that of the Apostles St. Peter and St. Paul. By ending the mission of the Prophets and commencing that of the Apostles, he is the link between the Old and the New Testament.

Let us, also, give to St. John the Baptist the place of honour which is due to him in our worship of the Saints. This worship must, indeed, be hierarchically ordered so that we may never forget that Jesus is the principal author of our redemption, and that the Saints are more or less great as they are more or less united to Him as secondary instruments.

The feast of the nativity of St. John the Baptist falls at the season when the Cycle shows us the Church which, as this Saint foretold,* was born in the baptism of the Holy Ghost and of fire at Pentecost, and goes on continually developing herself. It is, indeed, to the holy Precursor that she owes it to have known Jesus, the spouse that makes her fruitful and the mother of many souls.

As with the Jews, a friend was the intermediary between the bride and the spouse and prepared the wedding-feast, St. John is called in the Gospel the "friend of the Spouse." † It is he whom God has chosen to prepare for the Lord, by his preaching and baptism of penance, a perfect people.‡ And after having adorned the bride, he presents the Spouse to her. "John was the man sent as a witness so that through him all should believe in Jesus."§

Jesus comes to him in the waters of the Jordan and at this divine contact the water acquired the virtue which in baptism causes our souls to be born to supernatural life. St. John baptises Christ in the Jordan, he hears the voice of the Father proclaiming that Jesus is His well-beloved Son. He sees the Holy Ghost hovering over Him in the form of a dove and he reveals that Jesus is "the Lamb of God." ||

Let us remember that after having baptised the Master, the one who is called John the Baptiser has also presided over our own christening, for all the baptisteries (particularly that of St. John of the Lateran in Rome) are dedicated to him, and his image is to be used for the adornment of baptismal fonts. Having thus been brought by him to Jesus, let us also through St. John approach the Eucharist, reciting the words of the Agnus Dei, by which he indicates the Saviour.

Mass as on the feast day, p. 1439.

JUNE 28.

St. Irenaeus, BISHOP AND MARTYR.—Double.—Red vestments.

Towards the end of the second century when gnostic sects endeavoured to undermine the basis of the Christian religion, God raised St. Irenaeus to oppose them. "He granted him the grace to destroy the heresies by the truth of his doctrine" (Collect).

Succeeding St. Pothinus in the See of Lyons in 177, St. Irenaeus "preached in season and out of season" as St. Paul prescribes (Epistle) and constituted himself defender of Christ (Gospel) and of His Spouse. "The Church," he declares, "disseminated throughout the world, to the extremities of the earth, professes the faith she has received from the

* Matt. iii. 1
† John iii. 29.
‡ Luke i. 14.
§ Last Gospel.
|| John i. 32.

Apostles, who themselves received it from the Son of God." This Church has its centre at Rome. "With her, every church must be in agreement because of her superior primacy; for through the succession of Roman Pontiffs the apostolic tradition of the Church has come down to us."*

An ardent apologist, St. Irenaeus was also a profound theologian. He has been called the father of the Catholic theology and the golden link binding the spirit of the Gospel to the doctrine of the Fathers. With his ears still full of the last echoes of apostolic teaching (Alleluia), he was the first to write a reasoned summary of our faith. His treatise: "False doctrine unmasked and refuted" also called "Against heresies" gave the death blow to gnostic heresy.

St. Jerome gives him the glorious title of Martyr. He died, as is believed, during the persecution of Septimus Severus in 202. Benedict XV. extended his feast to the universal Church.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Lex veritátis fuit in ore ejus, et iníquitas non est invénta in lábiis ejus: in pace, et in aequitáte ambulávit mecum, et multos avértit ab iniquitáte. Ps. Cum his, quo odérunt pacem, eram pacíficus: cum loquébar illis, impugnábant me gratis. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Mal. ii. 6.—The law of truth was in his mouth, and iniquity was not found in his lips: he walked with me in peace, and in equity, and turned many away from iniquity. Ps. cxix. 7. With them that hated peace I was peaceable: when I spoke to them they fought against me without cause. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui beáto Irenaeo Mártyri tuo atque Pontífici tribuísti, ut et veritáte doctrínae expugnáret haereses, et pacem Ecclésiae felíciter confirmáret: da, quaesumus, plebi tuae in sancta religióne constántiam; et pacem tuam nostris concéde tempóribus. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, of Whose gift it was that blessed Irenaeus should both fight against heresy with the weapon of true doctrine, and also establish peace in Thy Church: give unto Thy people, we beseech Thee, constancy in their holy religion, and grant us Thy peace in our days. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Octave of St. John, p. 1439, and of the Vigil of the Apostles, p. 1452.

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Timótheum.—Carissime: Pérmane in iis, quae didicísti, et crédita sunt tibi: Consciens a quo didíceris; et quia ab infántia sacras lítteras nosti, quae te possunt instrúere ad

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to Timothy. 2 Tim. iii. 14-17, iv. 1-5.—Dearly beloved: Continue thou in those things which thou hast learned, and which have been committed to thee:

* Haer. Book I., chap. VI. and X.—Book III., chap. III., No. 2.

knowing of whom thou hast learned them: and because from thine infancy thou hast known the Holy Scriptures, which can instruct thee to salvation, through the faith which is Christ Jesus. All Scripture, inspired of God, is profitable to teach, to reprove, to correct, to instruct in justice, that the man of God may be perfect, furnished to every good work. I charge thee before God and Jesus Christ, Who shall judge the living and the dead, by His coming, and His kingdom: Preach the word: be instant in season, out of season; reprove, entreat, rebuke in all patience and doctrine. For there shall come a time when they shall not endure sound doctrine; but according to their own desires shall heap up to themselves teachers, having itching ears, and from the truth, indeed, will turn away their hearing and be turned unto fables. But do thou watch; in all things labour; do the work of an evangelist: fulfil thy ministry.

salútem, per fidem, quae est in Christo Jesu. Omnis Scriptúra divínitus inspiráta útilis est ad docéndum, ad arguéndum, ad erudiéndum in justítia: ut perféctus sit homo Dei, ad omne opus bonum instrúctus. Testíficor coram Deo, et Jesu Christo, qui judicatúrus est vivos et mórtuos, per advéntum ipsíus, et regnum ejus: praedica verbum, insta opportúne, importúne: argue, óbsecra, íncrepa in omni patiéntia, et doctrína. Erit enim tempus, cum sanam doctrínam non sustinébunt, sed ad sua desidéria coacervábunt sibi magístros, pruriéntes áuribus, et a veritáte quidem audítum avértent, ad fábulas autem converténtur. Tu vero vígila, in ómnibus labóra, opus fac Evangelístae, ministérium tuum imple.

Gradual. Ps. cxxi. 8.—For my brethren's and my neighbour's sake I spake peace concerning thee. ℣. Ps. xxxvi. 37. Keep innocence and behold equity; for to a man who loves peace there are things that remain over.

Graduále. — Propter fratres meos, et próximos meos loquébar pacem de te. Custódi innocéntiam, et vide aequitátem: quóniam sunt relíquiae hómini pacífico.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ecclus. vi. 35.—Stand in the multitude of the prudent priests, and from thy heart join thyself to their wisdom, that thou mayest hear every discourse of God. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. In multitúdine presbyterórum prudéntium sta, et sapiéntiae illórum ex corde conjúngere, ut omnem narratiónem Dei possis audíre. Allelúia.

Gospel: see p. 227, from: Nolíte timére.

Offertory. Ecclus. xxiv. 44.—My doctrine I make to shine for Offertórium. — Doctrínam quasi antelucánum illúmino ómnibus, et enarrábo illam usque ad longínquum.

all like the dawn at morn, and will declare it afar off.

Secréta. — Deus, qui credéntes in te pópulos nullis sinis cóncuti terróribus: dignáre preces et hóstias dicátae tibi plebis suscípere; ut pax a tua pietáte concéssa, christianórum fines ab omni hoste fáciat esse secúros. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—O God, Who permittest the peoples that believe in Thee not to be shaken by any terrors: deign to receive the prayers and offerings of a people concentrated to Thee; that peace may be granted us by Thy merciful love, so as to keep Christian lands safe from every enemy. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Octave, p. 1441, and of the Vigil, p. 1454.

Commúnio. — Vidéte quóniam non soli mihi laborávi, sed ómnibus exquiréntibus veritátem.

Communion. Ecclus. xxiv. 47. —See ye, that I have not laboured for myself only, but for all that seek out the truth.

Postcommúnio. — Deus, auctor pacis et amátor, quem nosse, vívere cui servíre, regnáre est: prótege ab ómnibus impugnatiónibus súpplices tuos; ut, qui in defensióne tua confídimus, beáti Irenaei Mártyris tui atque Pontíficis intercessióne, nullius hostilitátis arma timeámus. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—O God, the author and lover of peace, Whom to know is truly to live, Whom to serve is truly to reign: do Thou protect us, Thy suppliants, from all hostile attacks: so that, by the intercession of blessed Irenaeus, Thy martyr and bishop, we, who put all our trust in Thy defence, may not fear the onset of any of our foes. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Octave, p. 1442, and of the Vigil, p. 1454.

The Gospel of the Vigil is said at the end of the Mass.

THE SAME DAY.

The Vigil of the Feast of SS. Peter and Paul.

The Church celebrates to-morrow the feast of the two Apostles who are the two foundations on which she is solidly established (Collect).

"The rigour which a people subjects itself to by certain days of preparation," writes Dom Guéranger, "is a mark of the faith which it has preserved, showing that it understands the greatness of the object proposed by holy Liturgy to its worship."*

Peter raised to his cross (Introit, Gospel), like Christ, rises above the world. He seals in his blood his confession of faith (Gospel of to-morrow), and love (Gospel) in Jesus, and henceforth it will be in His name (Ibid) and as His vicar that he will be king of souls.

* Liturgical Year: Vigil of the Holy Apostles.

Paul, by sharing his labours and martyrdom, shares his kingship and his triumph.

MASS.

Introit. John xxi. 18, 19.—The Lord said to Peter: When thou wast younger, thou didst gird thyself, and didst walk where thou wouldst: but when thou shalt be old, thou shalt stretch forth thy hands, and another shall gird thee, and lead thee whither thou wouldst not: and this He said, signifying by what death he should glorify God. Ps. xviii. 2. The heavens show forth the glory of God: and the firmament declareth the works of His hands. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus. — Dicit Dóminus Petro: Cum esses júnior, cingébas te, et ambulábas ubi volébas: cum autem senúeris, exténdes manus tuas, et álius te cinget, et ducet quo tu non vis: hoc autem dixit, significans qua morte clarificatúrus esset Deum. Ps. Coeli enárrant glóriam Dei: et ópera mánuum ejus annúntiat firmaméntum. ℣. Glória Patri.

The Gloria in excélsis is not said.

Collect.—We beseech Thee, Almighty God, that Thou suffer no disturbance to shake us, whom Thou hast founded as on a rock on the confession of Thine apostle. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut nullis nos permíttas perturbatiónibus cóncuti; quos in apostólicae confessiónis petra solidásti. Per Dóminum.

Second Collect: Concéde, p. 159; Third Collect: Ecclésiae, p. 154, or Deus omnium, p. 155.

Epistle. Lesson from the Acts of the Apostles iii. 1-10.—In those days, Peter and John went up into the temple, at the ninth hour of prayer. And a certain man, who was lame from his mother's womb, was carried; whom they laid every day at the gate of the temple, which is called Beautiful, that he might ask alms of them that went into the temple. He, when he had seen Peter and John about to go into the temple, asked to receive an alms. But Peter, with John, fastening his eyes upon Epistola. Léctio Actuum Apostolórum.—In diébus illis: Petrus et Joánnes ascendébant in templum ád horam oratiónis nonam. Et quidam vir, qui erat claudus ex útero matris suae, bajulabátur: quem ponébant quotídie ad portam templi, quae dícitur Speciósa, ut péteret eleemósynam ab introeúntibus in templum. Is cum vidísset Petrum et Joánnem incipiéntes introíre in templum, rogábat, ut eleemósynam accíperet. Intuens autem in eum Petrus cum Joánne, dixit: Réspice in nos. At ille intendébat in eos, sperans se áliquid acceptúrum ab eis. Petrus autem dixit: Argéntum et aurum non est mihi: quod autem hábeo, hoc tibi do: In nómine Jesu Christi Nazaréni surge, et ámbula. Et apprehénsa manu ejus déxtera, allevávit eum, et prótinus consolidátae sunt bases ejus, et plantae. Et exsíliens stetit, et ambulábat: et intrávit cum illis in templum, ámbulans, et exsíliens, et laudans Deum. Et vidit omnis pópulus eum ambulántem, et laudántem Deum. Cognoscébant autem illum, quod ipse erat, qui ad eleemósynam sedébat ad Speciósam portam templi: et impléti sunt stupóre et éxtasi in eo, quod contígerat illi.

him, said: Look upon us. But he looked earnestly upon them, hoping that he should receive something of them. But Peter said: Silver and gold I have none, but what I have I give thee: In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, arise and walk. And taking him by the right hand, he lifted him up: and forthwith his feet and soles received strength. And he leaping up, stood and walked: and went in with them into the temple, walking, and leaping, and praising God. And all the people saw him walking and praising God. And they knew him, that it was he who sat begging alms at the Beautiful gate of the temple: and they were filled with wonder and amazement at that which had happened to him.

Graduále.—In omnem terram exívit sonus eórum: et in fines orbis terrae verba eórum. ℣. Coeli enárrant glóriam Dei: et ópera mánuum ejus annúntiat firmaméntum.

Gradual. Ps. xviii. 5, 2.—Their sound went forth into all the earth: and tneir words to the ends of the world. ℣. The heavens show forth the glory of God: and the firmament declareth the works of His hands.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus Simóni Petro: Simon Joánnis, diligis me plus his? Dicit ei: Etiam, Dómine, tu scis quia amo te. Dicit ei: Pasce agnos meos. Dicit ei íterum: Simon Joánnis, díligis me? Ait illi: Etiam, Dómine, tu scis quia amo te. Dicit ei: Pasce agnos meos. Dicit ei tértio: Simon Joánnis, amas me? Contristátus est

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John xxi. 15-19.—At that time, Jesus said to Simon Peter, Simon son of John, lovest thou Me more than these? He saith to Him: Yea Lord, Thou knowest that I love Thee. He saith to him: Feed My lambs. He saith to him again: Simon, son of John, lovest thou Me? He saith to Him, Yea Lord, Thou knowest that I love Thee. He saith to him. Feed My lambs. He saith to him the third time: Simon, son of John, lovest thou Me? And he said to Him, Lord, Thou knowest all things; Thou knowest that I love Thee. He said to him: Feed My sheep. Amen, amen I say to thee, when thou was younger, thou didst gird thyself, and didst walk where thou wouldst: but when thou shalt be old, thou shalt stretch for thy hands, and another shall gird thee, and lead thee whither thou wouldst not. And this He said, signifying by what death he should glorify God.

Petrus, quia dixit ei tértio, Amas me? et dixit ei: Dómine, tu ómnia nosti: tu scis quia amo te. Dixit ei: Pasce oves meas. Amen, amen dico tibi: cum esses júnior, cingébas te, et ambulábas ubi volébas: cum autem senúeris, exténdes manus tuas, et álius te cinget, et ducet quo tu non vis. Hoc autem dixit, signíficans qua morte clarificatúrus esset Deum.

Offertory.—Ps. cxxxviii. 17.—To me Thy friends, O God, are made exceedingly honourable; their principality is exceedingly strengthened.

Offertórium. — Mihi autem nimis honoráti sunt amíci tui, Deus: nimis confortátus est principátus eórum.

Secret.—Give ear, O Lord, to the pleading of Thine apostles: hallow the offerings of Thy people, and cleanse us from all stain of sin. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Munus pópuli tui, quaesumus, Dómine, apostólica intercessióne sanctífica: nosque a peccatórum nostrórum máculis emúnda. Per Dóminum.

Other Secrets, p. 159 and 154 or 155.

Communion. John xxi. 15, 17.—Simon, son of John, lovest thou Me more than these? Lord, Thou knowest all things, Thou knowest, Lord, that I love Thee.

Commúnio. — Simon Joánnis, díligis me plus his? Dómine, tu ómnia nosti: tu scis, Dómine, quia amo te.

Postcommunion. — Thou hast filled us, O Lord, with heavenly food: be moved by the prayers of Thine apostles, and deliver us from all dangers. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Quos coeléstí, Dómine, aliménto satiásti: apostólicis intercessiónibus ab omni adversitáte custódi. Per Dóminum.

Other Postcommunions: p. 159 and 154 or 155.

The Holy Apostles Peter and Paul.

June 29.

The Holy Apostles Peter and Paul.*—Double of the First Class with an Octave.—Red vestments.

To-day the whole Church rejoices, for " God has consecrated this day by the martyrdom of the Apostles Peter and Paul " (Collect). In both the grand basilicas erected at Rome over the tombs " of these two Princes who by the cross and the sword have obtained their seat in the eternal senate,"† this double sacrifice was celebrated. Later, on account of the distance which separates the two churches the festival was divided, St. Peter being more specially honoured on June 29 and St. Paul on June 30.

St. Peter, Bishop of Rome, is the vicar, that is to say the visible representative of Christ. As is shown in the Preface, Alleluia, Gospel, Offertory and Communion, the Jews had rejected Jesus. They also rejected His successor (Epistle). Displacing the religious centre of the world, St. Peter then left Jerusalem for Rome which became the eternal city and the seat of all the Popes.

St. Peter, the first Pope, speaks in the name of Christ Who has communicated to him His doctrine of infallibility. He is not guided by flesh and blood, but by the heavenly Father Who does not permit the gates of hell to prevail against the Church of which He is the foundation (Gospel).

St. Peter on receiving the keys is placed at the head of the " kingdom of heaven " upon earth, that is to say the Church, and he reigns in the name of Christ Who has invested him with His power and supreme authority (Gospel).

The names of St. Peter and St. Paul head the names of the Apostles in the Canon of the Mass (First List, p. 59).

With " the Church which did not cease praying to God for St. Peter " (Epistle), let us pray for his successor " the servant of God, our Holy Father the Pope " (Canon of the Mass).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

FIRST VESPERS.

Psalms as in the Common of Apostles, p. 206.

Ant. 1. Acts iii. 1.—Peter and John went up to the temple at the hour of prayer, which was the ninth hour.

Ant. — Petrus et Joánnes * ascendébant in templum ad horam oratiónis nonam.

2. Ibid. iii. 6.—Silver and gold have I none; but what I have, I give thee.

2. Argéntum * et aurum non est mihi: quod autem hábeo, hoc tibi do.

3. Ibid. xii. 8.—The Angel said to Peter: Cast thy garment about thee, and follow me.

3. Dixit Angelus ad Petrum* circúmda tibi vestiméntum tuum et séquere me.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007. † Hymn at Vespers.

4. Misit Dóminus * Angelum suum, et liberávit me de manu Heródis, allelúia.

4. Ibid. xii. 11.—The Lord hath sent His angel, and hath delivered me out of the hand of Herod. Alleluia.

5. Tu es Petrus, * et super hanc petram aedificábo Ecclésiam meam.

5. Matt. xvi. 18.—Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build My Church.

Chapter and Hymn of Second Vespers, pp. 1460, 1461.

℣. In omnem terram exívit sonus eórum.
℟. Et in fines orbis terrae verba eórum.

℣. Their sound has gone forth into all lands.
℟. And their words to the ends of the world.

Ant.—Tu es pastor óvium, * Princeps Apostolórum; tibi tráditae sunt claves regni coelórum.

Ant. at the Magnificat.—Thou art the shepherd of the sheep, O prince of the apostles, to thee were delivered the keys of the kingdom of heaven.

MASS.

Introítus.—Nunc scio vere, quia misit Dóminus Angelum suum: et erípuit me de manu Heródis, et de omni expectatióne plebis Judaeórum. Ps. Dómine, probásti me, et cognovísti me: tu cognovísti sessiónem meam, et resurrectiónem meam. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Acts xii. 11.—Now I know in very deed, that the Lord hath sent His Angel, and hath delivered me out of the hand of Herod, and from all the expectation of the people of the Jews. Ps. cxxxviii. 1, 2. Lord Thou hast proved me, and known me: Thou hast known my sitting down, and my rising up. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus.—Deus, qui hodiérnam diem Apostolórum tuórum Petri et Pauli martyrio consecrásti: da Ecclésiae tuae, eórum in ómnibus sequi praecéptum; per quos religiónis sumpsit exórdium. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who hast consecrated this day by the martyrdom of Thine apostles Peter and Paul: vouchsafe that Thy church in all things may obey the command of those through whom Thou wast pleased in the beginning to establish her.

Epistola. Léctio Actuum Apostolórum.—In diébus illis: Misit Heródes rex manus, Epistle. Lesson from the Acts of the Apostles xii. 1-11.—In those days, Herod the king stretched forth his hands to afflict some of the Church: and he killed James, the brother of John, with the sword; and seeing that it pleased the Jews, he proceeded to take up Peter also. Now it was in the days of the azymes: and when he had apprehended him, he cast him into prison, delivering him to four files of soldiers to be kept, intending after the pasch to bring him forth to the people. Peter therefore was kept in prison; but prayer was made without ceasing by the church unto God for him. And when Herod would have brought him forth, the same night Peter was sleeping between two soldiers, bound with two chains; and the keepers before the door kept the prison: and behold, an angel of the Lord stood by him, and a light shined in the room; and he striking Peter on the side, raised him up, saying: Arise quickly; and the chains fell off from his hands; and the angel said to him: Gird thyself, and put on thy sandals; and he did so: and he said to him, Cast thy garment about thee, and follow me; and going out, he followed him: and he knew not that it was true which was done by the angel; but he thought he saw a vision. And passing through the first and the second ward, they came to the iron gate that leadeth to the city, which of itself opened to them; and going out, they passed on through one street, and immediately the angel ut afflígeret quosdam de ecclésia. Occídit autem Jacóbum fratrem Joánnis gládio. Videns autem quia placéret Judaeis, appósuit ut apprehénderet et Petrum. Erant autem dies azymórum. Quem cum apprehendísset, misit in cárcerem, tradens quátuor quaterniónibus mílitum custodiéndum, volens post Pascha prodúcere eum pópulo. Et Petrus quidem servabátur in cárcere. Orátio autem fiébat sine intermissióne ab Ecclésia ad Deum pro eo. Cum autem productúrus eum esset Heródes, in ipsa nocte erat Petrus dórmiens inter duos mílites, vinctus caténis duábus: et custódes ante óstium custodiébant cárcerem. Et ecce Angelus Dómini ástitit: et lumen refúlsit in habitáculo: percussóque látere Petri, excitávit eum, dicens: Surge velóciter. Et cecidérunt caténae de mánibus ejus. Dixit autem Angelus ad eum: Praecíngere, et cálcea te cáligas tuas. Et fecit sic. Et dixit illi: Circúmda tibi vestiméntum tuum, et séquere me. Et éxiens sequebátur eum, et nesciébat quia verum est, quod fiébat per Angelum: existimábat autem se visum vidére. Transeúntes autem primam et secúndam custódiam, venérunt ad portam férream, quae ducit ad civitátem: quae ultro apérta est eis. Et exeúntes processérunt vicum unum: et contínuo discéssit Angelus ab eo. Et Petrus ad se revérsus, dixit: Nunc scio vere, quia misit Dó-minus Angelum suum, et erípuit me de manu Heródis, et de omni exspectatióne plebis Judaeórum.

departed from him. And Peter coming to himself, said, Now I know in very deed that the Lord hath sent His angel, and hath delivered me out of the hand of Herod, and from all the expectation of the people of the Jews.

Graduále. — Constítues eos príncipes super omnem terram : mémores erunt nominis tui, Dómine. ℣. Pro pátribus tuis nati sunt tibi fílii : propterea pópuli confitebúntur tibi.

Gradual. Ps. xliv. 17, 18.—Thou shalt make them princes over all the earth : they shall remember Thy name, O Lord. ℣. Instead of thy fathers, sons are born to thee : therefore shall people praise thee.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Tu es Petrus, et super hanc petram aedifícabo Ecclésiam meam. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Matt. xvi. 18.—℣. Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build My Church. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore : Venit Jesus in partes Caesaréae Philíppi, et interrogábat discípulos suos, dicens : Quem dicunt hómines esse Fílium hóminis ? At illi dixérunt : Alii Joánnem Baptístam, álii autem Elíam, álii vero Jeremíam, aut unum ex prophétis. Dicit illis Jesus : Vos autem quem me esse dícitis ? Respóndens Simon Petrus, dixit : Tu es Christus, Fílius Dei vivi. Respóndens autem Jesus, dixit ei : Beátus es, Simon Bar Jona : quia caro et sanguis non revelávit tibi, sed Pater meus, qui in coelis est. Et ego dico tibi, quia tu es Petrus, et super hanc petram aedificabo Ecclésiam meam, et portae ínferi non praevalébunt advérsus eam. Et tibi dabo claves regni coelórum. Et quodcúmque ligáveris super terram, erit ligá-

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew xvi. 13-19.—At that time, Jesus came into the quarters of Caesarea Philippi, and He asked His disciples, saying, Whom do men say that the Son of man is? But they said : Some, John the Baptist, and other some Elias, and others Jeremias, or one of the prophets. Jesus saith to them : But whom do you say that I am? Simon Peter answered, and said, Thou art Christ, the Son of the living God. And Jesus answering, said to him, Blessed art thou, Simon Bar-Jona, because flesh and blood hath not revealed it to thee, but My Father Who is in heaven : and I say to thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build My Church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it ; and I will give to thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven; and whatsoever thou shalt bind upon earth, it shall be bound also in heaven; and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth, it shall be loosed also in heaven.—Credo.

tum et in coelis: et quodcúmque sólveris super terram, erit solútum et in coelis.—Credo.

Offertory Ps. xliv. 17, 18.—Thou shalt make them princes over all the earth; they shall remember Thy name, O Lord, throughout all generations.

Offertórium.—Constitues eos príncipes super omnem terram: mémores erant nóminis tui, Dómine, in omni progénie et generatióne.

Secret.—Together, O Lord, with the divine victim we are about to offer up, may the prayer of Thine apostles mount before Thee, and in Thy mercy, may it atone for and safeguard us. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Hóstias, Dómine, quas nómini tuo sacrándas offérimus, apostólica prosequátur orátio: per quam nos expiári tríbuas, et deféndi. Per Dóminum.

The Preface of the Apostles and the Credo are said during the whole Octave.

Communion. — Thou art Peter: and upon this rock I will build my Church.

Commúnio.—Tu es Petrus, et super hanc petram aedificábo Ecclésiam meam.

Postcommunion. — Thou hast filled us with bread from heaven, O Lord, be moved by the prayers of Thine apostles, and deliver us from all dangers. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio.— Quos coeléstí, Dómine, aliménto satiásti: apostólicis intercessiónibus ab omni adversitáte custódi. Per Dóminum.

SECOND VESPERS.

Psalms and Antiphons as in the Common of Apostles, p. 208.

Chapter. Acts xii. 1.—Herod the king stretched out his hand to afflict some of the Church: and he killed James, the brother of John, with the sword. And seeing that it pleased the Jews, he proceeded to take up Peter also.

Capitulum.—Misit Heródes rex manus, ut afflígeret quosdam de Ecclésia. † Occídit autem Jacóbum fratrem Joánnis gládio. * Videns autem quia placéret Judaeis, appósuit ut apprehénderet et Petrum.

Hymn.

ELPIS, wife of Boetius, Vth Century.

4.

2. Múndi Magíster, atque coeli jánitor, Rómae paréntes, arbitríque géntium, Per énsis ille, hic per crucis victor necem Vitae senátum laureáti póssident.

2. Peter and Paul, the Fathers of great Rome!
Now sitting in the Senate of the skies!
One by the Cross, the other by the Sword,
Sent to their thrones on high, and life's eternal prize.

3. O Roma felix, quae duórum príncipum Es consecráta glorióso sánguine: Horum cruóre purpuráta céteras, Excéllis orbis una pulchritúdines.

3. O happy Rome! whom that most glorious blood
For ever consecrates while ages flow:
Thou, thus empurpled, art more beautiful
Than all that doth appear most beautiful now.

4. Praise, blessing, majesty, through endless days,
Be to the Trinity immortal given;
Who, in pure unity, profoundly sways
Eternally all things alike in earth and Heaven.
Amen.

4. Sit Trinitáti sempitérna glória, Honor, potéstas, atque jubilátio, In unitáte quae gubérnat ómnia, Per univérsa aeternitátis saecula. Amen.

℣. They declared the works of God.
℟. And understood His doings.

℣. Annúntiavérunt ópera Dei.
℟. Et facta ejus intellexérunt.

Ant. at the Magnificat. Ps. lxiii. 10.—This day Simon Peter ascended the agonising cross. Alleluia. This day the keeper of heaven's keys went on his way to Christ with joy. This day the apostle Paul, the light of the world, laying down his head for the name of Christ, was crowned with martyrdom. Alleluia.

Ant.—Hódie * Simon Petrus ascéndit crucis patíbulum, allelúia: hódie Claviculárius regni, gaudens migrávit ad Christum: hódie Paulus Apóstolus, lumen orbis terrae, inclináto cápite, pro Christi nómine martyrio coronátus est, allelúia.

JUNE 30.

Commemoration of St. Paul, APOSTLE.*—Greater-double.—Red vestments.

"The Tiber on entering Rome," writes an ancient poet, "salutes the Basilica of St. Peter and, on leaving it, that of St. Paul. The heavenly door-keeper has built His sacred abode at the gates of the eternal city which is an image of heaven. On the opposite side, the ramparts of the city are protected by Paul's portico: Rome is between the two." With Peter, the new Moses, leader of the New Israel, is associated Paul, the new Aaron, more eloquent than the first, chosen in his mother's womb, to announce to the Gentiles the riches of the grace of Christ. (Collect Gradual, Epistle).

MASS.

Introit. 2 Tim. i. 12.—I know whom I have believed, and I am certain that He is able to keep that which I have committed to Him against that day; being a just judge. Ps. cxxxviii.

Introítus.— Scio cui crédidi, et certus sum, quia potens est depósitum meum serváre in illum diem, justus judex. Ps. Dómine, probásti me, et cognovísti me: tu cognovísti ses-

* See Historical Summary, p. 1005.

siónem meam et resurrectiónem meam. ℣. Glória Patri.

1, 2. Lord, Thou hast proved me and known me: Thou hast known my sitting down, and my rising up. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui multitúdinem géntium beáti Pauli Apóstoli praedicatióne docuísti: da nobis, quaesumus; ut, cujus natalítia cólimus, ejus apud te patrocínia sentiámus. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who didst teach the multitude of the Gentiles by the preaching of blessed Paul the apostle; grant us, we beseech Thee, to experience his patronage with Thee, whose commemoration we celebrate. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of St. Peter: Deus, qui, p. 1218, and of St John, p. 1439.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Gálatas.—Fratres: Notum vobis fácio Evangélium quod evangelizátum est a me, quia non est secúndum hóminem: neque enim ego ab hómine accépi illud, neque dídici, sed per revelatiónem Jesu Christi. Audístis enim conversatiónem meam aliquándo in Judaísmo: quóniam supra modum persequébar Ecclésiam Dei, et expugnábam illam, et proficiébam in Judaísmo supra multos coaetáneos meos in génere meo, abundántius aemulátor exsístens paternárum meárum traditiónum. Cum autem plácuit ei, qui me segregávit ex útero matris meae, et vocávit per grátiam suam, ut reveláret Fílium suum in me, ut evangelizárem illum in géntibus: contínuo non acquiévi carni et sánguini, neque veni Jerosólymam ad antecessóres meos Apóstolos: sed ábii in Arábiam: et íterum revérsus sum Damáscum:

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Galatians i. 11-20.—Brethren, I give you to understand that the gospel which was preached by me is not according to man. For neither did I receive it of man, nor did I learn it; but by the revelation of Jesus Christ. For you have heard of my conversion in time past in the Jew's religion: how that beyond measure I persecuted the Church of God, and wasted it; and I made progress in the Jew's religion above many of my equals in my own nation, being more abundantly zealous for the traditions of my fathers. But when it pleased Him, who separated me from my mother's womb, and called me by His grace, to reveal His Son in me, that I might preach Him among the Gentiles, immediately I condescended not to flesh and blood. Neither went I to Jerusalem to the Apostles who were before me: but I went into Arabia, and again

I returned to Damascus. Then, after three years, I went to Jerusalem to see Peter, and I tarried with him fifteen days; but other of the apostles I saw none; saving James the brother of the Lord. Now the things which I write to you, behold before God I lie not.

deínde post annos tres veni Jerosólymam vidére Petrum, et mansi apud eum diébus quíndecim: álium autem Apostolórum vidi néminem, nisi Jacóbum fratrem Dómini. Quae autem scribo vobis, ecce coram Deo, quia non méntior.

Gradual. Gal. ii. 8, 9.—He Who wrought in Peter to the apostleship, wrought in me also among the Gentiles; and they knew the grace of God, which was given to me. ℣. The grace of God in me hath not been void; but His grace always remaineth in me.

Graduále.—Qui operátus est Petro in apostolátum, operátus est et mihi inter gentes: et cognovérunt grátiam Dei, quae data est mihi. ℣. Grátia Dei in me vácua non fuit: sed grátia ejus semper in me manet.

Alleluia, alleluia.—℣. Holy apostle Paul, preacher of truth, and doctor of the Gentiles, intercede for us. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Sancte Paule Apóstole, praedicátor veritátis, et doctor géntium, intercéde pro nobis. Allelúia.

Gospel: Ecce ego mitto vos, p. 1412.—The Credo is said.
Offertory: Mihi autem, p. 1454.

Secret.—Moved by the prayers of Paul, Thine apostle, do Thou, O Lord, hallow the offerings of Thy people: and may this holy sacrifice, ever acceptable to Thee Who hast ordained it, be yet more grateful in Thy sight, inasmuch as with it our holy Protector pleads to Thee in our behalf. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Apóstoli tui Pauli précibus, Dómine, plebis tuae dona sanctifica: ut, quae tibi tuo grata sunt institúto, gratióra fiant patrocínio supplicántis. Per Dóminum.

Of St. Peter.

Secret.—May the intercession, we beseech Thee, O Lord, of Thy blessed apostle Peter, render well-pleasing in Thy sight the prayers and sacrifices offered up by Thy Church: and may the sacred rite gone through this day in his honour, avail us to the obtaining of Thy forgiveness.

Secréta. — Ecclésiae tuae, quaesumus, Dómine, preces et hóstias beáti Petri Apóstoli comméndet orátio: ut, quod pro illíus glória celebrámus, nobis prosit ad véniam.

Of St. John the Baptist: Tua Dómine, p. 1441.

Preface of the Apostles, p. 57.—Communion: Amen, dico vobis, p. 276.

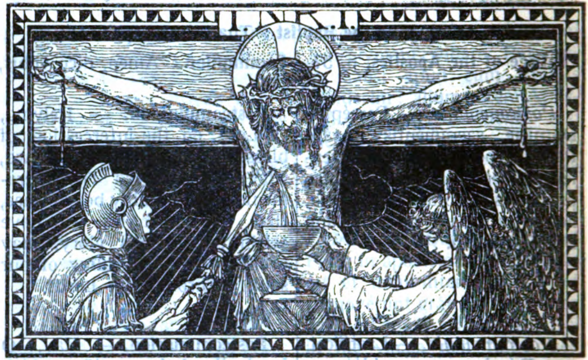
Postcommúnio. — Percéptis. Dómine, sacraméntis: beáto Paulo Apóstolo tuo intervenénte, deprecámur; ut, quae pro illíus celebráta sunt glória, nobis profíciant ad medélam. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Relying, O Lord, on the intercession of blessed Paul, Thine apostle, we, who have received Thy sacraments, most humbly beg of Thee, that the mysteries we have celebrated to His glory, may profit us to the healing of our souls. Through our Lord.



Of St. Peter.

Postcommúnio. — Laetíficet nos, Dómine, munus oblátum: ut sicut in Apóstolo tuo Petro te mirábilem praedicámus, sic per illum tuae sumámus indulgéntiae largitátem. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — May, O Lord, the holy sacrifice which we have offered up, fill our hearts with joy: and may we who praise and magnify Thee, because of the wonders Thou hast wrought in Peter, Thine apostle, through his intercession, ourselves come to enjoy the fulness of Thy mercy. Through our Lord.

Of St. John the Baptist: Sumat, p. 1442.

FEASTS OF JULY.

JULY 1.

Feast of the Most Precious Blood of Our Lord Jesus Christ.*—Double of the Second Class.—Red vestments.

The Liturgy, that admirable summary of the history of the Church, reminds us every year that at this date in 1849, thanks to the French army, the Revolution which had driven the Pope from Rome was vanquished. To perpetuate the memory of this triumph and to show that it was due to the Saviour's merits, Pius IX., at the time a refugee at Gaeta, instituted the Feast of the Precious Blood. We are reminded of all the circumstances in which it was shed.†

The heart of Jesus has made this adorable blood circulate in His limbs; wherefore, as on the feast of the Sacred Heart, the Gospel presents to our view the thrust of the lance which pierced the side of the Divine Crucified, blood and water gushing forth. Thus become united the two testimonies which the Holy Ghost bore to the Messiah, when He was baptised in the water of the Jordan and when He was baptised in blood on the cross (Gradual).‡

Let us do homage to the precious Blood of our Redeemer which the priest offers to God on the Altar.

FIRST VESPERS (JUNE 30).

The First Four Psalms for Sunday, p. 98 and Psalm: Lauda Jerusalem, p. 134.

Ant. 1. Isa. lxiii. 1.—Who is this that cometh from Edom, with dyed-garments from Bosra? This beautiful one in his robe?	Ant.—1. Quis est iste * qui venit de Edom, tinctis véstibus de Bosra? Iste formósus in stola sua.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1017.

† The Office of Matins speaks of the blood which Jesus shed at the Circumcision, the Garden of Olives, the Flagellation, the Crowning of thorns and on the Cross.

‡ The Docetes taught that Jesus was the Christ at His baptism, and had thus come by water, but being no longer Christ on the Cross, He had not come by blood.

2. Ego*qui loquor justítiam, et propugnátor sum ad salvándum.

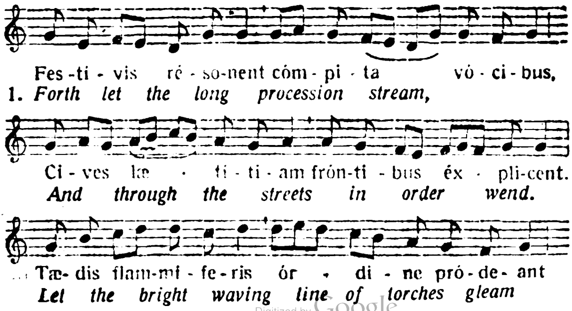
2. Isa. lxiii. 1.—I that speak justice, and am a defender to save.

3. Vestítus erat * veste aspérsa sánguine, et vocátur nomen ejus Verbum Dei.

3. Apoc. xix. 13.—He was clothed in a robe sprinkled with blood, and His name is called the Word of God.

4. Quare ergo * rubrum est indum:néntum tuum, et vestiménta tua sicut calcántium in torculári?

4. Isa. lxiii. 2.—Why then is Thine apparel red, and Thy garments like them that tread in the wine-press?



5. Tórcular * calcávi solus, et de géntibus non est vir mecum.

5. Isa. lxiii 3.—I have trodden the wine-press alone, and of the Gentiles there is not a man with Me.

Capitulum.—Fratres: Christus assístens Póntifex futurórum bonórum, per ámplius et perféctius tabernáculum non manufáctum, id est, non hujus creatiónis: † neque per sánguinem hircórum aut vitulórum, sed per próprium sánguinem introívit semel in Sancta, * aetérna redemptióne invénta.

Chapter. Heb. ix. 11.—Brethren, Christ being come, an high priest of good things to come, by a greater and more perfect tabernacle not made with hands, that is, not of this creation, neither by the blood of goats or of calves, but by His own blood, entered once into the holies, having obtained eternal redemption.

Hymn. (Tone VIII.)

Ins-trúc - ti pú - e - ri et se - nes. (A - men.
The solemn chant ascend. (A - men.)

2. While we, with tears and sighs profound, [cord,
That memorable blood re-
Which, stretch'd on His hard cross, from many a wound,
The dying Jesus pour'd.

3. By the first Adam's fatal sin Came death upon the human race; [life begin,
In this new Adam doth new
And everlasting grace.

4. For scarce the Father heard from heaven
The cry of His expiring Son,
When in that cry our sins
were all forgiven,
And boundless pardon won.

5. Henceforth, whoso in that
dear blood [stain:
Washeth, shall lose his every
And in immortal roseate beauty rob'd
An angel's likeness gain.

6. Only, run thou with courage on Straight to the goal set in the skies;
He who assists thy course will give thee soon
The everlasting prize.

7. Father supreme! vouchsafe that we, [was slain
For whom Thine only Son
And whom Thy Holy Ghost
doth sanctify,
May heavenly joys attain.
Amen.

2. Quem dura móriens Christus in árbore
Fudit multíplici vúlnere sánguinem, [mus, decet
Nos facti mémores dum cóli-
Saltem fúndere lácrymas.

3. Humáno géneri perniícies gravis [tigit:
Adámi véteris crímine cón-
Adámi intégritas et píetas novi
Vitam réddidit ómnibus.

4. Clamórem válidum summus ab aethere
Languéntis Géniti si Pater
áudiit,
Placári pótius sánguine débuit,
Et nobis véniam dare.

5. Hoc quicúmque stolam sán-guine próluit, [decus,
Abstérgit máculas, et róseum Quo fiat símilis prótinus Angelis,
Et Regi pláceat, capit.

6. A recto instábilis trámite
póstmodum [última
Se nullus rétrahat; meta sed
Tangátur: tríbuet nóbile praemium,
Qui cursum Deus ádjuvat.

7. Nobis propítius sis, Génitor potens,
Ut quos unígenae sánguine
Fílii [récreas,
Emísti, et plácido Flámine
Coeli ad cúlmina tránsferas.
Amen.

℣. Redemísti nos Dómine in sánguine tuo. ℟. Et fecísti nos Deo nostro regnum.

℣. Apoc. v. 9.—Thou hast redeemed us, O Lord, in Thy blood. ℟. And hast made of us a kingdom unto our God.

Ant.—Accessístis * ad Sion montem, et civitátem Dei vivéntis, Jerúsalem coeléstem, et testaménti novi mediatórem Jesum, et sánguinis aspersiónem mélius loquéntem quam Abel.

Ant. at the Magnificat. Heb. xii. 22.—Ye are come to Mount Sion, to the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, and to Jesus the mediator of the New Testament, and to the sprinkling of blood, which speaketh better than that of Abel.

MASS.

Intróitus.—Redemísti nos, Dómine, in sánguine tuo, ex omni tribu, et lingua, et pópulo, et natióne: et fecísti nos Deo nostro regnum. Ps. Misericórdias Dómini in aetérnum cantábo: in generatiónem et generatiónem annuntiábo veritátem tuam in ore meo. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Apoc. v. 9, 10.—Thou hast redeemed us, O Lord, in Thy blood, out of every tribe and tongue, and people and nation, and hast made us to our God a kingdom. Ps. lxxxviii. 2. The mercies of the Lord I will sing for ever: I will show forth Thy truth with my mouth to generation and generation. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, qui unigénitum Fílium tuum mundi Redemptórem constituísti, ac ejus Sánguine placári voluísti: concéde, quaesumus, salútis nostrae prétium (solémni cultu) ita venerári, atque a praeséntis vitae malis ejus virtúte deféndi in terris; ut fructu perpétuo laetémur in coelis. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Collect. — O Almighty and Everlasting God, Who hast set up Thine only begotten Son to be the Redeemer of the world, and hast willed to be appeased by His blood: grant unto us, we beseech Thee, in such wise, with solemn worship to reverence the price of our salvation, and in its might to find our defence against the evils of this life, that we may attain in heaven to the everlasting happiness it has bought for us. Through our Lord.

In Votive Masses the words: solemni cultu, are omitted.

Commemoration of the Octave of St. John, Deus qui, p. 1439.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Hebraeos.—Fra-

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Hebrews ix. 11-15.—BRETHREN, Christ being come, a high priest of the good things to come, by a greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands, that is not of this creation, neither by the blood of goats or of calves, but by His own blood, entered once into the Holies, having obtained eternal redemption. For if the blood of goats and of oxen, and the ashes of a heifer being sprinkled sanctify such as are defiled to the cleansing of the flesh, how much more shall the blood of Christ, Who, by the Holy Ghost, offered Himself without spot to God, cleanse our conscience from dead works, to serve the living God? And therefore He is the mediator of the new testament; that by means of His death, for the redemption of those transgressions which were under the former testament; they that are called may receive the promise of eternal inheritance, in Christ Jesus our Lord.

TRES: Christus assístens póntifex futurórum bonórum, per ámplius et perféctius tabernáculum non manufáctum, id est, non hujus creatiónis; neque per sánguinem hircórum, aut vitulórum, sed per próprium sánguinem introívit semel in Sancta, aetérna redemptióne invénta. Si enim sanguis hircórum, et taurórum, et cinis vítulae aspérsus, inquinátos sanctíficat ad emundatiónem carnis: quanto magis sanguis Christi, qui per Spíritum Sanctum semetípsum óbtulit immaculátum Deo, emundábit consciéntiam nostram ab opéribus mórtuis, ad serviéndum Deo vivénti? Et ídeo novi testaménti mediátor est: ut morte intercedénte, in redemptiónem eárum praevaricatiónum, quae erant sub prióri testaménto, repromissiónem accípiant, qui vocáti sunt aetérnae hereditátis, in Christo Jesu Dómino nostro.

Gradual. 1 John v. 6, 7, 8.—This is He that came by water and blood, Jesus Christ; not by water only, but by water and blood. ℣. There are three who give testimony in heaven: the Father, the Word, and the Holy Ghost; and these three are one. And there are three that give testimony on earth: the Spirit, the water, and the blood; and these three are one.

Graduále.—Hic est qui venit per aquam et sánguinem, Jesus Christus: non in aqua solum, sed in aqua et sánguine. ℣. Tres sunt, qui testimónium dant in coelo: Pater, Verbum, et Spíritus sanctus: et hi tres unum sunt. Et tres sunt, qui testimónium dant in terra: Spíritus, aqua, et sanguis: et hi tres unum sunt.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ibid. 9.—℣. If we receive the testimony

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Si testimónium hóminum accípimus, testimónium Dei majus est. Allelúia.

of men, the testimony of God is greater. Alleluia.

In Votive Masses, after Septuagesima, in place of the Alleluia and the ℣. Si testimonium, is said :

Tractus. — Gratificávit nos Deus in dilécto Fílio suo, in quo habémus redemptiónem per sánguinem ejus. ℣. Remissiónem peccatórum, secúndum divítias grátiae ejus quae superabundávit in nobis. ℣. Justificáti gratis per grátiam ipsíus, per redemptiónem, quae est in Christo Jesu. ℣. Quem propósuit Deus propitiatiónem per fidem in sánguine ipsíus.

Tract. Eph. i. 6-8.—God hath graced us in His beloved Son: in whom we have redemption through His blood. ℣. The remission of sins, according to the riches of His grace, which hath superabounded in us. ℣. Being justified freely by His grace, through the redemption, which is in Christ Jesus. ℣. Whom God hath set forth to be a propitiation through faith in His blood.

In Paschal Time, is said:

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Dignus es, Dómine, accípere librum et aperíre signácula ejus: quóniam occísus es, et redemísti nos Deo in sánguine tuo.

Alleluia, alleluia. Apoc. v. 9 — ℣. Worthy art Thou, O Lord, to take the book, and to open the seals thereof: because Thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God in Thy blood.

Allelúia. — ℣. Erit autem sanguis vobis in signum; et vidébo sánguinem, et transíbo vos: nec erit in vobis plaga dispérdens. Allelúia.

Alleluia. Exod. xii. 13.—℣. And the blood shall be to you for a sign: and I shall see the blood and pass over you; and the plague shall not be on you to destroy you. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem. — In illo témpore: Cum accepísset Jesus acétum, dixit: Consummátum est. Et inclináto cápite trádidit spíritum. Judaei ergo (quóniam Parascéve erat) ut non remanérent in cruce córpora sábbato (erat enim magnus dies ille sábbati), rogavérunt Pilá-

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John xix. 30-35.—At that time, Jesus, when He had taken the vinegar, said: It is consummated. And bowing His head, He gave up the ghost. Then the Jews (because it was the Parasceve), that the bodies might not remain upon the cross on the sabbath-day

(for that was a great sabbath-day), besought Pilate that their legs might be broken, and that they might be taken away. The soldiers, therefore, came: and they broke the legs of the first and of the other that was crucified with Him. But after they were come to Jesus, when they saw that He was already dead, they did not break His legs. But one of the soldiers with a spear opened His side, and immediately there came out blood and water. And he that saw it hath given testimony, and his testimony is true.—Credo.

tum, ut frangeréntur eórum crura, et tolleréntur. Venérunt ergo mílites: et primi quidem fregérunt crura, et altérius, qui crucifíxus est cum eo. Ad Jesum autem cum veníssent, ut vidérunt eum jam mórtuum, non fregérunt ejus crura, sed unus mílitum láncea latus ejus apéruit, et contínuo exívit sanguis et aqua. Et qui vidit, testimónium perhíbuit: et verum est testimónium ejus.—Credo.

Offertory. 1 Cor. x. 16.—The chalice of benediction which we bless, is it not the communion of the blood of Christ? And the bread which we break, is it not the partaking of the body of the Lord?

Offertórium. — Calix benedictiónis, cui benedícimus, nonne communicátio sánguinis Christi est? et panis, quem frángimus, nonne participátio córporis Dómini est?

Secret.—Through these divine mysteries, may we, O Lord of Hosts, we beseech Thee, draw near to Jesus, the mediator of the new testament: and upon Thine altars may we renew the sprinkling of that blood which speaketh better than that of Abel.

Secréta. — Per haec divína mystéria, ad novi quaesumus, testaménti mediatórem Jesum accedámus: et super altária tua, Dómine virtútum, aspersiónem sánguinis mélius loquéntem, quam Abel, innovémus. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Commemoration of St. John, p. 1441.—Preface of the Cross, p. 53.

Communion. Heb. ix. 28.—Christ was offered once to exhaust the sins of many; the second time He shall appear without sin to them that expect Him, unto salvation.

Commúnio. — Christus semel oblátus est ad multórum exhauriénda peccáta: secúndo sine peccáto apparébit exspectántibus se in salútem.

Postcommúnio. — Ad sacram, Dómine, mensam admíssi, háusimus aquas in gáudio de fóntibus Salvatóris: sanguis ejus fiat nobis, quaesumus, fons aquae in vitam aetérnam saliéntis: Qui tecum.

Postcommunion. — Admitted to the holy table, O Lord, we have drawn waters, with joy, from the Saviour's fountains: may His blood, we beseech Thee, be within us as a fountain of water springing forth unto eternal life: Who liveth and reigneth.

Commemoration of St. John, p. 1442.

July 2.

The Visitation of the Blessed Virgin Mary.*—Double of the Second Class.—White vestments.

The Angel Gabriel had announced to Mary that God would soon give a son to Elizabeth. The Virgin at once betook herself to Hebron, where her cousin resided: that is the mystery of the Visitation which is solemnised on the day following the Octave of the Nativity of St. John the Baptist.

On this day, as in the Season of Advent, the Church recalls together the memories of the Precursor and of Jesus and Mary. For we then remarked, that the Friday in the Winter Ember Week recalled to us this same mystery of the Visitation (see p. 355).

This feast was instituted for the whole world, in 1389, by Urban VI., in order to obtain the end of the great Western Schism. It was later on raised to the rite of double of the Second Class by Pius IX., for on this feast was completed at Rome in 1849 the victory of the Church over the Revolution. Mary visits Elizabeth and Jesus visits and sanctifies John. Wherefore St. John leaps with joy and Elizabeth, filled by Him with the Holy Ghost, exclaims: "Blessed art thou among women and blessed is the fruit of thy womb" (Gospel).

The Virgin, Mother of God, who bears and gives birth to Him who bears and produces all things (Gradual, Alleluia, Offertory, Communion) then pronounces a "sublime canticle" (Introit), the Magnificat.

FIRST VESPERS (July 1).

As at Second Vespers, except:

Ant. at the Magnificat. Luke i. 45.—Blessed art thou, Mary, who hast believed; those things shall be accomplished in thee which were told thee by the Lord. Alleluia.

Ant.—Beáta es * María, quae credidísti: perficiéntur in te quae dicta sunt tibi a Dómino, allelúia.

Commemoration of the Precious Blood.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1017.

Ant.—Habébitis autem * hunc diem in monuméntum: et celebrábitis eum solémnem Dómino in generatiónibus vestris cultu sempitérno.

Ant. Exod. xii. 14.—Ye shall observe this day for a memorial: and ye shall keep it holy unto the Lord, in your generations with an everlasting worship.

℣. Te ergo quaesumus, tuis fámulis súbveni.
℟. Quos pretióso Sánguine redemísti.

℣. Te Deum.—We therefore pray thee help Thy servants.
℟. Whom Thou hast redeemed with Thy precious blood.

Then, of the Octave Day of St. John the Baptist: Antiphon Puer. ℣. Iste puer, p. 1445.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Salve, sancta parens, eníxa puérpera regem: qui coelum, terrámque regit in saecula saeculórum. Ps. Eructávit cor meum verbum bonum: dico ego ópera mea regi. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Sedulius.—Hail holy Mother! Giving birth to thy Child, thou didst bring forth the King who ruleth the heavens and the earth for ever and for ever. Ps. xliv. 2. My heart hath uttered a good word: I speak my works to the King. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Fámulis tuis, quaesumus, Dómine, coeléstis grátiae munus impertíre: ut, quibus beátae Vírginis partus éxstitit salútis exórdium: Visitatiónis ejus votíva solémnitas, pacis tríbuat increméntum. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Impart to Thy servants, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the gift of Thy heavenly grace, so that we, for whom the bringing forth of her divine Child by the Blessed Virgin was the beginning of salvation, may, on this joyful festival of her Visitation, be blessed with an increase in peace of heart. Through our Lord.

At Private Masses Commemoration is made of the Holy Martyrs Processus and Martinian.

Epistola. — Léctio libri Sapiéntiae.—Ecce iste venit sáliens in móntibus, transíliens colles: símilis est diléctus meus cápreae, hinnulóque cervórum. En ipse stat post paríetem nostrum, respíciens per fenéstras, prospíciens per cancéllos. En

Epistle. Lesson from the Book of Wisdom. Song of Sol. ii. 8-14.—Behold He cometh, leaping over the hills. My beloved is like a roe or a young hart. Behold he standeth behind our wall; looking through the windows, looking through the lattices. Behold my beloved speaketh to me, Arise, make haste, my love, my dove, my beautiful one; and come. For winter is now past, the rain is over and gone. The flowers have appeared in our land, the time of pruning is come, the voice of the turtle is heard in our land: the fig-tree hath put forth her green figs, the vines in flower yield their sweet smell. Arise, my love, my beautiful one; and come. My dove in the clefts of the rock, in the hollow places of the wall, show me Thy face, let Thy voice sound in my ear; for Thy voice is sweet, and Thy face comely.

diléctus meus lóquitur mihi: Surge, própera, amíca mea, colúmba mea, formósa mea, et veni. Jam enim hiems tránsiit, imber ábiit, et recéssit. Flores apparuérunt in terra nostra, tempus putatiónis advénit: vox túrturis audíta est in terra nostra: ficus prótulit grossos suos: víneae floréntes dedérunt odórem suum. Surge, amíca mea, speciósa mea, et veni: colúmba mea in foramínibus petrae, in cavérna macériae, osténde mihi fáciem tuam, sonet vox tua in áuribus meis: vox enim tua dulcis, et fácies tua decóra.

Gradual.—Blessed and venerable art thou, O Virgin Mary: without blemish to thy maidenhood, thou wast made the mother of the Saviour. ℣. O Virgin-Mother of God, He Whom the whole world cannot contain, being made man shut himself up in thy womb.

Graduále. — Benedícta et venerábilis es, Virgo María: quae sine tactu pudóris, invénta es Mater Salvatóris. ℣. Virgo Dei Génitrix, quem totus non capit orbis, in tua se clausit víscera factus homo.

Alleluia, alleluia.—℣. Happy art thou, O Sacred Virgin Mary and of all high praise most worthy: for out of thee hath risen the sun of justice, Christ our God. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Felix es, sacra Virgo María, et omni laude digníssima: quia ex te ortus est sol justítiae, Christus Deus noster. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke i. 39-47.—At that time, Mary rising up, went into the hill country, with haste, into a city of Juda. And she entered into the house of Zachary, and saluted Elizabeth. And it came to pass that when Elizabeth heard ✠ Sequéntia sancti *Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo témpore: Exsúrgens María ábiit in montána cum festinatióne in civitátem Juda: et intrávit in domum Zacharíae, et salutávit Elísabeth. Et factum est, ut audívit salutatiónem Maríae Elísabeth, exsultávit infans in útero ejus: et repléta est Spíritu Sancto Elísabeth, et exclamávit voce magna, et dixit: Benedícta tu inter mulíeres, et benedíctus fructus ventris tui. Et unde hoc mihi, ut véniat mater Dómini mei ad me? Ecce enim, ut facta est vox salutatiónis tuae in áuribus meis, exsultávit in gáudio infans in útero meo. Et beáta, quae credidísti, quóniam perficiéntur ea, quae dicta sunt tibi a Dómino. Et ait María: Magníficat ánima mea Dóminum: et exsultávit spíritus meus in Deo salutári meo.—Credo.

the salutation of Mary, the infant leaped in her womb. And Elizabeth was filled with the Holy Ghost: and she cried out with a loud voice, and said: Blessed art thou among women, and blessed is the fruit of thy womb. And whence is this to me, that the mother of my Lord should come to me? For behold, as soon as the voice of thy salutation sounded in my ears, the infant in my womb leaped for joy. And blessed art thou that hast believed, because those things shall be accomplished that were spoken to thee by the Lord. And Mary said: My soul doth magnify the Lord; and my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour.—Credo.

Offertórium. — Beáta es, Virgo María, quae ómnium portásti Creatórem: genuísti qui te fecit, et in aetérnum pérmanes virgo.

Offertory.—Truly blessed art thou, O Virgin Mary: the Creator of all things thou didst bear; Him Who made thee thou didst bring forth; and a Virgin evermore thou dost remain.

Secréta. — Unigéniti tui, Dómine, nobis succúrrat humánitas: ut, qui natus de Vírgine, matris integritátem non mínuit, sed sacrávit; in Visitatiónis ejus solémniis, nostris nos piáculis éxuens, oblatiónem nostram tibi fáciat accéptam Jesus Christus Dóminus noster: Qui tecum.

Secret.—May the humanity of thy only-begotten Son be our succour, O Lord; that Jesus Christ our Lord, Who, when born of a virgin, did not diminish, but consecrated the integrity of His mother, may, on this solemnity of her visitation, deliver us from our sins, and make our oblation acceptable to Thee. Who liveth and reigneth.

Commemoration of SS. Processus and Martinian, p. 1479.

Preface of the Blessed Virgin: Et te in Visitatióne, p. 56.

Commúnio. — Beáta víscera Maríae Vírginis, quae portavérunt aetérni Patris Fílium.

Communion.—Blessed is the womb of the Virgin Mary, which bore the son of the eternal Father.

Postcommunion. — We have received, O Lord, the votive mysteries of this annual celebration; grant, we beseech Thee, that they may confer upon us remedies for time and eternity. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio.—Súmpsimus, Dómine, celebritátis ánnuae votíva sacraménta: praesta, quaesumus; ut et temporális vitae nobis remédia praebeant, et aetérnae. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of SS. Processus and Martinian, p. 1479.

SECOND VESPERS.

Psalms of the Vespers of the Blessed Virgin, p. 186.

Ant. 1. Luke i. 39.—Mary rising up, went into the hill country with haste unto a city of Juda.

Ant.—1. Exsúrgens María * ábiit in montána cum festinatióne in civitátem Juda.

2. Ibid. i. 40.—Mary entered the house of Zacharias, and saluted Elizabeth.

2. Intrávit María * in domum Zacharíae, et salutávit Elísabeth.

3. Ibid. i. 41.—When Elizabeth heard the salutation of Mary, the babe leaped for joy in her womb, and she was filled with the Holy Ghost.

3. Ut audívit * salutatiónem Maríae Elísabeth, exsultávit infans in útero ejus, et repléta est Spíritu Sancto, allelúia.

4. Ibid. i. 42. — Blessed art thou among women, and blessed is the fruit of thy womb.

4. Benedícta tu * inter mulíeres, et benedíctus fructus ventris tui.

5. Ibid. i. 44.—As soon as the voice of thy salutation sounded in my ears, the babe leaped in my womb for joy. Alleluia.

5. Ex quo facta est * vox salutatiónis tuae in áuribus meis, exsultávit infans in útero meo, allelúia.

Chapter: Ab inítio and Hymn: Ave maris stella, p. 187.

℣. Ibid. i. 42.—Blessed art thou among women.
℟. And blessed is the fruit of thy womb, Jesus.

℣. Benedícta tu in mulíéribus.
℟. Et benedíctus fructus ventris tui.

Ant. at the Magnificat. Ibid. i. 48.—All generations shall call me blessed, for God hath looked upon His lowly handmaiden. Alleluia.

Ant.—Beátam me dicent * omnes generatiónes, quia ancíllam húmilem respéxit Deus, allelúia.

Commemoration of the Octave of the Holy Apostles.

Ant.—Petrus Apóstolus * et Paulus Doctor Géntium, ipsi nos docuérunt legem tuam Dómine.

Ant.—Peter the Apostle and Paul the Teacher of the Gentiles, have taught us thy law, O Lord.

℣. Constítues eos príncipes super omnem terram. ℟. Mémores erunt nóminis tui Dómine.

℣. Ps. xliv. 17.—Thou shalt make them princes over all the earth. ℟. They shall be mindful of Thy name, O Lord.

Collect: Deus qui, p. 1457.

THE SAME DAY.

SS. Processus and Martinian, MARTYRS.*—Red vestments.

Peter and Paul, cast into the Mamertine prison, converted their two warders Processus and Martinian, and baptised them. Brought before the statue of Jupiter, these two new Christians refused to adore him and were put to death.

Introit, Gradual, Alleluia, Offertory and Communion of the Mass: Sapiéntiam, p. 235.—Epistle: Rememorámini, p. 239.—Gospel: Si quis, p. 220.

Orémus. — Deus, qui nos sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Procéssi et Martiniáni gloriósis confessiónibus circúmdas et prótegis: da nobis et eórum imitatióne profícere, et intercessióne gaudére. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who, encompassing us round about, dost protect us with the glorious witness borne to Thee by Thy holy martyrs Processus and Martinian: make us both to profit by the example they have set us, and to be uplifted by the prayers they unceasingly put up on our behalf. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Súscipe, Dómine, preces et múnera: quae ut tuo sint digna conspéctu, Sanctórum tuórum précibus adjuvémur. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Do Thou, O Lord, graciously accept our prayers and offerings, and may the intercession of Thy saints, help to make what we bring, worthy of being laid at Thy feet. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Córporis sacri, et pretiósi sánguinis repléti libámine, quaesumus, Dómine Deus noster: ut, quod pia devotióne gérimus, certa

Postcommunion. — For food and for sacrifice, Thou hast bestowed upon us, O Lord God, Thy sacred Body and Thy precious Blood; we now humbly beg of Thee that the divine mysteries in which we have devoutly taken part, may ensure to us the salvation of our souls. Through the same our Lord.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007.

redemptióne capiámus. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

JULY 3.

St. Leo II, POPE, CONFESSOR.*—Semi-double.—White vestments.

Leo II, a Sicilian by birth, participated in the full priesthood of Christ (Introit, Epistle, Gradual, Alleluia) on becoming Pope. Guided by the Holy Ghost he gave their full value to the spiritual riches of the Church committed to his care by Jesus Who is in heaven (Gospel, Communion).

He approved the acts of the Sixth Council which condemned those who taught that Christ has only one will. Well versed in sacred singing, he perfected the melodies of the Psalms and of the Hymns of the Church. He was truly the father of the poor and by his example and preaching led every one to virtue. He died in 683 and was buried in the Basilica of St. Peter.

Let us imitate the example of this Saint (Collect) who was one of the successors of St. Peter on the pontifical throne.

Mass: Sacerdótes tui, p. 259, except:

Collect.—O God, Who didst raise up blessed Pope Leo to rank with Thy saints in glory; grant, in Thy mercy, that we, who keep his festival, may also follow the example of his life. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui beátum Leónem Pontíficem Sanctórum tuórum méritis coaequásti: concéde propítius; ut, qui commemoratiónis ejus festa percólimus, vitae quoque imitémur exémpla. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of the Octave of the Holy Apostles Peter and Paul, p. 1457.

Gospel: Homo péregre, p. 257.

Secret.—Grant, O Lord, we beseech Thee, that by the intercession of blessed Leo we may profit by this offering; for it is the sacrifice by which Thou wouldst loosen the sins of the whole world. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Annue nobis, quaesumus, Dómine, ut intercessióne beáti Leónis haec nobis prosit oblátio: quam immolándo, totiús mundi tribuísti relaxári delícta. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — O God, Who hast granted to the soul of Thy servant Leo the reward of everlasting bliss; grant, in Thy mercy, that we, who are weighed

Postcommúnio. — Deus, qui ánimae fámuli tui Leónis aetérnae beatitúdinis praemia contulísti: concéde propítius; ut, qui peccatórum nostrórum pón-

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010.

dere prémimur, ejus apud te précibus sublevémur. Per Dóminum.

down by the burden of our sins, may be relieved by his intercession with Thee. Through our Lord.

JULY 4.

Within the Octave of the Holy Apostles Peter and Paul.

Semi-double.—Red vestments.

" The worship of St. Peter and of St. Paul is rooted in the very foundation of catholicism ; it cannot become weakened either in the people or in souls without great harm to catholicism itself."*

Let us honour St. Peter and pray for the Holy Father, his successor. Let us obey the Pope, seeing in him the necessary intermediary through whom our souls are to go to God.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Mihi autem nimis honoráti sunt amíci tui, Deus : nimis confortátus est príncipatus eórum. Ps. Dómine, probásti me, et cognovísti me : tu cognovísti sessiónem meam, et resurrectiónem meam. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. cxxxviii. 17.—To me Thy friends, O God, are made exceedingly honourable : their principality is exceedingly strengthened. Ibid. i. 2. Lord, Thou hast proved me, and known me : Thou hast known my sitting down and my rising up. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui hodiérnam diem Apostolorum tuórum Petri et Pauli martyrio consecrásti : da Ecclésiae tuae, eórum in ómnibus sequi praecéptum ; per quos religiónis sumpsit exórdium. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who hast consecrated this day by the martyrdom of Thine apostles Peter and Paul ; vouchsafe tha Thy Church, in all things, may obey the commandments of those through whom Thou wast pleased, in the beginning, to establish her. Through our Lord.

Second Collect : Concéde, p. 159 ; Third Collect : Ecclésiae, p. 154, or Deus ómnium, p. 155.

Epistola. — Léctio Actuum Apóstolorum.—In diébus illis : Per manus Apóstolorum fiébant signa, et prodígia multa in plebe. Et erant unanímiter omnes in pórticu Salomónis.

Epistle. — Lesson from the Acts of the Apostles v. 12-16. — In those days, By the hands of the apostles were many signs and wonders wrought among the people ; and they were all with one accord in Solomon's porch. But of the rest no man durst join himself to them; but the people magnified them. And the multitude of men and women that believed in the Lord was more increased; insomuch, that they brought forth the sick into the streets, and laid them on beds and couches; that when Peter came, his shadow, at least, might overshadow any of them, and they might be delivered from their infirmities. And there came also together to Jerusalem a multitude out of the neighbouring cities, bringing sick persons, and such as were troubled with unclean spirits, who were all healed.

* Liturgical Year by Dom Guéranger : fifth day in the Octave of the Holy Apostles.

Ceterórum autem nemo audébat se conjúngere illis: sed magnificábat eos pópulus. Magis autem augebátur credéntium in Dómino multitúdo virórum ac mulíerum, ita ut in platéas ejícerent infírmos, et pónerent in léctulis ac grabátis, ut, veniénte Petro, saltem umbra illíus obumbráret quemquam illórum, et liberaréntur ab infirmitátibus suis. Concurrébat autem et multitúdo viciná rum civitátum Jerúsalem, afferéntes aegros, et vexátos a spirítibus immúndis: qui curabántur omnes.

Gradual. Ps. xliv. 17, 18.—Thou shalt make them princes over all the earth: they shall remember Thy name, O Lord. ℣. Instead of Thy fathers, sons are born to Thee: therefore shall people praise Thee.

Graduále. — Constítues eos príncipes super omnem terram: mémores erunt nominis tui, Dómine. ℣. Pro pátribus tuis nati sunt tibi fílii: proptérea pópuli confitebúntur tibi.

Alleluia, alleluia. Luke xxii. 32.—℣. I have prayed for thee, Peter, that thy faith may not fail; and thou, being once converted, confirm thy brethren. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Rogávi pro te, Petre, ut non defíciat fides tua: et tu aliquándo convérsus, confírma fratres tuos. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew xix. 27-29.—At that time, Peter said to Jesus, Behold we have left all things, and have followed Thee: what, therefore, shall we have? And Jesus said to them: Amen, I say to you, that you who have followed Me, in the regeneration, when the Son of man shall sit on the seat of His Majesty, you also shall sit on twelve duódecim tribus Israël. Et omnis, qui relíquerit domum, vel fratres, aut soróres, aut patrem, aut matrem, aut uxórem, aut fílios, aut agros, propter nomen meum, céntuplum accípiet, et vitam aetérnam possidébit.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.— In illo témpore: Dixit Petrus ad Jesum: Ecce nos relíquimus ómnia, et secúti sumus te: quid ergo erit nobis? Jesus autem dixit illis: Amen dico vobis, quod vos, qui secúti estis me, in regeneratióne, cum séderit Fílius hóminis in sede majestátis suae, sedébitis et vos super sedes duódecim, judicantes

seats judging the twelve tribes of Israel. And every one that hath left house, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for My name's sake, shall receive an hundred fold, and shall possess life everlasting.

Offertórium. — In omnem terram exívit sonus eórum: et in fines orbis terrae verba eórum.

Offertory.—Ps. xviii. 5.—Their sound went forth into all the earth; and their words to the ends of the world.

Secréta. — Hóstias, Dómine, quas nómini tuo sacrándas offérimus, apostólica prosequátur orátio: per quam nos expiári tribuas, et défendi. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Together, O Lord, with the divine victim we are about to offer up, may the prayer of Thine apostles mount before Thee, and in Thy mercy, may it atone for and safeguard us. Through our Lord.

Second Secret: p. 159; Third Secret: p. 154 or 155.—Preface of the Apostles, p. 57.

Commúnio.—Vos qui secúti estis me, sedébitis super sedes, judicántes duódecim tribus Israël.

Communion. Matt. xix. 28.—You who have followed Me shall sit on seats, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

Postcommúnio. — Quos coeléstí, Dómine, aliménto satiásti: apostólicis intercessiónibus ab omni adversitáte custódi. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Thou hast filled us, O Lord, with bread from heaven: be moved by the prayers of Thine apostles, and deliver us from all dangers. Through our Lord.

Second Postcommunion: p. 159; Third Postcommunion: p. 154 or 155.

JULY 5.

St. Antony-Mary Zaccaria, CONFESSOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

Antony-Mary was born of a noble family in Cremona. Penetration of mind, added to integrity of life, raised him above his school fellows. Having won his degree of Medical Doctor at Padua, he understood by a warning from God, that he was called to heal spiritual rather than bodily disease. Like the young man in the Gospel, he had from childhood observed the commandments; more faithful than him he left everything to follow Jesus (Gospel). He founded the Order of Clerks regular whose members are called Barnabites, because they took up their abode near the Church of St. Barnabas. St. Antony-Mary gave them St. Paul as model and protector. He was, like the great Apostle, filled with Christ's super-eminent knowledge (Collect). Wherefore the Introit, Gradual, Alleluia, and the Communion apply to him the very words of the Apostle, and the Epistle is that in which the Doctor of the Gentiles gives to his disciple Timothy the counsels that guided him in his teaching.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1015.

Consoled by a heavenly vision of the Apostles, he died a holy death at the age of thirty-six in 1539.

MASS.

Introit. 1 Cor. ii. 4.—My speech and my preaching was not in the persuasive words of human wisdom, but in the showing of spirit and power. Ps. cx. 1. I will praise Thee, O Lord, with my whole heart; in the council of the just, and in the congregation. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus. — Sermo meus, et praedicátio mea non in persuasibílibus humánae sapiéntiae verbis, sed in ostensióne spíritus, et virtútis. Ps. Confitébor tibi, Dómine, in toto corde meo, in consílio justórum et congregatióne. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—Make us, O Lord God, in the spirit of Saint Paul the Apostle, thoroughly to learn the science of Jesus Christ, a science surpassing all knowledge: imbued in wondrous-wise with which blessed Antony-Mary enriched Thy Church with a new family of clerics, and with another of virgins, consecrated to Thy service. Through the same Lord.

Orémus.—Fac nos, Dómine Deus, supereminéntem Jesu Christi sciéntiam, spíritu Pauli Apóstoli edíscere: qua beátus Antónius María mirabíliter erudítus, novas in Ecclésia tua clericórum et vírginum famílias congregávit. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Commemoration of the Octave of the Holy Apostles Peter and Paul, p. 1457.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to Timothy. 1. Tim. iv. 8-16.—Godliness is profitable to all things, having promise of the Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Timótheum.—Píetas ad ómnia utílis est: promissiónem habens vitae, quae nunc est, et futúrae. Fidélis sermo, et omni acceptióne dignus. In hoc enim laborámus, et maledícimur, quia sperámus in Deum vivum, qui est Salvátor ómnium hóminum, máxime fidélium Praecipe haec, et doce. Nemo adolescéntiam tuam contémnat: sed exémplum esto fidélium in verbo, in conversatióne, in caritáte, in fide, in castitáte. Dum vénio, atténde lectióni, exhortatióni, et doctrínae. Noli neglígere grátiam, quae in te est, quae data est tibi per prophetíam, cum impositióne mánuum presbytérii. Haec meditáre, in his esto: ut proféctus tuus maniféstus sit ómnibus. Atténde tibi, et doctrínae: insta in illis. Hoc enim fáciens, et teípsum salvum fácies, et eos qui te áudiunt.

life that now is, and of that which is to come. A faithful saying and worthy of all acceptation. For therefore we labour and are reviled, because we hope in the living God, Who is the Saviour of all men, especially of the faithful. These things command and teach. Let no man despise thy youth: but be thou an example of the faithful, in word, in conversation, in charity, in faith, in chastity. Till I come, attend unto reading, to exhortation, and to doctrine. Neglect not the grace that is in thee, which was given thee by prophecy, with imposition of the hands of the priesthood. Meditate upon these things, be wholly in these things: that thy profiting may be manifest to all. Take heed to thyself, and to doctrine: be earnest in them. For in doing this thou shalt both save thyself and them that hear thee.

Graduále. — Testis mihi est Deus, quo modo cúpiam omnes vos in viscéribus Jesu Christi. Et hoc oro, ut cáritas vestra magis ac magis abúndet in sciéntia, et in omni sensu. ℣. Ut probétis potióra, ut sitis sincéri, et sine offénsa in diem Christi.

Gradual. Phil. i. 8, 9.—For God is my witness, how I long after you in the bowels of Jesus Christ. And this I pray that your charity may more and more abound in knowledge and in all understanding. ℣. Ibid. 10. That you may approve the better things, that you may be sincere and without offence unto the day of Jesus Christ.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Repléti fructu justítiae per Jesum Christum, in glóriam et laudem Dei. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ibid. 11.—Filled with the fruit of justice through Jesus Christ unto the glory and praise of God. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Marcum.— In illo

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Mark.

x. 15-21.—At that time, Jesus said to His disciples, whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, shall not enter into it. And embracing them, and laying His hands upon them, He blessed them. And when He was gone forth into the way, a certain man running up and kneeling before Him, asked Him, Good Master, what shall I do that I may receive life everlasting? And Jesus said to him, Why callest thou me good? None is good but one, that is God. Thou knowest the commandments: Do not commit adultery, do not steal, bear not false witness, do no fraud, honour thy father and mother. But he answering said to Him: Master, all these things I have observed from my youth. And Jesus looking on him, loved him, and said to him: One thing is wanting unto thee: go, sell whatsoever thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven; and come and follow Me.—Credo.

témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Quisquis non recéperit regnum Dei velut párvulus, non intrábit in illud. Et compléxans párvulos, et impónens manus super illos, benedicébat eos. Et cum egréssus esset in viam, procúrrens quidam, genu flexo ante eum, rogábat eum: Magíster bone, quid fáciam ut vitam aetérnam percípiam? Jesus autem dixit ei: Quid me dicis bonum? Nemo bonus nisi unus Deus. Praecépta nosti: Ne adúlteres, ne occídas, ne furéris, ne falsum testimónium díxeris, ne fraudem féceris, honóra patrem tuum et matrem. At ille respóndens, ait illi: Magíster, haec ómnia observávi a juventúte mea. Jesus autem intúitus eum, diléxit eum, et dixit ei: Unum tibi deest: vade, quaecúmque habes vende, et da paupéribus, et habébis thesáurum in coelo: et veni, séquere me.—Credo.

Offertory. Ps. cxxxvii. 1, 2.—I will sing praise to Thee in the sight of the Angels; I will adore at Thy holy temple, and give glory to Thy name.

Offertórium.—In conspéctu Angelórum psallam tibi: adorábo ad templum sanctum tuum, et confitébor nómini tuo.

Secret.—Grant, O Lord, that we may bring to Thy heavenly banquet purity both of mind and body, such as marvellously shone forth from blessed Antony-Mary, when he offered the most holy sacrifice. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Ad mensam coeléstis convívii fac nos, Dómine, eam mentis et córporis puritátem afférre qua beátus Antónius María, hanc sacratíssinam hóstiam ófferens, mirífice ornátus enítuit. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of the Holy Apostles, p. 1460.—Preface of the Apostles, p. 57.

Commúnio. — Imitatóres mei estóte, fratres, et observáte eos, qui ita ámbulant, sicut habétis formam nostram.

Communion. Phil. iii. 17.—Be followers of me, brethren, and observe them who walk, so as you have our model.

Postcommúnio. — Coeléstí dape qua pasti sumus, Dómine Jesu Christe, eo corda nostra caritátis igne flamméscant: quo beátus Antónius María salutáris hóstiae vexíllum, contra Ecclésiae tuae hostes, éxtulit ad victóriam: Qui vivis.

Postcommunion. — May the heavenly banquet at which we have fed, O Lord Jesus Christ, enkindle our hearts with the fire of charity, even as that which filled blessed Antony-Mary when he carried the saving host as a standard of victory over the enemies of the Church: who livest and reignest.

Commemoration of the Holy Apostles, p. 1460.

JULY 6.

The Octave-Day of SS. Peter and Paul, Apostles.—Greater double.—Red vestments.

To-day concludes, by a special Mass, the concert of praise offered during eight days by the Church to the Apostles Peter and Paul, whose names are eternal (Introit, Epistle).

MASS.

Intróitus.—Sapiéntiam sanctórum narrent pópuli, et laudes eórum núntiet ecclésia: nómina autem eórum vivent in saeculum saeculi. Ps. Exsultáte justi in Dómino: rectos decet collaudátio. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ecclus. xliv. 15, 14.—Let the people show forth the wisdom of the Saints, and the Church declare their praise; and their names shall live unto generation and generation. Ps. xxxii. 1. Rejoice in the Lord, ye just: praise becometh the upright. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, cujus déxtera beátum Petrum ambulántem in flúctibus, ne mergerétur, eréxit, et coapóstolum ejus Paulum, tértio naufragántem, de profúndo pélagi liberávit:

Collect.—O God, whose hand upheld blessed Peter as he walked upon the waters, lest he should sink, and delivered his fellow-apostle Paul, when shipwrecked for the third time, from the depth of the sea; graciously hear us, and grant that through the merits of both we may obtain the glory of everlasting life. Through our Lord.

exáudi nos propítius, et concéde; ut ambórum méritis, aeternitátis glóriam consequámur. Qui vivis.

Epistle: Hi viri misericórdiae, p. 1446.

Gradual. Wisd. of Sol. iii. 1, 2, 3.—The souls of the just are in the hand of God, and the torment of malice shall not touch them. ℣. In the sight of the unwise they seemed to die, but they are in peace.

Graduále. — Justórum ánimae in manu Dei sunt, et non tanget illos torméntum malítiae. ℣. Visi sunt óculis insipiéntium mori, illi autem sunt in pace.

Alleluia, alleluia. Luke xxii. 28, 29, 30.—℣. You are they who have continued with me in my temptations: and I dispose to you a kingdom, that you may sit upon thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Vos estis, qui permansístis mecum in tentatiónibus meis: et ego dispóno vobis regnum, ut sedeátis super thronos, judicántes duódecim tribus Israël. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. xiv. 22-23.—At that time, Jesus obliged His disciples to go up into the ship, and to go before Him over the water, till He dismissed the people. And having dismissed the multitude, He went up into a mountain to pray; and when it was evening, He was there alone. But the ship in the midst of the sea was tossed with the waves; for the wind was contrary: and in the fourth watch of the night,* He came to them walking upon the sea; and they seeing Him walking upon the sea, were troubled saying, It is an apparition: and they cried out for fear. And immediately Jesus spoke to them saying, Be of good heart: it is I, fear ye not. And Peter ✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Cómpulit Jesus discípulos ascéndere in navículam, et praecédere eum trans fretum, donec dimítteret turbas. Et dimíssa turba, ascéndit in montem solus oráre. Véspere autem facto, solus erat ibi. Navícula autem in médio mari jactabátur flúctibus: erat enim contrárius ventus. Quarta autem vigília noctis venit ad eos ámbulans super mare. Et vidéntes eum super mare ambulántem, turbáti sunt, dicéntes: Quia phantásma est. Et prae timóre clamavérunt. Statímque Jesus locútus est eis, dicens: Habéte fidúciam: ego sum, nolíte timére. Respóndens autem Petrus, dixit: Dómine, si tu es, jube me ad te venire super aquas. At ipse ait: Veni. Et descéndens Petrus de navícula, ambulábat super aquam, ut veníret ad Jesum. Videns vero ventum válidum, tímuit: et cum coepísset mergi, clamávit dicens: Dómine, salvum me fac. Et contínuo Jesus exténdens manum, apprehéndit eum, et ait illi: Módicae fídei, quare dubitásti? Et cum ascendísset in navículam, cessávit ventus. Qui autem in navícula erant, venérunt, et adoravérunt eum, dicéntes: Vere Fílius Dei es.—Credo.

* See p. 490.

making answer, said, Lord, if it be Thou, bid me to come to Thee upon the waters: and He said, Come. And Peter going down out of the ship, walked upon the water to come to Jesus. But seeing the wind strong, he was afraid; and when he began to sink, he cried out, saying, Lord, save me. And immediately Jesus stretching forth His hand, took hold of him, and said to him: O thou of little faith, why dost thou doubt? And when they were come into the ship, the wind ceased; and they that were in the ship, came and adored Him, saying, Indeed Thou art the Son of God.—Credo.

Offertórium. — Exsultábunt sancti in glória, laetabúntur in cubílibus suis: exaltatiónes Dei in fáucibus eórum.

Offertory. Ps. cxlix. 5, 6.—The saints shall rejoice in glory, they shall be joyful in their beds: the high praises of God shall be in their mouth.

Secréta.—Offérimus tibi, Dómine, preces et múnera: quae, ut tuo sint digna conspéctu, Apostolórum tuórum Petri et Pauli précibus adjuvémur. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—We offer up to Thee, O Lord, our prayers and our gifts: may the pleading of Thy holy apostles Peter and Paul, make them worthy of Thy regard. Through our Lord.

Preface of the Apostles, p. 57.

Commúnio. — Justórum ánimae in manu Dei sunt, et non tanget illos torméntum malítiae: visi sunt óculis insipiéntium mori: illi autem sunt in pace.

Communion.—The souls of the just are in the hand of God, and the torment of malice shall not touch them: in the sight of the unwise they seemed to die, but they are in peace.

Postcommúnio. — Prótege, Dómine, pópulum tuum: et Apostolórum tuórum Petri et Pauli patrocínio confidéntem, perpétua defensióne consérva. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—Protect Thy people, O Lord: and evermore help those who put their trust in the patronage of Thy holy apostles, Peter and Paul. Through our Lord.

July 7.

SS. Cyril and Methodius, Bishops, Confessors.*—Double.— White vestments.

Still filled with a holy love for her Apostles, whose Octave she has concluded, the Church celebrates to-day the feast of St. Cyril and of St. Methodius " who both promised under oath to persevere in the faith of blessed Peter and of the Roman Pontiffs,"† and brought innumerable recruits to Peter from among the Bulgarians, Moravians and Bohemians.‡ Brothers by blood, they were born in the ninth century at Salonica and distinguished themselves by their progress in the sciences at Constantinople.

Anointed Bishops by Pope Adrian II. (Introit, Epistle, Alleluia), they converted the Slavonic nations (Collect). Inventing a writing for their language, they translated the Scriptures and celebrated the sacred rites in the idiom of which they are considered the authors. St. Cyril died at Rome in 869 and was buried near the relics of St. Clement, which he had brought from Chersonesus. St. Methodius died in 885.

MASS.

Introit, Epistle, Gradual and Alleluia of the Mass: Sacerdótes tui, p. 259.

Collect.—Almighty and everlasting God, Who, by the ministry of Thy blessed confessor-bishops Cyril and Methodius, wast pleased to bring the nations of Slavonia to the knowledge of Thy name: grant that we, who keep with rejoicing this festival-day in their honour, may have fellowship with them for evermore. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, qui Slavóniae gentes per beátos Confessóres tuos atque Pontífices Cyríllum et Methódium ad agnitiónem tui nóminis venire tribuísti: praesta: ut, quorum festivitáte gloriámur, eórum consórtio copulémur. Per Dóminum.

Gospel: Designávit Dóminus, p. 1346.

Offertory. Ps. lxvii. 36.—God is wonderful in His saints: the God of Israel is He Who will give power and strength to His people: blessed be God.

Offertórium.—Mirábilis Deus in sanctis suis: Deus Israël, ipse dabit virtútem, et fortitúdinem plebi suae: benedíctus Deus.

Secret.—Look down, we beseech Thee, O Lord, on our prayers and the oblations of Thy faithful, that they may be pleasing to Thee in the festival

Secréta. — Preces nostras, quaesumus, Dómine, et tuórum réspice oblatiónes fidélium: ut tibi gratae sint in tuórum festivitáte Sanctórum, et nobis

* See Historical Summary, p. 1011.
† Fifth Lesson at Matins.
‡ Hymn at First Vespers.

cónferant tuae propitiatiónis auxílium. Per Dóminum.

of Thy saints and may draw down on us the aid of Thy mercy. Through our Lord.

Commúnio. — Quod dico vobis in ténebris, dícite in lúmine, dicit Dóminus: et quod in aure audítis, praedicáte super tecta.

Communion. Matt. x. 27.—That which I tell you in the dark, speak ye in the light, saith the Lord; and that which you hear in the ear, preach ye upon the house-tops.

Postcommúnio. — Quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui nobis múnera dignáris praebére coeléstia, intercedéntibus sanctis tuis Cyríllo et Methódio, despícere terréna concédas. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — We beseech Thee, O Almighty God, that as Thou dost deign to bestow on us gifts from heaven, so Thou wouldst, through the intercession of Thy saints Cyril and Methodius, grant us grace to despise the things of earth. Through our Lord.

JULY 8.

St. Elizabeth, QUEEN, WIDOW.*—Semi-double.—White vestments.

The Church exhorts us to-day to praise God for the holy works of blessed Elizabeth.† A daughter of Peter III, King of Aragon, she inherited the name and virtues of her great-aunt, St. Elizabeth of Hungary.

Her father, seeing her holiness, used to say that she would surpass all other women of royal race (Epistle, Communion). She married Denis I, King of Portugal.

She had received the prerogative of re-establishing peace where there had been divisions and of mitigating the fury of war (Collect). When she became a widow she took the habit of the Third Order, distributed her riches and acquired at this price the precious pearl and the hidden treasure of life everlasting (Gospel). She died at Coimbra in 1336 and her body remained intact.

Mass: Cognóvi, p. 304, except:

Orémus. — Clementíssime Deus, qui beátam Elísabeth regínam, inter céteras egrégias dotes, béllici furóris sedándi praerogatíva decorásti: da nobis, ejus intercessióne; post mortális vitae, quam supplíciter pétimus, pacem, ad aetérna gáudia perveníre. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O most merciful God, who didst favour blessed Elizabeth, queen, among other excellent gifts, with the privilege of appeasing the fury of war; grant us by her intercession, after peace in this mortal life, which we humbly implore, to arrive at eternal joys. Through our Lord.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1013. † Invitatory of Matins.

JULY 10.

The Seven Brothers Mm., SS. Rufina and Secunda, MARTYRS.*—Semi-double.—Red vestments.

The Church, celebrating to-day the triumph of the Seven Sons of Saint Felicitas, who were martyred under their mother's eyes, praises this courageous woman (Epistle) who, by exhorting them to die, "was herself victorious in all of them." †

She extended her maternity to the souls of her children by making them accomplish the will of God (Gospel, Communion—see November 23). They died in A.D.150 under the Emperor Antoninus.

A century later Rufina and Secunda, sisters by birth, became doubly so by mixing their blood at the same execution, rather than lose the virginity they had consecrated to Jesus, their Spouse. They were martyred at Rome under the Emperors Valerian and Gallienus. ‡

MASS.

Introit. Ps. cxii. 1, 9.—Praise the Lord, ye children, praise ye the name of the Lord; who maketh the barren woman to dwell in a house, the joyful mother of children. Ps. Ibid. 2. Blessed be the name of the Lord, from henceforth now and for ever. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus. — Laudáte púeri Dóminum, laudáte nomen Dómini: qui habitáre facit stérilem in domo, matrem filiórum laetántem. Ps. Sit nomen Dómini benedíctum: ex hoc nunc, et usque in saeculum. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—Grant, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, that we who venerate their steadfastness in bearing witness to Thee, may feel the effect of the loving prayers Thy holy martyrs put up in our behalf. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui glorióso Mártyres fortes in sua confessióne cognóvimus, pios apud te in nostra intercessióne sentiámus. Per Dóminum.

Epistle: Mulíerem fortem, p. 304.

Gradual. Ps. cxxiii. 7, 8.—Our soul hath been delivered, as a sparrow, out of the snare of the fowlers. ℣. The snare is broken, and we are delivered: our help is in the name of the Lord, Who made heaven and earth.

Graduále. — Anima nostra, sicut passer, erépta est de láqueo venántium. ℣. Láqueus contrítus est, et nos liberáti sumus: adjutórium nostrum in nómine Dómini, qui fecit caelum et terram.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008.
† Sixth Lesson at Matins: Sermon of St. Augustine.
‡ Ibid., p. 1008.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Haec est vera fratérnitas, quae vicit mundi crimina: Christum secúta est, ínclyta tenens regna coeléstia.

Alleluia, alleluia.—℣. This is the true brotherhood, which overcame the wickedness of the world: it followed Christ, attaining the glorious kingdom of heaven.

In Paschal Time, in Votive Masses, is added:

Allelúia. ℣. Te Mártyrum candidátus laudat exércitus, Dómine. Allelúia.

Alleluia. ℣. The white-robed army of martyrs praiseth Thee, O Lord. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Loquénte Jesu ad turbas, ecce mater ejus, et fratres stabant foris, quaeréntes loqui ei. Dixit autem ei quidam: Ecce mater tua, et fratres tui foris stant, quaeréntes te. At ipse respóndens dicénti sibi, ait: Quae est mater mea, et qui sunt fratres mei? Et exténdens manum in discípulos dixit: Ecce Mater mea, et fratres mei. Quicúmque enim fécerit voluntátem Patris mei, qui in coelis est: ipse meus frater et soror, et mater est.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. xii. 46-50.—At that time: As Jesus was speaking to the multitudes, behold His mother and His brethren stood without, seeking to speak to Him; and one said to Him, Behold Thy mother and Thy brethren stand without, seeking Thee. But He answering him that told Him, said, Who is My mother, and who are My brethren? And stretching forth His hand towards His disciples, He said: Behold My mother and My brethren: for whosoever shall do the will of My Father that is in heaven, he is My brother, and sister and mother.

Offertórium. — Anima nostra, sicut passer, erépta est de láqueo venántium: láqueus contrítus est, et nos liberáti sumus.

Offertory.—Our soul hath been delivered, as a sparrow, out of the snare of the fowlers: the snare is broken, and we are delivered.

Secréta. — Sacrifíciis praeséntibus, quaesumus, Dómine, inténde placátus: et, intercedéntibus Sanctis tuis, devotióni nostrae profíciant, et salúti. Per Dóminum.

Secret. Ps. cxxiii.—Be appeased, we beseech Thee, O Lord, and favourably regard these our sacrifices: may they, through the intercession of Thy holy martyrs, avail us to growth in fervour, and to assurance of salvation. Through our Lord.

Communion. Matt. xii. 50.—Whosoever shall do the will of My Father Who is in heaven, he is My brother, and sister, and mother, saith the Lord.

Commúnio. — Quicúmque fécerit voluntátem Patris mei, qui in coelis est: ipse meus frater, et soror, et mater est, dicit Dóminus.

Postcommunion.—Grant unto us, O Almighty God, we beseech Thee, to possess in its fulness that Salvation of which these mysteries are to us the pledge. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Quaesumus, omnípotens Deus : ut intercedéntibus Sanctis tuis, illíus salutáris capiámus efféctum : cujus per haec mystéria pignus accépimus. Per Dóminum.

July 11.

St. Pius I, Pope, Martyr.*—Simple.—Red vestments.

The Cycle makes us honour to-day a Saint whom "God anointed with His holy oil" (Gradual) and whom He invested with the fulness of His priesthood (Introit, Alleluia) by raising him to the pontifical throne after St. Hyginus in 142.

He prescribed that the feast of the Resurrection should only be kept on a Sunday which thenceforth became the centre and king of all Sundays, which are throughout the year, as an echo of Easter Sunday.

He established a baptistery in the house which St. Pudentiana and St. Praxedes had placed at his disposal, and where their grandfather, the Senator Pudens, had already received St. Peter.† He transformed into a titular church the adjoining Baths of Novatus, where is held the Station on the Tuesday in the Third Week of Lent.‡ On account of its pre-eminence over the Titles, as an abode of the Sovereign Pontiff, he dedicated it under the Title of Pastor.

To fulfil his office of good shepherd, he feared not to renounce his own life (Gospel), and shed his blood for his sheep and for Christ the supreme Pastor.§ He received at the same time as the crown of martyrdom the crown of life that God has promised to those who love Him (Epistle), and was buried in 150 on the Vatican.

Mass of a Martyr : Statuit, p. 215.

July 12.

St. John Gualbert, Abbot.‖—Double.—White vestments.

John Gualbert was born at Florence, towards 999. One Good Friday, escorted by his armed attendants, he met alone and unattended, the murderer of his brother. He was about to pierce him with his lance,

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007.
† See May 19.
‡ See p. 609.
§ Third Lesson at Matins.
‖ See Historical Summary, p. 1012.

when the murderer threw himself at his feet and craved for pardon for the sake of Jesus crucified. John remembered the loving words of the Gospel and embraced him as a brother.

Still more touched by grace he became a monk and soon a lawgiver like Moses (Epistle), he founded, at Vallombrosa in Tuscany a new Order to which he gave the rule of St. Benedict (Communion) and which is still flourishing after more than eight centuries of existence.

Simony reigned everywhere in Italy. His firmness and eloquence banished this disorder from Tuscany and brought back his country to integrity of faith and manners. Also, when he died in 1073, they inscribed on his tomb: To John Gualbert, citizen of Florence, liberator of Italy.

Mass : Os justi, p. 276, except :

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum. — In illo témpore : Dixit Jesus discípulis suis : Audístis quia dictum est : Díliges próximum tuum, et ódio habébis inimícum tuum. Ego autem dico bovis : Dilígite inimicos vestros, benefácite his qui odérunt vos : et oráte pro persequéntibus, et calumniántibus vos : ut sitis fílii Patris vestri, qui in caelis est, qui solem suum oríri facit super bonos et malos : et pluit super justos et injústos. Si enim dilígitis eos, qui vos dílig nt, quam mercédem habébitis? nonne et publicáni hoc fáciunt? Et si salutavéritis fratres vestros tantum, quid ámplius fácitis? nonne et éthnici hoc fáciunt? Estóte ergo vos perfécti, sicut et Pater vester coeléstis perféctus est.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. v. 43-48.—At that time Jesus said to His disciples : You have heard that it hath been said, Thou shalt love thy neighbour, and hate thy enemy. But I say to you, Love your enemies, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them that persecute and calumniate you : that you may be the children of your Father Who is in heaven, Who maketh His sun to rise upon the good and bad, and raineth upon the just and the unjust. For if you love them that love you, what reward shall you have : do not even the publicans this? And if you salute your brethren only, what do you more? do not also the heathens this? Be you therefore perfect, as also your heavenly Father is perfect.

Commemoration of SS. Nabor and Felix, p. 1496.

THE SAME DAY.

Commemoration of SS. Nabor and Felix.*—Red vestments.

These two saints, who had St. Ambrose for their panegyrist, received the palm of martyrdom at Milan under Diocletian.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009.

Mass : Salus autem, p. 238, except :

Collect.—Even, O Lord, as year-by-year we are bidden to celebrate the natal day of Thy holy martyrs, Nabor and Felix, so at no time may we lack the succour of their prayers. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Praesta, quaesumus, Dómine : ut, sicut nos sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Náboris et Felícis natalítia celebránda non déserunt ; ita júgiter suffrágiis comiténtur. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—May the intercession, O Lord, of Thy holy martyrs, Nabor and Felix, make the offerings of Thy people to be well-pleasing in Thy sight. These offerings are laid before Thee on the day of the triumph of Thy saints, for the sake of whose merits may they be found worthy of Thy gracious regard. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Múnera plebis tuae, quaesumus, Dómine, sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Náboris et Felícis fiant grata suffrágiis : et quorum triúmphis tuo nómini offerúntur, ipsórum digna perficiántur et méritis. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—Comforted, O Lord, by the gift of Thy sacrament, on the day hallowed by the triumph of Thy saints, vouchsafe that we may come to enjoy those Thy good things which are everlasting. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Natalítiis Sanctórum tuórum, quaesumus, Dómine : ut, sacraménti múnere vegetáti, bonis, quibus per tuam grátiam nunc fovémur, perfruámur aetérnis. Per Dóminum

JULY 13.

St. Anacletus, POPE, MARTYR.*—Semi-double.—Red vestments.

"At Rome," says the Roman Martyrology, "feast of St. Anacletus, Pope and Martyr, who governed the Church of God and honoured it by his illustrious martyrdom."

Participating in the fulness of the priesthood of Christ (Introit, Alleluia, Offertory) this holy Pontiff also shared His sufferings (Epistle). King of souls, he trembled not before the prince of this world, and became one of the foundation stones of the Church in the first centuries (Gospel).

He decreed that all Bishops should be consecrated by three Bishops at least ; that clerics should be publicly ordained by their own Bishop, and at that Mass they should all receive Holy Communion after the consecration. He received the crown of martyrdom (Communion), after having occupied the Holy See about ten years, and was buried on the Vatican in 112.

Mass : Sacerdótes, p. 219.—Gospel : Si quis venit, p. 217.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007.

JULY 14.

St. Bonaventure, BISHOP, CONFESSOR, DOCTOR.*—Double.— White vestments.

St. Bonaventure was born in Tuscany in 1221. He entered the Franciscan Order, in consequence of a miraculous cure due to the intercession of St. Francis of Assisi. His master was Alexander of Hales, who used to say of his virginal disciple that one would have thought him preserved from original sin.

He was a Doctor at thirty (Collect) and taught at the University of Paris at the same time as St. Thomas Aquinas, to whom he was closely united.

He was awarded the title of Seraphic Doctor.

Appointed General of his Order, and later a Cardinal of the Church (Communion, Alleluia), he died in 1274 during the general Council of Lyons where Greeks and Latins vied in admiring his ardour and clearmindedness which made him the light of faith.

Mass : In médio, p. 263, except :

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Jurávit Dóminus, et non poenitébit eum : Tu es sacérdos in aetérnum, secúndum órdinem Melchísedech. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. cix. 4.—℣. The Lord hath sworn, and He will not repent. Thou art a priest for ever, according to the order of Melchisedech. Alleluia.

Offertórium. — Véritas mea, et misericórdia mea cum ipso : et in nómine meo exaltábitur cornu ejus.

Offertory. Ps. lxxxviii. 25.—My truth and My mercy shall be with him : and in My name shall his horn be exalted.

Secréta. — Sancti Bonaventúrae Confessóris tui atque Pontíficis, quaesumus, Dómine, ánnua solémnitas pietáti tuae nos reddat accéptos : ut, per haec piae placatiónis offícia, et illum beáta retribútio comitétur, et nobis grátiae tuae dona concíliet. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—May the festival we keep year by year in honour of blessed Bonaventure, Thy Confessor and bishop, make us pleasing, O Lord, to Thy loving kindness, and, by virtue of this devout service of propitiation, while assuring him his happy reward, obtain for us the gifts of Thy grace. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Deus, fidélium remunerátor animárum : praesta ; ut, beáti Bonaventúrae Confessóris tui atque Pontíficis, cujus venerándam

Postcommunion. — O God, the rewarder of faithful souls, grant that through the prayers of blessed Bonaventure, Thy Confessor and bishop, whose venerable feast-day we are celebrating, we may receive the pardon of our sins. Through our Lord.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1013.

celebrámus festivitátem, précibus indulgéntiam consequámur. Per Dóminum.

July 15.

St. Henry, Emperor and Confessor.*—Semi-double.—White vestments.

Henry II., surnamed the Pius, became King of Bavaria in 995, King of Germany in 1002, and head of the Holy Roman Empire from 1014 to 1024. He promised on oath to Benedict VIII., who had crowned him, "to be faithful in all things to him and his successors." He did his best to spread religion, restoring destroyed churches, and founding monasteries which he liberally endowed (Epistle). Detained at Monte Cassino by severe illness, he was miraculously cured through the intercession of St. Benedict.

In order to be ready for the coming of the Divine Master (Gospel, Communion), he returned from Italy through France, was admitted into the Community of Cluny and asked to be received into the Benedictine Abbey of St. Vanne at Verdun. The Abbot welcomed him, but immediately commanded him, in the name of religious obedience, to re-ascend the imperial throne.

He so loved the law of God (Introit), that he preserved absolute virginity in marriage (Introit). Indeed, by agreement with his holy spouse Cunegund, he determined to make Jesus Christ their heir, and with this view he founded the bishopric of Bamberg, to which he left all his possessions. He was buried in its church in 1024.

Mass : Os justi, p. 270, except :

Collect. — O God, Who on this day didst remove blessed Henry, Thy Confessor, from the government of an earthly empire and raise him to the kingdom of heaven ; we humbly beseech Thee that, even as by the fulness of Thy preventing grace Thou didst give him strength to overcome the enticements of this life, so Thou wouldst enable us, through his example, to shun the blandishments of this world, and come to Thee with clean hearts. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui hodiérna die beátum Henrícum Confessórem tuum e terréni cúlmine impérii ad regnum aetérnum transtulísti : te súpplices exorámus ; ut, sicut illum, grátiae tuae ubertáte praevéntum, illécebras saeculi superáre fecísti, ita nos fácias, ejus imitatióne, mundi hujus blandiménta vitáre, et ad te puris méntibus perveníre. Per Dóminum.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1012.

JULY 16.

Commemoration of the Blessed Virgin Mary of Mount Carmel.*—Greater-double.—White vestments.

According to a pious tradition authorised by the liturgy, on the day of Pentecost a number of men who had walked in the footsteps of the holy Prophets Elias and Elisha, and whom John the Baptist had prepared for the Advent of Jesus, embraced the Christian faith, and before all others erected a church to the Blessed Virgin on Mount Carmel, at the very spot where Elias had seen a cloud arise, a figure of the fecundity of the Mother of God.† They were called : Brethren of Blessed Mary of Mount Carmel (Collect). These religious came to Europe in the thirteenth century and in 1245 Innocent IV. gave his approbation to their rule under the generalship of Simon Stock.

On July 16, 1251, Mary appeared to this fervent servant and placed in his hands the habit which was to be their distinctive sign. Innocent IV. blessed this habit and attached to it many privileges, not only for the members of the Order, but also for those who entered the Confraternity of Our Lady of Mount Carmel. By wearing the scapular, which is in a smaller form than that of the Carmelite Fathers, they participate in all their merits and may hope to obtain through the Virgin a prompt delivery from Purgatory, if they have faithfully observed abstinence, chastity according to their state, and said the prayers prescribed by John XXII. in the bull Sabatina, published on March 3, 1322. The feast of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, at first celebrated only in the Churches of the Order, was extended to all Christendom by Benedict XIII., in 1726.

MASS.

Intróitus.—Gaudeámus omnes in Dómino, diem festum celebrántes sub honóre beátae Mariae Vírginis: de cujus solemnitáte gaudent Angeli, et colláudant Fílium Dei. Ps. Eructávit cor meum verbum bonum : dico ego ópera mea Regi. ℣. Glória.

Introit.—Let us all rejoice in the Lord, celebrating a festival day in honour of the Blessed Virgin Mary, on whose solemnity the Angels rejoice, and give praise to the Son of God. Ps. xliv. 2. My heart hath uttered a good word : I speak my works to the King. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui beatíssimae semper Vírginis et Genitrícis tuae Maríae singulári título Carméli órdinem decorásti : concéde propítius ; ut, cujus hódie Commemoratiónem solémni celebrámus offício, ejus muniti praesídiis, ad gáudia sempitérna perveníre mereá-

Collect.—O God, Who hast been pleased to honour the Order of Thy most blessed mother, Mary ever a virgin, with the noble title of Mount Carmel : grant, we beseech Thee, that she whose commemoration we this day celebrate with solemn offices, may ever so surely safeguard us, that we be found worthy to share in that happiness which has no end. Who livest and reignest.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1013 † Lesson of Second Nocturn at Matins.

mur: Qui vivis.

Epistle. Ecclus. xxiv. 23-31.—Lesson from the Book of Wisdom—As the vine, I have brought forth a pleasant odour, and my flowers are the fruit of honour and riches. I am the mother of fair love, and of fear, and of knowledge, and of holy hope. In me is all grace of the way and of the truth, in me is all hope of life and of virtue. Come over to me, all ye that desire me, and be filled with my fruits; for my spirit is sweet above honey, and my inheritance above honey and the honeycomb. My memory is unto everlasting generations. They that eat me, shall yet hunger; and they that drink me, shall yet thirst. He that hearkeneth to me shall not be confounded, and they that work by me shall not sin. They that explain me shall have life everlasting.

Epistolae. — Léctio libri Sapiéntiae. — Ego quasi vitis fructificávi suavitátem odóris: et flores mei, fructus honóris et honéstatis. Ego mater pulchrae dilectiónis, et timóris, et agnitiónis, et sanctae spei. In me grátia omnis viae et veritátis: in me omnis spes vitae et virtútis. Transite ad me omnes qui concupíscitis me, et a generatiónibus meis implémini. Spíritus enim meus super mel dulcis, et heréditas mea super mel et favum. Memória mea in generatiónes saeculórum. Qui edunt me, adhuc esúrient: et qui bibunt me, adhuc sítient. Qui audit me, non confundétur: et qui operántur in me, non peccábunt. Qui elúcidant me, vitam aetérnam habébunt.

Gradual. — O Virgin Mary, blessed and venerable art thou: without blemish to thy maidenhood, thou didst become the mother of the Saviour. ℣. O Virgin Mother of God, He whom the whole world availeth not to contain, being made man, shut Himself up within thy womb.

Graduále. — Benedícta et venerábilis es, Virgo Maria: quae sine tactu pudóris invénta es Mater Salvatóris. ℣. Virgo Dei Génitrix, quem totus non capit orbis, in tua se clausit viscera factus homo.

Alleluia, alleluia. — ℣. Through thee, O Mother of God, has the life we had lost been given back to us: for, from heaven receiving Him who became Thy Son, thou on the world hast bestowed its Saviour.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Per te, Dei Génitrix, nobis est vita pérdita data: quae de coelo suscepísti prolem, et mundo genuísti Salvatórem. Allelúia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangelii secúndum Lucam. — In illo témpore: Loquénte Jesu ad turbas, extóllens vocem quaedam múlier de turba, dixit illi: Beátus venter, qui te portávit, et úbera quae suxísti. At ille dixit: Quinímo beáti, qui áudiunt verbum Dei, et custódiunt illud.—Credo.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke. xi. 27-28.—At that time: As Jesus was speaking to the multitudes, a certain woman from the crowd, lifting up her voice, said to Him, Blessed is the womb that bore Thee, and the breasts that gave Thee suck. But He said, Yea rather, blessed are they who hear the word of God, and keep it.—Credo.

Offertórium. — Recordáre, Virgo mater, in conspéctu Dei, ut loquáris pro nobis bona, et ut avértat indignatiónem suam a nobis.

Offertory.—Be mindful, O Virgin mother, to speak good things before God's face in our behalf, so that He may turn away His anger from us.

Secréta. — Sanctífica, Dómine, quaesumus, obláta libámina: et beátae Dei Genitrícis Maríae salubérima intercessióne, nobis salutária fore concéde. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Secret.—Hallow, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the offerings which we make; and by the most salutary intercession of blessed Mary, mother of God, grant that they may avail us for salvation. Through our Lord.

Preface of the Blessed Virgin Mary: Et te in Commemoratióne, p. 56.

Commúnio. — Regína mundi digníssima, María Virgo perpétua, intercéde pro nostra pace et salúte, quae genuísti Christum Dóminum Salvatórem ómnium.

Communion.—O Virgin Mary, thou whom, because of thy worth, God hath set up as Queen over the whole world, pray for our peace and for our salvation; for thou didst bring forth Christ, the Lord, the Saviour of us all.

Postcommúnio. — Adjuvet nos, quaesumus, Dómine, gloriósae tuae Genitrícis, sempérque Vírginis Maríae intercéssio veneránda: ut, quos perpétuis cumulávit benefíciis, a cunctis perículis absolútos, sua fáciat pietáte concórdes: Qui vivis.

Postcommunion. — May the holy intercession of Thy glorious mother Mary, ever a virgin, help us, O Lord, we beseech Thee; and may those on whom she has bestowed signal blessings unto eternal life be delivered from all danger and become united by her loving kindness. Through our Lord.

July 17.

St. Alexius, Confessor*—Semi-double.—White vestments.

St. Alexius was born at Rome, towards 350, of a wealthy family ; his father being the Senator Euphemian. Guided by the Holy Ghost, he renounced his patrimony and piously visited as a pilgrim the sanctuaries of the East. He died in the fifth century under the Pontificate of Innocent I.

His body was buried in the church which bears his name on Mount Aventine. He is honoured there with St. Boniface, to whom the Church had originally been dedicated.†

Mass : Os justi, p. 370, except :

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to Timothy. 1 Tim. vi. 6-12.—Dearly beloved. Godliness with contentment is great gain. For we brought nothing into this world, and certainly we can carry nothing out. But having food, and wherewith to be covered, with these we are content. For they that will become rich, fall into temptation, and into the snare of the devil, and into many unprofitable and hurtful desires, which drown men in destruction and perdition. For covetousness is the root of all evils; which some desiring have erred from the faith and have entangled themselves in many sorrows. But thou, O man of God, fly these things; and pursue justice, godliness, faith, charity, patience, meekness. Fight the good fight of faith; lay hold on eternal life.

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Timótheum. — Carissime : Est quaestus magnus píetas cum sufficiéntia. Nihil enim intúlimus in hunc mundum : haud dúbium quod nec auférre quid póssumus. Habéntes autem aliménta, et quibus tegámur, his conténti simus. Nam qui volunt dívites fíeri, íncidunt in tentatiónem, et in láqueum diáboli, et desidéria multa inutília, et nocíva: quae mergunt hómines in intéritum, et perditiónem. Radix enim ómnium malórum est cupíditas: quam quidam appeténtes, erravérunt a fide, et inseruérunt se dolóribus multis. Tu autem, o homo Dei, haec fuge: sectáre vero justítiam, pietátem, fidem, caritátem, patiéntiam, mansuetúdinem. Certa bonum certámen fídei, apprehénde vitam aetérnam.

Gospel : Ecce nos, p. 278.

July 18.

St. Camillus de Lellis, Confessor.‡—Double.—White vestments.

The Holy Ghost, Who has manifested Himself in all manner of ways in the souls of the Saints whose names have appeared in the Cycle since

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010. † Feast on May 14.
‡ See Historical Summary, p. 1016.

the Feast of Pentecost, proposes to our admiration on this day St. Camillus, whose charity towards his neighbour had specially Jesus in view (Communion).

Born in 1550 in the Kingdom of Naples, of the noble family of Lellis, St. Camillus entered the Capuchin Order, but twice he had to leave it on account of a sore on his leg. For God intended him to be the founder of a congregation of regular Clerks, consecrating themselves to the service of the sick. He obtained from the Apostolic See approbation for his Order. Inspired by the example of Jesus Who died for us (Epistle) and Who has declared that there is no greater proof of love than to give one's life for others (Introit, Gospel), these religious promise to tend the sick, even those stricken with the plague. St. Camillus, as well as his Institute, received from God a special grace to help souls to emerge victoriously from the death-struggle (Collect, Secret), wherefore the name of this Saint has been included by the Church in the Litany for the Agonising. St. Camillus died at Rome on July 14, 1614.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Majórem hac dilectiónem nemo habet, ut ánimam suam ponat quis pro amícis suis. Ps. Beátus qui intélligit super egénum, et páuperem : in die mala liberábit eum Dóminus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. John xv. 13.—Greater love than this no man hath, that a man lay down his life for his friends. Ps. xl. 2. Blessed is he that understandeth concerning the needy and the poor: the Lord will deliver him in the evil day. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui sanctum Camíllum, ad animárum in extrémo agóne luctántium subsidium, singulári caritátis praerogatíva decorásti : ejus, quaesumus, méritis spíritum nobis tuae dilectiónis infúnde ; ut in hora éxitus nostri hostem víncere, et ad coeléstem mereámur corónam perveníre. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who didst endow holy Camillus with a special grace of charity for the relief of souls in their last agony ; we beseech Thee, by his merits so to pour into our hearts the spirit of Thy love, that at the hour of our departure we may overcome the enemy, and deserve to win a heavenly crown. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of St. Symphorosa and of her seven sons, Mm., see below.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Joánnis apóstoli. — Carissimi : Nolíte mirári, si odit vos mundus. Nos scimus, quóniam transláti sumus de morte ad vitam, quóniam dilígimus fratres. Qui

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed John the Apostle. iii. 13-18.—Dearly beloved, Wonder not, if the world hate you. We know that we have passed from death to life, because we love the brethren. He that loveth not, abideth in death. Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer: and you know that no murderer hath eternal life abiding in himself. In this we have known the charity of God, because He hath laid down His life for us; and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren. He that hath the substance of this world, and shall see his brother in need, and shut up his bowels from him, how doth the charity of God abide in him? My little children, let us not love in word nor in tongue, but in deed and in truth.

non díligit, manet in morte: omnis qui odit fratrem suum, homicida est. Et scitis, quóniam omnis homicída non habet vitam aetérnam in semetípso manéntem. In hoc cognóvimus caritátem Dei, quóniam ille ánimam suam pro nobis pósuit: et nos debémus pro frátribus ánimas pónere. Qui habúerit substántiam hujus mundi, et víderit fratrem suum necessitátem habére, et cláuserit víscera sua ab eo: quómodo cáritas Dei manet in eo? Filíoli mei, non diligámus verbo, neque lingua, sed ópere et veritáte.

Gradual. Ps. xxxvi. 30, 31.—The mouth of the just shall meditate wisdom, and his tongue shall speak judgment. ℣. The law of his God is in his heart; and his steps shall not be supplanted.

Graduále. — Os justi meditábitur sapiéntiam, et lingua ejus loquétur judícium. ℣. Lex Dei ejus in corde ipsíus: et non supplantabúntur gressus ejus.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. cxi. 1.—℣. Blessed is the man that feareth the Lord, he delights exceedingly in His commandments. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Beátus vir, qui timet Dóminum: in mandátis ejus cupit nimis. Allelúia.

Gospel: Hoc est praecéptum meum, p. 204.

Offertory. Ps. xx. 2, 3.—In Thy strength, O Lord, the just shall exult and in Thy salvation he shall rejoice exceedingly: Thou hast given him his heart's desire.

Offertórium. — In virtúte tua, Dómine, laetábitur justus, et super salutáre tuum exsultábit veheménter: desidérium ánimae ejus tribuísti ei.

Secret.—May the spotless Victim, by which we renew the work of the boundless love of our Lord Jesus Christ, be to us, through the intercession of St. Camillus, a wholesome remedy against all

Secréta. — Hóstia immacu láta, qua illud Dómini nostri Jesu Christi imménsae caritátis opus renovámus, sit, Deus Pater omnípotens, sancto Camíllo intercedénte, contra om-nes córporis et ánimae infirmitátes salutáre remédium, et in extrémo agóne solátium et tutéla. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

infirmities of body and soul, and in our last agony comfort and protection. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of St. Symphorosa and of her seven sons, p. 1507

Commúnio. — Infírmus fui, et visitástis me. Amen, amen dico vobis: quámdiu fecístis uni ex his frátribus meis mínimis, mihi fecístis.

Communion. Matt. xxv. 36, 40.—I was sick and you visited Me: Amen, amen I say to you, as long as you did it to one of these My least brethren, you did it to Me.

Postcommúnio. — Per haec coeléstia aliménta, quae sancti Camilli Confessóris tui solémnia celebrántes, pia devotióne suscépimus: da, quaesumus, Dómine: ut in hora mortis nostrae sacraméntis reffécti, et culpis ómnibus expiáti, in sinum misericórdiae tuae laeti súscipi mereámur: Qui vivis.

Postcommunion. — By this heavenly food which we have taken with loving devotion while keeping the festival of holy Camillus, Thy confessor; grant we beseech Thee, O Lord, that at the hour of our death we may be refreshed with the sacraments and cleansed from all our sins, and may be found worthy to be received rejoicing into the bosom of Thy mercy. Who livest and reignest.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Symphorosa and her Seven Sons, MARTYRS.*—Red vestments.

St. Symphorosa of Tivoli, spouse of the martyr St. Getulus, was the mother of seven sons to whom she taught the faith. Arrested at Tivoli by order of the Emperor Adrian, she was hung up by the hair and then thrown into the River Teverone with a stone tied to her neck. All her children, stretched on stakes by means of pulleys, imitated her constancy and were martyred about A.D. 120.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Clamavérunt justi, et Dóminus exaudívit eos: et ex ómnibus tribulatiónibus eórum liberávit eos. Ps. Benedícam Dóminum in omni témpore: semper laus ejus in ore meo. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. xxxiii. 18.—The just cried, and the Lord heard them: and delivered them out of all their troubles. Ibid. 2. I will bless the Lord at all times, His praise shall be always in my mouth.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008.

Collect.—O God, by Whose grace we keep the festival of Thy holy martyrs Symphorosa and her seven sons; grant that we may enjoy their fellowship in everlasting bliss. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui nos concédis sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Symphorósae et filiórum ejus natalítia cólere: da nobis in aetérna beatitúdine de eórum societáte gaudére. Per Dóminum.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Hebrews. xi. 33-39.—BRETHREN, The saints who by faith conquered kingdoms, wrought justice, obtained promises, stopped the mouths of lions, quenched the violence of fire, escaped the edge of the sword, recovered strength from weakness, became valiant in battle, put to flight the armies of foreigners, women received their dead raised to life again. But others were racked, not accepting deliverance, that they might find a better resurrection. And others had trial of mockeries and stripes, moreover also of bands and prisons. They were stoned, they were cut asunder, they were tempted, they were put to death by the sword, they wandered about in sheep-skins, in goat-skins, being in want, distressed, afflicted: of whom the world was not worthy; wandering in deserts, in mountains, and in dens, and in caves of the earth. And all these being approved by the testimony of faith in Jesus Christ.

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Hebraeos. — FRATRES: Sancti per fídem vicérunt regna, operáti sunt justítiam, adépti sunt repromissiónes, obturavérunt ora leónum, exstinxérunt impetum ignis, effugérunt áciem gládii, convaluérunt de infirmitáte, fortes facti sunt in bello, castra vertérunt exterórum: accepérunt mulíeres de resurrectióne mórtuos suos: álii autem disténti sunt, non suscipiéntes redemptiónem, ut meliórem invenírent resurrectiónem: alii vero ludíbria, et vérbera expérti, ínsuper et víncula, et cárceres: lapidáti sunt, secti sunt, tentáti sunt, in occisióne gládii mórtui sunt: circuiérunt in melótis, in péllibus caprínis, egéntes, angustiáti, afflícti: quibus dignus non erat mundus: in solitudínibus errántes, in móntibus, et spelúncis, et in cavérnis terrae. Et hi omnes testimónio fidei probáti, invénti sunt in Christo Jesu Dómino nostro.

Gradual. Ps. cxxxii. 1, 2.—Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity. ℣. Like the precious ointment on Graduále. — Ecce quam bonum, et quam jucúndum habitáre fratres in unum. ℣. Sicut unguéntum in cápite, quod descéndit in barbam, barbam Aaron.

the head, that ran down upon the beard, the beard of Aaron.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Haec est vera fratérnitas, quae vicit mundi crímina: Christum secúta est, inclyta tenens vestígia. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia.— ℣. This is the true brotherhood which overcame the wickedness of the world: it followed Christ, attaining the noble kingdom of heaven. Alleluia.

Gospel: Atténdite, p. 240.

Offertórium. — Laetámini in Dómino, et exsultáte justi: et gloriámini omnes recti corde, allelúia, allelúia.

Offertory. Ps. xxxi. 11.—Be glad in the Lord, and rejoice, ye just, and glory, all ye right of heart. Alleluia, alleluia.

Secréta.—Múnera tibi, Dómine, nostrae devotiónis offérimus: quae et pro tuórum tibi grata sint honóre justórum, et nobis salutária, te miseránte, reddántur. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—We offer to Thee, O Lord, the gifts of our devotion: may they please Thee as honouring Thy saints; and through Thy mercy, may they be profitable to us. Through our Lord.

Commúnio. — Quicúmque fécerit voluntátem Patris mei, qui in coelis est, ipse meus frater, et soror, et mater est, dicit Dóminus.

Communion. Ps. xii. 50.—Whosoever shall do the will of My Father that is in heaven, he is My brother, and sister, and mother saith the Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Praesta nobis, quaesumus, Dómine: intercedéntibus sanctis Martyribus tuis Symphorósa et fíliis ejus: ut, quod ore contíngimus, pura mente capiámus. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Grant us, we beseech Thee, O Lord, by the intercession of Thy holy martyrs Symphorosa and her sons, to receive into a pure heart the Divine Sacrament which has passed our lips. Through our Lord.

July 19.

St. Vincent de Paul, Confessor.*—Double†—White vestments.

Providence, ever watching over men with maternal solicitude, in the seventeenth century raised up St. Vincent de Paul. He was filled with the Holy Spirit which had strengthened the Apostles, and he contributed abundantly to the evangelisation of the poor and to the development of the priestly virtues which are the glory of the clergy (Collect).

He was born near Dax (Landes). When still a young priest he fell into the hands of Turkish pirates who carried him to Africa. Having returned to France, he became successively a parish priest and grand almoner of the galley-slaves. St. Francis of Sales entrusted to him later the spiritual direction of the Nuns of the Visitation.

Preaching especially to country people he bound, by a special vow, to undertake this apostolic work, the members of the Congregation he had founded, under the title of Priests of the Mission or Lazarists. Teaching them to leave everything to follow Christ (Communion), he sent them to work in the vineyard of God (Gospel) and to establish everywhere seminaries in order to give good priests to the people.

In order to help poor people, young girls whose virtue was exposed to danger, and others insane, invalided or sick, he founded, in conjunction with Louise de Marillac (beatified in May 1920) the Congregation of the Sisters of Charity, which is actually the most numerous and the most diffused throughout the world.

After a life which recalls the apostolate of St. Paul (Epistle), and which caused Leo XIII. to proclaim him the special patron of all charitable associations, St. Vincent died in 1660 at St. Lazarus's which was the mother-house of his congregation.

Let us beseech God that, following the example of St. Vincent, whose pious merits we venerate on this day (Collect), our hearts like his may be filled with divine charity.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1016. † In France, greater-double.

Mass: Justus, p. 273, except:

Orémus. — Deus, qui ad evangelizándum paupéribus et ecclesiástici órdinis becórem promovéndum, beátum Vincéntium apostólica virtúte roborásti: praesta, quaesumus; ut, cujus pia mérita venerámur, virtútum quoque instruámur exémplis. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God Who, for the preaching of the Gospel to the poor and for the quickening of the fervour of the clergy, didst endue blessed Vincent with the zeal of an apostle: grant, we humbly pray Thee, that we who seek to do reverent honour to his holiness, may profit by the lessons of virtue he has left us. Through our Lord.

Gospel: Designávit, p. 1346.

JULY 20.

St. Jerome Aemilian, CONFESSOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

¶ Born at Venice, of the patrician family of Emiliani, Jerome unreservedly gave himself up to the influence of divine grace "which on the ruins of the corrupt man, raised him as a new man made in the image of God" (Secret). Filled with the Spirit of adoption, which makes us children of the Father, he was chosen by Heaven to be the Father of orphans and of the poor (Collect). As Jesus had asked the young man in the Gospel to do, he left everything and, like his Master, made little children come unto him (Gospel). He founded at Somascha, between Milan and Bergamo, a Congregation whose object was to educate youth in orphanages and colleges. Wherefore the Introit, applying to him the words of Jeremias, shows him full of compassion for children who, thanks to him, learned to praise the Lord. Dividing his bread with those who were hungry, and covering the naked, he opened asylums for the poor and gave them abundant alms with the help of the nobility of Pavia and Milan (Epistle, Gradual, Alleluia).

He died of the plague in 1537, having borne on his shoulders the plague-stricken to their burial place (Offertory).

Let us have recourse to the Father of mercies so that we may be filled like St. Jerome, with holy charity for the poor and for children.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Effúsum est in terra jecur meum super contritióne filiae pópuli mei, cum deficeret párvulus et lactens in Introit. Jer. Thren. ii. 11.—My liver is poured out upon the earth, for the destruction of the daughter of my people, when the child and the suckling fainted away in the streets of the city. Ps. Praise the Lord, ye children: praise ye the name of the Lord. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1015.

platéis óppidi. Ps. Laudáte púeri Dóminum: laudáte nomen Dómini. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—O God, the Father of mercies, be mindful of the merits and prayers of blessed Jerome, whom Thou didst raise up to be the father and helper of orphans: and graciously bring about that, with all faithfulness, we cherish within us the spirit of adoption by which we are called, and verily are, Thy sons. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, misericórdiárum pater: per mérita et intercessiónem beáti Hierónymi, quem órphanis adjutórem et patrem esse voluísti: concéde; ut spíritum adoptiónis, quo filii tui nominámur et sumus, fidéliter custodiámus. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of St. Margaret: Indulgentiam, p. 286.

Epistle. Isa. lviii. 7-11.—Lesson from Isaias the prophet. —DEAL thy bread to the hungry, and bring the needy and the harbourless into thy house: when thou shalt see one naked, cover him, and despise not thy own flesh. Then shall thy light break forth as the morning, and thy health shall speedily arise, and thy justice shall go before thy face, and the glory of the Lord shall gather thee up. Then shalt thou call, and the Lord shall hear: thou shalt cry, and He shall say, Here I am. If thou wilt take away the chain out of the midst of thee, and cease to stretch out the finger, and to speak that which profiteth not. When thou shalt pour out thy soul to the hungry, and shalt satisfy the afflicted soul, then shall thy light rise up in darkness, and thy darkness shall be as the noon-day. And the Lord will give thee rest continually, and will fill thy soul with brightness, and deliver thy bones: and thou shalt be like a watered garden, and like a fountain of water whose waters shall not fail.

Epistola. — Léctio Isaíae Prophétae. — FRANGE esuriénti panem tuum, et egénos, vagósque induc in domum tuam: cum víderis nudum óperi eum, et carnem tuam ne despéxeris. Tunc erúmpet quasi mane lumen tuum, et sánitas tua cítius oriétur, et anteíbit fáciem tuam justítia tua, et glória Dómini cólliget te. Tunc invocábis, et Dóminus exáudiet: clamábis, et dicet: Ecce adsum; si abstúleris de médio tui caténam, et desíeris exténdere dígitum, et loqui quod non prodest. Cum effúderis esuriénti ánimam tuam, et ánimam afflíctam repléveris, oriétur in ténebris lux tua, et ténebrae tuae erunt sicut merídies. Et réquiem tibi dabit Dóminus semper, et implébit splendóribus ánimam tuam, et ossa tua liberábit, et eris quasi hortus irríguus, et sicut fons aquárum, cujus non defícient aquae.

Graduále. — Derivéntur fontes tui foras, et in platéis aquas tuas dívide. ℣. Jucúndus homo, qui miserétur, et cómmodat: dispónet sermónes suos in judício, quia in aetérnum non commovébitur.

Gradual. Prov. v. 16.—Let thy fountains be conveyed abroad, and in the streets divide thy waters! ℣. Ps. cxi. 5, 6. Acceptable is the man that showeth mercy and lendeth, he ordereth his words with judgment; because he shall not be moved for ever.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Dispérsit, dedit paupéribus: justítia ejus manet in saeculum saeculi. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ibid. 9.—℣. He hath distributed, he hath given to the poor; his justice remaineth for ever and ever. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Obláti sunt Jesu párvuli, ut manus eis impóneret, et oráret. Discípuli autem increpábant eos. Jesus vero ait eis: Sínite párvulos, et nólite eos prohibére ad me veníre: tálium est enim regnum coelórum. Et cum imposuísset eis manus, ábiit inde. Et ecce unus accédens, ait illi: Magíster bone, quid boni fáciam, ut hábeam vitam aetérnam? Qui dixit ei: Quid me intérrogas de bono? Unus est bonus, Deus. Si autem vis ad vitam íngredi, serva mandáta. Dicit illi: Quae? Jesus autem dixit: Non homicídium fácies: Non adulterábis: Non fácies furtum: Non falsum testimónium dices: Honóra patrem tuum, et matrem tuam, et díliges próximum tuum sicut teípsum. Dicit illi adoléscens: Omnia haec custodívi a juventúte mea: quid adhuc mihi

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. xix. 13-21.—At that time, Little children were presented to Him, that He should impose hands upon them, and pray. And the disciples rebuked them. But Jesus said to them: Suffer the little children, and forbid them not to come to Me; for the kingdom of heaven is for such. And when He had imposed hands upon them, He departed from thence. And behold one came to Him, and said to Him, Good Master, what good shall I do, that I may have life everlasting? Who said to him, Why askest thou Me concerning good? One is good, God. But if thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments. He said to Him, Which? And Jesus said, Thou shalt do no murder, thou shalt not commit adultery, thou shalt not steal, thou shalt not bear false witness, honour thy father and thy mother; and thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. The young man saith to Him, All these things have I kept from my youth; what is yet wanting to me? Jesus saith to him, If thou wilt be perfect, go, sell what thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven; and come, follow Me.

deest? Ait illi Jesus: Si vis perféctus esse, vade, vende quae habes, et da paupéribus. et habébis thesáurum in coelo: et veni, séquere me.

Offertory. Tobit xii. 12.—When thou didst pray with tears, and didst bury the dead, and didst leave thy dinner, and hide the dead by day in thy house, and bury them by night, I offered thy prayer to the Lord.

Offertórium. — Quando orábas cum lácrymis, et sepeliébas mórtuos, et derelinquébas prándium tuum, et mórtuos abscondébas per diem in domo tua, et nocte sepeliébas eos: ego óbtuli oratiónem tuam Dómino.

Secret.—Most merciful God, who, the old Adam being utterly consumed in him, didst vouchsafe to create in blessed Jerome a new man according to Thine own heart: ordain that through his merits, we in like manner may be renewed in the spirit; and grant that our offering up of this atoning victim, may rise up as a most sweet odour before Thee. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Clementíssime Deus, qui, véteri hómine consúmpto, novum secúndum te in beáto Hierónymo creáre dignátus es: da, per mérita ipsíus; ut nos páriter renováti, hanc placatiónis hóstiam in odórem tibi suavíssimum offerámus Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of St. Margaret: Hóstias, p. 289.

Communion. Jas. i. 27.—Religion clean and undefiled before God and the Father, is this: to visit the fatherless and widows in their tribulation, and to keep one's self unspotted from this world.

Commúnio. — Relígio munda, et immaculáta apud Deum et Patrem, haec est: visitáre pupíllos, et víduas in tribulatióne eórum, et immaculátum se custodíre ab hoc saeculo.

Postcommunion. —Comforted, O Lord, with the bread of Angels, most humbly we ask of Thee, that we who, year by year, celebrate with rejoicings the memory of blessed Jerome, Thy confessor may walk in his footsteps, and Postcommúnio. — Angelórum pane reféci te, Dómine, supplíciter deprecámur: ut, qui ánnuam beáti Hierónymi Confessóris tui memóriam celebráre gaudémus; ejúsdem étiam et exémplum imítemur, et amplíssimum in regno tuo praemium obtinére valeámus. Per Dóminum.

thus become entitled to claim with him, the exceeding reward of Thy kingdom. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of St. Margaret: Divini munéris, p. 289.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Margaret, VIRGIN, MARTYR.*—Red vestments.

Margaret, who had been taught the Christian religion by her nurse, perished by the sword in the last general persecution, at Antioch in Pisidia towards 255-275. From the East her worship was carried to the West, during the Crusades. She is especially invoked by those about to become mothers. Her name is in the list of the fourteen auxiliary Saints (see engraving July 25).

Mass: Me exspectavérunt, p. 286.

JULY 21.

St. Praxedes, VIRGIN.†—Simple.—White vestments.

The feast of St. Pius I., on July II, recalled to our mind St. Pudentiana and her sister St. Praxedes, who both placed their house at the disposal of this holy Pontiff.‡ The first appears in the Cycle on May 19, under the reign of the risen Lord,§ and the second on this day, under the reign of the Holy Ghost. On the Tuesday of the third week of Lent, the Station is held at Rome in the titular Church of St. Pudentiana || and on the Monday in Holy Week at the titular Church of St. Praxedes. ¶

This Saint, a daughter of the Roman Senator Pudens, consecrated her virginity to God (Epistle), and renounced her great wealth in favour of the poor and of the Church. She thereby acquired the treasure and precious pearl of the heavenly kingdom (Gospel, Communion).

The religious ceremonies, which took place in her mansion, attracted the attention of the pagans. Many Christians were arrested there and led away to death.

She died under Antoninus in the second century, after having besought God to deliver her from the sight of such woful scenes. Her body was laid by that of her father and sister in the cemetery of her grand-mother Priscilla.

Let us celebrate joyfully the feast of the blessed virgin Praxedes, in order to obtain thereby sentiments of loving devotion (Collect).

MASS.

Intróitus. — Loquébar de testimóniis tuis in conspéctu regum, et non confundébar: et Introit. Ps. cxviii. 46, 47.—I spoke of Thy testimonies before kings, and I was not ashamed;

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008.
† Ibid., p. 1008.
‡ See July 11.
§ See May 19.
|| See p. 609.
¶ See p. 747.

I meditated also on Thy commandments, which I loved exceedingly. Ps. Blessed are the undefiled in the way: who walk in the law of the Lord. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

meditábar in mandátis tuis, quae diléxi nimis. Ps. Beáti immaculáti in via: qui ámbulant in lege Dómini. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—Graciously hear us, O God of our salvation, and grant that we who keep with joy the festival of blessed Praxedes, Thy virgin, may, by our feeling of loving devotion, advance in our knowledge of Thee. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Exaudi nos, Deus salutáris noster: ut, sicut de beátae Praxédis Vírginis tuae festivitáte gaudémus; ita piae devotiónis erudiámur afféctu. Per Dóminum.

Epistle: De virgínibus, p. 295.

Gradual. Ps. xliv. 8.—Thou hast loved justice, and hated iniquity. ℣. Therefore God, Thy God, hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness.

Graduále. — Dilexísti justítiam, et odísti iniquitátem. ℣. Proptérea unxit te Deus, Deus tuus, óleo laetítiae.

Alleluia, alleluia.— ℣. With thy comeliness and thy beauty, set out, proceed prosperously and reign. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Spécie tua, et pulchritúdine tua inténde, próspere procéde et regna. Allelúia.

Gospel: Símile est, p. 288.

Offertory. Ps. xliv 3.—Grace is poured abroad in thy lips: therefore hath God blessed thee for ever, and for ages of ages.

Offertórium. — Diffúsa est grátia in lábiis tuis: proptérea benedíxit te Deus in aetérnum, et in saeculum saeculi.

Secret.—May, O Lord, the offerings be pleasant in Thy sight which Thy faithful people bring to Thee in honour of Thy Saints: for the sake of whose merits Thou hast shown Thyself to us a sure help in tribulation. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Accépta tibi sit, Dómine, sacrátae plebis oblátio pro tuórum honóre Sanctórum: quorum se méritis de tribulatióne percepísse cognóscit auxílium. Per Dóminum.

Communion. Matt. xiii. 45, 46.—The kingdom of heaven is like to a merchant seeking good pearls; who, when he had found one pearl of great price, gave all that he had, and bought it.

Commúnio. — Símile est regnum coelórum hómini negotiatóri, quaerénti bonas margarítas: invénta autem una pretiósa margaríta, dedit ómnia sua, et comparávit eam.

Postcommúnio. — Satiásti, Dómine, famíliam tuam munéribus sacris: ejus, quaesumus, semper interventióne nos réfove, cujus solémnia celebrámus. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — With the gift of Thy Holy Sacrament, O Lord, Thou hast bestowed on Thy children the fulness of Thy grace: be moved by the prayers of the Saint whose feast we celebrate, to render ever bright the lives of Thy children. Through our Lord.

JULY 22.

St. Mary Magdalen, PENITENT.*—Double.—White vestments.

When He gave the Holy Ghost to the Apostles, Jesus had told them to remit sins, as He had done, and to-day the liturgy recalls the ever memorable example of the Saviour's mercy towards repentant sinners.

Mary, the sister of Martha and Lazarus, was of Magdala in Galilee, whence her name of Magdalen. She was a sinner.

Touched by grace, she threw herself at the feet of the Saviour. Simon the Pharisee, scandalised, would have repelled her like the haughty men mentioned by the Prophet Isaias " who say Away from me, approach me not for I am pure "† Jesus, on the contrary " defends her against the calumnies of the proud " (Communion). Admiring the work of divine grace in this soul " henceforth attentive to His commandments, whilst sinful men would still have her fall into sin " (Introit), He mercifully " accepts the offer of her service " (Secret), and secures to her for ever a place of honour in His royal court (Offertory). Repentance has transformed her love. " Because she has loved much, many sins are forgiven her " (Gospel). Indeed, it was at her prayer that Jesus raised Lazarus from the dead (Collect). And when after the Crucifixion of Jesus, at which she was present in the greatest distress, she seeks, like the spouse in the Canticles (Epistle) where they have laid her divine Spouse, Christ calls her by her name and commands her to announce His Resurrection to the disciples. Wherefore the Credo is recited on this day as in the Masses of the Apostles.

Following the example of Magdalen, which according to the Fathers represents the service of the Church towards Jesus, let us in a spirit of love and repentance pour out the treasure of our praises around Jesus present in the holy eucharist (Secret); let us surround Him on the altar, in a spirit of faith which does not fear the pharisaic scandal, with all the splendour which becomes the house of God.

MASS.

Intróitus.—Me exspectavérunt peccatóres, ut pérderent me: testimónia tua, Dómine, intelléxi: omnis consummatión-

Introit. Ps. cxviii. 95, 96.—The wicked have waited for me to destroy me; I have understood Thy testimonies, O Lord: I have seen an end of all perfection: Thy commandment is exceedingly broad. Ibid. 1. Blessed are the undefiled in the way: who walk in the law of the Lord. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008. † Eighth Lesson at Matins.

is vidi finem: latum mandátum tuum nimis. Ps. Beáti immaculáti in via: qui ámbulant in lege Dómini. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—May the prayers of blessed Mary Magdalen help us, O Lord: for it was in answer to them that Thou didst call her brother Lazarus, four days after his death, back from the grave to life. Who livest and reignest.

Orémus. — Beátae Maríae Magdalénae, quaesumus, Dómine, suffrágiis adjuvémur: cujus précibus exorátus, quatriduánum fratrem Lázarum vivum ab ínferis resuscitásti: Qui vivis.

Epistle. Song of Sol. iii. 2-5, viii. 6, 7.—Lesson from the Book of Wisdom.—I WILL rise and will go about the city: in the streets and the broad ways I will seek Him whom my soul loveth: I sought Him, and I found Him not. The watchmen who keep the city found me. Have you seen Him whom my soul loveth? When I had a little passed by them, I found Him whom my soul loveth; I held Him, and I will not let Him go till I bring Him into my mother's house, and into the chamber of her that bore me. I adjure you, O daughters of Jerusalem, by the roes and harts of the fields, that you stir not up, nor wake my beloved till she please. Put me as a seal upon thy heart, as a seal upon thy arm; for love is strong as death, jealousy is hard as hell; the lamps thereof are lamps of fire and flames. Many waters cannot quench charity, neither can the floods drown it; if a man Epistola. — Léctio libri Sapiéntiae.—SURGAM, et circuíbo civitátem: per vicos et platéas quaeram quem díligit ánima mea: quaesívi illum, et non invéni. Invenérunt me vígiles, qui custódiunt civitátem. Num quem díligit ánima mea, vidístis? Páululum cum pertransíssem eos, invéni quem díligit ánima mea: ténui eum, nec dimíttam, donec introdúcam illum in domum matris meae, et in cubículum genitrícis meae. Adjúro vos, fíliae Jerúsalem, per cápreas, cervósque campórum, ne suscitétis, neque evigilare faciátis diléctam, donec ipsa velit. Pone me ut signáculum super cor tuum, ut signáculum super bráchium tuum: quia fortis est ut mors diléctio, dura sicut inférnus aemulátio: lámpades ejus, lámpades ignis, atque flammárum. Aquae multae non potuérunt exstinguere caritátem, nec flúmina óbruet illam: si déderit homo omnem substántiam domus suae pro dilectióne, quasi nihil despíciet eam.

shall give all the substance of his house for love, he shall despise it as nothing.

Graduále. — Dilexísti justítiam, et odísti iniquitátem. ℣. Proptérea unxit te Deus, Deus tuus, óleo laetítiae.

Gradual. Ps. xliv. 8.—Thou hast loved justice, and hated iniquity. ℣. Therefore God, Thy God, hath anointed Thee with the oil of gladness.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Diffúsa est grátia in lábiis tuis: proptérea benedíxit te Deus in aetérnum Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ibid. 3.—℣. Grace is poured abroad in thy lips: therefore hath God blessed thee for ever. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam. — In illo témpore: Rogábat Jesum quidam de pharisaeis, ut manducáret cum illo. Et ingréssus domum pharísaei, discúbuit. Et ecce múlier, quae erat in civitáte peccátrix, ut cognóvit, quod accubuísset in domo pharísaei, áttulit alabástrum unguénti: et stans retro secus pedes ejus, lácrymis coepit rigáre pedes ejus, et capíllis cápitis sui tergébat, et osculabátur pedes ejus, et unguénto ungébat. Videns autem pharisaeus, qui vocáverat eum, ait intra se, dicens: Hic si esset prophéta, sciret útique, quae et qualis est múlier, quae tangit eum: quia peccátrix est. Et respóndens Jesus, dixit ad illum: Simon, hábeo tibi áliquid dícere. At ille ait: Magíster, dic. Duo debitóres erant cuídam foeneratóri: unus debébat denários quingéntos, et álius quinquagínta. Non habéntibus illis unde rédderent, donávit utrísque. Quis ergo eum plus díligit? Respóndens Simon, dixit:

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke. vii. 36-50.—At that time, one of the Pharisees desired Jesus to eat with him; and He went into the house of the Pharisee, and sat down to meat. And behold, a woman that was in the city, a sinner, when she knew that He sat at meat in the Pharisee's house, brought an alabaster box of ointment; and standing behind at His feet, she began to wash His feet with tears, and wiped them with the hairs of her head, and kissed His feet, and anointed them with the ointment. And the Pharisee who had invited Him, seeing it, spoke within himself, saying, This man, if He were a prophet, would know surely who and what manner of woman this is that toucheth Him, that she is a sinner. And Jesus answering, said to him, Simon, I have somewhat to say to thee: but he said, Master, say it. A certain creditor had two debtors, the one owed five hundred pence and the other fifty. And whereas they had not wherewith to pay, he forgave them both. Which therefore of the two loveth him most? Simon answering said, I suppose that he to whom he forgave most. And He said to him, Thou hast judged rightly. And turning to the woman, He said unto Simon, Dost thou see this woman? I entered into thy house; thou gavest Me no water for My feet; but she with tears hath washed My feet, and with her hairs hath wiped them. Thou gavest Me no kiss; but she, since she came in, hath not ceased to kiss My feet. My head with oil thou didst not anoint; but she with ointment hath anointed My feet. Wherefore I say to thee, Many sins are forgiven her, because she hath loved much: but to whom less is forgiven he loveth less. And He said to her, Thy sins are forgiven thee. And they that sat at meat with Him began to say within themselves, Who is this that forgiveth sins also? And He said to the woman, Thy faith hath made thee safe; go in peace.—Credo.

Aestimo quia is, cui plus donávit. At ille dixit ei: Recte judicásti. Et convérsus ad muliérem, dixit Simóni: Vides hanc mulíerem? Intrávi in domum tuam, aquam pédibus meis non dedísti: haec autem lácrymis rigávit pedes meos, et capíllis suis tersit. Osculum mihi non dedísti: haec autem, ex quo intrávit, non cessávit osculári pedes meos. Oleo caput meum non unxísti: haec autem unguénto unxit pedes meos. Propter quod dico tibi: Remittúntur ei peccáta multa, quóniam diléxit multum. Cui autem minus dimittítur, minus díligit. Dixit autem ad illam: Remittúntur tibi peccáta. Et coepérunt, qui simul accumbébant, dícere intra se: Quis est hic, qui étiam peccáta dimíttit? Dixit autem ad muliérem: Fides tua te salvam fecit: vade in pace.—Credo.

Offertory.—The daughters of kings in Thy glory: the queen stood on Thy right hand in gilded clothing, surrounded with variety.

Offertórium. — Fíliae regum in honóre tuo: ádstitit regina a dextris tuis in vestítu deauráto, circumdáta varietáte.

Secret. — May the glorious merits of blessed Mary Magdalen, we beseech Thee, O Lord, make these our offerings to find favour in Thy sight: for Thine only-begotten Son vouchsafed graciously to accept the humble service she rendered to Him, Who livest and reignest.

Secréta. — Múnera nostra, quaesumus, Dómine, beátae Maríae Magdalénae gloriósa mérita tibi reddant accépta: cujus oblatiónis obséquium unigénitus Fílius tuus cleménter suscépit impénsum: Qui tecum.

Commúnio. — Feci judícium, et justitiam, Dómine, non calumniéntur mihi supérbi : ad ómnia mandáta tua dirigébar, omnem viam iniquitátis ódio hábui.

Communion. Ps. cxviii. 121, 122, 128.—I have done judgment and justice, O Lord, let not the proud calumniate me; I was directed to all Thy commandments; I have hated all wicked ways.

Postcommúnio. — Sumpto, quaesumus, Dómine, único ac salutári remédio, córpore et sánguine tuo pretióso : ab ómnibus malis, sanctae Maríae Magdalénae patrocíniis, eruámur : Qui vivis.

Postcommunion. — We have received, O Lord, Thy precious body and blood, the one and saving medicine of our souls : may we, under the patronage of Saint Mary Magdalen, be delivered from all evils : Who livest and reignest.

JULY 23.

St. Apollinaris, BISHOP, MARTYR.*—Double.—Red vestments.

Apollinaris came from Antioch to Rome with the prince of the Apostles who anointed him bishop (Introit, Gradual, Alleluia) and sent him to Ravenna to preach the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Therefore the Epistle chosen is that in which St. Peter describes the duties of those who are to guide the Church, not domineering, but as models of the flock. The Gospel also says " that the one who is greatest shall be like the least, and the one who governs like the one who serves."

Arrested by the false pagan priests, he was cruelly beaten and cast into prison, then exiled to the banks of the Danube and to Thrace. Having returned to Ravenna he was again persecuted, and was martyred in A.D. 79. Thus did he put to profit the talents entrusted to him by God (Communion).

In the midst of our trials, let us remain united to Jesus and He will prepare for us as for this Saint a place in His Kingdom (Gospel).

MASS.

Intróitus. — Sacerdótes Dei benedícite Dóminum : sancti, et húmiles corde, laudáte Deum. Ps. Benedicite ómnia ópera Dómini Dómino : laudáte et superexaltáte eum in saecula. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Dan. iii. 84, 87.—Ye priests of the Lord, bless the Lord : O ye holy and humble of heart, praise God. Ibid. 57. All ye works of the Lord, bless the Lord, praise and exalt Him above all for ever. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, fidélium remunerátor animárum, qui Collect. — O God, the rewarder of faithful souls, Who hast consecrated this day by the martyrdom of blessed Apollinaris, Thy bishop: we, Thy servants, beseech Thee to grant that the prayer of him whose feast-day we keep, may avail to win for us the forgiveness of our sins. Through our Lord.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008.

hunc diem beáti Apollináris Sacerdótis tui martyrio consecrásti: tríbue nobis, quaesumus, fámulis tuis: ut, cujus venerándam celebrámus festivitátem, précibus ejus indulgéntiam consequámur. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of St. Liborius: Da quaesumus, p. 255.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Peter the Apostle. Pet. v. 1-11.—DEARLY beloved, The ancients that are among you I beseech, who am myself also an ancient and a witness of the sufferings of Christ; as also a partaker of that glory which is to be revealed in time to come; feed the flock of God which is among you, taking care of it not by constraint, but willingly according to God; not for filthy lucre's sake, but voluntarily; neither as lording it over the clergy but being made a pattern of the flock from the heart: and when the prince of pastors shall appear, you shall receive a never-fading crown of glory. In like manner, ye young men, be subject to the ancients: and do ye all insinuate humility one to another; for God resisteth the proud, but to the humble He giveth grace. Be you humbled therefore under the mighty hand of God, that He may exalt you in the time of visitation; casting all your care upon Him, for He hath care of you. Be sober and watch, because your adversary the devil, as a roaring lion, goeth about, seeking whom Léctio Epistolae beáti Petri Apóstoli. — CARISSIMI: Senióres, qui in vobis sunt, óbsecro, consénior et testis Christi passiónum: qui et ejus, quae in futúro revelánda est, glóriae communicátor: páscite qui in vobis est gregem Dei, providéntes non coácte, sed spontánee secúndum Deum: neque turpis lucri grátia, sed voluntárie: neque ut dominántes in cleris, sed forma facti gregis ex ánimo. Et cum apparúerit princeps pastórum, percipiétis immarcescíbilem glóriae corónam. Simíliter adolescéntes, súbditi estóte senióribus. Omnes autem ínvicem humilitátem insinúate: quia Deus supérbis resístit, humilíbus autem dat grátiam. Humiliámini ígitur sub poténti manu Dei, ut vos exáltet in témpore visitatiónis: omnem sollicitúdinem vestram projiciéntes in eum, quóniam ipsi cura est de vobis. Sóbrii estóte, et vigiláte: quia adversárius vester diábolus tamquam leo rúgiens círcuit, quaerens quem dévoret: cui resístite fortes in fide: sciéntes eámdem passiónem ei, quae in mundo est, vestrae fraternitáti fíeri. Deus autem omnis grátiae, qui vocávit nos in aetérnam suam glóriam in Christo Jesu, módicum passos ipse perfíciet, confirmábit, solidabítque. Ipsi glória, et impérium, in saecula saeculórum. Amen.

he may devour. Whom resist ye, strong in faith knowing that the same affliction befalls your brethren who are in the world. But the God of all grace, Who hath called us unto His eternal glory in Christ Jesus, after you have suffered a little, will Himself perfect you, and confirm you, and establish you To Him be glory and empire for ever and ever. Amen.

Graduále. — Invéni David servum meum, óleo sancto meo unxi eum: manus enim mea auxiliábitur ei, et bráchium meum confortábit eum. ℣. Nihil profíciet inimícus in eo, et fílius íniquitátis non nocébit ei.

Gradual. Ps. lxxxviii. 21, 23. —I have found David My servant, with My holy oil I have anointed him: for My hand shall help him, and My arm shall strengthen him. ℣. The enemy shall have no advantage over him: nor the son of iniquity have power to hurt him.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Jurávit Dóminus, et non poenitébit eum: Tu es sacérdos in aetérnum secúndum órdinem Melchísedech. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. cix. 4.— The Lord hath sworn, and He will not repent: thou art a priest for ever according to the order of Melchisedech. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam. — In illo témpore: Facta est conténtio inter discípulos, quis eórum viderétur esse major. Díxit autem eis Jesus: Reges géntium dominántur eórum; et qui potestátem habent super eos, benéfici vocántur. Vos autem non sic: sed qui major est in vobis, fiat sicut minor: et qui praecéssor est, sicut ministrátor. Nam quis major est, qui recúmbit, an qui minístrat? nonne qui recúmbit? Ego autem in médio vestrum sum, sicut qui minístrat. Vos autem estis, qui permansistis mecum in tentatiónibus meis: et ego dispóno vobis, sicut dispósuit

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke. xxii. 24-30.—At that time, There was a strife among the disciples, which of them should seem to be greater. And Jesus said to them. The kings of the Gentiles lord it over them; and they that have power over them, are called beneficent. But you not so: but he that is the greater among you, let him become as the younger; and he that is the leader, as he that served. For which is greater, he that sitteth at table, or he that serveth? Is not he that sitteth at table? but I am in the midst of you, as He that serveth. And you are they who have continued with Me in My temptations: and I dispose to you, as My Father hath disposed to Me, a kingdom: that you may eat and drink at My table in My kingdom, and may sit upon thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

mihi Pater meus regnum, ut edátis, et bibátis super mensam meam in regno meo: et sedeátis super thronos, judicántes duódecim tribus Israël.

Offertory. Ps. lxxxviii. 25.—My truth and My mercy shall be with him: and in My name shall his horn be exalted.

Offertórium. — Veritas mea, et misericórdia mea cum ipso: et in nómine meo exaltábitur cornu ejus.

Secret.—Look down in pity, O Lord, upon the offerings we lay before Thee in commemoration of blessed Apollinaris, Thy bishop and martyr, the sacrifice which Thou hast ordained for the forgiving of our sins. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Réspice, Dómine, propítius super haec múnera: quae pro beáti Sacerdótis et Mártyris tui Apollináris commemoratióne deférimus, et pro nostris offensiónibus immolámus. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of St. Liborius: Sancti tui, p. 258.

Communion. Matt. xxv. 20, 21.—Lord, Thou deliveredst to me five talents, behold I have gained other five over and above. Well done, good and faithful servant; because thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will set thee over many things: enter thou into the joy of the Lord.

Commúnio. — Dómine, quinque talénta tradidísti mihi: ecce ália quinque superlucrátus sum. Euge serve bone et fidélis, quia in pauca fuísti fidélis, supra multa te constítuam: intra in gáudium Dómini tui.

Postcommunion. — Having received of Thy holy things, O Lord, we beseech Thee that the protection of blessed Apollinaris henceforth fail us not: since it may not be that Thou ever cease from regarding with favour those to whom Thou shalt have vouchsafed help so mighty. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Tua sancta suméntes, quaesumus, Dómine, ut beáti Apollináris nos fóveant contínuáta praesídia: quia non désinis propítius intuéri, quos tálibus auxíliis concésseris adjuvári. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of St. Liborius: Praesta quaesumus, p. 258.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Liborius, BISHOP, CONFESSOR.*—White vestments.

St. Liborius was born in the 4th century of a Gaulish family and left everything to consecrate himself to the service of the altar. He became Bishop of Mans and after a life devoted to preaching, prayer and austerities he died in A.D. 397.

Mass: Státuit, p. 255.

JULY 24.

The Vigil of St. James, APOSTLE.—Purple vestments.

Like most of the feasts of the Apostles which were formerly of obligation, that of St. James is preceded by a vigil.

This Saint was one of the College of Twelve who, like the twelve sons of Jacob, received his inheritance and had to evangelise part of the Church, figured of old by the promised land (Epistle). With his brother St. John and St. Peter he was privileged to witness the Transfiguration of Jesus and His agony in the Garden of Olives. He was the first among the Apostles who had the honour to bear witness to Christ by shedding his blood in the city of Jerusalem. He thus gave, like His Master, the proof of the greatest love which consists in sacrificing one's life for those one loves (Gospel).

Let us, with the Church, prepare ourselves in meditation and prayer for the feast of to-morrow.

Mass of the Vigil of an Apostle: Ego autem, p. 202.

Commemoration of St. Christina, Virgin and Martyr, from the Collects of the Mass: Me exspectavérunt, p. 286.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Christina, VIRGIN, MARTYR.†—Red vestments.

St. Christina, born in Tuscany, at the age of ten took away the silver idols in her father's house and broke them up. On this account she was delivered to the persecutors, tied to a post and pierced with arrows. She thus added to the merit of her virginity that of Christian fortitude (Collect).

This was under Diocletian towards A.D. 300.

Mass: Me exspectavérunt, p. 286.

* See Historical Summary p. 1010. † Ibid., p. 1009.

JULY 25.

St. James, Apostle.*—Double of the Second Class.—Red vestments.

St. James, brother of St. John, and son of Zebedee, was a native of Bethsaida in Galilee. He is surnamed the Greater.

One day his mother, approaching the Saviour, asked of Him "the favour for her two sons to be seated, one at His right hand and the other at His left, in His kingdom" (Gospel). Christ then foretold their martyrdom. St. James "shall sit on a throne to judge the twelve tribes of Israel" (Communion), but he will first have to mix his blood with that of Jesus (Gospel) and undergo, like all the Apostles, a life of suffering and persecution, such as the Epistle describes. After the Ascension of Jesus Christ to heaven, says the office of to-day, James preached His divinity in Judea and Samaria. He soon betook himself to Spain. When he returned to Jerusalem, Herod Agrippa, desiring to please the Jews, condemned him to death and he was beheaded towards the year 42, a short time before the feast of Easter.

It would seem, that for fear of the Arabs who were masters of Jerusalem, the body of the Saint was later carried to Compostella, in Spain, where he is greatly honoured. July 25 recalls the date of this translation. His name is inscribed in the Canon of the Mass with that of St. John, his brother. (First List, p. 59).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

First Vespers (July 24) : From the Common of Apostles, p. 206.

MASS.

Introit. Ps. cxxxviii. 17.—To me, Thy friends, O God, are made exceedingly honourable: their principality is exceedingly strengthened. Ps. 1, 2. Lord, Thou hast proved me, and known me; Thou hast known my sit-

Intróitus. — Mihi autem nimis honoráti sunt amíci tui, Deus: nimis confortátus est principátus eórum. Ps. Dómine, probásti me, et cognovísti me: tu cognovísti sessiónem meam, et resurrectiónem

* See Historical Summary, p. 1004.

meam. ℣. Glória Patri.

ing down, and my rising up. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Esto, Dómine, plebi tuae sanctficátor et custos: ut, Apóstoli tui Jacóbi muníta praesídiis, et conversatióne tibi pláceat, et secúra mente desérviat. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Be Thou, O Lord, the sanctifier and the guardian of Thy people: safeguarded by the protection of blessed James, Thine apostle, may we find favour with Thee, and ever serve Thee with a quiet conscience. Through our Lord.

In Private Masses, a Commemoration is made of St. Christopher, from the Collects of the Mass: In virtute, p. 222.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Corínthios. — Fratres: Puto, quod Deus nos Apóstolos novissímos osténdit, tamquam morti destinátos: quia spectáculum facti sumus mundo, et Angelis, et hominibus. Nos stulti propter Christtum, vos autem prudéntes in Christo: nos infírmi, vos autem fortes: vos nóbiles, nos autem ignóbiles. Usque in hanc horam et esurímus, et sitímus, et nudi sumus, et cólaphis caedimur, et instábiles sumus, et laborámus operántes mánibus nostris: maledícimur, et benedícimus: persecútiónem pátimur, et sustinémus: blasphemámur, et obsecrámus: tamquam purgaménta hujus mundi facti sumus, ómnium peripséma usque adhuc. Non ut confúndam vos, haec scribo, sed ut fílios meos caríssimos móneo. Nam si decem millia paedagogórum habeátis in Christo: sed non multos patres. Nam in Christo Jesu per Evangélium ego vos génui.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians. iv. 91-5.*—BRETHREN, I think that God hath set forth us apostles the last, as it were men appointed to death: we are made a spectacle to the world, and to Angels, and to men. We are fools for Christ's sake, but you are wise in Christ: we are weak, but you are strong: you are honourable, but we without honour. Even unto this hour we both hunger, and thirst, and are naked, and are buffeted, and have no fixed abode, and we labour, working with our own hands. We are reviled, and we bless: we are persecuted, and we suffer it: we are blasphemed, and we entreat: we are made as the refuse of this world, the offscouring of all even until now. I write not these things to confound you: but I admonish you as my dearest children: for if you have ten thousand instructors in Christ, yet not many fathers. For in Christ Jesus by the gospel I have begotten you.

* St. Paul speaks ironically to the Corinthians who imagine they can please God by allowing themselves to be guided by what the world deems wisdom.

Gradual. Ps. xliv. 17, 18.—Thou shalt make them princes over all the earth: they shall remember Thy name, O Lord. ℣. Instead of thy fathers, sons are born to thee: therefore shall people praise thee.

Graduále. — Constítues eos príncipes super omnem terram: mémores erunt nóminis tui, Dómine. ℣. Pro pátribus tuis nati sunt tibi fílii: proptérea pópuli confitebúntur tibi.

Alleluia, alleluia. John xv., 16.—℣. I have chosen you out of the world, that you should go, and should bring forth fruit, and your fruit should remain. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Ego vos elégi de mundo, ut éatis, et fructum afferátis: et fructus vester máneat. Allelúia.

Gospel: Accéssit ad Jesum mater, as on May 6, p. 1372.

The Credo is said.

Offertory. Ps. xviii. 5.—Their sound hath gone forth into all the earth; and their words unto the ends of the world.

Offertórium. — In omnem terram exívit sonus eórum: et in fines orbis terrae verba eórum.

Secret.—May, O Lord, the glorious passion of blessed James, Thine apostle, move thee to look indulgently upon the offerings of Thy people. Of ourselves we are not worthy to lay them before Thee; may his prayers make them to be well-pleasing in Thy sight. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Oblatiónes pópuli tui, quaesumus, Dómine, beáti Jacóbi Apóstoli pássio beáta concíliet: et quae nostris non aptae sunt méritis, fiant tibi plácitae ejus deprecatióne. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of St. Christopher: Munéribus, p. 225.

Preface of the Apostles, p 57.

Communion. Matt. xix. 28.—You that have followed Me shall sit upon seats, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

Commúnio. — Vos, qui secúti estis me, sedébitis super sedes, judicántes duódecim tribus Israël.

Postcommunion.—Come to our help, we beseech Thee, O Lord: and listen to the pleading, in our behalf, of Thy blessed apostle James, on the joyful return of whose festival-day we have received Thy holy sacraments.

Postcommúnio. — Beáti Apóstoli tui Jacóbi, quaesumus, Dómine, intercessióne nos ádjuva: pro cujus festivitáte percépimus tua sancta laetántes. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of St. Christopher: Da quaesumus, p. 225.

Second Vespers: All from Common of Apostles, p. 208.—Commemoration of St. Anne: Antiphon Símile est, ℣. Spécie, p. 300.

The Fourteen Auxiliary Saints.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Christopher.*—Red vestments.

St. Christopher was a native of Chanaan. His name (who bears Christ) expresses his love for Jesus. A generous soul, he walked like a giant in the way of virtue. The piety of our fathers inspired by this grand allegory caused them to place a colossal statue of St. Christopher at the entrance to cathedrals. He was martyred towards A.D. 250. He is one of the "fourteen Auxiliary Saints."

Mass: In virtúte, p. 222.

The Fourteen Auxiliary Saints.

The name of "Auxiliary Saints" is given to a group of fourteen saints particularly noted for the efficacy of their intercession. They were often represented together. They are to be recognised :—

1. St. George (April 23), by the dragon he strikes down. He is invoked for herpetic diseases. He is, with St. Sebastian and St. Maurice, the patron of soldiers.
2. St. Blaise (February 3), by his two candles crossed. He is invoked for throat affections.
3. St. Erasmus (June 2), by entrails wound round a windlass. He is invoked for diseases of the stomach. He is the patron of mariners and seamen.
4. St. Pantaleon (July 27), by his nailed hands. Invoked for consumptive diseases. He is, with St. Luke and St. Cosmas and Damian, patron of medical men.
5. St. Vitus (or Guy) (June 15), by his cross. Invoked for chorea (St. Vitus's dance), lethargy, the bite of venomous or mad beasts.
6. St. Christopher (July 25), by the Infant Jesus he bears. He is invoked in storms, tempests, plagues, and for the avoidance of travelling accidents.
7. St. Denis (October 9), by his head which he holds in his hands. Invoked for people possessed of devils.
8. St. Cyriacus (August 8), by his deacon's vestment. Invoked for diseases of the eye and diabolical possessions.
9. St. Acacius (May 8), by his crown of thorns. Invoked for head-aches.
10. St. Eustace (September 20), by his stag and hunting equipment. Invoked for preservation from fire, eternal or temporal.
11. St. Giles (September 1), by his Benedictine cowl and his hind. Invoked for panic, epilepsy, madness, nocturnal terrors.
12. St. Margaret (July 20), by the dragon she keeps in chains. Invoked for pains in the loins and by women about to become mothers.
13. St. Barbara (December 4), by her tower and the ciborium surmounted by a sacred host. Invoked for lightnings and sudden death. Patron of miners and artillery men.
14. St. Catharine (November 25), by her broken wheel. "The wise counsellor" is invoked by students, Christian philosophers, orators, barristers, etc.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008.

JULY 26.

St. Anne, MOTHER OF THE BLESSED VIRGIN MARY.*—Double of the Second Class.—White vestments.

The Church honours with the Angels, in holy joy (Introit), the mother of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

As her name, Anne, signifies, grace was poured on her and she was blessed by God for ever (Communion). " By His grace He made her deserve to be the mother of the Mother of God " (Collect).

Filled with the virtues which the Holy Ghost grants to good women, the spouse of St. Joachim surpassed all women by her riches (Epistle) which are Mary, whose mother she is, and Jesus of whom she is grandmother. Her holiness made her leave everything for God, and she thereby acquired this pearl and this treasure (Gospel).

The devotion to St. Anne is founded on the bond which unites her to Mary and to the Incarnate Word. Its ancient liturgy dates from the sixth century for the East and the eighth century for the West. It was authorised by Urban IV. in 1378. In 1584 Gregory XIII. fixed July 26 as date of the feast and Leo XIII. in 1879 extended it to the whole Church.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

MASS.

Intróitus.—Gaudeámus omnes in Dómino, diem festum celebrántes sub honóre beátae Annae: de cujus solemnitáte gaudent Angeli, et colláudant Fílium Dei. Ps. Eructávit cor meum verbum bonum: dico ego ópera mea Regi. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit.—Let us all rejoice in the Lord, celebrating a festival-day in honour of blessed Anne; on whose solemnity the angels rejoice, and give praise to the Son of God. Ps. xliv. 2. My heart hath uttered a good word: I speak my works to the King. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui beátae Annae grátiam conférre dignátus es, ut Genitrícis unigéniti Collect.—O God, Who didst vouchsafe to blessed Anne the grace to be mother of her who was to bring forth into this world Thine only-begotten Son: of Thy loving-kindness, grant, we beseech Thee, that to us who celebrate this festival-day in her honour, her patronage may be a sure support. Through the same Lord.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1015.

Fílii tui mater éffici mererétur: concéde propítius: ut, cujus solémnia celebrámus, ejus apud te patrocíniis adjuvémur. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Epistle: Mulíerem fortem, p 304.

Gradual. Ps. xliv. 8.—Thou hast loved justice, and hated iniquity. ℣. Therefore God, thy God, hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness.

Graduále. — Dilexísti justítiam, et odísti iniquitátem. ℣. Proptérea unxit te Deus, Deus tuus, óleo laetítiae.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. xliv. 3.—℣. Grace is poured abroad in thy lips: therefore hath God blessed thee for ever. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Diffúsa est grátia in lábiis tuis: proptérea benedíxit te Deus in aetérnum. Allelúia.

Gospel: Símile est, p. 288.

Offertory. Ps. xliv. 10.—The daughters of kings in Thy glory; the queen stood on Thy right hand in gilded clothing, surrounded with variety.

Offertórium. — Filiae regum in honóre tuo, ádstitit regina a dextris tuis, in vestitu deauráto, circúmdata varietáte.

Secret.—Be appeased, we beseech Thee, O Lord, by the holy sacrifice we are now about to offer up: and by the intercession of blessed Anne, the mother of her who brought forth Thy Son, our Lord Jesus Christ, make it to profit us to fervour of life and to assurance of salvation. Through the same Lord.

Secréta. — Sacrifíciis praeséntibus, quaesumus, Dómine, placátus inténde: ut per intercessiónem beátae Annae, quae Genitrícis Fílii tui Dómini nostri Jesu Christi mater éxstitit, et devotióni nostrae profíciant, et salúti. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Communion. Ps. xliv. 3.—Grace is poured abroad in thy lips: therefore hath God blessed thee for ever, and for ages of ages.

Commúnio. — Diffúsa est grátia in lábiis tuis: proptérea benedíxit te Deus in aetérnum, et in saeculum saeculi.

Postcommunion. — Comforted by Thy heavenly sacraments, and relying on the prayers of Postcommúnio.—Coeléstibus sacraméntis vegetáti quaesumus, Dómine Deus noster: ut, intercessióne beátae Annae, quam Genitrícis Fílii tui matrem esse voluísti, ad aetérnam salútem perveníre mereámur. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

blessed Anne, whom it pleased Thee to choose to bring into this world the mother of Thine only-begotten Son, vouchsafe, O Lord, our God, we beseech Thee, that we may be accounted worthy of everlasting salvation. Through the same Lord.

Vespers : Common of Holy Women, p. 298.

JULY 27.

St. Pantaleon, MARTYR.*—Simple.—Red vestments.

At Nicomedia, says the Roman Martyrology, was martyred St. Pantaleon, a doctor, who having been arrested on account of his faith by order of the Emperor Maximian, was tortured on the rack and burned with flaming torches ; he was consoled in his torments by an apparition of our Lord ; the sword put an end to his glorious combat. This was under Diocletian about A.D. 303. St. Pantaleon is numbered by the Greeks among the great martyrs. Medical men honour him, after St. Luke, as their principal patron. He is one of the "fourteen auxiliary saints" (see engraving, p. 1527).

Mass : Laetábitur, p. 225.

JULY 28.

SS. Nazarius and Celsus, MARTYRS, Victor I., POPE AND MARTYR, Innocent I., POPE AND CONFESSOR.†—Semi-double.—Red vestments.

The Church honours to-day several Saints who lived at different times and in different countries.

Nazarius, baptised by Pope St. Linus at Rome, in his turn baptised young Celsus who was born at Cimiez near Nice. They betook themselves to Milan, where they were arrested by the pagans and beheaded about the year 68. In 395 their bodies were discovered and in the tomb of St. Nazarius was found a phial of his blood as red as if it had been shed that very day. A town in France bears his name.

Victor I., born in Africa, succeeded St. Eleutherius, on the pontifical throne. He fixed the date of Easter for the whole Church according to the rules observed to this day. He decided that one might baptise in cases of necessity with natural water. He was martyred under Septimus Severus, A.D. 197.

Innocent I. was born at Albano and was a contemporary of St. Augustine and of St. Jerome. The latter wrote of him " Keep the faith of St. Innocent who fills the Apostolic Chair and who is the successor and spiritual son of Anastasius, of happy memory ; receive no other doctrine, however wise and attractive it may appear." He died A.D. 417.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009. † Ibid., p. 1008, 1007 and 1010.

Mass: Intret in conspéctu, p. 232, except:

Collect.—May we draw strength, O Lord, from the blessed confession of Thy Saints Nazarius, Celsus, Victor and Innocent: and do Thou vouchsafe that it be ever a help to us in our weakness. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Sanctórum tuórum nos, Dómine, Nazárii, Celsi, Victóris et Innocéntii conféssio beáta commúniat: et fragilitáti nóstrae subsídium dignánter exóret. Per Dóminum.

Epistle. Wisd. of Sol. x. 17-20. —Lesson from the Book of Wisdom.—God rendered to the just the wages of their labours, and conducted them in a wonderful way; and He was to them for a covert by day, and for the light of stars by night; and He brought them through the Red Sea, and carried them over through a great water. But their enemies He drowned in the sea, and from the depth of hell He brought them out. Therefore the just took the spoils of the wicked. And they sung to Thy holy name, O Lord, and they praised with one accord Thy victorious hand, O Lord, our God.

Epistola. — Léctio libri Sapiéntiae. — Réddidit Deus justis mercédem labórum suórum, et déduxit illos in via mirábili: et fuit illis in velaménto diéi, et in luce stellárum per noctem: tránstulit illos per Mare Rubrum, et transvéxit illos per aquam nimiam. Inimicos autem illórum demérsit in mare, et ab altitúdine inferórum edúxit illos. Ideo justi tulérunt spólia impiórum, et decantavérunt, Dómine, nomen sanctum tuum, et victricem manum tuam laudavérunt páriter, Dómine Deus noster.

Secret.—Grant, O Lord, that these our gifts, offered in honour of Thy Saints Nazarius, Celsus, Victor and Innocent, may appease Thee Who dost vouchsafe to receive them; and that they may to newness of life quicken us who presume to offer them. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Concéde nobis, omnípotens Deus: ut his munéribus, quae in sanctórum tuórum Nazárii, Celsi, Victóris et Innocéntii honóre deférimus, et te placémus exhíbitis, et nos vivificémur accéptis. Per Dóminum.

Communion. — And though in the sight of men they suffered torments, God hath tried them: as gold in the furnace He hath proved them, and as holocausts He hath received them.

Commúnio. — Et si coram homínibus torménta passi sunt, Deus tentávit eos: tamquam aurum in fornáce probávit eos, et quasi holocáusta accépit eos.

Postcommúnio. — Sanctórum Nazárii, Celsi, Victóris et Innocéntii, Dómine, intercessióne placátus: praesta, quaesumus; ut, quod temporáli celebrámus actióne, perpétua salvatióne capiámus. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — May the prayers of Thy saints Nazarius, Celsus, Victor and Innocent, avail, O Lord, to appease Thy wrath: and do Thou vouchsafe that the mystery which in this our time we celebrate, may be our salvation in eternity. Through our Lord.

JULY 29.

St. Martha, VIRGIN*.—Semi-double.—White vestments.

After having celebrated on the 22nd of this month the feast of St. Mary Magdalen, we honour to-day Martha, her sister.

The daughter of noble and rich parents, she lived at Bethany, two miles from Jerusalem. "Jesus," says St. John, "loved Martha and her sister Mary and Lazarus,"† wherefore He preferred to dwell at their house when He was in Judaea. There He spent the last days which preceded His death. Martha, who was the elder, therefore often had the honour of being the hostess of Jesus (Gospel, Communion), the divine Spouse to whom she had consecrated her virginity (Epistle). While busy with serving Jesus, she requested Him to bid Mary help her. And Jesus, without blaming her for ministering to His wants, made her understand that certain souls, called by God, choose a still better part, since they commence on earth what all shall do in heaven. Active life, with all its labours and fatigues endured for the sake of Christ whom we serve in our neighbour, is very meritorious; "happy however is the home where Mary causes the complaint of Martha"‡ and refuses to take away from prayer a life which ordinary occupations might appear to claim.

God is indeed the author of all grace and wishes to be recognised as such; and contemplative life, which puts souls in direct contact with Him, assures their personal sanctification more fully and obtains more efficaciously the graces by which a Christian apostleship becomes fruitful.

Let us esteem at its just value the position that Jesus reserves to Mary, and if He calls us to share in Martha's solicitude, let us endeavour, like the Saints, to make up by the spirit of prayer, for what is wanting in active life.

Mass: Dilexísti, p. 291, except:

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—IN illo témpore: Intrávit Jesus in quoddam castéllum: et múlier quaedam, Martha nómine, excépit illum in domum suam, et huic erat soror nómine Maria, quae étiam sedens secus pedes Dó-

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke. x. 38, 42.—AT that time, Jesus entered into a certain town; and a certain woman named Martha, received Him into her house: and she had a sister called Mary, who sitting also at

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008. † John xi. 5.
‡ St. Bernard: Sermon III. of the Assumption.

the Lord's feet, heard His word. But Martha was busy about much serving: who stood and said, Lord, hast Thou no care that my sister hath left me alone to serve? Speak to her therefore, that she help me. And the Lord answering, said to her, Martha, Martha, thou art careful, and art troubled about many things: but one thing is necessary. Mary hath chosen the best part, which shall not be taken away from her.—Credo.

mini, audiébat verbum illíus. Martha autem satagébat circa frequens ministérium; quae stetit, et ait: Dómine, non est tibi curae quod soror mea relíquit me solam ministráre? dic ergo illi, ut me ádjuvet. Et respóndens, dixit illi Dóminus: Martha, Martha, sollícita es, et turbáris erga plúrima: porro unum est necessárium. Maria óptimam partem elégit, quae non auferétur ab ea.—Credo.

Commemoration of SS. Felix, Simplicius, Faustinus and Beatrice, as below.

THE SAME DAY.

SS. Felix, Simplicius, Faustinus and Beatrice, MARTYRS.*

Red vestments.

The holy Pontiff Felix II. is a Pope of the fourth century. He was martyred in Tuscany in the time of the Arians.

Simplicius and Faustinus, denounced as Christians to the persecutors, were put to death at Rome under Diocletian A.D. 303. Beatrice, their sister, was arrested and strangled in prison. Leo II. placed the relics of these three martyrs in a church at Rome dedicated in their names.

Mass: Sapientiam, p. 235.

Collect. — Grant, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that even as the Christian people rejoice in being able to celebrate in this our time, the solemnity of Thy martyrs Felix, Simplicius, Faustinus and Beatrice, so they may have part in that festival which knoweth not an end, and may enjoy in its fulness, the triumph to which they seek this day to do honour. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Praesta, quaesumus, Dómine: ut, sicut pópulus christiánus Mártyrum tuórum Felícis, Simplicii, Faustíni et Beatrícis temporáli solemnitáte congáudet, ita perfruátur aetérna: et, quod votis célebrat, comprehéndat effectu. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—In memory, O Lord, of the holy martyrs Felix, Simplicius, Faustinus and Beatrice, we uplift Thy sacred victim before Thee: most humbly pray-

Secréta. — Hóstias tibi, Dómine, pro sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Felícis, Simplícii, Faustíni et Beatrícis commemoratióne deférimus: supplíciter deprecántes; ut indulgéntiam nobis páriter cónferant, et salútem. Per Dóminum.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010 and 1009.

ing that therefrom may come to us, with the assurance of Thy full pardon, that also of our salvation. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Felícis, Simplícii, Faustíni et Beatrícis coeléstibus mystériis celebráta solémnitas, indulgéntiam nobis tuae propitiatiónis acquírat. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Grant, O Almighty God, we beseech Thee, that our having celebrated the feast-day of Thy holy martyrs Felix, Simplicius, Faustinus and Beatrice, by taking part in these sacred and atoning mysteries, may ensure to us the forgiveness of our sins. Through our Lord.

JULY 30.

SS. Abdon and Sennen. MARTYRS.*—Simple.—Red vestments.

Abdon and Sennen, born in Persia " were arrested and taken to Rome under the Emperor Valerian. They were scourged with cords weighted with lead and beheaded " (Roman Martyrology). This was in the middle of the third century.

Mass: Intret, p. 232, except:

Orémus. — Deus, qui sanctis tuis Abdon et Sennen ad hanc glóriam veniéndi copiósum munus grátiae contulísti: da fámulis tuis suórum véniam peccatórum; ut, Sanctórum tuórum intercedéntibus méritis, ab ómnibus mereántur adversitátibus liberári. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who by plenteously bestowing upon them of Thy grace, hast enabled Thy Saints Abdon and Sennen to obtain to glory exceeding great: forgive the sins of Thy servants, so that, the merits of Thy saints pleading in their behalf, they may deserve to be by Thee delivered from their every trouble. Through our Lord.

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Corínthios. — FRATRES: Exhibeámus nosmetípsos sicut Dei minístros in multa patiéntia, in tribulatiónibus, in necessitátibus, in angústiis, in plagis, in carcéribus, in seditiónibus, in labóribus, in vigíliis, in jejúniis, in castitáte, in sciéntia, in

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians. 2, vi. 4-10.—BRETHREN: In all things let us exhibit ourselves as the ministers of God, in much patience, in tribulation, in necessities, in distresses, in strifes, in prisons, in seditions, in labours, in watchings, in fastings, in chastity, in knowledge, in longsuffering, in sweetness, in the Holy Ghost, in charity unfeigned, in the word of truth, in the power of God: by the armour of justice on the right hand and on the left: by honour and dishonour: by evil report and good report: as deceivers, and yet true: as unknown, and yet known: as dying, and behold we live: as chastised, and not killed. as sorrowful, yet always rejoicing: as needy, yet enriching many: as having nothing, and possessing all things.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008.

longanimitáte, in suavitáte, in Spíritu Sancto, in caritáte non ficta, in verbo veritátis, in virtúte Dei, per arma justítiae a dextris, et a sinístris: per glóriam et ignobilitátem: per infámiam, et bonam famam: ut seductóres, et veráces: sicut qui ignóti, et cógniti: quasi moriéntes, et ecce vívimus: ut castigáti, et non mortificáti: quasi tristes, semper autem gaudéntes: sicut egéntes, multos autem locupletántes: tamquam nihil habéntes, et ómnia possidéntes.

Gradual. Exod. xv. 11.—God is glorious in His saints: wonderful in majesty, doing wonders. ℣. Thy right hand, O Lord, is glorified in strength: Thy right hand hath broken the enemies.

Graduále. — Gloriósus Deus in sanctis suis: mirábilis in majestáte, fáciens prodígia. ℣. Déxtera tua, Dómine, glorificáta est in virtúte: déxtera manus tua confrégit inimícos.

Alleluia, alleluia. Wisd. of Sol. iii. 1.—℣. The souls of the just are in the hand of God, and the torment of malice shall not touch them. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Justórum ánimae in manu Dei sunt, et non tanget illos torméntum malítiae. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. v. 1-12.—At that time: Jesus seeing the multitudes, went up into a mountain, and when He sat down His disciples came unto Him. And opening His mouth, He taught them, saying: Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are the meek, for they shall possess the land. Blessed are they that mourn, for they shall be comforted. Blessed are they that hunger and thirst after justice, for they shall have their fill. Blessed are the merci-

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum. — In illo témpore: Videns Jesus turbas, ascéndit in montem, et cum sedísset, accessérunt ad eum discípuli ejus, et apériens os suum docébat eos, dicens: Beáti pauperes spíritu: quóniam ipsórum est regnum coelorum. Beáti mites: quóniam ipsi possidébunt terram. Beáti qui lugent: quóniam ipsi consolabúntur. Beáti qui esúriunt et sítiunt justítiam: quóniam ipsi saturabúntur. Beáti misericordes: quóniam ipsi misericórdiam consequéntur. Beáti mundo corde: quóniamipsi Deum vidébunt. Beáti pacífici: quóniam fílii Dei vocabúntur. Beáti qui persecutiónem patiúntur propter justítiam: quóniam ipsórum est regnum coelórum. Beáti estis cum maledíxerint vobis, et persecúti vos fúerint, et díxerint omne malum advérsum vos, mentiéntes, propter me: gaudéte, et exultáte, quóniam merces vestra copiósa est in coelis.—Credo.

ful, for they shall obtain mercy. Blessed are the clean of heart, for they shall see God. Blessed are the peace-makers, for they shall be called the children of God. Blessed are they that suffer persecution for justice' sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are ye when they shall revile you, and persecute you, and speak all that is evil against you, untruly, for My sake; be glad and rejoice, for your reward is very great in heaven.—Credo.

Secréta. — Haec hóstia, quaesumus, Dómine, quam sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum natalítia recenséntes offérimus: et víncula nostrae pravitátis absólvat, et tuae nobis misericórdiae dona concíliet. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—May, O Lord, the sacred victim we offer up in memory of the natal day of Thy holy martyrs, break the chains of our sins and move Thee in Thy loving kindness, to be merciful in our regard. Through our Lord.

Commúnio. — Posuérunt mortália servórum tuórum, Dómine, escas volatílibus coeli, carnes sanctórum tuórum béstiis terrae: secúndum magnitúdinem bráchii tui pósside fílios morte punitórum.

Communion. Ps. lxxviii. 2, 11. —They have given the dead bodies of Thy servants, O Lord, to be meat for the fowls of the air, the flesh of Thy saints to the beasts of the earth: in the might of Thine arm, take Thou for Thine own the children of them that suffered death for Thee.

Postcommúnio. — Per hujus, Dómine, operatiónem mystérii, et vítia nostra purgéntur: et, intercedéntibus sanctis Martyribus tuis Abdon et Sennen, justa desidéria compleántur. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — By the mighty working in our souls of this mystery, O Lord, may our evil passions be quelled and may, through the intercession of Thy holy martyrs Abdon and Sennen, our every lawful desire be fulfilled. Through our Lord.

JULY 31.

St. Ignatius of Loyola, CONFESSOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

Ignatius was born in Northern Spain, in 1491. He was the eleventh child of the Lord of Loyola, and at the age of fifteen, came as page to the court of King Ferdinand V.

His ardent and martial nature caused him to choose a military career.

At the Siege of Pampeluna, he was severely wounded in the leg. During his long convalescence, in the absence of books of chivalry for which he had a passion, they gave him the lives of Jesus Christ and of the Saints to read. This reading was for him a revelation. It dawned on him that the Church also has her army which, under the orders of the representative of Christ,† fights to defend here below the sacred interests of the God of hosts.

He then laid down his sword at the feet of the Virgin, in the famous Benedictine Abbey at Montserrat, and his generous soul, once enamoured of worldly glory, now only longed for the greater glory of the King Whom henceforth he will serve (Collect). Throughout the night of March 25, when the mystery of the Incarnation of the Word is solemnised, after confessing his sins he watched as for knighthood, and the Mother of God armed him for Christ and the militant Church, His Spouse. Soon he became General of the admirable Society of Jesus, raised by Providence to combat Protestantism, Jansenism and returning paganism.

On the mountain the sons of Benedict, as a prelude to the liturgy in heaven, will continue the solemn celebration of the divine offices which

* See Historical Summary, p. 1015.

† To the three religious vows St. Ignatius adds a fourth by which the members of the Society of Jesus bind themselves to go wherever the Pope will send them for the salvation of souls.

Ignatius will recommend to the faithful,* and whose sacred melodies he never heard without tears; and he, sacrificing himself to his mission, goes down into the plain to oppose with his valiant troops, the attacks of the hostile army whose violent onslaughts are always directed against his Institute (Epistle). Wherefore, to preserve in his sons the intense interior life required by the militant activity to which he devotes them, St. Ignatius subjects them to a strongly organised hierarchy and teaches them, in a masterly treatise highly approved of by the Church, his spiritual exercises which have sanctified thousands of souls. It has been affirmed that it was the practice of the Exercitatorium of the Benedictine Abbot Cisneros at Montserrat in 1500 which inspired him with the idea. Guided by grace, he realised it however at Mauresa in a different and very personal way.

St. Ignatius arms his sons by giving them for their shield the name of Jesus (Introit); for their breastplate the love of God which the Saviour came to enflame on earth (Communion)† and whose symbol, the Sacred Heart, they gloriously bear in the folds of their flag; and for their sword, preaching, writing, teaching and all other forms of apostolate.

It was in a Benedictine monastery in Spain that at the feast of the Annunciation, St. Ignatius first used these arms; in a chapel of the Benedictine Abbey of Montmartre that on the Feast of the Assumption in 1534 and later on at the altar of the Virgin of the Basilica of St. Paul-outside-the-Walls, served by Benedictines, that was born the Society of Jesus, that noble chivalry of Christ, and lastly it was the Benedictine Pope Pius VII., a monk of the abbatial Church of Our Lady of Cesena, who in 1814 re-established it in all its rights. It is therefore God Himself Who unites at the feet of the Blessed Virgin these two Orders which powerfully help the Church, for Martha and Mary, action and contemplation, both contribute, by different means, to the glory of God. Alike are the mottoes of these two religious families: "In all things God be glorified!—I.O.G.D." and: "To the greater glory of God!—A.M.D.G."

Not to do anything except for the glory of God and to do everything for His greater glory is the whole of holiness. It is the end of the creation, the end of man's elevation to a supernatural life, the end indeed of the evangelical precepts which cause generous souls to renounce, by vow, things that are lawful in order to devote themselves more freely to the interests of God, and to render to Him in its entirety the accidental glory He had been deprived of by man's use of unlawful things.

Benedict has filled Europe with his missionary monks whose principal work is to praise God, and Ignatius with his priest-apostles (Gospel) who make manifest their interior life by their untiring activity.

From Montserrat, twelve monks with their Superior started with Christopher Columbus for the new Continent. From Lisbon, started

* "The third of the eighteen rules made by St. Ignatius, as the crowning of the Spiritual Exercises," that "we may have the true sentiments of the orthodox Church," recommends to the faithful the Canticles of the Church, the psalms and the different canonical hours at their appointed times. And at the head of this book which is in truth the treasure of the Society of Jesus, establishing the conditions which will enable one to draw most profit from these Exercises, he rules in his twentieth note that he who can do so is to choose, for the duration of the Exercises, a dwelling whence he may easily go to the offices of Matins and Vespers, as well as to Mass: (Liturgical Year: July, 31, St. Ignatius of Loyola).

† When he sent missionaries abroad he used to say to them: "Go, my brothers, enflame the world and spread everywhere the fire which Jesus Christ came to kindle on the earth" (Communion).

Francis Xavier who first evangelised Japan and China. It is the same tree of the love of God which, on different branches, bears the same fruit.

On July 31, 1556, St. Ignatius died pronouncing the name of Jesus, and his Society spread throughout the world already numbering twelve provinces, and a hundred colleges.*

May we obtain by the intercession of St. Ignatius so to be sanctified in truth (Secret) by the sacred mysteries of Mass and Communion, the source of all holiness, that with the help of this Saint, we may after his example, so combat evil on earth, as to be crowned with him in heaven (Collect).

MASS.

Introit. Phil. ii. 10, 11.—In the name of Jesus let every knee bow, of things in heaven, on earth and under the earth: and let every tongue confess that the Lord Jesus Christ is in the glory of God the Father. ℣. Ps. v. 12, 13. All they that love Thy name shall glory in Thee: for Thou wilt bless the just. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus. — In nómine Jesu omne genu flectátur, coeléstium, terréstrium, et infernórum: et omnis lingua confiteátur, quia Dóminus Jesus Christus in glória est Dei Patris. Ps. Gloriabúntur in te omnes, qui díligunt nomen tuum: quóniam tu benedíces justo. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—O God, Who for the spreading of the greater glory of Thy name didst, by means of blessed Ignatius, strengthen Thy church militant with a new army: vouchsafe unto us, that after battling upon this earth even as he battled, helped by his prayers, it may one day be ours to be crowned with him in heaven. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui ad majórem tui nóminis glóriam propagándam, novo per beátum Ignátium subsídio militántem Ecclésiam roborásti: concéde; ut, ejus auxílio et imitatióne certántes in terris, coronári cum ipso mereámur in coelis. Per Dóminum.

Epistle: Memor esto, p. 226.

Gradual. Ps. xci. 13, 14.—The just shall flourish like the palm-tree; he shall grow up like the cedar of Lebanon in the house of the Lord. ℣. Ibid. 3. To show

Graduále. — Justus ut palma florébit: sicut cedrus Líbani multiplicábitur in domo Dómini. ℣. Ad annuntiándum mane misericórdiam tuam, et

* The Society of Jesus numbers 13 canonised Saints, 95 beatified, 80 Venerables and 88 whose cause is being discussed. It has at present 17,000 members; there were 24,000 at the time of the suppression. It has given to the Church illustrious Prelates and a large number of Apostles, learned men, educators and influential men, as is proved by the numerous congregations or religious Associations which have imbibed the spirit of the Founder, and by the many pious institutions under the direction of the sons of St. Ignatius. The Apostleship of prayer, for instance, numbers 23 million associates.

veritátem tuam per noctem.

forth Thy mercy in the morning and Thy truth in the night.

Allelúia, allelúia.— ℣. Beátus vir, qui suffert tentatiónem: quóniam cum probátus fúerit, accípiet corónam vitae. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. — ℣. Blessed is the man that endureth temptation; for when he hath been proved, he shall receive the crown of life. Alleluia.

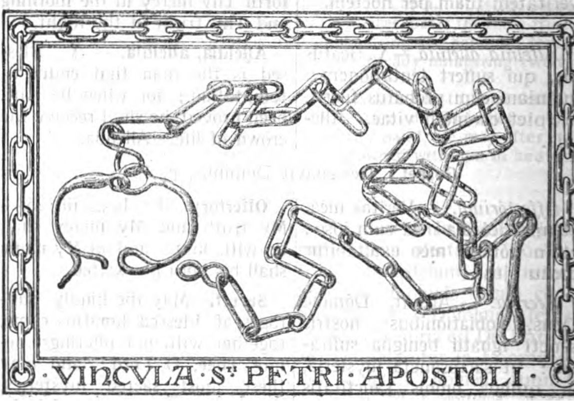
Gospel: Designávit Dóminus, p. 1346.

Offertórium. — Véritas mea, et misericórdia mea cum ipso: et in nómine meo exaltábitur cornu ejus.

Offertory. Ps. lxxxviii. 25.— My truth and My mercy shall be with him; and in My name shall his horn be exalted.

Secréta. — Adsint, Dómine Deus, oblatiónibus nostris sancti Ignátii benígna suffrágia: ut sacrosáncta mystéria, in quibus omnis sanctitátis fontem constituísti, nos quoque in veritáte sanctíficent. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—May the kindly suffrages of blessed Ignatius come, together with our offerings, before Thee, O Lord: and may these most sacred mysteries, which Thou hast ordained to be the fount of all holiness, in very truth sanctify us likewise. Through our Lord.



Commúnio. — Ignem veni míttere in terram: et quid volo, nisi ut accendátur?

Communion.—Luke xii. 49.— I am come to send fire upon the earth, and what will I but that it be enkindled.

Postcommúnio. — Laudis hóstia, Dómine, quam pro sancto Ignátio grátias agéntes obtúlimus: ad perpetuam nos majestátis tuae laudatiónem, ejus intercessióne, perdúcat. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — May, O Lord, the sacrifice of praise which, in thanksgiving for blessed Ignatius, we have offered up to Thee, by virtue of his intercession, there set our feet where we shall praise Thee for evermore. Through our Lord.

A·M·D·G

AUGUST 1.

St. Peter's Chains. *—Greater-double.—White vestments.

The Church venerates on this day in the basilica of St. Peter ad vincula on Mount Esquiline at Rome, the chains with which the prince of the Apostles was fettered (Collect, Epistle). This Church where the Station is held on the Monday of the first week in Lent † and on the Monday in the Octave of Pentecost ‡, was built over the baths of Trajan and restored towards the middle of the fifth century by the Princess Eudoxia, whence the name of Eudoxian basilica sometimes given to it. It was dedicated on this day. The date of August 1 was chosen so as to substitute a solemnity in honour of the Apostle, bishop of Rome and Head of the Church (Alleluia, Gospel, Communion) for the pagan festival which used to be kept at Rome in honour of the Emperor Augustus.§ The chains of St. Peter are in two portions, one having eleven links of lengthened shape to bind the hands, and the other twenty-three links, to the last of which are fixed two half circles to hold the neck. The Popes used to send, as a rich present, a few particles of the filings of these chains enclosed in a golden key. They symbolise the power of the keys by which Peter unbinds from sin.

They were also put into rings or crosses to preserve from dangers (Collect). On the same day the Church honours St. Paul. There are preserved with St. Peter's chains four links of the chains which bound his arms during his captivity at Rome.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1005 † See p. 539. ‡ See p. 973.

§ As a compliment to the Emperor Augustus they gave his name to the sixth month of the year formerly called Sextilis, for at Rome the year began in March.—The word August comes from Augustus as July from Julius Caesar. The following months kept their denominations of seventh (September), eighth (October), ninth (November), and tenth (December).

MASS.

Intróitus. — Nunc scio vere, quia misit Dóminus Angelum suum : et erípuit me de manu Heródis, et de omni expectatióne plebis Judaeórum. Ps. Dómine, probásti me, et cognovísti me : tu cognovísti sessiónem meam, et resurrectiónem meam. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Acts xii. 11.—Now I know in very deed, that the Lord hath sent His Angel, and hath delivered me out of the hand of Herod, and from all the expectation of the people of the Jews. Ps. cxxxviii. 1, 2. Lord, Thou hast proved me, and known me : Thou hast known my sitting down, and my rising up. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui beátum Petrum Apóstolum, a vínculis absolútum, illaesum abire fecísti : nostrórum quaesumus, absólve víncula peccatórum ; et ómnia mala a nobis propitiátus exclúde. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God Who, breaking the chains that bound blessed Peter the Apostle, didst bid him to go forth unharmed : free us, we beseech Thee, from the bonds of sin, and in Thy great mercy keep far from us all evil. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of St. Paul.

Orémus.—Deus qui multitúdinem géntium beáti Pauli Apóstoli praedicatióne docuísti : da nobis, quaesumus ; ut, cujus commemoratiónem cólimus, ejus apud te patrocínia sentiámus. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who by the preaching of blessed Paul the Apostle, didst teach the multiude of the Gentiles : grant, that we who devoutly make commemoration of him, may feel the might of his advocacy with Thee on our behalf. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Holy Machabees, p. 1547.

Epistola. — Léctio Actuum Apostolórum.—In diébus illis : Misit Heródes rex manus, ut afflígeret quosdam de ecclésia. Occídit autem Jacóbum fratrem Joánnis gládio. Videns autem quia placéret Judaeis, appósuit ut apprehénderet et Petrum. Erant autem dies azymórum. Quem cum apprehendísset, misit in cárcerem, tradens quátuor quaterniónibus mílitum custodiéndum, volens post Pascha Epistle. Acts ii. 1-11.—Lesson from the Acts of the Apostles.—In those days, Herod the king stretched forth his hands to afflict some of the Church : and he killed James, the brother of John, with the sword ; and seeing that it pleased the Jews, he proceeded to take up Peter also. Now it was in the days of the azymes : and when he had apprehended him, he cast him into prison, delivering him to four files of soldiers to be kept, intending after the pasch to bring him forth to the people. Peter therefore was kept in prison: but prayer was made without ceasing by the Church unto God for him. And when Herod would have brought him forth, the same night Peter was sleeping between two soldiers, bound with two chains; and the keepers before the door kept the prison: and behold an Angel of the Lord stood by him, and a light shined in the room; and he striking Peter on the side, raised him up, saying, Arise quickly; and the chains fell off from his hands: and the Angel said to him, Gird thyself and put on thy sandals; and he did so: and he said to him, Cast thy garment about thee and follow me; and going out he followed him: and he knew not that it was true which was done by the Angel; but he thought he saw a vision. And passing through the first and the second ward, they came to the iron gate that leadeth to the city, which of itself opened to them; and going out, they passed on through one street, and immediately the Angel departed from him. And Peter coming to himself, said, Now I know in very deed that the Lord hath sent His Angel, and hath delivered me out of the hand of Herod, and from all the expectation of the people of the Jews.

prodúcere eum pópulo. Et Petrus quidem servabátur in cárcere. Orátio autem fiébat sine intermissióne ab Ecclésia ad Deum pro eo. Cum autem productúrus eum esset Heródes, in ipsa nocte erat Petrus dórmiens inter duos mílites, vinctus caténis duábus: et custódes ante óstium custodiébant cárcerem. Et ecce Angelus Dómini ástitit: et lumen refúlsit in habitáculo: percussóque látere Petri, excitávit eum dícens: Surge velóciter. Et cecidérunt caténae de mánibus ejus. Dixit autem Angelus ad eum: Praecíngere, et cálcea te cáligas tuas. Et fecit sic. Et dixit illi: Circúmda tibi vestiméntum tuum, et séquere me. Et éxiens sequebátur eum, et nesciébat quia verum est, quod fiébat per Angelum: existimábat autem se visum vidére. Transeúntes autem primam et secúndam custódiam, venérunt ad portam férream, quae ducit ad civitátem: quae ultro apérta est eis. Et exeúntes processérunt vicum unum: et contínuo discéssit Angelus ab eo. Et Petrus ad se revérsus, dixit: Nunc scio vere, quia misit Dóminus Angelum suum, et erípuit me de manu Heródis, et de omni exspectatióne plebis Judaeórum.

Gradual. Ps. xliv. 17, 18.— Thou shalt make them princes over all the earth: they shall remember Thy name, O Lord.

Graduále. — Constítues eos príncipes super omnem terram: mémores erunt nóminis tui, Dómine. ℣. Pro pátribus tuis nati sunt tibi filii: proptérea pópuli confitebúntur tibi.

℣. Instead of thy fathers, sons are born to thee: therefore shall the people praise thee.

Allelúia, allelúia.— ℣. Solve jubénte Deo, terrárum, Petre caténas: qui facis ut páteant coeléstia regna beátis. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. — ℣. Be it thine, O Peter, at God's word, to break all chains forged by earth: thou who to happy souls openest the kingdom of heaven. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum. — In illo témpore: Venit Jesus in partes Cesaréae Philíppi, et interrogábat discípulos suos, dicens: Quem dicunt hómines esse Fílium hóminis? At illi dixérunt: Alii Joánnem Baptístam, álii autem Eliam, álii vero Jeremíam, aut unum ex prophétis. Dicit illis Jesus: Vos autem quem me esse dícitis? Respóndens Simon Petrus, dixit: Tu es Christus, Fílius Dei vivi. Respóndens autem Jesus dixit ei: Beátus es Simon Bar Jona: quia caro et sanguis non revelávit tibi, sed Pater meus qui in coelis est. Et ego dico tibi, quia tu es Petrus, et super hanc petram aedificábo Ecclésiam meam, et portae inferi non praevalébunt advérsus eam. Et tibi dabo claves regni coelórum. Et quodcúmque ligáveris super terram, erit ligátum et in coelis: et quodcúmque sólveris super terram, erit solútum et incolies.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. xvi. 13-19.—At that time, Jesus came into the quarters of Caesarea Philippi, and He asked His disciples, saying, Whom do men say that the Son of man is? But they said, Some, John the Baptist, and other some Elias, and others Jeremias, or one of the prophets. Jesus saith to them, But whom do you say that I am? Simon Peter answered, and said, Thou art Christ, the Son of the living God. And Jesus, answering, said to him, Blessed art thou, Simon Bar-Jona, because flesh and blood hath not revealed it to thee, but My Father who is in heaven: and I say to thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build My Church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it; and I will give thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven; and whatsoever thou shalt bind upon earth it shall be bound also in heaven; and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth, it shall be loosed also in heaven.—Credo.

Offertórium. — Constítues eos príncipes super omnem terram: mémores erunt nó-

Offertory.—Thou shalt make them princes over all the earth: they shall remember Thy name,

O Lord, throughout all generations.

minis tui, Dómine, in omni progénie et generatióne.

Secret.—Blessed Peter, Thine apostle, interceding on our behalf, may the sacrifice we offer up, O Lord, ever quicken us and defend us. (Through our Lord.)

Secréta. — Oblátum tibi, Dómine, sacrifícium intercedénte beáto Petro Apóstolo tuo, vivíficet nos semper, et múniat. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of St. Paul.

Secret.—Moved by the prayers of Paul, thine Apostle, dc Thou, O Lord, hallow the offerings of Thy people: and may this sacrifice, always acceptable to Thee Who hast ordained it, be yet more pleasing in Thy sight, as our holy protector pleads for us. (Through our Lord.)

Secréta. — Apóstoli tui Pauli précibus, Dómine, plebis tuae dona sanctifica: ut, quae tibi tuo grata sunt institúto, gratióra fiant patrocínio supplicántis. (Per Dóminum.)

Commemoration of the Holy Machabees, p. 1547.—Preface of the Apostles, p. 57.

Communion. Matth. xvi.—Thou art Peter: and upon this rock I will build My Church.

Commúnio.—Tu es Petrus; et super hanc petram aedificabo Ecclesiam meam.

Postcommunion. — Thou hast vouchsafed, O Lord, our God, to fill us with the sacrificial food of Thy sacred body and precious blood: grant that the mysteries we celebrate with loving devotion, may be to us a sure earnest of salvation.

Postcommúnio. — Córporis sacri, et pretiósi sánguinis repléti libámine, quaesumus Dómine Deus noster: ut quod pia devotióne gérimus, certa redemptióne capiámus. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Commemoration of St. Paul.

Postcommunion. — We who have been sanctified by this healthful mystery beseech Thee, O Lord, that we may ever enjoy the intercession of him by whose patronage Thou hast granted us to be guided. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Sanctificáti, Dómine, salutári mystério: quaesumus; ut nobis ejus non desit orátio, cujus nos donásti patrocinio gubernári. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of the Holy Machabees, p. 1547.

THE SAME DAY.

The Holy Machabees, MARTYRS.—Red vestments.

The seven Machabees, who were brothers, were martyred with their mother under Antiochus Epiphanes. Their relics are kept at Rome in the Church of St. Peter's Chains.

Mass : Clamavérunt, p. 1505, except the Offertory and the Communion, pp. 237, 238, and the Collects.

Orémus. — Fratérna nos, Dómine, Mártyrum tuórum coróna laetíficet : quae et fídei nostrae praebeat increménta virtútum ; et multíplici nos suffrágio consolétur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Be it ours, O Lord, to rejoice in the triumph of the holy brethren, Thy martyrs : on our faith may it bestow a crown of virtues, and may it be our comfort, that it has added so many saints to the number of our advocates. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Mystéria tua, Dómine, pro sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum honóre, devóta mente tractémus : quibus et praesídium nobis crescat, et gáudium. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—In honour of Thy holy martyrs, may we, O Lord, devoutly celebrate Thy mysteries : ever may they be to us a fresher joy, and a surer defence. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus : ut, quorum memóriam sacraménti participatióne recólimus, fidem quoque proficiéndo sectémur. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — O Almighty God, to us, who in memory of Thy martyrs, have received Thy sacrament, vouchsafe, we beseech Thee, to grow in Thy grace, by emulating their faith. Through our Lord.

AUGUST 2.

St. Alphonsus Mary de Liguori, BISHOP, CONFESSOR, DOCTOR.*
Double.—White vestments.

In 1696, God raised up St. Alphonsus. This Neapolitan nobleman, well known as a barrister, laid his sword on the altar of Our Lady of Mercy, wishing to be henceforth a soldier of Jesus Christ, getting rid of worldly affairs, with the sole desire of pleasing Him to whom he has devoted himself (Epistle, Offertory).

" The Spirit of the Lord is upon him consecrating him and sending him to preach the Gospel to the poor " (Introit). " He has been sent from above, to bring the people to penance " (Alleluia). With that object in view he founded the Congregation of the Most Holy Redeemer (Collect) whose members he sends, following the Saviour's example, into the country, to the towns and villages to announce the kingdom of God (Gospel).†

He vowed never to lose a moment of his time and never in the whole of his life did he commit a mortal sin.

He wrote religious works filled with erudite learning and piety and was therefore honoured by the Church as Doctor. Emphasising the importance of prayer in the divine plan, he condenses all the treatise on grace in one sentence : " He who prays is saved, he who does not pray is damned."

* See Historical Summary, p. 1016.

† The Redemptorists, founded in 1732 and approved in 1749 have 5,000 members. They have had three canonised Saints. St. Alphonsus, their founder, St. Clement Mary Hofbauer and St. Gerard Majella. The latter is justly called the miracle-worker for his miracles were innumerable. They number 8 Venerables and 12 servants of God whose cause has been introduced at Rome. They have given to the Church a few Cardinals and Bishops and a host of men illustrious by their preaching and writings.

St. Alphonsus was forced to accept the bishopric of "St. Agatha of the Goths," near Naples. He died at the age of 91 in 1787. The Benedictine Pope Pius VII. commanded three fingers of his right hand to be sent to Rome. "Let them come to Rome," he said, "those holy fingers which have written so well for the glory of God, of the Virgin Mary and Religion."

MASS.

Intróitus. — Spíritus Dómini super me: propter quod unxit me: evangelizáre paupéribus misit me, sanáre contritos corde. Ps. Atténdite, pópule meus legem meam: inclináte aurem vestram in verba oris mei. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Luke iv. 18.—The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, wherefore He hath anointed me, to preach the gospel to the poor He hath sent me, to heal the contrite of heart. Ps. lxxvii. 1. Attend, O My people, to My law: incline your ear to the words of My mouth. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui per beátum Alphónsum Maríam, Confessórem tuum atque Pontíficem, animárum zelo succénsum, Ecclésiam tuam nova prole fecundásti: quaesumus; ut ejus salutáribus mónitis edócti, et exémplis roboráti, ad te pervenire felíciter valeámus. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God Who, through the burning zeal for the salvation of souls of blessed Alphonsus Mary, Thy confessor and bishop, didst enrich Thy church with fresh offspring: grant, we beseech Thee, that imbued with his wholesome doctrine, and strengthened by the example of holy living he has left us, we may, by Thy grace, come happily to Thee. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of St. Stephen: Deus qui, p. 219.

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Timótheum. — CARISSIME: Confortáre in grátia, quae est in Christo Jesu: et quae audísti a me per multos testes, haec comménda fidélibus homínibus, qui idónei erunt et álios docére. Labóra sicut bonus miles Christi Jesu. Nemo militans Deo implicat se negótiis saeculáribus: ut ei pláceat, cui se probávit. Nam et qui certat in agóne, non coronátur, nisi legítime certáverit. Laborántem agrícolam

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to Timothy. 2, ii. 1-7.—DEARLY beloved, be strong in the grace which is in Christ Jesus, and the things which thou hast heard of me before many witnesses, the same commend to faithful men, who shall be fit to teach others also. Labour as a good soldier of Christ Jesus. No man being a soldier to God, entangleth himself with worldly business: that he may please Him to whom he hath engaged himself. For he also that striveth for the mastery, is not crowned, except he strive lawfully. The husbandman that laboureth must first partake of the fruits. Understand what I say: for the Lord will give thee understanding in all things.

opórtet primum de frúctibus percípere. Intéllige quae dico: dabit enim tibi Dóminus in ómnibus intelléctum.

Gradual. Ps. cxviii. 52, 53.—I remembered, O Lord, Thy judgments of old, and I was comforted; a fainting hath taken hold of me because of the wicked that forsake Thy law. ℣. Ps. xxxix. 11. I have not hid Thy justice within my heart: I have declared Thy truth and Thy salvation.

Graduále. — Memor fui judiciórum tuórum a saeculo, Dómine, et consolátus sum: deféctio ténuit me pro peccatóribus derelinquéntibus legem tuam. ℣. Justítiam tuam non abscóndi in corde meo: veritátem tuam et salutáre tuum dixi.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ecclus. xlix. 3, 4.—℣. He was directed by God unto the repentance of the nation, and he took away the abominations of wickedness: and he directed his heart towards the Lord; and in the days of sinners he strengthened godliness. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Ipse est diréctus divínitus in paeniténtiam gentis, et tulit abominatiónem impietátis: et gubernávit ad Dóminum cor ipsíus: et in diébus peccatórum corroborávit pietátem. Allelúia.

Gospel: Designávit, p. 1346.

Offertory. Prov. iii. 9, 27.—Honour the Lord with thy substance, and give Him of the first of all thy fruits. Do not withhold him from doing good who is able: if thou art able, do good thyself also.

Offertórium. — Honóra Dóminum de tua substántia, et de primítiis ómnium frugum tuárum da ei. Noli prohibére benefácere eum, qui potest: si vales, et ipse bénefac.

Secret.—O Lord Jesus Christ, consume our hearts with heavenly fire as a sacrifice for an odour of sweetness, who didst grant to blessed Alphonsus Mary to celebrate these mysteries, and by the same to exhibit himself a holy sacrifice to Thee. Who livest and reignest.

Secréta. — Coeléstí, Dómine Jesu Christe, sacrifícii igne corda nostra in odórem suavitátis exúre: qui beáto Alphónso María tribuísti et haec mystéria celebráre, et per éadem hóstiam tibi sanctam seípsum exhibére: Qui vivis.

Commemoration of St. Stephen: Múnera, p. 221.

Commúnio. — Sacérdos magnus, qui in vita sua suffúlsit domum, et in diébus suis corroborávit templum, quasi ignis effúlgens, et thus ardens in igne.

Communion.—Ecclus. l. 1, 9. A great priest, who in his life propped up the house, and in his days fortified the temple as a bright fire, and frankincense burning in the fire.

Postcommúnio. — Deus, qui beátum Alphónsum Maríam, Confessórem tuum atque Pontíficem, fidélem divíni mystérii dispensatórem et praecónem effecísti: ejus méritis, precibúsque concéde; ut fidéles tui et frequénter percípiant, et percipiéndo sine fine colláudent. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — O God, who didst raise up blessed Alphonsus Mary, Thy confessor and bishop, to be a faithful minister and a faithful preacher of this divine mystery: moved by his merits and prayers, grant that Thy faithful people be assiduous in receiving it, and that when receiving it, they offer unceasing praise to Thee. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of St. Stephen: Haec nos, p. 221.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Stephen, POPE, MARTYR.*

Of Roman birth, St. Stephen I. governed the Church under the Emperors Valerian and Gallienus. In spite of the most violent persecutions he regularly celebrated the Holy Mysteries and held councils in the crypts of the martyrs. He forbade the re-christening of Christians baptised by heretics. In 257 towards the end of the Mass he was saying, he was surprised by the persecutors and beheaded.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Sacérdotes ejus índuam salutári, et sancti ejus exsultatióne exsultábunt. Ps. Meménto, Dómine, David: et omnis mansuetúdinis ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. cxxxi. 16.—I will clothe her priests with salvation, and her saints shall rejoice with exceeding great joy. Ibid. 1. O Lord, remember David and all his meekness. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collects, Gospel and Offertory of the Mass: Sacerdótes Dei, p. 219. and ss.

Epistola.—Léctio Actuum Apóstolorum.—IN diébus illis: A Miléto Paulus mittens Ephesum, vocávit majóres natu ec-

Epistle. Acts xx. 17-21.—Lesson from the Acts of the Apostles.—IN those days: Paul sending from Miletus to Ephesus, called the ancients of the church. And when they were come to him, and were together, he said to them, you know, from the first day that I came into Asia, in what manner I have been with you for all the time; serving the Lord with all humility, and with tears, and temptations which befell me, by the conspiracies of the Jews: how I have kept back nothing that was profitable to you, but have preached it to you, and taught you publicly, and from house to house; testifying both to Jews and Gentiles penance towards God and faith in our Lord Jesus Christ.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007.

clésiae. Qui cum veníssent ad eum, et simul essent, dixit eis: Vos scitis a prima die, qua ingréssus sum in Asiam, quáliter vobíscum per omne tempus fúerim, sérviens Dómino cum omni humilitáte, et lácrymis, et tentatiónibus, quae mihi accidérunt ex insídiis Judaeórum: quómodo nihil subtráxerim utílium, quo minus annuntiárem vobis, et docérem vos públice, et per domos, testíficans Judaeis, atque gentílibus in Deum paeniténtiam, et fidem in Dóminum nostrum Jesum Christum.

Communion.—Lord, Thou didst deliver to me five talents: behold I have gained other five over and above. Well done, good and faithful servant; because thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will place thee over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord.

Commúnio. — Dómine, quinque talénta tradidísti mihi, ecce ália quinque superlucrátus sum. Euge serve bone et fidélis, quia in pauca fuísti fidélis, supra multa te constítuam, intra in gáudium dómini tui.

AUGUST 3.

The Finding of the Body of St. Stephen, THE FIRST MARTYR.*

Semi-double.—Red vestments.

The Church solemnises on December 26 the feast of St. Stephen, and on January 2 the Octave of this Saint. She holds the Station on Passion Friday in the Church dedicated to St. Stephen, on Mount Coelius, at Rome.† On August 10 she will celebrate the feast of St. Lawrence whose "remains more precious," say the writers of the first centuries, "than gold and precious stones" are with those of the deacon Stephen, which had been translated from Palestine to the capital of the Christian world.

To-day's Mass commemorates the miraculous finding by a priest of these relics at Kapher-Gamala on December 5, A.D. 415 (Collect). Except the Collect it is the same as that on December 26, the date of the translation of these remains from Kapher-Gamala to Jerusalem. For Gamaliel, the teacher of St. Paul, so much esteemed among the doctors of Israel that at his death it was declared that "the glory of Israel had disappeared," had buried twenty miles from that town, at his country house, the holy Martyr Stephen, Nicodemus and his own son Abibas. He himself was buried there. These precious relics, long ignored, were miraculously discovered and wrought numerous cures.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010. † See p. 702.

The Introit and the Epistle recall how Stephen, filled with the Holy Ghost, convicted the Jews of error, and how they, hating Christ as their fathers had hated him (Gospel), seized Stephen and stoned him to death.

Let us honour St. Stephen, and imitating his prayers for his persecutors (Epistle, Communion), let us learn by his example to love our enemies (Collect).

Mass as on the Feast of St. Stephen, Dec. 26, p. 399, except the following:

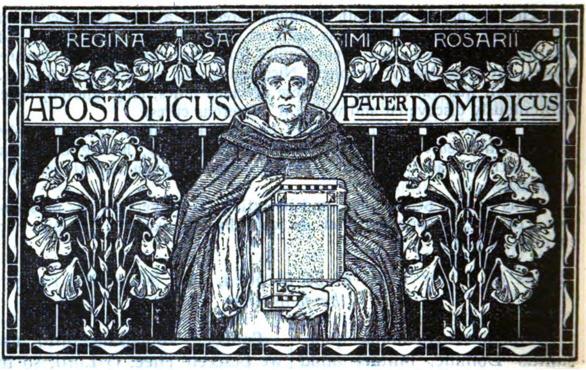
Orémus. — Da nobis, quaesumus Dómine, imitári quod cólimus : ut discámus et inimícos dilígere ; quia ejus Inventiónem celebrámus, qui novit étiam pro persecutóribus exoráre Dóminum nostrum Jesum Christum Fílium tuum : Qui tecum vivit.



Collect.—Vouchsafe unto us, we beseech Thee, O Lord, so to strive after the holiness we venerate, as to love even our enemies ; for we are celebrating the martyrdom of one, whose dying prayer was to plead for the pardon of his very murderers, from Thy Son our Lord : who livest and reignest.

Secréta. — Súscipe, Dómine, múnera pro tuórum commemoratióne Sanctórum : ut, sicut illos passio gloriósos effécit ; ita nos dévótio reddat innócuos. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Graciously receive, O Lord, in memory of Thy saints, these our offerings. Through suffering they entered into glory ; through humbleness of heart may we deserve, without reproach, to stand before Thee. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Auxiliéntur nobis, Dómine, sumpta mystéria : et, intercedénte beáto Stéphano Mártyre tuo, sempitérna protectióne confíment. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — May the mysteries in which we have had part, be to us, O Lord, a safeguard : and may they ensure to us Thy fatherly care for evermore. Through our Lord.

AUGUST 4.

St. Dominic, CONFESSOR.*—Greater-double.—White vestments.

The Church of France was ravaged by the heresy of the Albigenses, who, not satisfied with teaching false doctrine, pillaged the churches and massacred the priests. In 1215, Innocent III. saw in a dream the tottering walls of St. John of the Lateran, held up by the powerful shoulders of a friar. This friar was St. Dominic whose preaching was to withstand untruth and error (Epistle), and re-kindle the flame of faith in the world. His mother saw in a vision her child in the shape of a little dog holding a torch in its mouth.

Called Dominic, because his parents attributed his birth to the prayers of the holy Benedictine Abbot Dominic of Silos, he truly belonged to the Lord, as his name suggests. Born in Spain, of the noble family of Gusman, he distinguished himself by his purity as is signified by the lily he holds (Alleluia) and his white habit.

Having witnessed the many evils caused by the heretics in the south of France, he founded to oppose them the Order of the Friars Preachers (Communion), whom he armed with the shield of truth to teach doctrine † and the sword of the word to preach it.‡

The Dominicans number many saints of both sexes § who, like their founder, ardently studied the Word of God in the Gospel, which as St. Dominic says is the book of truth and "the book of charity."

This saint loved the Virgin in a special manner and preached the devotion to the Rosary. He died on August 6, 1221.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1013. † Ps. xv. 5. ‡ Eph. vi. 17.

§ The Order of the Friars Preachers has given to the Church 4 Popes, Blessed Innocent V., St. Pius V., Benedict XI., Benedict XIII., numerous Cardinals, Bishops, Doctors, Preachers and illustrious writers. It numbers 10 saints and 4 women saints, 262 beatified men and 24 beatified women of whom 209 Martyrs. The census of the Order in 1910 showed there were 4,472 religious. The Dominican nuns in the Second-Order and in the Third-Order regular amount to 6,000.

Mass: Os justi, p. 270, except:

Orémus. — Deus, qui Ecclésiam tuam beáti Domínici Confessóris tui illumináre dignátus es méritis et doctrínis: concéde; ut ejus intercessióne temporálibus non destituátur auxíliis, et spirituálibus semper profíciat increméntis. Per Dóminum.

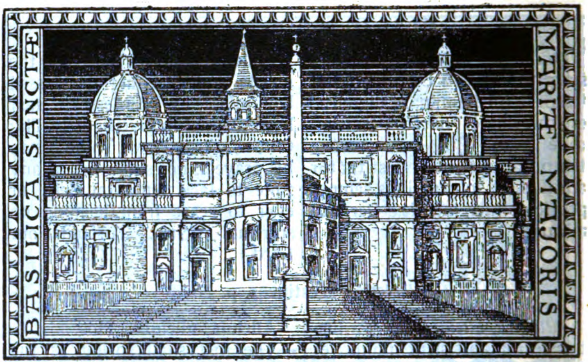
Collect.—O God Who, by the merits and teaching of blessed Dominic, Thy confessor, hast been pleased to give light to Thy Church: bow down Thine ear to his prayers, nor suffer her at any time to lack temporal help, or ever to cease from heaping up spiritual riches. Through our Lord.

Epistle: Testificor, p. 264.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Justus germinábit sicut lílium: et florébit in aetérnum ante Dóminum. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Hos. xiv. 6.—The just shall spring as the lily: and flourish for ever before the Lord. Alleluia.

Secréta. — Múnera tibi, Dómine, dicáta sanctífica: ut méritis beáti Domínici Confessóris tui nobis profíciant ad medélam. Per Dóminum.



Secret.—Hallow, O Lord, the offerings we dedicate to Thee: and for the sake of the merits of blessed Dominic, Thy confessor, make them to profit us unto the healing of our souls. Through our Lord.

Commúnio. — Fidélis servus et prudens, quem constítuit dóminus super famíliam suam: ut det illis in témpore trítici mensúram.

Communion. Luke xii. 42.—A faithful and wise steward, whom the Lord has set over His family; to give them their measure of wheat in due season.

Postcommúnio. — Concéde, quaesúmus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui peccatórum nostrórum póndere prémimur, beáti Domínici Confessóris tui patrocínio sublevémur. Per Dóminum.

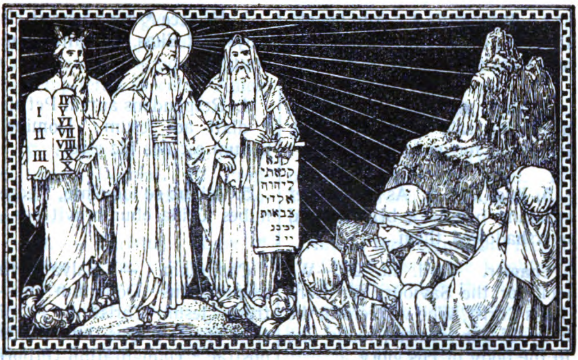
Postcommunion. — O Almighty God, vouchsafe, we beseech Thee, to us who are under the patronage of blessed Dominic, Thy confessor, the lightening of the load of sin which bears us down. Through our Lord.

AUGUST 5.

The Dedication of the Church of Our Lady of the Snow.*

Greater-double.—White vestments.

This church was built at Rome, in the fourth century during the pontificate of Pope Liberius, on Mount Esquiline. In the middle ages a graceful and popular tradition ascribed its foundation to a noble patrician who, having been favoured with a vision of Mary, caused it to be erected on a spot covered by a miraculous fall of snow.



This sanctuary was rebuilt in the following century and dedicated by Sixtus III. in 432, to Mary, whom the Council of Ephesus (431) had just proclaimed the Mother of God. The mosaics of the triumphal arch glorify this divine maternity, and the representation of the two cities of Bethlehem and Jerusalem, recall the birth of Christ in the city of David, and that of the Church in the room of the Last Supper. The Basilica is also called St. Mary of the Crib, because portions of the crib are preserved there.

St. Mary's, called Major, because it is the largest and most important of the churches dedicated to the Virgin, is a patriarchal basilica. The great nave is formed by two rows of forty-four columns of white marble and the ceiling is covered with the first gold brought from America.

In this church, whose dedication is solemnised on this day, takes place the inauguration of the liturgical year on the first Sunday in Advent†, there are held the Stations at Christmas‡, on the feast of St. John,§ at Easter||, on the Monday in Rogation Week¶, and on all Wednesdays in Ember Week.

Mass : Salve Sancta Parens, p. 200. The Credo is said.—Preface of the Blessed Virgin : Et te in Festivitáte, p. 56.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1011.
† See p. 332.
‡ See p. 386.
§ See p. 403.
|| See p. 876.
¶ See p. 930

AUGUST 6.

The Transfiguration of Our Lord Jesus Christ.*—Double of the Second Class.—White vestments.

The feast of the Transfiguration of Jesus had long been solemnised on August 6, in different churches of the East and West. To commemorate the victory which arrested, near Belgrade in 1457, the invading tide of Islam, and which was announced at Rome on August 6, Calixtus III. extended the feast to the whole church.

It is the feast of the churches under the title of St. Saviour, that is why Pius X. raised it to the rank of double of the second class, for it is the second title of the church of St. John of the Lateran, formerly called Basilica of St. Saviour.

FIRST VESPERS (AUGUST 5).

First four Psalms of Sunday, p. 98, and the fifth Psalm Laudáte Dóminum, p. 127.

Ant. — 1. Assúmpsit Jesus * Petrum, et Jacóbum, et Joánnem fratrem ejus, et duxit eos in montem excélsum seórsum, et transfigurátus est ante eos.

Ant. 1. Matt. xvii. 1. Jesus took Peter and James and John his brother, and led them up unto a high mountain apart, and was transfigured before them.

2. Resplénduit * fácies ejus sicut sol, vestiménta autem ejus facta sunt alba sicut nix, allelúia.

2. Ibid., xvii. 2. His face did shine as the sun, and His raiment became white as snow. Alleluia.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1014.

3. Ibid. xvii. 3. And behold there appeared unto them Moses and Elias speaking with Jesus.

3. Et ecce * apparuérunt eis Móyses et Elías, loquéntes cum Jesu.

4. Ibid. xvii. 4. And Peter answering said to Jesus, Lord, it is good for us to be here.

4. Respóndens autem Petrus * dixit ad Jesum: Dómine, bonum est nos hic esse.

5. Ibid. xvii. 5. As he was yet speaking behold a bright cloud overshadowed them.

5. Adhuc eo loquénte, * ecce nubes lúcida obumbrávit eos.

Chapter. Phil. iii. 20.—We look for the Saviour, our Lord Jesus Christ, Who will reform the body of our lowness, made like to the body of His glory.

Capitulum. — Salvatórem exspectámus Dóminum nostrum Jesum Christum, † qui reformábit corpus humilitátis nostrae * configurátum córpori claritátis suae.

Hymn.*

All ye who seek, in hope and love
For your dear Lord, look up above:
Where trac'd upon the azure sky
Faith may a glorious form descry

Lo! on the trembling verge of light
A something all divinely bright
Immortal, infinite, sublime,
Older than chaos, space or time!

Hail, Thou, the Gentiles' mighty Lord!
All hail, O Israel's King ador'd!
To Abraham sworn in ages past,
And to his seed while earth shall last.

To Thee the prophets witness bear;
Of Thee the Father doth declare
That all who would His glory see
Must hear and must believe in Thee.

Quicúmque Christum quaeritis,
Oculos in altum tóllite:
Illic licébit vísere
Signum perénnis glóriae.

Illústre quiddam cérnimus,
Quod nésciat finem pati,
Sublíme, celsum, intérminum,
Antíquius coelo et chao.

Hic ille Rex est Géntium,
Populíque Rex judáici,
Promíssus Abrahae patri,
Ejúsque in aevum sémini.

Hunc et Prophétis téstibus,
Iisdémque signatóribus
Testátor et Pater jubet
Audíre nos et crédere.

*The tune of the Hymn of the Ascension, see p. 944.

Jesu, tibi sit glória,
Qui te revélas párvulis,
Cum Patre, et almo Spíritu,
In sempitérna saecula. Amen.

Glory, O Lord, be given to Thee
Who didst appear upon this day,
And glory to the Father be
And to the Holy Ghost for aye. Amen.

℣. Gloriósus apparuísti in conspéctu Dómini. ℟. Proptérea decórem índuit te Dóminus.

℣. Glorious didst Thou appear in the sight of the Lord. ℟. Therefore hath the Lord clothed thee with beauty.

Ant. — Christus Jesus * splendor Patris, et figúra substántiae ejus, portans ómnia verbo virtútis suae, purgatiónem peccatórum fáciens, in monte excélso gloriósus apparére hódie dignátus est.

Ant. at the Magnificat. Heb. i. 3.—Christ Jesus, the brightness of the Father and the figure of His substance, bearing all things by the word of His power, making a purgation of sins, this day vouchsafed to show Himself in glory on a high mountain.

Commemoration of Our Lady of the Snow. Antiphon Beátam, p. 202. ℣. Dignáre, p. 188.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Illuxérunt coruscatiónes tuae orbi terrae : commóta est, et contrémuit terra. Ps. Quam dilécta tabernácula tua, Dómine virtútum ! concupíscit et déficit ánima mea in átria Dómini. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. lxxvi. 19.—Thy lightnings enlightened the world : the earth shook and trembled. Ps. lxxxiii. 2, 3. How lovely are Thy tabernacles, O Lord of Hosts ! my soul longeth and fainteth for the courts of the Lord. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui fídei sacraménta, in Unigéniti tui gloriósa Transfiguratióne, patrum testimónio roborásti, et adoptiónem filiórum perféctam, voce delápsa in nube lúcida, mirabíliter praesignásti : concéde propítius ; ut ipsíus Regis glóriae nos coherédes effícias, et ejúsdem glóriae tríbuas esse consórtes. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who in the glorious Transfiguration of Thine only-begotten Son didst confirm the mysteries of the faith by the witness of the fathers, and Who by Thy voice from the shining cloud, didst in wondrous wise signify to man the perfect adoption of sons that was to come : establish us, in Thy loving kindness, we beseech Thee, as coheirs with Him who is the King of Glory, and in that very glory call us all in the end to share. Through our Lord.

In private Masses: Commemoration of the Holy Martyrs Xystus II. and Agapitus, p. 236.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Peter, the Apostle. 2 Pet. i. 16-19.—Dearly beloved, We have not followed cunningly-devised fables, when we made known to you the power and presence of our Lord Jesus Christ; but having been made eyewitnesses of His majesty. For He received from God the Father honour and glory; this voice coming down to Him from the excellent glory, This is My beloved Son in whom I am well pleased, hear ye Him. And this voice we heard brought from heaven, when we were with Him in the holy mount. And we have the more firm prophetical word, whereunto you do well to attend, as to a light that shineth in a dark place, until the day dawn, and the day-star arise in your hearts.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Petri Apóstoli. — Caríssimi: Non doctas fábulas secúti notam fécimus vobis Dómini nostri Jesu Christi virtútem et praeséntiam: sed speculatóres facti illíus magnitúdinis. Accípiens enim a Deo Patre honórem et glóriam, voce delápsa ad eum hujuscémodi a magnífica glória: Hic est Fílius meus diléctus, in quo mihi complácui, ipsum audíte. Et hanc vocem nos audívimus de coelo allátam, cum essémus cum ipso in monte sancto. Et habémus firmiórem prophéticum sermónem: cui bene fácitis attendéntes, quasi lucérnae lucénti in caliginóso loco, donec dies elucéscat, et lúcifer oriátur in córdibus vestris.

Gradual. Ps. xliv. 3, 2.—Thou art beautiful above the sons of men: grace is poured abroad in Thy lips. ℣. My heart hath uttered a good word. I speak My works to the King.

Graduále. — Speciósus forma prae fíliis hóminum: diffúsa est grátia in lábiis tuis. ℣. Eructávit cor meum verbum bonum: dico ego ópera mea Regi.

Alleluia, alleluia. Wisd. of Sol. vii. 26.— He is the brightness of eternal light, the unspotted mirror, and the image of His goodness. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Candor est lucis aetérnae, spéculum sine mácula, et imágo bonitátis, illíus. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. xvii. 1-9.—At that time, Jesus took Peter and James, and John his brother, and bringeth them up into a high mountain apart: and He was transfigured

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangelii secúndum Matthaeum. — In illo témpore: Assúmpsit Jesus Petrum, et Jacóbum, et Joánnem fratrem ejus, et duxit illos in montem excélsum seórsum: et transfigurátus est ante eos. Et respléndult fácies ejus sicut sól: vestiménta autem ejus facta sunt alba sicut nix. Et ecce apparuérunt illis Móyses et Elías cum eo loquéntes. Respóndens autem Petrus, dixit ad Jesum: Dómine, bonum est nos hic esse: si vis, faciámus hic tria tabernácula, tibi unum, Móysi unum, et Eliae unum. Adhuc eo loquénte, ecce nubes lúcida obumbrávit eos. Et ecce vox de nube, dicens: Hic est Fílius meus diléctus, in quo mihi bene complácui: ipsum audíte. Et audiéntes discípuli, cecidérunt in fáciem suam, et timuérunt valde. Et accéssit Jesus, et tétigit eos, dixítque eis: Súrgite, et nolíte timére. Levántes autem óculos suos, néminem vidérunt, nisi solum Jesum. Et descendéntibus illis de monte, praecépit eis Jesus, dicens: Némini dixéritis visiónem, donec Fílius hóminis a mórtuis resúrgat.—Credo.

before them. And His face did shine as the sun, and His garments became white as snow. And behold, there appeared to them Moses and Elias talking with Him. And Peter answering, said to Jesus, Lord, it is good for us to be here; if Thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles, one for Thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias. And as he was yet speaking, behold a bright cloud overshadowed them; and lo, a voice out of the cloud, saying, This is My beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear ye Him. And the disciples hearing, fell upon their face, and were very much afraid: and Jesus came and touched them, and said to them, Arise, and fear not. And they lifting up their eyes saw no one, but only Jesus. And as they came down from the mountain, Jesus charged them, saying, Tell the vision to no man, till the Son of man be risen from the dead.—Credo.

Offertórium. — Glória, et divítiae in domo ejus: et justítia ejus manet in saeculum saeculi, allelúia.

Offertory Ps. cxi. 3.—Glory and wealth are in his house: and his justice remaineth for ever and ever. Alleluia.

Secréta. — Obláta, quaesumus, Dómine, múnera, gloriósa Unigéniti tui Transfiguratióne sanctifica: nosque a peccatórum máculis, splendóribus ipsíus illustratiónis emúnda. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Secret.—Mindful of the glorious Transfiguration of Thine only-begotten Son, hallow, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the gifts we offer: and in the bright light of His shining, cleanse us from the stains of our sins. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Holy Martyrs, p. 238.—Preface of the Nativity, p. 51.

Communion. Matt. xvii. 9.—Tell the vision you have seen to no man, till the Son of man be risen from the dead.

Commúnio.—Visiónem quam vidístis, némini dixéritis, donec a mórtuis resúrgat Fílius hóminis.

Postcommunion. — Vouchsafe unto us, we beseech Thee, Almighty God, by purity of heart to attain to the understanding of the most sacred mystery of the Transfiguration of Thy Son, which with solemn worship we venerate. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut sacrosáncta Fílii tui Transfiguratiónis mystéria, quae solémni celebrámus offício, purificátae mentis intelligéntia consequámur. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Commemoration of the Holy Martyrs, p. 238.

SECOND VESPERS.

Ant. at the Magnificat.—And the disciples when they heard it fell on their faces, and were much afraid; and Jesus came to them, and touched them and said unto them, Arise, and fear not. Alleluia.

Ant. — Et audiéntes * discípuli cecidérunt in fáciem suam, et timuérunt valde: et accéssit Jesus, et tétigit eos, dixítque eis: Súrgite, et nolíte timére, allelúia.

Commemoration of St. Cajetan.

Ant.—Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His justice and all these things shall be added unto you.

Ant. — Quaerite primum * regnum Dei, et justítiam ejus: et haec ómnia adjiciéntur vobis.

℣. Amávit, p. 269, and Commemoration of St. Donatus: Antiphon Iste sanctus, ℣. Glória, p. 215.

THE SAME DAY.

SS. Xystus II., Felicissimus and Agapitus, MARTYRS.*

Pope St. Xystus II. was martyred in the third century, during the cruel persecution of Decius. His name is mentioned in the Canon of the Mass among the Popes (First List, p. 59).

Laurence, his archdeacon, seeing him led to death, exclaimed: "Why do you abandon me, Father, you who never offer the holy sacrifice without your deacon?" "You will follow me in three days," replied Xystus. The anniversary of the martyrdom of St. Laurence will be solemnised in three days.

Mass: Sapiéntiam, p. 235.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007.

AUGUST 7.

St. Cajetan, CONFESSOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

St. Cajetan founded the first Congregation of Clerks regular who endeavour to imitate the apostolic manner of life (Collect). Trust in God, which the Gospel recalls, was their great law; they therefore refrained from begging alms and waited until the faithful brought them help of their own accord.

This Saint's zeal for others' salvation caused him to be called the Hunter of Souls. It was said that he was an Angel at the altar and an Apostle in the pulpit. He died at Naples on August 7, 1547.

Mass: Os justi, p. 270, except:

Orémus. — Deus, qui beáto Cajetáno Confessóri tuo apostólicam vivéndi formam imitári tribuísti: da nobis, ejus intercessióne et exémplo, in te semper confídere, et sola coeléstia desideráre. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who didst bestow upon blessed Cajetan, Thy confessor, to lead a life modelled upon that of Thine apostles: helped by his prayers and striving to follow his example, may we, by Thy grace, put all our trust in Thee, nor have other aim than to win the goods of heaven. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of St. Donatus: Deus, p. 1565.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum. — IN illo témpore: Díxit Jesus discípulis suis: Nemo potest duóbus dóminis servíre: aut enim unum ódio habébit, et álterum díliget: aut unum sustinébit, et alterum contémnet. Non potéstis Deo servíre, et mammónae. Ideo dico vobis, ne sollíciti sitis ánimae vestrae quid manducétis, neque córpori vestro quid induámini. Nonne ánima plus est quam esca: et corpus plus quam vestiméntum? Respícite volatília coeli, quóniam non serunt, neque metunt, neque cóngregant in hórrea: et Pater vester coeléstis pascit illa. Nonne vos magis pluris estis illis?

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew vi. 24-33.—AT that time, Jesus said to His disciples, No man can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or he will sustain the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon. Therefore I say to you, be not solicitous for your life, what you shall eat, nor for your body, what you shall put on. Is not the life more than the meat, and the body more than the raiment? Behold the birds of the air; for they neither sow, nor do they reap, nor gather into barns, and your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are not you of much more value than they? And which of you, by taking thought, can add to his stature one cubit? And for raiment why are you solicitous? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they labour not, neither do they spin; but I say to you, that not even Solomon in all his glory was arrayed as one of these. Now if God so clothe the grass of the field, which is to-day, and to-morrow is cast into the oven, how much more you, O ye of little faith! Be not solicitous therefore, saying, what shall we eat, or what shall we drink, or wherewith shall we be clothed? for after all these things do the heathen seek. For your Father knoweth that you have need of all these things. Seek ye therefore first the kingdom of God, and His justice; and all these things shall be added unto you.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1015.

Quis autem vestrum cógitans potest adjícere ad statúram suam cúbitum unum? Et de vestiménto quid sollíciti estis? Consideráte lília agri quómodo crescunt: non labórant, neque nent. Dico autem vobis, quóniam nec Sálomon in omni glória sua coopértus est sicut unum ex istis. Si autem foenum agri, quod hódie est, et cras in clíbanum míttitur, Deus sic vestit, quanto magis vos módicae fídei? Nolíte ergo sollíciti esse, dicéntes: Quid manducábimus, aut quid bibémus, aut quo operiémur? haec enim ómnia gentes inquírunt. Scit enim Pater vester, quia his ómnibus indigétis. Quaerite ergo primum regnum Dei, et justítiam ejus; et haec ómnia adjiciéntur vobis.

Secret.—For the glory of Thy name, O Lord, we seek to do honour to Thy holy bishop and martyr Donatus: grant, we beseech Thee, that, in virtue of his intercession, the fruits of piety and devotion may be multiplied within us. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Praesta nobis, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut nostrae humilitátis oblátio, et pro tuórum tibi grata sit honóre Sanctórum, et nos corpóre páriter et mente puríficet. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of St. Donatus: Praesta, p. 1567.

Postcommunion. — Vouchsafe, we beseech Thee, Almighty God, that the heavenly bread of which we have partaken, may, by the intercession of blessed Cajetan, Thy confessor, strengthen us against all adversity. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui coeléstia aliménta percépimus, intercedénte beáto Cajetáno Confessóre tuo, per haec contra ómnia advérsa muniámur. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of St. Donatus: Omnípotens, p. 1567.

The Same Day.

St. Donatus, Bishop, Martyr.—Red vestments.

Donatus, Bishop of Arezzo in Tuscany, was arrested under Julian the Apostate. He was beheaded in A.D. 362.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Sacerdótes Dei benedícite Dóminum: sancti et húmiles corde, laudáte Deum. Ps. Benedícite ómnia ópera Dómini Dómino: laudáte et superexaltáte eum in saecula. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Dan. iii. 84, 87.—O ye priests of the Lord, bless the Lord; O ye holy and humble of heart, praise God. Ps. Ibid. All ye works of the Lord, bless the Lord; praise and exalt him above all for ever. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, tuórum glória sacerdótum: praesta, quaesumus; ut sancti Mártyris tui et Epíscopi Donáti, cujus festa gérimus, sentiámus auxilium. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, the glory of Thy priests, grant, we beseech Thee, that we may experience the help of Thy holy martyr and bishop Donatus, whose festival we are keeping. Through our Lord.

Léctio Epistolae beáti Jacóbi Apóstoli. —Carissimi Omne gáudium existimáte, cum in tentatiónes várias incidéritis: sciéntes quod probátio fídei vestrae patiéntiam operátur. Patiéntia autem opus perféctum habet: ut sitis perfécti et íntegri in nullo deficiéntes. Si quis autem vestrum índiget sapiéntia, póstulet a Deo, qui dat ómnibus affluénter, et non impróperat: et dábitur ei. Póstulet autem in fide nihil haesitans: qui enim haesitat, similis est flúctui maris, qui a vento movétur et circumfértur. Non ergo aestimet homo ille quod accípiat áliquid a Dómino. Vir duplex ánimo, incónstans est in ómnibus viis

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed James i. 2-12.—Dearly beloved, count it all joy, when you shall fall into divers temptations; knowing that the trying of your faith worketh patience. and patience hath a perfect work; that you may be perfect and entire, failing in nothing. But if any of you want wisdom, let him ask of God, Who giveth to all men abundantly, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him. But let him ask in faith, nothing wavering. For he that wavereth is like a wave of the sea, which is moved and carried about by the wind. Therefore let not that man think that he shall receive anything of the Lord. A double-minded man is inconstant in all his ways. But let the brother of low condition glory in his exaltation: and the rich, in his being low; because as the flower of the grass, shall he pass away. For the sun rose with a burning heat, and parched the grass, and the flower thereof fell off, and the beauty of the shape thereof perished: so also shall the rich man fade away in his ways. Blessed is the man that endureth temptation; for when he hath been proved, he shall receive the crown of life, which God hath promised to them that love Him.

suis. Gloriétur autem frater húmilis in exaltatióne sua: dives autem in humilitáte sua, quóniam sicut flos foeni transíbit: exórtus est enim sol cum ardóre, et arefécit foenum, et flos ejus décidit, et decor vultus ejus depériit; ita et dives in itinéribus suis marcéscet. Beátus vir, qui suffert tentatiónem: quóniam cum probátus fúerit, accípiet corónam vitae, quam repromísit Deus diligéntibus se.

Gradual. Ps. xxxvi. 30, 31.—The mouth of the just shall meditate wisdom: and his tongue shall speak judgment. ℣. The law of his God in his heart, and his steps shall not be supplanted.

Graduále. — Os justi meditábitur sapientiam, et lingua ejus loquétur judícium. ℣. Lex Dei ejus in corde ipsíus: et non supplantabúntur gressus ejus.

Alleluia, alleluia.—The just man shall not be troubled, for the Lord strengtheneth his hand.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Justus non conturbábitur, quia Dóminus firmat manus ejus.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Mark. xiii. 33-37.—At that time Jesus said to His disciples, Take ye heed, watch and pray. For ye know not when the time is. Even as a man who going into a far country, left his house; and gave authority to his servants over every work, and commanded the porter to watch. Watch ye therefore (for you know not when the Lord of the house cometh: at even, or at midnight, or at the cock-crowing, or in the morning), * lest coming on a sudden, he find you sleeping. And what I say to you, I say to all: Watch.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Marcum. — In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Vidéte, vigiláte, et oráte: nescítis enim quando tempus sit. Sicut homo, qui péregre proféctus relíquit domum suam, et dedit servis suis potestátem cujúsque óperis, et janitóri praecépit ut vígilet. Vigiláte ergo, nescítis enim quando dóminus domus véniat: sero, an média nocte, an galli cantu an mané, ne, cum vénerit repénte, invéniat vos dormiéntes. Quod autem vobis dico, ómnibus dico: Vigiláte.

* See p. 490.

Offertórium. — Invéni David servum meum, óleo sancto meo unxi eum: manus enim mea auxiliábitur ei, et bráchium meum confortábit eum.

Offertory. Ps. lxxxviii. 21, 22. —I have found David my servant, with My holy oil I have anointed him: for My hand shall help him, and My arm shall strengthen him.

Secréta. — Praesta, quaesumus, Dómine: ut sancti Mártryis tui et Epíscopi Donáti intercessióne, quem ad laudem nóminis tui dicátis munéribus honorámus, piae nobis fructus devotiónis accréscat. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—For the glory of Thy name, O Lord, we seek to do honour to Thy holy bishop and martyr Donatus: grant, we beseech Thee, that, in virtue of his intercession, the fruits of piety and devotion may be multiplied within us. Through our Lord.

Commúnio. — Fidélis servus, et prudens, quem constítuit dóminus super famíliam suam: ut det illis in témpore trítici mensúram. (T.P. Allelúia.)

Communion. Luke xii. 42.—Who is the faithful and wise steward, whom his lord setteth over his family, to give them their measure of wheat in due season.

Postcommúnio. — Omnípotens et miséricors Deus, qui nos sacramentórum tuórum et partícipes éfficis, et minístros: praesta, quaesumus; ut, intercedénte beáto Donáto, Mártyre tuo atque Pontífice, ejúsdem proficiámus et fídei consórtio, et digno servítio. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Almighty and merciful God, Who callest us not only to share in, but to be the ministers of Thy sacraments: grant that by the intercession of blessed Donatus, Thy martyr-bishop, it may profit us to have held the faith he held, and to have rendered Thee the holy service he rendered. Through our Lord.

AUGUST 8.

SS. Cyriacus, Largus and Smaragdus, MARTYRS.*—Semi-double.—Red vestments.

St. Cyriacus, a deacon of the Roman Church under Popes Marcellinus and Marcellus, was put to death in 303, during Diocletian's persecution. He had twenty-two Christian companions, among whom were Largus and Smaragdus. St. Cyriacus is one of the "14 Auxiliary Saints." See July, 25.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009.

MASS.

Introit. Ps. xxxiii. 10, 11.—Fear the Lord, all ye His saints; for there is no want to them that fear Him: the rich have wanted and have suffered hunger, but they that seek the Lord shall not be deprived of any good. Ps. Ibid 2. I will bless the Lord at all times: His praise shall be always in my mouth. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus. — Timéte Dóminum omnes sancti ejus, quóniam nihil deest timéntibus eum: dívites eguérunt, et esuriérunt: inquiréntes autem Dóminum non defícient omni bono. Ps. Benedícam Dóminum in omni témpore: semper laus ejus in ore meo. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—O God, Who year by year summonest us to keep, with rejoicings, the solemnity of Thy holy martyrs Cyriacus, Largus and Smaragdus: in Thy loving kindness, make us, we beseech Thee, to be steadfast in the enduring of pain, even as were the holy men whose feast-day we are celebrating. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui nos ánnua sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Cyríaci, Largi et Smarágdi solemnitáte laetíficas: concéde propítius: ut, quorum natalítia cólimus, virtútem quoque passiónis imitémur. Per Dóminum.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Thessalonians. 10, Thess. ii. 13-16.—BRETHREN, we give thanks to God without ceasing, because that when you had received of us the word of the hearing of God, you received it not as the word of men, but (as it is indeed) the word of God, Who worketh in you that have believed. For you, brethren, are become followers of the churches of God which are in Judaea, in Christ Jesus; for you also have suffered the same things from your own countrymen, even as they have from the Jews, who both killed the Lord Jesus and the prophets, and have persecuted us, and please not God, and are adversaries to all men; prohibiting us

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Thessalonicénses.—FRATRES: Grátias ágimus Deo sine intermissióne: quóniam cum accepissétis a nobis verbum audítus Dei, accepístis illud, non ut verbum hóminum, sed (sicut est vere) verbum Dei, qui operátur in vobis, qui credidístis. Vos enim imitatóres facti estis, fratres, ecclesiárum Dei, quae sunt in Judaea in Christo Jesu: quia éadem passi estis et vos a contribúlibus vestris, sicut et ipsi a Judaeis: qui et Dóminum occidérunt Jesum, et prophétas: et nos persecúti sunt, et Deo non placent, et ómnibus homínibus adversántur, prohibéntes nos géntibus loqui, ut salvae fiant, ut ímpleant peccáta sua sem-per: pervénit enim ira Dei super illos usque in finem.

to speak to the Gentiles that they may be saved, to fill up their sins always: for the wrath of God is come upon them to the end.

Graduále. — Timéte Dóminum omnes sancti ejus: quóniam nihil deest timéntibus eum. ℣. Inquiréntes autem Dóminum, non deficient omni bono.

Gradual. Ps. xxxiii. 10, 11.—Fear the Lord, all ye His saints; for there is no want to them that fear Him. ℣. But they that seek the Lord shall not be deprived of any good.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Fulgébunt justi, et tamquam scintíllae in arundinéto discúrrent in aetérnum. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Wisd. of Sol. iii. 7.—℣. The just shall shine, and shall run to and fro like sparks among the reeds for ever. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Marcum. — In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Eúntes in mundum univérsum, praedicáte Evangélium omni creatúrae. Qui credíderit, et baptizátus fúerit, salvus erit: qui vero non credíderit, condemnábitur. Signa autem eos, qui credíderint, haec sequéntur: In nómine meo daemónia ejícient: linguis loquéntur novis: serpéntes tollent: et si mortíferum quid bíberint, non eis nocébit: super aegros manus impónent, et bene habébunt.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Mark. xvi. 15-18.—At that time: Jesus said to His disciples Go ye unto the whole world and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptised, shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be condemned. And these signs shall follow them that believe. In My name they shall cast out devils; they shall speak with new tongues; they shall take up serpents; and if they shall drink any deadly thing it shall not hurt them; they shall lay their hands upon the sick, and they shall recover.

Offertórium. — Laetámini in Dómino, et exsultáte justi: et gloriámini omnes recti corde.

Offertory. Ps. xxxi. 11.—Be glad in the Lord, and rejoice ye just: and glory all ye right of heart.

Secréta. — Accépta sit in conspectu tuo, Dómine, nostra devótio: et eórum nobis fiat supplicatióne salutáris, pro quorum solemnitáte defértur. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—May our devotion, O Lord, find favour in Thy sight; and may the holy Sacrifice which is about to be offered up in honour of Thy saints, avail us to the saving of our souls. Through our Lord.

Communion. Mark xvi. 17, 18.—And these signs shall follow them that believe in Me: they shall cast out devils: they shall lay their hands upon the sick, and they shall recover.

Commúnio. — Signa autem eos, qui in me credunt, haec sequéntur: daemónia ejícient: super aegros manus impónent, et bene habébunt.

Postcommunion.—Our strength renewed from having shared in Thy sacred gift, we beseech Thee, O Lord our God, that by the intercession of Thy holy martyrs Cyriacus, Largus and Smaragdus, we may ever feel the mighty power of the sacrament we worship. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Refécti participatióne múneris sacri, quaesumus, Dómine Deus noster: ut, cujus exséquimur cultum, intercedéntibus sanctis Martyribus tuis Cyríaco, Largo et Smarágdo, sentiámus efféctum. Per Dóminum.

AUGUST 9.

The Vigil of St. Laurence, MARTYR.—Purple vestments.

See explanation on August 10, p. 1573.

MASS.

Introit. Ps. cxi. 9.—He hath distributed, he hath given to the poor: his justice remaineth for ever and ever; his horn shall be exalted in glory. Ps. Ibid 1. Blessed is the man that feareth the Lord; he delighteth exceedingly in His commandments. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus. — Dispérsit, dedit paupéribus: justítia ejus manet in saeculum saeculi: cornu ejus exaltábitur in glória. Ps. Beátus vir, qui timet Dóminum: in mandátis ejus cupit nimis. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—Moved, O Lord, by the prayers of Thy holy martyr Laurence, whose festival-day we anticipate, be Thou ever near to us: nor, we entreat of Thee, at any time withdraw from us Thine everlasting mercy. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Adésto, Dómine, supplicatiónibus nostris: et intercessióne beáti Lauréntii Mártyris tui, cujus praevénimus festivitátem; perpétuam nobis misericórdiam benígnus impénde. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of St. Romanus: Praesta, p. 1572.

Epistle: Confitébor, p. 282.

Graduále. — Dispérsit, dedit paupéribus: justítia ejus manet in saeculum saeculi. ℣. Potens in terra erit semen ejus: generátio rectórum benedicétur.

Gradual. Ps. cxi. 9, 12.—He hath distributed, he hath given to the poor: his justice remaineth for ever and ever. ℣. His seed shall be mighty upon earth; the generation of the righteous shall be blessed.

Gospel: Si quis vult, p. 220.

Offertórium. — Orátio mea munda est: et ídeo peto, ut detur locus voci meae in coelo: quia ibi est judex meus, et conscius meus in excélsis: ascéndat ad Dóminum deprecátio mea.

Offertory. Job xvi. 20.—My prayer is pure, and therefore I ask that a place may be given to my voice in heaven: for there is my judge, and He that knoweth my conscience is on high: let my prayer ascend to the Lord.

Secréta. — Hóstias, Dómine, quas tibi offérimus, propítius súscipe: et, intercedénte beáto Mártrye tuo, víncula peccatórum nostrórum absólve. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—In Thy mercy, O Lord, graciously receive the sacred victim we offer up to Thee: and, for the sake of blessed Laurence, our advocate, do Thou vouchsafe to break the chains of our sins. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of St. Romanus: Munéribus, p. 1572.

Commúnio. — Qui vult veníre post me, ábneget semetípsum: et tollat crucem suam, et sequátur me.

Communion. Matt. xvi. 24.—He that will come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross and follow Me.

Postcommúnio. — Da, quaesumus, Dómine Deus noster: ut, sicut beáti Lauréntii Mártyris tui commemoratióne, temporáli gratulámur offício; ita perpétuo laetémur aspéctu. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Vouchsafe, we beseech Thee, O Lord, to us who on earth gladly discharge the duty of religiously honouring the memory of blessed Laurence, thy martyr, the happiness of rejoicing in his company for ever in heaven. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of St. Romanus: Quaesumus, p. 1572.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Romanus, MARTYR.*—Red vestments.

St. Romanus, a soldier, begged of St. Laurence to baptise him. This he obtained, and in his turn he was cruelly beaten and beheaded. (Roman Martyrology.)

Mass : Laetábitur, p. 225, except :

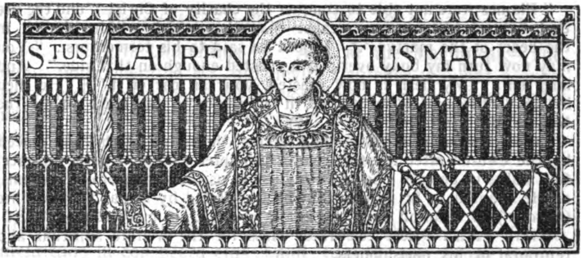
Collect.—Grant, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, that by the intercession of blessed Romanus, Thy martyr, we may both be delivered from all adversities in body, and be purified from all evil thoughts in mind. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Praesta, quaesumus omnípotens Deus : ut, intercedénte beáto Románo Mártyre tuo, et a cunctis adversitátibus liberémur in córpore, et a pravis cogitatiónibus mundémur in mente. Per Dóminum.



Secret.—We beseech Thee, O Lord, to receive our offerings and prayers; and by Thy heavenly mysteries, both cleanse us and mercifully hear us. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Munéribus nostris, quaesumus Dómine, precibúsque suscéptis : et coeléstibus nos munda mystériis, et cleménter exáudi. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — We beseech Thee, Almighty God, that we who have partaken of the food of heaven may, by the intercession of blessed Romanus Thy martyr, be shielded by it from all harm. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Quaesumus omnípotens Deus : ut qui coeléstia aliménta percépimus, intercedénte beáto Románo Mártyre tuo, per haec contra ómnia advérsa muniámur. Per Dóminum.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008.

AUGUST 10.

St. Laurence, MARTYR.*—Double of the Second Class.—Red vestments.

The Basilica of St. Laurence without the Walls, where the remains of the glorious deacon are preserved, is the fifth patriarchal church in Rome. With St. John Lateran, St. Peter, St. Mary Major, and St. Paul without the Walls, it is one of the five major basilicas where the Pope alone says mass at the High Altar in order to show that his jurisdiction extends over all the Churches in the world which are under the patriarchates of Rome, Jerusalem, Alexandria, Antioch and Constantinople.

Here is held the Station on Septuagesima Sunday†, on the third Sunday in Lent‡, on the Wednesday after Easter§, and on the Thursday after Pentecost||. The Church invites us to-day to celebrate in this sanctuary the praises of God (Introit, Offertory) whose glorious witness this Saint was, by his martyrdom.

St. Laurence was the first of the seven deacons attached to the service of the Roman Church. His duty was to assist the Roman Pontiff when celebrating the Holy Mysteries, to distribute the Eucharist to the faithful and to administer the Church's possessions whose revenues he distributed among the poor (Introit, Gradual).

Arrested by the prefect of Rome in 258, and called upon to deliver his riches to him, he showed him a crowd of poor people saying : " These are the real treasures of the Church, by the inestimable gift of their faith, and because they convert our alms into imperishable treasures for us."

He was laid on an iron bed in the shape of a gridiron under which were placed half-lighted coals, so as to prolong his tortures and make his death more painful.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008.

† See p. 487.

‡ See p. 599.

§ See p. 890.

|| See p. 983. Rome possesses seven other churches dedicated to St. Laurence among which St. Laurence in Paneperna, where the Saint was martyred and where they hold the Station on the Thursday of the first week in Lent (see p. 552), St. Laurence in Lucina, where part of his gridiron is kept and where is held the Station on the Friday of the third week in Lent (see p. 621), and St. Laurence in Damaso, where is held the Station on the Tuesday of the fourth week in Lent (see p. 645).

"Flames were not able to conquer the charity of Christ: and the fire that burned without was weaker than that which within kindled in the heart of the martyr".* Indeed he said to his tormentors: "You may now turn my body over; it is roasted enough on that side." And later on: "My flesh is now roasted, you can eat of it".† He died in 258. His name is mentioned in the Canon of the Mass among the Roman Martyrs (First List, p. 59).

Let us always recite, as a thanksgiving, the collect of this day placed by the Church after the Canticle of the three Children in the furnace. She makes us beseech God to extinguish in us the ardour of our passions, as He granted to St. Laurence, who was tested by fire and found pure (Gradual), to triumph over the flames of his cruel martyrdom (Collect).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his parishioners.

FIRST VESPERS.

First four Psalms of Sunday, p. 98, and Psalm cxvi.: Laudáte Dóminum, p. 127.

Ant.—1. Laurence the martyr went in and confessed the name of the Lord Jesus Christ.	Ant.—1. Lauréntius * ingréssus est: Mártyres confessi sunt nomen Dómini Jesu Christi.
2. Laurence wrought a good work, who by the sign of the cross gave sight to the blind.	2. Lauréntius * bonum opus operátus est, qui per signum crucis caecos illumínávit.
3. Ps. lxii. 9. My soul cleaveth unto Thee, for my flesh hath been burnt for Thy sake, O my God.	3. Adhaesit * ánima mea post te, quia caro mea igne cremáta est pro te Deus meus.
4. Ecclus li. 6. The Lord sent His angel and delivered me from the midst of the flames, and I am not consumed.	4. Misit Dóminus * Angelum suum, et liberávit me de médio ignis, et non sum aestuátus.
5. The blessed Laurence prayed, saying, I give Thee thanks, O Lord, that I have merited to enter Thy gates.	5. Beátus Lauréntius * orábat, dicens: Grátias tibi ago Dómine, quia jánuas tuas íngredi mérui.
Chapter. 2. Cor. ix. 6.—Brethren, he that soweth sparingly, shall reap also sparingly, and he that soweth in blessings shall also reap blessings.	Capitulum. — Fratres: Qui parce séminat, parce et metet: † et qui séminat in benedictiónibus, * de benedictiónibus et metet.

* St. Leo, sixth Lesson at Matins on August 10.
† Ant. of the Magnificat of Second Vespers.

Hymn: Deus tuórum mílitum, p. 214, ℣. Gloria, p. 215.

Ant. — Leyíta Lauréntius * bonum opus operátus est, qui per signum crucis caecos illuminávit, et thesáuros Ecclésiae dedit paupéribus.

Ant. at the Magnificat.—The levite Laurence wrought a good work, who by the sign of the cross restored sight to the blind, and gave treasures of the Church unto the poor.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Conféssio et pulchritúdo in conspéctu ejus: sánctitas, et magnificéntia in sanctificatióne ejus. Ps. Cantáte Dómino cánticum novum: cantáte Dómino omnis terra. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. xcv. 6.—Praise and beauty are before Him: holiness and majesty in His sanctuary. Ps. Ibid. 2. Sing ye to the Lord a new canticle; sing to the Lord all the earth. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Da nobis, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: vitiórum nostrórum flammas exstínguere; qui beáto Lauréntio tribuísti tormentórum suórum íncéndia superáre. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Impart unto us, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, the grace to quench within ourselves the flame of evil desires: even as Thou didst endue blessed Laurence with strength to overcome the fire in which he was tortured. Through our Lord.

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Corínthios. — FRATRES: Qui parce séminat, parce et metet: et qui séminat in benedictiónibus, de benedictiónibus et metet. Unusquísque prout destinávit in corde suo, non ex tristítia aut ex necessitáte: hílarem enim datórem díligit Deus. Potens est autem Deus omnem grátiam abundáre fácere in vobis, ut in ómnibus semper omnem sufficiéntiam habéntes, abundétis in omne opus bonum, sicut scriptum est: Dispérsit, dedit paupéribus: justítia ejus manet in saeculum saeculi. Qui autem adminístrat semen seminánti: et panem ad man-

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians. 2 Cor. ix. 6-10.—BRETHREN, He who soweth sparingly, shall also reap sparingly: and he who soweth in blessings, shall also reap of blessings. Every one as he hath determined in his heart; not with sadness, or of necessity; for God loveth a cheerful giver. And God is able to make all grace abound in you; that ye, always having all sufficiency in all things, may abound to every good work; as it is written, He hath dispersed abroad, he hath given to the poor: his justice remaineth for ever. And he that ministereth seed to the sower, will both give you bread to eat, and will multiply your seed, and increase the growth of the fruits of your justice.

ducándum praestábit, et multiplicábit semen vestrum, et augébit increménta frugum justítiae vestrae.

Gradual. Ps. xvi. 3.—Thou hast proved my heart, O Lord, and visited it by night. ℣. Thou hast tried me by fire, and iniquity hath not been found in me.

Graduále. — Probásti Dómine, cor meum, et visitásti nocte. ℣. Igne me examinásti et non est invénta in me iníquitas.

Alleluia, alleluia.—The levite Laurence wrought a good work, who by the sign of the cross, gave sight to the blind. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Levíta Lauréntius bonum opus operátus est: qui per signum crucis caecos illuminávit. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John. xii. 24-26.—At that time, Jesus said to His disciples: Amen, amen I say to you, unless the grain of wheat falling into the ground, die, itself remaineth alone: but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit. He that loveth his life, shall lose it; and he that hateth his life in this world, keepeth it unto life eternal. If any man minister to Me, let him follow Me; and where I am, there also shall My minister be. If any man minister to Me, him will My Father honour.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem. — In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Amen, amen dico vobis, nisi granum fruménti cadens in terram, mórtuum fúerit, ipsum solum manet: si autem mórtuum fúerit, multum fructum affert. Qui amat ánimam suam, perdet eam: et qui odit ánimam suam in hoc mundo, in vitam aetérnam custódit eam. Si quis mihi minístrat, me sequátur: et ubi sum ego et miníster meus erit. Si quis mihi ministráverit, honorificábit eum Pater meus.

Offertory. Ps. xcv. 6.—Praise and beauty are before Him: holiness and majesty are in His sanctuary.

Offertórium. — Conféssio et pulchritúdo in conspéctu ejus: sánctitas, et magnificéntia in sanctificatióne ejus.

Secret.—Graciously accept, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the offerings Thou permittest us to lay at Thy feet: and having regard to the merits of blessed Laurence, make these same offerings to be helpful towards the saving of our souls. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Accipe, quaesumus, Dómine, múnera dignanter obláta: Et beáti Lauréntii suffragántibus méritis, ad nostrae salútis auxílium provenire concéde. Per Dóminum.

Commúnio. — Qui mihi minístrat, me sequátur: et ubi ego sum, illic et minister meus erit.

Communion. John xii. 26.— If any man minister to Me, let him follow Me: and where I am, there also shall My minister be.

Postcommúnio. — Sacro múnere satiáti, súpplices te Dómine, deprecámur: ut, quod débitae servitútis celebrámus officio, intercedénte beáto Lauréntio Mártyre tuo, salvatiónis tuae sentiámus augméntum. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Filled with Thy sacred gifts, most humbly, O Lord, we entreat of Thee, that by the intercession of Thy blessed martyr Laurence, this our service, which it was our bounden duty to perform, may make us to grow in Thy saving grace. Through our Lord.

SECOND VESPERS.

Same as First Vespers, except:

First four Psalms of Sunday, p. 98, and Psalm cxv.: Crédidi, p. 127.

Ant. — Beátus Lauréntius * dum in cratícula superpósitus urerétur, ad impiíssimum tyránnum dixit: Assátum est jam, versa, et mandúca: nam facultátes Ecclésiae, quas requíris, in coeléstes thesáuros manus páuperum deportavérunt.

Ant. at the Magnificat.— Blessed Laurence, as he lay stretched and burning on the gridiron, said to the impious tyrant: the meat is done, make haste hither and eat. As for the treasures of the Church which you seek for, the hands of the poor have carried them to a heavenly treasury.

℣. Levíta Lauréntius bonum opus operátus est. ℟. Qui per signum crucis caecos illuminávit.

℣. The Levite Laurence wrought a good work. ℟. Who, by the sign of the cross, gave sight to the blind.

Commemoration of SS. Tiburtius and Susanna: Antiphon Istórum, ℣. Laetámini, p. 232.

AUGUST 11.

SS. Tiburtius and Susanna, MARTYRS.*—Simple.— Red vestments.

Like St. Laurence, Tiburtius, son of the prefect of Rome, was thrown into the flames. Armed with the sign of the Cross, the Martyr walked full of confidence on the burning coal. He was then led out of the town and beheaded on the Lavicanian Way in 286.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009.

On the same day Susanna, a virgin of high nobility who, on account of her vow of virginity had refused to marry Galerius Maximus, son of the Emperor Diocletian, was beheaded in her house.

Her body is preserved with that of her father, St. Gabinus and that of St. Felicitas, mother of the seven martyrs honoured on July 10, in the Church of St. Susanna, where the Station is held on the Saturday of the third week in Lent*.

Mass : Salus autem, p. 238, except :

Collect.—May the unfailing protection of Thy holy martyrs Tiburtius and Susanna comfort us, O Lord : for surely never dost Thou turn away Thine eyes of mercy from any to whom such help is vouchsafed. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Tibúrtii et Susánnae nos, Dómine, fóveant continuáta praesídia ; quia non désinis propítius intuéri ; quos tálibus auxíliis concésseris adjuvári. Per Dóminum.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Hebrews.—Brethren : By faith the saints conquered kingdoms, wrought justice, obtained promises, stopped the mouths of lions, quenched the violence of fire, escaped the edge of the sword, recovered strength from weakness, became valiant in war, put to flight the armies of foreigners : women received their dead raised to life again. But others were racked not accepting deliverance, that they might find a better resurrection. And others had trial of mockeries and stripes, moreover also of bands and prisons. They were stoned, they were cut asunder, they were tempted, they were put to death by the sword, they wandered about in sheep-skins, in goat-skins, being in want, distressed, afflicted. Of whom the world was not worthy ; wandering in deserts, in mountains, and in dens, and in caves of the earth. And all these things Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Hebraeos. — Fratres : Sancti per fídem vicérunt regna, operáti sunt justítiam, adépti sunt repromissiónes, obturavérunt ora leónum, exstinxérunt impetum ignis, effugérunt áciem gládii, convaluérunt de infirmitáte, fortes facti sunt in bello, castra vertérunt exterórum : accepérunt mulieres de resurrectióne mórtuos suos : álii autem distént sunt, non suscipiéntes redemptiónem, ut meliórum invenírent resurrectiónem : álii vero ludíbria, et vérbera ex pérti, insuper et víncula, et cárceres : lapidáti sunt, in occisióne gládii mórtui sunt : circuiérunt in melótis, in péllibus caprínis, egéntes, angustiáti, afflícti : quibus dignus non erat mundus : in solitudinibus errántes, in móntibus et spelúncis, et in cávernis terrae. Et hi omnes testimónio fídei probáti invénti sunt in Christo Jesu Dómino nostro.

* See p. 627.

being approved by the testimony of faith, were found in Christ Jesus our Lord.

Secréta. — Adésto, Dómine, précibus pópuli tui, adésto munéribus : ut, quae sacris sunt obláta mystériis, tuórum tibi pláceant intercessióne Sanctórum. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Listen, O Lord, to the prayers of Thy people, and look with favour upon the gifts they bring. These gifts are for Thy sacred mysteries ; may the prayers of Thy saints make them yet more acceptable in Thy sight. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Súmpsimus, Dómine, pignus redemptiónis aetérnae : quod sit nobis, quaesumus, interveniéntibus sanctis Martyribus tuis, vitae praeséntis auxílium páriter et futúrae. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — We have received, O Lord, the earnest of eternal salvation : may the prayers of Thy holy martyrs obtain that it be to us a help in in this life, and a preparation for that which is to come. Through our Lord.

AUGUST 12.

St. Clare, VIRGIN.*—Double.—White vestments.

As God had raised at the side of St. Benedict his sister St. Scholastica, so He placed by St. Francis of Assisi, St. Clare, whom he made superioress of the second Order founded by him†.

The Saint was born at Assisi, at the end of the 12th century. On a visit to the Patriarch St. Francis, she expressed to him her desire to become the spouse of Christ (Epistle). As he had not yet instituted nuns of his Order, he sent the young virgin to the Benedictine nuns of St. Paul, and later on to the Benedictine monastery of St. Angelo de Pauso, in the neighbourhood of Assisi.

Her sister, Agnes, having joined her, St. Francis placed them in a small house adjacent to the Church of St. Damian. Very soon their mother and many other persons joined them. Their rule entailed austerities unknown until then in monasteries for women. They walked bare footed, slept on the ground, observed perpetual abstinence, and made poverty the basis of their lives, so that by detachment they might give themselves more to God.

The extraordinary devotion of St. Clare to the Blessed Sacrament was rewarded by a miracle. On the day when the Saracens, who besieged Assisi, tried to enter the Convent of St. Damian, she held up the ciborium and put them to flight.

On August 11, 1253, she was visited by a choir of Virgins, in white robes, among whom was one who surpassed in beauty all the others (Offertory), and she went to meet her spouse (Communion). Two years after she was canonised by Pope Alexander IV.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1013.

† St. Francis founded three Orders : The Franciscans or first Order, the Poor Clares or second Order and lastly, for the laity, his third Order, therefore called Third-Order.

Mass: Dilexísti, p. 291.

AUGUST 13.

SS. Hippolytus and Cassian, MARTYRS.*—Simple.—Red vestments.

The legend in the Breviary tells us that Hippolytus, who was to guard St. Laurence in his prison, was converted by the Saint.

He was martyred about A.D. 260 and was buried not far from the tomb of St. Laurence, where a church was built in his honour. On the same day, Cassian of Imola, a schoolmaster, was delivered, with his hands tied behind his back, to his young pagan pupils who pierced him to death with their stilettos, about A.D. 320.

Mass: Salus autem, p. 238.

Collect.—Grant, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, that this venerable solemnity of Thy holy martyrs Hippolytus and Cassian, may increase our devotion and promote our salvation. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Da, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut beatórum Mártyrum tuórum Hippolyti et Cassiáni veneránda solémnitas, et devotiónem nobis áugeat, et salútem. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Favourably regard, O Lord, the offerings Thy people lay before Thee, on this the feast-day of Thy saints: and may the witness borne by them to Thy truth, advance us in the path of salvation. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Réspice, Dómine, múnera pópuli tui, Sanctórum festivitáte votíva: et tuae testificátio veritátis nobis profíciat ad salútem. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — May our having partaken of Thy sacraments be, O Lord, our salvation: and may the light of Thy truth thereby more and more brightly shine upon us. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Sacramentórum tuórum, Dómine, commúnio sumpta nos salvet: et in tuae veritátis luce confirmet. Per Dóminum.

AUGUST 14.

The Vigil of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

Violet vestments.

Christ, after having lain for only three days in the tomb, rose again and ascended to heaven. Likewise, the death of the Virgin resembled rather a short sleep, hence it was called "Dormitio," and before corruption could defile her body, God restored her to life and glorified her in heaven. These three privileges are celebrated by the feast of the

* See Historical Summary, pp. 1008, 1009.

Assumption which follows logically from the privilege of the Immaculate Conception and the Mystery of the Incarnation. For sin having never defiled the soul of Mary, it was right that her body, exempt from all stain and in which the Word had become incarnate, should not be tainted by the corruption of the tomb.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Vultum tuum deprecabúntur omnes dívites plebis: adducéntur regi vírgines post eam: próximae ejus adducéntur tibi in laetítia et exsultatióne. Ps. Eructávit cor meum verbum bonum: dico ego ópera mea regi. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. xliv. 13, 15, 16.— All the rich among the people shall entreat thy countenance: after her shall virgins be brought to the King: her neighbours shall be brought to Thee in gladness and rejoicing. Ps. My heart hath uttered a good word: I speak my works to the King. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

The Gloria is not said.

Orémus.— Deus, qui virginálem aulam beátae Mariae, in qua habitáres, elígere dignátus es: da, quaesumus; ut, sua nos defensióne munítos, jucúndos fácias suae interésse festivitáti: Qui vivis.

Collect.—O God, Who didst vouchsafe to choose for Thy dwelling the virginal womb of blessed Mary; grant, we beseech Thee, that we who enjoy her intercession, may assist with joy at her festival: who livest.

Second Collect of St. Eusebius from the Collects of the Mass: Os justi, p. 270; Third Collect of the Holy Ghost, p. 161.

Epistle: Ego quasi vitis, Feast of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, p. 1500.

Graduále. — Benedícta et venerábilis es Virgo Maria: quae sine tactu pudóris invénta es mater Salvatóris. ℣. Virgo Dei Génitrix, quem totus non capit orbis, in tua se clausit víscera factus homo.

Gradual.—Thou art blessed and venerable, O Virgin Mary, who without intercourse with man didst become the Mother of our Saviour. ℣. O Virgin Mother of God, He whom the whole world cannot hold, was enclosed in thy womb and was made man.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangelii secúndum Lucam. — In illo témpore: Loquénte Jesu ad turbas, extóllens vocem quaedam múlier de turba, dixit illi:

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke. xi. 27-28.—At that time: As Jesus was speaking to the multitudes, a certain woman from the crowd, lifting up her voice said to Him, Blessed is the womb that bore Thee, and the breasts that gave Thee suck. But He said, Yea rather, blessed are they who hear the word of God, and keep it.

Beátus venter, qui te portávit, et úbera, quae suxísti. At ille dixit: Quinimo beáti, qui aúdiunt verbum Dei, et custódiunt illud.

Offertory.—Blessed art thou, O Virgin Mary, who didst bear the creator of all things: thou didst bring forth Him who made thee and remainest a virgin for ever.

Offertorium. — Beáta es, Virgo Maria, quae ómnium portásti Creatórem: genuísti qui te fecit, et in aetérnum pérmanes virgo.

Secret. — Look with mercy upon our offerings, O Lord, through the prayer of the Mother of God, whom Thou didst take up out of this present world that she might boldly plead before Thy face for the forgiveness of our sins. Through the same.

Secréta. — Múnera nostra, Dómine, apud cleméntiam tuam Dei Genitrícis comméndet orátio: quam idcírco de praesénti saeculo transtulisti; ut pro peccátis nostris apud te fiduciáliter intercédat. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Second Secret of St. Eusebius: Laudis, p. 272; Third Secret of the Holy Ghost, p. 161.

Common Preface, p. 51.

Communion. — Blessed is the womb of the Virgin Mary, which bore the Son of the eternal Father Commúnio. — Beáta viscera Mariae Virgínis, quae portavérunt aetérni Patris Fílium.

Postcommunion. — Grant, O merciful God, protection to us in our weakness, so that we who are looking forward to the festival of the holy Mother of God may by the help of her intercession rise up from our sins. Through the same.

Postcommúnio. — Concéde, miséricors Deus, fragilitáti nostrae praesidium: ut, qui sanctae Dei Genitrícis festivitátem praevenímus; intercessiónis ejus auxílio, a nostris iniquitátibus resurgámus. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Second Postcommunion of St. Eusebius: Refecti, p. 273; Third Postcommunion of the Holy Ghost, p. 161.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Eusebius, CONFESSOR.—White vestments.

St. Eusebius, a Roman priest, opposed the Arians under the reign of Constantius. Imprisoned in his room by order of the Emperor, he persevered seven months in prayer, and fell asleep in the Lord about the middle of the fourth century. He was buried in the cemetery of Calixtus. He has always been very much honoured at Rome. In an ancient church bearing his name is held the Station of the Friday in the fourth week in Lent.*

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510 H d. 18.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Justus ut palma flórebit: sicut cedrus Líbani multiplicábitur: plantátus in domo Dómini: in átriis domus Dei nostri. Ps. Bonum est confitéri Dómino: et psállere nómini tuo, Altíssime.

℣. Glória Patri.

Introit.—The just shall flourish like the palm-tree; he shall grow up like the cedar of Libanus: planted in the house of the Lord, in the courts of the house of our God. Ps. It is good to give praise to the Lord; and to sing to Thy name O Most High.

℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collect: Deus qui, p. 270.

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Philippénses. — Fratres: Quae mihi fuérunt lucra, haec arbitrátus sum propter Christum detriménta. Verúmtamen exístimo ómnia detriméntum esse, propter eminéntem sciéntiam Jesu Christi Dómini mei: propter quem ómnia detriméntum feci, et arbitror ut stércora, ut Christum lucrifáciam, et invéniar in illo, non habens meam justítiam, quae ex lege est, sed illam, quae ex fide est Christi Jesu: quae ex Deo est justítia in fide, ad cognoscéndum illum, et virtútem resurrectiónis ejus, et societátem passiónum illius: configurátus morti ejus: si quo modo occúrram ad resurrectiónem, quae est ex mórtuis: non quod jam accéperim, aut jam perféctus sim: sequor autem, si quo modo comprehéndam, in quo et comprehénsus sum a Christo Jesu.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Philippians. iii. 7-12.—Brethren, the things that were gain to me, the same I have counted loss for Christ. Furthermore I count all things to be but loss for the excellent knowledge of Jesus Christ my Lord; for whom I have suffered the loss of all things, and count them but as dung, that I may gain Christ: and may be found in Him, not having my justice, which is of the law, but that which is of the faith of Christ Jesus, which is of God, justice in faith: that I may know Him, and the power of His resurrection, and the fellowship of His sufferings, being made comfortable to His death. If by any means I may attain to the resurrection which is from the dead. Not as though I had already attained, or were already perfect; but I follow after, if I may by any means apprehend, wherein I am also apprehended by Christ Jesus.

Graduále. — Justus ut palma florébit: sicut cedrus Líbani multiplicábitur in domo Dómini. ℣. Ad annuntiándum

Gradual. Ps. xci. 13, 14.—The just shall flourish like the palm-tree; he shall grow up like the cedar of Libanus: planted in the house of the Lord, in the courts of the house of our God. ℣. To show forth Thy mercy in the morning, and Thy truth in the night.

mane misericórdiam tuam, et veritátem tuam per noctem.

Alleluia, alleluia. Hos. xiv. 6. — ℣. The just shall spring as the lily; and shall flourish for ever before the Lord. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Justus germinábit sicut lílium : et florébit in aetérnum ante Dóminum. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. xi. 25-30.—At that time Jesus answered and said : I confess to Thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because Thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them to little ones. Yea, Father; for so hath it seemed good in Thy sight. All things are delivered to Me by My Father And no one knoweth the Son, but the Father ; neither doth any one know the Father, but the Son, and he to whom it shall please the Son to reveal Him. Come to Me, all you that labour and are burdened and I will refresh you. Take up My yoke upon you, and learn of Me, because I am meek, and humble of heart : and you shall find rest to your souls. For My yoke is sweet and My burden light.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangelii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore : Respóndens Jesus, dixit : Confíteor tibi, Pater, Dómine coeli et terrae, quia abscondisti haec a sapiéntibus et prudéntibus, et revelásti ea párvulis. Ita Pater : quóniam sic fuit plácitum ante te. Omnia mihi trádita sunt a Pate meo. Et nemo novit Fílium, nisi Pater : neque Patrem quis novit, nisi Fílius, et cui volúerit Fílius reveláre. Veníte ad me omnes, qui laborátis, et oneráti estis, et ego refíciam vos. Tóllite jugum meum super vos, et díscite a me, quia mitis sum, et húmilis corde : et inveniétis réquiem animábus vestris. Jugum enim meum suáve est, et onus meum leve.

Offertory. Ps. xx. 2, 3.—In Thy strength, O Lord, the just shall joy, and in Thy salvation he shall rejoice exceedingly : Thou hast given him his heart's desire.

Offertórium.—In virtúte tua, Dómine, laetábitur justus, et super salutáre tuum exsultábit veheménter : desidérium ánimae ejus tribuísti ei.

Secret : Laudis, p. 272.

Communion. Ps. lxiii. 11.— The just shall rejoice in the Lord, and shall hope in Him : and all the upright in heart shall be praised.

Commúnio. — Laetábitur justus in Dómino, et sperábit in eo : et laudabúntur omnes recti corde.

Postcommunion : Refécti, p. 273.

AUGUST 15.

The Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary.—Double of the First Class.—White vestments.

On this feast, which is the most ancient and solemn of the Cycle of Mary (6th century), the Church invites all her children in the whole catholic world to unite their joy (Introit) and their gratitude (Pref.) with those of the Angels who praise the Son of God because on that day His Mother, bodily and spiritually, entered heaven (Alleluia).

It is in the Basilica of St. Mary Major that was solemnised at Christ mas the mystery from which flowed all the glories of the Virgin and it is also there that is solemnised the Assumption, in which they culminate. Mary received Jesus when He came to this world and it is Jesus who receives Mary into heaven.

Admitted to the enjoyment of the delights of eternal contemplation, she chose at the feet of the Master the better part which shall not be taken away from her (Gospel, Communion). The Gospel of the Vigil was indeed formerly read after to-day's Gospel, in order to show that the Mother of Christ is happy among all others, because, better than all others, "she listened to the word of God." This word, The Word, the divine Wisdom which, under the Old Law, dwelt among the people of Israel (Epistle), dwelt in Mary under the New Law. The Word became incarnate in the womb of the Virgin, and now amid the splendour of the heavenly Sion He fills her with the delights of the beatific vision.

The Church on earth, like Martha, has to care for the necessities of this present life, but she also, like her, invokes the help of Mary (Collect, Secret, Postcommunion).

A procession has always been a part of the feast of the Assumption. At Jerusalem it was formed by the numerous pilgrims who came to pray at the tomb of the Virgin and who thus contributed to the institution of this solemnity.

The clergy of Constantinople also held a procession on the feast of Rest or the Assumption of Mary. At Rome from the 7th to the 8th century the papal cortege, in which the representatives of the Senate and people took part, went on this day from the Church of St. John Lateran to that of St. Mary Major. This ceremony was called the Litany.*

In France the object of the procession of August 15 after Vespers was to commemorate the consecration on this day in 1638 by Louis XIII. of that country to the Blessed Virgin.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

* On this occasion they used to recite over the people assembled for the procession the first Collect of the Sacramentary for Assumption Day mentioning this mystery, whilst the Collect of the Mass on August 15 is only the second Collect and has no direct relation to the feast. This is the 1st Collect : "It is our duty to honour the solemnity of this day, O Lord ; the holy Mother of God did indeed suffer temporal death, although the bonds of this death could not hold back her whose flesh formed the body of Thy Son, our Lord, Who liveth and reigneth . . ."

The Assumption of the B.V.M.

FIRST VESPERS.

First Psalm Dixit Dóminus, p. 98.—Second Psalm Laudáte púeri, p. 102.—Third Psalm Laetátus sum, p. 128.—Fourth Psalm Nisi Dóminus, p. 129.—Fifth Psalm Lauda Jerúsalem, p. 134.

Ant. — 1. Assúmpta est Maria in coelum * gaudent Angeli, laudántes benedícunt Dóminum.

Ant.—1. Mary is taken up into heaven, the angels rejoice, and bless God with songs of praise.

2. Maria Virgo assúmpta est * ad aethéreum thálamum, in quo Rex regum stelláto sedet sólio.

2. The Virgin Mary is taken up into the bridal chamber of heaven, where the King of kings sitteth on His starry throne.

3. In odórem * unguentórum tuórum cúrrimus: adolescéntulae dilexérunt te nimis.

3. Song of Sol. i. 3. We run after the odour of Thine ointments. The young maidens have loved thee exceedingly.

4. Benedícta * fília tu a Dómino: quia per te fructum vitae communicávimus.

4. O daughter, blessed art thou of the Lord, for through thee we have partaken of the fruit of life.

5. Pulchra es, * et decóra, fília Jerúsalem, terríbilis ut castrórum ácies ordináta.

5. Song of Sol. vi. 3.—Fair and beautiful art thou, O daughter of Jerusalem, terrible as an army in battle array.

Capitulum. — In ómnibus réquiem quaesívi, et in hereditáte Dómini morábor. † Tunc praecépit, et dixit mihi Creátor ómnium * et qui creávit me, requiévit in tabernáculo meo.

Chapter. Ecclus. xxiv. 11.—In all things I sought rest, and I shall abide in the inheritance of the Lord. Then the Creator of all things commanded, and spake unto me, and He that made me rested in my tabernacle.

Hymn: Ave maris stella, p. 187.

℣. Exaltáta est sancta Dei Génitrix.
℟. Super choros Angelórum ad coeléstia regna.

℣. The Holy Mother of God is lifted up on high.
℟. Above the choirs of angels into the kingdom of heaven.

Ant. — Virgo prudentíssima, * quo progréderis quasi auróra

Ant. at the Magnificat. Song of Sol. vi. 9.—O Virgin most prudent, whither goest thou, bright as the morn? all beautiful and sweet art thou, O daughter of Sion, fair as the moon, elect as the sun.

valde rútilans? Fília Sion tota formósa et suávis es: pulchra ut luna, elécta ut sol.

MASS.

Introit.* —Let us all rejoice in the Lord, celebrating a festival day in honour of the blessed Virgin Mary, for whose Assumption the angels rejoice and give praise to the Son of God. Ps. xliv. 2.—My heart hath uttered a good word: I speak my works to the King. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus. — Gaudeámus omnes in Dómino, diem festum celebrántes sub honóre beátae Mariae Vírginis: de cujus Assumptióne gaudent Angeli, et colláudant Fílium Dei. Ps. Eructávit corn meum verbum bonum: dico ego ópera mea Regi. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—Forgive, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the sins of Thy servants: and may we, who of ourselves are unable to please Thee, be saved by the prayers of the Mother of Thy Son, our Lord.

Orémus. — Famulórum tuórum, quaesumus, Dómine, delictis ignósce: ut, qui tibi placére de áctibus nostris non valémus; Genitrícis Fílii tui Dómini nostri intercessióne salvémur: Qui tecum.

Epistle.—Ecclus. xxiv. 11-20. —Lesson from the Book of Wisdom.—In all things, I sought rest, and I shall abide in the inheritance of the Lord. Then the Creator of all things commanded, and said to me; and He that made me rested in my tabernacle. And He said to me, Let thy dwelling be in Jacob, and thy inheritance in Israel, and take root in My elect. And so was I established in Sion, and in the holy city likewise I rested, and my power Epistola. — Léctio libri Sapiéntiae. — In ómnibus réquiem quaesívi, et in hereditáte Dómini morábor. Tunc praecépit, et dixit mihi Creátor ómnium et qui creávit me, requiévit in tabernáculo meo, et dixit mihi: In Jacob inhábita, et in Israël hereditáre, et in eléctis meis mitte radíces. Et sic in Sion fírmáta sum, et in civitáte sanctificáta similiter requiévi, et in Jerúsalem potéstas mea. Et radicávi in pópulo honorificáto, et in parte Dei mei heré-

* This Introit is that of the feast of St. Agatha (February 5). From the 11th century it was used in seven other Masses which are in the Missal, among others on August 15, November 1, etc.

ditas illíus, et in plenitúdine sanctórum deténtio mea. Quasi cedrus exaltáta sum in Líbano, et quasi cypréssus in monte Sion. Quasi palma exaltáta sum in Cades, et quasi plantátio rosae in Jéricho. Quasi olíva speciósa in campis, et quasi plátanus exaltáta sum juxta aquam in platéis. Sicut cinnamómum et bálsamum aromatizans odórem dedi: quasi myrrha elécta dedi suavítátem odóris.

was in Jerusalem: and I took root in an honourable people, and in the portion of my God His inheritance, and my abode is in the full assembly of saints. I was exalted like a cedar in Libanus, and as a cypress-tree on mount Sion: I was exalted like a palm-tree in Cades, and as a rose-plant in Jericho: As a fair olive-tree by the water in the streets was I exalted. I gave a sweet smell like cinnamon and aromatic balm: I yielded a sweet odour like the best myrrh.

Graduále. — Propter veritátem, et mansuetúdinem, et justítiam: et dedúcet te mirabíliter déxtera tua. ℣. Audi fília, et vide, et inclina aurem tuam: quia concupívit Rex spéciem tuam.

Gradual. Ps. xliv. 5, 11, 12.—Because of truth, and meekness, and justice, and thy right hand shall conduct thee wonderfully. ℣. Hearken, O daughter, and see and incline thy ear: for the King hath greatly desired thy beauty.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Assumpta est Maria in coelum: gaudet exércitus Angelórum. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia.—℣. Mary hath been taken up into heaven: therefore do the angels in their choirs rejoice. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangelii secúndum Lucam. — In illo témpore: Intrávit Jesus in quoddam castéllum: et múlier quaedam Martha nómine, excépit illum in domun suam: et hvic erat soror nómine Maria, quae étiam sedens secus pedes Dómini, audiébat verbum illius. Martha autem satagébat circa frequens ministérium: quae stetit, et ait: Dómine, non est tibi curae quod soror

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke x. 38-42.—At that time, Jesus entered into a certain town; and a certain woman, named Martha, received Him into her house: and she had a sister called Mary, who sitting also at the Lord's feet, heard His word. But Martha was busy about much serving: who stood and said, Lord, hast Thou no care that my sister hath left me alone to serve? Speak to her therefore, that she help me. And the Lord answering, said to her, Martha, Martha, thou art careful, and art troubled about many things: but one thing is necessary, Mary hath chosen the best part, which shall not be taken away from her.—Credo.

mea relíquit me solam ministráre? dic ergo illi, ut me ádjuvet. Et respóndens, dixit illi Dóminus: Martha, Martha, sollícita es et turbáris erga plúrima: porro unum est necessárium. María óptimam partem elégi, quae non auferétur ab ea. —Credo.

Offertory.—Mary hath been taken up into heaven: therefore do the angels rejoice: and blessing God, with one voice offer high praise to Him, alleluia.

Offertórium. — Assúmpta est Maria in coelum: gaudent Angeli, collaudántes benedícunt Dóminum, allelúia.

Secret.—May, O Lord, the prayer of the Mother of God come to the aid of Thy people. We know that, as is the lot of all mankind, even she has passed away from among us; nevertheless, make us to feel that in Thy glorious heaven, she is for evermore our advocate with Thee.

Secréta.—Subvéniat, Dómine, plebi tuae Dei Genítricis orátio: quam etsi pro conditióne carnis migrásse cognóscimus, in coeléstí glória apud te pro nobis intercédere sentiámus. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Preface of our Blessed Lady: Et te in Assumptióne, p. 56.

Communion.—Luke x. 42.—Mary hath chosen for herself the better part: which shall not be taken from her for ever.

Commúnio. — Optimam partem elégit sibi Maria, quae non auferétur ab ea in aetérnum.

Postcommunion. — Standing round the heavenly table at which Thou hast called us to feast in celebration of the Assumption of the Mother of God, most humbly we entreat of Thee, O Lord our God, through her prayers to be delivered from all the troubles that threaten us. Through the same our Lord, etc.

Postcommúnio. — Mensae coeléstis partícipes effécti, implorámus cleméntiam tuam, Dómine Deus noster: ut, qui Assumptiónem Dei Genitrícis cólimus, a cunctis malis imminéntibus, ejus intercessióne liberémur. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

SECOND VESPERS.

All as in First Vespers, except :

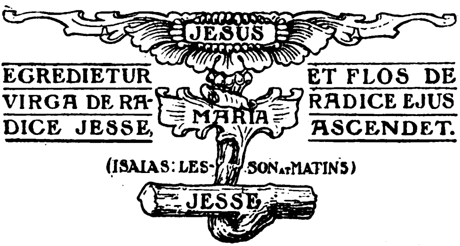
Ant. — Hódie * Maria Virgo coelos ascéndit : gaudéte, quia cum Christo regnat in aetérnum.

Ant. at the Magnificat.—This day the Virgin Mary ascended into heaven ; rejoice for that she reigns with Christ for evermore.

Commemoration of St. Joachim.



Ant. — Laudémus * virum gloriósum in generatióne sua : quia benedíctionem ✠ ómnium géntium dedit illi Dóminus et testaméntum ejus confirmávit super caput ejus.

Ant. Ecclus. xli. 1, xliv. 25.—Let us praise a man who was glorious in his generation, for God hath given him to be a blessing to all people, and hath established His covenant over him.

℣. Potens in terra erit semen ejus.
℟. Generátio rectórum benedicétur.

℣. His seed shall be mighty upon earth.
℟. The generation of the righteous shall be blessed.

Collect as at Mass, p. 1593.

AUGUST 16.

St. Joachim, Father of the Blessed Virgin Mary, Confessor.*

Double of the Second Class.—White vestments.

Desiring to associate the name of Joachim with the triumph of his blessed daughter, the Church has transferred his feast on March 20 to the day following the Assumption. Leo XIII. whose baptismal name was Joachim, raised his feast and that of St. Anne to the rank of double of the second class (1879).

"Joachim and Anne," says St. Epiphanes, "earned divine favour by an irreproachable life and merited that their union should bear for its beautiful fruit, the Blessed Virgin Mary, the temple and Mother of God. Joachim, Anne, and Mary offered manifestly in themselves a threefold sacrifice to the Holy Trinity. The name of Joachim signifies preparation of the Lord. Is it not he, in effect, who prepares the Temple of the Lord, the Virgin?"†

Wherefore, the Introit and Gradual enhance the virtues of this great Confessor and recall the frequent almsgiving of the Saint for, according to tradition, he divided what he had into three parts, of which the first was given to the temple and its ministers, the second to the poor, and the third was all he kept for himself.

"Most blessed couple," says in his turn St. John of Damascus, "the whole of creation is in your debt. For it is through you that it has been enabled to offer the Creator a present above all presents, the chaste Mother, who alone was worthy of the Creator. Rejoice, Joachim, for unto us a Son is born of thy daughter."‡ And the Gospel selected shows us the royal lineage of this Son, for by his marriage with Mary, daughter of Joachim or Heliachim, Joseph, son of Jacob, made Jesus the legal heir of David.

As grace perfects nature without destroying it, it may be affirmed that Joachim, united like St. Joseph and St. Anne by a very intimate tie to the Mother of God and her Son, is called to exercise his perpetual patronage (Collect) with regard to the Church, the body of Christ, or with regard to our souls of which Mary is mother.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1017.
† Fourth Lesson at Matins.
‡ Fifth and sixth Lessons at Matins.

Let us, on this day, offer to God the Holy Sacrifice in honour of the Holy Patriarch Joachim, father of the Virgin Mary, in order that his prayer, added to that of his spouse and of their blessed child, may obtain the full remission of our sins and eternal glory (Secret).

MASS.

Intróitus. — Dispérsit dedit paupéribus: justítia ejus manet in saeculum saeculi: cornu ejus exaltábitur in glória. Ps. Beátus vir, qui timet Dóminum: in mandátis ejus cupit nimis. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. cxi. 9.—He hath distributed, he hath given to the poor: his justice remaineth for ever and ever: his horn shall be exalted in glory. Ps. Blessed is the man that feareth the Lord: he delighteth exceedingly in His commandments. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui prae ómnibus Sanctis tuis beátum Jóachim Genitricis Fílii tui patrem esse voluísti: concéde, quaesumus; ut, cujus festa venerámur, ejus quoque perpétuo patrocinia sentiámus. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Collect.—O God Who, in preference to any other of Thy saints, wast pleased to choose blessed Joachim to be the father of the mother of Thy Son: grant that we who keep his feast-day, may at all times feel him to be our heavenly patron. Through the same Lord.

Epistle: Beátus vir, p. 270.

Graduále. — Dispérsit, dedit paupéribus: justítia ejus manet in saeculum saeculi. ℣. Potens in terra erit semen ejus: generátio rectórum benedicétur.

Gradual.—He hath distributed, he hath given to the poor: his justice remaineth for ever and ever. ℣. His seed shall be mighty upon earth: the generation of the righteous shall be blessed.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. O Jóachim sancte, conjux Annae, pater almae Vírginis, hic fámulis confer salútis opem. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. — ℣. O holy Joachim, spouse of Saint Anne, father of the kindly Virgin, help thy servants to save their souls. Alleluia.

Gospel: Liber generatiónis, p. 1191.—Credo.

Offertórium. — Glória et honóre coronásti eum: et constituísti eum super ópera mánuum tuárum, Dómine.

Offertory. Ps. viii 6-7.—Thou hast crowned him with glory and honour: and hast set him over the works of Thy hands, O Lord.

Secret. — Receive, most merciful God, this sacrifice which we offer up to Thy Majesty in honour of the holy patriarch Joachim, the father of the Virgin Mary; that through his intercession with that of his spouse and of his most blessed child, we may become worthy to have our sins wholly forgiven, and to win everlasting glory. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Súscipe, clementíssime Deus, sacrifícium in honórem sancti Patriárchae Jóachim, patris Maríae Virginis, majestáti tuae oblátum: ut, ipso cum cónjuge sua, et beatíssima prole intercedénte, perféctam cónsequi mereámur remissiónem peccatórum, et glóriam sempitérnam. Per Dóminum.

Preface of the Blessed Virgin Mary: Et te in assumptióne, p. 56

Communion. Luke xii. 42.— A faithful and wise steward, whom his lord set over his family; to give them their measure of wheat in due season.

Commúnio. — Fidélis servus et prudens, quem constítuit dóminus super famíliam suam: ut det illis in témpore trítici mensúram.

Postcommunion. — We beseech Thee, Almighty God, that by these mysteries which we have received, and by the merits and prayers of blessed Joachim, father of the mother of Thy beloved Son, our Lord Jesus Christ, which plead for us, we may become worthy to receive Thy grace in this life and everlasting glory in the world to come. Through the same.

Postcommúnio. — Quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut per haec sacraménta, quae súmpsimus, intercedéntibus méritis et précibus beáti Jóachim patris Genitrícis dilécti Fílii tui Dómini nostri Jesu Christi, tuae grátiae in praesénti, et aetérnae glóriae in futúro partícipes esse mereámur. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

SECOND VESPERS.

All as in the Common, p. 267, except: Verse and Antiphon of First Vespers, p. 1591.—Commemoration of St. Hyacinth: Antiphon Similábo, p. 270. ℣. Amávit, p. 269.—Of the Octave of the Assumption: Antiphon Hódie, p. 1591. ℣. Exaltáta est, p. 1587, and of the Octave of St. Laurence: Levíta Lauréntius. ℣. Levíta, p. 1577.

AUGUST 17.

St. Hyacinth, CONFESSOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

St. Hyacinth, called the Apostle of the North, was born in 1185 at the castle of Kamin, near Breslau.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1013.

Having gone to Rome, he was received there into the Order of Friar Preachers, by its founder, St. Dominic, in the church of St. Sabina. At the age of 33, he was made superior of the mission which this Saint sent to Poland.

St. Hyacinth then went over to Austria, Poland, Denmark, Scotland and Livonia, everywhere preaching the word of God, which his numerous miracles confirmed.

He died on the feast of the Assumption in 1257.

Mass: Os justi, p. 270.

Commemoration of the Octave of the Assumption, p. 1588, and of the Octave day of St. Laurence by the Collects of the following Mass.

Credo.—Preface of the Blessed Virgin Mary, p. 56.

THE SAME DAY.

The Octave Day of St. Laurence.—Red vestments.

Introitus. — Probásti, Dómine, cor meum, et visitásti nocte: igne me examinásti, et non est invénta in me iníquitas. Ps. Exáudi, Dómine, justítiam meam: inténde deprecatiónem meam. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. xvi. 3.—Thou hast proved my heart, O Lord, and visited it by night: Thou hast tried me by fire, and iniquity hath not been found in me. Ps. Ibid. 1. Hear, O Lord, my justice: attend to my supplication. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Excíta, Dómine, in Ecclésia tua Spíritum, cui beátus Lauréntius Levíta servívit: ut, eódem nos repléti, studeámus amáre quod amávit, et ópere exercére quod dócuit. Per Dóminum. . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

Collect.—Stir up in Thy church O Lord, the Spirit to which the holy levite Laurence ministered: that therewith we too, being filled, may love what he loved and may put in practice what he taught. Through our Lord . . . in the unity of the same.

Epistle: Qui parce séminat, p. 1575.

Graduále. — Glória et honóre coronásti eum, Dómine. ℣. Et constituísti eum super ópera mánuum tuárum.

Gradual. Ps. viii. 6, 7.—Thou hast crowned him with glory and honour. ℣. And hast set him over the works of Thy hands.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Levíta Lauréntius bonum opus operátus est, qui per signum crucis caecos illuminávit. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia.—Laurence, the deacon, wrought a good work, and gave sight to the blind by the sign of the cross. Alleluia.

Gospel: Amen, Amen, dico vobis, p. 1576.—The Credo is said.

Offertory. Ps. xx. 2, 3.—In Thy strength, O Lord, the just shall joy, and in Thy salvation he shall rejoice exceedingly: Thou hast given him his heart's desire.

Offertórium.—In virtúte tua, Dómine, laetábitur justus: et super salutáre tuum exsultábit veheménter: desidérium ánimae ejus tribuísti ei.

Secret.—Let the holy prayers of blessed Laurence recommend our sacrifice to Thee, O Lord, we beseech Thee; so that it may be received by Thee through the merits of him in whose honour it is solemnly offered up. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Sacrifícium nostrum tibi, Dómine, quaesumus, beáti Lauréntii precátio sancta concíliet: ut, cujus honóre solémniter exhibétur, ejus méritis efficiátur accéptum. Per Dóminum.

Communion. Matt. i. 16, 24.—He that will come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow Me.

Commúnio. — Qui vult veníre post me, ábneget semetípsum, et tollat crucem suam et sequátur me.

Postcommunion. — We humbly beseech Thee, Almighty God, through the intercession of blessed Laurence Thy martyr to keep under Thy protection for evermore those whom Thou hast fed with these gifts from heaven. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Súpplices te rogámus, omnípotens Deus: ut, quos donis coeléstibus satiásti, intercedénte beáto Lauréntio Mártyre tuo, perpétua protectióne custódias. Per Dóminum.

AUGUST 18.

Fourth Day of the Octave of the Assumption.—Semi-double.—White vestments.

"The immaculate body of Mary remained without corruption and was borne up to heaven, before the general resurrection." *

The Council of the Vatican, which had to be adjourned in 1870, was not able to carry out the desire which had been expressed for the definition of this dogma. But the proclamation of the Immaculate Conception of Mary justifies all hopes, for the glorious attainment of the Assumption corresponds with the initial privilege, and as the feast of the Conception of the Virgin affirmed in certain liturgies how appropriately God Almighty had made Mary a creature apart from her very birth, the feast of the Assumption each year proclaims the same appropriateness when her soul leaves this earth. The harmony which reigns in the works of God requires the anticipated resurrection of the Mother of God, who, holy among all and ever virgin, deserves on the part of her Son an adequate reward worthy of her position as Queen of Heaven and Mediatrix of the universe.

* Fifth Lesson at Matins.

Although not defined as a dogma of our faith, this truth is of those one is not permitted to doubt, as Benedict XIV. declares.*

Mass as on the day of the Feast, p. 1588.—Commemoration of St. Agapitus as in the following Mass.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Agapitus, MARTYR.†—Red vestments.

" In Palestine the birth unto heaven of St. Agapitus, who when only fifteen years old was put to death at Praeneste (Italy) by the stroke of the sword, thus winning the crown of immortality (275) " (Roman Martyrology).

Mass : Laetábitur, p. 225, except :

Orémus. — Laetétur Ecclésia tua, Deus, beáti Agapíti Mártyris tui confísa suffrágiis: atque ejus précibus gloriósis, et devóta permáneat, et secúra consístat. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Happy be Thy Church, O God, putting her trust in the prayers of the holy martyr Agapitus: he in glory pleading in her behalf, may she ever devoutly do Thee service, and ever abide in safety and in peace. Through our Lord.

Gospel : Amen, amen dico vobis, p. 1576.

Secréta. — Súscipe, Dómine, múnera, quae in ejus tibi solemnitáte deférimus: cujus nos confídimus patrocínio liberári. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Do Thou, O Lord, favourably regard the offerings we lay at Thy feet on this the festival-day of the saint on whom we rely for our deliverance. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Satiásti, Dómine, famíliam tuam munéribus sacris: ejus, quaesumus, semper interventióne nos réfove, cujus solémnia celebrámus. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — With the gift of Thy holy sacrament, O Lord, Thou hast bestowed on Thy children the fulness of Thy grace: be moved by the prayers of the Saint whose feast we celebrate, to comfort us all our lives. Through our Lord.

AUGUST 19.

Fifth Day of the Octave of the Assumption.—Semi-double. White vestments.

Mary continues in heaven to be our Mother, for she implores for us the graces of which she is the universal and generous dispenser.

Mass as on the day of the Feast, p. 1588.—Second Collect : Of the Holy Ghost, p. 161, and Third Collect : For the Church or the Pope, p. 154 or 155.

* De Canon, S. S. 1, 1, 42, 15. † See Historical Summary, p. 1009.

AUGUST 20.

St. Bernard, ABBOT, DOCTOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

The Church is pleased to honour during the Octave of the Assumption St. Bernard, the honey-mouthed Doctor, Doctor Mellifluus, whose principal title of glory is to have celebrated with ineffable tenderness and ardent piety, in his prayers, his books and sermons, the varied greatness of Mary.

Born in 1091, of a noble Burgundian family, he succeeded at the age of 22 in winning over to Christ thirty noblemen who with him embraced monastic life at Cîteaux. There the Cistercian Order, a branch of the old Benedictine trunk, acquired a new vigour which enabled it to cover the whole of Europe with its shoots. "The Just," says the Offertory, "shall flourish like the palm-tree, he shall grow up like the cedar of Libanus." And in the famous monastery which Bernard founded a short time afterwards in the "Vale of Wormwood" on the left bank of the Aube, and whose first abbot he became (Communion), he each day lavished on a community of seven hundred monks the treasures of doctrine and wisdom with which God endowed him and which make his name immortal (Introit, Epistle, Gradual).

An austere monk, a great Christian orator and a learned doctor, he was the luminary, mentioned in the Gospel, which enlightened the world in the twelfth century and impressed upon it the Christian character which distinguishes it.

Pope Eugenius III., who had been trained by him to the monastic life, solicited and received his counsels; at the Council of Etampes, he put an end to the schism which, opposing Anacletus to Innocent II., troubled the clergy and people of Rome. He was consulted by William of Aquitaine, by the Duchess of Lorraine, by the Countess of Brittany, by Henry son of the King of France, by Peter son of the King of Portugal, by Louis VI., Louis VII., Conrad, Lothaire and by the Abbot of St.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1012.

Denis. He silenced the famous Doctor Abelard at the Council of Laon, and his powerful logic unmasked the errors of Arnold of Brescia and of Peter de Bruys (Gospel). And lastly he attacked Islam and, by preaching the second crusade at Vezelay, he stirred up the whole of Europe by his overpowering eloquence.

St. Bernard died at Clairvaux on August 20, 1153, and his body was laid at the foot of the altar of the Virgin. He left after him 160 monasteries which he had founded in Europe and Asia. His writings, replete with doctrines inspired by divine wisdom, caused him to be placed among the Doctors of the Church by Pius VIII.

Let us have recourse to the intercession in heaven of the one who on earth taught us the way of life (Collect), let us ask him to give us his love for the Mother of God, and let us piously recite the anthem of the Season: Salve Regina, of which the three last invocations, O clement, O merciful, O sweet Virgin Mary, are attributed to him.

Mass: In médio, p. 263, with Epistle: Justus cor suum, p. 267. —Commemoration of the Octave of the Assumption, p. 1588.

AUGUST 21.

St. Jane Frances Fremiot de Chantal.*—Double.—White vestments.

Like Mary, whose Assumption we have been celebrating for the last seven days, St. Jane Frances de Chantal was a spouse, a mother and a widow. Like St. Bernard, she was born at Dijon and received the baptismal name of Jane, because that day, January 3, 1572, was the feast of St. John the Almoner.

The name of Frances which she added at her confirmation, reminds us of the gentle Saint of Geneva. Like in days of yore Benedict and Scholastica, Francis of Assisi and Clare, so Francis of Sales and Jane Frances, corresponding with the designs of divine Providence, united their pious efforts and enriched the Church by the "foundation of a new family" (Collect).

At the death of baron de Chantal (1601), his young widow consecrated herself to God by a vow of perpetual chastity, and she wrote with a red hot iron the name of Jesus on her breast.

This strong woman, spoken of in the Epistle, left everything to acquire at this price the precious pearl of a religious life (Gospel). She still had four children out of six and her old father.

"Let us stop shedding tears," this venerable old man said to her, "that we may better honour the holy will of God." Her son, Celse-Benigne, opposing his mother's departure and having laid himself across the door: "If," he said, "I cannot keep you back, you will at least have to pass over the body of your son."

Madame de Chantal in spite of her maternal feelings and after shedding a torrent of tears, gathered up her strength and passed over the body of her son.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1016.

She became the mother of innumerable virgins of the Order of the Visitation, now dispersed over the whole world. Filled with the spirit of divine chastity (Postcommunion), she constantly repeated to them, like St. John, her patron : " Let us love God with our whole heart and our neighbour like ourselves for the love of God." She died at Moulins in 1641.

Like St. Jane Frances, and by her intercession, let us pray to God, that, knowing our weakness and relying on His strength, we may by His grace overcome all obstacles (Collect).

Mass : Cognóvi, p. 304, except :

Collect.—Almighty and merciful God, who, having imbued blessed Jane Frances with wonderful strength of soul, wast pleased to lead her, burning always with love of Thee, by every path of life along the way of perfection ; and by means of her to bless Thy Church with new and illustrious spiritual offspring : graciously regard her merits and prayers, and grant that we who, fully conscious of our own weakness, put all our trust in the strength which comes from Thee, may, by the help of Thy grace, overcome all the obstacles which beset us on our road to Thee. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Omnípotens et miséricors Deus, qui beátam Joánnam Francíscam tuo amóre succénsam, admirábili spíritus fortitúdine per omnes vitae sémitas in via perfectiónis doásti, quique per illam illustráre Ecclésiam tuam nova prole voluísti : ejus méritis et précibus concéde ; ut, qui infirmitátis nostrae cónscii de tua virtúte confídimus, coeléstis grátiae auxílio, cuncta nobis adversántia vincámus. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of the Octave of the Assumption, p. 1588, and Credo.

Secret.—May this saving victim, O Lord, enkindle in our hearts the self-same fire of love which, fiercely burning in the heart of blessed Jane Frances, consumed it in the flames of everlasting charity. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Illo nos amóris igne, quaesumus, Dómine, haec hóstia salutáris inflámmet : quo beátae Joánnae Franciscae cor veheménter incéndit, et flammis adússit aetérnae caritátis. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Pour forth O Lord, upon us whom Thou hast vouchsafed to fill with bread from heaven, the spirit of love of Thee : and, moved by the supplications in our behalf of blessed Jane Frances, teach us

Postcommúnio. — Spíritum nobis, Dómine, tuae caritátis infúnde : ut, quos coeléstis panis virtúte satiásti, beáta Joánna Francísca intercedénte, fácias terréna despícere, et te solum Deum pura mente sectári. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

to set no store upon earthly goods, but with our whole hearts to give ourselves up to Thy service. Through our Lord. . . in the unity of the same.

AUGUST 22.

The Octave-Day of the Assumption. — Greater-double. — White vestments.

According to a tradition sanctioned by authority, it was at Jerusalem, near the room of the Last Supper, at the spot where now stands a fine church commtted to the care of the Benedictines, that Mary breathed her last (Secret). And it is at the foot of the Mount of Olives, in a place where about 1130 a monastery of the Benedictine monks of Cluny was built, that her mortal remains were laid and "she was carried up to heaven" (Alleluia).

The pilgrimages made to this tomb originated the feast of the Assumption which was already solemnised in the East at the end of the sixth century. At the beginning of the seventh, the feast was also solemnised at Rome, and it spread with the Roman liturgy over the whole West.

Pope Leo IV. instituted the Octave in 847. In France, it is the only feast of Mary which was maintained by the Concordat of 1802 as a feast of obligation.

"We have accompanied thee with all our prayers when thou didst ascend towards thy Son," says St. Bernard, "and we have at least followed thee at a distance, O blessed Virgin! May thy goodness make known to the world the grace bestowed on thee by God: obtain by thy holy prayers the forgiveness of the guilty, health for the sick, strength for weak souls, consolation for the afflicted, help and deliverance for those in peril. O Mary, queen of clemency, on this joyful solemnity may thy humble servants, who praise and invoke thy sweet name, be overwhelmed with graces by Jesus Christ thy Son, our Lord, Who is the sovereign God, blessed throughout the ages. Amen."*

Let us honour Mary with special confidence during these feasts which celebrate her triumph.

Mass as on the Feast, p. 1588, with a commemoration of the Martyrs from the following Mass:—

THE SAME DAY.

SS. Timothy, Hippolytus and Symphorian, MARTYRS.†

Timothy of Antioch was martyred under the Emperor Alexander, at Rome, in the fourth century. He was cruelly beaten and quicklime was sprinkled over his torn flesh. At last he was beheaded.

On the same day at Ostia, Hippolytus, Bishop of Porto, was thrown into a hole filled with water and received the crown of martyrdom about A.D. 225.

Again on the same day, about A.D. 180, under the reign of Aurelian, Symphorian, who was still a young man, was beheaded at Autun. While he went to execution his mother said to him: "My son, my son, remember eternal life; look up to heaven and see the One who reigns there; life is not taken from thee, it is exchanged for a better one."

* Fifth and sixth Lessons at Matins. † See Historical Summary, pp. 1008 and 1009.

Mass: Salus autem, p. 238, except:

Collect.—Deny us not, O merciful Lord, Thy help: but hearkening to the prayers of Thy blessed martyrs Timothy, Hippolytus and Symphorian, stretch forth over us the right hand of Thy merciful forgiveness. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Auxílium tuum nobis, Dómine, quaesumus, placátus impénde: et, intercedéntibus beátis Martyribus tuis Timótheo, Hippolyto et Symphoriáno, déxteram super nos tuae propitiatiónis exténde. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—May, O Lord, be found pleasant in Thy sight, the offering which Thy faithful people bring to Thee in honour of Thy saints: for the sake of whose merits Thou hast ever shown Thyself to be our sure help in tribulation. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Accépta tibi sit, Dómine, sacrátae plebis oblátio pro tuórum honóre Sanctórum: quorum se méritis de tribulatióne percepísse cognóscit auxílium. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — We, upon whom Thou hast lavished Thy heavenly gifts, entreat of Thee, O Lord, our God that, by the intercession of Thy holy martyrs Timothy, Hippolytus and Symphorian, the sharing in those same gifts may be ours all the days of our life. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Divíni múneris largitáte satiáti, quaesumus, Dómine Deus noster: ut, intercedéntibus sanctis Martyribus tuis Timótheo, Hippolyto et Symphoriáno, in ejus semper participatióne vivámus. Per Dóminum.

AUGUST 23.

St. Philip Benizi, CONFESSOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

We honour on this day a Saint to whom the Blessed Virgin appeared to announce to him that he was to enter the Order of Servites, whose object is to honour the sorrows through which she attained the glory we have rejoiced in during eight days.

Born at Florence of the illustrious family of Benizi, St. Philip gave signs from the cradle of his future holiness. The Order of the servants of the Virgin Mary, called Servites, had been instituted fifteen years before. The little convent was not far from the town. There, while hearing mass on the Thursday in Easter Week, St. Philip was struck by the words of the epistle addressed by the Holy Ghost to Philip, the deacon. As he bore that name, he applied to himself the scriptural text and feeling himself invited by the Holy Ghost to enter that Order, he left everything to purchase the imperishable treasure of heaven (Gospel). Entering as a lay brother, he was later on ordained a priest, and became general of the Servites.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1013.

The Cardinals, assembled at Viterbo, wished to elect him Pope but out of humility (Collect) he refused the honour and hid himself in the mountains. There he flourished like the palm-tree and grew like the cedar of Libanus (Introit). God then called him to evangelise Italy, France and Germany. On his return he was confirmed in his office for life. He tried to calm the animosity which existed between the Guelfs, partisans of the Pope, and the Ghibellines, partisans of the Emperor, and ran serious danger to which the Epistle alludes.

He was seized by a burning fever on Assumption Day, and died at Todi in 1285, on the day of the Octave, contemplating the image of the Saviour stretched on the cross.

Let us ask God to grant us the humility of St. Philip that, despising as he did the riches of the world, we may always seek the riches of heaven (Collect).

Mass : Justus, p. 273, except :

Orémus. — Deus, qui per beátum Philíppum Confessórem tuum, exímium nobis humilitátis exémplum tribuísti: da fámulis tuis próspera mundi ex ejus imitatióne despícere, et coeléstia semper inquírere. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who in blessed Philip hast set before us a marvellous pattern of humility: do Thou bestow upon us Thy servants, the grace to think little, as he did, of the prosperous things of this world, and ever to strive after those of heaven. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of the Vigil of St. Bartholomew from the Collects of the Mass : Ego autem, p. 202, of which the Gospel is read at the end of Mass.

THE SAME DAY.

The Vigil of St. Bartholomew, APOSTLE.—Violet vestments.

The feasts of the Apostles are spread throughout the liturgical Cycle as if to show that the Apostles are the foundation on which the whole Church rests. St. Bartholomew is the sixth in the list of twelve, as given by the Evangelists. Like the other Apostles he learned the secrets of the divine law and made them known to the world, confirming them by his martyrdom (Gospel). On this day the liturgy prepares us for his feast to-morrow (Collect).

Mass : Ego autem, p. 202.

AUGUST 24.

St. Bartholomew, APOSTLE.*—Double of the Second Class.—Red vestments.

The son of Tholomy or Bartholomew is, according to common opinion, the disciple whom St. Philip brought to our Lord, under the name of Nathanaël and whom the Master praised on account of his innocence and the simplicity of his heart.† For the Gospel of St. John, never mentioning St. Bartholomew among the Apostles, says that Philip and Nathanael came together to Jesus and that he was among the Disciples to whom the Saviour appeared after the resurrection on the shore of the sea of Galilee. The other gospels never use the name of Nathanael, but after Philip they always mention Bartholomew.

Born at Cana, in Galilee, he was placed by Jesus among the twelve (Gospel) and he was a witness of the principal actions of Jesus upon the earth. "The first gift vouchsafed to the Church by the Holy Ghost," says St. Paul, "is the grace of the Apostleship" (Epistle).

He preached the faith in Arabia Felix: according to certain traditions he was flayed alive. He is thus represented in the beautiful white marble statue by Cibo, in Milan Cathedral.

His relics are venerated at Rome, in the Church of St. Bartholomew on an island formed by the Tiber. His name is mentioned in the Canon of the Mass among the Apostles (First List, p. 59).

Let us joyfully celebrate the feast of St. Bartholomew who, in heaven, praises God among the glorious choir of the Apostles (Alleluia), and let us ask of God to grant to His Church to love what he believed and to preach what he himself taught (Collect).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his parishioners.

First Vespers (August 23): Of the Common of Apostles, p. 206. —Commemoration of St. Philip: Antiphon Hic vir. ℣. Justum, p. 279.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007.

† "Philip met Nathanael and said to him: The one to whom Moses has written in the law and whom the prophets have announced we have found: it is Jesus of Nazareth the son of Joseph. And Nathanael said to him: Can anything good come from Nazareth?—Philip said to him: Come and see. Jesus saw Nathanael coming towards Him and said to him: That is a true Israelite in whom there is no guile. Nathanael said to Him: Whence knowest Thou me? Jesus answered: Before Philip called thee when thou wast under the fig-tree I saw thee. Nathanael replied: Rabbi. Thou art the Son of God, Thou art the King of Israel." John i. 45-49.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Mihi autem nimis honoráti sunt amíci tui, Deus: nimis confortátus est principátus eórum. Ps. Dómine, probásti me, et cognovísti me: tu cognovísti sessiónem meam, et resurrectiónem meam. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. cxxxviii. 17.—To me, Thy friends, O God, are made exceedingly honourable: their principality is exceedingly strengthened. Ps. Ibid 1-2. Lord, Thou hast proved me, and known me: Thou hast known my sitting down and my rising up. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, qui hujus diéi venerándam sanctámque laetítiam in beáti Apóstoli tui Bartholomaei festivitáte tribuísti: da Ecclésiae tuae, quaesumus; et amáre quod crédidit, et praedicáre quod dócuit. Per Dóminum.

Collect. — Almighty and everlasting God, Who, because hallowed by its being the festival of Thy blessed Apostle, Bartholomew, hast made this to be for us a day of pleasantness and of spiritual joy; teach Thy Church, we beseech Thee, ever to love what he loved, and ever to set forth what he taught. Through our Lord.

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Coríhthios.—Fratres: Vos estis corpus, Christi, et membra de membro. Et quosdam quidem pósuit Deus in Ecclésia primum apóstolos, secúndo prophétas, tértio doctóres, deínde virtútes, exínde grátias curatiónum, opitulatiónes, gubernatiónes, génera linguárum, interpretatiónes sermónum. Numquid omnes apóstoli? numquid omnes prophétae? numquid omnes doctóres? numquid omnes virtútes? numquid omnes grátiam habent curatiónum? numquid omnes linguis loquúntur? numquid omnes interpretántur? Æmulámini autem charísmata melióra.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians. 1 Cor. xii. 27-31.—Brethren, you are the body of Christ, and members of member. And God indeed hath set some in the Church, first apostles, secondly prophets, thirdly doctors, after that miracles, then the graces of healings, helps, governments, kinds of tongues, interpretations of speeches. Are all apostles? Are all prophets? Are all doctors? Are all workers of miracles? Have all the grace of healing? Do all speak with tongues? Do all interpret? But be ye zealous for the better gifts.

Graduále. — Constítues eos príncipes super omnem terram:

Gradual. Ps. xliv. 17, 18.—Thou shalt make them princes over all the earth: they shall be mindful of Thy name, O Lord. ℣. Instead of thy fathers sons are born to thee: therefore shall people praise thee.

mémores erunt nóminis tui, Dómine. ℣. Pro pátribus tuis nati sunt tibi fílii: proptérea pópuli confitebúntur tibi.

Alleluia, alleluia. — ℣. Thee, the glorious choir of the apostles doth praise, O Lord. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Te gloriósus Apostolórum chorus laudat, Dómine. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke. vi. 12-19.—At that time, Jesus went out into a mountain to pray, and He passed the whole night in the prayer of God: and when day was come, He called unto Him His disciples; and He chose twelve of them (whom also He named apostles), Simon whom he surnamed Peter, and Andrew his brother, James and John, Philip and Bartholomew, Matthew and Thomas, James the son of Alpheus, and Simon who is called Zelotes, and Jude the brother of James, and Judas Iscariot, who was the traitor. And coming down with them, He stood in a plain place, and the company of His disciples, and a very great multitude of people from all Judæa and Jerusalem, and the sea-coast, both of Tyre and Sidon, who were come to hear Him, and to be healed of their diseases. And they that were troubled with unclean spirits were cured. And all the multitude sought to touch Him, for virtue went out from Him, and healed all.—Credo.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam. — In illo témpore: Exiit Jesus in montem oráre, et erat pernóctans in oratióne Dei. Et cum dies factus esset, vocávit discípulos suos, et elégit duódecim ex ipsis (quos et Apóstolos nominávit): Simónem, quem cognominávit Petrum, et Andréam fratrem ejus, Jacóbum et Joánnem, Philíppum et Bartholomaeum, Matthaeum et Thomam, Jacóbum Alphaei et Simónem, qui vocátur Zelótes, et Judam Jacóbi, et Judam Iscariótem, qui fuit próditor. Et descéndens cum illis, stetit in loco campéstri, et turba discipulórum ejus, et multitúdo copiósa plebis ab omni Judaea, et Jerúsalem, et marítima, et Tyri, et Sidónis, qui vénerant ut audírent eum, et sanarénter a languóribus suis. Et qui vexabántur a spirítibus immúndis, curabántur. Et omnis turba quaerébat eum tángere: quia virtus de illo exíbat et sanábat omnes.—Credo.

Offertory.—To me Thy friends, O God, are made exceedingly honourable: their principality is exceedingly strengthened.

Offertórium. — Mihi autem nimis honoráti sunt amíci tui, Deus: nimis confortátus est principátus eórum.

Secréta. — Beáti Apóstoli tui Bartholomaei solémnia recenséntes, quaesumus, Dómine : ut ejus auxílio tua benefícia capiámus, pro quo tibi laudis hóstias immolámus. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Celebrating the festival-day of blessed Bartholomew, Thine apostle, we beg of Thee, O Lord, that we who offer up this sacrifice in his honour, may by his help, share in the good gifts Thou bestowest. Through our Lord.

Preface of the Apostles, p. 57.

Commúnio. — Vos, qui secúti estis me, sedébitis super sedes, judicántes duódecim tribus Israël, dicit Dóminus.

Communion.—You, who have followed Me, shall sit on seats, judging the twelve tribes of Israel, saith the Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Sumptum, Dómine, pignus redemptiónis aetérnae : sit nobis, quaesumus ; interveniénte beáto Bartholomaeo Apóstolo tuo, vitae praeséntis auxílium páriter et futúrae. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — May the pledge of eternal salvation we have received, be to us, we beseech Thee, O Lord, a help for this our life on earth, and an earnest of happiness in that which is to come. Through our Lord.

Second Vespers : Of the Common of the Apostles, p. 212.—Commemoration of St. Louis : Similábo, p. 270. ℣. Amávit, p. 269.

AUGUST 25.

St. Louis, KING AND CONFESSOR.*—Semi-double.†—White vestments.

Louis IX., born in 1215, became King of France at the age of 12 and was very piously brought up by his mother, Queen Blanche, who taught him rather to die than to commit a mortal sin. He liked to be called Louis of Poissy, the place where he had been baptised, to show that his title of Christian was his most glorious title of nobility.

" Despising the pleasures of the world, he only strove to please Jesus Christ, the true King " (Collect), " and was," says Bossuet, " the holiest and most just king who has ever worn the crown."

Assiduous in attending the offices of the Church, he ordered them to be solemnly celebrated in his palace where every day he heard two masses. At midnight he awoke for Matins and began his royal day with the office of Prime. He introduced in his chapel the custom of genuflecting at the words in the Credo : Homo factus est, and of bowing down humbly at the passage in the Passion when Jesus expires. Both these pious practises were adopted by the Church. " They impute to me as a crime my assiduity at prayer," he would say, " but not a word would be said if I gave to play or to the hunt the hours I give to prayer." But never did his piety hinder him from devoting to the affairs of the kingdom the greater part of his time.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1013. † In France : Greater-double.

Having recovered from a serious illness he made a vow to undertake a crusade to reconquer Jerusalem. At first victorious, he fell into the hands of the Saracens. Restored to freedom, he remained five years in the East helping the Christians. On his return to France, he made many pious foundations and built the Sainte Chapelle, as a precious reliquary for the holy crown of thorns and the important particle of the true cross which Baldwin II., Emperor of Constantinople, had made him a present of. Most austere himself, he was most charitable to others, and used to say: "It is more meet for a king to ruin himself in alms for God's sake than in pomp and vain glory." "Often," says Joinville, "I have seen the good king, after Mass, go to the wood at Vincennes, sit down at the foot of an oak tree, and there listen to all who had to speak to him."

A servant of Christ, he continually wore the cross to show that his vow remained unaccomplished. He undertook in 1270 another crusade, but an epidemic decimated his army in Africa and struck him down. With his arms crossed and lying on a bed of ashes, he gave up his soul to God in 1270 at the same hour as Christ died on the cross. He was heard to repeat the day before his death: "We shall go to Jerusalem." It was in reality the heavenly Jerusalem, conquered by his patience in the midst of his adversities, where he was to reign with the King of kings (Collect).

Mass: Os justi, p. 270, except:

Collect.—O God, Who hast taken blessed Louis, Thy confessor, from an earthly throne to seat him on one more glorious in heaven: have regard, we beseech Thee, to his merits and prayers, and admit us to share the kingdom of Jesus Christ, the King of Kings, Thy Son: Who liveth and reigneth.

Orémus. — Deus, qui beátum Ludovícum Confessórem tuum de terréno regno ad coeléstis regni glóriam transtulísti: ejus, quaesumus, méritis et intercessióne; Regis regum Jesu Christi Fílii tui fácias nos esse consórtes: Qui tecum.

Epistle: Justum dedúxit, p. 222.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke. xix. 12-26.—At that time, Jesus spoke this parable to His disciples: A certain nobleman went into a far country to receive for himself a kingdom, and to return. And calling his ten servants, he gave them ten pounds; and said to them, Trade till I come. But his citizens hated

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam. — In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis parábolam hanc: Homo quidam nóbilis ábiit in regiónem longínquam accípere sibi regnum et revérti. Vocátis autem decem servis suis, dedit eis decem mnas et ait ad illos: Negotiámini dum vénio. Cives autem ejus óderant eum: et misérunt legatiónem post illum, dicéntes: Nólumus hunc regnáre super nos. Et factum est, ut redíret, accépto regno; et jussit vocári servos, quibus dedit pecúniam, ut sciret quantum quisque negotiátus esset. Venit autem primus, dicens: Dómine, mna tua decem mnas acquisívit. Et ait illi: Euge bone serve, quia in módico fuísti fidélis, eris potestátem habens super decem civitátes. Et alter venit, dicens: Dómine, mna tua fecit quinque mnas. Et huic ait: Et tu esto super quinque civitátes. Et alter venit, dicens: Dómine, ecce mna tua, quam hábui repósitam in sudário; tímui enim te, quia homo austérus es: tollis quod non posuísti, et metis quod non seminásti. Dicit ei: De ore tuo te júdico, serve nequam. Sciébas quod ego homo austérus sum, tollens quod non pósui, et metens quod non seminávi: et quare non dedísti pecúniam meam ad mensam, ut ego véniens cum usúris útique exegíssem illam? Et adstántibus dixit: Auférte ab illo mnam, et date illi, qui decem mnas habet. Et dixérunt ei: Dómine, habet decem mnas. Dico autem vobis: Quia omni habénti dábitur, et abundabit: ab eo autem qui non habet, et quod habet, auferétur ab eo.

him; and they sent an embassage after him, saying, We will not have this man to reign over us. And it came to pass that he returned, having received the kingdom: and he commanded his servants to be called to whom he had given the money, that he might know how much every man had gained by trading. And the first came, saying, Lord, thy pound hath gained ten pounds: and he said to him, Well done, thou good servant, because thou hast been faithful in a little, thou shalt have power over ten cities. And the second came, saying, Lord, thy pound hath gained five pounds: and he said to him, Be thou also over five cities. And another came, saying, Lord, behold, here is thy pound, which I have kept laid up in a napkin; for I feared thee, because thou art an austere man; thou takest up what thou didst not lay down, and thou reapest that which thou didst not sow. He saith to him, Out of thy own mouth I judge thee, thou wicked servant. Thou knewest that I was an austere man, taking up what I laid not down, and reaping that which I did not sow; and why then didst thou not give my money into the bank, that at my coming I might have exacted it with usury? And he said to them that stood by, Take the pound away from him, and give it to him that hath the ten pounds. And they said to him, Lord, he hath ten pounds. But I say to you, that to every one that hath shall be given, and he shall abound; and from him that hath not, even that which he hath shall be taken from him.

Secret.—O Almighty God, grant, we beseech Thee, that the prayers of blessed Louis, Thy confessor, who, disdaining the pleasures of the world, sought only to do the will of Christ, the King, may make us to be acceptable to Thee. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, sicut beátus Ludovícus Conféssor tuus, spretis mundi oblectaméntis, soli Regi Christo placére stúduit; ita ejus oratio nos tibi reddat accéptos. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — O God, Who hast made Thy blessed confessor Louis to be a wonder of earth and a glory of heaven: do Thou, we beseech Thee, set him up as the defender of Thy Church. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Deus, qui beátum Confessórem tuum Ludovícum mirificásti in terris, et gloriósum in coelis fecísti: eúmdem, quaesumus, Ecclésiae tuae constítue defensórem. Per Dóminum.

AUGUST 26.

St. Zephyrinus, POPE AND MARTYR.*—Simple.—Red vestments.

St. Zephyrinus succeeded St. Victor on the pontifical throne, and like him was martyred (Gospel). He abolished in the celebration of the Holy sacrifice the use of wooden chalices, which were replaced by glass ones. He prescribed that all the faithful should receive Holy Communion on Easter Day.

He had to defend the dogma of the unity of God and the Trinity of persons against the Sabellians. Besides this intestine strife he had to suffer persecution. God always supported him in his trials, in order to enable him to support the flock of Christ (Epistle). He died in A.D. 217 after a pontificate of seventeen years.

Mass: Sacerdótes Dei, p. 259, except:

Collect.—O Almighty God, to us who rejoice over the merits of blessed Zephyrimus, Thy martyr and bishop, grant, we beseech Thee, to profit by the example he has left us. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut beáti Zephyríni Mártyris tui atque Pontíficis, cujus gaudémus méritis, instruámur exémplis. Per Dóminum.

AUGUST 27.

St. Joseph Calasanctius, CONFESSOR.†—Double.—White vestments.

The Church, having just celebrated the feast of the Assumption, honours on this day a Saint who had a special devotion to the Virgin. St. Joseph Calasanctius was born in Aragon, of a noble family, and from his youth showed his charity towards children. While studying theology at Valencia, he had to defend himself against the enticements of a powerful and noble lady and made the vow to enter into Holy Orders. Having become a priest, he was apprised by divine revelation that he was destined to teach and to train to piety children, especially those of the poor (Offertory). He founded, in consequence, the Order of the Poor Clerks regular of the Pious Schools of the Mother of God (Collect). Like Jesus he let little children come to him (Communion) and taught them to fear God (Introit). Wherefore the Gospel repeats the consoling words of the Master : " Whosoever shall receive one of these little ones in My name, receiveth Me."

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007. † Ibid., p. 1016.

" What is there greater," writes St. John Chrysostom*, than to discipline minds, than to form tender youths to good habits? God has shown us that their souls are worthy of such zeal and of such solicitude that for them He did not spare His Son."

St. Joseph Calasanctius died in 1648 at the age of 92.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Veníte, fílii, audíte me : timórem Dómini docébo vos. Ps. Benedícam Dóminum in omni témpore : semper laus ejus in ore meo. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. xxxiii. 12.—Come, children, hearken to me : I will teach you the fear of the Lord. Ps. Ibid. 2. I will bless the Lord at all times : His praise shall be ever in my mouth. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui per sanctum Joséphum Confessórem tuum, ad erudiéndam spíritu intelligéntiae ac pietátis juventútem, novum Ecclésiae tuae subsídium proveníre dignátus es : praesta, quaesumus ; nos, ejus exemplo et intercessióne, ita fácere et docére, ut praemia consequámur aetérna. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who by means of Saint Joseph, Thy confessor, hast vouchsafed to provide Thy Church with fresh help towards imbuing the minds of the young with the spirit of understanding and of piety : grant, we beseech Thee, that, having him for advocate and for pattern, we may in such wise work and in such wise teach, as to deserve from Thee an everlasting reward. Through our Lord.

Epistle : Justum deduxit, p. 222.

Graduále. — Os justi meditábitur sapiéntiam, et lingua ejus loquétur judícium. ℣. Lex Dei ejus in corde ipsíus : et non supplantabúntur gressus ejus.

Gradual.—Ps. xxxvi. 30, 31.—The mouth of the just shall meditate wisdom, and his tongue shall speak judgment. ℣. The law of his God is in his heart : and his steps shall not be supplanted.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Beátus vir, qui suffert tentatiónem :

Alleluia, alleluia. Jas. i. 12.—℣. Blessed is the man that en-

* Lessons of the third Nocturn at Matins.

dureth temptation: for when he hath been proved he shall receive the crown of life. Alleluia.

quóniam cum probátus fúerit, accípiet corónam vitae. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. xviii. 1-5.—At that time, the disciples came to Jesus, saying, Who, thinkest Thou, is the greater in the kingdom of heaven? And Jesus calling unto him a little child, set him in the midst of them, and said, Amen, I say to you, unless you be converted, and become as little children, you shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this little child, he is the greater in the kingdom of heaven; and he that shall receive one such little child in My name, receiveth Me.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum. — In illo témpore: Accessérunt discípuli ad Jesum dicéntes: Quis putas major est in regno coelórum? Et ádvocans Jesus párvulum, státuit eum in médio eórum, et dixit: Amen dico vobis, nisi convérsi fuéritis, et efficiámini sicut párvuli, non intrábitis in regnum coelórum. Quicúmque ergo humiliáverit se sicut párvulus iste, hic est major in regno coelórum. Et qui suscéperit unum párvulum talem in nómine meo, me súscipit.

Offertory. Ps. ix. 17.—The Lord hath heard the desire of the poor: Thy ear hath heard the preparation of their heart.

Offertórium. — Desidérium páuperum exaudívit Dóminus: praeparatiónem cordis eórum audívit auris tua.

Secret.—We load Thine altar, O Lord, with the gifts we offer: may the prayers of the Saint under whose patronage Thou hast deigned to place us, make them to be well-pleasing in Thy sight. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Altáre tuum, Dómine, munéribus cumulámus oblátis: ut ejus nobis fiant supplicatióne propítia, cujus nos donásti patrocínio adjuvári. Per Dóminum.

Communion. Mark x. 14.—Suffer the little children to come to me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of God.

Commúnio. — Sínite párvulos veníre ad me, et ne prohibuéritis eos: tálium est enim regnum Dei.

Postcommunion. — Sanctified by this divine mystery, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that the intercession of Saint Joseph, Thy confessor, may ensure our continuous growth in the grace of piety. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Sanctificáti, Dómine, salutári mystério: quaesumus; ut, intercedénte sancto Josépho Confessóre tuo, ad majus semper proficiámus pietátis increméntum. Per Dóminum.

August 28.

St. Augustine, Bishop, Confessor and Doctor.*—Double.—White vestments.

Augustine was born in 354 at Tagasta in Algeria. His mother, St. Monica, taught him early to pray. After having received with delight her holy teaching, he was soon led into the grav est disorders. Carthage not offering him a theatre worthy of his genius, he went to Rome and obtained the post of master of rhetoric at Milan. "My iniquities," he confesses, "were like a ball of snow growing in size as it rolls." His desolate mother prayed to God incessantly with tears, still following the steps of her son. St. Ambrose, Bishop of Milan, received him kindly and enlightened him in divine knowledge. One day, inspired by heaven, he opened the Epistles of St. Paul and read: "Wallow not in debauchery and impurity; but clothe yourselves in our Lord Jesus Christ." His irresolution immediately ceased and at 33 years of age, on Easter eve, 387, he was baptised.

Seven months after this great happiness, St. Monica died asking her son to "remember her at the altar of God." Augustine, become a priest, offered the Holy Sacrifice for her. "Lord, " he often said," have mercy on my mother; she was good, she pardoned easily, pardon her also her sins."

Made Bishop of Hippo, at the age of 41 (Alleluia, Communion), he began from that moment to live canonically, that is to say in common with his clerks†. This community gave bishops and priests to many churches, and thus the institute of St. Augustine spread little by little in Africa and more specially in Gaul. The rule of St. Augustine, which makes him one of the four great founders of religious orders, is drawn

* See Historical Summary p. 1010.

† The word canon, canonicus, derives from Kanon, in the sense of list of clerks attached to a church with a stipend for their subsistence. To live canonically was to live in common. Later on it meant to lead a regular life, under a rule.

from the 211th epistle which he wrote for nuns and which later on was adapted for men*.

Owing to the sublimity of his knowledge and the ardour of his love this Saint was also one of the four great doctors of the West.

He died in A.D. 430, after an episcopate of 36 years, reciting the Penitential Psalms.

Mass: In médio, p. 263, except:

Collect.—O Almighty God, listen, we beseech Thee, to our prayers; and do Thou, Who in Thy loving kindness, vouchsafest to us the assurance that we may at all times look forward to sharing in Thy tender mercies, deny not to us, for whom blessed Augustine, Thy confessor-bishop, makes intercession, the blessing that Thy pity unceasingly imparts. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Adésto supplicatiónibus nostris, omnípotens Deus: et, quibus fidúciam sperándae pietátis indúlges, intercedénte beáto Augustíno, Confessóre tuo atque Pontífice, consuétae misericórdiae tríbue benígnus efféctum. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of St. Hermes, from the Collects of the following Mass:

Gradual.—Ps. xxxvi. 30, 31.—The mouth of the just shall meditate wisdom, and his tongue shall speak judgment. ℣. The law of his God is in his heart: and his steps shall not be supplanted.

Graduále. — Os justi meditábitur sapiéntiam, et lingua ejus loquétur judícium. ℣. Lex Dei ejus in corde ipsíus: et non supplantabúntur gressus ejus.

Alleluia, alleluia.—℣. I have found David My servant: with My holy oil I have anointed him. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Invéni David servum meum, óleo sancto meo unxi eum. Allelúia.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Hermes, MARTYR.†—Red vestments.

"At Rome," says the Roman Martyrology, "triumph of St. Hermes, a very eminent personage, who, after having been some time in prison, was beheaded with several other saints under Judge Aurelian, as related in the acts of Pope St. Alexander (†about 133)."

* Two religious orders have come from the community established at Tagaste, the Canons Regular of St. Augustine and the Augustinians properly so-called or Hermits of St. Augustine. The Augustinians were very numerous in Italy, France and Spain, and were possessed of many convents; there were 2,000 in the 17th century of which 120 were in France. St. Peter Fourier and the Venerable Alice le Clerc in 1597 began the foundation of the Congregation of nuns of our Lady, canonesses regular of St. Augustine. This teaching congregation, very flourishing in Germany and in the east of France, possessed in Paris the colleges of Oiseaux, Roule and Abbaye au Bois.

† See Historical Summary, p. 1008.

Mass: Laetábitur, p. 225, except:

Orémus. — Deus, qui beátum Hermétem Mártyrem tuum virtúte constántiae in passióne roborásti: ex ejus nobis imitatióne tríbue; pro amóre tuo próspera mundi despícere, et nulla ejus advérsa formidáre. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who in his passion didst endue blessed Hermes, Thy martyr, with the virtue of fortitude: make us to imitate him, in neither setting store on any happiness which the world can give nor in fearing any earthly trouble. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Sacrifícium tibi, Dómine, laudis offérimus in tuórum commemoratióne Sanctórum: da, quaesumus; ut, quod illis cóntulit glóriam, nobis prosit ad salútem. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—In memory of Thy saints we offer up to Thee, O Lord, the sacrifice of praise: even as to them it was the source of glory without end, so to us may it be of avail unto salvation. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Repléti, Dómine, benedictióne coeléstí, quaesumus cleméntiam tuam: ut, intercedénte beáto Herméte Mártyre tuo, quae humíliter gérimus, salúbriter sentiámus. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Thou hast loaded us, O Lord, with heavenly blessings: most humbly we entreat of Thy mercy that, blessed Hermes, Thy martyr, interceding for us, Thou make us to feel how much we gain from these sacred mysteries in which we have humbly taken part. Through our Lord.

AUGUST 29.

The Beheading of St. John the Baptist.*—Greater-double.— Red vestments.

After having solemnised on June 24 the joyous birth of St. John the Baptist, the Church to-day honours his glorious birth in heaven. Excepting our Lord and the Blessed Virgin, he is the only saint whose birth is honoured. For St. John the Baptist holds in the worship of the Church the first rank after the Angels†.

John the Precursor who had passed thirty years in the desert where he had flourished like the palm-tree and grown like the cedar of Libanus (Gradual), had the courage openly to reproach Herod with the scandal of his illegitimate union with Herodias, his sister-in-law, whose husband Philip, was still alive (Introit, Epistle, Gospel). "It is against the law," he said to the king, "for you to take the wife of your brother." Herodias forced Herod to imprison him and used an unexpected opportunity to obtain through her daughter Salome the beheading of the Saint who thwarted her criminal passion.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1004. † See Introduction.

On this day St. John completes his mission, adding to the testimony he gave Christ at His baptism, the testimony of his martyrdom. He was put to death towards the feast of Easter, one year before the Passion of Jesus ; but the anniversary is solemnised on the day when his venerable head was found at Emesa, in Syria, in A.D. 453. It is related by ancient authors that on a winter's day, when Salome was dancing on a frozen river, the ice broke and, closing again, cut off the head of the immodest dancer.

MASS.

Introit. Ps. cxviii. 46, 47.—I spoke of Thy testimonies before kings, and I was not ashamed : I meditated also on Thy commandments, which I loved exceedingly. Ps. xci. 2. It is good to give praise to the Lord ; and to sing to Thy name, O Most High. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus. — Loquébar de testimóniis tuis in conspéctu regum, et non confundébar : et meditábar in mandátis tuis, quae diléxi nimis. Ps. Bonum est confitéri Dómino : et psállere nómini tuo, Altíssime. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—May the venerable festival of Saint John the Baptist, Thy forerunner and martyr, ensure for us, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the grant of Thy help for the saving of our souls : Who liveth and reigneth.

Orémus. — Sancti Joánnis Baptístae Praecursóris et Mártyris tui, quaesumus, Dómine, veneránda festívitas salutáris auxílii nobis praestet efféctum : Qui vivis.

Commemoration of St. Sabina, from the following Mass :

Epistle.—Jer. i. 17-19.—Lesson from Jeremias, the Prophet.—In those days : The word of the Lord came to me, saying, Gird up thy loins, and arise, and speak to Juda all that I command thee. Be not afraid in their presence ; for I will make thee not to fear their countenance. For behold I have made thee this day a fortified city, and a pillar of iron, and a wall of brass, over all the land, to the kings of Juda, to the princes thereof, and to the priests, and Epistóla. — Lectio Jeremiae Prophétae. — In diébus illis : Factum est verbum Dómini ad me, dicens : Accínge lumbos tuos, et surge, et lóquere ad Juda ómnia, quae ego praecípio tibi. Ne formídes a fácie eórum : nec enim timére te fáciam vultum eórum. Ego quippe dedi te hódie in civitátem munítam, et in colúmnam férream, et in murum aereum, super omnem terram, régibus Juda, princípibus ejus, et sacerdótibus, et pópulo terrae. Et bellábunt advérsum te, et non praevalébunt: quia ego tecum sum, ait Dóminus, ut líberem te.

to the people of the land. And they shall fight against thee, and shall not prevail: for I am with thee, saith the Lord, to deliver thee.

Graduále. — Justus ut palma florébit: sicut cedrus Líbani multiplicábitur in domo Dómini. ℣. Ad annuntiándum mane misericórdiam tuam, et veritátem tuam per noctem.

Gradual. Ps. xci. 13, 14.—The just shall flourish like the palm-tree; he shall grow up like the cedar of Libanus in the house of the Lord. ℣. To show forth Thy mercy in the morning, and Thy truth in the night.

Allelúia, alleluia. ℣. Justus germinábit sicut lílium: et florébit in aetérnum ante Dóminum. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Hos. xiv. 6.—The just shall spring as the lily, and flourish for ever before the Lord. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Marcum. — In illo témpore: Misit Heródes, ac ténuit Joánnem, et vinxit eum in cárcere propter Herodíadem uxórem Philíppi fratris sui, quia dúxerat eam. Dicébat enim Joannes Heródi: Non licet tibi habére uxorem fratris tui. Heródias autem insidiabátur illi, et volébat occídere eum, nec póterat. Heródes enim metuébat Joánnem, sciens eum virum justum et sanctum, et custodiébat eum, et audíto eo multa faciébat et libénter eum audiébat. Et cum dies opportúnus accidísset, Heródes natális sui caenam fecit princípibus, et tribúnis, et primis Galilaeae. Cumque introísset fília ipsíus Herodíadis, et saltásset et placuisset Heródi, simúlque recumbéntibus; rex ait puéllae: Pete a me quod vis, et dabo tibi. Et jurávit illi: Quia quidquid petíeris dabo tibi, licet dimídium regni mei.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Mark. vi. 17-29.—At that time: Herod sent and apprehended John, and bound him in prison for the sake of Herodias, the wife of Philip his brother, because he had married her. For John said to Herod, It is not lawful for thee to have thy brother's wife. Now Herodias laid snares for him, and was desirous to put him to death, and could not. For Herod feared John, knowing him to be a just and holy man, and kept him, and when he heard him did many things; and he heard him willingly. And when a convenient day was come, Herod made a supper for his birthday, for the princes, and tribunes, and chief men of Galilee. And when the daughter of the same Herodias had come in, and had danced, and pleased Herod and them that were at table with him, the king said to the damsel, Ask of me what you will, and I will give it thee. And he swore to her, whatsoever thou shalt ask, I will give thee; though it be the half of my kingdom. Who, when she was gone out, said to her mother, What shall I ask? But she said, the head of John the Baptist. And when she was come in immediately with haste to the king, she asked, saying, I will that forthwith thou give me in a dish the head of John the Baptist. And the king was struck sad; yet because of his oath, and because of them that were with him at table, he would not displease her; but sending an executioner he commanded that his head should be brought in a dish. And he beheaded him in the prison, and brought his head in a dish, and gave it to the damsel, and the damsel gave it to her mother. Which his disciples hearing, came, and took his body, and laid it in a tomb.

Quae cum exísset, dixit matri suae: Quid petam? At illa dixit: Caput Joánnis Baptístae. Cumque introísset statim cum festinatióne ad regem, petívit dicens: Volo ut prótinus des mihi in disco caput Joánnis Baptístae. Et contristátus est rex: propter jusjurándum, et propter simul discumbéntes nóluit eam contristáre: sed misso spiculatóre, praecépit afférri caput ejus in disco. Et decollávit eum in cárcere. Et áttulit caput ejus in dísco: et dedit illud puéllae, et puélla dedit matri suae. Quo audíto, discípuli ejus venérunt, et tulérunt corpus éjus: et posuérunt illud in monuménto.

Offertory.—Ps. xx. 2, 3.—In Thy strength, O Lord, the just man shall exult, and in Thy salvation he shall rejoice exceedingly: Thou hast given him his heart's desire.

Offertórium. — In virtúte tua, Dómine, laetábitur justus, et super salutáre tuum exsultábit veheménter: desidérium ánimae ejus tribuísti ei.

Secret.—We beseech Thee, O Lord, that the offerings which in memory of the passion of Thy holy martyr Saint John the Baptist, we lay before thee, may, in virtue of his prayers, profit us unto salvation. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Múnera, quae tibi, Dómine, pro sancti Mártyris tui Joánnis Baptístae passióne deférimus: quaesumus; ut ejus obténtu nobis profíciant ad salútem. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of St. Sabina, as in the following Mass:

Communion. Ps. xx. 4.—O Lord, Thou hast set on his head a crown of precious stones.

Commúnio. — Posuísti, Dómine, in cápite ejus corónam de lápide pretióso.

Postcommúnio. — Cónferat nobis, Dómine, sancti Joánnis Baptístae solémnitas: ut et magnífica sacraménta, quae súmpsimus, significáta venerémur, et in nobis pótius édita gaudéamus. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — May the festival of St. John the Baptist bring us grace, O Lord, both to venerate what is signified by the splendid sacraments which we have received and to rejoice at what they have wrought within us. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of St. Sabina as in the following Mass.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Sabina, MARTYR.*—Red vestments.

"At Rome," says the Roman Martyrology, "the birth in heaven of St. Sabina, martyr, who was struck by the sword under the Emperor Hadrian and won the palm of martyrdom (126)."

Mass: Me exspectavérunt, p. 300, except:

Orémus. — Deus, qui inter cétera poténtiae tuae mirácula étiam in sexu frágili victóriam martyrii contulísti: concéde propítius; ut, qui beátae Sabínae Mártyris tuae natalítia cólimus, per ejus ad te exémpla gradiámur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who amongst the marvels of Thy mighty power hast granted the triumph of martyrdom even to weak women; grant in Thy mercy that we who keep the birthday of blessed Sabina, Thy virgin and martyr, may, by her example, advance nearer to Thee. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Hóstias tibi, Dómine, beátae Sabínae Mártyris tuae dicátas méritis, benígnus ássume: et ad perpétuum nobis tríbue proveníre subsídium. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—In Thy bounty receive, O Lord, the victims which we set apart for Thee by the merits of blessed Sabina, Thy virgin and martyr; and grant that they may help us for evermore. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Divíni múneris largitáte satiáti, quaesumus, Dómine Deus noster: ut, intercedénte beáta Sabína Mártyre tua, in ejus semper participatióne vivámus. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — We who have taken our fill from the gifts of Thy bounty, beseech Thee, O Lord our God, that through the intercession of blessed Sabina, Thy virgin and martyr, we may partake thereof for evermore. Through our Lord.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008.

AUGUST 30.

St. Rose of Lima, VIRGIN.*—Double.—White vestments.

One hundred years after the discovery of the New World, was born at Lima, the capital of Peru, the virgin Rose, the first flower of sanctity which bloomed in South America. The name was given to her because one day the face of the child appeared marvellously transfigured and with all the beauty of a rose. She added to it the name of the Blessed Virgin, wishing thenceforth to be called Rose of St. Mary.

Watered with the divine dew of grace, she produced beautiful blooms of virginity and patience (Collect). When five years old she made the vow of perpetual virginity, taking Jesus for her spouse (Epistle). Later, to avoid being obliged to marry she cut off her beautiful hair.

Having received the habit of a Tertiary of the Order of St. Dominic, she gave herself up to prayer and austere mortification. When she was 30, on August 29, 1617, her divine Spouse came to fetch her (Gospel, Communion), and adorned with her radiant beauty she entered triumphant into the court of the heavenly King (Gradual, Alleluia).

Mass: Dilexísti, p. 291, except:

Collect.—Almighty God, the giver of every good gift, Who, presenting blessed Rose with the dew of heavenly grace, wast pleased to cause her to blossom in the Indies as a lovely flower of purity and patience: grant to us, Thy servants, so to run in the odour of her sweetness, that we too may deserve to become a sweet odour to Christ.

Orémus. — Bonórum ómnium largítor, omnípotens Deus, qui beátam Rosam, coeléstis grátiae rore praevéntam, virginitátis et patiéntiae decóre Indis floréscere voluísti: da nobis fámulis tuis; ut in odórem suavitátis ejus curréntes, Christi bonus odor effici mereámur: qui tecum.

Commemoration of SS. Felix and Adauctus as in the following Mass.

THE SAME DAY.

SS. Felix and Adauctus, MARTYRS.†—Red vestments.

"At Rome," says the Roman Martyrology, "on the Ostian Way, the passion of blessed Felix, priest, under the Emperors Diocletian and Maximian. After being tortured on the rack and condemned to death, while he was led to the place of execution, he met a Christian who publicly confessed his faith and was beheaded with him. The faithful, ignorant of his name, called him Adauctus, which means added, because he shared the triumph of St. Felix († about 300)."

MASS.

Introit. Ecclus. xliv. 15, 14.—Let the people show forth the wisdom of the Saints, and the church declare their praise; and their names shall live unto

Introítus. — Sapiéntiam sanctórum narrent pópuli, et laudes eórum núntiet ecclésia: nómina autem eórum vivent in saeculum saeculi. Ps. Exsul-táte justi in Dómino: rectos decet collaudátio. ℣. Glória Patri.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1016. † Ibid. p. 1009.

generation and generation. Ps. xxxii. 1. Rejoice in the Lord, ye just: praise becometh the upright. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Majestátem tuam, Dómine, súpplices exorámus: ut, sicut nos júgiter Sanctórum tuórum commemoratióne laetíficas; ita semper supplicatióne defféndas. Per Dóminum.

Collect. — Most humbly, O Lord, we entreat, of Thy Majesty, that at no time Thou suffer us to lack the sure defence of the prayers of Thy Saints, since always Thou summonest us to keep, with holy rejoicings, their festival days. Through our Lord.

Epistóla. — Léctio libri Sapiéntiae.–Reddidit Deus justis mercédem labórum suórum, et dedúxit illos in via mirábili: et fuit illis in velaménto diéi, et in luce stellárum per noctem: tránstulit illos per mare rubrum, et transvéxit illos per aquam nímiam. Inimícos autem illórum demérsit in mare, et ab altitúdine inferórum edúxit illos. Ideo justi tulérunt spólia impiórum, et decantavérunt, Dómine, nomen sanctum tuum, et victrícem manum tuam laudavérunt páriter, Dómine Deus noster.

Epistle.—Wisdom x. 17-20.—Lesson from the Book of Wisdom.—God has rendered to the just the wages of their labours, and conducted them in a wonderful way: and was to them for a covert by day, and for the light of stars by night. And he brought them through the Red Sea, and carried them over through a great water. But their enemies He drowned in the sea, and from the depth of hell has brought them out. Therefore the just took the spoils of the wicked. And they sung to Thy holy name, O Lord and they praised with one accord Thy victorious hand, O Lord our God.

Graduále. — Justórum ánimae in manu Dei sunt et non tanget illos torméntum malítiae. ℣. Visi sunt óculis insipiéntium mori: illi autem sunt in pace.

Gradual. Wisd. iii. 1, 2, 3.—The souls of the just are in the hand of God, and the torment of death shall not touch them. ℣. In the sight of men they seemed to die, but they are in peace.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Fulgébunt justi, et tamquam scintíllae in arundinéto discúrrent in aetérnum. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Wisd. iii. 7. —℣. The just shall shine, and shall run to and fro like sparks among the reeds. Alleluia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke. x. 16-20.—AT that time, Jesus said to His disciples: He that heareth you, heareth Me; and he that despiseth you, despiseth Me; and he that despiseth Me, despiseth Him that sent Me. And the seventy-two returned with joy, saying: Lord, the devils also are subject to us in Thy name. And He said to them: I saw Satan like lightening falling from heaven. Behold, I have given you power to tread upon serpents and scorpions, and upon all the power of the enemy: and nothing shall hurt you. But yet rejoice not in this, that spirits are subject unto you; but rejoice in this, that your names are written in heaven.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam. — IN illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Qui vos audit, me audit, et qui vos spernit, me spernit. Qui autem me spernit, spernit eum, qui misit me. Revérsi sunt autem septuagínta duo cum gáudio, dicéntes: Dómine, étiam daemónia subjíciúntur nobis in nómine tuo. Et ait illis: Vidébam sátanam sicut fulgur de coelo cadéntem. Ecce dedi vobis potestátem calcándi supra serpéntes, et scorpiónes, et super omnem virtútem inimíci: et nihil vobis nocébit. Verúmtamen in hoc nolíte gaudére quia spíritus vobis subjiciúntur: gaudéte autem, quod nómina vestra scripta sunt in coelis.

Offertory. Ps. xxxi. 11.—Be glad, O ye just, and rejoice in the Lord; and be joyful all ye that are right of heart.

Offertórium.— Laetámini in Dómino, et exsultáte justi: et gloriámini omnes recti corde.

Secret.—Look down, O Lord, upon the sacrifice which Thy people offer to Thee; and while they celebrate it in honour of saints, may they know that it avails to their own salvation. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Hóstias, Dómine, tuae plebis inténde: et, quas in honóre Sanctórum tuórum devóta mente célebrat, profícere sibi séntiat ad salútem. Per Dóminum.

Communion.—That which I tell you in the dark, speak ye in the light: and that which you hear in the ear, preach ye upon the house-tops.

Commúnio. — Quod díco vobis in ténebris, dícite in lúmine, dicit Dóminus: et quod in aure audítis, praedicáte super tecta.

Postcommunion.—We who are filled with gifts from heaven, beseech Thee, O Lord, that through the intercession of Thy Postcommúnio. — Repléti, Dómine, munéribus sacris: quaesumus; ut, intercedéntibus Sanctis tuis, in gratiárum semper actióne maneámus. Per Dóminum.

Saints we may never cease to offer thanks to Thee. Through our Lord.

AUGUST 31.

St. Raymund Nonnatus, CONFESSOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

The Church solemnised on January 23 and 31, the feasts of St. Raymund of Pennafort and St. Peter Nolasco, who founded the Order of our Lady of Mercy. She honours to-day St. Raymund Nonnatus, who was one of its glories. On September 24, she will celebrate the apparition of Mary herself, who was the foundress of this religious family.

St. Raymund had never known his mother of whom he was prematurely deprived by death. He implored the Virgin to adopt him as her son. Mary herself one day revealed to him that to please her he was to devote himself to the ransoming of captives (Collect). He immediately renounced worldly riches, and determined only to use them to help his neighbour (Epistle), he enrolled himself in the Order of our Lady of Mercy and was sent to Africa with the mission to ransom Christians who had fallen into the hands of the Mahommedans. He delivered a great many and gave himself up as a hostage so as not to expose to apostacy those who remained behind, unransomed. His mouth was closed with a padlock which cruelly pierced his lips, and he was thrown into a narrow cell. He died in 1240.

Mass: Os justi, p. 270, except:

Orémus. — Deus, qui in liberándis fidélibus tuis ab impiórum captivitáte, beátum Raymúndum Confessórem tuum mirábilem effecísti: ejus nobis intercessióne concéde: ut, a peccatórum vínculis absolúti, quae tibi sunt plácita, líberis méntibus exsequámur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who didst bless holy Raymund, Thy confessor, with marvellous success in delivering Thy faithful held in bondage by the infidels: give ear to his prayers, and vouchsafe to us, together with freedom from the slavery of sin, the grace, readily to perform whatsoever we know to be pleasing to Thee. Through our Lord.

FEASTS OF SEPTEMBER.

SEPTEMBER 1.

St. Giles, ABBOT.*—Simple.—White vestments.

St. Giles, born at Athens, distributed all his patrimony to the poor and followed Jesus (Gospel). Several miracles having made him celebrated, he fled to Provence to get away from honours. He lived in prayer and meditation (Introit) in the depths of a vast forest, with no other food but roots and the milk of a tame hind. One day, when pursued by the hounds of King Theodoric, the animal took refuge in the grotto of the Saint who, while trying to protect her, had his hand pierced by an arrow. The king on his arrival urgently begged the Saint to consent to the building of a monastery on the spot. The holy hermit undertook its government and like Moses among the people of God (Epistle) he became the chief and lawgiver of a numerous monastic family which followed his leadership, his doctrine and his counsels (Communion).

* See Historical Summary, p. 1911.

The Abbey of St. Giles, a marvel of architecture, became one of the most frequented resorts of pilgrims in the Middle Ages, and a town sprung up there. The counts of Toulouse regarded it as an honour to bear this Saint's name. The ancient Missals place him among the "fourteen Auxiliary Saints"*. He was invoked in France, Spain, Italy, Belgium, Germany and England, where 146 churches were built in his honour. St. Giles died in the sixth century.

Mass: Os justi, p. 276.

Commemoration of the twelve brothers Martyrs from the Collects in the following Mass.

THE SAME DAY.

The Holy Twelve Brothers, MARTYRS.

Africans by birth, these Saints were martyred in various places in the third century under the Emperors Diocletian and Maximian.

Mass as on July 18, p. 1505, except:

Collect.—Be it ours, O Lord, to rejoice in the triumph of the Holy Brethren, Thy martyrs: to our faith may their victory win an increase of virtues, and may we be comforted by the knowledge that it has added so many saints to the number of our advocates. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Fratérna nos, Dómine, Mártyrum tuórum coróna laetíficet: quae et fídei nostrae praebeat increménta virtútum, et multíplici nos suffrágio consolétur. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—In honour of Thy holy martyrs, may we, O Lord, devoutly celebrate Thy mysteries: may our doing so be to us each time a new joy and a surer defence. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Mystéria tua, Dómine, pro sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum commemoratióne, devóta mente tractémus: quibus nobis et praesídium crescat, et gáudium. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—O Almighty God, to us, who in memory of Thy martyrs have received Postcommúnio, — Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, quorum memóriam sacra-

* See engraving, July 25.

méntí participatióne recólimus, fidem quoque proficiéndo sectémur. Per Dóminum.

Thy sacraments, vouchsafe, we beseech Thee, the grace, by emulating their faith, to advance in holiness. Through our Lord.

SEPTEMBER 2.

St. Stephen, KING AND CONFESSOR.*—Semi-double.—White vestments.

A descendant of those proud and terrible invaders, the Huns, Stephen was chosen by God to win over his subjects to Christ and His vicar.

He was given the baptismal name of Stephen, in consequence of his mother having a vision of the Martyr St. Stephen, who foretold her that he would convert Hungary, whose first king he became when the Pope had raised the country into a kingdom. Having married the sister of the Emperor St. Henry, he surrounded himself, to govern his kingdom, with men of tried holiness and prudence. He passed entire nights in the contemplation of heavenly things (Introit), practised the greatest austerities, and seconded by the queen, his pious spouse, gave abundan alms (Epistle) to widows, orphans, and churches.

The greatness of his zeal for the propagation of the faith justly won for him the title of Apostolic King or of Apostle of Hungary, and deservedly obtained for him from the Holy See the privilege, transmitted to his successors, to have the cross borne before him. He built a large basilica in honour of Mary, whom he proclaimed Patroness of Hungary. " His zeal in propagating and strengthening the faith in his kingdom earned for him the glory of a heavenly crown " (Postcommunion). He died in 1038 on the " Day of the Great Lady," as the feast of the Assumption was called by the Hungarians, in virtue of an edict of the holy king.

Mass: Os justi, p. 270, except:

Orémus. — Concéde, quaesumus, Ecclésiae tuae, omnípotens Deus: ut beátum Stéphanum Confessórem tuum, quem regnántem in terris propagatórem hábuit, propugnatórem habére mereátur gloriósum in coelis. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O Almighty God, whose Church, whilst he ruled upon earth, possessed in blessed Stephen, Thy confessor, a strenuous upholder: grant that she yet find in him, now gloriously reigning in heaven, a yet mightier defender. Through our Lord.

Gospel: Homo quidam, p. 1610.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1012.

Secret.—Graciously look down, O Lord, on the victim we offer up: and by Thy grace, enable us who celebrate the mysteries of our Lord's passion, to imitate what therein is set forth. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Réspice, quas offérimus hóstias, omnípotens Deus: et praesta; ut, qui passiónis Domínicae mystéria celebrámus, imitémur quod ágimus. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Grant, we beseech Thee, Almighty God, that we may follow with due devotion the faith of blessed Stephen Thy confessor, who by spreading the same faith, became worthy to pass from an earthly realm to glory in the heavenly kingdom. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut beáti Stéphani Confessóris tui fidem cóngrua devotióne sectémur; qui pro ejúsdem fídei dilatatióne, de terréno regno ad coeléstis regni glóriam méruit perveníre. Per Dóminum.

SEPTEMBER 5.

St. Laurence Justinian, BISHOP, CONFESSOR.*—Semi-double. White vestments.

St. Laurence, born in Venice in the 15th century, of the illustrious family of Justiniani, preferred the severe austerities of the cloister to a glorious alliance arranged for him by his mother. Looking at a crucifix, he exclaimed: "It is Thou, O Lord, Who art my hope and in Thee is consolation and strength." He then entered among the Canons of St. George of Alga.

All his life, he practised the greatest austerity and it was chiefly in assiduous prayer that he was inflamed with ardent love for God and devotion to his neighbour. He was called by Eugenius IV. to share in the full power of Christ's priesthood.

He became bishop of Venice and died in 1455, saying: "I am going to Thee, O good Jesus."

Mass: Státuit, p. 255.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1014.

SEPTEMBER 8.

The Nativity of the Blessed Virgin Mary.*—Double of the Second Class.—White vestments.

This very ancient feast was already solemnised in the seventh century, and Pope Innocent IV., to fulfil the vow made by the Cardinals before the election of his predecessor, gave it an Octave at the first Council of Lyons in 1245. This date (September 8) served to fix that of the feast of the Immaculate Conception on December 8.

Mary is inseparable from Jesus in the divine plan, wherefore the liturgy applies to her what Holy Scripture says of the eternal wisdom which is the Word " by whom all was made "†. Like Christ, the Virgin presides over the whole work of creation, for having been chosen of all eternity to give us the Saviour, it is she, with her Son, whom God had chiefly in view when He created the world.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his parishioners.

FIRST VESPERS (SEPTEMBER 7).

First Psalm: Dixit Dóminus, p. 98. Second Psalm: Laudáte púeri, p. 102. Third Psalm: Laetátus sum, p. 128. Fourth Psalm: Nisi Dóminus, p. 129. Fifth Psalm: Lauda: Jerúsalem, p. 134

Ant. — 1. Natívitas gloriósa * Vírginis Maríae, ex sémine Abrahae, ortae de tribu Juda, clara ex stirpe David.

Ant. 1.—The Nativity of the blessed Virgin Mary, sprung from the seed of Abraham, from the tribe of Juda, and from the noble lineage of David.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1013. † The Gospel of St. John at the end of Mass.

2. To-day is the nativity of the holy Virgin Mary, whose glorious life is the ornament of all the Churches.

2. Natívitas est hódie * sanctae Maríae Vírginis, cujus vita ínclyta cunctas illústrat Ecclésias.

3. Sprung from a royal race, Mary shines forth to the world; devoutly we implore that by her prayers we may be helped in mind and spirit.

3. Regáli ex progénie * María exórta refúlget: cujus précibus nos adjuvári mente et spíritu devotíssime póscimus.

4. With heart and mind let us sing praises to Christ, on this sacred solemnity of Mary the peerless mother of God.

4. Corde et ánimo * Christo canámus glóriam, in hac sacra solemnitáte praecélsae Genitrícis Dei Maríae.

5. Let us celebrate with joy the nativity of the blessed Mary, that she may intercede for us to the Lord Jesus Christ.

5. Cum jucunditáte * Nativitátem beátae Maríae celebrémus, ut ipsa pro nobis intercédat ad Dóminum Jesum Christum.

Chapter and Hymn, p. 187.

℣. To-day is the nativity of the holy Virgin Mary.
℟. Whose glorious life is the ornament of all the Churches.

℣. Natívitas est hódie sanctae Maríae Vírginis. ℟. Cujus vita ínclyta cunctas illústrat Ecclésias.

Ant. at the Magnificat.—Let us keep the feast of the most noble nativity of the glorious Virgin Mary, who both attained to the dignity of a mother, and withal lost not her virgin purity.

Ant.—Gloriósae * Vírginis Maríae ortum digníssimum recolámus, quae et Genitrícis dignitátem obtínuit, et virginálem pudicítiam non amísit.

MASS.

Introit. Sedulius.—Hail holy Mother! giving birth to thy Child, thou didst bring forth the King, Who ruleth the heavens and the earth for ever and ever. Ps. xliv. 2. My heart hath uttered a good word: I speak my works to the King. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus. — Salve, sancta parens, eníxa puérpera regem: qui coelum terrámque regit in saecula saeculórum. Ps. Eructávit cor meum verbum bonum: dico ego ópera mea Regi. ℣. Glória Patri.

Orémus. — Fámulis tuis, quaesumus, Dómine, coeléstis grátiae munus impertíre: ut, quibus beátae Vírginis partus éxstitit salútis exórdium; Nativitátis ejus votíva solémnitas, pacis tríbuat increméntum. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Impart to Thy servants, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the gift of Thy heavenly grace: so that we, for whom the bringing forth of her divine Child by the Blessed Virgin was the beginning of salvation, may, on this the joyful festival of her nativity be blessed with an increase in peace of heart. Through our Lord.

In Private Masses a Commemoration is made of St. Hadrian: Praesta quaesumus, p. 222.

Epistóla. Léctio libri Sapiéntiae.—DOMINUS possédit me in inítio viárum suárum, ántequam quidquam fáceret a princípio. Ab aetérno ordináta sum, et ex antíquis, ántequam terra fíeret. Nondum erant abyssi, et ego jam concépta eram: necdum fontes aquárum erúperant: necdum montes gravi mole constíterant: ante colles ego parturiébar: adhuc terram non fécerat, et flúmina, et cárdines orbis terrae. Quando praeparábat coelos, áderam: quando certa lege et gyro vallábat abyssos: quando aethera firmábat sursum et librábat fontes aquárum: quando circúmdabat mari términum suum, et legem ponébat aquis, ne transírent fines suos: quando appendébat fundaménta terrae. Cum eo eram cuncta compónens: et delectábar per singulos dies, ludens coram eo omni témpore: ludens in orbe terrárum: et delíciae meae esse cum fíliis hóminum. Nunc ergo, fílii, audíte me: Beáti, qui custódiunt vias meas. Audíte disciplínam, et estóte sapiéntes, et Epistle. Lesson from the Book of Wisdom.—THE Lord possessed me in the beginning of His ways, before He made anything, from the beginning. I was set up from eternity, and of old, before the earth was made. The depths were not as yet, and I was already conceived; neither had the fountains of waters as yet sprung out; the mountains with their huge bulk had not as yet been established: before the hills I was brought forth; He had not yet made the earth, nor the rivers, nor the poles of the world. When He prepared the heavens, I was there; when with a certain law and compass He enclosed the depths; when He established the sky above, and poised the fountains of waters; when He compassed the sea with its bounds, and set a law to the waters that they should not pass their limits; when he balanced the foundations of the earth; I was with him, forming all things, and was delighted every day, playing before him at all times, playing in the world: and my delight is to be with the children of men. Now, therefore, ye children, hear me: blessed are they that keep my ways. Hear instruction, and be wise, and refuse it not. Blessed is the man that heareth me, and that watcheth daily at my gates, and waiteth at the posts of my doors. He that shall find me shall find life, and shall have salvation from the Lord.

nolíte abjícere eam. Beátus homo, qui audit me, et qui vígilat ad fores meas quotídie, et obsérvat ad postes óstii mei. Qui me invénerit, invéniet vitam et háuriet salútem a Dómino.

Gradual. — O Virgin Mary, blessed and venerable art thou: without blemish to thy maidenhood, thou didst become the Mother of the Saviour. ℣. O Virgin Mother of God, He whom the whole world availeth not to contain, being made man, shut up Himself within thy womb.

Graduále.—Benedícta et venerábilis es, Virgo Maria: quae sine tactu pudóris invénta es Mater Salvatóris. ℣. Virgo Dei Génitrix, quem totus non capit orbis, in tua se clausit víscera factus homo.

Alleluia, alleluia.— ℣. Happy indeed art thou, O Sacred Virgin, and of all high praise most worthy: for out of thee hath risen the sun of justice, Christ Who is our God. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Felix es, sacra Virgo María, et omni laude digníssima: quia ex te ortus est sol justítiae Christus Deus noster. Allelúia.

Gospel: Liber generatiónis, p. 1191.

The Creed is said.

Offertory.—Truly blessed art thou, O Virgin Mary: the Creator of all things thou didst bear; Him who made thee thou didst bring forth; and a virgin for evermore thou dost remain.

Offertórium. — Beáta es, Virgo María, quae ómnium portásti Creatórem: genuísti qui te fecit, et in aetérnum pérmanes Virgo.

Secret.—May all our hope of help, O Lord, ever be in the loving kindness of thine only-begotten Son. May He, Jesus Christ, our Lord, Who when born of a virgin took not from, but hallowed, his mother's virginity, on this festival-day of her

Secréta. — Unigéniti tui, Dómine, nobis succúrrat humánitas: ut, qui natus de Vírgine, matris integritátem non mínuit, sed sacrávit; Nativitátis ejus solémniis, nostris nos piáculis éxuens, oblatiónem nostram tibi fáciat accéptam Jesus

Christus Dóminus noster: Qui tecum.

Nativity, wash away from our souls all stain of sin, and make our offerings to find favour in Thy sight: Who liveth.

Preface of the Blessed Virgin Mary: Et te in Nativitáte, p. 56.
Commemoration of St. Hadrian: Munéribus, p. 225.

Commúnio.—Beáta víscera Maríae Vírginis quae portavérunt aetérni Patris Fílium.

Communion. — Blessed is the womb of the Virgin Mary, which bore the Son of the eternal Father.

Postcommúnio. — Súmpsimus, Dómine, celebritátis ánnuae votíva sacraménta: praesta quaesumus; ut et temporális vitae nobis remédia praebeant, et aetérnae. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Grant, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that Thy holy Sacraments, which we have received in celebration of this festival-day, may be for us both a healing remedy against all the ills of this life, and an earnest of happiness in that which is to come. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of St. Hadrian: Da quaesumus, p. 225.

Ant. — Natívitas tua * Dei Génitrix Virgo, gáudium annuntiávit univérso mundo: ex te enim ortus est Sol justítiae, Christus Deus noster: qui solvens maledictiónem, dedit benedictiónem, et confúndens mortem, donávit nobis vitam sempitérnam.

Ant. at the Magnificat.—Thy nativity, O Virgin Mother of God, was the herald of joy to the whole world; since from thee arose the Sun of Justice, Christ our God, Who, destroying the curse, bestowed the blessing, and, confounding death, gifted us with life everlasting.

Commemoration of St. Gorgonius: Antiphon Iste sanctus. ℣. Glória, p. 215.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Hadrian, MARTYR.—Red vestments.

" At Nicomedia," says the Roman Martryology, " St. Hadrian, martyr and twenty-three other Saints, who, after undergoing many torments had their legs crushed and thus ended their glorious fight under the Emperors Diocletian and Maximian, about A.D. 303. The body of St. Hadrian was later translated to Rome on the day when his feast is solemnised.

Mass: In virtúte, p. 222.

SEPTEMBER 9.

St. Gorgonius, MARTYR.—Simple.—Red vestments.

Gorgonius was born at Nicomedia. While an officer of Diocletian's household he converted to the faith of Christ, with the help of his colleague Dorothy, all the servants of the imperial palace. "To punish them for such audacity, they were hung up and their bodies lacerated by whips; then vinegar and salt were thrown on their uncovered entrails and they were strangled after having been roasted on a gridiron." They were put to death at Nicomedia in A.D. 303 at the same time as St. Theodore. Later, the body of St. Gorgonius was buried at Rome on the Latin Way, whence it was eventually translated to the basilica of St. Peter.

Mass: Laetábitur, p. 225, except:

Collect.—May our having invoked holy Gorgonius, Thy Saint, be to us a cause of joy, O Lord, and cause us gladly to welcome his kindly festival. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Sanctus tuus, Dómine, Gorgónius sua nos intercessióne laetíficet: et pia fáciat solemnitáte gaudére. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—May the holy Martyr Gorgonius, O Lord, plead with Thee on our behalf, and may the offerings of Thy servants thus find favour in Thy sight. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Grata tibi sit, Dómine, nostrae servitútis oblátio: pro qua sanctus Gorgónius Martyr intervéntor exsístat. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — May that sweetness, which faileth not, descend upon and quicken Thine household, O Lord: and in Thy martyr Gorgonius, may it ever be refreshed by the good odour of Christ, Thy Son: Who liveth and reigneth.

Postcommúnio. — Famíliam tuam, Deus, suávitas aetérna contíngat et végetat: quae in Mártyre tuo Gorgónio Christi Fílii tui bono júgiter odóre pascátur: Qui tecum.

SEPTEMBER 10.

St. Nicholas of Tolentino.*—Double.—White vestments.

Nicholas, called of Tolentino, on account of his long sojourn at this place, received the baptismal name of the holy bishop of Bari, because he was born after a pilgrimage made by his parents to the tomb of the great miracle-worker.

Following the example of his holy Patron, although only seven years old, he fasted several times a week. Listening one day to a sermon by a preacher of the Order of Hermits of St. Augustine, on contempt of the world, he determined to give up all he possessed (Gospel) and to enter that Order. He is represented holding a lily, because he was always a model of innocence and purity. He died in 1340.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1013.

Mass: Justus, p. 273.

SEPTEMBER 11.

SS. Protus and Hyacinth, MARTYRS.*—Simple.—Red vestments.

After having been cruelly scourged, these two brothers were beheaded and took their places in the army of Martyrs (Alleluia). This was at Rome about A.D. 260 under Valerian and Gallian.

Mass: Salus autem, p. 238, except:

Orémus. — Beatórum Mártyrum tuórum Proti et Hyacínthi nos, Dómine, fóveat pretiósa conféssio: et pia júgiter intercéssio tueátur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Lord, let the glorious martyrdom of Thy blessed martyrs Protus and Hyacinth strengthen us, and let their loving intercession continually shield us. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Pro sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Proti et Hyacínthi commemoratióne, múnera tibi, Dómine, quae debémus, exsólvimus: praesta, quaesumus; ut remédium nobis perpétuae salútis operéntur. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—We present to Thee, O Lord, the offerings which we owe to Thee in memory of Thy holy martyrs Protus and Hyacinth; grant, we beseech Thee, that they may work within us healing and salvation for evermore. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Ut percépta nos, Dómine, tua sancta puríficent: beatórum Mártyrum tuórum Proti et Hyacínthi, quaesumus, implóret orátio. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — May Thy holy gifts which we have received, cleanse us, O Lord, we beseech Thee, through the prayers of Thy blessed martyrs, Protus and Hyacinth.. Through our Lord.

SEPTEMBER 12.

The Most Holy Name of Mary.—Greater double.—White vestments.

Just as a few days after Christmas we celebrate the Holy Name of Jesus, so, after the Nativity of Mary we glorify her Holy Name. Eight days after the birth of the Virgin, according to the custom of the Jews, her holy Parents inspired by God, say St. Jerome and St. Antoninus, gave her the name of Mary. Wherefore, during the Octave of the Nativity, the liturgy gives a feast in honour of this holy name.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008.

Spain, with the approval of Rome, in 1513, was the first to celebrate it, and in 1683 it was extended to the whole Church by Innocent XI. to thank Mary for the victory which John Sobieski, King of Poland, had just gained against the Turks who beseiged Vienna and threatened the West.

"The name of the Virgin," says the Gospel, "was Mary." The Hebrew name of Mary, in Latin Domina, means Lady or Sovereign; for the authority of her son, Lord of the world, makes her a Sovereign from her birth in fact as well as in name.* Whence, as we call Jesus our Lord, we say of Mary that she is our Lady. To pronounce her name, is to affirm her omnipotence.

Let us offer the Holy Sacrifice to God to honour the most holy Name of Mary and to obtain by her intercession her continual protection (Postcommunion).

MASS.

Introit. Ps. xliv. 13, 15, 16.—All the rich among the people shall entreat thy countenance: after her shall virgins be brought to the King; her neighbours shall be brought to Thee in gladness and rejoicing. Ps. Ibid. 2. My heart hath uttered a good word: I speak my works to the King. ℣. Glory be to the Father

Intróitus. — Vultum tuum deprecabúntur omnes dívites plebis: adducéntur regi vírgines post eam: próximae ejus adducéntur tibi in laetítia et exsultatióne. Ps. Eructávit cor meum verbum bonum: dico ego ópera mea Regi. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—To Thy faithful people, rejoicing in the name and protection of the most holy Virgin Mary, vouchsafe, O Almighty God, we beseech Thee, on earth to be delivered from all evils, and in heaven to be accounted worthy to enter into everlasting happiness. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Concéde, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut fidéles tui, qui sub sanctíssimae Vírginis Maríae nómine et protectióne laetántur; ejus pia intercessióne, a cunctis malis liberéntur in terris et ad gáudia aetérna pervenire mereántur in coelis. Per Dóminum.

Epistle: Ego quasi vitis, p. 1500.

Gradual.—O Virgin Mary, blessed and venerable art thou; without blemish to thy maidenhood, thou didst become the Mother of the Saviour. ℣. O Virgin, Mother of God, He whom the whole world availeth not to contain, being made man, shut Himself up within thy womb.

Graduále. — Benedícta et venerábilis es, Virgo María: quae sine tactu pudóris, invénta es Mater Salvatóris. ℣. Virgo Dei Génitrix, quem totus non capit orbis, in tua se clausit víscera factus homo.

* Eighth Lesson at Matins.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Post partum, Virgo, invioláta permansísti: Dei Génitrix, intercéde pro nobis. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia.— ℣. Happy indeed art thou, O sacred Virgin, and of all high praise most worthy: for out of thee hath risen the sun of justice, Christ Who is our God. Alleluia.

Gospel: Missus est, p. 193.

Offertórium. — Ave, María, grátia plena: Dóminus tecum: benedícta tu in muliéribus, et benedíctus fructus ventris tui.

Offertory. Luke i. 28, 42.— Hail, Mary, full of grace, the Lord is with thee; blessed art thou among women, and blessed is the fruit of thy womb.

Secréta. — Tua, Dómine, propitiatióne, et beátae Maríae semper Vírginis intercessióne, ad perpétuam atque praeséntem haec oblátio nobis profíciat prosperitátem et pacem. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Through Thine indulgent mercy, O Lord, and through the prayers of blessed Mary ever a virgin, may this oblation avail us now and always to the ensuring of our prosperity and peace. Through our Lord.

Preface of the Blessed Virgin Mary: Et te in Festivitáte, p. 56.

Commúnio. — Beáta víscera Maríae Vírginis quae portavérunt aetérni Patris Fílium.

Communion. — Blessed is the womb of the virgin Mary, which bore the Son of the eternal Father.

Postcommúnio. — Sumptis, Dómine, salútis nostrae subsídiis: da, quaesumus, beátae Maríae semper Vírginis patrocíniis nos ubíque prótegi; in cujus veneratióne haec tuae obtúlimus majestáti. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Give unto us, O Lord, who have received these helps to salvation, to find, wheresoever we may be, a sure defence in the patronage of blessed Mary ever a virgin: for it is in honour of her that we have made our offerings to Thy divine majesty. Through our Lord.

SEPTEMBER 14.

The Exaltation of the Holy Cross.*—Greater-double.—Red vestments.

On September 14, in 335, took place the dedication of Constantine's basilica which enclosure contained both Calvary and the Holy Sepulchre. "At this date," says Etheria, "the cross was discovered. And the anniversary is celebrated with as much solemnity as Easter or the Epiphany." Such was the origin of the feast of the Exaltation of the Cross. "When I shall be raised on high, I shall draw everything unto Me" (Gospel), Jesus had said. It is because the Saviour humbled Himself, being obedient even to the death of the cross, that God exalted Him and gave Him a name above all other names (Epistle). Wherefore we must glory in the cross of Jesus, for He is our life and our salvation (Introit) and He protects His servants against the wiles of their enemies (Offertory, Communion, Postcommunion).

Towards the end of the reign of Phocas, Chosroes, King of Persia, says the legend of the Breviary, took Jerusalem, where he put to death several thousand Christians and carried off to Persia the Cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, which Helen had deposited on Mount Calvary.

Heraclius, the successor of Phocas, had recourse to many fasts and prayers, imploring with great fervour the help of God. He assembled an army and defeated Chosroes. He then insisted on the restitution of the cross of the Lord. Thus was recovered the precious relic after an interval of fourteen years. On his return to Jerusalem, Heraclius carried it on his shoulders in great pomp to the mountain where the Saviour Himself had borne it.

An extraordinary miracle marked the occasion. Heraclius who was loaded with ornaments of gold and precious stones was held back by an invincible force at the entrance gate of Mount Calvary, in vain were his efforts to enter.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009.

As the Emperor and all those who witnessed the scene were astounded, Zacharias, Bishop of Jerusalem, said to him: "Consider, O Emperor, that with these triumphal ornaments you are far from imitating the poverty of Jesus Christ and His humility in bearing His Cross." Heraclius thereupon doffed his splendid garb and walked barefooted with a common cloak on his shoulders, to Calvary, where he again deposited the Cross. The feast of the exaltation of the holy Cross on the original spot, the anniversary of which was celebrated on this day, became of great importance.

Let us join, in spirit, the faithful who in the Church of Holy Cross at Rome venerate on this day the relics of the sacred wood exposed for the occasion, so that, having been privileged to adore it on this feast when we rejoice for its exaltation, we may likewise possess for all eternity the salvation and glory the Cross has won for us. (Collect, Secret.)

MASS.

Intróitus. — Nos autem gloriári opórtet in Cruce Dómini nostri Jesu Christí: in quo est salus, vita, et resurréctio nostra: per quem salváti, et liberáti sumus, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. Deus misereátur nostri, et benedícat nobis: illúminet vultum suum super nos, et misereátur nostri. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Gal. vi. 14.—But it behoves us to glory in the cross of our Lord, Jesus Christ: in Whom is our salvation, life, and resurrection; by Whom we are saved and delivered. Ps. lxvi. 2. May God have mercy on us, and bless us; may He cause the light of His countenance to shine upon us, and may He have mercy on us. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui nos hodiérna die Exaltatiónis sanctae Crucis ánnua solemnitáte laetíficas: praesta, quaesumus; ut, cujus mystérium in terra cognóvimus, ejus redemptiónis praemia in coelo mereámur. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Collect.—O God Who, year by year, dost gladden us by the return of the feast of the exaltation of the holy Cross: we beseech Thee, grant unto us, to whom on earth Thou hast revealed its mystery, to be found worthy to enjoy in heaven the happiness it has purchased for us. Through the same.

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Philippénses. — Fratres: Hoc enim sentíte in vobis, quod et in Christo Jesu: qui cum in forma Dei esset, non rapínam arbitrátus est esse se aequálem Deo: sed semetípsum

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Philippians. ii.5-11.—Brethren, Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus; Who being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God; but made Himself as nothing, taking the form of a servant, being made in the likeness of men, and in habit found as a man. He humbled Himself, becoming obedient unto death, even the death of the cross. For which cause God also hath exalted Him, and hath given Him a name which is above all names: (here all kneel) that in the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of those that are in heaven, on earth, and under the earth; and that every tongue should confess that the Lord Jesus Christ is in the glory of God the Father.

exínanívit formam servi accípiens, in similitúdinem hóminum factus, et hábitu invéntus ut homo. Humiliávit semetípsum, factus obédiens usque ad mortem, mortem autem crucis. Propter quod et Deus exaltávit illum: et donávit illi nomen, quod est super omne nomen: (Here all kneel) ut in nómine Jesu omne genu flectátur coeléstium, terréstrium, et infernórum: et omnis língua confitéatur, quia Dóminus Jesus Christus in glória est Dei Patris.

Gradual. Phil. ii. 8, 9.—Christ became obedient for us unto death: even the death of the cross. ℣. Wherefore God also hath exalted Him, and hath given Him a name which is above every name.

Graduále. — Christus factus est pro nobis obédiens usque ad mortem, mortem autem crucis. ℣. Propter quod et Deus exaltávit illum, et dedit illi nomen, quod est super omne nomen.

Alleluia, alleluia.—℣. Sweet the wood, sweet the nails, sweet the load that hangs thereon: to bear up the King and Lord of heaven nought was worthy save Thou, O Holy Cross. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Dulce lignum, dulces clavos, dúlcia ferens póndera: quae sola fuísti digna sustinére Regem coelórum, et Dóminum. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John xii. 31-36.—At that time: Jesus said to the multitudes of the Jews, Now is the judgment of the world: now shall the prince of this world be cast out. And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all things to Myself. (Now this He said, signifying what death He should die.) The multitude answered Him, We have heard out of the ✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem. — In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus turbis Judaeórum: Nunc judícium est mundi: nunc princeps hujus mundi ejiciétur foras. Et ego si exaltátus fúero a terra, ómnia traham ad meípsum. (Hoc autem dicébat, signíficans qua morte esset moritúrus.) Respóndit ei turba: Nos audívimus ex lege, qúia Christus manet in aetérnum: et quómodo tu dicis: Opórtet exaltári Fílium hóminis? Quis est iste Fílius hóminis? Dixit ergo eis Jesus: Adhuc módicum lumen in vobis est. Ambuláte dum lucem habétis, ut non vos ténebrae comprehéndant: et qui ámbulat in ténebris, nescit quo vadat. Dum lucem habétis, crédite in lucem, ut fílii lucis sitis.—Credo.

law, that Christ abideth for ever: and how sayest Thou, The Son of man must be lifted up? Who is the Son of man? Jesus therefore said to them, Yet a little while, the light is among you. Walk whilst you have the light, that the darkness overtake you not. And he that walketh in darkness knoweth not whither he goeth. Whilst you have the light, believe in the light; that you may be the children of light.—Credo.

Offertórium.— Prótege, Dómine, plebem tuam per signum sanctae Crucis, ab insídiis inimicórum ómnium: ut tibi gratam exhibeámus servitútem, et acceptábile fiat sacrifícium nostrum. Allelúia.

Offertory. — By the sign of the holy Cross, protect us, O Lord, from the craft of every foe: that so our ministry be acceptable and our sacrifice well-pleasing in Thy sight. Alleluia.

Secréta. — Jesu Christi Dómini nostri córpore et sánguine saginándi, per quem Crucis est sanctificátum vexíllum: quaesumus, Dómine Deus noster; ut, sicut illud adoráre merúimus, ita perénniter ejus glóriae salutáris potiámur efféctu. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Secret.—We are now, O Lord our God, about to be filled with bread from heaven, the very body and blood of our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom the banner of the holy cross was hallowed: grant, we beseech Thee, that since we have been found worthy to worship that same holy cross, it may be ours to enjoy for evermore the glorious salvation it has won for us. Through the same.

Preface of the Holy Cross, p. 53.

Commúnio. — Per signum Crucis de inimícis nostris líbera nos, Deus noster.

Communion. — By the sign of the cross deliver us from our enemies, O Thou Who art our God.

Postcommúnio. — Adésto nobis, Dómine Deus noster: et quos sanctae Crucis laetári facis honóre, ejus quoque perpétuis defénde subsídiis. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Be Thou with us, O Lord, our God: and defend with Thine abiding help, those whom Thou inspirest joyfully to do honour to Thy holy cross. Through our Lord.

SEPTEMBER 15.

The Seven Sorrows of the Blessed Virgin Mary.*—Double of the Second Class.—White vestments.

Mary stood at the foot of the Cross where Jesus was hanging (Introit, Gradual, Alleluia, Sequence, Gospel) and, as Simeon had prophesied (Collect), a sword of sorrow pierced her soul (Secret). Powerless, "she saw her sweet child desolate in the anguish of death, and she receives His last breath" (Sequence). The compassion which her maternal heart feels at the foot of the Cross obtained for her as its reward the palm of martyrdom without death (Communion).

This feast was celebrated with great solemnity by the Servites in the 17th century. In 1817 it was extended by Pius VII. to the whole Church so as to recall the sufferings she had undergone in the person of her exiled and captive head, delivered by the protection of the Blessed Virgin. Just as the first feast of the Sorrows of Mary, in the Passiontide, shows us how she had her share in the sacrifice of Jesus, the second feast, in the Season after Pentecost, tells us of all the compassion which the Mother of the Saviour feels for the Church, the spouse of Jesus who is crucified in her turn and whose devotion to the Sorrows of Mary increases in these calamitous times. His Holiness Pius X. in 1908 raised this feast to the rank of a solemnity of the 2nd class.

FIRST VESPERS.

First Psalm, Dixit Dóminus, p. 98. Second Psalm, Laudáte púeri, p. 102. Third Psalm, Laetátus sum, p. 128. Fourth Psalm, Nisi Dóminus, p. 129. Fifth Psalm, Laúda Jerúsalem, p. 134.

Ant. Song of Sol. v. 17.—1. Whither hath thy beloved gone, O fairest of women? Whither is thy beloved turned aside? We will seek Him with thee.

Ant. — 1. Quo ábiit * diléctus tuus, o pulchérrima mulíerum? Quo declinávit diléctus tuus, et quaerémus eum tecum?

* See Historical Summary, p. 1017.

2. Recédite a me, * amáre flebo, nolíte incúmbere ut consolémini me.

3. Non est ei * spécies, neque decor, et vídimus eum, et non erat aspéctus.

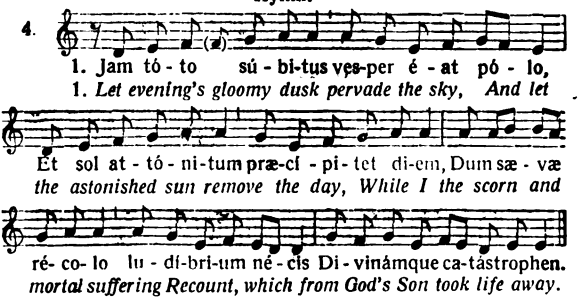
4. A planta pedis * usque ad vérticem cápitis non est in eo sánitas.

5. Fulcíte me flóribus, * stipáte me malis, quia amóre lángueo.

Capitulum. — Cui comparábo te? vel cui assimilábo te fília Jerúsalem? cui exaequábo te, et consolábor te virgo fília Sion? Magna est velut mare contrítio tua.

2. Isa. xxii. 4. Depart from me, I will weep bitterly; come not nigh me to comfort me.

3. Ibid. liii. 2. He hath neither form nor comeliness; we looked upon Him, and there was no beauty in Him.



4. From the sole of the foot even to the crown of the head there is no whole part in Him.

5. Stay me up with flowers, compass me about with apples, for I languish with love.

Chapter.—To what shall I compare thee, unto what shall I liken thee, O daughter of Jerusalem? what shall I equal to thee, and with what shall I comfort thee, O Virgin daughter of Sion, for great as the sea is thy destruction.

Hymn.

4.

2. Spectátrix áderas supplício Parens,
Malis úda, gérens cor adamántinum:
Nátus funérea pendulus in crúce
Altos dum gémitus daret.

2. Ah, Mother! thou didst then with weeping eyes,
But heart unconquered, that dread night behold,
The while thy Son upon the fatal cross
Moaned, as He hung, in agonies untold.

3. Thy Son before thine eyes hung there, His Flesh All torn with scourgings numerous and fierce, His Body was one mass of gaping wounds; How many cruel swords thy soul did pierce!	3. Pendens ante óculos Natus, atrócibus Sectus verbéribus, Natus hiántibus, Fossus, vulnéribus, quot penetrántibus, Te confíxit acúleis.
4. Ah! how did spittings, blows, and stripes, and wounds, And gall and aloes, nails and sponge, and lance, And thirst, and thorny crown, and bleeding dire, The anguish of Thy loving soul enhance!	4. Heu! spúta, álapae, vérbera, vúlnera, Clavi, fel, áloe, spóngia, láncea, Sitis, spina, cruor quem vária pium Cor pressére tyránnide.
5. Meanwhile there stands the Virgin, grander far Than martyrs all; by a new prodigy, Thou, Mother, dying in so many ways, Pierced by such dreadful sorrows, didst not die.	5. Cúnctis intérea stat generósior Virgo martyribus: prodígio novo, In tantis móriens non móreris, Parens, Diris fixa dolóribus.
6 Be glory, praise and honour to the Trinity Supreme, from Whom, with earnest suppliant prayer, I beg strength like the Virgin's, that I may To cope with difficulties bravely dare. Amen.	6. Sit summa Triádi glória, laus, honor, A qua supplíciter sollicíta préce, Posco virgínei róboris aemulas Vires rébus in ásperis. Amen.

℣. Queen of martyrs, pray for us. ℟. Who didst stand by the cross of Christ.

℣. Regína Mártyrum, ora pro nobis. ℟. Quae juxta crucem Jesu constitísti.

Ant. at the Magnificat.—Think not against me that I am black, for the sun hath discoloured me. My mother's children have fought against me.

Ant. — Nolíte * me consideráre, quod fusca sim, quia decolorávit me sol, fílii matris meae pugnavérunt contra me.

Collect, p. 1643. Commem. of the Exaltation of the Holy Cross.

Ant. — O Crux benedícta, quae sola fuísti digna portáre Regem coelórum et Dóminum, allelúia.

℣. Hoc signum Crucis erit in coelo. ℟. Cum Dóminus ad judicándum vénerit.

Ant. at the Magnificat.—O blessed Cross, which alone wast found worthy to bear the Lord, the King of heaven. Alleluia.

℣. This sign of the cross shall be in heaven. ℟. When the Lord shall come to judgment.

Collect : Deus qui, as at Mass.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Stabant juxta crucem Jesu mater ejus, et soror matris ejus María Cléophae, et Salóme, et María Magdaléne. ℣. Múlier, ecce fílius tuus : dixit Jesus ; ad discípulum autem : Ecce mater tua.

℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. John xix. 25.—There stood by the cross of Jesus, His mother, and His mother's sister Mary of Cleophas, and Salome and Mary Magdalen. Ibid. 26, 27 ℣. Woman, behold thy son, said Jesus ; to the disciple however, Behold thy mother.

℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, in cujus passióne, secúndum Simeónis prophetíam, dulcíssimam ánimam gloriósae Vírginis et Matris Maríae dolóris gládius pertransívit : concéde propítius ; ut, qui dolóres ejus venerándo recólimus, passiónis tuae efféctum felícem consequámur : Qui vivis.

Collect.—O God, in Whose passion, as Simeon had foretold, the most sweet heart of Mary, Thy glorious Virgin Mother, was pierced through by a sword of sorrow ; mercifully grant that we who reverently meditate upon her dolours may reap the happy fruit of Thy passion : Who livest and reignest.

In Private Masses : Commemoration of St. Nicomedes as in the Mass, p. 1649.

Epístola. — Léctio libri Judith.—BENEDIXIT te Dóminus in virtúte sua, quia per te ad níhilum redégit inimícos nostros. Benedícta es tu fília a Dómino Deo excélso, prae ómnibus muliéribus super terram. Benedíctus Dóminus, qui creávit coelum et terram : quia hódie nomen tuum ita magnificávit, Epistle. Judith xiii. 22, 23, 25.—Lesson from the book of Judith.—THE Lord hath blessed thee by His power, who by thee hath brought our enemies to nought. Blessed art thou, O daughter, by the Lord the most high God, above all women upon the earth. Blessed be the Lord Who made heaven and earth, because He hath so magnified thy name this day, that thy praise shall not depart out of the mouth of men, who shall be mindful of the power of the Lord for ever; for that thou hast not spared thy life by reason of the distress and tribulation of thy people, but hast prevented our ruin in the presence of our God.

ut non recédat laus tua de ore hóminum, qui mémores fúerint virtútis Dómini in aetérnum, pro quibus non pepercísti ánimae tuae propter angústias et tribulatiónem géneris tui, sed subvenísti ruínae ante conspéctum Dei nostri.

Gradual.—Sad and tearful, O Virgin Mary, didst thou stand by the cross of the Lord Jesus, thy Son, our Redeemer. ℣. O Virgin, Mother of God, He whom the whole world sufficeth not to contain, beareth this punishment of the cross; He the author of life made man.

Graduále. — Dolorósa et lacrimábilis es, Virgo María, stans juxta crucem Dómini Jesu Fílii tui Redemptóris. ℣. Virgo Dei Génitrix, quem totus non capit orbis, hoc crucis fert supplícium, auctor vitae factus homo.

Alleluia, alleluia. — ℣. Holy Mary, the Queen of heaven, and mistress of the world, stood by the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, full of grief.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Stabat sancta María, coeli Regína, et mundi Dómina, juxta crucem Dómini nostri Jesu Christi dolorósa.

Sequence.

2.

1. Sta-bat Ma - ter do - lo - ró - sa Jux - ta cru-
2. Cu - jus á - ni - mam ge-mén-tem Contris - ta-

1. At the Cross her Station keeping, Stood the
2. Through her heart, His sorrow sharing, All His bitter

1. cem la - cri - mó - sa Dum pen - dé - bat Fí - li - us.
2. tam et do-lén-tem Per - tran - si - vit gla - di - us

1. mournful Mother weeping Close to Jesus to the last:
2. anguish bearing, Now at length the sword had pass'd.

3. O quam tris - tis et af - flic - ta Fu - it il-
4. Quæ mæ - ré - bat et do - lé - bat, Pi - a Ma-

3. Oh, how sad and sore distress'd Was that
4. Christ above in torment hangs; She beneath

3. la be - ne - dic - ta Ma - ter U - ni - gé - ni - ti.
4. ter, dum vi - dé - bat Na - ti pœ - nas in - cly - ti.

3. Mother, highly blest Of the sole-begotten One!
4. beholds the pangs Of her dying glorious Son.

5. Quis est ho - mo qui non fle - ret, Ma- trem Chri-
6. Quis non pos - set con - tris - tá - ri, Chri - sti Ma-

5. Is there one who would not weep, Whelm'd in
6. Can the human heart refrain From partaking

5. sti si vi - dé - ret In tan - to sup - pli - ci - o?
6. trem con-tem - plá - ri Do - lén - tem cum Fi - li - o?

5. miseries so deep Christ's dear Mother to behold:
6. in her pain, In that Mother's pain untold!

7. Pro pec - cá - tis su - æ gen - tis Vi - dit Je-
8. Vi - dit su - um dul - cem na - tum Mo - ri - én-

7. Bruis'd, derided, curs'd, defil'd, She beheld
8. For the sins of His own nation, Saw Him

7. sum in tor-mén - tis, Et fla - gél - lis súb- di - tum.
8. do de - so - lá - tum, Dum e - mi - sit spi - ri - tum.

7. her tender child! All with bloody scourges rent,
8. hang in desolation: Till His Spirit forth He sent.

9. E - ia Ma - ter, fons a - mó - ris, Me sen - ti-
10. Fac ut ár - de - at cor me - um, In a - mán-

9. O thou Mother! fount of love! Touch my
10. Make me feel as thou hast felt; Make my

9. re vim do - ló - ris Fac, ut te - cum lú - ge - am.
10. do Chris-tum Dé-um, Ut si - bi com-plá - ce - am.

9. spirit from above; Make my heart with thine accord:
10. soul to glow and melt With the love of Christ our Lord.

11. San- cta Ma - ter, is - tud a - gas, Cru - ci - fi-
12. Tu - i Na - ti vul -ne - rá - ti, Tam di - gna-

11. Holy Mother! pierce me through; In my heart
12. Let me share with thee His pain, Who for all

11. xi fi - ge pla - gas Cor - di me - o vá - li - de.
12. ti pro me pa - ti, Pœ - nas mé- cum dí - vi - de.

11. each wound renew Of my Saviour crucified:
12. my sins was slain, Who for me in torments died.

13. Fac me te - cum pi - e fle - re, Cru - ci - fi-
14. Jux- ta cru - cem te - cum sta - re, Et me ti-

13. Let me mingle tears with thee, Mourning Him
14. By the Cross with thee to stay, There with thee

13. xo con- do - lé - re, Do - nec e - go vi - xe ro.
14. bi so - ci - á - re In planc-tu de - si - de - ro.

13. Who mourn'd for me, All the days that I may live:
14. to weep and pray, Is all I ask of thee to give.

15. Vir - go vir - gi - num præ - clá - ra, Mi - hi jam
16. Fac ut por - tem Chri - sti mor - tem, Pas - si - ó-

15. Virgin of all virgins best: Listen to my
16. Let me, to my latest breath, In my body

15. non sis a - má - ra : Fac me te - cum plán - ge - re.
16. nis fac con-sór-tem, Et pla- gas re - có - le - re.

15. fond request: Let me share thy grief divine.
16. bear the death Of that dying Son of thine.

17. Fac me pla - gis vul - ne - rá - ri, Fac me cru-
18. Flammis ne u - rar suc - cén - sus, Per te, Vir-

17. Wounded with His every wound, Steep my soul
18. Be to me, O Virgin, nigh, Lest in flames

17. ce in - e - bri - á - ri, Et cru - ó - re Fi - li - i.
18. go, sim de - fén-sus In di - e ju - di - ci - i.

17. till it hath swoon'd In His very blood away:
19. I burn and die, In His awful Judgment day.

19. Chri -ste, cum sit hinc e - xi - re, Da per Ma-
20. Quan-do cor - pus mo - ri - é - tur, Fac ut á-

19. Christ, when Thou shalt call me hence Be Thy Mo-
20. While my body here decays, May my soul

19. trem me ve -ni - re Ad pal- mam vic -tó - ri - æ.
20. ni - mæ do -né - tur Pa - ra - di - si gló - ri - a.

19. ther my defence, Be Thy cross my victory;
20. Thy goodness praise, Safe in Paradise with Thee.

A - men. Al - le - lú - ia.
A - men. Al - le - lu - ia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John xix. 25-27.—At that time, there stood by the cross of Jesus, His mother, and His mother's sister Mary of Cleophas, and Mary Magdalene. When Jesus therefore had seen His mother and the disciple standing, whom He loved, He saith to His mother, Woman, behold thy son. After that He saith to the disciple, Behold thy mother, And from that hour the disciple took her to his own.—Credo.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem. — In illo témpore: Stabant juxta crucem Jesu mater ejus, et soror matris ejus María Cléophae, et María Magdaléne. Cum vidísset ergo Jesus matrem, et discípulum stantem, quem diligébat, dícit matri suae: Múlier, ecce fílius tuus. Deínde dicit discípulo: Ecce mater tua. Et ex illa hora accépit eam discípulus in sua.—Credo.

Offertory.—Be mindful, O Virgin Mother of God, when thou standest in the sight of the Lord, to speak good things for us, and to turn away His anger from us.

Offertórium. — Recordáre, Virgo Mater Dei, dum stéteris in conspéctu Dómini, ut loquáris pro nobis bona, et ut avértat indignatiónem suam a nobis.

Secret.—We offer to Thee, O Lord Jesus Christ, our prayers and sacrifices, humbly supplicating that we who, in our thought of Thee, dwell on the bitter piercing through of the most sweet heart of blessed Mary, Thy mother, may in virtue of the manifold and most loving intercession of that same Queen of Martyrs, and of all Thine elect gathered at the foot of the Cross, by the merits of Thy death, deserve to be one day numbered with the blessed: who livest.

Secréta. — Offérimus tibi preces et hóstias, Dómine Jesu Christe, humíliter supplicántes: ut, qui Transfixiónem dulcíssimi spíritus beátae Maríae Matris suae précibus recensémus; suo suorúmque sub cruce Sanctórum, consórtium multiplicáto piíssimo intervéntu, méritis mortis tuae, méritum cum beátis habeámus: Qui vivis.

Preface of the Blessed Virgin Mary: et te in transfixióne, p. 56.

Communion. — Happy the Heart of the blessed Virgin Mary, which without dying earned the palm of martyrdom beneath the cross of our Lord.

Commúnio. — Felíces sensus beátae Maríae Vírginis, qui sine morte meruérunt martyrii palmam sub cruce Dómini.

Postcommunion. — May the divine sacrifice, O Lord Jesus

Postcommúnio — Sacrifícia, quae súmpsimus Dómine Jesu

Christe, Transfixiónem Matris tuae et Vírginis devóte celebrántes : nobis ímpetrent apud cleméntiam tuam omnis boni salutáris efféctum : Qui vivis.

Christ, of which we, commemorating the transfixion of Thy virgin mother, have partaken, ensure the bestowal upon us of every good and saving gift : Who livest and reignest.

SECOND VESPERS.

As at First Vespers, except :

Ant. — Oppréssit me dolor * et fácies mea intúmuit a fletu, et pálpebrae meae caligavérunt.

Ant. at the Magnificat. Job xvi. 8, 17.—My grief hath overwhelmed me, my face is swollen with weeping, and mine eyelids are sunk with heaviness.

Commemoration of SS. Cornelius and Cyprian : Antiphon Istórum, ℣. Laetámini, p. 232.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Nicomedes, MARTYR.*—Red vestments.

" At Rome," says the Roman Martyrology, "on the Nomentanian Way, the birth in heaven of blessed Nicomedes, priest and martyr." Having said to those who tried to force him to sacrifice : " For me, I only sacrifice to the all powerful God Who reigns in heaven," he was beaten with thongs lined with lead and during this long torture he gave up his soul to God, He died in the first century under the Emperor Domitian.

Mass : In virtúte, p. 222, except :

Orémus. — Adésto, Dómine, pópulo tuo : ut, beáti Nicomédis Mártyris tui mérita praeclára suscipiens, ad impetrándam misericórdiam tuam semper ejus patrocíniis adjuvétur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Be nigh, O Lord, to Thy people, that they may profit by the glorious merits of blessed Nicomedes Thy martyr, and may ever be helped by his prayers to win Thy mercy. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Súscipe, Dómine, múnera propítius obláta : quae majestáti tuae beáti Nicomédis Martyris comméndet orátio. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Graciously receive, O Lord, the gifts which we offer up ; and may the prayer of blessed Nicomedes the martyr, make them acceptable to Thy Majesty. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Puríficent nos, Dómine, sacraménta quae súmpsimus : et, intercedénte

Postcommunion. — May the Sacraments which we have received cleanse us, O Lord, and through the intercession of blessed Nicomedes Thy martyr loose us from all sin. Through our Lord.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008.

beáto Nicoméde Mártyre tuo, a cunctis effíciant vítiis absolútos. Per Dóminum.

SEPTEMBER 16.

SS. Cornelius and Cyprian, BISHOPS AND MARTYRS.*—Semi-double.—Red vestments.

Cornelius was a Roman and was sovereign pontiff under the Emperors Gallus and Volusian. He had to oppose Novatian, the first anti-pope. He took from the catacombs the bodies of the Apostles Peter and Paul and reverently translated them to the places where they had suffered martyrdom.

He was arrested by order of the emperors and beheaded in A.D. 253.

Cyprian was a barrister at Carthage, when he was converted to Christianity. A short time afterwards he was ordained a priest and became bishop of Carthage. "It would be superfluous," says St. Jerome, "to speak of his genius, since his works are more brilliant than the sun." This illustrious Father of the Latin Church lived in one of the most troublous periods for the Church in Africa. He was martyred five years after St. Cornelius on the day when this holy Pope's remains were translated to Rome. That explains why their names are united by the liturgy at the Canon of the Mass (First list, p. 59).

Mass: Intret, of several Martyrs, p. 232.

Commemoration of the Holy Martyrs as in the following Mass.

THE SAME DAY.

Commemoration of SS. Euphemia, Lucy and Geminianus, MARTYRS.

"In Chalcedon," says the Roman Martyrology, "the birth in heaven of St. Euphemia, virgin and martyr, who was condemned to the wild beasts in A.D. 303 under Diocletian."

"At Rome the holy martyrs Lucy, a noble lady, and Geminianus, who were beheaded by order of Diocletian."

Mass: Intret, p. 232, except:

Collect.—Grant a joyful issue to our prayers, O Lord, so that we who year by year devoutly keep the day on which Thy holy martyrs Euphemia, Lucy and Geminianus suffered, may also follow them in the steadfastness of their faith. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Praesta, Dómine, précibus nostris cum exsultatióne provéntum: ut sanctórum Mártyrum Euphémiae, Lúciae et Geminiáni, quorum diem passiónis ánnua devotióne recólimus, étiam fídei constántiam subsequámur. Per Dóminum.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008

Gospel: Descéndens Jesus, p. 237.

Secréta. — Vota pópuli, tui quaesumus, Dómine, propítius inténde: et, quorum nos tríbuis solémnia celebráre, fac gaudére suffrágiis. Per Dóminum.

Secret. — Mercifully consider the sacrifice of Thy people, O Lord, we beseech Thee; and may we enjoy the intercession of those whose festival we are keeping by Thy grace. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Exáudi, Dómine, preces nostras: et sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Euphémiae, Lúciae et Geminiáni, quorum festa solémniter celebrámus, contínuis foveámur auxíliis. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Graciously hear our prayers, O Lord, and let us never cease to enjoy the help of Thy holy martyrs, Euphemia, Lucy and Geminianus, whose feast we are solemnly keeping. Through our Lord.

SEPTEMBER 17.

The Impression of the Stigmata on the body of St. Francis, CONFESSOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

Two years before his death, St. Francis retired to Mount Alvernia where he began a fast of 40 days in honour of St. Michael the Archangel. And lo! in the midst of his meditation he saw a figure like a Seraphim with six wings dazzling and burning, whose feet and hands were nailed to a cross. Aware that suffering is incompatible with the immortality of a seraphic spirit, he then understood that he would become more like Jesus and bear his cross after Him (Gospel), not by physical martyrdom, but by a mystical kindling of divine love.

And in order that this crucified love might become an example to us all, five wounds resembling those of Jesus on the Cross appeared on his feet, hands and side. From the latter blood flowed abundantly. The facts were so fully authenticated later, that Benedict XI. ordered them to be commemorated every year, and Paul V., to kindle in the faithful the love of Jesus crucified, extended the feast to the whole Church. (See engraving, p. 1680.)

Mass: as on October 4, p. 1681, except:

Orémus. — Dómine Jesu Christe, qui frigiscénte mundo, ad inflammándum corda nostra tui amóris igne, in carne beatíssimi Francísci passiónis tuae sacra stígmata renovásti: concéde propítius: ut ejus méritis

Collect.—O Lord Jesus Christ, Who when the world was growing cold, in order that the hearts of men might burn anew with the fire of Thy love, didst in the flesh of the most blessed Francis reproduce the stigmata of Thy passion: be mindful of his merits and prayers; and in Thy mercy, vouchsafe to us the grace ever to carry Thy cross, and to bring forth fruits worthy of penance: Who livest and reignest.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1013.

et précibus crucem júgiter ferámus, et dignos fructus paeniténtiae faciámus: Qui vivis.

Gospel: Si quis vult, p. 220.

Postcommunion. — O God, Who in divers ways didst show in blessed Francis, Thy confessor, the wonderful mysteries of Thy cross, grant, we beseech Thee, that we may ever follow the example of his devotion, and be strengthened by constant meditation on that cross. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Deus, qui mira crucis mystéria in beáto Francísco Confessóre tuo multifórmiter demonstrásti: da nobis, quaesumus, devotiónis suae semper exémpla sectári, et assídua ejúsdem crucis meditatióne muníri. Per Dóminum.

SEPTEMBER 18.

St. Joseph of Cupertino, CONFESSOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

A humble son of St. Francis whose Stigmata we honoured yesterday. St. Joseph also glorifies the Cross of Jesus which the liturgy exalted a few days ago (Sept. 14). Like the seraphic patriarch he strove to remain attached to the Cross by absolute poverty, heroic obedience and virginal purity.†

Such was his spirit of sacrifice and prayer that he accepted with holy patience and great serenity outrages, reproaches and all sorts of injuries (Offertory). Wherefore God Who exalts the humble caused him to pass from the rank of brother to that of clerk and to be made a priest. He wrought such miracles that he implored heaven to withdraw from him the remarkable powers with which he was endowed. He died a holy death at Orsino in 1663.

MASS.

Introit. Ecclus i. 14, 15.—The love of God is honourable wisdom: and they to whom she shall show herself, love her by the sight, and by the knowledge of her great works. Ps. lxxxiii. 2. How lovely are Thy tabernacles, O Lord of hosts! my soul longeth and fainteth for the courts of the Lord. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus. — Diléctio Dei honorábilis sapiéntia: quibus autem apparúerit in visu, díligunt eam in visióne, et in agnitióne magnálium suórum. Ps. Quam dilécta tabernácula tua, Dómine virtútum! concupíscit, et déficit ánima mea in átria Dómini. ℣. Glória Patri.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1016. † John xii. 32.

Orémus. — Deus, qui ad unigénitum Fílium tuum exaltátum a terra ómnia tráhere disposuísti : pérfice propítius ; ut, méritis et exémplo seráphici Confessóris tui Joséphi, supra terrénas omnes cupiditátes eleváti, ad eum perveníre mereámur : Qui tecum.

Collect.—O God, Who didst ordain that Thine only-begotten Son should be lifted up above the earth and draw all things to Himself ; in Thy mercy bring it to pass that through the merits and example of Thy seraphic confessor Joseph we may be lifted up above all earthly lusts and may be found worthy to come unto Him ; Who liveth and reigneth.

Léctio Epistólae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Corínthios. —FRATRES: Si linguis hóminum loquar, et Angelórum, caritátem autem non hábeam, factus sum velut aes sonans, aut cymbalum tínniens. Et si habúero prophetíam, et nóverim mystéria ómnia et omnem sciéntiam : et si habúero omnem fidem, ita ut montes tránsferam, carritátem autem non habúero, nihil sum. Et si distribúero in cibos páuperum omnes facultátes meas, et si tradídero corpus meum, ita ut árdeam, caritátem autem non habúero, nihil mihi prodest. Cáritas pátiens est, benigna est : Cáritas non aemulátur, non agit pérperam, non inflátur, non est ambitiósa, non quaerit quae sua sunt, non irritátur, non cógitat malum, non gaudet super iniquitáte, congáudet autem veritáti : ómnia suffert, ómnia credit, ómnia sperat, ómnia sústinet. Cáritas nunquam éxcidit : sive prophetíae evacuabúntur, sive linguae cessábunt, sive sciéntia destruétur.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians. 1 Cor. xiii. 1-8.—BRETHREN : If I speak with the tongues of men, and of Angels, and have not charity, I am become as sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal. And if I should have prophecy, and know all mysteries and all knowledge, and if I should have all faith, so that I could remove mountains, and have not charity, I am nothing. And if I should distribute all my goods to feed the poor, and if I should deliver my body to be burned, and have not charity, it profiteth me nothing. Chrity is patient, is kind : charity envieth not ; dealeth not perversely ; is not puffed up ; is not ambitious ; seeketh not her own ; is not provoked to anger ; thinketh no evil ; rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth ; beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things. Charity never falleth away : whether prophecies shall be made void, or tongues shall cease, or knowledge shall be destroyed.

Gradual. Ps. xx. 4, 5.—O Lord, Thou hast prevented him with blessings of sweetness: Thou hast set on his head a crown of precious stones. ℣. He asked life of Thee, and Thou hast given him length of days for ever, and for ages of ages.

Graduále. — Dómine, praevenísti eum in benedictiónibus dulcédinis: posuísti in cápite ejus corónam de lápide pretióso. ℣. Vitam pétiit a te, et tribuísti ei longitúdinem diérum in saeculum saeculi.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ecclus. xi. 13.—℣. The eye of God hath looked upon him for good, and hath lifted him up from his low estate, and hath exalted his head. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Oculus Dei respéxit illum in bono, et eréxit eum ab humilitáte ipsíus, et exaltávit caput ejus. Allelúia.

Gospel: Loquebátur Jesus, p. 1146.

Offertory. Ps. xxxiv. 13.—But as for me, when they were troublesome to me, I was clothed with hair cloth. I humbled my soul with fasting; and my prayer shall be turned into my bosom.

Offertórium. — Ego autem, cum mihi molésti essent, induébar cilício. Humiliábam in jejúnio ánimam meam: et orátio mea in sinu meo convertétur.

Secret.—In memory of Thy saints, O Lord, we offer up to Thee the sacrifice of praise, trusting, in virtue thereof, to be delivered from all evils, present or to come. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Laudis tibi, Dómine, hóstias immolámus, in tuórum commemoratióne Sanctórum: quibus nos et praeséntibus éxui malis confídimus, et futúris. Per Dóminum.

Communion. Ps. lxviii. 30, 31.—I am poor and sorrowful: Thy salvation, O God, hath set me up. I will praise the name of God with a canticle; and I will magnify Him with praise.

Commúnio. — Ego sum pauper, et dolens: salus tua, Deus, suscépit me. Laudábo nomen Dei cum cántico: et magnificábo eum in laude.

Postcommunion. — Strengthened with meat and drink from heaven, we humbly beseech Thee, O Lord our God, to be protected by the intercession of Postcommúnio. — Refécti cibo potúque coelésti, Deus noster, te súpplices exorámus: ut, in cujus haec commemoratióne percépimus, ejus muniá-mur et précibus. Per Dóminum.	the saint on whose festival we have been made partakers of these precious gifts. Through our Lord.

SEPTEMBER 19.

St. Januarius and his Companions, MARTYRS.—Double.—Red vestments.

"At Pozzuoli, in Campania," says the Roman Martyrology, "the feast of the holy martyrs, Januarius, bishop of Beneventum, Festus his deacon, Desiderius his lector, Socius a deacon of the church at Misenum, Proculus a deacon of Pozzuoli, Eutychius and Acutius who, after having been bound with chains, were cast into prison and beheaded under Diocletian (A.D. 305) The body of St Januarius was taken to Naples and honourably buried in the church where his blood is still preserved in a glass phial. When the phial is placed near the head of the holy Martyr, the blood liquefies and bubbles as if it had just been shed." This miracle, known as the miracle of St. Januarius, is still repeated nowadays. The blood, contained in two glass phials where it is coagulated into a dark red mass, increases in volume and weight, on liquefying it becomes a bright red, while the surface is covered with bubbles, wherefore it is said to boil. The miracle takes place three times a year : during the feasts of May, lasting nine days, from the first Sunday in the month ; in September during eight days from the 19th to the 26th, and on Dec. 16.

Mass : Salus autem, p. 238, with Gospel : Sedénte Jesu, p. 241.

SEPTEMBER 20.

St. Eustace and his Companions, MARTYRS.*—Double.—Red vestments.

Eustace, who was called Placidus, was illustrious at Rome for his birth, his riches, and his military valour. "One day," says the legend, "while he was hunting a stag of extraordinary size, the animal suddenly stopped and between its horns was seen a crucifix." Called by the Saviour, Eustace henceforth only pursued immortal life and with his wife and two children he enrolled himself in the Christian militia. The Benedictine Abbey of Subiaco possessed for a long time the mountain where by ancient tradition was shown the spot where the divine apparition had taken place.

Made a general in the army by the Emperor Trajan, Eustace returned victorious from an expedition, but having refused to thank the gods for this triumph, he was arrested and exposed to the lions with his wife and children.

"They were then shut up in a red hot brazen bull," declares the Martyrology, "and their martyrdom was completed by this torture." This was under Hadrian, A.D. 120.

St. Eustace is one of the fourteen Auxiliary Saints (see engraving, July 25).

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008.

Mass: Sapientiam, p. 235.

Commemoration of the Vigil of St. Matthew, p. 202.

THE SAME DAY.

The Vigil of St. Matthew, APOSTLE AND BISHOP.—Purple vestments.

In order to honour the high dignity of the Apostles (Secret), the Church prepares us for their feasts by a vigil. She therefore commemorates on this day St. Matthew by special Collects and by the last Gospel of the Mass in which St. Luke relates the calling of this Apostle.

A Galilean by birth, his name before his conversion was Levi; he was a publican. This profession which consisted in collecting the Roman taxes was very odious to the Jews, who were thus reminded of their dependence. Generally harsh and greedy, the publican was considered by the Pharisees the type of the sinner. Wherefore the Church shows us Jesus as the healer of souls which He calls to penance (Gospel).

Mass: Ego autem, p. 202, except the Gospel.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke v. 27-32.—AT that time, Jesus saw a publican, named Levi, sitting at the receipt of custom; and He said to him, Follow Me. And, leaving all things, he rose up, and followed Him. And Levi made Him a great feast in his own house; and there was a great company of publicans, and of others, that were at table with them. But the Pharisees and Scribes murmured, saying to His disciples, Why do you eat and drink with publicans and sinners? And Jesus answering, said to them, They that are whole need not the physician: but they that are sick. I came not to call the just, but sinners, to penance.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam. — IN illo témpore: Vidit Jesus publicánum nómine Levi, sedéntem ad telónium, et ait illi: Séquere me. Et relíctis ómnibus, surgens secútus est eum. Et fecit ei convívium magnum Levi in domo sua: et erat turba multa publicanórum, et aliórum, qui cum illis erant discumbéntes. Et murmurábant Pharisaei et Scribae eórum, dicéntes ad discípulos ejus: Quare cum publicánis et peccatóribus manducátis et bíbitis? Et respóndens Jesus, dixit ad illos: Non egent qui sani sunt médico, sed qui male habent. Non veni vocáre justos, sed peccatóres ad paeniténtiam.

SEPTEMBER 21.

St. Matthew, APOSTLE AND EVANGELIST.*—Double of the Second Class.—Red vestments.

We read in the Gospel, St. Matthew's own account of his conversion. The Epistle describes the famous vision where Ezekiel saw four symbolical animals in which the four Evangelists were recognised from the earliest centuries. St. Matthew is represented by the animal with a human face, because he commences his Gospel by the line of ancestors from whom Jesus descended as man. His object in writing this book, which is stamped by truly divine wisdom (Introit) was to prove that Jesus realised the prophecies relating to the deliverer of Israel and that He is therefore the Messiah.

After Pentecost, the Apostle preached the good news in Palestine and in Ethiopia, where he was martyred.

The name of St. Matthew is in the Canon of the Mass in the group of the Apostles (First list, p. 59).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his parishioners.

FIRST VESPERS (SEPTEMBER 21).

From the Common of Apostles, p. 206.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Os justi meditábitur sapiéntiam, et lingua ejus loquétur judícium : lex Dei

Introit. Ps. xxxvi. 30, 31.— The mouth of the just shall meditate wisdom, and his tongue

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007.

shall speak judgment: the law of his God is in his heart. Ps. Ibid. 1. Be not emulous of evil doers; not envy them that work iniquity. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

ejus in corde ipsíus. Ps. Noli aemulári in malignántibus: neque zeláveris faciéntes iniquitatem. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—May the prayers of blessed Matthew, Thine apostle and evangelist, succour us O Lord: and may his intercession win for us, from Thee, the blessings which our own efforts avail not to obtain. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Beáti Apóstoli et Evangelístae Matthaei, Dómine, précibus adjuvémur: ut, quod possibílitas nostra non óbtinet, ejus nobis intercessióne donétur. Per Dóminum.

Epistle: Similitúdo vultus, p. 1345.

Gradual. Ps. cxi. 1, 2.—Blessed is the man that feareth the Lord: he delights exceedingly in His commandments. ℣. His seed shall be mighty upon earth; the generation of the righteous shall be blessed.

Graduále. — Beátus vir qui timet Dóminum: in mandátis ejus cupit nimis. ℣. Potens in terra erit semen ejus: generátio rectórum benedicétur.

Alleluia, alleluia.—℣. Thee the glorious choir of Apostles doth praise, O Lord. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Te gloriósus Apostolórum chorus laudat, Dómine. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew ix. 9-13.—At that time, Jesus saw a man sitting in the custom-house, named Matthew, and He said to him, Follow Me. And he rose up, and followed Him. And it came to pass, as He was sitting at meat in the house, behold many publicans and sinners came and sat down with Jesus and His disciples. And the Pharisees seeing it, said to His disciples, Why doth your Master eat with publicans and sinners? But Jesus hearing it, said, They that are in health need not a physician; but they that are ill. Go then, and ✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum. — In illo témpore: Vidit Jesus hóminem sedéntem in telónio, Matthaeum nómine. Et ait illi: Séquere me. Et surgens, secútus est eum. Et factum est, discumbénte eo in domo, ecce multi publicáni, et peccatóres veniéntes, discumbébant cum Jesu, et discípulis ejus. Et vidéntes pharisaei, dicébant discípulis ejus: Quare cum publicánis, et peccatóribus mandúcat Magíster vester? At Jesus áudiens, ait: Non est opus valéntibus médicus, sed male habéntibus. Eúntes autem díscite quid est: Misericórdiam volo, et non sacrifícium. Non enim veni vocáre justos, sed peccatóres.—Credo.

learn what this meaneth, I will have mercy, and not sacrifice. For I am not come to call the just, but sinners.—Credo.

Offertórium. — Posuísti, Dómine, in cápite ejus corónam de lápide pretióso : vitam pétiit a te, et tribuísti ei, allelúia.

Offertory. Ps. xx. 4, 5.—O Lord, Thou hast set on his head a crown of precious stones : he asked life of Thee, and Thou didst grant it to him. Alleluia.

Secréta. — Supplicatiónibus beáti Matthaei Apóstoli et Evangelístae, quaesumus, Dómine, Ecclésiae tuae commendétur oblátio : cujus magníficis praedicatiónibus erudítur. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—May, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the supplications of Thy blessed apostle and evangelist, Matthew, commend to Thee the oblations of Thy Church, which he enlightened by his noble teaching. Through our Lord.

Preface of the Holy Apostles, p. 57.

Commúnio. — Magna est glória ejus in salutári tuo : glóriam et magnum decórem impónes super eum, Dómine.

Communion. Ps. xx. 6.—His glory is great in Thy salvation ; glory and great beauty shalt Thou lay upon him, O Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Percéptis, Dómine, sacraméntis, beáto Matthaeo Apóstolo tuo et Evangelísta interveniénte, deprecámur : ut, quae pro ejus celebráta sunt glória, nobis profíciant ad medélam. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Having partaken of Thy sacraments, O Lord, and relying on the prayers of blessed Matthew, Thine apostle and evangelist, we very humbly ask of Thee, that the mysteries we have celebrated in thanksgiving for the glory Thou hast bestowed upon him, may profit us to the healing of our souls. Through our Lord.

SECOND VESPERS.

From the Common of Apostles, p. 208.—Commemoration of St. Thomas of Villanova.

Ant. — Dispérsit, dedit paupéribus : justítia ejus manet in saeculum saeculi.

Ant.—He scattered abroad, He gave to the poor, His justice remaineth for ever and ever.

℣. Amávit, p. 255, and of St. Maurice and Companions : Antiphon Istórum, ℣. Laetámini, p. 232.

SEPTEMBER 22.

St. Thomas of Villanova, BISHOP, CONFESSOR.*—Double White vestments.

Born in Spain in the 15th century, Thomas conceived from his earliest childhood the tenderest compassion for the poor. Having entered the Order of Hermits of St. Augustine, he was soon made Superior and after having refused the archbishopric of Grenada he was forced to accept that of Valencia. He thus shared in the eternal priesthood of Christ (Introit, Epistle, Gradual, Offertory). He lavished on the poor the large revenues of his church, and on the day of his death, he gave away his last penny, committing his soul to God on a bed which did not even belong to him. The Church therefore celebrates especially in this Pontiff "his signal charity towards the poor." (Collect, Ant. of the Benedictus).

Mass: Státuit, p. 255, except:

Collect.—O God, Who wast pleased to adorn the blessed bishop Thomas with the virtue of exceeding charity towards the poor: do Thou, we beseech Thee, in Thy loving kindness, pour forth the riches of Thy mercy upon all who supplicate Thee. Through our Lord.

Orémus.—Deus, qui beátum Thomam Pontíficem insígnis in páuperes misericórdiae virtúte decorásti: quaesumus; ut, ejus intercessióne, in omnes, qui te deprecántur, divítias misericórdiae tuae benígnus effúndas. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of St. Maurice and Companions, as in the following Mass.

Secret, p. 261, and Postcommunion, p. 262.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Maurice and his Companions, MARTYRS.†—Red vestments.

When the Emperor Maximian led his army into Gaul, the Theban Legion, composed of 660 soldiers under the command of St. Maurice, refused to take part in the ceremonies in honour of the gods. They were massacred out of hatred for the name of Christ, A.D. 297 at Agaune, now called St. Maurice (Valais).

Mass: Intret, p. 232.

Collect. — O Almighty God, listen, we beseech Thee, to our prayers: and grant that this solemn festival of Thy holy martyrs Maurice and his fellow-sufferers, may be to us an occasion of spiritual joy; for as much as we glory in celebrating the natal-day of the saints, in whose prayers we put our trust. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Annue, quaesumus omnípotens Deus: ut sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Maurítii et Sociórum ejus nos laetíficet festíva solémnitas; ut, quorum suffrágiis nítimur, eórum natalítiis gloriémur. Per Dóminum.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1015. † Ibid., p. 1009.

Epistola. Lectio libri Apocalypsis beáti Joánnis Apóstoli.—In diébus illis: Respóndit unus de senióribus, et dixit mihi: Hi, qui amícti sunt stolis albis, qui sunt? et unde venérunt? Et dixi illi: Dómine mi, tu scis. Et dixit mihi: Hi sunt, qui venérunt de tribulatióne magna, et lavérunt stolas suas, et dealbavérunt eas in sánguine Agni. Ideo sunt ante thronum Dei, et sérviunt ei die ac nocte in templo ejus: et qui sedet in throno, habitábit super illos: non esúrient, neque sítient ámplius, nec cadet super illos sol, neque ullus aestus: quóniam Agnus, qui in médio throni est, reget illos, et dedúcet eos ad vitae fontes aquárum: et abstérget Deus omnem lácrymam ab óculis eórum.

Epistle. Apoc. vii. 13-17. Lesson from the book of the Apocalypse of Blessed John the Apostle.—At that time one of the ancients answered, and said to me: These that are clothed in white robes, who are they? and whence came they? And I said to him: My Lord, Thou knowest. And He said to me: These are they who are come out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes, and have made them white in the blood of the Lamb. Therefore they are before the throne of God, and they serve Him day and night in His temple: and He, that sitteth on the throne, shall dwell over them. They shall no more hunger nor thirst, neither shall the sun fall on them, nor any heat. For the Lamb, which is in the midst of the throne, shall rule them, and shall lead them to the fountains of the waters of life, and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes.

Secréta. — Réspice, quaesumus, Dómine, múnera, quae in sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Mauritii et sociórum ejus commemoratióne deférimus: et praesta; ut, quorum honóre sunt grata, eórum nobis fiant intercessióne perpétua. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Graciously look down, we beseech Thee, O Lord, upon the offerings we lay at Thy feet on this day of our commemorating Thy holy martrys Maurice and his fellow-sufferers: and grant that as these our offerings cannot but be grateful to Thee inasmuch as they are made in honour of Thy saints, so the prayers of the blessed may cause them to be to us a source of endless blessings. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Coeléstibus refécti sacraméntis et gáudiis: súpplices te rogámus, Dómine: ut, quorum gloriámur triúmphis, protegámur auxíliis. Per Postcommunion. — Thou hast comforted us, O Lord, with Thy sacraments and filled us with heavenly joy: deny not to us, we most humbly entreat of Thee, the succour of the merits of the saints in whose victory we glory. Through our Lord.

Dóminum.

SEPTEMBER 23.

St. Linus, POPE AND MARTYR.*—Semi-double.—Red vestments.

"At Rome," says the Roman Martyrology, "the triumph of St. Linus, Pope and martyr, who immediately succeeded St. Peter in the government of the Church. He was martyred, and was buried on the Vatican next to the Prince of the Apostles." The name of St. Linus is mentioned in the Canon of the Mass, after the names of the Apostles. (First list, p. 59).

Mass : Státuit, p. 255, and Collect of the Mass : Sacerdótes, p. 259.

Commemoration of St. Thecla, as in the following Mass.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Thecla. VIRGIN AND MARTYR.†

"In Lycaonia," says the Roman Martyrology, "St. Thecla, virgin and martyr, who, brought to the faith by the Holy Apostle Paul at Iconium (Asia Minor), victoriously underwent, confessing Christ, the torments of flames and wild beasts, under the Emperor Nero."

Mass : Loquébar, p. 282, except :

Collect. — Grant, we beseech Thee, Almighty God, that we who keep the birthday of blessed Thecla, Thy virgin and martyr, may both rejoice in her yearly festival, and profit by the example of such great faith. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Da, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus : ut, qui beátae Theclae Vírginis et Mártyris tuae natalítia cólimus; et ánnua solemnitáte laetémur, et tantae fídei proficiámus exémplo. Per Dóminum.

Secret. — Receive, O Lord, the offerings which we bring on the festival of blessed Thecla, Thy virgin and martyr, by whose intercession we hope to be delivered. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Súscipe, Dómine, múnera, quae in beátae Theclae Vírginis et Mártyris tuae, solemnitáte deférimus: cujus nos confídimus patrocínio liberári. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — May we be helped, O Lord, by the mysteries we have received ; and through the intercession of blessed Thecla, Thy virgin and martyr, may they give us protection and joy for evermore. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Auxiliéntur nobis, Dómine, sumpta mystéria : et, intercedénte beáta Thecla Vírgine et Mártyre tua, sempitérna fáciant protectióne gaudére. Per Dóminum.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007. † Ibid., p. 1008.

SEPTEMBER 24.

Our Lady of Ransom.*—Greater-double.—White vestments.

The Blessed Virgin appeared in the 13th century to St. Peter Nolasco†, to St. Raymund of Pennafort ‡ and to James, king of Aragon, requesting them to found a religious institute with the object of delivering Christian captives from the barbarous Saracens (Collect), who then held a great part of Spain.

In consequence, on August 10, 1218, King James established by decree the royal, military and religious Order of our Lady of Ransom, and granted to its members the privilege of bearing on their breasts his own arms. Most of them were knights, and while the clerics recited divine office in the commanderies, they guarded the coasts and delivered prisoners. This pious work spread everywhere and produced heroes of sanctity and men of incomparable charity and piety who devoted themselves to the collection of alms for the ransom of Christians, and who often gave themselves up as ransoms to deliver captives.

This feast, originally kept by the Order, was extended to the whole Church by Innocent XII. in the 17th century.

Mass : Salve, p. 189, except :

Orémus. — Deus, qui per gloriosíssimam Fílii tui Matrem, ad liberándos Christi fidéles a potestáte paganórum, nova Ecclésiam tuam prole amplificáre dignátus es: praesta, quaesumus; ut, quam pie venerámur tanti óperis institutrícem, ejus páriter méritis et intercessióne, a peccátis ómnibus, et captivitáte daemonis liberémur. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Collect. — O God, Who by means of the most glorious mother of Thy Son wast pleased to give new children to Thy Church for the deliverance of Christ's faithful from the power of the heathen; grant, we beseech Thee, that we who love and honour her as the foundress of so great a work may, by her merits and intercession, be ourselves delivered from all sin and from the bondage of hell. Through the same.

Credo, and Preface of the Blessed Virgin Mary: Et te in Festivitáte, p. 56.

SEPTEMBER 26.

SS. Cyprian and Justina, MARTYRS.§—Simple.—Red vestments.

"At Nicomedia," says the Roman Martyrology, "the birth in heaven of the holy Martyrs Cyprian and Justina. This virgin, after having endured many tortures under the Emperor Diocletian and Judge Euthol-

* See Historical Summary, p. 1012.
† Feast on January 31, see p. 1243.
‡ Feast on January 23, see p. 1231.
§ See Historical Summary, p. 1009.

mus, converted to Christ Cyprian the magician, who tried with his incantations to seduce her. Both were martyred in A.D. 304. Their bodies after having been exposed to wild beasts were taken away during the night by some Christian mariners who carried them to Rome. Later, they were buried in Constantine's basilica (St. John Lateran), near the baptistery."

Mass: Salus autem, p. 238, except:

Collect. — Lord, let Thy blessed martyrs Cyprian and Justina ever lend us strength and protection, for Thou never ceasest to look with mercy upon those to whom Thou givest the help of Thy saints. Through our Lord.	Orémus. — Beatórum Mártyrum Cypriáni et Justinae nos, Dómine, fóveant continuáta praesidía: quia non désinis propítius intuéri, quos tálibus auxíliis concésseris adjuvári. Per Dóminum.

Secret: Múnera and Postcommunion: Praesta, p. 238.

SEPTEMBER 27.

SS. Cosmas and Damian, MARTYRS.*—Semi-double.—Red vestments.

SS. Cosmas and Damian, brothers by blood, were chiefly brothers by their faith in Jesus Christ, and by their common martyrdom suffered for His sake (Alleluia). They were born at Egaea, in Arabia, and distinguished themselves as physicians in the reign of Diocletian and Maximian. They healed the worst diseases as much by the virtue of Christ as by their medical knowledge. Their reputation soon spread everywhere. They were Apostles rather than physicians, they healed souls as well as bodies, following the example of Jesus in Palestine (Gospel).

They were denounced to the prefect Lysias and suffered the most cruel torments and were thrown in chains into the sea, stoned and exposed to the flames of a brazier. After several other tortures they died about A.D. 285 and their bodies were taken to Rome and laid in the ancient temple of Romulus transformed into a church which was dedicated to them and where the Station is held on the Thursday of the third week in Lent.† Their names are mentioned in the Canon of the Mass after several Roman martyrs (First list, p. 59).

Mass: Sapiéntiam, p. 235, except:

Collect. — Vouchsafe, O Almighty God, we beseech Thee, unto us who celebrate the feast-day of Thy holy martyrs Cosmas and Damian, by their inter-	Orémus. — Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Cosmae et Damiáni natalítia cólimus, a cunctis malis

* See Historical Summary, p. 1006. † See p. 617.

imminéntibus, eórum intercessiónibus, liberémur. Per Dóminum.

cession to be delivered from all the dangers that threaten us. Through our Lord.

Graduále. — Clamavérunt justi, et Dóminus exaudívit eos: et ex ómnibus tribulatiónibus eórum liberávit eos. ℣. Juxta est Dóminus his, qui tribuláto sunt corde: et húmiles spíritu salvábit.

Gradual. Ps. xxxiii. 18, 19.—The just cried, and the Lord heard them: and delivered them out of all their troubles. ℣. The Lord is nigh unto them that are of a contrite heart: and the humble of spirit shall be saved.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Haec est vera fratérnitas quae vicit mundi crímina: Christum secúta est, ínclyta tenens regna coeléstia. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. — ℣. This is the true brotherhood which overcame the wickedness of the world: it followed Christ, and possesses the peerless kingdom of heaven. Alleluia.

Offertórium. — Gloriabúntur in te omnes qui diligunt nomen tuum: quóniam tu, Dómine, benedíces justo: Dómine, ut scuto bonae voluntátis tuae coronásti nos.

Offertory. Ps. v. 12, 13.—All they that love Thy name shall glory in Thee: for Thou, O Lord, wilt bless the just: O Lord, Thou hast crowned us with the shield of Thy good will.

Secréta. — Sanctórum tuórum nobis, Dómine, pia non desit orátio: quae et múnera nostra concíliet, et tuam nobis indulgéntiam semper obtíneat. Per Dóminum.

Secret. — May the kindly prayers of Thy saints never fail us, O Lord: may they render our offerings pleasing in Thy sight; and may they ever ensure to us the fulness of Thy mercy. Through our Lord.

Commúnio. — Posuérunt mortália servórum tuórum, Dómine, escas volatílibus coeli, carnes sanctórum tuórum béstiis terrae: secúndum magnitúdinem bráchii tui pósside fílios morte punitórum.

Communion. Ps. lxxviii. 2, 11.—They have given the dead bodies of Thy servants, O Lord, to be meat for the fowls of the air, the flesh of Thy saints to the beasts of the earth: according to the greatness of Thy arm take possession of the children of them that have been punished by death.

Postcommúnio. — Prótegat, quaesumus, Dómine, pópulum tuum et participátio coeléstis

Postcommunion. — May Thy people, we beseech Thee, O Lord, find their sure defence in the having been permitted to share in Thy heavenly banquet, and in the might of the prayers put up by Thy saints in their behalf. Through our Lord.

indúlta convívii et deprecátio colláta sanctórum. Per Dóminum.

SEPTEMBER 28.

St. Wenceslaus, DUKE, MARTYR.*—Semi-double.—Red vestments.

Wenceslaus, Duke of Bohemia, always practised on the throne the finest Christian virtues.

Full of charity, he helped with his alms orphans, widows and poor people, delivered captives, and visited prisoners. He, all his life, kept the treasure of his virginity intact. He had a very great veneration for priests and, with his own hands, he sowed the wheat and pressed the grapes which were to be used for the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass.

However, instigated by his mother, the impious Boleslas, realising what Jesus had foretold " that a man will have for his enemies those of his own family " (Gospel), determined to rid himself of the Duke, his brother. After receiving him at his table, he went off with his accomplices and killed him in a church where he was praying, and awaiting the conspirators.

St. Wenceslaus died in A.D. 938. Hungary, Poland and Bohemia chose him for their patron.

Mass : In virtúte, p. 222, except :

Collect. — O God Who, in bestowing upon blessed Wenceslaus the palm of martyrdom, wast pleased to call him from ruling over an earthly principality to the glory of heaven : shield us through his prayers from all adversity, and grant that we may one day share with him his happiness. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui beátum Wencesláum per martyrii palmam a terréno principátu ad coeléstem glóriam transtulísti : ejus précibus nos ab omni adversitáte custódi, et ejúsdem tríbue gaudére consórtio. Per Dóminum.

* See Historical Summary, p 1011.

SEPTEMBER 29.

The Dedication of St. Michael the Archangel.*—Double of the First Class.—White vestments.

September 29 was formerly dedicated to all the angels (Introit, Collect, Gradual, Communion), wherefore Pope Boniface II., about A.D. 530, chose that date to dedicate a church in the great circus, at Rome, to St. Michael. The Mass composed for the occasion is that of the 18th Sunday after Pentecost, and it relates to the dedication of a church. To-day's mass was composed more recently.

The Hebrew meaning of Michael is: Who is like God, and recalls the combat which took place in heaven between "the archangel of God who deserved to be placed at the head of the heavenly host"† and the devil. Having fallen through sin into the power of Satan, it is St. Michael's part to continue the fight for our deliverance (Alleluia, and Prayer after Mass): wherefore our guardian angels are subordinate to him. St. Michael conquered Satan's pride and obtains humility for us. It is also he who presides over the worship of adoration rendered to the Most High, for he offers to God the prayers of the Saints symbolised by incense whose smoke rises towards heaven (Offertory, Blessing of the incense). When a Christian has left this world, we pray that the standard-bearer St. Michael should introduce him into heaven‡; he is also often represented with the scales of divine justice wherein souls are weighed. His name is mentioned in the Confiteor, after that of Mary who is Queen of the Angels.

St. Michael was the protecting angel of the Synagogue, as he is now of the Church which has succeeded it. To him the liturgy attributes the revelation of the future made to St. John in the Apocalypse (Epistle).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his parishioners.

FIRST VESPERS (SEPTEMBER 28).

The First Four Psalms of Sunday, p. 98, and Ps. Laudáte Dóminum, p. 127.

Ant. 1. Stetit Angelus * juxta aram templi, habens thuríbulum áureum in manu sua (T. P. Allelúia).

Ant. 1. Apoc. viii. 3. An angel stood near the altar of the temple, holding a golden censer in his hand.

2. Dum praeliarétur * Míchael Archángelus cum dracóne, audíta est vox dicéntium: Salus Deo nostro, allelúia.

2. As the Archangel Michael was fighting with the dragon, the voice of a multitude was heard crying: Salvation unto our God. Alleluia.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010.

† Prayers for the recommendation of souls.

‡ Offertory of the Requiem Mass.

Saint Michael the Archangel.

3. Archángele Míchael, * constítui te príncipem super omnes ánimas suscipiéndas. (T.P. Allelúia).

3. O Archangel Michael, I have made thee a prince, that thou mayest receive the souls of all (P.T. Alleluia).

4. Angeli Dómini * Dóminum benedícite in aetérnum (T.P. Allelúia).

4. Dan. iii. 58. O ye angels of the Lord, bless ye the Lord for ever. (P.T. Alleluia.)

5. Angeli, Archángeli * Throni et Dominatiónes, Principátus et Potestátes, Virtútes coelórum, laudáte Dóminum de coelis, allelúia.

5. Ps. cxlviii. 1. Angels and Archangels, thrones and dominions, principalities and powers, all ye hosts of heaven, praise ye the Lord of heaven. Alleluia.

Capitúlum. — Significávit Deus quae opórtet fíeri cito,† loquens per Angelum suum servo suo Joánni, qui testimónium perhibuit verbo Dei * et testimónium Jesu Christí quaecúmque vidit.

Chapter. Apoc. i. 1.—God speaking by His angel, signified unto His servant John the things which must shortly come to pass; who bare witness of the word of God and of the testimony of Jesus Christ, and of all things that he saw.

Hymn.

2. Tibí mille densa míllium
Ducum coróna mílitat:
Sed éxplicat victor crucem
Míchael salútis signifer.

2. Thy thousand thousand hosts are spread
Embattled o'er the azure sky;
But Michael bears Thy standard dread,
And lifts the mighty cross on high.

3. He in that sign the rebel powers. [expel;
Did with their dragon prince
And hurl'd them from the heaven's high towers,
Down like a thunderbolt to hell.

4. Grant us with Michael still, O Lord, [to fight; Against the Prince of Pride
So may a crown be our reward
Before the Lamb's pure throne of light.

5. Now to the Father and the Son, [glory be,
Who rose from death, all
With Thee, O holy Comforter,
Henceforth through all eternity. Amen.

3. Dracónis hic dirum caput
In ima pellit tártara,
Ducémque cum rebéllibus
Coeléstí ab arce fúlminat.

4. Contra ducem supérbiae
Sequámur hunc nos príncipem,
Ut detur ex Agni throno
Nobis coróna glóriae.

5. Patri, simúlque Fílio,
Tibique sancte Spíritus,
Sicut fuit, sit júgitur
Saeclum per omne glória.
Amen.

℣. The angel stood by the altar of the temple.
℟. Having in his hand a censer of gold.

℣. Stetit Angelus juxta aram templi.
℟. Habens thuríbulum áureum in manu sua.

Ant. at the Magnificat.—While John was beholding the sacred mystery, the Archangel Michael sounded a trumpet. Forgive us, O Lord our God, Thou who openest the book, and loosest the seals thereof. Alleluia.

Ant. — Dum sacrum mystérium * cérneret Joánnes, Archángelus Míchael tuba cécinit: Ignósce Dómine Deus noster, qui áperis librum, et solvis signácula ejus, allelúia.

MASS.

Introit. Ps. cii. 20.—Bless the Lord all ye His Angels: you that are mighty in strength, and execute His word, hearkening to the voice of His orders. Ps. Ibid. 1. Bless the Lord, O my soul: and let all that is within me bless His holy name. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus. — Benedícite Dóminum omnes Angeli ejus: poténtes virtúte, qui fácitis verbum ejus, ad audiéndam vocem sermónum ejus. Ps. Bénedic ánima mea Dómino: et ómnia, quae intra me sunt, nómini sancto ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Orémus. — Deus, qui miro órdine, Angelórum ministéria hominúmque dispénsas: concéde propítius; ut, a quibus tibi ministrántibus in coelo semper assístitur, ab his in terra vita nostra muniátur. Per Dóminum.

Collect. — O God, Who in a wonderful order hast established the ministry of Angels and of men, mercifully grant that even as Thy holy Angels ever do Thee service in heaven, so at all times they may succour us upon earth. Through our Lord.

Epistola. Léctio libri Apocalypsis beáti Joánnis Apóstoli. —IN diébus illis: Significávit Deus quae opórtet fíeri cito, mittens per Angelum suum servo suo Joánni, qui testimónium perhíbuit verbo Dei, et testimónium Jesu Christi, quaecúmque vidit. Beátus qui legit, et audit verba prophetíae hujus: et servat ea, quae in ea scripta sunt: tempus enim prope est. Joánnes septem ecclésiis, quae sunt in Asia. Grátia vobis, et pax ab eo, qui est, et qui erat, et qui ventúrus est: et a septem spirítibus, qui in conspéctu throni ejus sunt: et a Jesu Christo, qui est testis fidélis, primogénitus mortuórum, et princeps regum terrae, qui diléxit nos, et lavit nos a peccátis nostris in sánguine suo.

Epistle. Apoc. i. 1-5.—Lesson from the Apocalypse of Blessed John the Apostle.—IN those days: God signified the things which must shortly come to pass, sending by His Angel to His servant John, who hath given testimony to the word of God, and the testimony of Jesus Christ, what things soever he hath seen. Blessed is he that readeth and heareth the words of this prophecy, and keepeth those things which are written in it; for the time is at hand. John to the seven churches which are in Asia: Grace be unto you and peace from Him that is, and that was, and that is to come; and from the seven spirits which are before His throne; and from Jesus Christ, Who is the faithful witness, the first begotten of the dead, and the prince of the kings of the earth, Who hath loved us, and washed us from our sins in His own blood.

Graduále. — Benedícite Dóminum omnes Angeli ejus: poténtes virtúte, qui fácitis verbum ejus. ℣. Bénedic ánima mea Dóminum, et ómnia interióra mea nomen sanctum ejus.

Gradual. Ps. cii. 20, 1.—Bless the Lord all ye His Angels: you that are mighty in strength, that do His will. ℣. O my soul bless thou the Lord: and all that is within me praise His holy name.

Allelúia, Allelúia. — ℣. Sancte Michael Archángele, defénde nos in praelio: ut non Alleluia, alleluia. — ℣. Holy Archangel Michael, defend us in the battle; that we may not perish in the dreadful judgment. Alleluia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. xviii. 1-10.—At that time, the disciples came to Jesus, saying, Who, thinkest Thou, is the greater in the kingdom of heaven? and Jesus calling unto Him a little child, set him in the midst of them, and said, Amen I say to you, unless you be converted, and become as little children, you shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this little child, he is the greater in the kingdom of heaven: and he that shall receive one such little child in My name, receiveth Me; but he that shall scandalise one of these little ones that believe in Me, it were better for him that a mill-stone should be hanged about his neck, and that he should be drowned in the depth of the sea. Woe to the world because of scandals: for it must needs be that scandals come; but nevertheless woe to that man by whom the scandal cometh. And if thy hand or thy foot, scandalise thee, cut it off, and cast it from thee. It is better for thee to go into life maimed or lame, than having two hands or two feet, to be cast into everlasting fire. And if thy eye scandalise thee, pluck it out, and cast it from thee. It is better for thee having one eye to enter into life, than having two eyes to be cast into hell fire. See that you despise not one of pereámus in treméndo judício. Allelúia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Accessérunt discípuli ad Jesum, dicéntes: Quis, putas, major est in regno coelórum? Et ádvocans Jesus párvulum, státuit eum in médio eórum, et dixit: Amen dico vobis, nisi convérsi fuéritis, et efficiámini sicut párvuli, non intrábitis in regnum coelórum. Quicúmque ergo humiliáverit se sicut párvulus iste, hic est major in regno coelórum. Et qui suscéperit unum párvulum talem in nómine meo, me súscipit. Qui autem scandalizáverit unum de pusíllis istis, qui in me credunt, éxpedit ei, ut suspendátur mola asinária in collo ejus, et demergátur in profúndum maris. Vae mundo a scándalis. Necésse est enim ut véniant scándala: verúmtamen vae hómini illi, per quem scándalum venit. Si autem manus tua, vel pes tuus scandalízat te, abscíde eum, et prójice abs te: bonum tibi est ad vitam íngredi débilem, vel claudum, quam duas manus, vel duos pedes habéntem mitti in ignem aetérnum. Et si óculus tuus scandalízat te, érue eum, et prójice abs te: bonum tibi est cum uno óculo in vitam intráre, quam duos óculos habéntem mitti in gehénnam ignis. Vidéte ne contemnátis unum ex his pusíllis: dico enim vobis, quia Angeli eórum in coelis semper vident fáciem Patris mei, qui in coelis est.—Credo.

these little ones; for I say to you, that their Angels in heaven always see the face of My Father Who is in heaven.—Credo.

Offertórium. — Stetit Angelus juxta-aram templi, habens thuríbulum áureum in manu sua, et data sunt ei incénsa multa: et ascéndit fumus arómatum in conspéctu Dei, allelúia.

Offertory. Apoc. viii. 3, 4.—An Angel stood near the altar of the temple, having a golden censer in his hand, and there was given to him much incense: and the smoke of the perfumes ascended before God, Alleluia.

Secréta. — Hóstias tibi, Dómine, laudis offérimus, supplíciter deprecántes: ut eásdem, angélico pro nobis interveniénte suffrágio, et placátus accípias, et ad salútem nostram proveníre concédas. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—We offer up to Thee, O Lord, the sacrifice of praise: and most humbly pray that, Thy holy Angels pleading for us, Thou wouldst graciously receive it and make it to avail to our salvation. Through our Lord.

Commúnio. — Benedícite omnes Angeli Dómini Dóminum: hymnum dícite, et superexaltáte eum in saecula.

Communion.—All ye Angels of the Lord bless the Lord: sing a hymn, and exalt Him above all for ever. Alleluia.

Postcommúnio. — Beáti Archángeli tui Michaélis intercessióne suffúlti: súpplices te, Dómine, deprecámur; ut, quod ore proséquimur, contingámus et mente. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Relying, O Lord, upon the intercession of Thy blessed Archangel Michael, we humbly beseech of Thee, that the sacrament which has passed our lips may quicken our souls. Through our Lord.

SECOND VESPERS.

All as at First Vespers, except: Fifth Psalm: Confitébor, p. 132.

℣. In conspéctu Angelórum psallam tibi Deus meus.

℟. Adorábo ad templum sanctum tuum, et confitébor nómini tuo.

℣. Ps. cxxxvii. 1. I will sing praise to Thee in the sight of the Angels, O Lord.

℟. I will worship towards Thy holy temple, and I will give glory to Thy name.

Ant. — Princeps gloriosíssime * Michael Archángele, esto

Ant. at the Magnificat.—O most glorious prince Michael the Archangel, be mindful of us, and here and everywhere entreat the Son for us. Alleluia, alleluia.

memor nostri: hic, et ubíque semper precáre pro nobis Fílium Dei, allelúia, allelúia.

Commemoration of St. Jerome: Antiphon O Doctor . . . beáte Hierónyme, p. 263. ℣. Amávit, p. 255.

SEPTEMBER 30.

St. Jerome, PRIEST, CONFESSOR, DOCTOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

Jerome was born at Stridon, in Dalmatia, and was baptised at Rome. He was educated at a school held by very distinguished professors. Ordained priest, he retired into a monastery founded by two great Roman ladies, St. Paula and St. Eustocha, at Bethlehem, near the crib in which our Lord was born. Mortifying himself by perpetual abstinence, and devoting himself to meditation of the Scriptures (Gradual), he spent days and nights reading and writing. It is he who fixed the Latin text in the translation known as the Vulgate which the Church adopted as the official translation of the Bible. He died in A.D. 420 and his body rests in St. Mary Major.

Mass: In médio, p. 263, except:

Collect.—O God Who, for the expounding of Holy Scripture, didst raise up in Thy Church the great and holy doctor, Jerome: grant, we beseech Thee, that, helped by Thy grace, we may put in practice what both by word and by work he has taught us. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui Ecclésiae tuae in exponéndis sacris Scriptúris beátum Hierónymum Confessórem tuum, Doctórem máximum providére dignátus es: praesta, quaesumus; ut, ejus suffragántibus méritis, quod ore simul et ópere dócuit, te adjuvánte exercére valeámus. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—By pouring out upon us Thy heavenly grace, enable us, we beseech Thee, O Lord, to serve Thee with hearts detached from the things of earth: and may the prayers of blessed Jerome, Thy confessor, obtain from Thee that the gifts we bring win for us the healing of our souls and glory everlasting. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Donis coeléstibus da nobis, quaesumus, Dómine, líbera tibi mente servíre: ut múnera quae deférimus, interveniénte beáto Hierónymo Confessóre tuo, et medélam nobis operéntur, et glóriam. Per Dóminum.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1910.

Postcommúnio. — Repléti alimónia coeléstí, quaesumus, Dómine: ut, interveniénte beáto Hierónymo Confessóre tuo, misericórdiae tuae grátiam cónsequi mereámur. Per Dóminum.	Postcommunion. — We who are filled with Thy heavenly food, beseech Thee, O Lord, that by the intercession of blessed Jerome Thy confessor, we may be found worthy to win the grace of Thy mercy. Through our Lord.

FEASTS OF OCTOBER.

OCTOBER 1.

St. Remigius, BISHOP, CONFESSOR.*—Simple.†—White vestments.

"At Rheims, in Gaul," says the Roman Martyrology, "feast of St. Remigius, Bishop and Confessor, who converted the Frankish nation to the faith of Jesus Christ, by baptising their king Clovis." He died on January 13, A.D. 533 and his relics were solemnly translated on October 1.

Mass: Státuit, p. 255.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1011. † In France: Greater-double

OCTOBER 2.

The Holy Guardian Angels.*—Greater-double.—White vestments

This feast, solemnised by the Spaniards in the 16th century, was extended to the whole Church by Paul V. in 1608. Clement X. (A.D. 1670) appointed it to be kept on the first free day after the feast of St. Michael, namely October 2. The Angels already in glory have for their mission to adore the Divinity (Introit, Offertory, Communion). Wherefore in the Preface, the Church makes us ask God to permit our voices to join with theirs to praise God.† But, as their name indicates the Angels are also messengers of divine commands (Offertory). The holy Fathers teach that they preside over all created things, and St. Paul declares " that their mission is to serve the future heirs of Salvation."‡ That is why they are called guardian angels (Collect). It is generally thought that kingdoms, provinces, families, dioceses, churches, religious communities each have their protecting angel.§ That there is one for each just man, there can be no doubt, and the Church applies to the souls that are under the new Law what is written about the people under the Old Law. " I shall send My angel to march before you, to guard you on the way and to bring you into the land which I have prepared for you " (Epistle).‖ Our guardian angel has for his mission to protect us and defend us in order that, under his protection, safe from the snares of the enemies of our souls and from all adversities, we may

* See Historical Summary, p. 1015.

† " I have seen the Seraphim," says Isaias, " they stood near the sublime throne where Jehovah was seated ; their faces veiled they cried out to one another : Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord God of Hosts, the whole earth is full of His glory " Isa. vi. 1-3.

‡ Heb. i. 14.

§ In some countries they celebrate the feast of the Angel of the Nation. St. Francis of Sales says that the Bishop as such has another guardian angel. Ezechiel says that the angel of the Temple of Jerusalem had a writing case hanging from his girdle (Ezek. 11). These angels of the Churches, adds St. Basil, write down our irreverences.

‖ St. Bernard : Sixth Lesson at Matins.

reach the promised land of eternal life (Collect, Secret, Postcommunion). This faithful companion deserves our gratitude and the veneration due to a Saint who already enjoys the beatific vision (Gospel). It is to encourage us to this habitual practice, that the Church instituted the feast of the Guardian Angels.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Benedícite Dóminum omnes Angeli ejus: poténtes virtúte, qui fácitis verbum ejus, ad audiéndam vocem sermónum ejus. Ps. Bénedic ánima mea Dómino: et ómnia, quae intra me sunt, nómini sancto ejus ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. cii. 20.—Bless the Lord all ye Angels: you that are mighty in strength, and execute His word, hearkening to the voice of His orders. Ps. Ibid. 1. Bless the Lord, O my soul; and let all that is within me praise His holy name. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui ineffábili providéntia sanctos Angelos tuos ad nostram custódiam míttere dignáris: largíre supplícibus tuis; et eórum semper protectióne deféndi et aetérna societáte gaudére. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God Who, in Thine ineffable providence, hast deigned to send Thy holy Angels to watch over us: vouchsafe to Thy suppliants in all our days to find safety in their protection, and in eternity to share their happiness. Through our Lord.

Epistola. Léctio libri Exodi.—Haec dicit Dóminus Deus: Ecce ego mittam Angelum meum qui praecédat te, et custódiat in via, et introdúcat in locum, quem parávi. Obsérva eum, et audi vocem ejus, nec contemnéndum putes: quia non dimíttet cum peccáveris, et est nomen meum in illo. Quod si audíeris vocem ejus, et féceris ómnia, quae loquor, inimícus ero inimícis tuis, et afflígam affligéntes te: praecedétque te Angelus meus.

Epistle. Exod. xxiii. 20-23.—Lesson from the Book of Exodus.—Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will send My Angel, who shall go before thee, and keep thee in thy journey, and bring thee unto the place that I have prepared. Take notice of him, and hear his voice, and do not think him one to be condemned, for he will not forgive when thou hast sinned, and My name is in him. But if thou wilt hear his voice, and do all that I speak, I will be an enemy to thy enemies, and will afflict them that afflict thee: and My angel shall go before thee.

Graduále. — Angelis suis Deus mandávit de te, ut custódiant te in ómnibus viis tuis.

Gradual. Ps. xl. 11, 12.—God hath given His Angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways. ℣. In their hands they shall bear thee up, lest at any time thou dash thy foot against a stone.

℣. In mánibus portábunt te, ne unquam offéndas ad lápidem pedem tuum.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. cii. 21.—℣. Bless the Lord, all ye His hosts: you ministers of His who do His will. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — Benedícite Dómino omnes virtútes ejus: minístri ejus, qui fácitis voluntátem ejus. Allelúia.

In votive Masses, after Septuagesima instead of the Alleluia, the following is said:

Tract. Ps. cii. 20.—Bless the Lord all ye Angels: you that are mighty in strength, and execute His word. ℣. Bless the Lord, all ye His hosts: you ministers of His that do His will. Ibid. 21,22. ℣. Bless the Lord, all His works: in every place of His dominion, O my soul, bless thou the Lord.

Tractus. — Benedícite Dóminum omnes Angeli ejus: poténtes virtúte qui fácitis verbum ejus. ℣. Benedícite Dómino omnes virtútes ejus: minístri ejus, qui fácitis voluntátem ejus. ℣. Benedícite Dómino ómnia ópera ejus: in omni loco dominatiónis ejus, bénedic ánima mea Dómino.

In Paschal Time, the Gradual is omitted, instead of which is said:

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. cxxxvii. 1, 2.—℣. I will praise Thee with my whole heart in the sight of the Angels: I will worship towards Thy holy temple, and I will give glory to Thy name. Alleluia. Matt. xxviii. 2. ℣. The angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and coming, rolled back the stone, and sat upon it. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. In conspéctu Angelórum psallam tibi: adorábo ad templum sanctum tuum, et confitébor nómini tuo. Allelúia. ℣. Angelus Dómini descéndit de coelo, et accédens revólvit lápidem, et sedébat super eum. Allelúia.

Gospel: Quis, putas, p. 1672.—The Credo is said.

Offertory. Ps. cii. 20, 21.—Bless the Lord, all ye His angels: you ministers of His who execute His word, hearkening to the voice of His orders.

Offertórium. — Benedícite Dóminum omnes Angeli ejus: minístri ejus, ad audiéndam vocem sermónum ejus.

Latin	English
Secréta. — Súscipe, Dómine, múnera, quae pro sanctórum Angelórum tuórum veneratióne deférimus: et concéde propítius; ut, perpétuis eórum praesídiis, a praeséntibus perículis liberémur et ad vitam perveniámus aetérnam. Per Dóminum.	Secret.—Graciously receive, O Lord, the gifts we lay at Thy feet, in veneration of Thy holy Angels: and in Thy loving kindness grant that, under their watchful guardianship, we escape the manifold dangers that threaten us, and safely reach that life which is everlasting. Through our Lord.
Commúnio. — Benedícite omnes Angeli Dómini Dóminum: hymnum dícite et superexaltáte eum in saecula.	Communion. Dan. iii. 58.—All ye Angels of the Lord, bless the Lord, sing a hymn, and exalt Him above all for ever.
Postcommúnio. — Súmpsimus, Dómine, divína mystéria, sanctórum Angelórum tuórum festivitáte laetántes: quaesumus; ut eórum protectióne ab hóstium júgiter liberémur insídiis et contra ómnia advérsa muniámur. Per Dóminum.	Postcommunion. — Having in joyful celebration of the feast-day of Thy holy Angels partaken, O Lord, of the divine mysteries: humbly we beg of Thee, under their guardianship, to be at all times delivered from the craft of our enemies and to be made strong, against all adversity. Through our Lord.

OCTOBER 4.

St. Francis of Assisi, CONFESSOR.*—Greater-double.—White vestments.

Born at Assisi, in Umbria, St. Francis was raised up by God to work at the same time as St. Dominic† for the moral regeneration of the world at a most troublous period. Having been baptised John, he received the name of Francis from his father, who found the newly-born babe on his return from a successful business journey in France.

"The more the sublime enthusiast," says Montalembert, "hid himself and depreciated himself to make himself worthy by humility and men's contempt to be the vessel of divine love, the more, by a wonderful effect of grace, men rushed to follow him." Francis soon had disciples (Communion) who reduced themselves to the same poverty as himself and shared his ardour for the conversion of the people. "My brothers," he would say, "let us preach penance, rather by example than by preaching." Next he gave them a Rule which was approved by Innocent III., in 1210. In the following year, he obtained from the Benedictines the little church of Our Lady of the Angels called Portiuncula‡, which was the cradle of his Order. The new religious family with which he enriched the Church (Collect), multiplied so rapidly that about ten years after its birth, there were five thousand brothers

* See Historical Summary, p. 1013.

† Francis, says Dante, was a true seraph by the love which devoured his soul; Dominic by his enlightened knowledge ranks with the cherubin. The former lived between 1182 and 1226 the latter between 1170 and 1221. It is related that Louis, King of France, used to say that if he could divide himself he would give half of himself to St. Dominic and the other half to St. Francis.

‡ The property of the Benedictines of Mount Subaso was thus called because it was made up of small portions of land. After having restored the church of Our Lady of the Angels, St. Francis obtained from the Pope the grant of a plenary indulgence for all the faithful who visited it on August 2, the anniversary of its consecration. For the last few years all parish churches enjoy the same privilege.

at the general chapter held at Assisi.* Wishing them to consider themselves the least among religious, St. Francis gave them the name of Friars Minor, and he himself remained a deacon all his life. Next to this first Order, he founded another, the Order of "Poor Clares," thus called after St. Clare, the illustrious virgin of Assisi.† Lastly, in 1221, he founded a third called the "Order of Penitence" on which the Popes, and especially Leo XIII., who considered it an honour to belong to it, lavished the greatest encouragement and the richest favours.

St. Francis sent his disciples to France, Germany, Spain, Africa; he himself wanted to go to Palestine and Morocco, but Divine Providence stopped him on the way. The divine love which burned in him caused him to be surnamed Seraphic.

On October 4, 1226, he gave up his soul to God while finishing the last verse of Psalm 141: "Bring my soul out of prison, O Lord, that I may praise Thy name."

MASS.

Intróitus. — Mihi autem absit gloriári, nisi in cruce Dómini nostri Jesu Christi: per quem mihi mundus crucifíxus est, et ego mundo. Ps. Voce mea ad Dóminum clamávi: voce mea ad Dóminum deprecátus sum. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Gal. vi. 14.—But God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ: by Whom the world is crucified to me, and I to the world. Ps. cxli. 2. I cried to the Lord with my voice: with my voice I made supplication to the Lord. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui Ecclésiam tuam, beáti Francísci méritis faetu novae prolis amplíficas: tríbue nobis: ex ejus imitatióne, terréna despícere, et coeléstium donórum semper participatióne gaudére. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who, through the merits of blessed Francis dost magnify Thy Church, enriching it anew with spiritual offspring: make us, like him, to disdain the goods of earth, nor at any time to lack the comforting gifts of heaven. Through our Lord.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Gálatas.—FRATRES:

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul to the Galatians vi.

* In 1264 the Franciscans possessed 8,000 houses and their numbers went on increasing in the Middle Ages. Dissolved and dispersed during the Revolution, they were re-established in France later on. They have given to the Church 29 Saints, 56 Blessed, 5 Popes and many Cardinals, Bishops and Doctors, such as St. Bonaventure, Alexander of Hales, Roger Bacon, Duns Scotus. In 1909 the Friars Minor numbered 16,900 members all over the world.

† Her feast is on August 12.

14-18.—BRETHREN, But God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ: by Whom the world is crucified to me, and I to the world. For in Christ Jesus neither circumcision availeth anything, nor uncircumcision, but a new creature: and whosoever shall follow this rule, peace on them, and mercy, and upon the Israel of God. From henceforth let no man be troublesome to me; for I bear the marks of the Lord Jesus in my body. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit, brethren! Amen.

Mihi autem absit gloriári, nisi in cruce Dómini nostri Jesu Christi: per quem mihi mundus crucifíxus est, et ego mundo. In Christo enim Jesu neque circumcísio áliquid valet, neque praepútium, sed nova creatúra. Et quicúmque hanc régulam secúti fúerint, pax super illos, et misericórdia, et super Israël Dei. De cétero nemo mihi moléstus sit: ego enim stígmata Dómini Jesu in córpore meo porto. Grátia Dómini nostri Jesu Christi cum spíritu vestro, fratres. Amen.

Gradual. Ps. xxxvi. 30, 31.—The mouth of the just shall meditate wisdom, and his tongue shall speak judgment. ℣. The law of his God is in his heart: and his steps shall not be supplanted.

Graduále. — Os justi meditábitur sapiéntiam, et lingua ejus loquétur judícium. ℣. Lex Dei ejus in corde ipsíus: et non supplantabúntur gressus ejus.

Alleluia, alleluia.—℣. Lo! Francis, he who was poor and lowly, enters, a rich man, into heaven: with their hymns the Angels give him welcome. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Franciscus pauper et húmilis, coelum dives ingréditur, hymnis coeléstibus honorátur. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew xi. 25-30.—AT that time, Jesus answering, said: I confess to Thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because Thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them to little ones. Yea, Father; for so hath it seemed meo. Et nemo novit Fílium, nisi Pater: neque Patrem quis novit, nisi Fílius, et cui volúerit Fílius reveláre. Veníte ad me omnes, qui laborátis, et oneráti estis, et ego refíciam vos. Tóllite jugum meum super vos, et díscite a me, quia mitis sum, et húmilis corde: et inveniétis réquiem animábus vestris. Jugum enim meum suáve est, et onus meum leve.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—IN illo témpore: Respóndens Jesus, dixit: Confíteor tibi, Pater, Dómine coeli et terrae, quia abscondísti haec a spiéntibus et prudéntibus, et revelásti ea párvulis. Ita Pater: quóniam sic fuit plácitum ante te. Omnia mihi trádita sunt a Patre

good in Thy sight. All things are delivered to Me by My Father. And no one knoweth the Son, but the Father: neither doth any one know the Father, but the Son, and he to whom it shall please the Son to reveal Him. Come to Me all you that labour, and are burdened, and I will refresh you. Take up My yoke upon you, and learn of Me, because I am meek and humble of heart: and you shall find rest to your souls. For My yoke is sweet and my burden light.

Offertórium. — Véritas mea, et misericórdia mea cum ipso: et in nómine meo exaltábitur cornu ejus.

Offertory. Ps. lxxxviii. 25.— My truth and My mercy shall be with him: and in My name shall his horn be exalted.

Secréta. — Múnera tibi, Dómine, dicáta sanctífica: et, intercedénte beáto Francísco, ab omni nos culpárum labe purífica. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Sanctify, O Lord, the offerings we dedicate to Thee: and, hearkening to the prayers of blessed Francis, wash us from every stain of sin. Through our Lord.

Commúnio. — Fidélis servus et prudens, quem constítuit dóminus super famíliam suam: ut det illis in témpore trítici mensúram.

Communion. Luke xii. 42.— A faithful and wise steward, whom the Lord set over His family: to give them their measure of wheat in due season.

Postcommúnio. — Ecclésiam tuam, quaesumus, Dómine, grátia coeléstis amplíficet: quam beáti Francísci Confessóris tui illumináre voluísti gloriósis méritis, et exémplis. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — May, O Lord, the pouring forth upon her of grace from heaven magnify Thy Church, which Thou hast willed to enlighten by the glorious merits and example of Thy holy Confessor Francis. Through our Lord.

OCTOBER 5.

St. Placid and his Companions.*—Simple.—Red vestments.

The holiness of Benedict in his grotto at Subiaco soon drew around him many disciples, of which the two greatest were St. Maurus, apostle of the Benedictine Order in France,† and St. Placid. Both were committed to the care of the holy Patriarch, the former at twelve years of age and the latter when a child of four years old, by their parents who belonged to the most illustrious patrician families of Rome; under the guidance of such a master, they made rapid progress in holiness.

St. Benedict had a special predilection for young Placid, and just as the Saviour chose certain of His disciples to be witness of His miracles, so he liked to be accompanied by the pious child when God gave him miracles to work. On one occasion while drawing water from the lake of Subiaco, Placid fell in, and the waves carried him far from the shore. The man of God sent Maurus who, walking miraculously on the waters, saved him.

Having with St. Maurus followed St. Benedict to Monte Cassino, he became one of the firmest supports of the great Patriarch of western monks.

Mass : Salus autem, p. 238, except the Collects which are those of the Mass : Sapientiam, p. 235.

OCTOBER 6.

St. Bruno, CONFESSOR.‡—Double.—White vestments.

Bruno was born at Cologne, in the 11th century. With six of his friends, he retired on one of the desert heights of Dauphiny called the Certosa, which had been conceded to them by the Bishop of Grenoble (Gospel). There he founded the first monastery of the Order of penitence and contemplation,§ which is held so highly by the Church that by the prescriptions of Canon Law the religious of other Orders may enter this one so as to lead a more perfect life.

St. Bruno died pressing the crucifix to his lips, on October 6, 1101.

Mass : Os justi, p. 270, except :

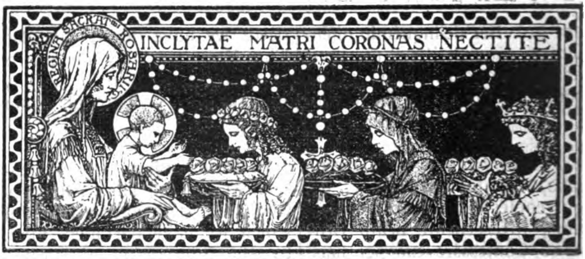
Collect.—Very humbly, we implore, O Lord, the succour of the prayers of Saint Bruno, Thy Confessor: by our evil	Orémus. — Sancti Brunónis Confessóris tui, quaesumus, Dómine, intercessiónibus adjuvémur: ut, qui majestátem tu-

* See Historical Summary, p. 1011. † See January 15, p. 1214.
‡ See Historical Summary, p. 1012.
§ This Order has given to the Church several Saints, 2 Cardinals, 70 Archbishops and Bishops, several famous writers, one of the most distinguished being Dionysius, the Carthusian.



am gráviter delinquéndo offéndimus, ejus méritis et précibus, nostrórum delictórum véniam consequámur. Per Dóminum.

deeds we have deeply offended Thy Majesty; may his merits and intercession win for us Thy forgiveness. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui coeléstia aliménta percépimus, intercedénte beáto Brunóne Confessóre tuo per haec contra ómnia advérsa muniámur. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Vouchsafe, we beseech Thee, Almighty God, that the heavenly bread of which we have partaken, may, by the intercession of Blessed Bruno, Thy Confessor, strengthen us against all adversity. Through our Lord.

The Mysteries of the Holy Rosary: Joyful, Sorrowful, Glorious.

OCTOBER 7.

The Most Holy Rosary of the Blessed Virgin Mary.*—

Double of the Second Class.—White vestments.

It was the custom in the Middle Ages, as formerly among the Romans, for noble personages to wear crowns of flowers called chaplets, which later on became the golden diadems worn by kings. These crowns were offered to persons of distinction as a feudal due.

The Virgin, as Queen of Heaven and of souls, has a right to the same homage: wherefore the Church asks us to recognise the title of Mary, as Queen of the Holy Rosary, and she exhorts us to offer to her as Daughter of the Father, Mother of the Son and Spouse of the Holy Ghost a triple chaplet† or three crowns of roses, of which she shows us all the beauties in to-day's office, and to which she has given the name of rosary

The Collect reminds us that the Rosary is a mental prayer in which we meditate on the mysteries of the life, death and resurrection of Jesus; with these Mary was intimately associated.‡

The Gospel, which gives us the chief part of the angelical salutation, shows us that the Rosary is a vocal prayer. The Pater, Credo and the Gloria, which are recited with the Ave Marias, are also found in the Mass or in the Divine office.

The Rosary, as a private devotion, consists therefore of elements taken from the liturgical Cycle, and as a solemnity of the Church it forms part of the Cycle.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1016.

† The word Chaplet, as the third of the Rosary is called, is the diminutive of Chapel.

‡ The feast of the Most Holy Rosary is a summary of the liturgical year, as we meditate on the mysteries, and also of the breviary, as we recite 150 Ave Marias corresponding to 150 psalms ending by Gloria Patri; it shows in an admirable triptych the joyful, sorrowful and glorious events in the lives of Jesus and Mary which are recalled in succession in the Catholic calendar. In the Christmas Cycle the soul, plunged in an atmosphere of joy, meditates on the 5 joyful mysteries, on Wednesdays and Fridays, on Ember Days in winter, on Christmas Day, on February 2 and on the Sunday in the Octave of the Epiphany. Again she contemplates, during the sad season of the Passion, the 5 sorrowful mysteries on Holy Thursday and Good Friday. Lastly, she sympathises amid the joys of the Paschal Season and Pentecost with the 5 glorious mysteries at the feasts of Easter, Ascension, the Descent of the Holy Ghost and the Assumption of the Virgin.—There is a plenary indulgence analogous to that of the Portiuncula to be gained on the day of this feast by all the faithful who visit a church where the archconfraternity of the Rosary is established.

This prayer has, in the course of centuries, obtained many graces for Christendom. It was as a special commemoration of the signal of victory at Lepanto, on Sunday, October 7, 1571, a favour due to the recitation of the Rosary, when the forces of Islam threatening to invade Europe were broken, that the feast of our Lady of the Rosary was instituted, replacing very significantly the feast of our Lady of Victory. Prescribed by Gregory XIII. for certain churches, it was extended to the Catholic world by Clement XI., in thanksgiving for another triumph over the same foes in Hungary in 1716 under Charles VI.

Leo XIII., moved by the sorrowful trials under which the Church groans, raised the feast to one of the 2nd Class with a new Mass and office.

FIRST VESPERS (October 6).

First Psalm Dixit Dóminus, p. 98; Second Psalm Laudáte puéri, p. 102; Third Psalm Laetátus sum, p. 128; Fourth Psalm Nisi Dóminus, p. 129; Fifth Psalm Laúda Jerusalem, p. 134.

Ant. — 1. Quae est ista * speciósa sicut colúmba, quasi rosa plantáta super rivos aquárum?

Ant. 1. Ecclus. xxxix. 17. Who is she, beautiful as a dove, as the rose planted by the brooks of waters?

2. Virgo potens, * sicut turris David; mille clypei pendent ex ea, omnis armatúra fórtium.

2. Song of Sol. iv. 4. O powerful Virgin, thou art as the tower of David: a thousand bucklers hang upon it, all the armour of valiant men.

3. Ave María, * grátia plena, Dóminus tecum, benedícta tu in muliéribus.

3. Luke i. 28. Hail Mary, full of grace, the Lord is with thee, blessed art thou amongst women.

4. Benedíxit te Dóminus * in virtúte sua, quia per te ad níhilum redégit inimícos nostros.

4. Judith xiii. 22. The Lord hath blessed thee by His power, because by thee He hath brought our enemies to nought.

5. Vidérunt eam * fíliae Sion vernántem in flóribus rosárum, et beatíssimam praedicavérunt.

5. Song of Sol. vi. 8. The daughters of Sion saw her blooming with the flowers of roses, and declared her most blessed.

Capitúlum. — In me grátia omnis viae et veritátis, † in me omnis spes vitae et virtútis: *

Chapter. Ecclus. l, 8.—In me is all grace of the way and of the truth, in me is all hope of life and of virtue: I am as the rose planted by the brooks of waters.

ego quasi rosa plantáta super rivos aquárum fructificávi.

Hymn (The same tune as at Second Vespers, p. 1691).

1. A messenger from the heavenly court, unveiling divine secrets, salutes the Virgin full of grace, Mother of God.

1. Coeléstis aulae Nuntius,
Arcana pandens Núminis,
Plenam salútat grátia
Dei Paréntem Vírginem.

2. The Virgin visits her relative, the mother of John, who leaps in his mother's womb, announcing the presence of Christ.

2. Virgo propínquam sánguine
Matrem Joánnis vísitat,
Qui clausus alvo géstiens
Adésse Christum núntiat.

3. The Word, which of all eternity came forth from the Father's mind, is born a mortal infant from the womb of his Virgin mother.

3. Verbum, quod ante saecula
E mente Patris pródiit,
E Matris alvo Vírginis
Mortális Infans náscitur.

4. The child is presented at the Temple, the Lawgiver obeys the law, and the Redeemer, redeemed by a poor offering, sacrifices Himself.

4. Templo Puéllus sístitur,
Legíque paret Légifer,
Hic se Redémptor páupere
Prétio redémptus ímmolat.

5. Still lamenting His loss, the joyous mother soon finds her Son explaining mysteries to the learned doctors.

5. Quem jam dolébat pérditum
Mox laeta Mater ínvenit
Ignóta doctis méntibus
Edisseréntem Fílium.

6. O Jesus, born of the Virgin, to Thee be glory with the Father and the divine Spirit. world without end. Amen.

6. Jesu, tibi sit glória,
Qui natus es de Vírgine
Cum Patre et almo Spíritu
In sempitérna saecula.
Amen.

℣. Queen of the most holy rosary pray for us.
℟. That we may be made worthy of the promises of Christ.

℣. Regína sacratíssimi Rosárii, ora pro nobis.
℟. Ut digni efficiámur promissiónibus Christi.

Ant. at the Magnificat. — Luke i. 45.—Blessed art thou,

Ant. — Beáta es, * Virgo María, Dei Génitrix, quae credi-dísti Dómino; perfécta sunt in te quae dicta sunt tibi, intercéde pro nobis ad Dóminum Deum nostrum.

O Virgin Mary, Mother of God that hast believed, because those things shall be accomplished that were spoken to thee, by the Lord, our God.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Gaudeámus omnes in Dómino, diem festum celebrántes sub honóre beátae Maríae Vírginis: de cujus solemnitáte gaudent Angeli, et collaúdant Fílium Dei. Ps. Eructávit cor meum verbum bonum: dico ego ópera mea Regi. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit.—Let us all rejoice in the Lord, celebrating a festival-day in honour of the blessed Virgin Mary, for whose solemn festival the Angels rejoice and give praise to the Son of God. Ps. xliv. 2. My heart hath uttered a good word: I speak my works to the king. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, cujus Unigénitus per vitam, mortem et resurrectiónem suam nobis salútis aetérnae praemia comparávit: concéde, quaesumus; ut, haec mystéria sanctíssimo beátae Maríae Vírginis Rosário recoléntes, et imitémur quod cóntinent, et quod promíttunt, assequámur. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Whose only-begotten Son, by His life, death and resurrection, hath purchased for us the reward of eternal life: grant, we beseech Thee, that, meditating on these mysteries in the most holy Rosary of the Blessed Virgin Mary, we may imitate what they contain, and obtain what they promise. Through the same.

In Private Masses, Commemoration of St. Mark and of SS. Sergius and Companions from the Collects of the following Masses, p. 1693.

Epistóla. Léctio libri Sapiéntiae. — Dóminus possédit me in inítio viárum suárum, ántequam quidquam fáceret a princípio. Ab aetérno ordináta sum, et ex antíquis, ántequam terra fíeret. Nondum erant abyssi, et ego jam concépta eram. Nunc ergo, fílii, audíte me: Beáti, qui custódiunt vias meas. Audíte disciplínam, et

Epistle. Prov. viii. 22-24, 32-35.—Lesson from the Book of Wisdom.—The Lord possessed me in the beginning of His ways, before He made anything, from the beginning I was set up from eternity, and of old, before the earth was made. The depths were not as yet, and I was already conceived. Now therefore, ye children, hear me blessed are they that keep my ways. Hear instruction, and be wise, and refuse it not. Blessed is the man that heareth me, and that watcheth daily at my gates; and waiteth at the posts of my doors. He that shall find me, shall find life, and shall have salvation from the Lord.

estóte sapiéntes, et nolíte abjícere eam. Beátus homo, qui audit me, et qui vígilat ad fores meas quotídie, et obsérvat ad postes óstii mei. Qui me invénerit, invéniet vitam, et háuriet salútem a Dómino.

Gradual. Ps. xliv. 5, 11, 12.—Because of truth, and meekness, and justice: and thy right hand shall conduct thee wonderfully. ℣. Hearken, O daughter, and see, and incline thine ear, for the king hath greatly desired thy beauty.

Graduále. — Propter veritátem, et mansuetúdinem, et justítiam: et dedúcet te mirabíliter déxtera tua. ℣. Audi, fília et vide, et inclína aurem tuam: quia concupívit Rex spéciem tuam.

Alleluia, alleluia. — ℣. The solemn festival of the glorious Virgin Mary of the seed of Abraham, sprung from the tribe of Juda, of David's royal race. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Solémnitas gloriósae Vírginis Maríae ex sémine Abrahae, ortae de tribu Juda, clara ex stirpe David, Allelúia.

Gospel: Missus est, p. 193.—The Credo is said.

Offertory. Ecclus. xxiv. 25, xxxix. 17.—In me is all grace of the way and of the truth; in me is all hope of life and of virtue. Like a rose planted on the rivers I have borne fruit.

Offertórium. — In me grátia omnis viae et veritátis, in me omnis spes vitae et virtútis: ego quasi rosa plantáta super rivos aquárum fructificávi.

Secret.—Make us, O Lord, we beseech Thee, to prepare ourselves as is meet, for the offering up to Thee of this sacrifice: and in the mysteries of the most holy Rosary, so devoutly to go over the life, passion and glory of Thine only-begotten Son, as to be made worthy of His promise: Who liveth and reigneth.

Secréta.— Fac nos quaesumus, Dómine, his munéribus offeréndis conveniénter aptári: et per sacratíssimi Rosárii mystéria sic vitam, passiónem, et glóriam Unigéniti tui recólere; ut ejus digni promissiónibus efficiámur: Qui tecum.

Commemoration of St. Mark and of the Holy Martyrs as in the following Masses.

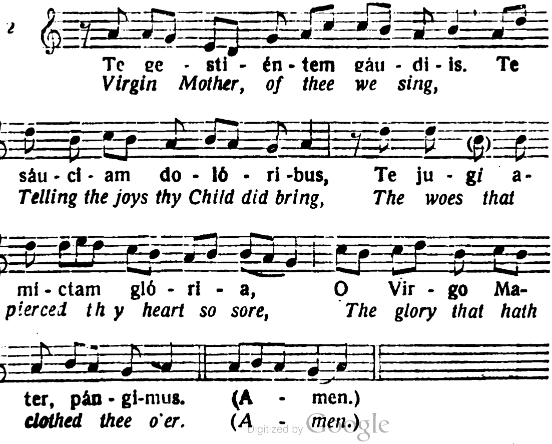
Preface of the Blessed Virgin Mary: Et te in Festivitáte, p. 56.

Commúnio. — Floréte flores quasi lílium, et date odórem, et frondéte in grátiam, collaudáte cánticum et benedícite Dóminum in opéribus suis.

Communion. Ecclus. xxxix 19.—Send forth flowers, as the lily, and yield a smell, and bring forth leaves in grace, and praise with canticles, and bless the Lord in His works.

Postcommúnio. — Sanctíssimae Genítricis tuae, cujus Rosárium celebrámus, quaesumus. Dómine, précibus adjuvémur: ut et mysteriórum, quae cólimus, virtus percipiátur; et sacramentórum, quae súmpsimus, obtineátur efféctus: Qui vivis.



Postcommunion. — May we be helped, O Lord, we beseech Thee, by the prayers of Thy most holy mother, whose Rosary we are celebrating, so that we may draw strength from the mysteries which we reverence and receive grace from the sacraments which we have taken: Who livest and reignest.

Commemoration of St. Mark and of the Holy Martyrs as in the following Masses.

SECOND VESPERS.

All as for First Vespers except:

Hymn.

2. Hail! joyous, blessed Mother, one [Son,
Who did conceive so great a
Did visit with Him, gave Him birth, [on earth.
Offered Him, found Him, here

2. Ave, redúndans gáudio
Dum cóncipis, dum vísitas,
Et edis, óffers, ínvenis,
Mater beáta, Fílium.

3. Hail! chief of martyrs, in thy heart [the smart
Bearing, as 'twere thine own,
Of thy Son's agony, the blows,
The thorns, the cross He undergoes!

3. Ave, dolens, et íntimo
In cord*e* agónem, vérbera,
Spinas, crucémque Fílii
Perpéssa, princeps Mártyrum.

4. Hail, queen! thou dost in glory shine;
Thy Son's triumphal days are thine; [delight;
The Spirit's fires thy soul
Thine is the heavenly realm so bright!

4. Ave, in triúmphis Fílii,
In ígnibus Paráclìti,
In regn*i* honór*e* et lúmine,
Regína fulgens glória.

5. O come, ye peoples, gather ye
Roses from every mystery!
Weave ye your crowns to praise above [love.
The glorious Mother of fair

5. Veníte gentes, cárpite
Ex his rosas mystériis,
Et pulchr*i* amóris ínclytae
Matri corónas néctite.

6. Glory, O Lord, be given to Thee, [to be:
Who of a Virgin deigned'st
May the same praise for ever great [Amen.
The Father and the Paraclete.

6. Jesu, tibi sit glória,
Qui natus es de Vírgine,
Cum Patr*e*, et almo Spíritu,
In sempitérna saecula.
Amen.

℣. Queen of the most holy Rosary, pray for us.
℟. That we may be made worthy of the promises of Christ.

℣. Regína sacratissími Rosárii, ora pro nobis.
℟. Ut digni efficiámur promissiónibus Christi.

Ant. at the Magnificat. — O Blessed Mother and unspotted Virgin, glorious queen of the world, may all who celebrate thy solemnity of the most holy Rosary experience thy help.

Ant. — Beáta Mater * et intácta Virgo, gloriósa Regína mundi, séntiant omnes tuum juvámen, quicúmque célebrant tuam sanctíssimi Rosárii solemnitátem.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Mark, POPE, CONFESSOR.*—White vestments.

Mark, a Roman, occupied the Holy See eight months, under the reign of Constantine the Great. He succeeded St. Sylvester and continued with great zeal the organisation of the Church begun by the latter Pope, thanks to the long era of peace inaugurated by the Emperor. He died A.D. 336.

Mass: Sacerdótes, p. 259, except:

Orémus.—Exáudi, Dómine, preces nostras: et, interveniénte beáto Marco Confessóre tuo atque Pontífice, indulgéntiam nobis tríbue placátus, et pacem. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Graciously hear our prayers, O Lord; and appeased by the intercession of blessed Mark, Thy confessor and bishop, vouchsafe unto us pardon and peace. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Accépta tibi sit, Dómine, sacrátae plebis oblátio, pro tuórum honóre Sanctórum: quorum se méritis de tribulatióne percepísse cognóscit auxílium. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—May this offering, made by a people consecrated to Thee, find favour, O Lord, in Thy sight: it is in honour of Thy saints that we lay it before Thee, for as much, as by their merits, help in distress has full often come to us. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Da, quaesumus, Dómine, fidélibus pópulis Sanctórum tuórum semper veneratióne laetári: et eórum perpétua supplicatióne muníri. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — To thy faithful people, vouchsafe, we beseech Thee, O Lord, ever to rejoice while venerating Thy saints: and to draw strength from their unceasing prayer. Through our Lord.

THE SAME DAY.

SS. Sergius, Bacchus, Marcellus and Apuleius,† MARTYRS.

"In Lower Syria," says the Martyrology, "the holy Martyrs Sergius and Bacchus, noble Romans, who lived under the Emperor Maximian. Bacchus was scourged with thongs that tore his flesh; he died in his torments confessing the name of Jesus. Sergius, forced to wear shoes with nails piercing his feet, remained firm in the faith and was beheaded. At Rome the holy Martyrs Marcellus and Apuleius abandoned Simon the Magician, whose disciples they had been, to follow the teaching of St. Peter. After the martyrdom of the Apostles they themselves obtained the same crown under Diocletian and were buried near Rome."

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009. † Ibid., p. 1009.

Mass : Sapiéntiam, p. 235, except:

Collect.—May the blessed deeds of Thy holy martyrs Sergius, Bacchus, Marcellus and Apuleius plead for us, O Lord, and may they make us ever burn with love for Thee. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum nos, Dómine, Sérgii, Bacchi, Marcélli et Apuléii beáta mérita prosequántur: et tuo semper fáciant amóre fervéntes. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Let this victim which we shall sacrifice, O Lord, we beseech Thee, appease Thy Majesty, through the holy intercession of Thy saints. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Majestátem tuam nobis, Dómine quaesumus, haec hóstia reddat immolánda placátam, tuórum digna postulatióne Sanctórum. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — May we be strengthened, O Lord, by the mysteries we have received, and through the intercession of Thy holy martyrs Sergius, Bacchus, Marcellus and Apuleius, may we be shielded by heavenly armour against all wicked assaults. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Sacraméntis, Dómine, muniámur accéptis: et sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Sérgii, Bacchi, Marcélli et Apuléii intercessióne, contra omnes nequítias irruéntes, armis coeléstibus protegámur. Per Dóminum.

OCTOBER 8.

St. Bridget, WIDOW.*—Double.—White vestments.

St. Bridget was a descendant of the Kings of Sweden. She was married to the prince of Mericia, and brought up her eight children in a holy way; one of them was St. Catherine of Sweden. She led her husband to such a virtuous life that he renounced the world to submit himself to the Cistercian Rule, in the monastery at Alvastra: he died there in the odour of sanctity.

Bridget became still more fervent in her holy widowhood " devoting herself to all manner of good works and persevering day and night in prayer " (Epistle). Like a man who has discovered a treasure and who sells all he possesses to acquire it (Gospel), she divided her riches among her children, and detached from everything, she only sought the kingdom of heaven. Filled with the fear of God, she subjected her body to the severest penance (Introit), and Jesus, whom she thus imitated in His passion, rewarded her by revealing heavenly secrets to her (Collect). He gave her the constitutions of the Order which she founded under the rule of St. Augustine.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1018.

Mass : Cognóvi, p. 304, except :

Orémus. — Dómine, Deus noster, qui beátae Birgíttae per Fílium tuum unigénitum secréta coeléstia reveIásti : ipsíus pia intercessióne da nobis fámulis tuis ; in revelatióne sempitérnae glóriae tuae gaudére laetántes. Per Dóminum.

Collect. — O Lord our God, Who through Thine only-begotten Son, didst reveal secrets of heaven to blessed Bridget ; grant, through her loving intercession, that we Thy servants may rejoice with gladness at the revelation of Thine eternal glory. Through the same.

Epistle : Caríssime, Víduas honóra, p. 307.

OCTOBER 9.

SS. Dionysius, THE BISHOP, Rusticus and Eleutherius, MARTYRS.*—Semi-double.—Red vestments.

Dionysius (Denis), the first bishop of Paris, accompanied by the priest Rusticus and the deacon Eleutherius, was sent to Lutetia in the 3rd century. After carrying out his mission there for several years, he was beheaded with his companions† at Catulliacus, now St. Denis, where they erected over his tomb a basilica ; here the kings of France were buried. He is one of the 14 Auxiliary Saints, see July 25. The Gospel and Collect show forth the Christian heroism of these three Martyrs who fearlessly confessed the name of Christ before men and remained firm in the midst of their sufferings. In the 9th century St. Dionysius was erroneously identified with St. Dionysius the Areopagite, whence the Epistle in the Mass relating the conversion of the latter Saint which happened when St. Paul passed through Greece in his second journey (see p. 1006).

MASS.

Intróitus. — Sapiéntia sanctórum narrent pópuli, et laudes eórum nuntiet ecclésia : nómina autem eórum vivent in saeculum saeculi. Ps. Exsultáte justi in Dómino : rectos decet collaudátio. ℟. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ecclus. xliv. 15, 14.— Let the people show forth the wisdom of the saints, and the church declare their praise ; and their names shall live unto generation and generation. Ps. xxxii. 1. Rejoice in the Lord, ye just : praise becometh the upright. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008.
† That is why he is represented bearing his head in his hands.

Collect.—O God, Who for the enduring of his passion, didst on this day endue blessed Dionysius, Thy martyr-bishop, with the virtue of fortitude, and who for the preaching of Thy glory didst vouchsafe graciously to appoint Rusticus and Eleutherius to be his fellow-workers: enable us, we beseech Thee, after their example, rather than forfeit Thy love, neither to set store upon worldly well-being, nor to fear any of the troubles of this life. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui hodierna die beátum Dionysium, Mártyrem tuum atque Pontíficem, virtúte constántiae in passióne roborásti, quique illi, ad praedicándum géntibus glóriam tuam, Rústicum et Eleuthérium sociáre dignátus es: tríbue nobis, quaesumus; eórum imitatióne, pro amóre tuo próspera mundi despícere, et nulla ejus advérsa formidáre, Per Dóminum.

Epistle. Acts xvii. 22-34.—Lesson from the Acts of the Apostles.—In those days, Paul standing in the midst of Areopagus, said, Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things you are too superstitious. For passing by and seeing your idols, I found an altar also on which was written, To the unknown God. What therefore you worship without knowing it, that I preach to you. God who made the world and all things therein, He being Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands, neither is He served with men's hands, as though He needed any thing, seeing it is He who giveth to all life, and breath, and all things; and hath made of one all mankind to dwell upon the whole face of the earth, determining appointed times, and the limits of their habitation, that they should seek God, if happily they may feel after Him, or find Him; although Epistola. Lectio Actuum Apostolórum.—In diébus illis: Stans Paulus in médio Areopági, ait: Viri Atheniénses, per ómnia quasi superstitiosióres vos vídeo. Praetériens enim, et videns simulácra vestra, invéni et aram, in qua scriptum erat: Ignóto Deo. Quod ergo ignorántes cólitis, hoc ego annúntio vobis. Deus, qui fecit mundum, et ómnia, quae in eo sunt, hic coeli et terrae cum sit Dóminus, non in manufáctis templis hábitat, nec mánibus humánis cólitur, índigens áliquo, cum ipse det ómnibus vitam, et inspiratiónem, et ómnia: fecítque ex uno omne genus hóminum inhabitáre super univérsam fáciem terrae, defíniens statúta témpora, et términos habitatiónis eórum, quaerere Deum, si forte attréctent eum, aut invéniant, quamvis non longe sit ab unoquóque nostrum. In ipso enim vívimus, et movémur et sumus: sicut et quidam vestrórum poëtárum dixérunt: Ipsíus enim et genus sumus. Genus ergo cum simus Dei, non debémus aestimáre auro, aut argénto, aut lápidi, sculptúrae artis, et cogitatiónis hóminis, Divínum esse símile. Et témpora quidem hujus ignorántiae despiciens Deus, nunc annúntiat homínibus ut omnes ubíque poeniténtiam agant, eo quod státuit diem, in quo judicatúrus est orbem in aequitáte, in viro, in quo státuit, fidem praebens ómnibus, súscitans eum a mórtuis. Cum audíssent autem resurrectiónem mortuórum, quidam quidem irridébant, quidam vero dixérunt: Audiémus te de hoc íterum. Sic Paulus exívit de médio eórum. Quidam vero viri adhaeréntes ei, credidérunt: in quibus et Dionysius Areopagíta, et múlier nómine Dámaris, et álii cum eis.

He be not far from every one of us, for in Him we live and move and be: as some also of your own poets said, For we are also His offspring. Being therefore the offspring of God, we must not suppose the Divinity to be like unto gold, or silver, or stone, the graving of art and device of man. And God indeed having winked at the times of this ignorance, now declareth to men, that all should everywhere do penance, because He hath appointed a day wherein He will judge the world in equity, by the man whom He hath appointed, giving faith to all, by raising him up from the dead. And when they had heard of the resurrection of the dead, some indeed mocked; but others said, We will hear thee again concerning this matter. So Paul went out from among them, but certain men adhered to him, and believed; among whom was also Dionysius the Areopagite, and a woman named Damaris, and others with them.

Graduále. — Anima nostra, sicut passer, erépta est de láqueo venántium. ℣. Láqueus contrítus est, et nos liberáti sumus: adjutórium nostrum in nómine Dómini, qui fecit coelum et terram.

Gradual. Ps. cxxiii. 7, 8.—Our soul hath been delivered, as a sparrow out of the snare of the fowlers. ℣. The snare is broken, and we are delivered: our help is in the name of the Lord, Who made heaven and earth.

Allelúia, Allelúia.—℣. Justi epuléntur, et exsúltent in conspéctu Dei: et delecténtur in laetítia. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. lxvii. 4.—℣. Let the just feast, and rejoice before God; and be delighted with gladness. Alleluia.

Gospel: Atténdite a ferménto, p. 240.

Offertory. Ps. cxlix. 5, 6.—The saints shall rejoice in glory, they shall be joyful in their beds: the high praises of God shall be in their mouths, alleluia.

Offertórium. — Exsultábunt sancti in glória, laetabúntur in cubilibus suis: exaltatiónes Dei in fáucibus eórum, allelúia.

Secret.—Graciously receive, O Lord, we beseech Thee, the gifts which Thy people offer up to Thee in honour of Thy saints, and make us holy through their intercession. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Obláta tibi, Dómine, múnera pópuli tui, pro tuórum honóre Sanctórum, súscipe propítius, quaesumus: et eórum nos intercessióne sanctífica. Per Dóminum.

Communion. Luke xii. 4.—But I say to you, my friends: Be not afraid of those who persecute you.

Commúnio. — Dico autem vobis amícis meis: ne terreámini ab his, qui vos persequúntur.

Postcommunion. — We who have received Thy sacraments, O Lord, relying upon the prayers of Thy blessed martyrs Dionysius, Rusticus and Eleutherius, most humbly crave from Thee the grace to profit thereby, to the increase of the eternal glory of Thy Redeemed. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Sumptis, Dómine, sacraméntis, quaesumus: ut, intercedéntibus beátis Martyribus tuis Dionysio, Rústico et Eleuthério, ad redemptiónis aetérnae proficiámus augméntum. Per Dóminum.

October 10.

St. Francis Borgia, Confessor.*—Semi-double.—White vestments.

After providing for the settlement of his children, St. Francis entered the Society of Jesus, where, despising all honours, he made a vow out of humility (Collect) to refuse all dignities. But for obedience sake, he had to accept the post of general of the Society. He died in 1572.

Mass: Os justi of Abbots, p. 276, except:

Collect.—O Lord Jesus Christ, Who art both the pattern and the reward of true humility; we beseech Thee that, even as Thou madest blessed Francis follow gloriously in Thy footsteps by

Orémus. — Dómine Jesu Christe, verae humilitátis et exémplar et praemium: quaesumus; ut, sicut beátum Franciscum in terréni honóris contémptu, imitatórem tui glo-

* See Historical Summary, p. 1015.

riósum effecísti, ita nos ejúsdem imitatiónis et glóriae tríbuas esse consórtes: Qui vivis.

spurning earthly honours, so Thou wouldst suffer us also to become his companions alike in following Thee and in his glory: Who livest and reignest.

Secret and Postcommunion, omit the word Abbas.

OCTOBER 13.

St. Edward, KING AND CONFESSOR.*—Semi-double.—White vestments.

Edward, called the Confessor, was a grandson of St. Edward, king and Martyr.

When he was raised to the throne of England "it was seen," says a historian, "what can be done by a king who is the true father of his subjects. All those who approached him endeavoured to regulate their lives according to his. Neither ambition, nor the love of riches, nor any of the passions which are unfortunately so common among courtiers, were known at his court." He was everywhere called the father of the orphans and of the poor, and he was never happier than when he could distribute alms (Epistle). He always granted what was requested of him in the name of St. John the Evangelist. He died A.D. 1066.

Mass: Os justi, p. 270, except:

Orémus — Deus, qui beátum regem Eduárdum Confessórem tuum aeternitátis glória coronásti: fac nos, quaesumus; ita eum venerári in terris, ut cum eo regnáre possímus in coelis. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who hast crowned with glory everlasting the blessed King Edward, Thy confessor: make us in such wise to honour him upon earth, that we be accounted worthy to reign with him for evermore in heaven. Through our Lord.

OCTOBER 14.

St. Callistus I., POPE AND MARTYR.†—Double.—White vestments.

Callistus, a Roman by birth, succeeding St. Zephyrinus on the see of St. Peter, was called to share in the priesthood of Christ in its fulness (Epistle, Collect). It is he who instituted the Ember-Day Fasts. He suffered martyrdom, A.D. 223.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Sacerdótes Dei benedícite Dóminum: sancti, et húmiles corde laudáte Deum.

Introit. Dan. iii. 84, 87.—O ye priests of the Lord, bless the Lord; O ye holy and humble of heart, praise God. Cant. Ibid.57. All ye works of the Lord, bless the Lord; praise and exalt Him above all for ever. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1012. † Ibid., p. 1007.

Ps. Benedícite ómnia ópera Dómini Dómino: laudáte et superexaltáte eum in saecula. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—O God, Who seest that we fall from our own very weakness, mercifully restore us to Thy love by the example of Thy saints. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui nos cónspicis ex nostra infirmitáte defícere: ad amórem tuum nos misericorditer per Sanctórum tuórum exémpla restáura. Per Dóminum.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Hebrews. Heb. v. 1-4.—Brethren, every high priest taken from among men is ordained for men in the things that appertain to God, that he may offer up gifts and sacrifices for sins. Who can have compassion on them that are ignorant and that err, because he himself also is compassed with infirmity; and therefore he ought, as for the people, so also for himself, to offer for sins. Neither doth any man take the honour to himself, but he that is called by God, as Aaron was.

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Hebraeos.-Fratres: Omnis póntifex, ex homínibus assúmptus, pro homínibus constitúitur in iis, quae sunt ad Deum, ut ófferat dona et sacrifícia pro peccátis: qui condolére possit iis, qui ignórant et errant: quóniam et ipse circúmdatus est infirmitáte: et proptérea debet, quemádmodum pro pópulo, ita étiam et pro semetípso offérre pro peccátis. Nec quisquam sumit sibi honórem, sed qui vocátur a Deo, tamquam Aaron.

Gradual. Ps. lxxxviii. 21, 22. —I have found David My servant: with My holy oil I have anointed him: for My hand shall help him, and My arm shall strengthen him. ℣. The enemy shall have no advantage over him; and the son of iniquity shall not hurt him.

Graduále. — Invéni David servum meum, óleo sancto meo unxi eum: manus enim mea auxiliábitur ei, et bráchium meum confortábit eum. ℣. Nihil profíciet inimícus in eo, et fílius iniquitátis non nocébit ei.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ecclus xlv. 9.—℣. The Lord loved him and adorned him: He clothed him with a robe of glory. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Amávit eum Dóminus et ornávit eum: stolam glóriae índuit eum. Allelúia.

Gospel: Nihil est opértum, p. 227.

Offertórium. — Véritas mea, et misericórdia mea cum ipso: et in nómine meo exaltábitur cornu ejus.

Offertory. Ps. lxxxviii. 25.—My truth and My mercy shall be with him; and in My name shall his horn be exalted.

Secréta. — Mystica nobis, Dómine, prosit oblátio: quae nos et a reátibus nostris expédiat, et perpétua salvatióne confírmet. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—May this mystical oblation avail us, O Lord: may it cleanse us from our sins; and may it ensure our eternal salvation. Through our Lord.

Commúnio. — Beátus servus, quem, cum vénerit dóminus, invénerit vigilántem: amen dico vobis, super ómnia bona sua constítuet eum.

Communion. Matt. xxiv. 46, 47.—Blessed is that servant whom, when his lord shall come, he shall find watching: Amen, I say to you, he shall set him over all his goods.

Postcommúnio. — Quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut reátus nostros múnera sacráta puríficent, et recte vivéndi nobis operéntur efféctum. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — We beseech Thee, Almighty God, that the hallowing of the gifts we have offered, may both wash away our guilt and make us henceforth to lead good and holy lives. Through our Lord.

OCTOBER 15.

St. Teresa, VIRGIN.*—Double.—White vestments.

St. Teresa was born at Avila in Spain. From her earliest childhood she ardently desired to die a martyr. At the age of 18, she entered the convent of St. Mary of Mount Carmel,† and consecrated herself to Christ, whom she chose for her Spouse (Epistle). Her heart was so inflamed with divine love that she wrote: "How the enraptured soul feels in this body its captivity and the misery of life! It considers itself a slave sold in a foreign land; and what is most bitter, is to see everywhere men's passionate love for this life and so few banished ones who sigh like this soul and pray for the end of their exile."‡ Counselled by Jesus, she made the difficult vow of always doing what she judged most perfect.

By prayer, she attained the highest degree of mystical life and there found such enlightenment on divine things (Collect), that her works earned for her from Popes Gregory XV. and Urban VII. the august title of Doctor of the Church, which has been given to no other woman. "The best prayer," she wrote, "and which is most pleasing to God is that which brings on improvement, showing itself in good works, and not the enjoyment which only serves for our own satisfaction."§ The influence of this humble virgin who converted thousands of souls manifestly proves the supreme importance of the contemplative life, addressing itself directly, as it does, to God, the author of all good. She died of divine love on October 4, A.D. 1582.||

* See Historical Summary, p. 1015.

† The Order of Mount Carmel which spread over the East in Apostolic times, penetrated into the West in the thirteenth century. Illustrious members of this Order, as much by their sanctity, rank or writings, are very numerous. Several have filled the greatest dignities in the Church.

‡ Her autobiography, Chap. xxi.

§ Letter to the Bishop of Avila.

|| Gregory XIII., in order to reform the Roman calendar, had ordered the suppression of ten days of the year 1582; the day after October 4 was to be called the 15th of the same month. It was during this historic night of the 4th to the 15th that St. Teresa died.

Mass : Dilexísti, p. 291, except :

Orémus. — Exáudi nos, Deus salutáris noster : ut, sicut de beátae Terésiae Vírginis festivitáte gaudémus ; ita coeléstis ejus doctrínae pábulo nutriámur, et piae devotiónis erudiámur affectu. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Graciously hear us, O God our Saviour ; that as we rejoice in the festival of Thy blessed virgin Teresa, so we may be fed with the food of her heavenly teaching and grow in loving devotion towards Thee. Through our Lord.

OCTOBER 17.

St. Hedwige, WIDOW.*—Semi-double.—White vestments.

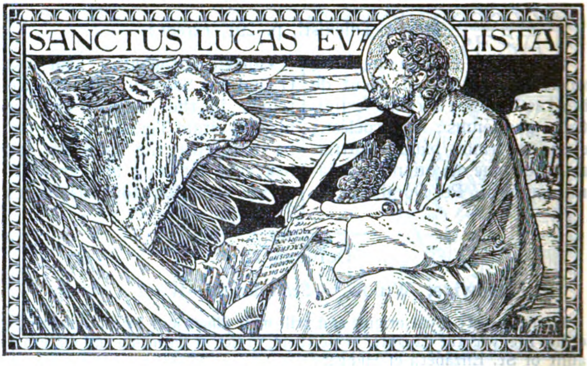
Hedwige, of royal origin, and still more illustrious by the innocence of her life, was the daughter of Berthold, prince of Carinthia and maternal aunt of St. Elizabeth of Hungary.

Having married Henry, Duke of Poland, she fulfilled her duties as wife so holily that the Church compares her to the strong woman whose portrait is drawn for us by the Holy Ghost in the Epistle of to-day. She had three sons and three daughters. She macerated her body both by fasting and watching and by the roughness of her clothes ; she was very charitable to the poor whom she herself served at table. She washed and kissed the ulcers of lepers.

To devote herself more to the service of God, she induced her husband to bind himself, by vow, with her, to observe continence. The Duke having died, Hedwige, like the merchant mentioned in the Gospel, gave away all her riches to acquire the precious pearl of eternal life. After praying earnestly and under divine inspiration, she generously exchanged worldly pomp for the life of the Cross (Collect), entering the Cistercian monastery of Trebuitz where her daughter was abbess.



She died on October 15, 1243, and Poland honours her with special veneration as her patroness.

Mass : Cognóvi, p. 304, except :

Orémus. — Deus, qui beátam Hedwígem a saeculi pompa ad húmilem tuae crucis sequélam toto corde transíre docuísti : concéde ; ut ejus méritis et exémplo discámus peritúras mundi calcáre delícias, et in ampléxu tuae crucis ómnia nobis adversántia superáre : Qui vivis.

Collect.—O God, Who didst teach blessed Hedwige to renounce the pomps of this world with her whole heart, so that she might humbly follow Thy cross ; grant that, through her example and merits, we may learn to trample under foot the perishable delights of this world, and by cleaving to Thy cross overcome whatever may withstand us : Who livest and reignest.

* See Historical Summary p. 1013.

OCTOBER 18.

St. Luke, THE EVANGELIST.*—Double of the Second Class.—Red vestments.

St. Luke, originally a pagan, was born, according to Eusebius, at Antioch, the capital of the kings of Syria. St. Paul tells us that he exercised the profession of a physician. He accompanied the Apostle of the nations in his travels, and was with him during most of his missions and when he was twice a prisoner in Rome. Owing to his connection with this master and the other Apostles, he was enabled to write the third gospel which St. Jerome and St. John Chrysostom describe as the "gospel of St. Paul."

Like the Doctor of the Gentiles, he addresses the pagans to show them that salvation is brought by Jesus to all men without exception who believe in Him. He is symbolically represented as an ox, one of the four animals in the vision of Ezekiel,† because at the beginning of his gospel he mentions the priesthood of Zacharias, and because the ox was usually the victim in the sacrifices of the old law.

The Mass of St. Luke, like that of St. Mark, offers this particular that its Gospel refers to the instructions given by the Saviour to His seventy-two disciples, both these Evangelists not having been Apostles, but only disciples of our Lord. St. Jerome relates that St. Luke died in Achaia, at the age of 84.

First Vespers (October 17) : As in the Common, p. 206.

MASS.

Introit. Ps. cxxxviii. 17.—To me, Thy friends, O God, are made exceedingly honourable; their

Intróitus. — Mihi autem nimis honoráti sunt amíci tui, Deus: nimis confortátus est

* See Historical Summary, p. 1005. † Third Lesson of the 1st Nocturn at Matins.

principatus eórum. Ps. Dómine, probásti me, et cognovísti me : tu cognovísti sessiónem meam, et resurrectiónem meam. ℣. Glória Patri.

principality is exceedingly strengthened. Ps. Ibid. 1, 2. Lord, Thou hast proved me and known me : Thou hast known my sitting down, and my rising up. ℣ Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Intervéniat pro nobis, quaesumus, Dómine, sanctus tuus Lucas Evangelísta : qui crucis mortificatiónem júgiter in suo córpore, pro tui nóminis honóre, portávit. Per Dóminum.

Collect. — May, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the prayer avail us of Saint Luke Thine evangelist : who to the glory of Thy name ever bore in his body the mortification of the holy cross. Through our Lord.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Corínthios.—Fratres : Grátias ago Deo, qui dedit eámdem sollicitúdinem pro vobis in corde Titi, quóniam exhortatiónem quidem suscépit : sed cum sollicítior esset, sua voluntáte proféctus est ad vos. Mísimus étiam cum illo fratrem, cujus laus est in Evangélio per omnes ecclésias : non solum autem, sed et ordinátus est ab ecclésiis comes peregrinatiónis nostrae in hanc grátiam, quae ministrátur a nobis ad Dómini glóriam, et destinátam voluntátem nostram : devitántes hoc, ne quis nos vitúperet in hac plenitúdine, quae ministrátur a nobis. Providémus enim bona non solum coram Deo, sed étiam coram homínibus. Mísimus autem cum illis et fratrem nostrum, quem probávimus in multis saepe sollícitum esse : nunc autem multo sollicitiórem, confidéntia multa in vos, sive pro Tito, qui est sócius meus, et in vos adjútor, sive fratres nostri, Apóstoli ecclesiárum, glória Christi. Osten-

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians. 2 Cor. viii. 16-24.—Brethren, I give thanks to God, Who hath given the same carefulness for you in the heart of Titus, for indeed he accepted the exhortation ; but being more careful of his own will he went unto you. We have sent also with him the brother, whose praise is in the gospel through all the churches ; and not that only, but he was also ordained by the churches companion of our travels for this grace, which is administered by us to the glory of the Lord and our determined will : avoiding this, lest any man should blame us in this abundance which is administered by us ; for we forecast what may be good not only before God, but also before men. And we have sent with them our brother also, whom we have proved diligent in many things ; but now much more diligent, with much confidence in you, either for Titus, who is my companion and fellow-labourer towards you, or our brethren, the apostles of the churches, the glory of Christ. Wherefore show ye to them, in the sight of the churches, the evidence of your charity, and of our boasting on your behalf.

siónem ergo, quae est caritátis vestrae, et nostrae glóriae pro vobis, in illos osténdite in fáciem ecclesiárum.

Gradual. Ps. xviii. 5.—Their sound went forth into all the earth: and their words to the ends of the world. ℣. Ibid. 2. The heavens show forth the glory of God; and the firmament declareth the works of His hands.

Graduále. — In omnem terram exívit sonus eórum: et in fínes orbis terrae verba eórum. ℣. Coeli enárrent glóriam Dei, et ópera mánuum ejus annúntiat firmaméntum.

Alleluia, alleluia. John xv. 16.—℣. I have chosen you out of the world, that you should go, and should bring forth fruit: and your fruit should remain. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Ego vos elégi de mundo, ut eátis, et fructum afferátis, et fructus vester máneat. Allelúia.

Gospel: Designávit Dóminus, p. 1346.

Offertory. Ps. cxxxviii. 17.—To me, Thy friends, O God, are exceedingly honourable; their principality is exceedingly strengthened.

Offertórium. — Mihi autem nimis honoráti sunt amíci tui, Deus: nimis confortátus est principátus eórum.

Secret.—Grant unto us, we beseech Thee, O Lord, with Thy other heavenly gifts, that of serving Thee with freedom of heart: and may the offerings we lay at Thy feet, through the intercession of blessed Luke, Thine evangelist, win for us from Thee both grace in this world and glory in that to come. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Donis coeléstibus da nobis, quaesumus, Dómine, líbera tibi mente servíre: ut múnera quae deférimus, interveniénte beáto Evangelísta tuo Luca, et medélam nobis operéntur, et glóriam. Per Dóminum.

Preface of the Apostles, p. 57.

Communion. Matt. xix. 28.—You who have followed Me, shall sit upon seats, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

Commúnio. — Vos, qui secúti estis me, sedébitis super sedes, judicántes duódecim tribus Israel.

Postcommúnio. — Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, quod de sancto altári tuo accépimus, précibus beáti Evangelístae tui Lucae, sanctíficet ánimas nostras, per quod tuti esse póssimus. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Grant, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, that the great gift we have received from Thy holy altar, may through the prayers of blessed Luke Thine evangelist, sanctify our souls and itself be our sure reliance. Through our Lord.

Second Vespers: As in the Common, p. 208.—Commemoration of St. Peter of Alcantara: Antiphon Similábo, p. 270. ℣. Amávit, p. 269.

OCTOBER 19.

St. Peter of Alcantara, CONFESSOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

Born at Alcantara, of noble parents, Peter distributed his fortune in alms (Gospel) and at the age of 16 entered the seraphic Order of St. Francis. A very rigid observer of the primitive Franciscan rule, he led a most austere life. His great devotion to the Passion of Jesus inspired him with an extraordinary love for doing penance.

He died in 1562 and appearing to St. Teresa, he said to her: "O blessed penitence which has earned for me such great glory!"

Mass: Justus, p. 273, except:

Orémus. — Deus, qui beátum Petrum Confessórem tuum admirábilis paeniténtiae at altíssimae contemplatiónis múnere illustráre dignátus es: da nobis, quaesumus; ut, ejus suffragántibus méritis, carne mortificáti, facílius coeléstia capiámus. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who wast pleased to ennoble blessed Peter, imbuing him with a marvellous spirit of penance, and bestowing upon him the gift of the highest contemplation: for the sake of his merits, grant unto us that, by mortifying the flesh, we may learn to rise more easily to an understanding of the things of heaven. Through our Lord.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Philippénses. — FRATRES: Quae mihi fuérunt lucra, haec arbitrátus sum propter Christum detriménta. Verúmtamen exístimo ómnis detriméntem sciéntiam Jesu Christi Dómini mei: propter quem ómnia detriméntum feci,

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Philippians iii. 7-12.—BRETHREN, the things that were gain to me, the same I have counted loss for Christ. Furthermore, I count all things to be but loss, for the excellent knowledge of Jesus Christ my Lord; for whom I have suffered the loss of all things, and count them but as dung, that I may win Christ; and may be found in Him, not having my justice, which is of the law, but that which is of the faith of Christ Jesus, which is of God, justice in faith; that I may know Him, and the power of His resurrection, and the fellowship of His sufferings; being made conformable to His death, if by any means I may attain to the resurrection which is from the dead; not as though I had already attained, or were already perfect; but I follow after, if I may by any means apprehend wherein I am also apprehended by Christ Jesus.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1015.

et árbitror ut stércora, ut invéniar in illo, non habens meam justítiam, quae ex lege est, sed illam quae ex fide est Christi Jesu: quae ex Deo est justítia in fide, ad cognoscéndum illum, et virtútem resurrectiónis ejus, et societátem passiónum illíus: configurátus morti ejus: si quo modo occúrram ad resurrectiónem, quae est ex mórtuis: non quod jam accéperim, aut jam perféctus sim: sequor autem, si quo modo comprehéndam, in quo et comprehénsus sum a Christo Jesu.

OCTOBER 20.

St. John Cantius, CONFESSOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

Born at Kenty, a market-town in the diocese of Cracow, St. John was raised up by Providence to keep alight the torch of faith and the flame of Christian charity during the 15th century in Poland.

He obtained all the academical degrees at the University of Cracow, where he taught for several years. Ordained priest, he offered every day the Holy Sacrifice to appease heavenly justice, for he was deeply afflicted by the offences of men against God.

He shone especially by his exquisite charity which is shown in the Introit, the Collects, the Epistle, the Gradual, the Offertory and the Communion of his Mass. He took from his own food to help those who were in need and even gave them his clothes and shoes (Epistle); and he would let his cloak fall to the ground so as not to be seen returning home barefoot. During a pilgrimage to Rome, brigands robbed him, and when he declared that he had no other possession they allowed him to pursue his journey. The Saint, who had sewn some pieces of money in his cloak remembered this, and calling the thieves he offered them the sum. But they, touched by his goodness and candour, gave him back all that they had taken.

St. John Cantius died on Christmas Eve, A.D. 1473. He is specially invoked in cases of consumption.†

* See Historical Summary, p. 1014.

† "Owing to your prayers we see epidemics disappear, stubborn diseases averted and the blessing of health restored. Those whom consumption, fever and ulcers condemn to a painful end are by you delivered from the embrace of death" (Hymn of Second Vespers).

MASS.

Intróitus. — Miserátio hóminis circa próximum: misericórdia autem Dei super omnem carnem. Qui misericórdiam habet, docet, et érudit quasi pastor gregem suum. Ps. Beátus vir, qui non ábiit in consílio impiórum, et in via peccatórum non stetit, et in cáthedra pestiléntiae non sedit. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ecclus. xviii 12, 13.—The compassion of man is towards his neighbour; but the mercy of God is upon all flesh. He hath mercy, and teacheth and correcteth, as a shepherd doth his flock. Ps. i 1. Blessed is the man who hath not walked in the counsel of the ungodly nor stood in the way of sinners, nor sat in the chair of pestilence. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Da, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, sancti Joánnis Confessóris exémplo in sciéntia Sanctórum proficiéntes, atque áliis misericórdiam exhibéntes; ejus méritis, indulgéntiam apud te consequámur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Grant, we beseech Thee, Almighty God, that by the example of Thy holy Confessor John, we may advance in the science of the Saints, and by showing mercy to others win forgiveness from Thee. Through our Lord.

Léctio Epistolae beáti Jacóbi Apóstoli. — Sic loquímini, et sic fácite, sicut per legem libertátis incipiéntes judicári. Judícium enim sine misericórdia illi, qui non fecit misericórdiam: superexáltat autem misericórdia judícium. Quid próderit, fratres mei, si fidem quis dicat se habére, ópera autem non hábeat? Numquid póterit fides salváre eum? Si autem frater, et soror nudi sint, et indígeant victu quotidiáno, dicat autem áliquis ex vobis illis: Ite in pace, calefacímini, et saturámini: non dedéritis autem eis, quae necessária sunt córpori, quid próderit? Sic et fides, si non hábeat ópera, mórtua est in semetípsa.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed James the Apostle. Jas. ii. 12-17.—So speak ye, and so do, as being to be judged by the law of liberty. For judgment without mercy to him that hath not done mercy: and mercy exalteth itself above judgment. What shall it profit, my brethren, if a man say he hath faith, but hath not works? Shall faith be able to save him? And if a brother or sister be naked, and want daily food, and one of you say to them, Go in peace, be you warmed and filled, and yet give them not those things that are necessary for the body; what shall it profit? So faith also, if it have not works, is dead in itself.

Gradual. Ps. cvi. 8, 9.—Let the mercy of the Lord give glory to him: and His wonderful works to the children of men. ℣. For he hath satisfied the empty soul, and hath filled the hungry soul with good things.

Graduále. — Confiteántur Dómino misericórdiae ejus: et mirabília ejus fíliis hóminum. ℣. Quis satiávit ánimam inánem: et ánimam esuriéntem satiávit bonis.

Alleluia, alleluia. Prov. xxxi. 20.—℣. He hath opened his hand to the needy, and stretched out his hands to the poor. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Manum suam apéruit ínopi: et palmas suas exténdit ad páuperem. Allelúia.

Gospel: Sint lumbi vestri, p. 272.

Offertory. Job xxix. 14, 16. —I was clad with justice and I clothed myself with my judgment, as with a robe and a diadem; I was an eye to the blind, and a foot to the lame; I was the father of the poor.

Offertórium. — Justítia indútus sum, et vestívi me, sicut vestiménto et diadémate, judício meo. Oculus fui caeco, et pes claudo: pater eram páuperum.

Secret. — Graciously receive these victims, O Lord, we beseech Thee, for the sake of the merits of Thy holy John the Confessor; and grant that by loving Thee above all things, and all mankind for Thy sake, we may become well-pleasing to Thee both in will and in deed. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Has, quaesumus, Dómine, hóstias sancti Joánnis Confessóris tui méritis benígnus ássume: et praesta; ut te super ómnia, et omnes propter te diligéntes, corde tibi et ópere placeámus. Per Dóminum.

Communion. Luke vi. 38.— Give, and it shall be given to you: good measure, and pressed down, and shaken together, and running over, shall they give into your bosom.

Commúnio. — Date, et dábitur vobis: mensúram bonam, et confértam, et coagitátam, et supereffluéntem dabunt in sinum vestrum.

Postcommunion. — We who have been fed with the delights of Thy precious body and blood, humbly beg Thy mercy, O Lord; so that through the example and merits of blessed John Thy Confessor we may Postcommúnio. — Pretiósi córporis, et sánguinis tui, Dómine, pasti delíciis, tuam súpplices deprecámur cleméntiam: ut sancti Joánnis Confessóris tui méritis et exémplis, ejúsdem caritátis imitatóres effécti, consórtes simus et glóriae: Qui vivis.	follow him in his charity and share with him his glory: Who livest and reignest.

October 21.

St. Hilarion, Abbot.*—Simple.—White vestments.

After the era of martyrs to whom the Church had exclusively reserved the honours of public worship, she began to raise to the altars the servants of God who had distinguished themselves by their heroic virtues, although they had not won the glory of shedding their blood for Jesus Christ.

St. Hilarion in the East, and St. Martin in the West, are at the head of the list of saints known as "Confessors." A native of Palestine, St. Hilarion studied at Alexandria, and desiring to embrace a more perfect life, he left all to follow Jesus (Gospel). He heard of St. Anthony's holiness and went to see him in Egypt. The Saint kept him for two months in order to train him to a life of penance and contemplation. He then delivered to this boy of 15 years of age a hair-shirt and a garment made of skin, saying: "Persevere to the end, my son, and thy labour shall be rewarded by the delights of heaven."

Hilarion returned to Palestine and founded monastic life there. After having built several monasteries for which he made laws, as Moses had done of old for God's people (Epistle), he retired to the island of Cyprus, so as to escape the crowd of admirers attracted by his brilliant virtues. He died a holy death at the age of 80 about A.D. 372. St. Jerome wrote his life.

Mass: Os justi of Abbots, p. 276.

Commemoration of St. Ursula from the Collects of several Virgin Martyrs, p. 290.

The Same Day.

SS. Ursula and her Companions, Virgins Martyrs.†—Red vestments.

"At Cologne," says the Roman Martyrology, "the birth in heaven of St. Ursula and her holy companions, who were massacred by the Huns, out of hatred for the Christian religion and their virginal purity. Several are buried in this city" (383).

Mass: Loquébar, p. 282.

Collects for Virgins Martyrs, p. 290.

October 24.

St. Raphael the Archangel.—Double.—White vestments.

St. Raphael is one of the seven spirits who always stand before the Lord (Ant. at the Magnificat) and offer Him the incense of their adoration and that of men (Offertory). "While thou didst pray with tears," he declared to Tobias, "and didst bury thy dead, and didst leave thy dinner to conceal the dead in thine house by day, and by night didst bury them, I presented thy prayer unto the Lord. And because thou wast agreeable to the Lord it was necessary that temptation should try thee" (Second Lesson).

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010. † Ibid., p. 1010.

Tobias became blind. "The loss of his eye-sight," says St. Augustine, "was the occasion for the old man to receive an angelical physician" (Fourth Lesson).

St. Raphael, a name meaning "God heals," was sent by God to cure Tobias as He sent the Angel who moved the water in the pool called Probatica (Gospel). He told the younger Tobias what remedy he was to use to restore his father's sight, accompanied and protected the young man on his journey, helped him to find a wife and warded off the wiles of the devil. "We praise with sentiments of veneration," the Church sings, "all the princes of the heavenly court, but in a special manner the archangel Raphael, healer and faithful companion, who chained down the devil under his power. O Christ, King of all goodness, by giving us such a guardian, make it impossible for the enemy to do us harm" (Hymn).

"May the angel Raphael, physician of our salvation, help us from the heights of heaven, heal all diseases and guide our faltering steps towards the true life" (Hymn at Lauds).

Benedict XV. extended his feast to the universal Church.

MASS.

Introit. Tobit xii. 15.—Bless the Lord, all ye His angels; you that are mighty in strength and execute His word, hearkening to the voice of His orders. Ps. Bless the Lord, O my soul; and let all that is within me bless His holy name. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus. — Benedícite Dóminum omnes Angeli ejus: poténtes virtúte qui fácitis verbum ejus ad audiéndam vocem sermónum ejus. Ps. Bénedic ánima mea Dómino: et ómnia, quae intra me sunt, nómini sancto ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect. Ps. cii. 20, 1.—O God Who to Tobias, Thy servant, when on his journey, didst give blessed Raphael the Archangel, for a companion; vouchsafe that we who are also Thy servants, may likewise be safeguarded by his watchfulness and be made strong by his help. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui beátum Raphaélem Archángelum Tobíae fámulo tuo cómitem dedísti in via: concéde nobis fámulis tuis; ut ejúsdem semper protegámur custódia, et muniámur auxílio. Per Dóminum.

Epistle. Lesson from the book of Tobias. Tobit xii. 7-15.—In those days, the Angel Raphael sacraméntum regis abscóndere bonum est: ópera autem Dei reveláre et confitéri honoríficum est. Bona est orátio cum jejúnio, et eleemósyna magis quam thesáuros auri recóndere: quóniam eleemósyna a morte líberat, et ipsa est, quae purgat peccáta, et facit inveníre misericórdiam et vitam aetérnam. Qui autem fáciunt peccátum, et iniquitátem, hostes sunt ánimae suae. Manifésto ergo vobis veritátem, et non abscóndam a vobis occúltum sermónem. Quando orábas cum lácrymis, et sepeliébas mórtuos, et derelinquébas prándium tuum, et mórtuos abscondébas per diem in domo tua, et nocte sepeliébas eos, ego óbtuli oratiónem tuam Dómino. Et quia accéptus eras Deo, necésse fuit ut tentátio probáret te. Et nunc misit me Dóminus ut curárem te, et Saram uxórem fílii tui a daemónio liberárem. Ego enim sum Ráphael Angelus, unus ex septem, qui adstámus ante Dóminum.

Epistola. Léctio libri Tobiae. —In diébus illis: Dixit Angelus Ráphael ad Tobíam: Etenim

said to Tobias: It is good to hide the secret of a king: but honourable to reveal and confess the works of God. Prayer is good with fasting and alms, more than to lay up treasures of gold: for alms delivereth from death; and the same is that which purgeth away sins, and maketh to find mercy and life everlasting. But they that commit sin and iniquity are enemies to their own soul. I discover then the truth unto you, and I will not hide the secret from you. When thou didst pray with tears, and didst bury the dead, and didst leave thy dinner, and hide the dead by day in thy house, and bury them by night, I offered thy prayer to the Lord. And because thou wast acceptable to God, it was necessary that temptation should prove thee. And now the Lord hath sent me to heal thee, and to deliver Sara thy son's wife from the devil. For I am the Angel Raphael, one of the Seven who stand before the Lord.

Graduále. — Angelus Dómini Ráphael apprehéndit et ligávit daemónem. ℣. Ps. Magnus Dóminus noster, et magna virtus ejus.

Gradual. Tobit viii. 3.—The Angel of the Lord, Raphael took, and bound the devil. ℣. Ps. cxlvi. 5. Great is our Lord, and great is His power.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Ps. In conspéctu Angelórum psallam tibi: adorábo ad templum sanctum tuum, et confitébor nómini tuo Dómine. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. — ℣. Ibid. cxxxvii. 1. I will sing praise to Thee in the sight of the Angels, I will worship towards Thy holy temple, and I will give glory to Thy name, O Lord. Alleluia.

Gospel: Erat dies, p. 558, as far as the words: a quacumque detinebatur infirmitate.—Credo.

Offertory. Apoc. viii. 3, 4.—An Angel stood near the altar of the temple, having a golden censer in his hand, and there was given to him much incense, and the smoke of the perfumes ascended before God.

Offertórium. — Stetit Angelus juxta aram templi, habens thuríbulum áureum in manu sua: et data sunt ei incénsa multa, et ascéndit fumus arómatum in conspéctu Dei.

Secret.—We offer up, O Lord, the sacrifice of praise, most humbly beseeching Thee, that Thy holy Angels pleading for us, Thou wouldst graciously receive it and make it to avail to our salvation. Through our Lord.

Secreta.—Hóstias tibi Dómine laudis offérimus supplíciter deprecántes: ut eásdem, angélico pro nobis interveniénte suffrágio, et placátus accípias, et ad salútem nostram provenire concédas. Per Dóminum.

Communion. Dan. iii. 58.—All ye Angels of the Lord, bless the Lord: sing a hymn, and exalt Him above all for ever.

Commúnio. — Benedícite omnes Angeli Dómini Dóminum: hymnum dícite, et superexaltáte eum in saecula.

Postcommunion.— Vouchsafe, O Lord our God, to send down Thy holy Archangel Raphael for our helper: and may he, whom we faithfully believe ever to stand before Thy Majesty, put up our poor prayers to be blessed by Thee. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Dirígere dignáre, Dómine Deus, in adjutórium nostrum, sanctum Raphaélem Archángelum: et quem tuae majestáti semper assístere crédimus, tibi nostras exíguas preces benedicéndas assígnet. Per Dóminum.

October 25.

SS. Chrysanthus and Darias, Martyrs.*—Single.—Red vestments.

" At Rome," says the Roman Martyrology," the triumph of St. Chrysanthus and his wife St. Darias, martyrs. After several torments which they endured for Jesus Christ under the prefect Celerinus, they were condemned by the Emperor Numerian to be thrown into a sandpit on the Salarian Way, and buried alive there under a heap of earth and stones," A.D. 284.

Mass: Intret, p. 232, except:

Collect. — May, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the prayers of Thy blessed martyrs Chrysanthus and Darias be our stay: and may we who seek to do them

Orémus. — Beatórum Mártyrum tuórum. Dómine, Chrysánthi et Daríae, quaesumus, adsit nobis orátio: ut, quos venerámur obséquio, eórum

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009.

pium júgiter experiámur auxílium. Per Dóminum.

devout honour, at all times feel their kindly help. Through our Lord.

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Corínthios. —Fratres : Exhibeámus nosmetípsos sicut Dei minístros in multa patiénta, in tribulatiónibus, in necessitátibus, in angústiis, in plagis, in carcéribus, in seditiónibus, in labóribus, in vigíliis, in jejúniis, in castitáte, in sciéntia, in longanimitáte, in suavitáte, in Spíritu Sancto, in caritáte non ficta, in verbo veritátis, in virtúte Dei, per arma justítiae a dextris, et a sinístris : per glóriam et ignobilitátem : per infámiam, et bonam famam : ut seductóres, et veráces : sicut qui ignóti, et cógniti : quasi moriéntes, et ecce vívimus : ut castigáti, et non mortificáti : quasi tristes, semper autem gaudéntes : sicut egéntes, multos autem locupletántes : tamquam nihil habéntes, et ómnia possidéntes.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians. 2 Cor. vi. 4-11.—Brethren : In all things let us exhibit ourselves as the ministers of God, in much patience and tribulation, in necessities, in distress, in strifes, in prisons, in seditions, in labours, in watchings, in fastings, in chastity, in knowledge, in longsuffering, in sweetness, in the Holy Ghost, in charity unfeigned, in the word of truth, in the power of God : by the armour of justice on the right hand and on the left : by honour and dishonour : by evil report and good report : as deceivers, and yet true : as unknown, and yet known : as dying, and behold we live : as chastised, and not killed : as sorrowful, yet always rejoicing : as needy, yet enriching many : as having nothing and possessing all things.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.— In illo témpore : Dicébat Jesus Scribis et Pharisaeis : Vae vobis, qui aedificátis monuménta Prophetárum : patres autem vestri occidérunt illos. Profécto testificámini quod consentítis opéribus patrum vestrórum quóniam ipsi quidem eos occidérunt, vos autem aedificátis eórum sepúlcra. Proptérea et sapiéntia Dei dixit : Mittam ad illos Prophétas, et Apóstolos, et ex illis occídent, et persequéntur :

✠ Continuation of the Gospel, according to St. Luke xi. 47-51.

At that time, Jesus said to the Scribes and Pharisees, woe to you who build the monuments of the prophets : and your fathers killed them. Truly you bear witness that you consent to the doings of your fathers : for they indeed killed them, and you build their sepulchres. For this cause also the wisdom of God said, I will send to them prophets and apostles, and some of them they will kill and persecute. That the blood of all the prophets, which was shed from the foundation of the world, may be required of this generation; from the blood of Abel unto the blood of Zacharias, who was slain between the altar and the temple. Yea, I say to you, it shall be required of this generation.

ut inquirátur sanguis ómnium Prophetárum, qui effúsus, est a constitutióne mundi a generatióne ista, a sánguine Abel, usque ad sánguinem Zacharíae, qui périit inter altáre et aedem. Ita dico vobis, requirétur ab hac generatióne.

Secret.—May, O Lord, the sacred victim Thy people offer up, find great favour in Thy sight: inasmuch as it is on the festival-day of Thy holy martyrs Chrysanthus and Darias that it is solemnly sacrificed. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Pópuli tui, quaesumus, Dómine, tibi grata sit hóstia, quae in natalítiis sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Chrysánthi et Dáriae solémniter immolátur. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Thou hast filled us, O Lord, with mystic graces and joys: grant, wc beseech Thee, that, through the prayers of Thy holy martyrs Chrysanthus and Darias, we may profit eternally by having ministered to Thee in this our time. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Mysticis, Dómine, repléti sumus votis et gáudiis: praesta, quaesumus; ut, intercessiónibus sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Chrysánthi et Dáriae, quae temporáliter ágimus, spirituáliter consequámur. Per Dóminum.

October 26.

St. Evaristus, Pope and Martyr.*—Simple.—Red vestments.

Evaristus, a Greek by birth, was unanimously elected Pope when the Holy See became vacant at the death of Anacletus I. It was he who first divided Rome into titles, or parishes, appointing to each a priest. He prescribed that seven deacons should surround the bishop when preaching for the greater honour of the word of God and of the episcopal dignity. St. Evaristus was condemned to death under Trajan, A.D. 109.

Mass: Státuit, for a Martyr Pontiff, p. 215.

October 27.

The Vigil of SS. Simon and Jude, Apostles.—Purple vestments.

Simon, whom St. Matthew calls the Canaenean to distinguish him from St. Peter who bore the same name, was born at Cana in Galilee. St.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007.

Luke calls him Zelotes, because he had probably belonged to the Jewish party, thus called for its zeal in defending the faith.

Jude, surnamed Thaddeus or Lebbe (the courageous) was by Cleophas his father and Mary his mother, a nephew to St. Joseph and the Blessed Virgin and cousin to Jesus.* St. James, the Less, first bishop of Jerusalem and the first apostle martyred,† and Simon who succeeded him in this See, were his brothers.

These apostles of Christ heard from the lips of the Master at the Last Supper the words of the Gospel: I am the vine, you are the branches. Every branch which bears fruit, My Father shall prune in order that it should bear more. After having preached the Gospel at the price of great sufferings, the first in Egypt, the second in Mesopotamia, they were both martyred at Suanir. (Introit, Gradual, Communion). Wherefore their feasts are celebrated on the same day in the same office and their names are mentioned jointly in the Canon of the Mass. (First list, p. 59.)

MASS.

Intróitus. — Intret in conspéctu tuo, Dómine, gémitus compeditórum: redde vicínis nostris séptuplum in sinu eórum: víndica sánguinem sanctórum tuórum, qui effúsus est. Ps. Deus, venérunt gentes in hereditátem tuam: polluérunt templum sanctum tuum: posuérunt Jerúsalem in pomórum custódiam. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. lxxviii. 11, 12, 10. —Let the sighing of the prisoners come in before Thee, O Lord; render to our neighbours sevenfold in their bosom; revenge the blood of Thy Saints which hath been shed. Ibid. 1. O God, the heathen are come into Thy inheritance; they have defiled Thy holy temple; they have made Jerusalem as a place to keep fruit. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Concéde, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, sicut Apostolórum tuórum Simónis et Judae gloriósa natalítia praevenímus; sic ad tua benefícia promerénda, majestátem tuam pro nobis ipsi praevéniant. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O Almighty God, grant we beseech Thee, that, even as we by our devotion anticipate the glorious festival of Thine apostles Simon and Jude, so they, in imploring from Thy Majesty Thy blessings for us, may anticipate our prayers. Through our Lord.

Epistle : Spectáculum facti, p. 273.

* James, Joseph and Jude, are they not His brothers? said the Jews, speaking of Jesus (Matt. xiii, 55). Among Orientals the word brother is often used in a wide sense meaning cousins and even more distant relatives.

† See May 1.

Gradual. Ps. lxxviii, 10, 2.—Revenge, O Lord, the blood of Thy saints, which hath been shed. ℣. They have given the dead bodies of Thy servants, O Lord, to be meat for the fowls of the air: the flesh of Thy saints to the beasts of the earth.

Graduále.— Víndica Dómine, sánguinem sanctórum tuórum, qui effúsus est. ℣. Posuérunt mortália servórum tuórum, Dómine, escas volatílibus coeli: carnes sanctórum tuórum béstiis terrae.

Gospel: Ego sum vitis, p. 245.

Offertory. Ps. cxlix 5, 6.—The saints shall rejoice in glory, they shall be joyful in their beds; the high praises of God shall be in their mouths.

Offertórium. — Exsultábunt sancti in glória, laetabúntur in cubílibus suis: exaltatiónes Dei in fáucibus eórum.

Secret.—We anticipate with pure offerings, O Lord, the feast of Thy holy apostles, Simon and Jude, most humbly begging of Thee that our ministering at Thine altar, which our conscience reproaches us with having sullied by our evil deeds, may through the merits of Thy saints, become pleasing to Thee. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Munéribus nostris, Dómine, sanctórum Apostolórum tuórum Simónis et Judae festa praecédimus: te supplíciter deprecántes; ut, quae consciéntiae nostrae praepediúntur obstáculis, illórum méritis grata reddántur. Per Dóminum.

Communion. Ps. lxxvii. 2, 11.—They have given the dead bodies of Thy servants, O Lord, to be meat for the fowls of the air, the flesh of Thy saints to the beasts of the earth: according to the greatness of Thy arm take possession of the children of those who have been punished with death.

Commúnio. — Posuérunt mortália servórum tuórum, Dómine, escas volatílibus coeli, carnes sanctórum tuórum béstiis terrae: secúndum magnitúdinem bráchii tui pósside fílios morte punitórum.

Postcommunion. — Through the intercession of Thy blessed apostles, Simon and Jude, we humbly ask, O Lord, of Thee, who hast bestowed Thy divine sacrament upon us, that our having ministered to Thee in this our day, may profit us for a happy eternity. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Sumpto, Dómine, sacraménto, supplíciter deprecámur: ut, intercedéntibus beátis Apóstolis tuis Simóne et Juda, quod temporáliter gérimus, ad vitam capiámus aetérnam. Per Dóminum.

OCTOBER 28.

SS. Simon and Jude, APOSTLES.*—Double of the Second Class Red vestments.

Jude or Thaddeus had asked the Master at the Last Supper why He manifested Himself to the apostles and not to the world. Jesus answered that He only manifested Himself to souls who show Him their fidelity by observing His commandments.†

While Simon announced the gospel to the peoples of the East, Jude wrote his catholic epistle which is still read in the West and "which," declares Origen, "contains strong doctrine in a few lines." In the first part he foretells the exemplary condemnation of heretics whom he compares to clouds without water, to autumn trees without fruit and to wandering stars for whom profound darkness is apportioned for all eternity. Like the rebel angels, they shall burn for ever in avenging flames.‡ In the second part he exhorts the faithful not to be enticed by the seducers, but to remain firm in their faith in God and Christ.§

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his parishioners.

First Vespers (October 27) : From the Common, p. 206.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Mihi autem nimis honoráti sunt amíci tui, Deus: nimis confortátus est principátus eórum. Ps. Dómine, probásti me, et cogno-

Introit. Ps. cxxxviii. 17.—To me, Thy friends, O God, are made exceedingly honourable: their principality is exceedingly strengthened. Ibid. 1, 2. Lord,

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007.
† John xiv. 24.
‡ Epistle of St. Jude, v. 12, 13.
§ "My well-beloved, rising like an edifice on the foundation of your holy faith, and praying by the Holy Ghost, keep yourselves in the love of God."—The Archangel St. Michael, St. Jude again declares, was established by the Most High as guardian of the tomb of Moses. Having on this occasion to fight with Satan, probably to hinder him taking possession of the prophet's body, out of respect for his angelical dignity, he left to God, to condemn him Himself saying: "May the Lord rebuke him." The Church puts these very words on the lips of the priests in the prayers of Leo XIII. which are said after Low Mass at the foot of the altar.

Thou hast proved me and known me; Thou hast known my sitting down and my rising up. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

vísti me: tu cognovísti sessiónem meam, et resurrectiónem meam. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—O God, Who through Thy blessed Apostles Simon and Jude hast brought us to the knowledge of Thy name; grant that by advancing in virtue we may celebrate their everlasting glory, and also that by celebrating their glory we may advance in virtue. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui nos per beátos Apóstolos tuos Simónem et Judam, ad agnitiónem tui nóminis veníre tribuísti: da nobis eórum glóriam sempitérnam et proficiéndo celebráre, et celebrándo profícere. Per Dóminum.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Ephesians iv. 7-13.—BRETHREN, to every one of us is given grace according to the measure of the giving of Christ. Wherefore He saith, Ascending on high, He led captivity captive; He gave gifts to men. Now, that He ascended, what is it, but because He also ascended first into the lower parts of the earth? He that descended is the same also that ascended above all the heavens, that He might fill all things. And He gave some apostles, and some prophets, and other some evangelists, and other some pastors and doctors, for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ; until we all meet into the unity of faith and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the age of the fulness of Christ.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Ephésios. — FRATRES: Unicuíque nostrum data est grátia secúndum mensúram donatiónis Christi. Propter quod dicit: Ascéndens in altum, captívam duxit captivitátem: dedit dona homínibus. Quod autem ascéndit, quid est, nisi quia et descéndit primum in inferióres partes terrae? Qui descéndit, ipse est et qui ascéndit super omnes coelos, ut impléret ómnia. Et ipse dedit quosdam quidem apóstolos, quosdam autem prophétas, álios vero evangelístas, álios autem pastóres, et doctóres, ad consummatiónem sanctórum in opus ministérii, in aedificatiónem córporis Christi: donec occurrámus omnes in unitátem fídei, et agnitiónis Fílii Dei, in virum perféctum, in mensúram aetátis plenitúdinis Christi.

Gradual. Ps. xliv. 17, 18.—Thou shalt make them princes over all the earth: they shall remember Thy name, O Lord.

Graduále. — Constitues eos príncipes super omnem terram: mémores erunt nóminis tui, Dómine. ℣. Pro pátribus tuis nati sunt tibi fílii: proptérea pópuli confitebúntur tibi.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Nimis honoráti sunt amíci tui, Deus: nimis confortátus est principátus eórum. Allelúia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem. — In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Haec mando vobis, ut diligátis ínvicem. Si mundus vos odit: scitóte, quia me priórem vobis ódio hábuit. Si de mundo fuissétis: mundus quod suum erat, dilígeret: quia vero de mundo non estis, sed ego elégi vos de mundo, proptérea odit vos mundus. Mementóte sermónis mei, quem ego dixi vobis: Non est servus major dómino suo. Si me persecúti sunt, et vos persequéntur: si sermónem meum servavérunt, et vestrum servábunt. Sed haec ómnia fácient vobis propter nomen meum: quia nésciunt eum, qui misit me. Si non veníssem, et locútus fuíssem eis, peccátum non habérent: nunc autem excusatiónem non habent de peccáto suo. Qui me odit: et Patrem meum odit. Si ópera non fecíssem in eis, quae nemo álius fecit, peccátum non habérent: nunc autem et vidérunt, et odérunt et me, et Patrem meum. Sed ut adimpleátur sermo, qui in lege eórum scriptus est: Quia ódio habuérunt me gratis. —Credo.

℣. Instead of Thy fathers, sons are born to Thee: therefore shall people praise Thee.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. cxxxviii. 17.—℣. To me Thy friends, O God, are made exceedingly honourable: their principality is exceedingly strengthened. Alleluia.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John xv. 17-25.—At that time, Jesus said to His disciples, These things I command you, that you love one another. If the world hate you, know ye that it hath hated Me before you. If you had been of the world, the world would love its own; but because you are not of the world, but I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you. Remember My word that I said to you, The servant is not greater than his master. If they have persecuted Me, they will also persecute you: If they have kept My word, they will keep yours also. But all these things they will do to you for My name's sake, because they know not Him that sent Me. If I had not come, and spoken to them, they would not have sin; but now they have no excuse for their sin. He that hateth Me, hateth My Father also. If I had not done among them the works that no other man hath done, they would not have sin; but now they have both seen and hated both Me and My Father. But that the word may be fulfilled which is written in their law, They hated Me without a cause.—Credo.

Offertory. Ps. xviii. 5.—Their sound went forth into all the earth; and their words to the ends of the world.

Offertórium. — In omnem terram exívit sonus eórum: et in fines orbis terrae verba eórum.

Secret.—Reverently, O Lord, we honour the everlasting glory of Thy holy apostles Simon and Jude: and beseech Thee, that, our guilt being atoned for in these sacred mysteries, we may become more worthy to do homage to Thy saints. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Glóriam, Dómine, sanctórum Apostolórum tuórum Simónis et Judae perpétuam venerántes: quaesumus; ut eam, sacris mystériis expiáti, dignius celebrémus. Per Dóminum.

Preface of the Apostles, p. 57.

Communion. Matt. xix. 28.—You who have followed Me shall sit upon seats, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

Commúnio. — Vos, qui secúti estis me, sedébitis super sedes, judicántes duódecim tribus Israël.

Postcommunion. — Having, O Lord, received Thy sacraments, we most humbly entreat of Thee that, through the intercession of Thy holy apostles Simon and Jude, the homage we offer Thee, in memory of their venerable passion, may profit us to the healing of our souls. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Percéptis, Dómine, sacraméntis, supplíciter exorámus: ut, intercedéntibus beátis Apóstolis tuis Simóne et Juda, quae pro illórum veneránda gérimus passióne, nobis profíciant ad medélam. Per Dóminum.

Second Vespers: As in the Common, p. 208.

OCTOBER 31.

The Vigil of All Saints.*—Violet vestments.

The most illustrious martyrs had at Rome, from the 4th century, their basilicas, where was celebrated each year the anniversary of their death, or rather of their birth in heaven. At this time a number of Masses were prescribed without any fixed day to honour those who were unknown and had no public recognition. When later the names of Saints who were not martyrs were introduced into the ecclesiastical Calendar, a more universal character was given to such Masses. It is thus that in the 8th century the Gregorian Sacramentary indicates among the common Masses without a date: The Mass in honour of All Saints. Fixed in the following century on November 1, it became the Mass of All Saints' Day to which we are this day prepared by a vigil.

This explains why the Mass contains extracts from the Masses of the Common of Martyrs.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1011.

MASS.

Introitus. — Júdicant sancti gentes, et dominántur pópulis: et regnábit Dóminus Deus illórum in perpétuum. Ps. Exsultáte justi in Dómino: rectos decet collaudátio. ℣. Gloria Patri.

Introit. Wisd. iii. 8.—The saints judge nations, and rule over people: and the Lord their God shall reign for ever. Ps. xxxii. 1. Rejoice in the Lord, ye just: praise becometh the upright. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

The Gloria in excélsis is not said.

Orémus. — Dómine Deus noster, multíplica super nos grátiam tuam: et, quorum praevenímus gloriósa solémnia, tribue súbsequi in sancta professióne laetítiam. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O Lord our God, multiply Thy graces upon us: and make us to serve Thee with rejoicing, even as they served Thee, whose glorious festival we are anticipating. Through our Lord.

Second Collect of the Holy Ghost, p. 161; Third Collect for the Church, p. 154, or for the Pope, p. 155.

Epistola. Léctio libri Apocalypsis beáti Joánnis Apóstoli.—In diébus illis: Ecce ego Joánnes vidi in médio throni, et quátuor animálium, et in médio seniórum, Agnum stantem tamquam occisum, habéntem córnua septem et óculos septem: qui sunt septem spíritus Dei, missi in omnem terram. Et venit: et accépit de déxtera sedéntis in throno librum Et cum aperuísset librum, quátuor animália et vigintiquátuor senióres cecidérunt coram Agno, habéntes singuli citharas, et phíalas áureas plenas odorámentórum, quae sunt orátiónes sanctórum: et cantábant cánticum novum, dicéntes: Dignus es, Dómine, accípere librum, et aperire signácula ejus: quóniam occísus es, et redemísti nos Deo in sánguine tuo ex omni tribu, et lingua, et pópulo, et natióne:

Epistle. Apoc. v. 6-12.—Lesson from the book of the Apocalypse of blessed John the Apostle.—In those days, Behold, I, John, saw in the midst of the throne and of the four living creatures, and in the midst of the ancients, a Lamb, standing as it were slain, having seven horns and seven eyes, which are the seven spirits of God, sent forth into all the earth. And he came, and took the book out of the right hand of him that sat on the throne: and when he had opened the book, the four living creatures, and the four and twenty ancients, fell down before the Lamb, having every one of them harps, and golden vials full of odours, which are the prayers of saints; and they sang a new canticle, saying, Thou art worthy, O Lord, to take the book, and to open the seals thereof; because Thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God, in Thy blood, out of every tribe, and tongue, and people, and nation, and hast made us to God a kingdom and priests; and we shall reign on the earth. And I beheld, and I heard the voice of many Angels round the throne, and the living creatures and the ancients, and the number of them was thousands of thousands, saying with a loud voice, The Lamb that was slain, is worthy to receive power, and divinity, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and benediction, for ever and ever. Amen.

et fecísti nos Deo nostro regnum, et sacerdótes: et regnábimus super terram. Et vidi, et audívi vocem Angelórum multórum in circúitu throni, et animálium, et seniórum: et erat númerus eórum míllia míllium dicéntium voce magna: Dignus est Agnus, qui occísus est, accipere virtútem, et divinitátem, et sapiéntiam, et fortitúdinem, et honórem, et glóriam, et benedictiónem, in saecula saeculórum. Amen.

Gradual. Ps. cxlix. 5, 1.—The saints shall rejoice in glory; they shall be joyful in their beds. ℣. Sing ye to the Lord a new canticle; let His praise be in the assembly of the saints.

Graduále. — Exsultábunt sancti in glória, laetabúntur in cubílibus suis. ℣. Cantáte Dómino cánticum novum, laus ejus in Ecclésia sanctórum.

Gospel: Descéndens Jesus, p. 237.

Offertory. Ps. cxlix. 5, 6 —The saints shall rejoice in glory, they shall be joyful in their beds: the high praises of God are in their mouth.

Offertórium. — Exsultábunt sancti in glória, laetabúntur in cubílibus suis: exaltatiónes Dei in fáucibus eórum.

Secret.—We load Thine altar. O Lord, with the gifts we offer: do Thou grant, that, through the prayers of all Thy saints of whom we are anticipating the high festival, this our ministering may be of avail to our salvation. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Altáre tuum Dómine, munéribus cumulámus oblátis: da, quaesumus; ut ad salútem nostram, ómnum Sanctórum tuórum precatiióne, profíciant, quorum solémnia ventúra praecúrrimus. Per Dóminum.

Additional Secrets, pp. 161, 154 or 155.

Communion. Wisd. iii. 1, 2, 3.—The souls of the just are in the hand of God, and the torment of malice shall not touch them: in the sight of the unwise they seemed to die, but they are in peace.

Commúnio. — Justórum ánimae in manu Dei sunt, et non tanget illos torméntum malítiae: visi sunt óculis insipiéntium mori: illi autem sunt in pace.

Postcommúnio. — Sacraméntis, Dómine, et gáúdiis oblátae celebritátis explétis: quaesumus; ut eórum précibus adjuvémur, quorum recordatiónibus exhibéntur. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Thou hast been pleased, O Lord, to give us part in the sacraments and in the joys of the celebration we are welcoming: may we be helped by the prayers of those holy ones in commemoration of whom it is to be held. Through our Lord.

Additional Postcommunions on pp. 161, 154 and 155.

NOVEMBER 1.

The Feast of All Saints.—Double of the First Class with Octave. White vestments.

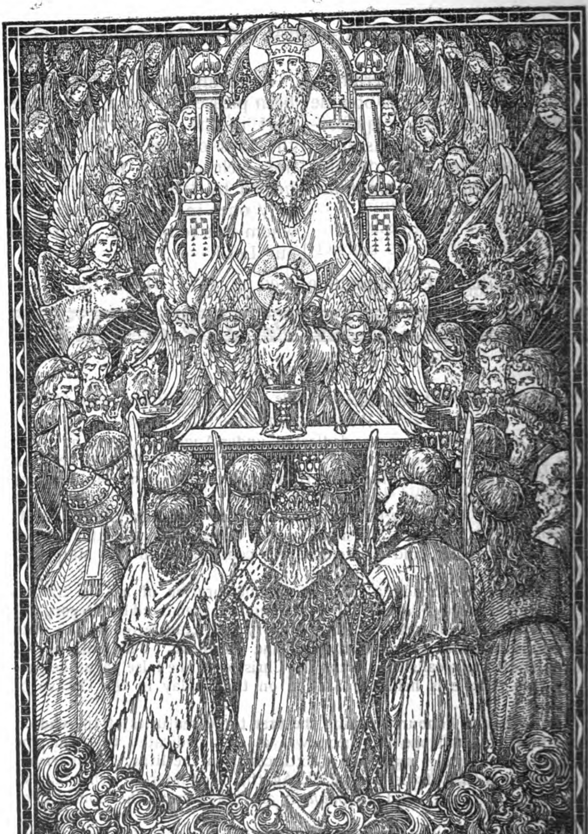
The Temple of Agrippa was dedicated, under Augustus, to all the pagan gods, hence its name of Pantheon. Under the Emperor Phocas, between A.D. 607 and 610, Boniface IV. translated thither numerous remains of martyrs taken from the Catacombs.*

On May 13, A.D. 610, he dedicated this new Christian basilica to St. Mary and the Martyrs. The feast of this dedication took later a more universal character, and the temple was consecrated to St. Mary and all the Saints.

As there was already a feast in commemoration of all the Saints, celebrated at various dates in different churches, then fixed by Gregory IV. in A.D. 835 on November 1, Pope Gregory VII. transferred to this date the anniversary of the dedication of the Pantheon. The feast of All Saints therefore recalls the triumph of Christ over the false pagan deities.



In this temple is held the Station on the Friday in the Octave of Easter.†

As the Saints honoured during the first three centuries of the church were martyrs, and the Pantheon was at first dedicated to them, the Mass of All Saints is made up of extracts from the liturgy of martyrs. The Introit is that of the Mass of St. Agatha, used later for other feasts; the Gospel, Offertory and Communion are taken from the Common of martyrs.

The Church gives us on this day an admirable vision of heaven, showing us with St. John, the twelve thousand signed (twelve is considered a perfect number) of each tribe of Israel, and a great multitude which no one can count, of every nation and tribe, of every people and tongue, standing before the throne and before the Lamb, clothed in white robes and with palms in their hands (Epistle). Christ, the Virgin, the blessed battalions distributed in nine choirs, the apostles and prophets, the martyrs crimsoned in their blood, the confessors adorned in white garments and the chaste choir of virgins form, as the Hymn of Vespers sings, the majestic cortege. It is indeed composed of all those who

* See Historical Summary, p. 1011.

† See p. 898.

The Church Triumphant, Militant, Suffering.

here below were detached from worldly riches, gentle, afflicted, equitable, merciful, pure, peaceful and persecuted for the name of Jesus. "Rejoice," the Master had foretold them, "for a great reward is prepared for you in heaven." (Gospel, Communion.) Among those millions of the just who were faithful disciples of Jesus on earth, are several of our own family, relations, friends, members of our parochial family, now enjoying the fruit of their piety, adoring the Lord, King of kings, and Crown of All Saints (Invitatory at Matins) and obtaining for us the wished for abundance of His mercies (Collect).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his parishioners.

FIRST VESPERS.

The First Four Psalms of Sunday, p. 98, and Psalm Laudáte Dominum, p. 127.

Ant.— 1. Vidi turbam magnam * quam dinumeráre nemo póterat, ex ómnibus géntibus stantes ante thronum.

2. Et omnes Angeli * stabant in circúitu throni, et cecidérunt in conspéctu throni in fácies suas, et adoravérunt Deum.

3. Redemisti nos * Dómine Deus in sánguine tuo ex omni tribu, et lingua, et pópulo, et natióne, et fecísti nos Deo nostro regnum.

4. Benedícite Dóminum * omnes elécti ejus, ágite dies laetítiae, et confitémini illi.

5. Hymnus * ómnibus Sanctis ejus, fíliis Israël, pópulo appropinquánti sibi: glória haec est ómnibus Sanctis ejus.

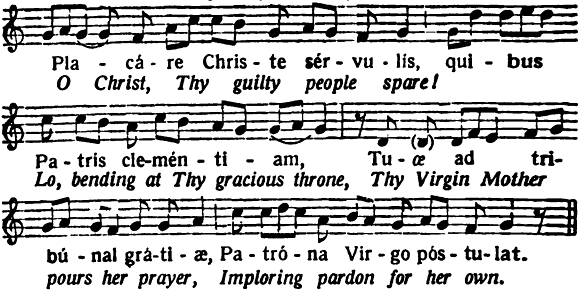
Ant. 1. Apoc. vii. 11.—I saw a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations standing before the throne.

2. Apoc. v. 9.—And all the angels stood round about the throne, and they fell down before the throne, and adored God.

3. Thou hast redeemed us, O Lord God, in Thy blood, out of every tribe, and tongue, and people, and nation, and hast made of us a kingdom unto our God.

4. Tobit. xiii. 10.—Bless the Lord all ye His elect, keep a day of gladness and give thanks unto Him.

5. Ps. cxlviii. 14, cxlix. 9.—A hymn for all His Saints, for the children of Israel, for the people that is nigh unto Him; this glory have all His Saints.



Capitúlum. — Ecce ego Joánnes vidi álterum Angelum ascendéntem ab ortu solis, habéntem signum Dei vivi: † et clamávit voce magna quátuor Angelis, quibus datum est nocére terrae, et mari, dicens: Nolíte

Chapter. Apoc. vii. 2.—Behold, I John saw another angel ascending from the rising of the sun, having the sign of the living God; and he cried with a loud voice to the four angels to whom it was given to hurt the earth and the sea, saying, Hurt not the earth, neither the sea, nor the trees, till we sign the servants of our God in their foreheads.

nocére terrae et mari, neque arbóribus * quoadúsque signémus servos Dei nostri in fróntibus eórum.

Hymn (8th Mode).

2. Ye Angels, happy evermore !
Who in your circles nine ascend,
As ye have guarded us before.
So still from harm our steps defend.

2. Et vos beáta, per novem
Distincta gyros ágmina ;
Antíqua cum praeséntibus
Futúra damna péllite.

3. Ye Prophets, and Apostles high !
Behold our penitential tears ;
And plead for us when death is nigh,
And our all-searching Judge [appears.

3. Apóstoli cum Vátibus,
Apud sevérum Júdicem,
Veris reórum flétibus
Expóscite indulgéntiam.

4. Ye martyrs all ! a purple band,
And Confessors, a white-robed train ;
Oh, call us to our native land
From this our exile, back again.

4. Vos purpuráti Mártyres,
Vos candidáti praemio
Confessiónis, éxsules
Vocáte nos in pátriam.

5. And ye, O choirs of Virgins chaste ;
Receive us to your seats on [high ;
With Hermits whom the desert waste
Sent up of old into the sky.

5. Choréa casta Vírginum,
Et quos erémus incolas
Transmísit astris ; Caelitum
Locáte nos in sédibus.

6. Auférte gentem pérfidam
Credéntium de fínibus;
Ut unus omnes únicum
Ovíle nos pastor regat.

6. Drive from the flock, O Spirits blest! [away;
The false and faithless race
That all within one fold may rest, [herd's sway.
Secure beneath one Shep-

7. Deo Patri sit glória,
Natóque Patris único,
Sancto simul Paráclito,
In sempitérna saecula.
Amen.

7. To God the Father glory be
And to His sole-begotten Son; [Thee
The same, O Holy Ghost, to While everlasting ages run.
Amen.

℣. Laetámini in Dómino, et exsultáte justi.
℞. Et gloriámini omnes recti corde.

℣. Ps. iii. 111. Be glad, O ye just, and rejoice in the Lord.
℞. And be joyful all ye that are right of heart.

Ant.—Angeli * Archángeli, Throni et Dominatiónes, Principátus et Potestátes, Virtútes coelórum, Chérubim atque Séraphim, Patriárchae et Prophétae, sancti legis Doctóres, Apóstoli, omnes Christi Mártyres, sancti Confessóres, Vírgines Dómini, Anachorétae Sanctíque omnes intercédite pro nobis.

Ant. at the Magnificat.—O ye angels and archangels, thrones and dominions, principalities and powers, ye hosts of heaven, cherubim and seraphim, ye patriarchs and prophets, and holy doctors of the law, apostles, and all martyrs of Christ, holy confessors and virgins, of the Lord, hermits and all saints, intercede for us.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Gaudeámus omnes in Dómino, diem festum celebrántes sub honóre Sanctórum ómnium: de quorum solemnitáte gaudent Angeli, et colláudant Fílium Dei. Ps. Exsultáte justi in Dómino: rectos decet collaudátio. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit.—Let us all rejoice in the Lord, celebrating a festival-day in honour of all the Saints: at whose solemnity the angels rejoice, and give praise to the Son of God. Ps. xxxii. 1. Rejoice in the Lord, ye just: praise becometh the upright. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Omnipotens sempitérne Deus, qui nos ómnium Sanctórum tuórum mérita sub una tribuísti celebritáte venerári: quaesumus: ut desiderá-

Collect.—O Almighty and everlasting God, by Whose gracious favour we on this single festival-day render solemn homage to the merits of all Thy Saints: most humbly we pray, that since so great is the number of Thine elect pleading in our behalf, we may partake, in all their fulness, of Thine abounding mercies. Through our Lord.

tam nobis tuae propitiatiónis abundántiam, multiplicátis intercessóribus, largiáris. Per Dóminum.

Epistle. Apoc. vii. 2-12.—Lesson from the book of the Apocalypse of blessed John, the Apostle.—In those days, behold, I, John, saw another Angel ascending from the rising of the sun, having the sign of the living God. And he cried with a loud voice to the four Angels, to whom it was given to hurt the earth and the sea, saying, Hurt not the earth, nor the sea, nor the trees, till we sign the servants of our God in their foreheads. And I heard the number of them that were signed: an hundred and forty-four thousand were signed, and every tribe of the children of Israel. Of the tribe of Juda were twelve thousand signed: of the tribe of Ruben twelve thousand signed: of the tribe of Gad twelve thousand signed: of the tribe of Aser twelve thousand signed: of the tribe of Nephthali twelve thousand signed: of the tribe of Manasses twelve thousand signed: of the tribe of Simeon twelve thousand signed: of the tribe of Levi twelve thousand signed: of the tribe of Issachar twelve thousand signed: of the tribe of Zabulon twelve thousand signed: of the tribe of Joseph twelve thousand signed: of the tribe of Benjamin twelve thousand signed. After this, I saw a great multitude which no man

Epistola. Léctio libri Apocalypsis beáti Joánnis Apóstoli.—In diébus illis: Ecce ego Joánnes vidi álterum Angelum ascendéntem ab ortu solis, habéntem signum Dei vivi: et clamávit voce magna quatuor Angelis, quibus datum est nocére terrae et mari, dicens: Nolíte nocére terrae, et mari, neque arbóribus, quoadúsque signémus servos Dei nostri in fróntibus eórum. Et audívi númerum signatórum, centum quadraginta quátuor míllia signáti, ex omni tribu filiórum Israël. Ex tribu Juda dúodecim míllia signáti. Ex tribu Ruben duódecim míllia signáti. Ex tribu Gad duódecim míllia signáti. Ex tribu Aser duódecim míllia signáti. Ex tribu Néphtáli duódecim míllia signáti. Ex tribu Manásse duódecim míllia signáti. Ex tribu Símeon duódecim míllia signáti. Ex tribu Levi duódecim míllia signáti. Ex tribu Issachar duódecim míllia signáti. Ex tribu Zábulon duódecim míllia signáti. Ex tribu Joseph duódecim míllia signáti. Ex tribu Bénjamin duódecim míllia signáti. Post haec vidi turbam magnam, quam dinumeráre nemo póterat, ex ómnibus géntibus, et tríbubus, et pópulis, et linguis: stantes ante thronum, et in conspéctu Agni, amícti stolis albis, et pal-mae in mánibus eórum: et clamábant voce magna, dicéntes: Salus Deo nostro, qui sedet super thronum, et Agno. Et omnes Angeli stabant in circúitu throni, et seniórum, et quátuor animálium: et cecidérunt in conspectu throni in fácies suas, et adoravérunt Deum, dicéntes: Amen. Benedictio, et cláritas, et sapiéntia, et gratiárum áctio, honor, et virtus, et fortitúdo Deo nostro, in saecula saeculórum. Amen.

could number, of all nations, and tribes, and peoples, and tongues, standing before the throne and in sight of the Lamb, clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands; and they cried with a loud voice, saying, Salvation to our God Who sitteth upon the throne, and to the Lamb. And all the Angels stood round about the throne, and the ancients, and the four living creatures; and they fell down before the throne upon their faces, and adored God, saying, Amen. Benediction, and glory, and wisdom, and thanksgiving, honour, and power, and strength to our God for ever and ever. Amen.

Graduále. — Timéte Dóminum omnes sancti ejus: quóniam nihil déest timéntibus eum. ℣. Inquiréntes autem Dóminum, non defícient omni bono.

Gradual. Ps. xxxiii. 10, 11.—Fear the Lord, all ye His saints: for there is no want to them that fear Him. ℣. But they that seek the Lord shall not be deprived of any good.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Veníte ad me omnes qui laborátis et oneráti estis: et ego refíciam vos. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Matt. xi. 28. — ℣. Come to Me all you that labour and are heavy laden, and I will refresh you. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangelii secúndum Matthaeum. — In illo témpore: Videns Jesus turbas, ascéndit in montem, et cum sedisset, accessérunt ad eum discipuli ejus, et apériens os suum docébat eos, dicens: Beáti páuperes spiritu: quóniam ipsórum est regnum coelórum. Beáti mites: quóniam ipsi possidébunt terram. Beáti qui lugent: quóniam ipsi consolabúntur. Beati qui esúriunt et sitiunt justítiam: quóniam

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew v. 1-12.—At that time, Jesus seeing the multitudes, went up into a mountain; and when He was sat down, His disciples came unto Him. And opening His mouth, He taught them, saying, Blessed are the poor in spirit; for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are the meek; for they shall possess the land. Blessed are they that mourn; for they shall be comforted. Blessed are they that hunger and thirst after justice; for they shall have their fill. Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy. Blessed are the clean of heart; for they shall see God. Blessed are the peace-makers; for they shall be called the children of God. Blessed are they that suffer persecution for justice sake; for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are ye when they shall revile you, and persecute you, and speak all that is evil against you, untruly, for My sake: be glad and rejoice, for your reward is very great in heaven.—Credo.

ipsi saturabúntur. Beáti misericórdes: quóniam ipsi misericórdiam consequéntur. Beati mundo corde: quóniam ipsi Deum vidébunt. Beáti pacífici: quóniam fílii Dei vocabúntur. Beáti qui persecutiónem patiúntur propter justítiam: quóniam ipsórum est regnum coelórum. Beáti estis cum maledíxerint vobis, et persecúti vos fúerint, et dixerint omne malum advérsum vos, mentiéntes, propter me: gaudéte, et exultáte, quóniam merces vestra copiósa est in coelis.—Credo.

Offertory. Wisd. iii. 1, 2, 3.—The souls of the just are in the hand of God, and the torment of malice shall not touch them: in the sight of the unwise they seemed to die, but they are in peace. Alleluia.

Offertórium.—Justórum ánimae in manu mei sunt, et non tanget illos torméntum malitiae: visi sunt óculis insipiéntium mori: illi autem sunt in pace, allelúia.

Secret.—We offer to Thee, O Lord, the gifts of our devotion: may our doing so please Thee as honouring Thy saints; and, through Thy mercy, may it be profitable to ourselves. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Múnera tibi, Dómine, nostrae devotiónis offérimus: quae et pro cunctórum tibi grata sint honóre justórum, et nobis salutária, te miseránte, reddántur. Per Dóminum.

Communion. Matt. v. 8-10.—Blessed are the clean of heart, for they shall see God: blessed are the peace-makers, for they shall be called the children of God: blessed are they that suffer persecution for justice sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

Commúnio. — Beáti mundo corde, quóniam ipsi Deum vidébunt: beáti pacífici, quóniam fílii Dei vocabúntur: beáti qui persecutiónem patiúntur propter justítiam, quóniam ipsórum est regnum coelórum.

Postcommúnio.—Da quaesumus, Dómine, fidélibus pópulis ómnium Sanctórum semper veneratióne laetári : et eórum perpétua supplicatióne muníri. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Grant, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that to Thy faithful people, the venerating of Thy Saints may ever be a joy: and that the unceasing prayers of Thine elect may be their sure defence. Through our Lord.

SECOND VESPERS.

The First Four Psalms of Sunday, p. 98, and Psalm Crédidi, p. 127. All the rest as at First Vespers, except:

℣. Exultábunt Sancti in glória.
℟. Laetabúntur in cubílibus suis.

℣. Ps. cxlix. 5.—Thy Saints shall rejoice in glory.
℟. And be joyful all ye that are right of heart.

Ant.—O quam glorióśum est regnum * in quo cum Christo gaudent omnes Sancti, amícti stolis albis sequúntur Agnum quocúmque íerit.

Ant. at the Magnificat. Apoc. vii. 9, xiv. 4.—Oh! how glorious is the kingdom in which all the Saints rejoice with Christ, and, clothed in white garments follow the Lamb whithersoever he goeth.

After the Benedicámus Dómino, the Vespers for the Dead are recited.

NOVEMBER 2.*

(On November 3, if the 2nd is a Sunday.)

The Commemoration of all the Faithful Departed.—
Double.—Black vestments.

The feast of All Saints is intimately connected with the remembrance of the holy souls who, detained in purgatory to expiate their venial sins or to pay the temporal pains due to sin, are none the less confirmed in grace and shall one day enter heaven. Therefore, after having joyfully celebrated the glory of the Saints who are the Triumphant Church in heaven, the Church on earth extends her maternal solicitude to the place of unspeakable torments, the abode of souls who equally belong to the Church.

"On this day," says the Roman Martyrology, "commemoration of all the faithful departed, in which our common and pious Mother the Church, immediately after having endeavoured to celebrate by worthy praise all her sons who already rejoice in heaven, strives to aid by her powerful intercession with Christ her Lord and Spouse, all those who still groan in Purgatory, so that they may join as soon as possible the inhabitants of the heavenly city."

Nowhere in the Liturgy is more vividly affirmed the mysterious unity which exists between the Church triumphant, the Church militant and the Church suffering, and never is accomplished in a more obvious way the double duty of charity and justice incumbent on every Christian by the fact of his being part of the mystical body of Christ.

It is in virtue of the very consoling dogma of the Communion of Saints that the merits and suffrages of the Saints may benefit others. Whereby without infringing the indefeasible rights of divine justice, which are exercised in their full vigour after this life, the Church can join her prayers here on earth to those of the Church in heaven and supply what is wanting in the souls in Purgatory, by offering to God for them, by Holy Mass, by indulgences, by the alms and sacrifices of her children, the superabundant merits of Christ's passion and of His mystical members. Wherefore the Liturgy, the centre of which is the sacrifice of Calvary continued on the altar, has always used this pre-eminent means of exercising in favour of the departed the great law of charity; for it is a precept of charity to relieve our neighbour's wants as if they were our own, in virtue of the supernatural bond which unites in Jesus heaven, purgatory and the earth.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1012.

The Liturgy of the dead is perhaps the most beautiful and consoling of all. Every day, at the end of each Hour of the divine office, we recommend to divine mercy the souls of the faithful departed. In the Mass, at the Suscipe, the priest offers the sacrifice for the living and the dead and in a special Memento he implores the Lord to remember His servants who have fallen asleep in Christ and to grant them to dwell in consolation, light and peace.

Masses for the dead are already recorded in the 5th century. But to St. Odilo, fourth abbot of the famous Benedictine monastery of Cluny, is due the Commemoration of all the departed. He instituted it in 998 and prescribed that it should be celebrated the day following All Saints' Day.* Through the influence of this illustrious French congregation, the custom was soon adopted by the whole Christian world and it even sometimes became a day of obligation. In Spain, Portugal and South America, which once belonged to Spain, the priests, in virtue of a privilege granted by Benedict XIV., celebrated three Masses on November 2. A decree of Benedict XV., dated August 10, 1915, authorises the priests of the whole world to do the same.

The Church reminds us in an Epistle, taken from St. Paul, that the dead will rise again, and tells us to hope, for on that day we shall all see one another again in the Lord. The Sequence strikingly describes the last judgment when the good will be for ever separated from the wicked.

The Offertory reminds us that it is St. Michael who introduces souls into heaven, for, as the prayers for the recommendation of the soul say, it is he who is "the chief of the heavenly host" in whose ranks men are called to fill the places of the fallen angels.

"The souls in purgatory," declares the Council of Trent, "are helped by the suffrages of the faithful, especially by the sacrifice of the Altar."† The reason is that in Holy Mass the priest offers officially to God the ransom for souls, that is the blood of the Saviour. And Jesus Himself, under the elements of bread and wine, which recall to the Father the sacrifice of Golgotha, prays God to apply to these souls its atoning virtue.

Let us, on this day, be present at the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass when the Church implores God to grant to the faithful departed, who can now do nothing for themselves, the remission of all their sins (Collect) and eternal rest (Introit, Gradual, Communion), and let us visit the cemeteries where their bodies repose‡ until the day when, in the twinkling of an eye, at the sound of the last trumpet, they will rise again to be clothed in immortality and to gain through Jesus Christ the victory over death (Epistle).

* By this same institution the Holy See granted a plenary Indulgence toties quoties on the same conditions as on August 2, applicable to the souls of the departed on All Souls' Day, to all those who visited a church from noon on All Saints to midnight on the following day and prayed for the intention of the Sovereign Pontiff.

† Sessio XXII, cap. II.

‡ The word cemetery comes from a Greek word meaning a place where one rests in sleep.

Vespers of the Dead.

Ant. I will please the Lord in the land of the living.	Ant. — Placébo Dómino, * in regióne vivórum.

Psalm cxiv.

The souls suffer in Purgatory. God delivers them.

I have loved: because the Lord will hear the voice of my prayer.	✠ Diléxi quóniam exáudiet Dóminus * vocem oratiónis meae.
Because He hath inclined His ear unto me: and in my days will I call upon Him.	Quia inclinávit aurem suam mihi: * et in diébus meis invocábo.
The sorrows of death have compassed me: and the perils of hell have found me.	Circumdedérunt me dolóres mortis: * et perícula inférni invenérunt me.
I met with trouble and sorrow: and I called on the name of the Lord.	Tribulatiónem et dolórem invéni: * et nomen Dómini invocávi.
O Lord, deliver my soul: the Lord is merciful and just, and our God showeth mercy.	O Dómine líbera ánimam meam: † miséricors Dóminus, et justus * et Deus noster miseréter.
The Lord is the keeper of little ones: I was humbled, and He delivered me.	Custódiens párvulos Dóminus: * humiliátus sum, et liberávit me.
Turn, O my soul, unto thy rest: for the Lord hath been bountiful to thee.	Convértere ánima mea, in réquiem tuam: * quia Dóminus benefécit tibi.
For He hath delivered my soul from death: mine eyes from tears, and my feet from falling.	Quia erípuit ánimam meam de morte: † óculos meos a lácrimis,* pedes meos a lapsu.
I will please the Lord: in the land of the living.	Placébo Dómino * in regióne vivórum.
℣. Eternal rest: grant unto them, O Lord.	℣. Réquiem aetérnam * dona eis Dómine.

℟. Et lux perpétua * lúceat eis.

℟. And let perpetual light shine upon them.

Ant.—Placébo Dómino in regióne vivórum.

Ant. I will please the Lord: in the land of the living.

Ant. — Heu me * quia incolátus meus prolongátus est.

Ant. Wo is me, O Lord, that my sojourning is prolonged.

Psalm cxix.

In the exile of Purgatory the souls have recourse to God.

Ad Dóminum cum tribulárer clamávi: * et exaudívit me.

In my trouble I cried to the Lord: and He heard me.

Dómine líbera ánimam meam a lábiis iníquis, * et a lingua dolósa.

Deliver my soul, O Lord, from wicked lips: and from a deceitful tongue.

Quid detur tibi, aut quid apponátur tibi * ad linguam dolósam?

What can be given thee, or what can be added to thee: to a deceitful tongue.

Sagíttae poténtis acútae, * cum carbónibus desolatóriis.

The sharp arrows of the mighty: with destroying coals of fire.

Heu me! quia incolátus meus prolongátus est † habitáv cum habitántibus Cedar: * multum íncola fuit ánima mea.

Wo is me that my sojourn is prolonged: I have dwelt with the inhabitants of Cedar: my soul hath long been a sojourner.

Cum his qui odérunt pacem, eram pacíficus: * cum loquébar illis, impugnábant me gratis.

With them that hated peace I was peaceable: when I spoke to them, they fought against me without a cause.

Réquiem aetérnam.

Eternal rest.

Ant. — Heu me! quia incolátus meus prolongátus est.

Ant. Wo is me, O Lord: that my sojourning is prolonged.

Ant.—Dóminus * custódit te ab omni malo: custódiat ánimam tuam Dóminus.

Ant. The Lord keepeth thee from all evil: the Lord keep thy soul.

Psalm cxx.

The souls in Purgatory place their trust in God.

Levavi óculos meos in montes, * unde véniet auxílium mihi.

I have lifted up mine eyes unto the mountains: whence help shall come to me.

My help is from the Lord, Who made heaven and earth.

Auxílium meum a Dómino, * qui fecit coelum et terram.

May He not suffer thy foot to be moved: neither let him slumber that keepeth thee.

Non det in commotiónem pedem tuum: * neque dormítet qui custódit te.

Behold, he shall neither slumber nor sleep: that keepeth Israel.

Ecce non dormitábit neque dórmiet, * qui custódit Israël.

The Lord is thy keeper, the Lord is thy protection: upon thy right hand.

Dóminus custódit te, Dóminus protéctio tua, * super manum déxteram tuam.

The sun shall not burn thee by day: nor yet the moon by night.

Per diem sol non uret te: * neque luna per noctem.

The Lord keepeth thee from all evil: may the Lord keep thy soul.

Dóminus custódit te ab omni malo: * custódiat ánimam tuam Dóminus.

May the Lord keep thy coming in and thy going out: from henceforth now and for ever.

Dóminus custódiat intróitum tuum, et éxitum tuum, * ex hoc nunc, et usque in saecúlum.

Eternal rest.

Réquiem aetérnam.

Ant.—The Lord keepeth thee from all evil: the Lord keep thy soul.

Ant.—Dóminus custódit te ab omni malo: custódiat ánimam tuam Dóminus.

Ant.—If Thou, O Lord, wilt mark iniquities: Lord, who shall abide it?

Ant.—Si iniquitátes * observáveris Dómine: Dómine, quis sustinébit?

Psalm cxxix. De Profundis, p. 11.—The Anthem is repeated.

Ant.—Despise not, O Lord, the works of Thy hands.

Ant.—Opera * mánuum tuárum, Dómine, ne despícias.

Psalm cxxxvii: Confitébor tibi, p. 132.—The Anthem is repeated.

℣. I heard a voice from heaven, saying unto me.

℟. Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord.

℣. Audívi vocem de coelo dicéntem mihi.

℟. Beáti mórtui qui in Dómino moriúntur.

Ant.—All that the Father giveth Me shall come to Me; and him that cometh to Me I will not cast out.

Ant.—Omne * quod dat mihi Pater, ad me véniet: et eum qui venit ad me, non ejíciam foras.

Magnificat: p. 112.—Repeat the Anthem.

All kneel.

Pater noster.

℣. Et ne nos indúcas in tentatiónem.

℟. Sed líbera nos a malo.

℣. A porta ínferi.

℟. Erue, Dómine, ánimas eórum.

℣. Requiéscant in pace.

℟. Amen.

℣. Dómine, exáudi oratiónem meam.

℟. Et clamor meus ad te véniat.

℣. Dóminus vobíscum.

℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

Our Father (in silence)

℣. And lead us not into temptation.

℟. But deliver us from evil.

℣. From the gate of hell

℟. Deliver their souls, O Lord.

℣. May they rest in peace.

℟. Amen.

℣. O Lord, hear my prayer.

℟. And let my cry come unto Thee.

℣. The Lord be with you.

℟. And with thy spirit.

Orémus. — Fidélium, Deus, ómnium cónditor et redémptor: animábus famulórum, famularúmque tuárum remissiónem cunctórum tríbue peccatórum; † ut indulgéntiam, quam semper optavérunt, * piis supplicatiónibus consequántur: Qui vivis.

Collect.—O God, the Creator and Redeemer of all the faithful, give to the souls of Thy servants departed the remission of all their sins; that through pious supplications, they may obtain the pardon which they have always desired. Who livest.

℣. Réquiem aetérnam dona eis, Dómine.
℟. Et lux perpétua lúceat eis.

℣. Requiéscant in pace.
℟. Amen.

℣. Eternal rest give unto them, O Lord.
℟. And let perpetual light shine upon them.

℣. May they rest in peace.
℟. Amen.

U.I.O.G.D.

On this day all priests may celebrate three Masses. The priest who celebrates only one, says the first. If a sung Mass, he also says the first, and he may say the two others before or after the first.

FIRST MASS.

Introit.—Eternal rest give to them, O Lord; and let perpetual light shine upon them. Ps. A hymn, O God, becometh Thee in Sion; and a vow shall be paid to Thee in Jerusalem: O Lord, hear my prayer; all flesh shall come to Thee. Eternal rest.

Intróitus. — Réquiem aetérnam dona eis Dómine: et lux perpétua lúceat eis. Ps. Te decet hymnus, Deus, in Sion, et tibi reddétur votum in Jerúsalem: exaúdi oratiónem meam, ad te omnis caro véniet. Réquiem aetérnam.

Collect.—O God the Creator and Redeemer of all the faithful, to the souls of Thy servants and of Thine handmaidens grant the pardon of all their sins, that, through our devout prayers, they may rejoice in the full forgiveness for which at all times they have hoped: Who livest and reignest.

Orémus. — Fidélium, Deus, ómnium cónditor et redémptor: animábus famulórum, famularúmque tuárum remissiónem cunctórum tríbue peccatórum; † ut indulgéntiam, quam semper optavérunt, * piis supplicatiónibus consequántur: Qui vivis.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians. 1 Cor. xv. 51-57.—BRETHREN, Behold I tell you a mystery: we shall indeed rise again, but we shall not all be changed. In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet; for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall rise again incorruptible, and we shall be changed. For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality. And when this mortal hath put on immortality, then shall come to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory. O

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Corínthios.—FRATRES: Ecce mystérium vobis dico: Omnes quidem resurgémus, sed non omnes immutábimur. In moménto, in ictu óculi, in novíssima tuba: canet enim tuba, et mórtui resúrgent incorrúpti: et nos immutábimur. Opórtet enim corruptíbile hoc indúere incorruptiónem: et mortále hoc indúere immortalitátem. Cum autem mortále hoc indúerit immortalitátem, tunc fiet sermo, qui scriptus est: Absórpta est mors in victória. Ubi est mors víctória tua? ubi est mors stimulus tuus? Stímulus autem mortis peccátum est: virtus vero peccáti lex. Deo autem grátias, qui dedit nobis victóriam per Dóminum nostrum Jesum Christum.

death, where is thy victory? O death, where is thy sting? Now the sting of death is sin: and the strength of sin is the law. But thanks be to God, Who hath given us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

Gradual and Tract, pp. 1777, 1777₄ —Sequence, p. 1778.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem. — In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus turbis Judaeórum: Amen, amen dico vobis, quia venit hora, et nunc est quando mórtui áudient vocem Fílii Dei: et qui audíerint, vivent. Sicut enim Pater habet vitam in semetípso, sic dedit et Fílio habére vitam in semetípso: et potestátem dedit ei judícium fácere, quia Fílius hóminis est. Nolíte mirári hoc, quia venit hora, in qua omnes, qui in monuméntis sunt, áudient vocem Fílii Dei: et procédent, qui bona fecérunt, in resurrectiónem vitae: qui vero mala egérunt in resurrectiónem judícii.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John v. 25-29.—At that time, Jesus said to the multitudes of the Jews, Amen, amen, I say unto you, that the hour cometh, and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God; and they that hear shall live. For as the Father hath life in Himself, so He hath given to the Son also to have life in Himself; and He hath given Him power to do judgment, because He is the Son of man. Wonder not at this, for the hour cometh wherein all that are in the graves shall hear the voice of the Son of God; and they that have done good things shall come forth unto the resurrection of life, but they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of judgment

Offertory, p. 1782².

Secréta. — Hóstias, quaesumus, Dómine, quas tibi pro animábus famulórum famulárumque tuárum offérimus, propitiátus inténde: ut, quibus fídei christiánae méritum contulísti, dones et praemium. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Look with favour, we beseech Thee, O Lord, upon the sacrifice which we offer up to Thee in behalf of the souls of Thy servants and of Thine handmaidens, and deign thereby to be appeased. On those souls Thou didst bestow the merit of faith in Christ: deny them not its reward. Through our Lord.

Preface of the Dead, p. 57.—Communion, p. 1784.

Postcommunion. — May the prayer of Thy suppliants, O Lord, avail the souls of Thy servants and of Thine handmaidens. Moved by it, mayest Thou free them from their sins and give them part in the redemption wrought by Thee. Who livest and reignest.

Postcommúnio. — Animábus, quaesumus, Dómine, famulórum, famularúmque tuárum orátio profíciat supplicántium: ut eas et a peccátis ómnibus éxuas, et tuae redemptiónis fácias esse partícipes: Qui vivis.

The Absolution, p. 1798 with Collect from the Mass, p. 1736.

SECOND MASS.

As on the anniversary day of the departed, p. 1786, with the Sequence, p. 1778, and the following Collects.

Collect.—O God, the Lord of mercies, grant to the souls of Thy servants and handmaids a place of refreshment, rest and happiness, and the glory of Thy light. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, indulgentiárum Dómine: da animábus famulórum, famularúmque tuárum, refrigérii sedem, quiétis beatitúdinem, et lúminis claritátem. Per Dóminum.

Secret. — Be favourable, O Lord, to our humble prayers on behalf of the souls of Thy servants and handmaids, for whom we offer up to Thee the sacrifice of praise: that Thou mayest vouchsafe to grant them fellowship with Thy saints. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Propitiáre, Dómine, supplicatiónibus nostris, pro animábus famulórum, famularúmque tuárum, pro quibus tibi offérimus sacrifícium laudis: ut eas Sanctórum tuórum consórtio sociáre dignéris. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Grant, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that the souls of Thy servants and handmaids, purified by this sacrifice, may obtain pardon and everlasting rest. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Praesta, quaesumus, Dómine: ut ánimae famulórum, famularúmque tuárum, his purgátae sacrifíciis, indulgéntiam páriter et réquiem cápiant sempitérnam. Per Dóminum.

THIRD MASS.

As in the Daily Masses for the Dead, p. 1788, with the Sequence, p. 1778, and the following Collects.

Collect.—O God, Who grantest forgiveness and desirest the Orémus. — Deus véniae largitor, et humánae salútis amátor:

quaesumus cleméntiam tuam; ut ánimas famulórum, famulárumque tuárum, quae ex hoc saeculo transiérunt, beáta María semper Vírgine intercedénte cum ómnibus Sanctis tuis, ad perpétuae beatitúdinis consórtium perveníre concédas. Per Dóminum.

salvation of mankind: we beseech Thee in Thy mercy to grant that Thy servants and handmaids who have passed out of this life, by the intercession of blessed Mary ever a Virgin and of all Thy saints, may partake of everlasting bliss. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Deus, cujus misericórdiae non est númerus, súscipe propítius preces humilitátis nostrae; et animábus ómnium fidélium defunctórum, quibus tui nóminis dedísti confessiónem, per haec sacraménta salútis nostrae, cunctórum remissiónem tribue peccatórum. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—O God, Whose mercy is boundless, favourably receive our humble prayers, and by means of these sacraments of our salvation grant to the souls of Thy servants and handmaids who by Thy grace did confess Thy name the remission of all their sins. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens et miséricors Deus: ut ánimae famulórum, famularúmque tuárum, pro quibus hoc sacrifícium laudis tuae obtúlimus majestáti; per hujus virtútem sacraménti a peccátis ómnibus expiátae, lucis perpétuae, te miseránte, recípiant beatitúdinem. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Grant, we beseech Thee, Almighty and merciful God, that the souls of Thy servants and handmaids, for whom we offer up this sacrifice of praise to Thy Majesty, may by virtue of this sacrament be cleansed from all sin and by Thy mercy receive the happiness of eternal light. Through our Lord.

November 3.

Third Day of the Octave of All Saints.

Mass: as on the day of the feast, p. 1729.

Second Collect, of the Holy Ghost, p. 161; Third Collect for the Church, p. 154, or for the Pope, p. 155.—The Credo is said.

Loaves are blessed on this day in honour of St. Hubert whose feast is solemnised in certain countries on November 3. The Church asks God to preserve those who eat of this bread from the bite of mad dogs, from the plague and other diseases. In a second Collect, she makes a similar prayer for the animals to whom the bread is given to eat.

November 4.

St. Charles Borromeo, Bishop, Confessor.*—Double.—White vestments.

St. Charles was raised up by God to be one of the chief instruments of the true reformation of the Church in the 16th century. It was greatly owing to his wisdom that the Council of Trent was happily concluded.

Made a cardinal at the age of 23, he soon became archbishop of Milan (Introit, Epistle, Gradual, Communion, Offertory). He held synods and councils, established colleges and communities, renewed the spirit of his clergy and of monasteries, and founded asylums for the poor and orphans. The most marvellous of his works was the creation of diocesan seminaries whose rules were adopted in all those that were instituted later. He died in 1584.

Mass : Státuit, p. 255, except :

Collect. — Ever keep Thy Church, O Lord, we beseech Thee, under the protection of St. Charles, Thy confessor and bishop; so that through the intercession of him who became glorious by his watchful care over his flock, we may ever burn with love for Thee. Through our Lord.

Orémus. —Ecclésiam tuam, Dómine, sancti Cároli Confessóris tui atque Pontíficis contínua protectióne custódi: ut, sicut illum pastorális solicitúdo gloriósum réddidit; ita nos ejus intercéssio in tuo semper fáciat amóre fervéntes. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration is made of the Octave, p. 1729, and of SS. Vitalis and Agricola, martyrs, as in the following Mass.

The Same Day.

SS. Vitalis and Agricola, Martyrs.†—Red vestments.

"At Bologna," says the Roman Martyrology, "the holy martyrs Vitalis and Agricola, the first a servant of the latter, who became his companion and colleague by martyrdom under Diocletian. His persecutor exhausted on him every kind of torment, and not an inch of his body was left unwounded; he suffered these tortures with fortitude and died praying. Agricola was crucified. The translation of the relics of these Saints took place in the presence of St. Ambrose, who says that he collected the nails, his glorious blood and the cross on which he was nailed and placed them under the holy altars."

Mass : Sapiéntiam, p. 235, except :

Collect. — Grant, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, that we who celebrate the festival-day of Thy holy martyrs Vitalis and Orémus. — Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Vitális et Agrícolae solém-

* See Historical Summary, p. 1015. † Ibid., p. 1009.

nia cólimus, eórum apud te intercessiónibus adjuvémur. Per Dóminum.

Agricola, may never lack the succour of their prayers. Through our Lord.

Epistle : Rememorámini, p. 239.—Gospel : Si qui vult, p. 220.

Secréta. — Oblátis, quaesumus, Dómine, placáre munéribus : et, intercedéntibus sanctis Martyribus tuis Vitále et Agrícola, a cunctis nos defénde perículis. Per Dóminum.

Secret. — Be appeased, O Lord, we beseech Thee, by the gifts which we offer up ; and by the intercession of Thy holy martyrs Vitalis and Agricola keep us from all danger. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Haec nos commúnio, Dómine, purget a crímine : et, intercedéntibus sanctis Martyribus tuis Vitále et Agrícola, coeléstis remédii fáciat esse consórtes. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — May this Communion, O Lord, cleanse us from guilt ; and by the intercession of blessed Vitalis and Agricola, Thy martyrs, may it win for us healing grace from heaven. Through our Lord.

NOVEMBER 5.

(In many dioceses)

Feast of the Holy Relics preserved in the Churches of a Diocese.

Greater-double.—Red vestments.

After having solemnised on All Saints' Day the feast of the holy souls who have entered heaven, the Church honours on this day the holy relics of their bodies which will remain on earth until the glorious resurrection, a pledge of which we venerate in their ashes (Collect). From the earliest times the Church celebrated the holy Mysteries on the tombs of the martyrs in the Catacombs, in order to show that these Saints had mixed their blood with that of the Victim of Calvary (Antiphon at Vespers).

Later, at Rome, splendid churches were erected as vast reliquaries to preserve the tombs of celebrated martyrs. The remains of those who had confessed their faith, were placed under the High Altar or Confession of the basilicas which were dedicated to them. Hence the custom of translating the relics of the martyrs which is one of the essential parts of the ceremony of dedicating a church, similar to the custom of placing relics of holy martyrs in a small cavity of the altar stone called tomb (see p. 2).

That is why the mass of the holy Relics, which dates from the 19th century, is composed in a great measure, like to-day's office, of passages taken from the Common of Martyrs (Gospel, Epistle, Gradual, Offertory), and why the priest wears red vestments.

Just as a supernatural virtue issued from the sacred Humanity of Jesus and healed those who approached Him (Gospel) so too the Saints who enjoy God in heaven (Gradual, Communion) may by their relics (bones) (Introit)), ashes, clothes, or other objects used by them "work wonders on earth," says the Collect, "exorcise devils, heal the sick, restore sight to the blind, cleanse lepers, drive away temptations and bestow on all the excellent gifts which come from the Father of light."*

MASS.

Introit. Ps. xxxiii. 20, 21.—Many are the afflictions of the just, and out of all these the Lord hath delivered them: the Lord keepeth all their bones; not one of them shall be broken. Ibid. 2. I will bless the Lord at all times: His praise shall be always in my mouth. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Intróitus. — Multae tribulatiónes justórum, et de his ómnibus liberábit eos Dóminus: Dóminus custódit ómnia ossa eórum: unum ex his non conterétur. Ps. Benedícam Dóminum in omni témpore: semper laus ejus in ore meo. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect. — Do Thou, O Lord, increase our faith in the Resurrection, Thou that workest wonders in the Relics of Thy saints: and make us partakers of that immortal glory, a pledge of which we venerate in their ashes. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Auge in nobis, Dómine, resurrectiónis fidem, qui in Sanctórum tuórum relíquiis mirabília operáris: et fac nos immortális glóriae partícipes; cujus in eórum cinéribus pígnora venerámur. Per Dóminum.

Epistle. — Lesson from the Book of Wisdom. Ecclus. xliv. 10-15. — THESE were men of mercy, whose godly deeds have not failed. Good things continue with their seed, their posterity are a holy inheritance, and their seed hath stood in the covenants. And their children for their sakes remain for ever; their seed and their glory shall not be forsaken. Their bodies are buried in peace, and their name liveth unto generation and generation. Let the people show forth their wisdom, and the church declare their praise.

Epístola. — Léctio libri Sapiéntiae. — HI viri misericórdiae sunt, quorum pietátes non defuérunt: cum sémine eórum pérmanent bona, heréditas sancta nepótes eórum, et in testaméntis stetit semen eórum: et fílii eórum propter illos usque in aetérnum manent: semen eórum, et glória eórum non derelinquétur. Córpora ipsórum in pace sepúlta sunt, et nomen eórum vivit in generatiónem et generatiónem. Sapiéntiam ipsórum narrent pópuli, et laudem eórum núntiet Ecclésia.

* Lessons of the 2nd Nocturn at Matins.

Graduále. — Exsultábunt sancti in glória : laetabúntur in cubílibus suis. ℣. Cantáte Dómino cánticum novum : laus ejus in ecclésia sanctórum.

Gradual. Ps. cxlix. 5, 1.—The saints shall rejoice in glory : they shall be joyful in their beds. ℣. Sing ye to the Lord a new canticle : let His praise be in the church of His saints.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Ps. Justi epuléntur, et exúltent in conspéctu Dei : et delecténtur in laetítia. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. lxvii. 4. —℣. The just shall feast, and shall exult in the sight of God : and shall rejoice in gladness. Alleluia.

After Septuagesima, the Alleluia is omitted and the following Verse is said :—

Tractus. — Qui séminant in lácrimis, in gáudio metent. ℣. Eúntes ibant et flebant, mitténtes sémina sua. ℣. Veniéntes autem vénient cum exultatióne, portántes manípulos suos.

Tract. Ps. cxxv. 5-7.—They that sow in tears shall reap in joy. ℣. Going they went and wept, casting their seeds. ℣. But coming they shall come with joyfulness, carrying their sheaves.

During Paschal Time, the Gradual is omitted and is said :—

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Sancti tui, Dómine, florébunt sicut lílium : et sicut odor bálsami erunt ante te.

Alleluia, alleluia. — ℣. Thy saints, O Lord, shall flourish like the lily, and shall be as the odour of balsam before Thee.

Allelúia. Ps. Pretiósa in conspéctu Dómini mors Sanctórum ejus. Allelúia.

Alleluia. Ps. cxv. 15.—Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of His saints. Alleluia.

Gospel : Descéndens, p. 237.—Credo.

Offertórium. — Mirábilis Deus in sanctis suis : Deus Israël, ipse dabit virtútem, et fortitúdinem plebi suae : benedíctus Deus.

Offertory. — God is wonderful in His saints : the God of Israel is He Who will give power and strength to His people : blessed be God.

Secréta. — Implorámus, Dómine, cleméntiam tuam : ut Sanctórum tuórum, quorum relíquias venerámur, suffragántibus méritis, hóstia, quam offérimus, nostrórum sit expiátio delictórum. Per Dóminum.

Secret. — We implore Thy clemency, O Lord, that by the interceding merits of Thy saints whose Relics we venerate, this sacrifice which we offer may be an expiation of our sins. Through our Lord.

Communion. — Rejoice, ye just, in the Lord: praise becometh the upright.

Commúnio. — Gaudéte justi in Dómino: rectos decet collaudátio.

Postcommunion. — Multiply upon us Thy mercy, we beseech Thee, O Lord, through the Sacraments which we have received: that even as with a pious devotion we rejoice in the solemnity of Thy saints whose Relics we venerate, so also by Thy bountiful goodness we may enjoy their everlasting fellowship. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Multíplica super nos quaesumus, Dómine, per haec sancta, quae súmpsimus, misericórdiam tuam: ut sicut in tuórum solemnitáte Sanctórum, quorum relíquias cólimus, pia devotióne laetámur; ita eórum perpétua societáte te largiénte, fruámur. Per Dóminum.

NOVEMBER 8.

The Octave Day of All Saints.—Greater-double.—White vestments.

The custom of celebrating during eight days the feast of All Saints was established by Pope Sixtus IV. in 1430 for the universal Church.

Let us realise the part played by the Church's liturgy initiating us into the liturgy of heaven. "As daughter of those very choirs that are continually singing before the throne of God and the Lamb," said Pius X, as well as Urban VIII., "it is proper that divine psalmody, by which the Spouse consoles herself during this exile for the absence of her divine Lord, should be without fault or stain."

Mass as on the Feast, p. 1729.—Commemoration of the Holy Four Crowned Martyrs as in the following Mass.

THE SAME DAY.

The Holy Four Crowned Martyrs.*—Red vestments.

The Saints were four brothers whose names remained long unknown. They were called "the four crowned" because they received the palm of martyrdom and were crowned in heaven.

Mass: Intret, p. 232, except:

Collect. — Grant, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, that we who acknowledge the boldness of Thy glorious martyrs in their confession, may enjoy their loving intercession with Thee. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui gloriósos Mártyres fortes in sua confessióne cognóvimus, pios apud te in nostra intercessióne sentiámus. Per Dóminum.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009.

Epistle : Sancti, as on July 18, p. 1505.—Gospel : Videns as on All Saints, p. 1731.

Secréta. — Benedíctio tua, Dómine, larga descéndat : quae et múnera nostra, deprecántibus sanctis Martyribus tuis, tibi reddat accépta, et nobis sacraméntum redemptiónis effíciat. Per Dóminum.

Secret. — Let Thy bountiful blessing come down upon us, O Lord ; through the prayers of Thy holy martyrs, may it make our gifts well-pleasing to Thee, and make them also a sacrament of redemption to ourselves. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. —Coeléstibus refécti sacraméntis et gáudiis : súpplices te, Dómine, deprecámur ; ut quorum gloriámur triúmphis, protegámur auxíliis. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — We who are refreshed and gladdened by these heavenly sacraments, humbly pray Thee, O Lord, that we may be shielded by the help of those in whose triumphs we glory. Through our Lord.

NOVEMBER 9.

The Dedication of the Basilica of Our Saviour.*—Double of the Second Class.—White vestments.

Among the rich and splendid Roman basilicas where the ceremonies of Christian worship were celebrated in great pomp, after the era of persecution, there is one of first rank and whose Dedication is solemnised on this anniversary. The palace of the Lateran on the Coelian Hill, then belonged to Fausta, the wife of Constantine. The Emperor, after his conversion, gave it to the Pope as his private residence, and founded there the church of the Lateran which became the mother and mistress of all the churches of Rome and the world.†

On November 9, A.D. 324, Pope St. Sylvester consecrated it under the name of Basilica of St. Saviour. This was the first public consecration of a church. A long time after, under Lucius II. in the 12th century it was dedicated to St. John the Baptist, whose name had been given to the adjoining baptistery. Wherefore, it has been given nowadays the title of St. John Lateran.

In this basilica and the adjoining palace were held, from the 4th to the 16th centuries, more than twenty-five councils, five of which were ecumenical. On the most solemn days the Station was held there. Holy Orders were conferred there, penitents were reconciled, catechumens were baptised on Easter Day, and as neophytes they came there in procession during the whole octave.

At St. John Lateran is inaugurated, on the first Sunday in Lent, the great liturgical season consecrated to penitence,‡ there is held the assembly on Palm Sunday§ and that on Rogation Tuesday‖, there, are carried out the ceremonies of Maunday Thursday¶ and Easter Eve and Mass is celebrated on Saturday in Albis†† and on the eve of Pentecost.‡‡

* See Historical Summary, p. 1016.
† See Plan of Stations, p. 510, H. f. 15.
‡ See p. 534.
§ See p. 731.
‖ See p. 930.
¶ See p. 780.
 See p. 826.
†† See p. 902.
‡‡ See p. 956.

The Church, having been destroyed, was rebuilt and consecrated anew by Benedict XIII., in 1726, and the commemoration of this consecration was fixed, as that of the first church, on November 9.

Mass : Terríbilis, p. 311.

In Low Masses, commemoration is made of St. Theodore as in the following Mass.

Second Vespers : As in the Common, p. 309.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Theodore, MARTYR.*.

Theodore, a soldier in the Roman legion at Amasea (Pontus), was arrested on account of his Christian faith. Cast into prison, his flesh was torn with iron hooks and his ribs were laid bare The martyr, filled with joy, never ceased singing the verse of a Psalm : " I will bless the Lord at all times." He was then burned alive and gave up his soul to God A.D. 406.

Mass : Laetábitur, p. 225; except :

Orémus. — Deus, qui nos beáti Theodóri Mártyris tui confessióne gloriósa circúmdas et prótegis : praesta nobis ex ejus imitatióne profícere et oratióne fulcíri. Per Dóminum.	Collect. — O God, Who dost encompass and shield us by the glorious confession of blessed Theodore Thy martyr; grant that we may profit by his example, and be strengthened by his intercession. Through our Lord.
Secréta. — Súscipe, Dómine, fidélium preces cum oblatiónibus hostiárum : et, intercedénte beáto Theodóro Mártyre tuo, per haec piae devotiónis offícia ad coeléstem glóriam transeámus. Per Dóminum nostrum.	Secret. — Receive, O Lord, the prayers of the faithful with the victims which they offer up ; and through the intercession of blessed Theodore Thy martyr, may this service of love and devotion bring us to the glory of heaven. Through our Lord.
Postcommúnio. — Praesta nobis, quaesumus, Dómine : intercedénte beáto Theodóro Mártyre tuo ; ut, quod ore contíngimus, pura mente capiámus.	Postcommunion. — Grant, O Lord, we beseech Thee, through the intercession of blessed Theodore Thy martyr, that what we take with our mouth, we may receive with a clean heart. Through our Lord.	Per Dóminum.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010.

November 10.

St. Andrew Avellino, Confessor.*—Double.—White vestments.

Andrew Avellino was born at Castro-Nuovo, in the kingdom of Naples. He was very handsome and had to resist, even violently, various attempts of seduction. " He might have done wrong," says the Epistle, "and did not." Raised to the sacerdotal dignity, after having studied law, he pleaded only in the ecclesiastical court. One day, a slight untruth escaped him at the bar and a short time after he read the following passage of Holy Scripture : " The mouth that utters untruth kills the soul," and he was so struck by it that he absolutely gave up his career at the bar.

He then joined the Theatines, or Clerks regular of St. Paul, at Naples, and obtained, on account of his great love for the cross, that he should be given the name of Andrew.

Having become Superior of the Institute (Communion), he devoted all his free time to prayer and the care of souls. He died at Naples in 1608 at a very advanced age, at the foot of the altar as he was ascending to celebrate Mass.

Mass : Os justi, p. 270, except :

Collect. — O God, Who didst marvellously lift up to Thyself the heart of blessed Andrew, Thy Confessor, by means of his steadfast vow to advance in virtue daily ; grant, we beseech Thee, that through his merits and intercession we may share in the like grace ; so that, by ever following the more perfect way, we may happily be brought to Thy glory on high. Through our Lord.	Orémus. — Deus, qui in corde beáti Andréae Confessóris tui, per árduum quotídie in virtútibus proficiéndi votum, admirábiles ad te ascensiónes disposuísti : concéde nobis, ipsíus méritis et intercessióne, ita ejúsdem grátiae partícipes fíeri ; ut, perfectióra semper exsequéntes, ad glóriae tuae fastígium felíciter perducámur. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of SS. Tryphon, Respicius and Nympha as in the following Mass.

The Same Day.

SS. Tryphon, Respicius and Nympha, Virgin, Mm.†

In the reign of Decius, Tryphon suffered martyrdom at Nicaea in Bithynia. The tribune Respicius, touched by his fortitude, was converted and both were condemned to death by scourging (A.D.250).

* See Historical Summary, p. 1016. † Ibid, p. 1008.

Two centuries later, on the same day, St. Nympha, a Sicilian virgin, having publicly confessed that Jesus Christ was the true God, added the palm of martyrdom to that of virginity. Her body, taken to Rome, was laid in the church of SS. Tryphon and Respicius. There, was held the Station on the Saturday after Ash-Wednesday.*

Mass : Clamavérunt, as on June 2, p. 1395, except :

Orémus. — Fac nos quaesumus, Dómine, sanctórum Mártyrum tuórum Tryphónis, Respícii et Nymphae semper festa sectári : quorum suffrágiis, protectiónis tuae dona sentiámus. Per Dóminum.

Collect. — Enable us, we beseech Thee, O Lord, each year to keep with rejoicings, the feast of Thy holy martyrs Tryphon, Respicius and Nympha : and having them for our advocates, ever to feel that Thou Thyself art our protector. Through our Lord.

Graduále. — Víndica Dómine, sánguinem sanctórum tuórum, qui effúsus est. ℣. Posuérunt mortália servórum tuórum escas volatílibus coeli : carnes sanctórum tuórum béstiis terrae.

Gradual. Ps. lxxviii. 10, 2.—Revenge, O Lord, the blood of Thy saints, which hath been shed. ℣. They have given the dead bodies of Thy servants, O Lord, to be meat for the fowls of the air : the flesh of Thy saints to the beasts of the earth.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Pretiósa in conspéctu Dómini mors sanctórum ejus. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. cxv. 15. —Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of His saints.

Gospel : Attendite a ferménto, p. 240.

Offertory : Laetámini, p. 251.

Secréta.— Múnera tibi, Dómine, nostrae devotiónis offérimu : quae et pro tuórum tibi grasa sint honóre justórum, et nobts salutária, te miseránte, reddiátnur. Per Dóminum.

Secret. — Devoutly, O Lord, we lay our offerings at Thy feet, given for the honour of Thy saints : may these offerings find favour with Thee : and in Thine infinite mercy may they be of avail to us unto salvation. Through our Lord.

Commúnio. — Quicúmque fécerit voluntátem Patris mei, qui in coelis est : ipse meus frater, et soror, et mater est, dicit Dóminus.

Communion. Matt. xii. 50.—Whosoever shall do the will of My Father, that is in heaven, he is My brother, and sister, and mother, saith the Lord.

* See p. 529.

Postcommunion. — Grant unto us, we beseech thee, O Lord, by the intercession of Thy holy martyrs Tryphon, Respicius and Nympha to receive into a pure heart the divine sacrament which has passed our lips. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Praesta nobis, quaesumus, Dómine: intercedéntibus sanctis Martyribus tuis Tryphóne, Respício et Nympha; ut, quod ore contíngimus, pura mente capiámus. Per Dóminum.

NOVEMBER 11.

St. Martin, BISHOP, CONFESSOR.*—Double.—White vestments.

In the first three centuries the saints were martyrs only. St. Martin is the first Bishop and Confessor honoured by the Church in the West. As Durand de Mende remarks, the liturgy gives him a rank equal to the Apostles, for it was he who finally evangelised Gaul. His feast was everywhere of obligation. Taking place often during "St. Martin's Summer," that is at the end of autumn, it rivalled in importance and popular rejoicings the feast of St. John. It had an Octave like the feast of St. Laurence, for St. Martin, "pearl of priests" (Response at Matins), occupies among Confessors the rank of St. Laurence among the martyrs.

St. Martin, born at Labaria in Pannonia, came to Gaul as a soldier. While still a catechumen, he one day, near Amiens, gave part of his cloak to a poor man who asked him an alms in the name of Christ. On the following night Jesus appeared to him clothed in this half of his cloak and said to him: "Martin, a simple catechumen, covered Me with this garment."

At the age of eighteen, he was baptised, and having become a disciple of St. Hilary, Bishop of Poitiers, he built at two leagues from the episcopal city, in the desert of Ligugé, a monastery whither he retired with a few disciples. He thereby was the founder of monasteries in Gaul.

But God would not allow this light to remain hidden under the bushel (Gospel). St. Martin, torn from his solitude, was made Bishop of Tours (Introit, Epistle, Gradual). He then founded the famous abbey of Marmontiers or Martin's Monastery, where he often retired from the world. There, he had around him eighty monks who imitated the lives of the hermits of Thebaid.

He lived more than eighty years, devoting himself to the glory of God and the salvation of souls. He died at Candes, near Tours, A.D. 397. His tomb became famous through many miracles, and attracted crowds from all parts of the country. Gregory of Tours, a later Bishop of Tours, does not hesitate to call the holy worker of miracles special patron of the whole world. Few saints have been so popular. In France alone, there are about 4,000 parish churches dedicated to St. Martin and 485 market towns or villages still bear his name. Rome has a church of St. Sylvester and Martin, where the Station is held on the Thursday of the fourth week in Lent.† St. Martin's cope used to be borne at the head of the army in times of war and on it were sworn solemn oaths in times of peace.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1010. † See p. 656.

This cope (chape), a symbol of the protection with which the national apostle favoured France, has given its name to the oratory where it was kept and to all the small churches that are called Chapels.

MASS.

Introitus. — Státuit ei Dóminus testaméntum pacis, et príncipem fecit eum : ut sit illi sacerdótii dígnitas in aetérnum. Ps. Meménto, Dómine, David : et omnis mansuetúdinis ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ecclus. xlv. 30.—The Lord made to him a covenant of peace, and made him a prince; that the dignity of priesthood should be to him for ever. Ps. cxxxi. 1. O Lord, remember David, and all his meekness. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui cónspicis, quia ex nulla nostra virtúte subsístimus : concéde propítius ; ut, intercessióne beáti Martíni Confessóris tui atque Pontíficis, contra ómnia advérsa muniámur. Per Dóminum.

Collect. — O God, Who seest that on no strength of our own can we rely: in Thy loving kindness vouchsafe that the intercession of blessed Martin, Thy confessor and bishop, be to us a sure defence in our every trouble. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of St. Mennas, from the Collects of the following Mass.

Epistle : Ecce sacérdos, p. 255.

Graduále. — Ecce sacérdos magnus, qui in diébus suis plácuit Deo. ℣. Non est invéntus símilis illi, qui conserváret legem Excélsi.

Gradual. Ecclus. xliv. 16.—Behold a great priest, who in his days pleased God. ℣. There was not any found like to him, who kept the law of the Most High.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Beatus vir, sanctus Martínus, urbis Turónis Epíscopus, requiévit : quem suscepérunt Angeli, atque Archángeli, Throni, Dominatiónes, et Virtútes. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. — ℣. That happy man, Saint Martin, the bishop of the city of Tours, hath entered into his rest: to welcome him came forth the Angels and Archangels, the thrones, the dominations and the virtues. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam. — In illo témpore : Dixit Jesus discípulis suis : Nemo lucérnam accén-

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke xi. 33-36.—At that time, Jesus said to His disciples, No man lighteth a candle, and putteth it in a hidden place, nor under a bushel: but upon a candlestick, that they that come in may see the light. The light of Thy body is thy eye. If thy eye be single, thy whole body will be lightsome; but if it be evil, thy body also will be darksome. Take heed therefore that the light which is in thee be not darkness. If then thy whole body be lightsome, having no part of darkness, the whole shall be lightsome, and as a bright lamp shall enlighten thee.

dit et in abscóndito ponit, neque sub módio: sed supra candelábrum, ut qui ingrediúntur, lumen vídeant. Lucérna córporis tui est óculus tuus. Si óculus tuus fúerit simplex, totum corpus tuum lúcidum erit: si autem nequam fúerit, étiam corpus tuum tenebrósum erit. Vide ergo, ne lúmen, quod in te est, ténebrae sint. Si ergo corpus tuum totum lúcidum fúerit, non habens áliquam partem tenebrárum, erit lúcidum totum, et sicut lucérna fulgoris illuminábit te.

Offertory. Ps. lxxxviii. 25.—My truth and My mercy shall be with him; and in my name shall his horn be exalted.

Offertórium.—Véritas mea, et misericórdia mea cum ipso: et in nómine meo exaltábitur cornu ejus.

Secret. — Grant, we beseech Thee, O merciful God, that this saving oblation utterly free us from the evils we ourselves have wrought, and that in all adversity it be our shield. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Sanctifica, quaesumus, Dómine Deus, haec múnera, quae in solemnitáte sancti Antístitis tui Martíni offérimus: ut per ea, vita nostra inter advérsa et próspera ubíque dirigátur. Per Dóminum.

Communion. Matt. xxiv. 46, 47.—Blessed is that servant whom, when his lord shall come, he shall find him watching: Amen, I say to you, he shall set him over all his goods.

Commúnio. — Beátus servus, quem, cum vénerit dóminus, invénerit vigilántem: amen dico vobis, super ómnia bona sua constítuet eum.

Postcommunion. — O Lord, our God, grant, we beseech Thee, that through the prayers of the Saint, to celebrate whose festival-day we have offered it up, this holy sacrifice may avail us unto salvation. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Praesta, quaesumus, Dómine Deus noster: ut, quorum festivitáte votíva sunt sacraménta, eórum intercessióne salutária nobis reddántur. Per Dóminum.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Mennas, MARTYR.*—Red vestments.

An Egyptian by birth and a Roman soldier, Mennas suffered a glorious martyrdom at Cotyaea, a town in Phrygia, under the Emperor Diocletian, A.D. 295.

Mass : Laetábitur, p. 225, and Collects of the Mass : In virtúte, p. 222.

NOVEMBER 12.

St. Martin I., POPE AND MARTYR.†—Semi-double.—Red vestments.

Martin succeeded Pope Theodore. Having convoked at Rome a council where the Monotheists, who only admitted a divine will in Christ, were condemned, he was treacherously seized by order of the heretics Heraclius and Constant, and carried away to Constantinople. After enduring much suffering and humiliation, he was exiled to Chersonesus, where he died of fatigue in A.D. 655.

His body, translated to Rome, was laid in the church of St. Sylvester and Martin the apostle of Gaul.‡

Mass : Sacerdótes Dei, p. 219, except :

Léctio Epistolae beáti Petri Apóstoli. CARISSIMI : Communicántes Christi passiónibus gaudéte, ut et in revelatióne glóriae ejus gaudeátis exultantes. Si exprobrámini in nómine Christi, beáti éritis : quóniam quod est honóris, glóriae, et virtútis Dei, et qui est ejus Spíritus, super vos requiéscit. Nemo autem vestrum patiátur ut homicída, aut fur, aut maledícus, aut alienórum appetítor. Si autem ut christiánus, non erubéscat, glorificet autem Deum in isto nómine. Quóniam tempus est ut incípiat judícium a domo Dei. Si autem primum a nobis : quia finis eórum qui non credunt Dei Evangélio? Et si justus vix salvábitur, ímpius et peccátor ubi parébunt? Itaque et hi,

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Peter the Apostle. I. Pet. iv. 13-19.—DEARLY beloved, if you partake of the sufferings of Christ, rejoice, that when His glory shall be revealed, you may also be glad with exceeding joy. If you be reproached for the name of Christ, you shall be blessed ; for that which is of the honour, glory, and power of God, and that which is His spirit, resteth upon you. But let none of you suffer as a murderer, or a thief, or a railer, or a coveter of other men's things. But if as a Christian, let him not be ashamed ; but let him glorify God in His name. For the time is that judgment should begin at the house of God. And if first at us, what shall be the end of them that believe not the

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009.
† Ibid, p. 1010.
‡ See p. 656.

Gospel of God? And if the just man shall scarcely be saved, where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear? Wherefore let them also that suffer according to the will of God, commend their souls in good deeds to the faithful Creator.

qui patiúntur secúndum voluntátem Dei, fidéli Creatóri comméndent ánimas suas in benefáctis.

Gospel: Si quis, p. 220.

NOVEMBER 13.

St. Didacus, CONFESSOR.*—Semi-double.—White vestments.

Born in Spain† about A.D. 1400, he gave up all he possessed (Gospel, Communion) and entered, as a lay-brother, the Franciscan Monastery at Arrizafa. He devoted himself especially to contemplation and was favoured by God with such wonderful light that he spoke of heavenly things in an almost divine way. His ardent desire for martyrdom, while he was in the Canary Islands, was partly satisfied by all manner of tribulations (Epistle). He returned to Rome the year of the Jubilee, under the pontificate of Nicholas V., took care of the sick at the convent of Ara Coeli, and filled this post with so much charity, that, in spite of the scarcity which desolated the city, those who were committed to his care never wanted the necessaries of life. The passion of Jesus was the ordinary subject of his meditations and prayers. Feeling that his end was near, and clothed only in an old torn dress, with his eyes fixed on the cross, he uttered the words of the sacred hymn: "Word and nails full of sweetness, ye bear the sweetest of loads; how great your glory since ye have been judged worthy to bear the King of heaven." And he piously gave up his soul to God, at Alcala de Henarez in 1463.

Mass: Justus, p. 273, except:

Collect. — O Almighty and everlasting God Who, in Thy wonderful providence has chosen the weak things of this world to confound those which are strong: relying on the kindly prayers of blessed Didacus, Thy confessor, we who are lowly in deed, supplicate Thee to be made worthy of being raised up to the everlasting glory in heaven. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Omnipotens sempitérne Deus, qui dispositióne mirábili infírma mundi éligis, ut fórtia quaeque confúndas, concéde propítius humilitáti nostrae; ut, piis beáti Didáci Confessóris tui précibus, ad perénnem in coelis glóriam sublimári mereámur. Per Dóminum.

NOVEMBER 14.

St. Josaphat, BISHOP AND MARTYR.‡—Double.—Red vestments.

A native of Wladimir, in Volhynia, and belonging to a noble family, Josaphat Kuncewitcz embraced monastic life in the Order of St. Basil.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1014. † Where he is called St. Jaime or St. Diego.
‡ See Historical Summary, p. 1016.

He always kept fresh, the flower of his chastity which he had, from his youth, consecrated to Mary. Commissioned, in spite of his early age, to govern the monastery of Bytene, he became shortly afterwards Archimandrite of Vilna and lastly, very much against his wish, Archbishop of Polotsk.

The apostolic zeal of the youthful Archbishop excited against him the hatred of hell. Attacked at Vitepsk by the schismatics, he perished by the most cruel death, in 1623, and obtained from God the conversion of his murderers.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Gaudeámus omnes in Dómino, diem festum celebrántes sub honóre beáti Jósaphat Mártyris: de cujus passióne gaudent Angeli, et colláudant Fílium Dei. Ps. Exsultáte justi in Dómino: rectos decet collaudátio. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. — Let us all rejoice in the Lord, celebrating a festival day in honour of the blessed martyr Josaphat: at whose martyrdom the Angels rejoice, and give praise to the Son of God. Ps. xxxii. 1. Rejoice in the Lord, ye just, praise becometh the upright. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Excita, quaesumus, Dómine, in Ecclésia tua Spíritum, quo replétus beátus Jósaphat Martyr et Póntifex tuus ánimam suam pro óvibus pósuit: ut, eo intercedénte, nos quoque eódem Spíritu moti ac roboráti, ánimam nostram pro frátribus pónere non vereámur. Per Dóminum. . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

Collect. — Stir up in Thy Church, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that spirit with which blessed Josaphat was filled when he laid down his life for his sheep: so that, helped by his prayers, we too may be moved and strengthened by the same Spirit, and may not fear to give our lives for our brethren. Through our Lord.

Epistle : Omnis póntifex, p. 419.

Graduále. — Invéni David servum meum, óleo sancto meo unxi eum: manus enim mea auxiliábitur ei, et bráchium meum confortábit eum. ℣. Nihil profíciet inimícus in eo, et fílius iniquitátis non nocébit ei.

Gradual. Ps. lxxxviii. 21-23. —I have found David My servant, with My holy oil I have anointed him; for My hand shall help him, and My arm shall strengthen him. ℣. The enemy shall have no advantage over him, and the Son of iniquity shall not hurt him.

Alleluia, alleluia. — This is the priest whom the Lord hath crowned. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Hic est sacérdos, quem coronávit Dóminus. Allelúia.

Gospel: Ego sum pastor bonus, p. 420.

Offertory. John xv. 13.—Greater love than this no man hath that a man lay down his life for his friends.

Offertórium. — Majórem caritátem nemo habet, ut ánimam suam ponat quis pro amícis suis.

Secret. — O God of mercies, pour forth Thy blessings on these our offerings, and strengthen us in that faith which blessed Josaphat upheld even unto the shedding of his blood.

Secréta. — Clementíssime Deus, múnera haec tua benedictióne perfúnde, et nos in fide confírma: quam sanctus Jósaphat Martyr et Póntifex tuus effúso sánguine, asséruit. Per Dóminum.

Communion. John x. 14.—I am the good Shepherd, and I know My sheep, and Mine know Me.

Commúnio. — Ego sum pastor bonus, et cognósco oves meas, et cognóscunt me meae.

Postcommunion. — May the bread of heaven of which we have eaten imbue us, O Lord, with the spirit of fortitude: for surely from it did blessed Josaphat, Thy martyr-bishop, draw the strength which led him, battling for Thy Church, to the glorious victory he won. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Spíritum, Dómine, fortitúdinis haec nobis tríbuat mensa coeléstis: quae sancti Jósaphat Mártyris tui atque Pontíficis vitam pro Ecclésiae honóre júgiter áluit ad victóriam. Per Dóminum.

NOVEMBER 15.

St. Gertrude, VIRGIN.*—Double.—White vestments.

St. Gertrude, called the Great, was a Cistercian, and a daughter both of St. Bernard and St. Benedict. Her life was nearly entirely spent in the cloister; she was offered there to God in 1261, at the age of five.

On January 27, 1281, Gertrude being then just over 25, the Spouse of her soul revealed Himself to her in a wonderful manner; He consoled her in a trial which tormented her, and favoured her with remarkable visions during the eight following years. At God's command, she related them in a wonderful book entitled: Revelations of St. Gertrude. We also have of her, the Book of special grace, the Exercises of St. Gertrude, and the Prayers of St. Gertrude.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1013.

"Nobody can read," writes Father Faber, "the spiritual writers of the old school of St. Benedict, without noticing with admiration the liberty of the mind that penetrated them. Of this, St. Gertrude is a beautiful example: she always breathes the spirit of St. Benedict. The spirit of the Catholic religion is an easy spirit, a spirit of liberty; such was particularly the prerogative of the ascetic Benedictines of the old school.*

The works of St. Gertrude are in fact like an echo of the thoughts she gathered from the holy liturgy. A docile child of the Church, she each day listened to her maternal voice which now sheds tears, now rejoices in divine Psalmody and in the texts of her official prayer. This sure and infallible guidance rapidly led her to the summits of perfection. "You shall find Me," Jesus declared, "in the Blessed Sacrament and in the heart of Gertrude" (Collect). As a Prophetess of the love of God, she was the first great revealer of the devotion to the Sacred Heart. Our Lord, one day, appeared to her with St. John, who told her to lean on the Master's breast there to hear the beating of the divine Heart. He added that he had heard it himself at the Last Supper, but that he could not speak of it at the time, because this manifestation was reserved for later times when charity would become cold in the Church. And he asked her to make this revelation to souls.

Gertrude, holding in her hand her lighted lamp, awaited the coming of her Spouse; "she died," says the Roman breviary, "in 1334, consumed rather by the ardour of her love than by disease."

She was proclaimed patroness of the West Indies, and in New Mexico a town was built in her honour and still bears her name.

Mass: Dilexisti, p. 291, except:

Orémus. — Deus, qui in corde beátae Gertrúdis Vírginis jucúndam tibi mansiónem praeparásti: ipsíus méritis et intercessióne, cordis nostri máculas cleménter abstérge, et ejúsdem tríbue gaudére consórtio. Per Dóminum.

Collect. — O God Who didst build up for Thyself a pleasant home in the heart of the holy virgin Gertrude: for the sake of her merits and prayers, do Thou wipe away from our hearts every stain of sin, nor refuse us a share in that happiness which is hers for evermore. Through our Lord.

NOVEMBER 17.

St. Gregory Thaumaturgus, Bishop, Confessor.†—Semi-double.—White vestments.

St. Gregory was born at Neo-Cesarea in Pontus about A.D. 200, and became bishop of his native city.

Famous for his sanctity and doctrine, he became still more so by the prodigies and miracles which God multiplied in such a manner throughout his life, that he was surnamed Thaumaturgus or worker of miracles.

* All for Jesus, Chap. 8. † See Historical Summary, p. 1009.

One day, putting into practice our Lord's word quoted in to-day's Gospel, he commanded a mountain to draw back, so as to leave sufficient room for the building of a church, and the command was obeyed. He died A.D. 276.

Mass: Státuit, p. 255, except the Gospel.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Mark.—At that time, Jesus answering, said to His disciples, Have the faith of God. Amen, I say to you, that whosoever shall say to this mountain, Be thou removed and be cast into the sea; and shall not stagger in his heart, but believe that whatsoever he hath shall be done, it shall be done unto him. Therefore I say unto you, all things whatsoever you ask when ye pray, believe that you shall receive, and they shall come unto you.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Marcum. — In illo témpore: Respóndens Jesus discípulis suis, ait illis: Habéte fidem Dei. Amen dico vobis, quia quicúmque díxerit huic monti: Tóllere, et míttere in mare, et non haesitáverit in corde suo, sed credíderit, quia quodcúmque díxerit, fiat, fiet ei. Proptérea dico vobis: Omnia quaecúmque orántes pétitis, crédite quia accipiétis, et evénient vobis.

NOVEMBER 18.

The Dedication of the Basilicas of the Holy Apostles Peter and Paul.*—Greater-double.—White vestments.

After having celebrated on August 5, the Dedication of St. Mary of the Snow, better known under the name of St. Mary Major at Rome, that of St. Michael on September 29, that of St. John Lateran on November 9, and in the course of the latter month the dedication of all the churches in each diocese, the Church to-day celebrates that of all the basilicas of St. Peter and St. Paul at Rome. Thus are all these anniversaries solemnised in the season after Pentecost, a time when we give all our thoughts to the Church and to the Saints of whom our temples are the living image.

The basilica of St. Peter on the Vatican and that of St. Paul outside the Walls, both erected by Constantine on the site of their martyrdom, are hardly inferior, owing to their origin and importance, to the basilica of St. John Lateran. They were also consecrated by St. Sylvester, on November 18. The Church of St. Peter is on the site of the circus of Nero, and under its High Altar lie the sacred remains of the Head of the Apostles, making it with St. John Lateran the centre of the whole Christian world.

There is always held the Station of the Saturday in Ember Week† and Holy Orders are conferred; there are also held the Stations of the third Sunday in Advent,‡ of the Epiphany,§ of Passion Sunday,‖ of Easter Monday,¶ of Ascension Day, of Pentecost,†† of the Litanies of St. Mark‡‡ and of Rogation Wednesday.§§ Lastly it is there that Mass is solemnly sung on the feast of the holy Apostles Peter and Paul, June 29, and on the feasts of the Chair of St. Peter, January 18 and February 22. This church already remarkable in the 4th century, was enlarged at a later date and totally rebuilt in the 16th century when it was falling into decay. Julius II. and Leo X. had recourse to the greatest artists of the age and the combined plans of Bramante and Michael Angelo raised over the tomb of Peter the vastest and richest church in the world,‖‖ which Urban VIII. consecrated on November 18 1626.

* See Historical Summary, pp, 1015 and 1017.
† See p. 359.
‡ See p. 344.
§ See p. 440.
‖ See p. 676.
¶ See p. 881
 See p. 939.
†† See p. 964.
‡‡ See p. 1344.
§§ See p. 930.
‖‖ St. Peter can contain 45,000 people and St. Paul 32,000.

The basilica of St. Paul, situated on the other side of Rome, was also built in the 4th century over the tomb of the Apostle of the Gentiles. On account of the distance, it was only used for the Station four times a year, on the feast of Holy Innocents,* on Sexagesima Sunday,† on the Wednesday of the fourth week in Lent or day of the Great Ballot,‡ and on Easter Tuesday.§ Mass is solemnly celebrated there on the day of the Commemoration of St. Paul, June 30, and on the day of his Conversion, January 25.

Having been nearly completely destroyed by fire in 1823, the church was rebuilt with unheard of magnificence by Gregory XVI. and Pius IX., and consecrated by the latter on December 10, 1854. It was also he who instituted to-day's feast, joining the anniversaries of the Two Dedications under the original date of November 18.

Mass: Terríbilis, p. 311.

NOVEMBER 19.

St. Elizabeth, WIDOW.‖—Double.—White vestments.

Elizabeth, daughter of Andrew, King of Hungary, was given in marriage to Louis IV., landgrave of Thuringia. She had three children, Herman, Sophia and Gertrude. Her husband, who was a saint, gave her the most entire liberty for her pious exercises and her charity. Like the strong woman mentioned in the Epistle, she rose in the night to pray, lavished alms on the poor, and spun wool herself to make warm garments for them. What most characterised her was her love for the sick and the lepers whom she cared for with maternal tenderness, kissing their wounds with respect.

At her husband's death, wishing to renounce everything to acquire at this price the pearl of eternal life (Gospel), she put on a dress of coarse material and entered the Order of the Penitents of St. Francis, where she was noted for her patience and humility. Her brother-in-law having succeeded to the title of Landgrave, expelled her with her children from the princely castle of the Wartburg and she, who was called the mother of the poor, could not find a hospitable roof as a shelter. She died at the age of twenty-four, A.D. 1231.

Mass: Cognóvi, p. 304, except:

Collect. — O God of tender mercies, pour forth Thy light over the hearts of Thy faithful people: and graciously listening to the glorious prayers of blessed Elizabeth, make us to think little of worldly prosperity and in all our days to prize that consolation which is of heaven. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Tuórum corda fidélium, Deus miserátor illústra: et, beátae Elisabeth précibus gloriósis; fac nos próspera múndi despícere, et coeléstì semper consolatióne gaudére. Per Dóminum.

* See p. 408. † See p. 494. ‡ See p. 649. § See p. 686.
‖ See Historical Summary, p. 1013.

Commemoration is made of St. Pontianus from the Collects of the following Mass.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Pontianus, POPE AND MARTYR.*—Red vestments.

Deported to Sardinia with the priest Hippolytus by order of the Emperor Alexander, St. Pontianus was scourged to death, A.D. 235.

Mass: Státuit, p. 215, except the Gospel: Nihil est, p. 227.

NOVEMBER 20.

St. Felix of Valois, CONFESSOR.†—Double.—White vestments.

St. Felix of Valois, raised up by God, founded with St. John of Matha the Order of the Most Holy Trinity for the ransom of captives. He belonged to the royal family of France and distinguished himself as a child by his compassion for those in trouble.

Wishing to put aside any claim to the throne, he renounced all he possessed (Gospel) and retired to a desert, near Meaux, where he was joined by St. John of Matha.‡ In consequence of a vision, they left their solitude and went to Rome. Innocent III. approved the Institute founded by them for the Redemption of captives (Collect). They were ready to suffer hunger and thirst and all sorts of ill-treatment to deliver their brethren (Epistle). On their return to France, they presented themselves before Philip-Augustus who favoured them with his liberalities. The Lord of Chatillon gave them a place called Cerfroi, where they founded the monastery which was the principal one of their order. St. Felix gave up his soul to God in 1212.

Mass: Justus, p. 273, except:

Orémus. — Deus, qui beátum Felícem Confessórem tuum ex erémo ad munus rediméndi captívos coelitus vocáre dignátus es: praesta, quaesumus: ut per grátiam tuam ex peccatórum nostrórum captivitáte, ejus intercessióne, liberáti, ad coeléstem pátriam perducámur. Per Dóminum.

Collect. — O God Who didst vouchsafe to send down an Angel from heaven to call blessed Felix to the work of the ransoming of captives: grant, we beseech Thee, that his holy prayers may free us from the bondage of sin, and may safely lead us to our heavenly fatherland. Through our Lord.

NOVEMBER 21.

The Presentation of the Blessed Virgin Mary.—Greater double.—White vestments.

After having solemnised on September 8 the Nativity of the Blessed Virgin, and four days later the feast of the Holy Name of Mary, a name given to her a short time after her birth, the Cycle celebrates on this day the Presentation in the temple of the child of benediction. These

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007. † Ibid., p. 1012.
‡ Feast of St. John of Matha, p. 1264.

first three feasts of Mary's Cycle are an echo of the christological Cycle which likewise celebrates the birth of Jesus, December 25, the imposition of His Holy Name, January 2, and His Presentation in the Temple, February 2.

The feast of the Presentation of Mary derives from a pious tradition, originated by two apocryphal gospels* which relate that the Blessed Virgin was presented in the Temple of Jerusalem when three years old, and that she lived there with other girls and the holy women who had them in their care. Already in the 6th century the event is commemorated in the East and the Emperor Michael Comnenus alludes to it in a constitution of 1166.

A French nobleman, Philippe de Maizieres, who was chancellor at the court of the King of Cyprus, having been sent in 1372 as ambassador to Pope Gregory XI., at Avignon, related to him with what magnificence the feast was solemnised in Greece, on November 21. His holiness introduced the feast at Avignon and Sixtus V. in 1585 made it a feast of obligation in the Roman Church. Clement VIII. raised it to the rank of Greater double and re-arranged the office.

Mass: Salve, p. 189, except:

Collect. — O God Who was pleased that on this day the Blessed Mary ever a Virgin, the dwelling-place of the Holy Ghost, should be presented in the temple of Jerusalem: we beseech Thee, let her prayers obtain from Thee that we one day be found worthy to be presented in the temple of Thy glory. Through our Lord . . . in the unity of the same.

Orémus. — Deus, qui beátam Maríam semper Vírginem, Spíritus Sancti habitáculum, hodiérna die in templo praesentári voluísti: praesta, quaesumus; ut, ejus intercessióne, in templo glóriae tuae praesentári mereámur. Per Dóminum. . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

Preface of the Blessed Virgin Mary: Et te in Praesentatióne, p. 56.

NOVEMBER 22.

St. Cecilia, VIRGIN AND MARTYR.†—Double.—Red vestments.

Born at Rome, of the illustrious family of the Coecilii, Cecilia as a child consecrated her virginity to God. When she was forced to marry Valerian, a young pagan, she said to him on the night of the wedding: "Valerian, I am placed under the guardianship of an Angel who protects my virginity; therefore do not attempt anything which may bring down on thee God's anger."

Valerian dared not approach her and declared that he would believe in Jesus Christ if he saw the Angel. Cecilia assured him that this was impossible unless he was first baptised, and sent him to Pope Urban, who lived hidden in the Catacombs on account of the persecutions. Urban baptised him and Valerian saw near his virginal spouse an angel

* The apocryphal Gospels contain certain passages deriving from primitive tradition which may complete what the Gospels relate.

† See Historical Summary, p. 1008.

brilliant with a divine light. She also instructed Tiburtius, the brother of Valerian, in the faith of Jesus Christ, and Tiburtius having been baptised, also saw Cecilia's angel. A short time after, both were martyred under the prefect Almachius.

Finally the latter arrested Cecilia and ordered her to be put to death in her house. This was about A.D. 230.

Her body was discovered in 1599 by Cardinal Sfoudrati, just as it was at the moment of her death. Stefano Maderno sculptured a famous reprodúction of the body which is seen under the High Altar of her church in Rome. For her house was transformed into a church where her body lies. For many centuries a number of Virgins of the Order of St. Benedict has watched over this treasure. The church is one of the two ornaments of the Transtevere, the other being St. Mary's there. There, is held the Station on the Wednesday in the second week of Lent.* The name of St. Cecilia is mentioned in the Canon of the Mass (Second list, p. 65).

" At the sound of musical instruments," says the 1st response at Matins, " the virgin Cecilia sang to God in her heart." On this account she is the patroness of musicians.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Loquébar de testimóniis tuis in conspéctu regum, et non confundébar : et meditábar in mandátis tuis, quae diléxi nimis. Ps. Beáti immaculáti in via : qui ámbulant in lege Dómini. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. cxviii. 46, 47.—I spoke of Thy testimonies before kings, and I was not ashamed : I meditated also on Thy commandments, which I loved exceedingly. Ps. Ibid. 1. Blessed are the undefiled in the way: who walk in the law of the Lord. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui nos ánnua beátae Caecíliae Vírginis et Mártyris tuae solemnitáte laetíficas : da, ut quam venerámur offício, étiam piae conversatiónis sequámur exémplo. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God Who among Thy other mighty marvels hast strengthened many even of the weaker sex to the winning of the Martyr's Crown, vouchsafe unto us who celebrate the triumph of blessed Cecilia, Thy virgin and martyr, ever in her footsteps to walk towards Thee. Through our Lord.

Epistle : Dómine Deus, p. 286.

Graduále. — Audi, fília, et vide, et inclína aurem tuam : quia concupívit rex spéciem tuam. ℣. Spécie tua, et pul-

Gradual. Ps. xliv. 11, 12.—Hearken, O daughter, and see, and incline thine ear ; for the King hath greatly desired thy beauty. ℣. Ibid. 5. With thy comeliness and thy beauty, set out, proceed prosperously, and reign.

* See p. 578.

chritúdine tua inténde, prós pere procéde, et regna.

Alleluia, alleluia.—Matt. xxv. 4, 6.—℣. The five wise virgins took oil in their vessels with the lamps: and at midnight there was a cry made: Behold the bridegroom cometh, go ye forth to meet Christ our Lord. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Quinque prudéntes vírgines accepérunt óleum in vasis suis cum lampádibus: média autem nocte clamor factus est: Ecce sponsus venit, exíte óbviam Christo Dómino. Allelúia.

Gospel: Símile erit, p. 284.

Offertory.—Ps. xliv. 15, 16.—After her shall virgins be brought to the King: her neighbours shall be brought to Thee with gladness and rejoicing; they shall be brought into the temple to the King our Lord.

Offertórium. — Afferéntur regi vírgines post eam: próximae ejus afferéntur tibi in laetítia, et exsultatióne: adducéntur in templum regi Dómino.

Secret.—May blessed Cecilia, Thy virgin and martyr, plead for us, O Lord: and may this our sacrifice of atonement and of praise avail to make us at all times worthy of Thy loving kindness. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Haec hóstia, Dómine, placatiónis et laudis, quaesumus: ut, intercedénte beáta Caecília Vírgine et Mártyre tua, nos propitiatióne tua dignos semper effíciat. Per Dóminum.

Communion.—Ps. cxviii. 78, 80.—Let the proud be ashamed, because they have done unjustly towards me: but I will be employed in Thy commandments, in Thy justifications, that I may not be confounded.

Commúnio. — Confundántur supérbi, quia injúste iniquitátem fecérunt in me: ego autem in mandátis tuis exercébor, in tuis justificatiónibus, ut non confúndar.

Postcommunion. — With the gift, O Lord, of Thy holy sacrament, Thou hast bestowed upon Thy children the fulness of Thy grace: be moved by the prayers of the saint whose feast we celebrate, to comfort us in all our lives. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Satiásti, Dómine, famíliam tuam munéribus sacris: ejus, quaesumus, semper interventióne nos réfove cujus solémnia celebrámus. Per Dóminum.

NOVEMBER 23.

St. Clement I., POPE AND MARTYR.*—Double.—Red vestments.

St. Clement, the successor of St. Peter, is named third in the Canon of the Mass after the Apostles (Lini, Cleti, Clementis, p. 59).

The letter of St. Clement to the Corinthians is one of the most precious writings of the earliest Christian centuries.

Following the affirmation of Origen, the Roman breviary confuses this Saint with another Clement, an auxiliary of St. Paul. Wherefore the Epistle chosen is that in which the Apostle speaks of the Clement who worked with him for the Gospel and whose name is written in the book of life.

On the testimony of the Greek acts of St. Clement, dating from the fourth century, the Roman martyrology likewise declares that " relegated to Chersonese during Trajan's persecution, he at last won the glorious crown of martyrdom, having been cast into the sea with an anchor attached to his neck. His body," it adds, " was carried to Rome, under the pontificate of Nicholas I. and solemnly laid in the church which had been built in his honour."

This church, where the Station is held on the Monday of the second week in Lent,† is one of the most interesting in Rome, because it most faithfully represents the ancient distribution of Roman basilicas. It is preceded by a yard surrounded by porticoes, with the fountain in the middle, where the faithful cleansed themselves before entering the holy building, and which is recalled by our holy water stoops and baptismal fonts at the entrance of our churches. The interior comprises three naves separated by columns: the central nave, in the middle of which stands an ambo or desk, on which the Epistle and Gospel were read. The lateral naves were reserved, one for men, the other for women. Under the principal arcade, resembling a triumphal arch, the altar was so placed that the celebrating priest is turned towards the people. Behind the altar, at the back of the apse, stands the bishop's chair, around which was grouped the clergy. It is the only church which gives such a clear account of the distinctions made among christians. In the first precinct were admitted catechumens and penitents who could only be present at the first part of the Mass (from the Introit to the Offertory), thence called Mass of the Catechumens. In the second part were the faithful who heard the second part of the Mass (from the Offertory to the end), thence called Mass of the Faithful. In the apse was the place reserved for priests, whence it is called Presbyterium. Christian architecture thus showed forth the hierarchy established by divine right in the Church.

MASS.

Intróitus. — Dicit Dóminus: Sermónes mei, quos dedi in os tuum, non defícient de ore tuo: et múnera tua accépta erunt super altáre meum. Ps. Beátus

Introit. Isa. lix. 21. — The Lord saith, My words which I have put in thy mouth, shall not depart out of thy mouth; and thy gifts shall be accepted upon My altar. Ps. cxi. 1. Blessed is the man that feareth the Lord; he delighteth exceedingly in His commandments. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1007. † See p. 571.

vir, qui timet Dóminum: in mandátis ejus cupit nimis. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect. — O God, Who to us dost again vouchsafe a joyful return of the festival-day of blessed Clement, Thy martyr-bishop: we beseech Thee, enable us, who devoutly celebrate his true birthday, to emulate the fortitude he displayed in his passion. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui nos ánnua beáti Cleméntis Mártyris tui atque Pontíficis solemnitáte laetíficas: concéde propítius; ut, cujus natalítia cólimus, virtútem quoque passiónis imitémur. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of St. Felicitas, as in the following Mass.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Philippians iii. 17-21, iv. 1-3.— Brethren, be followers of me, and observe them who walk so as you have our model. For many walk, of whom I have told you often (and now I tell you weeping) that they are enemies of the cross of Christ: whose end is destruction, whose God is their belly, and whose glory is in their shame; who mind earthly things. But our conversation is in heaven; from whence also we look for the Saviour, our Lord Jesus Christ, Who will reform the body of our lowness, made like to the body of His glory, according to the operation whereby also He is able to subdue all things unto Himself. Therefore, my brethren, dearly beloved, and most desired, my joy and my crown: so stand fast in the Lord, my dearly beloved: I beg of Evodia, and I beseech Syntyche to be of one

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Philippenses. — Fratres: Imitatóres mei estóte et observáte eos qui ita ámbulant, sicut habétis formam nostram. Multi enim ámbulant, quos saepe dicébam vobis (nunc autem et flens dico) inimícos crucis Christi: quorum finis intéritus: quorum Deus venter est: et glória in confusióne ipsórum, qui terréna sápiunt. Nostra autem conversátio in coelis est: unde étiam Salvatórem exspectámus Dóminum nostrum Jesum Christum qui reformábit corpus humilitátis nostrae, configurátum córpori claritátis suae, secúndum operatiónem, qua étiam possit subjícere sibi ómnia. Itaque, fratres mei caríssimi, et desideratíssimi, gáudium meum, et coróna mea: sic state in Dómino, caríssimi. Evódiam rogo, et Syntychen déprecor idípsum sápere in Dómino. Etiam rogo et te, germáne compar, ádjuva illas, quae mecum laboravérunt in Evangélio cum Cleménte, et céteris adjutóribus meis, quorum nómina sunt in libro vitae.

mind in the Lord: and I entreat thee also, my sincere companion, help those women who have laboured with me in the gospel with Clement and the rest of my fellow-labourers, whose names are in the book of life.

Graduále. — Jurávit Dóminus, et non paenitébit eum: Tu es sacérdos in aetérnum, secúndum órdinem Melchísedech. ℣. Dixit Dóminus Dómino meo: Sede a dextris meis.

Gradual. — The Lord hath sworn, and He will not repent: Thou art a priest for ever according to the order of Melchisedech. ℣. The Lord said to my Lord: sit thou at My right hand.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Hic est sacérdos, quem coronávit Dóminus. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. — ℣. This is the priest whom the Lord hath crowned. Alleluia.

Gospel: Vigiláte, p. 261.

Offertórium. — Véritas, mea, et misericórdia mea cum ipso: et in nómine meo exaltábitur cornu ejus.

Offertory. — My truth and My mercy shall be with him: and in My name shall his horn be exalted.

Secréta. — Múnera tibi, Dómine, obláta sanctífica: et, intercedénte beáto Clémente Mártyre tuo atque Pontífice, per haec nos a peccatórum nostrórum máculis emúnda. Per Dóminum.

Secret.— Sanctify, O Lord, the gifts we offer: and through them cleanse us, for whom blessed Clement Thy martyr-bishop, is interceding, from the stains of sins. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of St. Felicitas as in the following Mass.

Commúnio. — Beátus servus, quem, cum vénerit dóminus, invénerit vigilántem: amen dico vobis, super ómnia bona sua constítuet eum.

Communion. — Blessed is that servant, whom, when his lord shall come, he shall find watching: Amen, I say to you, he shall set him over all his goods.

Postcommúnio. — Córporis sacri, et pretiósi sánguinis repléti libámine, quaesumus, Dómine Deus noster: ut, quod pia devotióne gérimus; intercedénte beáto Cleménte Mártyre tuo atque Pontífice,

Postcommunion. — O Lord our God, Thou hast vouchsafed to fill us with that sacred body and precious blood which is our sacrificial food: hearken, we humbly beg of Thee, to the prayer of blessed Clement, Thy martyr-bishop, and grant that our having devoutly performed the duties of this our ministry, be to us a pledge of our eternal salvation. Through our Lord.

certa redemptióne capiámus. Per Dóminum.

Commemoration of St. Felicitas as in the following Mass.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Felicitas, MARTYR.*—Red vestments.

"At Rome," says the Roman Martyrology, "St Felicitas, the mother of seven martyred sons, who was beheaded after them for the faith of Christ, by order of the Emperor Marcus Antoninus." She died A.D. 150.

Mass : Me exspectavérunt, p. 300, except :

Collect. — Grant, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, that the merits and prayers of blessed Felicitas, Thy martyr, whose feast we are keeping, may be to us a sure defence. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus : ut beátae Felícitátis Mártyris tuae solémnia recenséntes, méritis ipsíus protegámur, et précibus Per Dóminum.

Secret. — Regard with favour, O Lord, the offerings of Thy people; and grant that the prayers of the saint whose festival Thou sufferest us to celebrate, be for us of avail. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Vota pópuli tui, Dómine, propitiátus inténde: et, cujus nos tríbuis solémnia celebráre, fac gaudére suffrágiis. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Grant, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that we who on earth discharge, with joy of heart, the duty of honouring Thy saints, may be gladdened by their company for ever in heaven. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Súpplices te rogámus, omnípotens Deus: ut, intercedéntibus Sanctis tuis, et tua in nobis dona multíplices, et témpora nostra dispónas. Per Dóminum.

NOVEMBER 24.

St. John of the Cross, CONFESSOR.†—Double.—White vestments.

After honouring St. Teresa, who reformed the Order of Mount Carmel, the Church on this day honours St. John of the Cross who gave her his powerful help in this great work. It was through him that she introduced the primitive observance among the friars of Carmel as she had done for the nuns. He was, in the judgment of the Holy See, the equal of St. Teresa in explaining divine mysteries.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1008. † Ibid., p. 1015.

"John," said Teresa, "was one of the purest souls in the Church. God endowed him with great treasures of light, and his understanding was replete with the science of saints." Born in Old Castille in 1452, he took the name of John of the Cross, on entering the Order of the Blessed Virgin Mary of Mount Carmel. He always had a great devotion to the passion of the Lord and his predominant virtue was an abnegation so perfect that he sought after suffering and humiliation (Collect). He often besought God not to let him pass a day without suffering and to permit him to die where he would be unknown to all. His prayer was fully heard, for the reform of Carmel caused him many troubles. Struck down at Ubeda, by a cruel disease, he died embracing Jesus crucified and exclaiming: "Glory to God." This was in 1591.

Mass : Os justi, p. 270, except :

Orémus.— Deus, qui sanctum Joánnem Confessórem tuum, perféctae sui abnegatiónis, et Crucis amatórem exímium effecísti: concéde; ut, ejus imitatióni júgiter inhaeréntes, glóriam assequámur aetérnam. Per Dóminum.	Collect. — O God Who didst imbue blessed John, Thy confessor, with a spirit of utter self-denial and with a surpassing love of the cross: grant that, by unswervingly walking in his footsteps, we may attain to everlasting glory. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of St. Chrysogonus from the Collects of the following Mass.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Chrysogonus, MARTYR.*—Red vestments.

"Birth in heaven," says the Roman Martyrology, "of St. Chryso gonus, martyr, who after having been long in chains and in prison for the faith of Christ, having endured these torments with the greatest fortitude, was taken to Aquileia, by order of Diocletian, and there beheaded and thrown into the sea: such was his glorious martyrdom." St. Chrysogonus is mentioned in the Canon of the Mass (First List, p. 59), and in his church at Rome is held the Station on Monday in Passion Week.†

Mass : In virtúte, p. 222, except :

Orémus. — Adésto, Dómine, supplicatiónibus nostris: ut, qui ex iniquitáte nostra reos nos esse cognóscimus beáti Chrysógoni Mártyris tui intercessióne liberémur. Per Dóminum.	Collect. — Give ear, O Lord to our supplication: we know ourselves to be guilty, because of the evil we have done; may the intercession of blessed Chrysogonus, Thy martyr, obtain our deliverance. Through our Lord.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009. † See p. 682.

Secret. — May, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the gifts we have offered appease Thee: and may the prayer of Thy holy martyr Chrysogonus defend us in all dangers. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Oblátis quaesumus, Dómine, placáre munéribus: et, intercedénte beáto Chrysogóno Mártyre tuo, a cunctis nos defénde perículis. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — May our having received Thy divine sacrament, O Lord, cleanse us from our hidden sins, and deliver us from the assaults of our enemies. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Tui, Dómine, perceptióne sacraménti, et a nostris mundémur occúltis, et ad hóstium liberémur insídiis. Per Dóminum.

NOVEMBER 25.

St. Catharine, VIRGIN, MARTYR.*—Double.—Red vestments.

"The illustrious virgin Catharine," says the Roman breviary, "was born at Alexandria. Having from youth combined the study of the liberal arts with the ardour of faith, she soon rose to high perfection both in doctrine and in holiness, and at the age of 18 surpassed the most learned. She rebuked the Emperor Maximian for tormenting the Christians, and he, filled with admiration for her learning, assembled from all parts the most learned men, to bring her over from the faith of Jesus to the worship of idols. The contrary happened, for several were converted to christianity by the cogency of her arguments."

Maximian then ordered her to be scourged with a birch and with whips lined with lead. Then he had her tied to wheels armed with sharp swords. But the machine broke down and the tyrant caused her to be beheaded. She died about A.D. 305. She is one of the 14 Auxiliary Saints (see July 25). Christian philosophers, scholars, orators and attorneys honoured her as their patroness. The dean of French barristers was called "batonnier" on account of his having the privilege of bearing the baton or shaft of her banner.

Mount Sinai, where the body of St. Catharine was carried by angels, is also the place where God's ministering angels brought His law to Moses. Let us with the Church invoke the intercession of St. Catharine's so that we may reach Jesus, the law-giver of our souls (Collect).

Mass: Loquébar, p. 282, except:

Collect. — O God, Who on the top of Mount Sinai didst give the law to Moses, and in wondrous wise, by means of Thy holy Angels didst place there the body of blessed Catharine, Thy virgin and martyr: grant that, through her merits and prayers, we may

Orémus. — Deus, qui dedísti legem Móysi in summitáte montis Sínai, et in eódem loco per sanctos Angelos tuos corpus beátae Catharínae Vírginis et Mártyris tuae mirabíliter collocásti: praesta, quaesumus; ut, ejus méritis et intercessióne,

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009.

ad montem qui Christus est, pervenire valeámus: Qui tecum.

come to Christ, the true mountain whence is all our help.

NOVEMBER 26.

St. Sylvester, ABBOT.*—Double.—White vestments.

St. Sylvester was born of noble parentage at Osimo, in the Marches of Ancona. His rare merit caused the Cânons of the cathedral of Osimo to share their dignity with him. When present one day at the funeral of an illustrious man, a relative of his, he was struck by the hideous appearance of the body of a man who had been so handsome, and exclaimed: "I am to-day what he was, and one day I shall be what he is." (Collect.)

He immediately gave up everything (Gospel) and retired into a desert where he devoted himself to penance and meditation (Introit). "Later, he built at Monte Fano," says the Roman breviary, "a church in honour of the very holy father Benedict who advised him in a vision to found a religious order whose rule and habit he described to him. It was the Order of the Sylvestrines."

This branch of the Benedictine Order spread in a short time and already numbered twenty-five houses in Italy when its founder died in 1267, at the age of ninety.

Mass: Os justi, of Abbots, p. 276, except:

Orémus. — Clementíssime Deus, qui sanctum Silvéstrum Abbátem, saecúlí hujus vanitátem in apérto túmulo pie meditántem, ad erémum vocáre, et praecláris vitae méritis decoráre dignátus es: te súpplices exorámus ut, ejus exémplo terréna despiciéntes, tui consórtio perfruámur aetérno. Per Dóminum.

Collect. — O most merciful God, Who, when the holy abbot Sylvester, by the side of an open grave, stood pondering over the emptiness of the things of this world, didst vouchsafe to call him into the wilderness: and to ennoble him with the merit of a singularly holy life; most humbly we beg of Thee, that by despising earthly wealth, even as he despised it, we may come one day to have part in Thine own everlasting happiness. Through our Lord.

Commemoration of St. Peter of Alexandria, from the Collects of the following Mass.

Secréta. — Quaesumus, Dómine: ut, dum haec múnera divínae majestáti tuae reveréntér offérimus; pia mentis praeparatióne et cordis puritáte,

Secret.—With all reverence, O Lord, do we offer up these our gifts to Thy divine Majesty: praying that, by devout preparation and by cleanness of heart, we may imitate the blessed abbot Sylvester, and holily receive the adorable body and blood of Thy Son: Who liveth and reigneth.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1013.

beáti Silvéstri Abbátis imitatóres effécti, corpus et sánguinem Fílii tui sancte percípere mereámur: Qui tecum.

Postcommunion. — Grant, O Lord, we beseech Thee, that we who have been refreshed by Thy divine banquet may so cleave to the footsteps of the holy abbot Sylvester as to receive a plentiful reward with Thy saints in the kingdom of Thy glory. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Divina dape reféctis tribue quaesumus, Dómine: sancti Silvéstri Abbátis vestígiis ita inhaerére; ut copiósam mercédem in regno glóriae tuae cum sanctis habeámus. Per Dóminum.

THE SAME DAY.

St. Peter of Alexandria, BISHOP, MARTYR.*—Red vestments.

" At Alexandria," says the Roman Martyrology, " the birth in heaven of St. Peter, bishop of that city who, resplendent with the light of every virtue, was beheaded by order of Galerius Maximinius." (A.D. 311.)

Mass: Státuit of a Martyr, p. 215.

* See Historical Summary, p. 1009.

END OF THE SANCTORAL CYCLE.

THE BURIAL SERVICE.

The Priest, vested in surplice, black stole, and black cope, meets the corpse.

I.—Meeting the Corpse.

After sprinkling the corpse with holy water, the Priest recites the Psalm: De profundis, p. 11 with the Antiphon.

Ant. If Thou, O Lord, wilt mark iniquities, Lord, who shall stand it?

Ant.—Si iniquitátes observáveris Dómine: Dómine, quis sustinébit?

The Priest repeats the Antiphon and intones the following:

Ant. (Ps. l. 10). The bones that have been humbled shall rejoice in the Lord.

Ant.—Exsultábunt Dómino* ossa humiliáta.

On the way, the Miserere is chanted.

Psalm 50.

MISERERE mei, Deus, * secúndum magnam misericórdiam tuam.

Et secúndum multitúdinem miseratiónum tuárum, * dele iniquitátem meam.

Amplius lava me ab iniquitáte mea: * et a peccáto meo munda me.

HAVE mercy on me, O God: according to Thy great mercy.

And according to the multitude of Thy tender mercies: blot out mine iniquity.

Wash me yet more from mine iniquity: and cleanse me from my sin.

For I acknowledge mine iniquity: and my sin is always before me.

Quóniam iniquitátem meam ego cognósco: * et peccátum meum contra me est semper.

Against Thee only have I sinned, and done evil before Thee: that Thou mayest be justified in Thy words, and mayest overcome when Thou art judged.

Tibi soli peccávi, et malum coram te feci; * ut justificéris in sermónibus tuis, et vincas cum judicáris.

For behold I was conceived in iniquities: and in sins did my mother conceive me.

Ecce enim in iniquitátibus concéptus sum: * et in peccátis concépit me mater mea.

For, behold, Thou hast loved truth: the uncertain and hidden things of Thy wisdom, Thou hast made manifest to me.

Ecce enim veritátem dilexísti: * incérta et occúlta sapiéntiae tuae manifestásti mihi.

Thou shalt sprinkle me with hyssop, and I shall be cleansed: Thou shalt wash me, and I shall be made whiter than snow.

Aspérges me hyssópo, et mundábor: * lavábis me, et super nivem dealbábor.

To my hearing Thou shalt give joy and gladness: and the bones that were humbled shall rejoice.

Audítui meo dabis gáudium et laetítiam: * et exultábunt ossa humiliáta.

Turn away Thy face from my sins: and blot out all mine iniquities.

Avérte fáciem tuam a peccátis meis: * et omnes iniquitátes meas dele.

Create in me a clean heart, O God: and renew a right spirit within me.

Cor mundum crea in me Deus: * et spíritum rectum ínnova in viscéribus meis.

Cast me not away from Thy face: and take not Thy holy Spirit from me.

Ne projícias me a fácie tua: * et spíritum sanctum tuum ne áuferas a me.

Restore unto me the joy of Thy salvation: and strengthen me with a perfect spirit.

Redde mihi laetítiam salutáris tui: * et spíritu principáli confírma me.

I will teach the unjust Thy ways: and the wicked shall be converted to Thee.

Docébo iníquos vias tuas: * et ímpii ad te converténtur.

Deliver me from blood guiltiness, O God, the God of my salvation: and my tongue shall extol Thy justice.

Líbera me de sanguínibus Deus, Deus salútis meae: * et exultábit lingua mea justítiam tuam.

O Lord, Thou wilt open my lips: and my mouth shall declare Thy praise.

Dómine lábia mea apéries: * et os meum annuntiábit laudem tuam.

Quóniam, si voluísses sacrifícium, dedíssem útique: * holocáustis non delectáberis.	For if Thou hadst desired sacrifice, I would indeed have given it: with burnt-offerings Thou wilt not be delighted.
Sacrifícium Deo spíritus contribulátus: * cor contrítum et humiliátum, Deus, non despícies.	A sacrifice, to God, is a troubled spirit: a contrite and humbled heart, O God, Thou wilt not despise.
Benígne fac Dómine in bona voluntáte tua Sion: * ut aedificéntur muri Jerúsalem.	Deal favourably, O Lord, in Thy good-will with Sion: that the walls of Jerusalem may be built up.
Tunc acceptábis sacrifícium justítiae, oblatiónes et holocáusta: * tunc impónent super altáre tuum vítulos.	Then shalt Thou accept the sacrifice of justice, oblations and whole burnt-offerings: then shall they lay calves upon Thine altar.

On entering the Church, the responsary is sung or said as follows:

℟. Subveníte * Sancti Dei, occúrrite Angeli Dómini: * Suscipiéntes ánimam ejus † Offeréntes eam in conspéctu Altíssimi.	℟. Come to his assistance, ye Saints of God, meet him ye Angels of the Lord, receiving his soul, offer it in the sight of the Most High.
℣. Suscípiat te Christus qui vocávit te, et in sinum Abrahae Angeli dedúcant te.	℣. May Christ receive thee who has called thee, and may the Angel conduct thee into Abraham's bosom.
℟. Suscipiéntes ánimam ejus. † Offeréntes eam in conspéctu Altíssimi.	℟. Receiving his soul † offering it in the sight of the Most High.
℣. Réquiem aetérnam dona ei, Dómine: et lux perpétua lúceat ei. ℟. Offeréntes eam in conspéctu Altíssimi.	℣. Eternal rest give to him, O Lord, and let perpetual light shine upon him. ℟. Receiving his soul, offer it in the sight of the Most High.
Kyrie eléison. Christe eléison. Kyrie eléison.	Lord, have mercy. Christ have mercy. Lord, have mercy.
Pater noster (Secreto).	Our Father, etc. (silently).

The Bier is then set in the middle of the church with the feet of the corpse to the High Altar, if a lay person; the head, if a Priest. The Office of the Dead is recited. At the end of the Office is said:

℣. And lead us not into temptation.
℟. But deliver us from evil.

℣. From the gate of hell.
℟. Deliver his soul, O Lord

℣. May he rest in peace.
℟. Amen.

℣. The Lord hear my prayer

℟. And let my cry come unto Thee.

℣. The Lord be with you.
℟. And with thy spirit.

℣. Et ne nos indúcas in tentatiónem.
℟. Sed líbera nos a malo.

℣. A porta ínferi.
℟. Erue, Dómine, ánimam ejus.

℣. Requiéscat in pace.
℟. Amen.

℣. Dómine exáudi oratiónem meam.

℟. Et clamor meus ad te veniat.

℣. Dóminus vobíscum.
℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

Collect: Absólve, p. 1801 below or one of the Collects further on: pp. 1790-1797.

II.—Mass for the Dead.

ON THE DAY OF THE DEATH, OR ON THE DAY OF THE BURIAL.

This Introit is from the Fourth Book of Esdras, and dates from the 2nd century.

Esdras 6.

Kyrie:

Orémus. — Deus, cui próprium est miseréri semper et párcere, te súpplices exorámus pro ánima fámuli tui N . . , quam hódie de hoc saeculo migráre jussísti: ut non tradas eam in manus inimíci, neque obliviscáris in finem, sed júbeas

Collect.— O God, Whose property is ever to have mercy and to spare, we humbly beseech Thee in behalf of the soul of Thy servant N . . . ., whom Thou hast this day called out of this world, that Thou wouldst not deliver him (her) into the hands of the enemy, nor forget him for ever, but command the holy angels to take him and lead him to the home of paradise, that forasmuch as in Thee he put his hope and trust, he may not endure the pains of hell, but may come to the possession of eternal joys. Through our Lord.

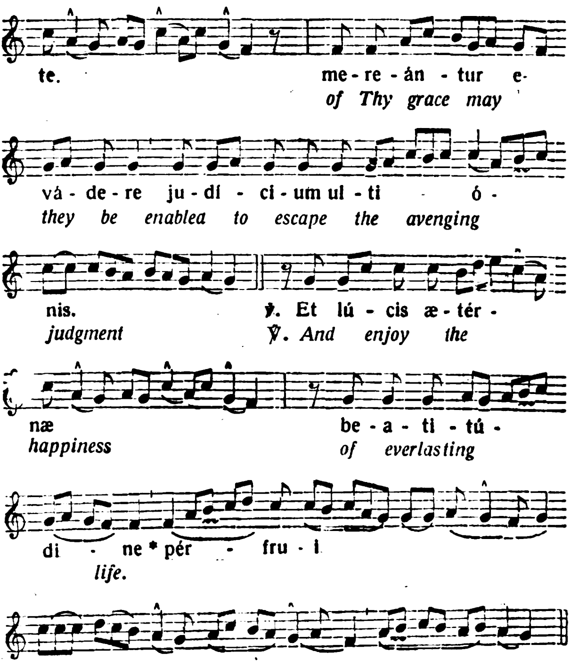
eam a sanctis Angelis súscipi, et ad pátriam paradísi perdúci ; ut, quia in te sperávit et crédidit, non paenas inférni sustíneat, sed gáudia aetérna possídeat. Per Dóminum.

Lesson from the Epistle of St. Paul the Apostle to the Thessalonians. I. Thess. iv. 13-18.—BRETHREN : We will not have you ignorant concerning them that are asleep, that you be not sorrowful, even as others who have no hope ; for if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them who have slept through Jesus, will God bring with Him. For this we say unto you in the word of the Lord, that we who are alive, who remain unto the coming of the Lord, shall not prevent them who have slept. For the Lord Himself shall come down from heaven, with commandment, and with the voice of an archangel, and with the trumpet of God ; and the dead who are in Christ shall rise first. Then we who are alive, who are left, shall be taken up together with them in the clouds to meet Christ, into the air, and so shall we be always with the Lord. Wherefore comfort ye one another with these words.

Lectio Epistolae beati Pauli Apóstoli ad Thessalonicénses. —FRATRES : Nólumus vos ignoráre de dormiéntibus, ut non contristémini, sicut et céteri qui spem non habent. Si enim crédimus quod Jesus mórtuus est, et resurréxit : ita et Deus eos, qui dormiérunt per Jesum, addúcet cum eo. Hoc enim vobis dícimus in verbo Dómini, quia nos, qui vívimus, qui resídui sumus in advéntum Dómini, non praeveniémus eos, qui dormíérunt. Quóniam ipse Dóminus in jussu, et in voce Archángeli, et in tuba Dei descéndet de coelo : et mórtui, qui in Christo sunt, resúrgent primi. Deínde nos, qui vívimus, qui relínquimur simul rapiémur cum illis in núbibus obviam Christo in áera et sic semper cum Dómino érimus. Itaque consolámini ínvicem in verbis istis.



Gradual.

Grad. 2.

dó - na é - is Dó - mi-to them, O Lord;
ne:
et and lux per- pé - - - - - - tu - a let perpetual lú - - ce - at élight shine upon is.
them.
℣. In me - mó - ri - a ℣. Ps. cxi. The just æ - tér - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - shall be
- - - - - - - - - - na
in é - - - rit jú - - - - - - everlasting

- - - - - stus: ab au-di-ti-óremembrance ne má - - - - - - - - la he shall
* non ti - mé-
not fear the evil bit.
hearing.
Tract.
Tract. 8.
Ab-sól - ve, * Dó - mi - ne,
Ab - sol - ve, O Lord, á - ni-mas óm-ni-um fi-dé-li-um de-func-tóthe souls of all the faithful departed rum ab óm-ni vin - cu-from every lo de-li - ctó - rum.
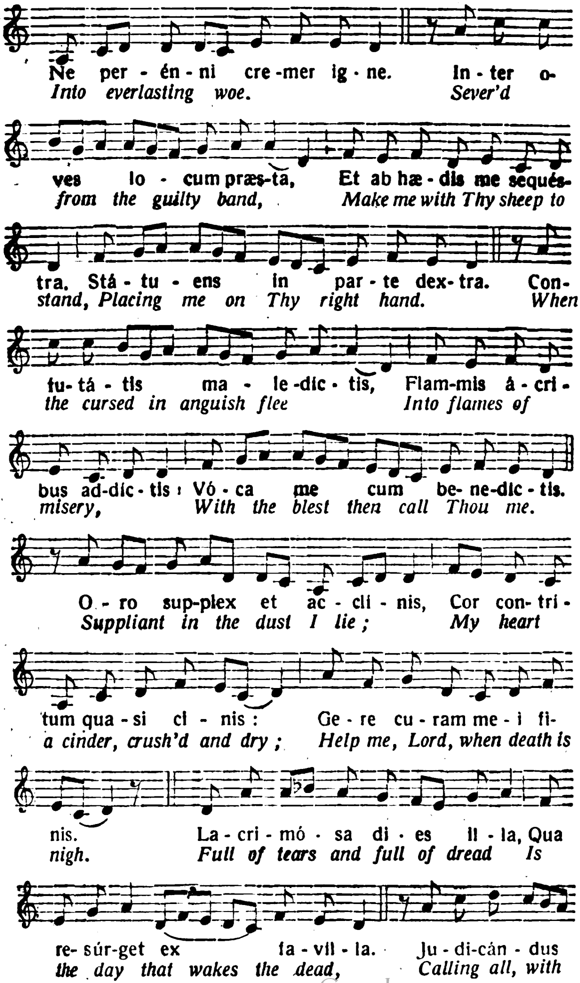
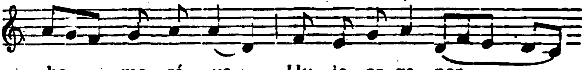
bond of sins.
℣. Et grá-ti-a tú-a il-lis suc-cur-rén-
℣. And by the help

Sequence.



Thomas de Celano, a Franciscan (1260).



Quan-tus tre-mor est fu - tú- rus, Quan- do ju - - dex Oh, what trembling there shall be, When the world its est ven- tú - rus. Cun - cta stric - te dis -cus - sú - rus !
Judge shall see, Coming in dread majesty !
Tu- ba mi - rum spar - gens so - num Per se-púl-Hark ! the trump, with thrilling tone, From sepul-cra re - gi - ó- num, Co - get o - mnes an-chral regions lone, Summons all before te thro-num. Mors stu-pé - bit et na - tú - ra, the throne : Time and death it doth appal
Cum re - súr- get cre - a - tú - ra, Ju - di - cán - ti
To see the buried ages all Rise to answer res-pon- sú- ra. Li - ber scrip- tus pro - fe - ré - tur, at the call. Now the books are open spread ;
In quo to - tum con - ti - né - tur, Un - de mun- dus
Now the writing must be read, Which condemns ju - di - cé - tur. Ju- dex er - go cum se-the quick and dead : Now, before the Judge

dé - bit, Quid-quid la - tet ap - pa - ré - bit:
severe, Hidden things must all appear;
Nil in - úl-tum re - ma - né - bit.
Nought can pass unpunish'd here.
Quid sum mi-
What shall guilty
ser tunc di - ctú-rus? Quem pa - tró - num ro - ga - tú-rus?
I then plead? Who for me will intercede
Cum vix jus - tus sit se - cú - rus.
When the Saints shall comfort need?
Rex tre-mén-King of dæ ma - jes - tá - tis, Qui sal - ván - dos sal-vas gra - tis, dreadful majesty, Who dost freely justify,
Sal - va me, fons pi - e - tá - tis.
Fount of pity, save Thou me!
Re - cor - dá-
Recollect,
re Je - su pi - e,
O Love divine,
Quod sum cau - sa tu-
'Twas for this lost sheep
æ vi - æ: Ne me per - das il - la di - e.
of Thine Thou Thy glory didst resign:
Quærens me, se - dis - ti las - sus:
Sattest wearied seeking me:
Re - de - mi-
Sufferedst

sti cru -cem passus : Tan - tus la - bor non sit casupon the tree : Let not vain Thy labour
sus. Jus - te ju - dex ul - ti - ó - nis, Do-be. Judge of justice, hear my prayer ; Spare num fac re - mis - si - ó - nis An - te di - em ra-me, Lord, in mercy spare ; Ere the reckoning ti - ó - nis. In - ge - mi - sco, tam-quam day appear. Lo, Thy gracious face I re - us : Cul - pa ru - bet vul - tus me - us :
seek, Shame and grief are on my cheek,
Sup-pli-cán- ti par - ce, De - us. Qui Ma - ri-Sighs and tears my sorrow speak. Thou didst am ab- sol - vi - sti, Et la - tró - nem ex - au- dis - ti, Mary's guilt forgive ; Didst the dying thief receive ;
Mi - hi quo - que spem de - dis - ti. Pre -ces me-Hence doth hope within me live. Worthless are æ non sunt di-gnæ : Sed tu bo - nus fac be - ni- gne, my prayers, I know, Yet, oh, cause me not to go Ne per - én - ni cre -mer ig - ne. In - ter o-

Into everlasting woe. Sever'd ves lo - cum præs-ta, Et ab hæ - dis me sequésfrom the guilty band, Make me with Thy sheep to tra. Stá - tu - ens in par - te dex- tra. Con-stand, Placing me on Thy right hand. When fu- tá - tis ma - le -dic - tis, Flam-mis á - cri - the cursed in anguish flee Into flames of bus ad-dic - tis : Vó - ca me cum be- ne-dic - tis.
misery, With the blest then call Thou me.
O - ro sup-plex et ac - cli - nis, Cor con- tri - Suppliant in the dust I lie ; My heart tum qua - si ci - nis : Ge - re cu - ram me - i fi-a cinder, crush'd and dry ; Help me, Lord, when death is nis. La - cri - mó - sa di - es il - la, Qua nigh. Full of tears and full of dread Is re- súr-get ex fa - vil - la. Ju - di-cán - dus the day that wakes the dead, Calling all, with ho - mo ré - us : Hu - ic er - go par - solemn blast, From the ashes of ce De- us. Pi - e Je- su Dó- mi -ne, do - na ethe past. Lord of mercy, Jesu blest, Grant the is ré - qui - em. A - men.

faithful light and rest. A - men.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John xi. 21-27.—At that time: Martha said to Jesus, Lord, if Thou hadst been here, my brother had not died: but now also I know that whatsoever Thou wilt ask of God, God will give it Thee. Jesus saith to her, Thy brother shall rise again. Martha saith to Him, I know that he shall rise again in the resurrection at the last day. Jesus saith to her, I am the resurrection and the life: he that believeth in Me, although he be dead, shall live; and every one that liveth, and believeth in Me, shall not die for ever. Believest thou this? She saith to Him, Yea, Lord, I have believed that Thou art Christ the Son of the living God, Who art come into this world.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore Dixit Martha ad Jesum: Dómine, si fuísses hic, frater meus non fuísset mórtuus: sed et nunc scio, quia quaecúmque popósceris a Deo, dabit tibi Deus. Dicit illi Jesus: Resúrget frater tuus. Dicit ei Martha: Scio quia resúrget in resurrectióne in novíssimo die. Dixit ei Jesus: Ego sum resurréctio, et vita: qui credit in me, étiam si mórtuus fúerit, vivet: et omnis qui vivit, et credit in me, non moriétur in aetérnum. Credis hoc? Ait illi: Utique Dómine, ego crédidi, quia tu es Christus Fílius Dei vivi, qui in hunc mundum venísti.

Offertory.

Offert. 2.

Dó - mi - ne Jé - su Chris - te, * Rex
O Lord Jesus Christ, King

gló - - ri - æ, li - be - ra á - niof glory, deliver the mas óm - ni - um fi - dé - li - um de - func-souls of all the faithful departed rit.
tó - rum de pœ - nis in - fér - ni, et de pro-from the pains of hell and from rit.
fún- do lá - cu : li - be - ra é - as de ó-the deep pit : deliver them re le - ó - nis, ne ab - sór - be - at éfrom the lion's mouth, that hell as tár - ta - rus, ne cá - dant in obs- cúmay not swallow them up, and they may not fall rum : sed si - gni - fer sán - ctus Mi - cha -el, into darkness, but may the holy standard-bearer, Michael, re-præ - sén - tet é - as in lú - cem lead them into the holy light ;* which sánc -tam : * Quam o - lim A - bra-hæ pro - mi - si - sti, Thou didst promise to Abraham and Secret. — Be merciful, O Lord, we beseech Thee, to the soul of Thy servant N., for which we offer up to Thee the sacrifice of praise, humbly beseeching Thy Majesty that, by these holy peace-offerings, it may be found worthy to win everlasting rest. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Propitiáre quaesumus, Dómine, ánimae fámuli tui (fámulae tuae) N., pro qua hóstiam laudis tibi immolámus, majestátem tuam supplíciter deprecántes: ut per haec piae placatiónis offícia, perveníre mereátur ad réquiem sempitérnam. Per Dóminum.

Sanctus.

4.

Sanc- tus, * Sanc-tus, Sanc-tus Dó-mi-nus De-us Holy, holy, holy, Lord God of* Sá-ba-oth. Ple-ni sunt cœ-li et ter-ra gló-ri-a hosts. Heaven and earth are full of Thy glory.

tu-a. Ho-sán-na in ex-cél-sis.
Hosanna in the highest.

Be-ne-díc-tus qui ve-nit in nó-mi-ne Dó-mi-ni.
Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord.

Ho-sán-na in ex-cél-sis.
Hosanna in the highest.

Agnus Dei.

4.

A-gnus De-i * qui tol-lis pec-cá-ta mun-di:
Lamb of God, Who takest away the sins of the* do-na e-is ré-qui-em. A-gnus De-i, * qui world, give them rest. Lamb of God, Who* tol-lis pec-cá-ta mun-di: do-na e-is ré-qui-em.

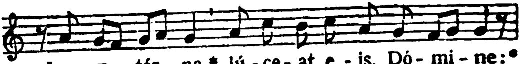
takest away the sins of the world, give them rest.



A-gnus De-i, * qui tol-lis pec-cá-ta mun-di: do-Lamb of God, Who takest away the sins* na e - is ré-qui-em  sem-pi - tér - nam.

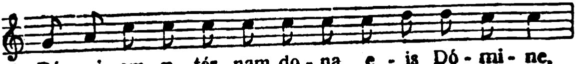
of the world, give them rest everlasting.*



Communion.

8.

Lux æ - tér - na * lú - ce - at e - is, Dó - mi - ne: *
May light eternal shine upon them, O Lord. With*

Cum sanctis tu - is in æ - tér - num, qui - a pi - us es.
Thy saints for ever, because Thou art merciful.

℣. Ré - qui - em æ - tér - nam do - na e - is Dó - mi - ne, ℣. Eternal rest give to them, O Lord; et lux per - pé - tu - a lú - ce - at e - is. * Cum Sanctis.

and let perpetual light shine upon them. With Thy saints.*

Postcommunion. — Grant, we beseech Thee, Almighty God, that the soul of Thy servant N., which has this day departed out of this world, may be cleansed by this sacrifice, and delivered from sins, and may receive forgiveness and everlasting rest. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Praesta quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut ánima fámuli tui (fámulae tuae) N., quae hódie de hoc saeculo migrávit, his sacrifíciis purgáta, et a peccátis expedíta, indulgéntiam páriter et réquiem cápiat sempitérnam. Per Dóm.

For the Absolution, see p. 1798.

In the Masses on the third, seventh and thirtieth days after the Burial all is said as above, except the Collects, which are said as below:

Collect. — We beseech Thee, O Lord, that Thou wouldst vouchsafe to grant fellowship with Thy saints and elect, to the soul of Thy servant N., whose burial three (or seven or thirty)

Orémus. — Quaesumus, Dómine, ut ánimae fámuli tui (fámulae tuae) N cujus depositiónis diem tértium (vel séptimum, vel trigésimum) commemorámus, sanctórum atque electórum tuórum largíri dignéris consórtium: et rorem misericórdiae tuae perénnem infúndas. Per Dóminum.

days since we commemorate, and wouldst pour upon it the everlasting dew of Thy mercy. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Múnera, quaesumus, Dómine, quae tibi pro ánima fámuli tui (fámulae tuae) N. offérimus, placátus inténde: ut remédiis purgáta coeléstibus, in tua pietáte requiéscat. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Look down favourably, we beseech Thee, O Lord, upon the offerings we make on behalf of the soul of Thy servant N., that, being cleansed by heavenly remedies, it may rest in Thy mercy. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Súscipe, Dómine, preces nostras pro ánima fámuli tui (fámulae tuae) N. ut si quae ei máculae de terrénis contágiis adhaesérunt, remissiónis tuae misericórdia deleántur. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—Receive our prayers, O Lord, on behalf of the soul of Thy servant N.; that, if it is still soiled by any earthly stains, they may be wiped out by Thy merciful forgiveness. Through our Lord.

2.—On the Anniversary Day of the Death or Burial.

As for the Mass of Burial (music), p. 1776, or as at Daily Mass (Text), p. 1788, except the following:

Orémus. — Deus, indulgentiárum Dómine: da animábus famulórum famularúmque tuárum refrigérii sedem, quiétis beatitúdinem, et lúminis claritátem. Per Dóminum.

Collect. — O God, the Lord of mercies, grant to the souls of Thy servants, whose anniversary we are keeping, a place of refreshment, rest, and happiness, and the glory of Thy light. Through our Lord.

If the anniversary of only one person is being kept, the above prayers are said in the singular number.

Epistola. — Léctio libri Machabaeórum. — In diébus illis: Vir fortíssimus Judas, facta collatióne, duódecim míllia drachmas argénti misit Jerosólymam, offérri pro peccátis mortuórum sacrifícium, bene et religióse de resurrectióne cógitans (nisi enim eos, qui

Epistle. — Lesson from the Book of Machabees. 2 Macc. xii. 43-46.—In those days: The most valiant man Judas, making a gathering, sent twelve thousand drachmas of silver to Jerusalem for sacrifice to be offered for the sins of the dead, thinking well and religiously concerning the resurrection (for if he had not hoped that they that were slain should rise again, it would have seemed superfluous and vain to pray for the dead); and because he considered that they who had fallen asleep with godliness, had great grace laid up for them. It is therefore a holy and wholesome thought to pray for the dead, that they may be loosed from sins.

cecíderant, resurrectúros speráret, supérfluum viderétur, et vanum oráre pro mórtuis): et quia considerábat quod hi, qui cum pietáte dormitiónem accéperant, óptimam habérent repósitam grátiam. Sancta ergo, et salúbris est cogitátio pro defúnctis exoráre, ut a peccátis solvántur.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John vi. 37-40.—At that time: Jesus said to the multitudes of the Jews, All that the Father giveth Me shall come to Me; and him that cometh to Me I will not cast out: because I came down from heaven, not to do My own will, but the will of Him Who sent Me. Now this is the will of the Father Who sent Me, that of all that He hath given Me, I should lose nothing, but should raise it up again in the last day; and this is the will of My Father that sent Me, that every one who seeth the Son, and believeth in Him, may have life everlasting; and I will raise Him up in the last day.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem. — In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus turbis Judaeórum: Omne, quod dat mihi Pater, ad me véniet: et eum, qui venit ad me, non ejíciam foras: quia descéndi de coelo, non ut fáciam voluntátem meam, sed voluntátem ejus, qui misit me. Haec est autem volúntas ejus, qui misit me, Patris: ut omne, quod dedit mihi, non perdam ex eo, sed resúscitem illud in novíssimo die. Haec est autem volúntas Patris mei, qui misit me: ut omnis, qui videt Fílium, et credit in eum hábeat vitam aetérnam et ego resuscitábo eum in novíssimo die.

Secret. — Be favourable, O Lord, to our humble prayers on behalf of the souls of Thy servants, whose anniversary is this day commemorated, and for whom we offer up to Thee the sacrifice of praise, that Thou mayest vouchsafe to grant them fellowship with Thy saints. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Propitiáre, Dómine, supplicatiónibus nostris, pro animábus famulórum famularúmque tuárum pro quibus tibi offérimus sacrifícium laudis: ut eas sanctórum tuórum consórtio sociáre dignéris. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—Grant, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that the Postcommúnio. — Praesta, quaesumus, Dómine: ut ánimae famulórum famulárumque tuárum, his purgátae sacrifíciis indulgéntiam páriter et réquiem cápiant sempitérnam. Per Dóminum.

souls of Thy servants, whose anniversary we commemorate, purified by this sacrifice, may obtain pardon and everlasting rest. Through our Lord.

3.—The Common Mass for the Dead.

(The music of Mass, p. 1776.)

Intróitus. — Réquiem aetérnam dona eis Dómine: et lux perpétua lúceat eis. Ps. Te decet hymnus, Deus, in Sion, et tibi reddétur votum in Jerúsalem: exáudi oratiónem meam, ad te omnis caro véniet. Réquiem aetérnam.

Introit. Ps. lxiv. 2, 3.—Eternal rest give to them, O Lord; and let perpetual light shine upon them. Ps. A hymn, O God, becometh Thee in Sion; and a vow shall be paid to Thee in Jerusalem: hear my prayer; all flesh shall come to Thee. Eternal rest.

Collects: see pp. 1790-1797.

For deceased brethren, relations and benefactors: 14. Deus veniae, p. 1795.

For all the faithful departed:

Orémus. — Fidélium Deus, ómnium Cónditor et Redémptor: animábus famulórum, famularúmque tuárum remissiónem cunctórum tríbue peccatórum; ut indulgéntiam quam semper optavérunt, piis supplicatiónibus consequántur: Qui vivis.

Collect.—O God, the creator and redeemer of all the faithful; grant to the souls of Thy servants departed the remission of all their sins, that through pious supplications they may obtain the pardon which they have always desired: Who livest.

Epístola. — Léctio libri Apocalypsis beáti Joánnis Apóstoli. — In diébus illis: Audívi vocem de coelo, dicéntem mihi: Scribe: Beáti mórtui, qui in Dómino moriúntur. Amodo jam dicit Spíritus, ut requiéscant a labóribus suis: ópera enim illórum sequúntur illos.

Epistle. Apoc. xiv. 13.—Lesson from the Book of the Apocalypse of blessed John, the apostle.—In those days: I heard a voice from heaven, saying to me, Write, Blessed are the dead, who die in the Lord. From henceforth now, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labours, for their works follow them.

Gradual. Ps. cxi. 7.—Eternal rest give to them, O Lord; and let perpetual light shine upon them. ℣. Ps. cxi. The just shall be in everlasting remembrance; he shall not fear the evil hearing.

Graduále. — Réquiem aetérnam dona eis, Dómine: et lux perpétua lúceat eis. ℣. Ps. In memória aetérna erit justus: ab auditióne mala non timébit.

Tract.—Absolve, O Lord, the souls of all the faithful departed from every bond of sins. ℣. And by the help of Thy grace may they be enabled to escape the avenging judgment. ℣. And enjoy the happiness of everlasting life.

Tractus. — Absólve, Dómine, ánimas ómnium fidélium defunctórum ab omni vínculo delíctórum. ℣. Et grátia tua illis succurrénte, mereántur evádere judícium ultiónis. ℣. Et lucis aetérnae beatitúdine pérfrui.

Sequence*: Dies irae, see p. 1778.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John vi. 51-55.—At that time: Jesus said to the multitudes of the Jews, I am the living bread, which came down from heaven. If any man eat of this bread he shall live for ever: and the bread that I will give, is My flesh for the life of the world. The Jews therefore strove among themselves, saying, How can this man give us his flesh to eat? Then Jesus said to them, Amen, amen, I say unto you, Except you eat the flesh of the Son of man, and drink His blood, you shall not have life in you. He that eateth My flesh, and drinketh My blood, hath everlasting life; and I will raise him up in the last day.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem. — In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus turbis Judaeórum: Ego sum panis vivus, qui de coelo descéndi. Si quis manducáverit ex hoc pane, vivet in aetérnum: et panis, quem ego dabo, caro mea est pro mundi vita. Litigábant ergo Judaei ad ínvicem, dicéntes: Quómodo potest hic nobis carnemsuam dare ad manducándum? Dixit ergo eis Jesus: Amen, amen dico vobis: nisi manducavéritis carnem Fílii hóminis, et bibéritis ejus sánguinem, non habébitis vitam in vobis. Qui mandúcat meam carnem et bibit meum sánguinem habet vitam aetérnam: et ego resuscitábo eum in novíssimo die.

Offertory. — O Lord Jesus Christ, king of glory, deliver the souls of all the faithful departed from the pains of hell and from the deep pit: deliver them from

Offertórium. — Dómine Jesu Christe, Rex glóriae, líbera ánimas ómnium fídélium defunctórum de poenis inférni et de profúndo lacu: libera eas de ore leónis, ne absórbeat eas tártarus, ne cadant in obscúrum: sed sígnifer sanctus Míchaël repraeséntet eas in lucem sanctam: * Quam olim Abrahae promisísti, et sémini ejus. ℣. Hóstias et preces tibi, Dómine, laudis offérimus: tu súscipe pro animábus illis, quarum hódie memóriam fácimus: fac eas, Dómine, de morte transíre ad vitam.* Quam olim Abrahae promisísti et sémini ejus.

* The Sequence is optional at a low Mass.

the lion's mouth, that hell may not swallow them up, and they may not fall into darkness, but may the holy standard-bearer Michael lead them into the holy light; which Thou didst promise to Abraham and to his seed of old. ℣. We offer to Thee, O Lord, sacrifices and prayers: do Thou receive them in behalf of those souls whom we commemorate this day. Grant them, O Lord, to pass from death to that life; which Thou didst promise to Abraham and to his seed of old.

Secrets, p. 1790-1797.

For deceased brethren, relations and benefactors: 14. Deus cujus, p. 1795.

Secréta. — Hóstias, quaesumus, Dómine, quas tibi pro animábus famulórum famularúmque tuárum offérimus, propitiátus inténde: ut, quibus fídei christiánae méritum contulísti, dones et praemium. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Look down in Thy mercy, we beseech Thee, O Lord, upon this sacrifice, which we offer up to Thee for the souls of Thy servants; that to those to whom Thou didst grant the merit of Christian faith, Thou mayest also grant its reward. Through our Lord.

Commúnio. — Lux aetérna lúceat eis, Dómine: * Cum sanctis tuis in aetérnum: quia pius es. ℣. Réquiem aetérnam dona eis, Dómine: et lux perpétua lúceat eis: * Cum Sanctis tuis in aetérnum: quia pius es.

Communion. — May light eternal shine upon them, O Lord. * With Thy saints for ever, because Thou art merciful. ℣. Eternal rest give to them, O Lord; and let perpetual light shine upon them :* with Thy saints.

Postcommúnio. — Animábus, quaesumus, Dómine, famulórum, famularúmque tuárum orátio profíciat supplicántium: ut eas et a peccátis ómnibus éxuas, et tuae redemptiónis fácias esse partícipes. Qui vivis.

Postcommunion. — Let the prayer of those who humbly pray to Thee avail for the souls of Thy servants and handmaids, O Lord, we beseech Thee, so that Thou mayest loose them from all sin, and let them share in Thy redemption: Who livest.

Various Prayers for the Dead.

1.—For the Pope deceased.

Collect.—O God, Who by Thine unspeakable providence wast pleased to number Thy servant N. amongst the sovereign pontiffs; grant, we beseech Thee, that he who reigned as the vicar of Thy Son on earth, may be joined in fellowship with Thy holy pontiffs for evermore. Through the same.

Orémus.—Deus, qui inter summos Sacerdótes fámulum tuum N. ineffábili tua dispositióne connumerári voluísti: praesta, quaesumus; ut, qui unigéniti Fílii tui vices in terris gerébat, sanctórum tuórum Pontíficum consórtio perpétuo aggregétur. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Secret.—Receive, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the sacrifice which we offer up on behalf of the soul of the sovereign pontiff, Thy servant N.; that by Thy command he whom in this world Thou didst raise to papal rank may be gathered with Thy saints in the kingdom of heaven. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Súscipe, Dómine, quaesumus, pro ánima fámuli tui N. summi Pontíficis, quas offérimus hóstias: ut, cui in hoc saeculo pontificále donásti méritum, in coelésti regno sanctórum tuórum júbeas jungi consórtio. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — We beseech Thee, O Lord, that Thy clemency, which we implore, may benefit the soul of the chief bishop, Thy servant N.; that, by Thy mercy, he may obtain eternal fellowship with Him, in whom he hoped and believed. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Prosit, quaesumus, Dómine, ánimae fámuli tui N. Summi Pontíficis, misericórdiae tuae imploráta cleméntia: ut ejus, in quo sperávit et crédidit, aetérnum cápiat, te miseránte, consórtium. Per Dóminum.

2.—For a deceased Bishop.

O God, Who didst raise Thy servant N. to the dignity of bishop in the apostolic priesthood; grant, we beseech Thee, that he may be joined in fellowship with Thine apostles for evermore. Through our Lord.

Orémus.—Deus, qui inter apostólicos Sacerdótes, fámulum tuum N. (fámulos tuos N. et N.) pontificáli fecísti dignitáte vigére: praesta, quaesumus; ut eórum quoque perpétuo aggregétur (aggregéntur) consórtio. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Receive, we beseech Thee, O Lord, for the soul of Secréta. — Súscipe, Dómine, quaesumus, pro ánima fámuli

tui N. Pontíficis (animábus famulórum tuórum N. et N. Pontíficum), quas offérimus hóstias: ut cui (quibus) in hoc saeculo pontificále donasti méritum, in coelesti regno sanctórum tuórum júbeas jungi consórtio. Per Dóminum.

Thy servant Bishop N., the sacrifice we offer up. In this world Thou didst raise him to the episcopal rank: bid him now to enter into the company of Thy saints. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Prosit, quaesumus, Dómine, ánimae famuli tui N. Pontifícis (animábus famulórum tuórum N. et N. Pontifícum), misericórdiae tuae implórata cleméntia: ut ejus, in quo sperávit et crédidit (speravérunt et credidérunt), aetérnum capiat (cápiant), te miseránte, consórtium. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — May, O Lord, the abundance of Thy mercies to which we have made appeal avail Thy servants departed who were bishops and priests. In Thee they hoped, in Thee they believed: may they, in Thy mercy, be united to Thee for evermore. Through our Lord.

3.—For a deceased Cardinal-Bishop or a Cardinal-Priest raised to episcopal rank, is said: famulum tuum N. Episcopum (Presbyterum) Cardinalem pontificali fecisti dignitate, etc. May they servant N. Bishop (Priest) Cardinal whom Thou didst raise to the dignity of the episcopate etc.

4.—For a deceased Cardinal-Priest not raised to the dignity of the Episcopate, and for a Cardinal-Deacon, priest, is said: famulum tuum N. Presbyterum (Diaconum) Cardinalem sacerdotali fecisti dignitate, etc. May thy servant N. Priest-Cardinal (Deacon) Thou didst raise to the dignity of the Priesthood, etc.

5.—But for a deceased Cardinal-Deacon who had not received the Order of Priesthood is said the Collect: Inclina, p. 1793, with this change: ut animan famuli N. Diaconi Cardinalis, quam de hoc saeculo, etc., that the soul of Thy servant N., Cardinal-Deacon whom Thou hast, etc.

6.—Another Collect for a deceased Bishop.

Orémus.—Da nobis, Dómine, ut ánimam fámuli tui N. Epíscopi (ánimas famulórum tuórum N. et N. Pontíficum), quam (quas) de hujus saeculi eduxisti laborióso certámine, sanctórum tuórum tríbuas esse consórtem (consórtes). Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Vouchsafe, O Lord, to admit to fellowship with Thy saints, the soul of Bishop N., Thy servant whom Thou hast called away from the toil and strife of this world. Through our Lord.

Secret.—Hear us, O Lord, we beseech Thee, and let the soul of Thy servant, Bishop N., profit by this sacrifice, by the offering of which Thou didst grant that the sins of the whole world should be loosed. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Annue nobis, quaesumus, Dómine, ut ánimae fámuli tui N. Epíscopi (animábus famulórum tuórum N. et N. Pontíficum), haec prosit oblátio: quam immolándo, totíus mundi tribuísti relaxári delícta. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — We beseech Thee, Almighty God, that the soul of Thy servant and bishop N., may be cleansed by these sacrifices and be deemed worthy to win mercy and rest for evermore. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio.—His sacrifíciis, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus, purgáta ánima fámuli tui N. Epíscopi (purgátae ánimae famulórum tuórum N. et N. Pontíficum), ad indulgéntiam et refrigérium sempitérnum perveníre mereátur (mereántur). Per Dóminum.

7.—For a Priest deceased the Collect 2, Deus qui, p. 1790 is used, and substituting sacerdotali for pontificali and sacerdotis for pontificis.

8.—Another Collect for a Priest deceased.

Collect. — Grant, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that the soul of Thy servant N., Thy priest whom in this life Thou didst honour with the sacred office, may rejoice in the glory of heaven for evermore. Through our Lord Orémus. — Praesta, quaesumus, Dómine, ut ánima fámuli tui N. Sacerdótis (ánimae famulórum tuórum N. et N. sacerdótum), quem (quos) in hoc saeculo commorántem (commorántes), sacris munéribus decorásti, in coelésti sede gloriósa semper exsúltet (exsúltent). Per Dominum.

Secret. — Receive, O Lord, we beseech Thee, this sacrifice which we offer up on behalf of the soul of Thy servant N., Thy priest; that as Thou didst raise him to the dignity of the priesthood, Thou wilt also grant him its reward. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Súscipe, Dómine, quaesumus, pro ánima fámuli tui N. Sacerdótis (animábus famulórum tuórum N. et N. Sacerdótum), quas offérimus hóstias: ut, cui (quibus) sacerdotále donásti méritum, dones et praemium. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Grant, we beseech Thee, Almighty God, that by Thy command the soul

Postcommúnio. — Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut ánimam fámuli tui N.

Sacerdótis (ánimas famulórum tuórum N. et N. Sacerdótum) in congregatióne justórum aeternae beatitúdinis júbeas esse consórtem (consórtes). Per Dóminum nostrum.

of Thy servant N. the priest may be counted in the company of the righteous in everlasting bliss. Through our Lord.

9.—For a man deceased.

Orémus. — Inclína, Dómine, aurem tuam ad preces nostras, quibus misericórdiam tuam súpplices deprecámur : ut ánimam fámuli tui N. quam (ánimas famulórum tuórum N. et N. quas) de hoc saeculo migráre jussísti ; in pacis ac lucis regióne constítuas, et sanctórum tuórum júbeas esse consórtem (consórtes). Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Incline Thine ear, O Lord, to our prayers, in which we humbly entreat Thy mercy ; bring to the country of peace and light the soul of Thy servant N., which Thou hast summoned to go forth from this world, and bid him to be numbered with Thy saints. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Annue nobis, quaesumus, Dómine, ut ánimae fámuli tui N. (animábus famulórum tuórum N. et N.) haec prosit oblátio : quam immolando, tótius mundi tribuísti relaxári delícta. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Hear us, O Lord, we beseech Thee, and let the soul of Thy servant N. profit by this sacrifice, by the offering of which Thou didst grant that the sins of the whole world should be loosed. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Absólve, quaesumus, Dómine, ánimam fámuli tui (ánimas famulórum tuórum N. et N.) ab omni vínculo delictórum : ut in resurrectiónis glória inter sanctos et eléctos tuos resuscitátus respíret (resuscitáti respirent). Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Absolve, O Lord, we beseech Thee, the soul of Thy servant N. from every bond of sin, that he may be raised up in the glory of the resurrection and live amongst Thy saints and elect. Through our Lord.

10.—For a woman or women deceased.

Orémus. — Quaesumus, Dómine, pro tua pietáte miserére ánimae fámulae tuae N. (animábus famulárum tuárum N. et N.) : et a contágiis mortalitátis exútam (exútas), in Collect.—We beseech Thee, O Lord, by Thy loving-kindness, to have mercy on the soul of Thy handmaid N. (on the souls of Thy handmaids N.N.) and now that she is (that they are) released from the contagion of this mortal flesh, to give her (to give them) part in Thine eternal salvation. Through our Lord.

aetérnae salvatiónis partem restítue. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—We beseech Thee, O Lord, that by this sacrifice the soul of Thy servant N. (the souls of Thy servants N.N.) may be delivered from all sins, of which no one is ever guiltless; that by these peace-offerings she (they) may obtain everlasting mercy. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — His sacrifíciis, quaesumus, Dómine, ánima fámulae tuae N. (ánimae famulárum tuárum N. et N.) a peccátis ómnibus exuátur (exuántur), sine quibus a culpa nemo liber éxtitit: ut, per haec piae placatiónis offícia, perpétuam misericórdiam consequátur (consequántur). Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — We beseech Thee, O Lord, that the soul of Thy handmaid (that the souls of Thy handmaids) which has (have) obtained the sacrament of everlasting mercy, may partake of eternal light. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Invéniat (invéniant), quaesumus, Dómine, ánima fámulae tuae N. (ánimae famulárum tuárum N. et N.) lucis aetérnae consórtium: cujus perpétuae misericórdiae consecúta est (consecútae sunt) sacraméntum. Per Dóminum.

11.—For the Priest's Father and Mother.

Collect.—O God, Who hast commanded us to honour our father and mother; in Thy loving-kindness have mercy on the souls of my father and mother, and forgive them their sins; and bring me to see them in the joy of eternal brightness. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Deus, qui nos patrem et matrem honoráre praecepísti: miserére cleménter * animábus patris et matris meae (paréntum nostrórum), eorúmque peccáta dimítte; meque eos in aetérnae claritátis gaúdio fac vidére. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Receive, O Lord, we beseech Thee, the sacrifice which I offer up to Thee on behalf of the souls of my father and mother (of our parents); grant them everlasting joy in the land of the living, and in company with them let me share in the happiness of the saints. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Súscipe sacrifícium, Dómine, quod tibi pro * animábus patris et matris meae (paréntum nostrórum) óffero: eisque gáudium sempitérnum in regióne vivórum concéde: meque (nosque) cum illis felicitáti sanctórum conjúnge. Per Dóminum.

Postcommúnio. — Coelestis participátio sacraménti, quaesumus, Dómine, * animábus patris et matris meae (paréntum nostrórum) réquiem et lucem obtíneat perpétuam meque (nosque) cum illis grátia tua corónet aetérna. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — We beseech Thee, O Lord, that this heavenly sacrament, of which we have partaken, may win rest and light everlasting for the souls of my father and mother (of our parents), and by means of it may I be crowned with them by Thy grace for evermore. Through our Lord.

12.—If for a father only: No. 11 prayers: * animae patris mei (nostri) . . neque (nosque) eum—the soul of my (our) father . . . etc.

13.—If for a mother only: No. 11 prayers: * animae matris meae (nostrae) . . . meque (nosque) eam—the soul of my (our) mother . . . etc.

14.—For deceased brethren, relations and benefactors.

Orémus. — Deus, véniae largítor, et humánae salútis amátor: quaesumus cleméntiam tuam; ut nostrae congregatiónis fratres, propínquos, et benefactóres, qui ex hoc saeculo transiérunt, beáta Maria semper Vírgine intercedénte cum ómnibus sanctis tuis, ad perpétuae beatitúdinis consórtium perveníre concédas.

Collect.—O God, Who grantest forgiveness and desirest the salvation of mankind; we beseech Thee in Thy mercy to grant that the brethren of our congregation with their relatives and benefactors who have passed out of this life, by the intercession of blessed Mary ever a virgin and of all Thy saints may partake of everlasting bliss.

Secréta. — Deus, cujus misericórdiae non est númerus, súscipe propítius preces humilitátis nostrae: et animábus fratrum, propinquórum, et benefactórum nostrórum, quibus tui nóminis dedísti confessiónem, per haec sacraménta salútis nostrae, cunctórum remissiónem tríbue peccatórum.

Secret.—O God, Whose mercy is boundless, favourably receive our humble prayers, and by means of these sacraments of our salvation, grant to the souls of our brethren, relations and benefactors, who by Thy grace did confess Thy name, the remission of all their sins.

Postcommúnio. — Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens et misericors Deus, ut ánimae fratrum, propinquórum, et benefactórum nostrórum, pro quibus hoc sacrifícium laudis tuae obtúlimus majestáti; per Postcommunion. — Grant, we beseech Thee, Almighty and merciful God, that the souls of our brethren, relations and benefactors, for whom we offer up to Thy majesty this sacrifice of praise, may by virtue of this sacrament be cleansed from all sin and by Thy mercy receive the happiness of eternal light.

hujus virtútem sacraménti a peccátis ómnibus expiátae, lucis perpétuae, te miseránte, recípiant beatitúdinem.

15.—For those who lie in the Cemetery.

Collect. — O God, by Whose mercy the souls of the faithful find rest; mercifully grant forgiveness of their sins to Thy servants and handmaids, and to all here and elsewhere who sleep in Christ: that being freed from all sins, they may rejoice with Thee for evermore. Through the same.

Orémus. — Deus, cujus miseratióne ánimae fidélium requiéscunt: fámulis et famulábus tuis, et ómnibus hic et ubíque in Christo quiescéntibus, da propítius véniam peccatórum; ut a cunctis reátibus absolúti, tecum sine fine laeténtur. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Secret. — Graciously receive, O Lord, the victim which we offer up on behalf of the souls of Thy servants and handmaids and of all Catholics who sleep in Christ, whether in this place or elsewhere, so that by this excellent sacrifice they may be freed from the terrible bonds of death and may be found worthy of life everlasting. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Pro animábus famulórum, famularúmque tuárum, et ómnium catholicórum hic et ubíque in Christo dormiéntium, hóstiam, Dómine, súscipe benígnus oblátam: ut hoc sacrifício singulári, vínculis horréndae mortis exúti, vitam mereántur aetérnam. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—O God, Who art the light of faithful souls, hearken to our humble prayers, and grant to Thy servants and handmaids, whose bodies here or elsewhere rest in Christ, a place of refreshment, rest and happiness, and glorious light. Through the same.

Postcommúnio. — Deus, fidélium lumen animárum adésto supplicatiónibus nostris: et da fámulis et famulábus tuis, quorum córpora hic et ubíque in Christo requiéscunt, refrigérii sedem, quiétis beatitúdinem, et lúminis claritátem. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

16.—For many persons deceased.

Collect. — O God, Whose property it is always to have mercy, and to spare; have mercy on the souls of Thy Orémus. — Deus, cui próprium est miseréri semper et párcere: propitiáre animábus famulórum famularúmque tuárum, et ómnia eórum peccáta dimítte; ut mortalitátis vínculis absolútae, transíre mereántur ad vitam. Per Dóminum.

servants and handmaids, and grant them the remission of all their sins; so that being delivered from the bonds of mortality, they may be found worthy to enter into life. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Annue nobis, quaesumus, Dómine, ut animábus famulórum, famularúmque tuárum haec prosit oblátio: quam immolándo, totíus mundi tribuísti relaxári delícta. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Hear us, O Lord, we beseech Thee, and let the souls of Thy servants and handmaids profit by this sacrifice, by the offering of which Thou didst grant that the sins of the whole world should be loosed. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Deus cui soli cómpetit medicínam praestáre post mortem: praesta quaesumus; ut ánimae famulórum, famularúmque tuárum, terrénis exútae contágiis, in tuae redemptiónis parte numeréntur. Qui vivis.

Postcommunion.—O God, Who alone canst give health to the dead; grant, we beseech Thee, that the souls of Thy servants and handmaids may be rid of earthly contagion and be counted amongst Thy redeemed. Who livest.

17.—Another Collect for many persons deceased.

Orémus. — Animábus, quaesumus, Dómine, famulórum famularúmque tuárum misericórdiam concéde perpétuam: ut, eis profíciat in aetérnum, quod in te speravérunt et credidérunt. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—We beseech Thee O Lord, to grant everlasting mercy to the souls of Thy servants and handmaids; so that the faith and hope which they put in Thee may avail them for evermore. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — His, Dómine, quaesumus placátus inténde munéribus: et quod ad laudem tui nóminis supplicántes offérimus, ad indulgéntiam profíciat defunctórum. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Be appeased, O Lord, we beseech Thee, and look upon these gifts; so that what we offer up in praise of Thy name may avail for the forgiveness of those who are dead. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Súpplices, Dómine, pro animábus famulórum, famularúmque tuárum preces effúndimus: obse-Postcommunion.—We humbly pour forth our prayers, O Lord, on behalf of the souls of Thy servants and handmaids, beseeching Thee in Thy mercy to forgive them the trespasses of which they were guilty during life and to admit them into the glad company of those whom Thou hast redeemed. Through our Lord.

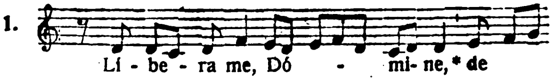
crántes; ut quidquid conversatióne contraxérunt humána, et cleménter indúlgeas, et in tuórum sede laetántium constítuas redemptórum. Per Dóminum.

III.—The Absolution and Burial.

After Mass, the Priest vested in a black Cope comes to the bier and says:

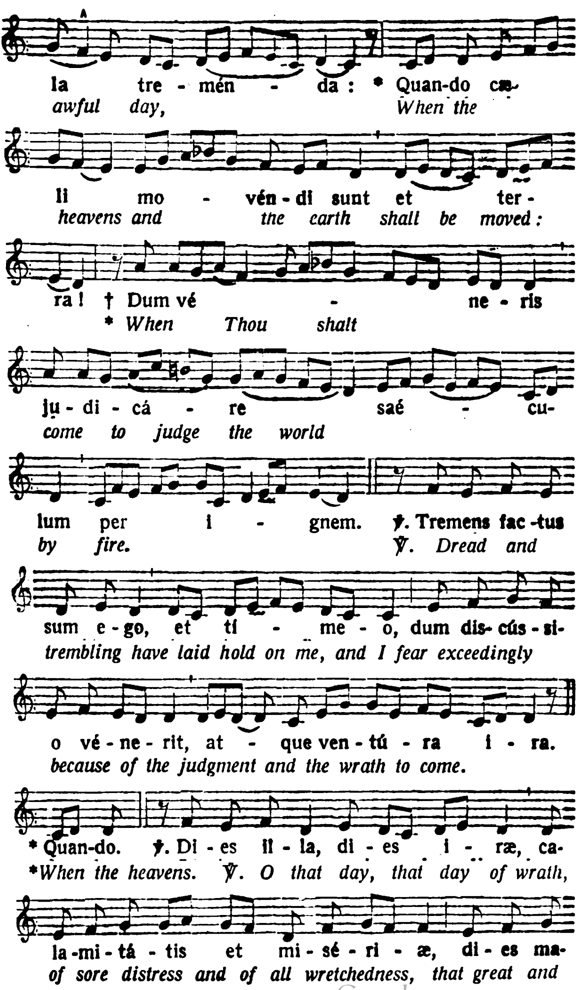


Enter not into judgment with Thy servant, O Lord; for, save Thou grant him forgiveness of all his sins, no man shall be justified in Thy sight. Wherefore suffer not, we beseech Thee, the sentence Thou pronouncest in judgment upon one whom the faithful prayer of Thy Christian people commends to Thee, to be a doom which shall crush him utterly. Rather succour him by Thy gracious favour, that he now escape Thine avenging justice who, in his lifetime, was sealed with the seal of the holy Trinity. Who livest and reignest world without end. ℟. Amen.

Non intres in judícium cum servo tuo Dómine, quia nullus apud te justificábitur homo, nisi per te ómnium peccatórum ei tribuátur remíssio. Non ergo eum, quaesumus, tua judiciális senténtia premat, quem tibi vera supplicátio fídei christiánae comméndat: sed grátia tua illi succurrénte mereátur evádere judícium ultiónis, qui dum víveret, insignítus est signáculo sanctae Trinitátis. Qui vivis et regnas in saecula saeculórum. ℟. Amen.

The following Responsory is then chanted:

Libera me.



1.

℟. From everlasting death, deliver me, O Lord, in that la tre - mén - da : * Quan-do cæawful day, When the li mo - vén - di sunt et ter - heavens and the earth shall be moved:

ra ! † Dum vé - ne - ris
* When Thou shalt ju - di - cá - re saé - cu-come to judge the world lum per i - gnem. ℣. Tremens fac -tus by fire. ℣. Dread and sum e - go, et ti - me - o, dum dis- cús - si-trembling have laid hold on me, and I fear exceedingly o vé - ne - rit, at - que ven - tú - ra i - ra.
because of the judgment and the wrath to come.
* Quan-do. ℣. Di - es il - la, di - es i - ræ, ca-
*When the heavens. ℣. O that day, that day of wrath, la -mi - tá - tis et mi - sé - ri - æ, di - es ma-of sore distress and of all wretchedness, that great and gna et a - má - ra val - de. † Dum. ℣. Réexceeding bitter day. ℟. When Thou shalt come to judge qui-em æ - tér-nam do - na e - is Dó - mi - ne:

the world by fire. ℣. Eternal rest give unto him (her or them)

et lux per-pé - tu - a lú - ce - at e - is
O Lord and let perpetual light shine upon him (her or them).

Libera me is repeated up to ℣. Tremens, then is chanted:

1st CHOIR 2nd CHOIR

Ky- ri - e e - lé - i - son. Chris - te e - lé-Lord, have mercy on us. Christ, have mercy on

TOGETHER.

i - son. Ky - ri - e e - lé - i - son.
us. Lord, have mercy on us.

The Priest then says aloud: Pater noster, and passes twice round the bier, sprinkling it with holy water and incensing it. He resumes:

℣. And lead us not into temptation.	℣. Et ne nos indúcas in tentatiónem.
℟. But deliver us from evil.	℟. Sed líbera nos a malo.
℣. From the gates of hell.	℣. A porta ínferi.
℟. Deliver his soul (their souls), O Lord.	℟. Erue, Dómine, ánimam ejus (ánimas eórum).
℣. May he (they) rest in peace	℣. Requiéscant in pace.
℟. Amen.	℟. Amen.
℣. O Lord, hear my prayer.	℣. Dómine, exáudi oratiónem meam.
℟. And let my cry come unto Thee.	℟. Et clamor meus ad te véniat.
℣. The Lord be with you.	℣. Dóminus vobíscum.
℟. And with Thy spirit.	℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

This prayer is said when the corpse is present:

Collect: Deus, cui proprium, p. 1777.

Should the corpse not be present, the following is said:

Orémus. — Absólve, quaesumus Dómine, ánimam fámuli tui N. (fámulae tuae N.) ut, defúnctus (a) saeculo tibi vivat: et quae per fragilitátem carnis humána conversatióne commísit, * tu vénia misericordíssimae pietátis abstérge. Per Christum Dóminum nostrum. Amen.

Collect.—Absolve, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the soul of Thy servant N., that he (she) who is dead to the world, may live unto Thee and wipe away by Thy most merciful forgiveness what sins he (she) may have committed in life through human frailty. Through our Lord Jesus Christ. Amen.

Then the Priest makes the sign of the cross and says:

℣. Réquiem aetérnam dona ei (eis), Dómine.
℟. Et lux perpétua lúceat ei (eis).

℣. Eternal rest give unto him (them), O Lord.
℟. And let perpetual light shine upon him (them).

℣. Requiéscat (requiéscant) in pace.
℟. Amen.

℣. May he (they) rest in peace.
℟. Amen.

℣. Anima ejus (animae eórum) et ánimae ómnium fidélium defunctórum per misericórdiam Dei requiéscant in pace.
Amen.

℣. May his (their) soul and the souls of all the faithful departed through the mercy of God rest in peace.
℟. Amen.

Here the corpse is carried to the grave and the following is sung or said:

In paradísum * dedúcant te Angeli: in tuo advéntu suscípiant te Mártyres, et perdúcant te in civitátem sanctam Jerúsalem. Chorus Angelórum te suscípiat, et cum Lázaro quondam páupere aetérnam hábeas réquiem.

May the angels lead thee into paradise: . may the martyrs receive thee at thy coming, and lead thee into the holy city of Jerusalem. May the choir of angels receive thee, and mayest thou have eternal rest with Lazarus, who once was poor.

The Priest blesses the grave if it has not already been blessed, saying:

Orémus.—Deus, cujus miseratióne ánimae fidélium requiéscunt, hunc túmulum benedícere dignáre, eique Angelum uum sanctum députa custó-

Let us pray.
O God, by Whose mercy the souls of the faithful find rest, vouchsafe to bless this grave, and appoint Thy holy angel to keep it; and release the souls of all those whose bodies are buried here from every bond of sin, that they may always rejoice in Thee with Thy saints for ever. Through Christ our Lord. ℟. Amen.

dem: et quorum quarúmque córpora hic sepeliúntur, ánimas eórum ab ómnibus absólve vínculis delictórum, ut in te semper cum Sanctis tuis sine fine laeténtur. Per Christum. ℟. Amen.

Here the corpse and grave are sprinkled with holy water and incensed.

In the cemetery, or where the corpse is left, the Priest says:

Ant. John xi. 25. I am the resurrection and the life: he that believeth in Me although he be dead, shall live; and every one that liveth, and believeth in Me, shall not die for ever.

Ant. Ego sum * resurréctio et vita: qui credit in me, étiam si mórtuus fúerit, vivet: et omnis qui vivit et credit in me, non moriétur in aetérnum.

Benedictus.

Luke i. 68-78. Blessed be the Lord God of Israel; because He hath visited and wrought the redemption of His people.

Benedíctus Dóminus Deus Israël, * quia visitávit et fecit redemptiónem plebis suae;

And He hath raised up the horn of salvation to us, in the house of David His servant.

Et eréxit cornu salútis nobis * in domo David púeri sui.

And He spoke by the mouth of His holy prophets, who are from the beginning.

Sicut locútus est per os sanctórum, * qui a saeculo sunt, Prophetárum ejus.

Salvation from our enemies, and from the hand of all that hate us.

Salútem ex inimícis nostris, * et de manu ómnium qui odérunt nos.

To work mercy with our fathers; and remember His holy testament.

Ad faciéndam misericórdiam cum pátribus nostris, * et memorári testaménti sui sancti.

The oath which He swore to Abraham our father, that He would grant us.

Jusjurándum quod jurávit ad Abraham patrem nostrum, * datúrum se nobis.

That being delivered from the hand of our enemies, we may serve Him without fear.

Ut sine timóre, de manu inimicórum nostrórum liberáti, * serviámus illi:

In holiness and justice before Him, all our days.

In sanctitáte et justítia coram ipso, * ómnibus diébus nostris.

Latin	English
Et tu, puer Prophéta Altíssimi vocáberis : * praeíbis enim ante fáciem Dóminis paráre vias ejus.	And thou, child, shalt be called the prophet of the Highest ; for thou shalt go before the face of the Lord to prepare His ways.
Ad dandam sciéntiam salúti, plebi ejus, * in remissiónem peccatórum eórum :	To give the knowledge of salvation to His people, unto the remission of their sins.
Per víscera misericórdiae Dei nostri : * in quibus visitávit nos óriens ex alto.	Through the bowels of the mercy of our God, in which the orient from on high hath visited us.
Illumináre, his, qui in ténebris et in umbra mortis sedent : * ad dirigéndos pedes nostros in viam pacis.	To enlighten them that sit in darkness and in the shadow of death : to direct our feet in the way of peace.
Réquiem aetérnam * dona eis, Dómine.	Eternal rest grant to them, O Lord.
Et lux perpétua * lúceat eis.	And let perpetual light shine on them.

The Antiphon : Ego sum, is repeated.

Latin	English
Kyrie eléison. Christe eléison. Kyrie eléison. ℣. Pater noster.	Lord, have mercy. Christ, have mercy. Lord, have mercy. ℣. Our Father, etc.

The Priest sprinkles the corpse with holy water.

Latin	English
℣. Et ne nos indúcas in tentationem. ℟. Sed líbera nos a malo.	℣. And lead us not into temptation. ℟. But deliver us from evil.
℣. A porta ínferi. ℟. Erue, Dómine, ánimam ejus.	℣. From the gate of hell, ℟. Deliver his (her) soul, O Lord.
℣. Requiéscat in pace. ℟. Amen.	℣. May he (she) rest in peace ℟. Amen.
℣. Dómine, exáudi oratiónem meam. ℟. Et clamor meus adte véniat.	℣. O Lord, hear my prayer. ℟. And let my cry come to Thee.
℣. Dóminus vobíscum. ℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.	℣. The Lord be with you ℟. And with thy spirit.

Let us pray.
Grant to Thy servant (handmaid) departed, O Lord, we beseech Thee, this favour, that he (she), who prayed that Thy will might be done, may not receive punishment for his (her) deeds; and that even as here on earth the true faith joined him (her) to the ranks of the faithful, so in heaven by Thy mercy he (she) may have fellowship with the choirs of angels. Through Christ our Lord.
℟. Amen.

Orémus.—Fac, quaesumus, Dómine, hanc cum servo tuo defúncto (fámula tua defúncta) misericórdiam, ut factórum suórum in paenis non recípiat vicem, qui (quae) tuam in votis ténuit voluntátem : ut sicut hic eum (eam) vera fides junxit fidélium turmis * ita illic eum (eam) tua miserátio sóciet angélicis choris. Per Christum Dóminum nostrum.
℟. Amen.

℣. Eternal rest give to him (her), O Lord.
℟. And let perpetual light shine upon him (her).

℣. Réquiem aetérnam dona ei, Dómine.
℟. Et lux perpétua lúceat ei.

℣. May he (she) rest in peace. ℟. Amen.

℟. Requiéscat in pace. ℟. Amen.

℣. May his (her) soul, and the souls of all the faithful departed, through the mercy of God, rest in peace. ℟. Amen.

℣. Anima ejus, et ánimae ómnium fidélium defunctórum per misericórdiam Dei requiéscant in pace. ℟. Amen.

On the way back to the Church or to the Sacristy the Antiphon : Si iniquitates, Ps. De Profundis, p. 11, are recited, then Requiem aeternam and the Collect: Fidelium, p. 160.

The Burial of Infants.

When a baptised child dies before reaching the age of reason, it goes straight to heaven to praise God and enjoy Him with the Angels. Wherefore the Gloria Patri of the Psalms is not replaced by the Requiem aeternam, and the Mass is the Votive Mass of the Angels with white vestments and Gloria in excelsis, unless the rubrics prescribe the Mass of the day.

If in the afternoon, Votive Vespers of the Angels may be sung.

1.—Meeting the Corpse.

The Priest with surplice and white stole, sprinkles the corpse with holy water and intones the Antiphon : Sit nomen Domini, recites the Psalm Laudate pueri, p. 102, with Gloria Patri, then the Antiphon :

Ant.—Blessed be the name of the Lord, now and throughout the ages.

Ant. — Sit nomen Dómini benedíctum ex hoc nunc et usque in saeculum.

On the way to the Church, is sung:

Psalm cxviii.

Beáti immaculáti in via, * qui ámbulant in lege Dómini.

Blessed are the undefiled in the way, who walk in the law of the Lord.

Beáti qui scrutántur testimónia ejus, * in toto corde exquírunt eum.

Blessed are they that search His testimonies: that seek Him with their whole heart.

Non enim qui operántur iniquitátem, * in viis ejus ambulavérunt.

For they that work iniquity have not walked in His ways.

Tu mandásti * mandáta tua custodíri nimis.

Thou hast commanded that Thy commandments be kept most diligently.

Utinam dirigántur viae meae * ad custodiéndas justificatiónes tuas!

O that my ways may be so directed: that I may keep Thine ordinances.

Tunc non confúndar, * cum perspéxero in ómnibus mandátis tuis.

Then shall I not be confounded, when I shall have regard to all Thy commandments

Confitébor tibi in directióne cordis, * in eo quod dídici judícia justítiae tuae.

I will praise Thee with uprightness of heart, when I shall have learned the judgments of Thy justice.

Justificatiónes tuas custódiam; * non me derelínquas usquequáque.

I will keep Thine ordinances: O forsake me not utterly.

In quo córrigit adolescéntior viam suam? * in custodiéndo sermónes tuos.

By what doth a young man correct his way? even by keeping Thy words.

In toto corde meo exquisívi te: * ne repéllas me a mandátis tuis.

With my whole heart have I sought after Thee: let me not stray from Thy commandments.

In corde meo abscóndi elóquia tua, * ut non peccem tibi.

Thy words have I hidden in my heart, that I may not sin against Thee.

Benedíctus es, Dómine: * doce me justificatiónes tuas.

Blessed art Thou, O Lord: O teach me Thine ordinances.

In lábiis meis * pronuntiávi ómnia judícia oris tui.

With my lips have I declared all the judgments of Thy mouth.

I have had delight in the way of Thy testimonies, even as in all riches.	In via testimoniórum tuórum delectátus sum, * sicut in ómnibus divítiis.
I will meditate on Thy commandments: and I will consider Thy ways.	In mandátis tuis exercébor, * et considerábo vias tuas.
I will think upon Thine ordinances: I will not forget Thy words.	In justificatiónibus tuis meditábor, * non oblivíscar sermónes tuos.
Glory be to the Father.	Glória Patri.

If there is time the following Psalm may be said:

Psalm cxlviii.

Praise ye the Lord from the heavens; praise Him in the high places.	Laudate Dóminum de cœlis: * laudáte eum in excélsis.
Praise ye Him, all His angels; praise ye Him, all His hosts.	Laudáte eum omnes Angeli ejus; * laudáte eum, omnes virtútes ejus.
Praise ye Him, O sun and moon: praise Him, all ye stars and light.	Laudáte eum, sol et luna; * laudáte eum, omnes stellæ et lumen.
Praise Him, ye heavens of heavens, and let all the waters that are above the heavens praise the name of the Lord.	Laudáte eum, cœli cœlórum; * et aquæ omnes quæ super cœlos sunt, laudent nomen Dómini.
For He spoke, and they were made: He commanded, and they were created.	Quia ipse dixit, et facta sunt; * ipse mandávit et creáta sunt.
He hath established them for ever, and for ages of ages: He hath made a decree, and it shall not pass away.	Státuit ea in aetérnum, et in saeculum saeculi: * praecéptum pósuit, et non praeteríbit.
Praise the Lord from the earth, ye dragons and all ye deeps.	Laudáte Dóminum de terra, * dracónes, et omnes abyssi.
Fire, hail, snow, ice, stormy winds, which fulfil His word.	Ignis, grando, nix, glácies, spíritus procellárum, * quae fáciunt verbum ejus;
Mountains and all hills; fruitful trees and all cedars.	Montes, et omnes colles; * ligna fructífera, et omnes cedri;

Béstiae et univérsa pécora ; * serpéntes, et vólucres pennátae;

Beasts and all cattle; serpents and feathered fowls.

Reges terrae et omnes pópuli ; * príncipes, et omnes júdices terrae ;

Kings of the earth and all people ; princes and all judges of the earth.

Júvenes et vírgines, senes cum junióribus laudent nomen Dómini ; * quia exaltátum est nomen ejus solíus.

Young men and maidens, let the old with the younger praise the name of the Lord, for His name alone is exalted.

Confëssio ejus super coelum et terram ; * et exaltávit cornu pópuli sui.

The praise of Him is above heaven and earth : and He hath exalted the horn of His people.

Hymnus ómnibus sanctis ejus, fíliis Israël, pópulo appropinquánti sibi.
Glória Patri.

A hymn to all saints : to the children of Israel, a people approaching to Him.
Glory be to the Father.

If time allows the following Psalm may be said :

Psalm cxlix.

1. Cantáte Dómino cánticum novum : * laus ejus in ecclésia Sanctórum.

1. Sing ye to the Lord a new canticle : let His praise be in the church of the saints.

2. Laetétur Israël in eo, qui fecit eum : * et fílii Sion exúltent in rege suo.

2. Let Israel rejoice in Him that made him : and let the children of Sion be joyful in their king.

3. Laudent nomen ejus in choro : * in tympano et psaltério psallant ei.

3. Let them praise His name in choir : let them sing to Him with the timbrel and the psaltery.

4. Quia beneplácitum est Dómino in pópulo suo : * et exaltábit mansúetos in salútem.

4. For the Lord is well pleased with His people : and He will exalt the meek unto salvation.

5. Exultábunt Sancti in glória : * laetabúntur in cubílibus suis.

5. The saints shall rejoice in glory : they shall be joyful in their beds.

6. Exaltatiónes Dei in gútture eórum : * et gládii ancípites in mánibus eórum.

6. The high praises of God shall be in their mouth : and two-edged swords in their hands.

7. To execute vengeance upon the nations, chastisements among the people.

7. Ad faciéndam vindíctam in natiónibus, * increpatiónes in pópulis.

8. To bind their kings with fetters, and their nobles with manacles of iron.

8. Ad alligándos reges éorum in compédibus, * et nóbiles eórum in mánicis férreis.

9. To execute upon them the judgment that is written: this glory is to all His saints.

9. Ut fáciant in eis judícium conscríptum: * glória haec est ómnibus Sanctis ejus.

The Gloria Patri is omitted, and the Psalm cl., p. 8 is said.

II. The Absolution and Burial.

When there is a service, the Votive Mass of the Holy Angels, p. 1809, is said, or the Mass of the day if it is a feast " double."

After the Mass, or when the funeral procession has reached the church, is sung:

Ant. He shall receive a blessing from the Lord, and mercy from God, his Saviour.

Ant. Hic accípiet benedictiónem a Dómino, et misericórdiam a Deo salutári suo.

Psalm xxiii.: Dómini est terra, p. 1866.

Lord, have mercy. Christ, have mercy. Lord, have mercy.
Our Father (silently).

Kyrie eléison. Christe eléison. Kyrie eléison.

The Priest sprinkles the corpse with holy water.

℣. And lead us not into temptation.
℟. But deliver us from evil.

℣. Et ne nos indúcas in tentatiónem.
℟. Sed líbera nos a malo.

℣. But by reason of my innocence Thou hast received me.
℟. And Thou hast set me before Thy face for ever.

℣. Me autem propter innocéntiam suscepísti.
℟. Et confirmásti me in conspéctu tuo in aetérnum.

℣. The Lord be, etc.

℣. Dóminus, etc.

Let us pray.—Almighty and most merciful God, Who straightway grantest life everlasting to every little child who goeth forth from this world after being born again in the baptismal font, without any merit of his, even as we believe Thou hast done

Orémus. — Omnípotens et mitíssime Deus, qui ómnibus párvulis renátis fonte Baptísmatis, dum migrant a saeculo, sine ullis eórum méritis, vitam íllico largíris aetérnam, sicut ánimae hujus párvuli hódie crédimus te fecísse: fac nos, quaesumus, Dómine, per intercessiónem beátae Maríae semper Vírginis et ómnium Sanctórum tuórum, hic purificátis tibi méntibus famulári, et in paradíso cum beátis párvulis perénniter sociári. Per Christum Dóminum nostrum. ℟. Amen.

this day to the soul of this child ; grant we beseech Thee, O Lord, through the intercession of blessed Mary, ever a virgin, and of all Thy saints, that we may ever serve Thee here with clean hearts and be joined in heaven with the blessed children for evermore. Through Christ our Lord. ℟. Amen.

Whilst the corpse is being carried to the grave, is said:

Ant.—Júvenes * et vírgines, senes cum junióribus laudent nomen Dómini.

Ant.—Young men and maidens, let the old with the younger praise the name of the Lord.

Psalm cxlviii.: Laudáte Dóminum de coelis, p. 1804. Kyrie eléison, etc. Pater noster . . . Et ne nos indúcas, etc.

℣. Sínite párvulos veníre ad me.

℟. Tálium est enim regnum coelórum.

℣. Suffer little children to come unto Me.

℟. For of such is the kingdom of heaven.

℣. Dóminus, etc.

℣. The Lord be, etc.

Orémus. — Omnipótens, sempitérne Deus, sanctae puritátis amátor, qui ánimam hujus párvuli ad coelórum regnum hódie misericórditer vocáre dignátus es, dignéris étiam, Dómine, ita nobíscum misericórditer ágere, ut méritis tuae sanctíssimae passiónis, et intercessióne beátae Maríae semper vírginis, et ómnium Sanctórum tuórum, in eódem regno nos cum ómnibus Sanctis et Eléctis tuis semper fácias congaudére. Qui vivis et regnas.

Let us pray.—Almighty and everlasting God, lover of holy purity, Who hast vouchsafed this day mercifully to call the soul of this child to the kingdom of heaven: vouchsafe also, O Lord, to deal mercifully with us, that through the merits of Thy most holy passion and the intercession of the blessed Mary ever a virgin, and of all Thy saints, we may rejoice with all Thy saints and elect in that same kingdom for ever. Who livest and reignest.

Here the corpse and grave are sprinkled with holy water and incensed; after which the corpse is buried.

On returning from the grave to the church, is said:

The Canticle: Benedicite, p. 79, then Dóminus vobiscum and the Collect: Deus qui, p. 1809.

VOTIVE MASSES.

A Special Mass is appointed for each day of the week.

Monday, The Mass of the Most Holy Trinity, as below.

Tuesday, that of the Holy Angels, p. 1809.

Wednesday, that of St. Joseph, p. 1812, or of the Holy Apostles, p. 1812.

Thursday, that of the Holy Ghost, p. 1812, or of the Blessed Sacrament, p. 1815.

Friday, that of the Holy Cross, or of the Passion of our Lord, or of the Sacred Heart, pp. 1816-1822.

Saturday, that of the Blessed Virgin Mary, p. 189.

Monday: Mass of the Most Holy Trinity.

Mass: Benedicta sit, as on Trinity Sunday, p. 1023, except the following:

Epistle. Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians. 2 Cor. xiii. 11, 13. —BRETHREN: Rejoice, be perfect, take exhortation, be of one mind, have peace; and the God of peace and of love be with you. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the charity of God, and the communion of the Holy Ghost be with you all. Amen.

Epístola. Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Corínthios. — FRATRES: Gaudéte, perfécti estóte, exhortámini, idem sápite, pacem habéte, et Deus pacis, et dilectiónis erit vobíscum. Grátia Dómini nostri Jesu Christi, et cáritas Dei, et communicátio Sancti Spíritus sit cum ómnibus vobis. Amen.

After Septuagesima, instead of Alleluia and Verse is said:

Tract.—With our whole heart and voice we confess Thee, we praise Thee, we bless Thee, God the Father unbegotten, Thee, the only-begotten Son, Thee the Holy Ghost, the Paraclete, the holy and undivided Trinity. ℣ For Thou art great, and dost wonderful things: Thou alone art God. ℣. To Thee be praise, to Thee glory, to Thee thanksgiving for ever and ever, O blessed Trinity!

Tractus. — Te Deum Patrem ingénitum, t Fílium unigénitum, te Spíritum Sanctum Paráclitum, sanctam et indivíduam Trinitátem, toto corde confitémur, laudámus, atque benedícimus. ℣. Quóniam magnus es tu, et fáciens mirabília, tu es Deus solus. ℣. Tibi laus, tibi glória, tibi gratiárum áctio, in saecula sempitérna, o beáta Trínitas.

In Paschal Time, instead of the Gradual the following is said :

Allelúia. ℣. Benedicámus Patrem et Fílium cum Sancto Spíritu. Allelúia.

Alleluia. ℣. Blessed art Thou, O Lord God of our fathers, and worthy of praise for ever. Alleluia. ℣. Let us bless the Father and the Son with the Holy Ghost. Alleluia.

Gospel : Cum venerit, as on the Sunday Within the Octave of the Ascension, p. 948.

Tuesday : Mass of the Angels.

Intróitus. — Benedícite Dóminum omnes Angeli ejus : poténtes virtúte, qui fácitis verbum ejus, ad audiéndam vocem sermónum ejus. Ps. Bénedic ánima mea Dómino et ómnia quae intra me sunt, nómini sancto ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ps. cii. 20.—Bless the Lord all ye His angels ; you that are mighty in strength and execute His word, listening to the voice of His orders. Ibid. 1. Bless the Lord, O my soul, and let all that is within me bless His holy name. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

The Glória in excelsis is said.

Orémus. — Deus, qui miro órdine Angelórum ministéria hominúmque dispénsas : concéde propítius ; ut a quibus tibi ministrántibus in coelo semper assístitur, ab his in terra vita nostra muniátur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who in wonderful order providest ministries both of angels and of men ; grant in Thy mercy that those who ever stand before Thy face and minister to Thee in heaven may also guard our lives upon earth. Through our Lord.

Epístola. Léctio libri Apocalypsis beáti Joánnis Apóstoli. —In diébus illis : Audívi vocem Angelórum multórum in circúitu throni, et animálium, ct seniórum : et erat númerus eórum míllia míllium, dicéntium voce magna : Dignus est Agnus qui occísus est, accípere virtútem, et divinitátem, et sapiéntiam, et fortitúdinem, et benedictiónem. Et omnem creatúram, quae in coelo est, et super terram, et sub terra, et quae sunt in mari, et quae

Epistle. Apoc. v. 11-14.—Lesson from the Book of the Apocalypse of blessed John the Apostle.—In those days : I heard the voice af many angels round about the throne, and the living creatures and the ancients; and the number of them was thousands of thousands, saying with a loud voice : The lamb that was slain is worthy to receive power, and divinity, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and benediction. And every creature which is in heaven and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them: I heard all saying: To Him that sitteth on the throne, and to the Lamb, benediction, and honour, and glory and power, for ever and ever. And the four living creatures said: Amen. And the four and twenty ancients fell down on their faces, and adored Him that liveth for ever and ever.

in eo omnes audívi dicéntes: Sedénti in throno, et Agno benedíctio, et honor, et glória, et potéstas in saecula saeculórum. Et quátuor animália dicébant: Amen. Et vigínti quátuor senióres cecidérunt in fácies suas: et adoravérunt vivéntem in saecula saeculórum.

Gradual. Ps. cxlviii. 1, 2.—Praise ye the Lord from the heavens: Praise ye Him, all His angels: praise ye Him, all His hosts. ℣. Praise Him in the high places.

Graduále. — Laudáte Dóminum de coelis: laudáte eum omnes Angeli ejus: laudáte eum omnes virtútes ejus. ℣. Laudáte eum in excélsis.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. cxxxvii. 1, 2.—℣. I will sing praise to Thee in the sight of the angels: I will worship towards Thy holy temple, and I will give glory to Thy name. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. In conspéctu Angelórum, psallam tibi: adorábo ad templum sanctum tuum, et confitébor nómini tuo. Allelúia.

After Septuagesima, instead of Alleluia and Verse, is said:

Tract. Ps. cii. 20.—Bless the Lord all ye His angels: ye that are mighty in strength, and execute His word. ℣. Bless the Lord, all ye His hosts: ye ministers of His that do His will. ℣. Ps. cii. 21, 22. Bless the Lord, all His works: in every place of His dominion, O my soul, bless thou the Lord.

Tractus. — Benedícite Dóminum omnes Angeli ejus: poténtes virtúte qui fácitis verbum ejus. ℣. Benedícite Dómino omnes virtútes ejus: minístri ejus, qui fácitis voluntátem ejus. ℣. Benedícite Dómino ómnia opera ejus: in omni loco dominatiónis ejus, benedic ánima mea Dómino.

In Paschal Time, instead of the Gradual and after the Alleluia is said:

℣. Matt. xxviii. 2. An angel of the Lord descended from heaven: and coming rolled back the stone, and sat upon it. Alleluia.

℣. Angelus Dómini descéndit de coelo, et accédens revólvit lápidem, et sedébat super eum. Allelúia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Jóannem.—In illo témpore: Vidit Jesus Nathánaël veniéntem ad se, et dicit de eo: Ecce vere Israelíta in quo dolus non est. Dixit ei Nathánaël: Unde me nosti? Respóndit Jesus, et dixit ei: Priúsquam te Philíppus vocáret, cum esses sub ficu, vidi te. Respóndit ei Nathánaël, et ait: Rabbi, tu es Fílius Dei, tu es Rex Israël. Respóndit Jesus, et dixit ei: Quia dixi tibi: Vidi te sub ficu, credis: majus his vidébis. Et dicit ei: Amen, amen dico vobis, vidébitis coelum apértum, et Angelos Dei ascendéntes, et descendéntes supra Fílium hóminis.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John i. 47-51.—At that time: Jesus saw Nathanael coming to Him: and He saith of him: Behold an Israelite indeed, in whom there is no guile. Nathanael saith to Him: Whence knowest Thou me? Jesus answered, and said to him: Before that Philip called thee, when thou wast under the fig-tree, I saw thee. Nathanael answered Him, and said: Rabbi, Thou art the Son of God, Thou art the king of Israel. Jesus answered, and said to him: Because I said unto thee, I saw thee under the fig-tree, thou believest: greater things than these shalt thou see. And He said to him: Amen, amen I say to you, you shall see the heaven opened, and the angels of God ascending and descending upon the Son of man.

Offertórium.—Stetit Angelus juxta aram templi, habens thuríbulum áureum in manu sua: et data sunt ei incénsa multa: et ascéndit fumus arómatum in conspéctu Dei.

Offertory. Apoc. viii. 3, 4.—An angel stood near the altar of the temple, having a golden censer in his hand; and there was given to him much incense: and the smoke of the perfumes ascended before God.

Secréta. — Hóstias tibi, Dómine, laudis offérimus, supplíciter deprecántes: ut eásdem, angélico pro nobis interveniénte suffrágio, et placátus accípias, et ad salútem nostram proveníre concédas. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—We offer up to Thee, O Lord, a sacrifice of praise, and humbly beseech Thee that through the prayers of the angels who plead for us, Thou wouldst be appeased, and wouldst receive it, and grant that it may avail for our salvation. Through our Lord.

Commúnio. — Angeli, Archángeli, Throni et Dominatiónes, Principátus et Potestátes, Virtútes coelórum, Chérubim atque

Communion.—Angels, archangels, thrones and dominions, principalities, and powers, the virtues of the heavens, cherubim and seraphim, bless ye the Lord for ever.

Séraphim, Dóminum benedícite in aetérnum.

Postcommunion. — We who are filled with blessings from heaven, humbly entreat Thee, O Lord, that what we celebrate with this poor worship of ours may become of profit to us by the help of the holy angels and archangels. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Repléti, Dómine, benedictióne coelésti, supplíciter implorámus: ut, quod frágili celebrámus offício, sanctórum Angelórum atque Archangelórum nobis prodésse sentiámus auxílio. Per Dóminum.

Wednesday: Mass of St. Joseph.

Mass: Adjutor as on the Solemnity of St. Joseph, p. 1320. Except in Paschal Time the Alleluias of the Introit, Offertory and Communion are omitted, and the following Gradual is sung:

Gradual. Ps. xx. 4, 5.—O Lord, Thou hast presented him with blessings of sweetness; Thou hast set on his head a crown of precious stones. ℣. He asked life of Thee, and Thou hast given him length of days for ever and ever.

Graduále. — Dómine, praevenesti eum in benedictiónibus dulcédinis: posúisti in cápite ejus corónam de lápide pretióso. ℣. Vitam pétiit a te, et tribuísti ei longitúdinem diérum in saeculum saeculi.

After Septuagesima, instead of Alleluia is said: Tract: Beatus vir, p. 271.

or: Mass of the Holy Apostles Peter and Paul.

Mass: Mihi autem of July 4, p. 1477, with Collects of the Octave day, July 6, p. 1483.

After Septuagesima, instead of the Alleluia and its Verse, the following Tract is said:

Tract. Ps. cxxv.—They that sow in tears shall reap in joy. ℣. Going, they went and wept, casting their seeds. ℣. But coming, they shall come with joyfulness, carrying their sheaves.

Tractus.—Qui séminant in lácrymis, in gáudio metent. ℣. Eúntes ibant et flebant, mitténtes sémina sua. ℣. Veniéntes autem vénient cum exsultatióne, portántes manípulos suos.

In Paschal Time the Mass Protexísti, p. 243, is said, except the Prayers, Epistle, Gospel, and Preface, which are said as above.

Thursday: Mass of the Holy Ghost.

Introit. Wisd. of Sol. i. 7 — The Spirit of the Lord hath Intróitus. — Spíritus Dómini replévit orbem terrárum:

et hoc, quod cóntinet ómnia, sciéntiam habet vocis. Ps. Exsúrge Deus, et dissipéntur inimíci ejus: et fúgiant, qui odérunt eum a fácie ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

filled the whole earth; and that which containeth all things hath knowledge of the voice. Ps. lxvii. 2. Let God arise, and let His enemies be scattered; and let them that hate Him flee before His face. ℣. Glory be to The Father.

Orémus. — Deus, qui corda fidélium Sancti Spíritus illustratióne docuísti, da nobis in eódem Spíritu recta sápere, et de ejus semper consolatióne gaudére. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem Spíritus sancti.

Collect.—O God, Who didst instruct the hearts of the faithful by the light of the Holy Spirit; grant that by the same Spirit we may relish what is right, and ever rejoice in His consolation. Through our Lord . . . in the unity of the same.

Epistle: Cum audíssent, as on Whit Tuesday, p. 977.

Graduále. — Beáta gens cujus est Dóminus Deus eórum; pópulus, quem elégit Dóminus in haereditátem sibi. ℣. Verbo Dómini coeli firmáti sunt: et Spíritu oris ejus omnis virtus eórum.

Gradual. Ps. xxxii. 12.—Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord: the people whom He hath chosen for His inheritance. ℣. Ibid. 6. By the word of the Lord the heavens were established; and all the power of them by the spirit of His mouth.

Here all kneel for the following ℣.:

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Veni, Sancte Spíritus, reple tuórum corda fidélium: et tui amóris in eis ignem accénde. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia.— ℣. Come, O Holy Spirit, fill the hearts of Thy faithful; and kindle in them the fire of Thy love Alleluia.

After Septuagesima the Alleluia and its ℣. are omitted and the following is said:

Tractus. — Emítte Spíritum tuum, et creabúntur: et renovábis fáciem terrae. ℣. O quam bonus et suávis est, Dómine, Spíritus tuus in nobis. ℣. (Here kneel). Veni, Sancte Spíritus, reple tuórum corda fidélium: et tui amóris in eis ignem accénde.

Tract. Ps. ciii. 30.—Send forth Thy Spirit, and they shall be created; and Thou shalt renew the face of the earth. ℣. O Lord, how good and sweet is Thy Spirit within us! ℣. (Here kneel) Come, O Holy Spirit, fill the hearts of Thy faithful, and kindle in them the fire of Thy love.

In Paschal Time, instead of the Gradual, is said:

Alleluia, alleluia. — ℣. Send forth Thy Spirit, and they shall be created; and Thou shalt renew the face of the earth.

Alleluia. Ps. ciii. 30.—(Here all kneel). ℣. Come, O Holy Spirit, fill the hearts of Thy faithful; and kindle in them the fire of Thy love. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Emítte Spíritum tuum, et creabúntur, et renovábis fáciem terrae.

Allelúia. — ℣. Veni, sancte Spíritus, reple tuórum corda fidélium: et tui amóris in eis ignem accénde. Allelúia.

Gospel: Si quis, as on Whit Sunday, p. 968.

Offertory. Ps. lxvii.—Confirm this, O God, which Thou hast wrought in us; from Thy temple, which is in Jerusalem, kings shall offer presents to Thee, alleluia.

Offertórium. — Confírma hoc, Deus, quod operátus es in nobis a templo tuo, quod est in Jerúsalem, tibi ófferent reges múnera, allelúia.

Secret.—Hallow, O Lord, we beseech Thee, the gifts which we offer up, and cleanse our hearts by the light of the Holy Ghost. Through our Lord . . . in the unity of the same.

Secréta. — Múnera, quaesumus, Dómine, obláta sanctífica: et corda nostra Sancti Spíritus illustratióne emúnda. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejusdem.

Preface of Pentecost, p. 54.

Communion. Acts ii. 2, 4.—Suddenly there came a sound from heaven as of a mighty wind coming, where they were sitting, alleluia; and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, speaking the wonderful works fo God, alleluia, alleluia.

Commúnio. — Factus est repénte de coelo sonus, tamquam adveniéntis spíritus veheméntis, ubi erant sedéntes, allelúia: et repléti sunt omnes Spíritu Sancto, loquéntes magnália Dei, allelúia, allelúia.

Postcommunion. — May our hearts be cleansed, O Lord, by the inpouring of the Holy Ghost; and may He make them fruitful by watering them with the dew of His grace. Through our Lord . . in the unity of the same.

Postcommúnio. — Sancti Spíritus, Dómine, corda nostra mundet infúsio: et sui roris íntima aspersióne faecúndet. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

Prayers to obtain the grace of the Holy Ghost.

Collect.—O God, before Whom every heart lieth open, to Whom Orémus. — Deus, cui omne cor patet, et omnis volúntas lóquitur, et quem nullum latet secrétum: purífica per infusiónem sancti Spíritus cogitatiónes cordis nostri; ut te perfécte dilígere, et digne laudáre mereámur. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem Spíritus Sancti.

every will doth speak, and from Whom no secret is hidden: purify the thoughts of our hearts by the inpouring of the Holy Ghost, that we may attain to love Thee perfectly, and to praise Thee worthily. Through . . . in the unity of the same.

Secréta. — Haec oblátio, quaesumus, Dómine, cordis nostri máculas emúndet: ut Sancti Spíritus digna efficiátur habitátio. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem Spíritus Sancti.

Secret. — May this oblation, we beseech Thee, O Lord, cleanse away the stains of our hearts: that they may become worthy dwelling-places of the Holy Spirit. Through . . in the unity of the same.

Postcommúnio. — Concéde, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus, Sanctum nos Spíritum votis promeréri sédulis: quátenus ejus grátia, et ab ómnibus liberémur tentatiónibus et peccatórum nostrórum, indulgéntiam percípere mereámur. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem Spíritus Sancti.

Postcommunion. — Grant, we beseech Thee, Almighty God, that by our assiduous prayers we may deserve to have with us the Holy Spirit: that by means of His grace we may both be delivered from all temptations, and obtain the pardon of our sins. Through . . . in the unity of the same.

---

or: Mass of the Most Holy Sacrament.

Mass as on Corpus Christi, p. 1033, except:

The Alleluia at the end of the Introit, Offertory, and Communion is omitted and the Sequence is not said. After Septuagesima, instead of the Alleluia and its verse, the following Tract is said:

Tractus. — Ab ortu solis usque ad occásum, magnum est nomen meum in géntibus. ℣. Et in omni loco sacrificátur, et offértur nómini meo oblátio munda: quia magnum est nomen meum in géntibus. ℣. Veníte, comédite panem meum: et bíbite vinum, quod míscui vobis.

Tract. Mal. i. 11.—From the rising of the sun even to the going down, My name is great among the Gentiles. ℣. And in every place there is sacrifice, and there is offered to My name a clean offering: for My name is great among the Gentiles.

℣. Come, eat My bread: and drink the wine, which I have mingled for you.

In Paschal Time, instead of the Gradual is said:

Alleluia, alleluia.—℣. The disciples knew the Lord Jesus in the breaking of the bread. Alleluia. ℣. My flesh, p. 1034.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Cognovérunt discípuli Dóminum Jesum in fractióne panis. Allelúia. ℣. Caro mea, p. 1034.

Friday: Mass of the Holy Cross.

Mass as on the feast of the Exaltation of the Holy Cross, September 14, p. 1637, except the following:

Collect.—O God, Who by the precious blood of Thine only begotten Son wast pleased to hallow the standard of the Cross, whereby we are quickened: grant we beseech Thee they who rejoice in honouring that same holy Cross may likewise rejoice in Thy protection wherever they may be. Through the same Lord.

Orémus.—Deus, qui unigéniti Fílii tui pretióso sánguine, vivíficae Crucis vexíllum sanctificáre voluísti: concede, quaesumus; eos, qui ejúsdem sanctae Crucis gaudent honóre, tua quoque ubique protectióne gaudére. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Epistle. Lesson from the Epistle of St. Paul the Apostle to the Philippians, ii.—BRETHREN: Christ became for us obedient unto death, even to the death of the cross. For which cause God also hath exalted Him, and hath given Him a name which is above all names: (here all kneel down) that in the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of those that are in heaven, on earth, and under the earth; and that every tongue should confess that the Lord Jesus Christ is in the glory of God the Father.

Epístola. Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Philippénses. — FRATRES, Christus factus est pro nobis obédiens usque ad mortem, mortem autem crucis. Propter quod et Deus exaltávit illum, et donávit illi nomen, quod est super omne nomen: (hic genuflectitur) ut in nómine Jesu omne genu flectátur, coeléstium, terréstrium, et infernórum; et omnis lingua confiteátur, quia Dóminus Jesus Christus in glória est Dei Patris.

After Septuagesima, instead of the Alleluia and its Verse, the following Tract is said:

We adore Thee, O Christ, and we bless Thee: because by Thy Cross Thou hast redeemed the world. ℣. We adore Thy Cross, O Lord, we commemorate Thy Adorámus te, Christe, et benedícimus tibi: quia per Crucem tuam redemísti mundum. ℣. Tuam Crucem adorámus, Domine, tuam gloriósam recólimus passiónem : miserére nostri, qui passus es pro nobis. ℣. O Crux benedicta, quae sola fuísti digna portáre Regem coelórum, et Dóminum.

glorious passion : have mercy upon us, Thou Who didst suffer for us. ℣. O blessed Cross, which alone wert worthy to bear the King of heaven and the Lord.

In Paschal Time the Gradual is omitted, and in its place is said the Alleluia as on the Finding of the Cross, May 3, p. 1364.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangelii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore : Assúmpsit Jesus duódecim discípulos secréto, et ait illis : Ecce ascéndimus Jerosólymam et Fílius hóminis tradétur principibus Sacerdotum, et scribis, et condemnábant eum morte ; et tradent eum géntibus ad illudéndum, et flagellándum, et crucifigéndum et tertia die resúrget.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew, c. 20.—At that time : Jesus took the twelve disciples apart and said to them : Behold we go up to Jerusalem, and the Son of man shall be betrayed to the chief priests and the scribes, and they shall condemn Him to death, and shall deliver Him to the gentiles to be mocked and scourged and crucified, and the third day He shall rise again.

Secréta.—Haec oblatio, Dómine quaesumus, ab ómnibus nos purget offénsis : quae in ara Crucis étiam totius mundi tulit offénsum. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Secret.—May this oblation, we beseech Thee O Lord, cleanse us from all sin : even as on the altar of the cross it took away the sins of the whole world. Through the same Lord.

In Paschal Time the Collect Deus qui pro nobis, as on Wednesday in Holy Week, p. 766, is said instead of that given above.

or, Mass of the Passion of our Lord.

Introítus. — Humiliávit semetípsum Dóminus Jesus Christus usque ad mortem, mortem autem crucis : propter quod et Deus exaltávit illum, et donávit illi nomen, quod est super omne nomen. Ps. Misericórdias Dómini in aetérnum cantábo : in generatiónem et generatiónem. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Phil. ii. 8, 9.—The Lord Jesus Christ humbled Himself unto death, even the death of the cross ; wherefore God also exalted Him and hath given Him a name which is above every name. Ps. lxxxviii, 2. The mercies of the Lord I will sing for ever : to generation and generation. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Dómine Jesu Christe, qui de coelis ad terram

Collect.—O Lord Jesus Christ, Who didst come down to earth from the bosom of Thy Father in heaven, and didst shed Thy precious blood to wash away our sins, we humbly entreat Thee that on the judgment day, at Thy right hand, we may be found worthy to hear from Thee those words: Come, ye blessed: who livest.

de sinu Patris descendísti, et sánguinem tuum pretiósum in remissiónem peccatórum nostrórum fudísti: te humíliter deprecámur; ut in die judícii, ad déxteram tuam audíre mereámur: Veníte benedícti. Qui vivis.

Epistle. Lesson from Zacharias the Prophet. Zach. xii. 10-11, xiii. 6, 7.—Thus saith the Lord: I will pour out upon the house of David, and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, the spirit of grace, and of prayers: and they shall look upon Me, whom they have pierced: and they shall mourn for Him as one mourneth for an only son, and they shall grieve over Him as the manner is to grieve for the death of the first-born. In that day there shall be a great lamentation in Jerusalem, and it shall be said: What are these wounds in the midst of Thy hands? And He shall say: With these I was wounded in the house of them that loved Me. Awake, O sword, against my shepherd, and against the man that cleaveth to Me, said the Lord of hosts: strike the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered: saith the Lord Almighty.

Epistola. Léctio Epístolae Zacharíae Prophétae.— Haec dicit Dóminus: Effúndam super domum David, et super habitatóres Jerúsalem, spíritum grátiae et precum: et aspícient ad me, quem confixérunt: et plangent eum planctu quasi super unigénitum et dolébunt super eum, ut doléri solet in morte primogéniti. In die illa magnus erit planctus in Jerúsalem, et dicétur: Quid sunt plagae istae in médio mánuum tuárum? Et dicet: His plagátus sum in domo eórum, qui diligébant me. Frámea suscitáre super pastórem meum, et super virum cohaeréntem mihi, dicit Dóminus exercítuum: pércute pastórem, et dispergéntur oves, ait Dóminus omnípotens.

Gradual. Ps. lxviii. 21, 22.—My heart hath expected reproach and misery: and I looked for one that would grieve together with Me, and there was none: I sought one that would comfort Me and I found none. ℣. They gave Me gall for My food, and in My thirst they gave Me vinegar to drink.

Graduále. — Impropérium exspectávit cor meum, et misériam: et sustínui, qui simul mecum contristarétur, et non fuit: consolántem me quaesívi, et non invéni. ℣. Dedérunt in escam meam fel, et in siti mea potavérunt me acéto.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Ave Rex noster tu solus nostros es miserátus erróres: Patri obédiens, ductus es ad crucifigéndum, ut agnus mansuétus ad occisiónem. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. — ℣. Hail Thou our King: Thou alone hast had compassion on our errors; obedient to the Father, Thou wert led to be crucified like a meek lamb to the slaughter.—Alleluia.

After Septuagesima, instead of the Alleluia and ℣., is said:

Tractus. — Vere languóres nostros ipse tulit, et dolóres nostros ipse portávit. ℣. Et nos putávimus eum quasi leprósum, et percússum a Deo, et humiliátum. ℣. Ipse autem vulnerátus est propter iniquitátes nostras, attrítus est propter scélera nostra. ℣. Disciplína pacis nostrae super eum: et livóre ejus sanáti sumus.

Tract. Isa. liii. 4, 5.—Surely He hath borne our infirmities, and carried our sorrows. ℣. And we have thought Him as it were a leper, and as one struck by God and afflicted. ℣. But He was wounded for our iniquities, He was bruised for our sins. ℣. The chastisement of our peace was upon Him: and by His bruises we are healed.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem. — In illo témpore: Sciens Jesus quia ómnia consummáta sunt, ut consummarétur Scriptúra, dixit: Sítio. Vas ergo erat pósitum acéto plenum. Illi autem spóngiam plenam acéto, hyssópo circumponéntes, obtulérunt, ori ejus. Cum ergo accepísset Jesus acétum, dixit: Consummátum est. Et inclináto cápite trádidit spíritum. Judaei ergo (quóniam Parascéve erat), ut non remanérent in cruce córpora sábbato (erat enim magnus dies ille Sábbati), rogavérunt Pilátum ut frangeréntur eórum crura, et tolleréntur. Venérunt ergo mílites: et primi quidem fregérunt crura, et altérius, qui crucifíxus est cum eo. Ad Jesum autem cum venísset, ut vidérunt

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John xix. 28-35.—At that time: Jesus knowing that all things were now accomplished, that the scripture might be fulfilled, said: I thirst. Now there was a vessel set there full of vinegar. And they putting a sponge full of vinegar about hyssop, put it to His mouth. Jesus therefore when He had taken the vinegar, said: It is consummated. And bowing His head He gave up the ghost. Then the Jews (because it was the parasceve), that the bodies might not remain upon the cross on the Sabbath day (for that was the great Sabbath day), besought Pilate that their legs might be broken, and that they might be taken away. The soldiers, therefore, came: and they broke the legs of the first, and of the other that was crucified with him. But after they were come to Jesus, when they saw that He was already dead, they did not break His legs. But one of the soldiers with a spear opened His side, and immediately there came out blood and water. And he that saw it hath given testimony, and his testimony is true.

eum jam mórtuum, non fregérunt ejus crura, sed unus mílitum láncea latus ejus apéruit, et contínuo exívit sanguis et aqua. Et qui vidit, testimónium perhíbuit: et verum est testimónium ejus.

Offertory. — Wicked men rose up against Me: pitilessly they sought to kill Me: they even spat in My face: with their spears they wounded Me, and all My bones were shaken.

Offertórium. — Insurrexérunt in me viri iníqui: absque misericórdia quaesiérunt me interfícere: et non pepercérunt in fáciem meam spúere: lánceis suis vulneravérunt me, et concússa sunt ómnia ossa mea.

Secret.–May the sacrifice which we offer up to Thee, O Lord, through the passion of Thy only-begotten Son, which pleads for us, ever quicken and guard us: who liveth and reigneth.

Secréta.—Oblátum tibi Dómine sacrifícium, intercedénte unigéniti Fílii tui passióne, vivíficet nos semper, et múniat. Qui tecum.

Preface of the Cross, p. 53.

Communion. Ps. xxi. 17, 18.— They have dug My hands and feet: they have numbered all My bones.

Commúnio. — Fodérunt manus meas, et pedes meos: dinumeravérunt ómnia ossa mea.

Postcommunion. — O Lord Jesus Christ, Son of the living God, Who at the sixth hour didst mount the gibbet of the cross for the redemption of the world, and shed Thy precious blood that our sins might be washed away; we humbly beseech Thee that after our death Thou wouldst suffer us to pass with joy through the gates of heaven: Who livest.

Postcommúnio. — Dómine Jesu Christe, Fili Dei vivi, qui hora sexta pro redemptióne mundi Crucis patíbulum ascendísti, et sánguinem tuum pretiósum in remissiónem peccatórum nostrórum fudísti: te humíliter deprecámur; ut post óbitum nostrum paradísi jánuas nos gaudénter introíre concédas. Qui vivis.

---

or: Mass of the Sacred Heart of Jesus.

Mass: Miserébitur, as on the Feast of the Sacred Heart, p. 1053.

Another Mass of the Sacred Heart.

(By Special Concession.)

Introitus.—Egredímini, et vidéte, filiae Sion, regem Salomónem in diadémate, quo coronávit eum mater sua in die desponsatiónis ejus, et in die laetítiae cordis ejus. (Ps.) Eructavit cor meum verbum bonum: dico ego ópera mea Regi. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Cant. 111.—Go forth, ye daughters of Sion, and see King Solomon in the diadem wherewith his mother crowned him in the day of his espousals, and in the day of the joy of his heart. (Ps. xliv.). My heart hath uttered a good word: I speak my words to the King. ℣. Glory.

Orémus.—Fac nos, Dómine Jesu, sanctíssimi cordis tui virtútibus indui, et affectibus inflammári: ut et imágini bonitátis tuae confórmes, et tuae redemptiónis mereámur esse partícipes. Qui vivis et regnas.

Collect. — Clothe us, O Lord Jesus, with the virtues, and inflame us with the affections of Thy Most Sacred Heart, that we may be conformed to the image of Thy goodness, and may become partakers of Thy redemption. Who livest and reignest.

Epistola.—Fratres, mihi ómnium sanctórum mínimo data est grátia haec, in géntibus evangelizáre investigábiles divítias Christi, et illumináre omnes, quae sit dispensátio sacraménti abscónditi a sáeculis in Deo, qui ómnia creávit. Hujus rei grátia flecto génua mea ad Patrem Dómini nostri Jesu Christi, ex quo omnis patérnitas in coelis et in terra nominátur, ut det vobis secúndum divítias glóriae suae, virtúte corroborári per Spíritum ejus in interiórem hóminem, Christum habitáre per fidem in córdibus vestris: in caritáte radicáti, et fundáti, ut possítis comprehéndre cum ómnibus sanctis, quae sit latitúdo, et longitúdo, et sublímitas, et profúndum: scire étiam supereminéntem

Epistle. Eph. iii., 8-19.—To me, the least of all the saints, is given this grace, to preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ, and to enlighten all men that they may see what is the dispensation of the mystery which hath been hidden from eternity in God Who created all things. For this cause I bow my knees to the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, of Whom all paternity in heaven and earth is named, that He would grant you, according to the riches of His glory, to be strengthened by His Spirit with might unto the inward man, that Christ may dwell by faith in our hearts: that being rooted and founded in charity, you may be able to comprehend, with all the saints, what is the breadth, and length, and height, and depth; to know also the charity of Christ, which surpasseth knowledge, that you may be filled unto all the fulness of God.

scientiae caritátem Christi, ut impleámini in omnem plenitúdinem Dei.

Gradual. Matt. xxi.—Tell ye the daughter of Sion: Behold thy King cometh to thee, meek. ℣. (Is. xlii.). He shall not be sad nor troublesome, neither shall His voice be heard abroad.

Gradúale.—Dícite fíliae Sion: Ecce Rex tuus venit tibi mansuétus. ℣. Non erit tristis, neque turbuléntus: non clamábit, nec audiétur vox ejus foris.

Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. (Mat. xi.)—Learn of Me, because I am meek and humble of heart: and you shall find rest to your souls. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Díscite a me, quia mitis sum, et húmilis corde: et inveniétis réquiem animábus vestris. Allelúia.

In Votive Masses after Septuagesima.

Gradual. Ps. lxviii.—My heart hath expected reproach and misery: and I look for one that would grieve together with me, and there was none: and for one that would comfort me, and I found none.

Gradúale.—Impropérium exspectávit cor meum, et misériam: et sustínui qui simul contristarétur, et non fuit: et qui consolarétur, et non invéni.

Tract. Ps. xxi.—I am a worm and no man: the reproach of men, and the outcast of people. ℣. All they that saw me have laughed me to scorn; they have spoken with the lips and wagged the head. ℣. I am poured out like water, and all my bones are scattered: my heart is become like wax melting in the midst of my bowels.

Tractus.—Ego autem sum vermis, et non homo: oppróbrium hóminum et abjéctio plebis. ℣. Omnes vidéntes me, derisérunt me; locúti sunt lábiis, et movérunt caput. ℣. Sicut aqua effúsus sum, et dispérsa sunt ómnia ossa mea; factum est cor meum tamquam cera liquéscens in médio ventris mei.

In Paschal Time:

Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. Ps. xxix. —O Lord my God, I have cried to Thee, and Thou hast healed me: Thou hast brought forth my soul from hell. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Dómine Deus meus, clamávi ad te, et sanásti me: eduxísti ab inférno ánimam meam. Allelúia. ℣. Convertísti planctum meum in gáudium mihi: conscidísti saccum meum, et circumdedísti me laetítia. Allelúia.

℣. Thou hast turned for me my mourning into joy: Thou hast cut my sackcloth, and hast compassed me with gladness. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Sicut diléxit me Pater, et ego diléxi vos. Manéte in dilectióne mea. Si praecépta mea servavéritis, manébitis in dilectióne mea, sicut et ego Patris mei praecépta servávi, et máneo in ejus dilectióne. Haec locútus sum vobis, ut gáudium meum in vobis sit, et gáudium vestrum impleátur. Hoc est praecéptum meum, ut diligátis ínvicem, sicut diléxi vos. Majórem hac dilectiónem nemo habet, ut ánimam suam ponat quis pro amícis suis. Vos amíci mei estis, si fecéritis quae ego praecípio vobis. Jam non dicam vos servos: quia servus nescit, quid fáciat dóminus ejus. Vos autem dixi amícos: quia ómnia quaecúmque audívi a Patre meo, nota feci vobis. Non vos me elegístis: sed ego elégi vos, et pósui vos ut eátis, et fructum afferátis, et fructus vester máneat: ut quodcúmque petiéritis Patrem in nómine meo, det vobis.—Credo.

✠ Continuation of the Holy Gospel according to St. John xv. 9-16.—At that time: Jesus said to His disciples: As the Father hath loved me, I also have loved you. Remain in my love. If you keep My commandments, you will remain in My love, as I also have kept My Father's commandments, and do remain in His love. These things I have spoken to you, that My joy may be in you, and your joy may be filled. This is My commandment, that you love one another as I have loved you. Greater love than this no man hath, that He lay down his life for his friends. You are My friends if you do the things that I command you. I will not now call you servants: for the servant knoweth not what his lord doth. But I have called you friends: because all things whatsoever I have heard from My Father, I have made known to you. You have not chosen Me, but I have chosen you, and have appointed you that you should go, and should bring forth fruit, and your fruit should remain: that whatsoever you shall ask the Father in My name, He shall give it you. —Credo.

Offertórium.—Domine Deus, in simplicitáte cordis mei laetus óbtuli univérsa: et pópulum tuum vidi cum ingénti gáudio

Offertory. Psa. xxix. 17.—O Lord God, in the simplicity of my heart I have joyfully offered all these things: and I have seen with exceeding great joy Thy people offer Thee their gifts. God of Israel, keep Thou this will of their heart. Alleluia.

tibi offérre donária, Deus Israel, custódi hanc voluntátem cordis eórum, allelúia.

Secret.—May the Holy Spirit we beseech Thee, O Lord, inflame us with that fire which our Lord Jesus Christ from the inmost sanctuary of His heart cast upon earth, and vehemently desired to be enkindled. Who liveth and reigneth with Thee.

Secréta.—Illo nos igne, quaesumus, Dómine, Spíritus sanctus inflámmet, quem Dóminus noster Jesus Christus e penetrálibus Cordis sui misit in terram, et vóluit veheménter accéndi: Qui tecum vivit et regnat in unitáte ejúsdem Spíritus.

The Preface for Christmas, p. 51.

Communion. Ps. xxxiii.—O taste and see that the Lord is sweet: His mercy endureth for ever. Alleluia.

Commúnio.—Gustate et vidéte, quóniam suávis est Dóminus: in aetérnum misericórdia ejus, allelúia.

Postcommunion.—May Thy holy mysteries, O Lord Jesus, impart to us a divine fervour, whereby having tasted the sweetness of Thy most tender heart, we may learn to despise what is earthly and to love what is heavenly. Who livest.

Postcommúnio. — Praebéant nobis, Dómine Jesu, divínum tua sancta fervórem: quo dulcíssimi Cordis tui suávitate percepta, discamus terrena despicere et amare coelestia. Qui vivis.

Saturday: Mass of our Lady.

See p. 189 and following ones.

Mass of Thanksgiving.

For a Mass of thanksgiving is used that of the Most Holy Trinity, p. 1808, or that of the Holy Ghost, p. 1812, or that of the Blessed Virgin, p. 189, etc...., the following prayers being added to the Prayers of the Mass under one conclusion.

Collect.—O God, of Whose mercies there is no number, and of Whose goodness the treasure is infinite; we render thanks to

Orémus. — Deus, cujus misericórdiae non est númerus, et bonitátis infinítus est thesáurus: piíssimae majestáti tuae pro collátis donis grátias ágimus, tuam semper cleméntiam exorántes ; ut qui peténtibus postuláta concédis, eósdem non déserens, ad praemia futúra dispónas. Per Dóminum.

Thy most gracious majesty for the gifts Thou hast bestowed upon us, evermore beseeching Thy clemency, that as Thou grantest the petitions of them that ask Thee, Thou wilt never forsake them, but wilt prepare them for the reward to come. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Odórem, Dómine, sacrifícii hujus cum gratiárum actiónibus súscipe, et praesta : ut quos exaudíre, et incólumes serváre dignátus es, ab omni in pósterum adversitáte custódias ; et in tuo servítio et amóre concréscant. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Receive as a sweet savour this sacrifice together with the thanks which we render to Thee, O Lord ; evermore keep from harm those whom Thou hast deigned graciously to hear and to preserve ; and let them serve Thee and love Thee more and more. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Deus qui néminem in te sperántem, nímium afflígi permíttis, sed pium précibus praestas audítum : pro postulatiónibus nostris, votisque suscéptis grátias ágimus, te piíssime deprecántes ; ut per haec quae súmpsimus, a cunctis éripi mereámur advérsis. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—O God, Who sufferest no one that hopeth in Thee to be overmuch stricken, but lendest a kindly ear to prayer ; we thank Thee for having heard our prayers and granted our desires, and devoutly entreat Thee that what we have received may make us worthy to be delivered from all evil. Through our Lord.

On the Anniversary of the election and consecration of a Bishop.

The Votive Mass for these anniversaries is solemnly celebrated after the Mass of the day, in the Cathedrals, and Collegiate churches assimilated to them by privilege. In all other churches of the diocese only the commemoration is made.

Mass : Sacerdótes, p. 259, except the Collects (Deus ómnium, etc., p. 155, substituting for the word tuae the name of the diocese).

Epistle : Omnis póntifex, p. 419, and the Gospel : Vidéte, p. 1566. The Credo is said.

Mass for the Sick.

Introit: Exáudi Deus as on Tuesday of the fourth week of Lent p. 645.

Collect. — Almighty, everlasting God, the eternal salvation of those who believe; hear us in behalf of Thy servants that are sick, for whom we humbly crave the help of Thy mercy, that, being restored to health, they may render thanks to Thee in Thy church. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, salus aetérna credéntium: exaúdi nos pro fámulis tuis infírmis, pro quibus misericórdiae tuae implorámus auxílium; ut, réddita sibi sanitáte, gratiárum tibi in Ecclésia tua réferant actiónes. Per Dóminum.

If it be for one sick person only, the prayer is said in the singular.

Epistle. Lesson of the Epistle of Blessed James the Apostle. Jas. v. 13-16.—BELOVED: Is any of you sad? Let him pray. Is he cheerful in mind? Let him sing. Is any man sick among you? Let him bring in the priests of the church, and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord. And the prayer of faith shall save the sick man; and the Lord shall raise him up: and if he be in sins, they shall be forgiven him. Confess, therefore, your sins one to another; and pray one for another, that you may be saved.

Epistola. Léctio Epístolae beáti Jacóbi Apóstoli.—CARISSIMI: Tristátur áliquis vestrum? oret. Aequo ánimo est? psallat. Infirmátur quis in vobis? indúcat presbyteros Ecclésiae, et orent super eum, ungéntes eum óleo in nómine Dómini: et orátio fídei salvábit infírmum, et alleviábit eum Dóminus: et si in peccátis sit, remitténtur ei. Confitémini ergo altérutrum peccáta vestra, et oráte pro ínvicem ut salvémini.

Gradual. Ps. vi. 3, 4.—Have mercy upon me, O Lord, for I am weak: heal me, O Lord. ℣. My bones are troubled, and my soul is troubled exceedingly.

Graduále. — Miserére mihi, Dómine, quóniam infírmus sum: sana me, Dómine. ℣. Conturbáta sunt ómnia ossa mea: et ánima mea turbáta est valde.

Alleluia, alleluia.— ℣. O Lord, hear my prayer, and let my cry come unto Thee. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Dómine, exáudi oratiónem meam: et clamor meus ad te pervéniat Allelúia.

Tractus. — Miserére mei Dómine, quóniam tríbulor: conturbátus est in ira óculus meus, ánima mea, et venter meus. ℣. Quóniam defécit in dolóre víta mea, et anni mei in gemítibus. ℣. Infirmáta est in paupertáte virtus mea: et ossa mea conturbáta sunt.

Tract. Ps. xxx. 10, 11.—Have mercy on me, O Lord, for I am afflicted: my eye is troubled with wrath, my soul, and my belly. ℣. For my life is wasted with grief: and my years in sighs. ℣. My strength is weakened through poverty, and my bones are disturbed.

In Paschal Time instead of the Gradual, is said:

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Dómine, exáudi oratiónem meam: et clamor meus ad te pervéniat.

Alleluia, alleluia.—Ps. ci. 2. ℣. Hear, O Lord, my prayer: and let my cry come to Thee.

Allelúia. — ℣. In Deo sperávit cor meum, et adjútus sum: et reflóruit caro mea, et ex voluntáte mea confitébor ei. Allelúia.

Alleluia. Ps. xxvii. 7.— ℣. In God hath my heart trusted, and I have been helped: and my flesh hath flourished again, and with my will I will give praise to Him. Alleluia.

Gospel: Cum introisset Jesus as on the Thursday after Ash Wednesday, p. 523.

Offertórium. — Exáudi, Deus, oratiónem meam, et ne despéxeris deprecatiónem meam: inténde in me, et exáudi me.

Offertory.—Hear, O God, my prayer, and despise not my supplication: be attentive to me, and hear me.

Secréta.—Deus, cujus nútibus vitae nostrae moménta decúrrunt: súscipe preces et hóstias famulórum tuórum, pro quibus aegrotántibus misericórdiam tuam implorámus; ut, de quorum perículo metúimus, de eórum salúte laetémur. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—O God, by Whose decree each moment of our lives passes by, receive the prayers and victims of Thy servants on behalf of those for whom in their sickness we crave Thy mercy; so that we may rejoice in the safety of those at whose danger we were afraid. Through our Lord.

Commúnio. — Illúmina fáciem tuam super servum tuum, et salvum me fac in tua misericórdia: Dómine, non confúndar, quóniam invocávi te.

Communion. — Make Thy face to shine upon Thy servant, and save me in Thy mercy: let me not be confounded, O Lord, for I have called upon Thee.

Postcommunion.—O God, Who art the only defence for the frailty of man; show forth Thy might and help Thy servants who are sick; so that, succoured by Thy bounteous mercy they may be found worthy to be restored safe and sound to Thy holy church. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Deus infirmitátis humánae singuláre praesídium: auxílii tui super infírmos fámulos tuos osténde virtútem; ut ope misericórdiae tuae adjúti, Ecclésiae tuae sanctae incólumes repraesentári mereántur. Per Dóminum.

When the sick person is near death, the Collect, Secret, and Postcommunion are said as follows:

Collect.—Almighty and merciful God, Who giveth to mankind both the remedies of salvation and the gifts of life everlasting; look mercifully on Thy servant who is afflicted with sickness of the body, and refresh the soul which Thou hast made; so that at the hour of its going hence, it may be found worthy to be borne to Thee, its maker, free from all stain of sin, by the hands of holy angels. Through our Lord.

Oratio.—Omnípotens et miséricors Deus, qui humáno géneri et salútis remédia, et vitae aetérnae múnera contulísti: réspice propítius fámulum tuum infirmitáte córporis laborántem, et ánimam réfove, quam creásti; ut in hora éxitus illíus, absque peccáti mácula tibi Creatóri suo per manus sanctórum Angelórum repraesentári mereátus. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Receive, O Lord, the sacrifice which we offer up for Thy servant who is nigh unto death, and grant that by means of it all his sins may be washed away:—that he who, at Thy will is stricken by Thy scourges in this life, may win eternal rest in the life to come. Through our Lord.

Secreta. — Súscipe, quaesumus Dómine, hóstiam, quam tibi offérimus pro fámulo tuo in extrémo vitae constituto: et concéde, ut per eam, univérsa illíus purgéntur delícta; ut, qui tuae dispositiónis flagéllis in hac vita attéritur, in futúra réquiem consequátur aetérnam. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—We beseech Thy clemency, O almighty God, that by the virtue of this sacrament Thou wouldst vouchsafe to strengthen Thy servant with Thy grace: so that at the hour of his death the enemy may not prevail against him, but he

Postcommunio.— Quaesumus cleméntiam tuam, omnípotens Deus: ut per hujus virtútem sacraménti fámulum tuum grátia tua confirmáre dignéris; ut in hora mortis ejus non praeváleat contra eum adversárius, sed cum ángelis tuis tránsitum habére mereátur ad vitam. Per Dóminum.

may deserve to pass with Thy angels to life. Through our Lord.

Mass for the Propagation of the Faith.

Introitus.—Deus misereátur nostri, et benedícat nobis: illúminet vultum suum super nos, et misereátur nostri, ut cognoscámus in terra viam tuam, in ómnibus géntibus salutáre tuum. Ps. Ibid. Confiteántur tibi pópuli, Deus: confiteántur tibi pópuli omnes. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit.—Ps. lxvi. May God have mercy upon us, and bless us: may He cause the light of His countenance to shine upon us, and may He have mercy upon us: that we may know Thy way upon earth, Thy salvation in all nations. Ps. Let the people confess to Thee, O God: let all people give praise to Thee. ℣. Glory.

Oremus.—Deus, qui omnes hómines vis salvos fieri, et ad agnitiónem veritátis veníre: mitte, quaesumus, operáoris in messem tuam, et da eis cum omni fidúcia loqui verbum tuum; ut sermo tuus currat, et clarificétur, et omnes gentes cognóscant te solum Deum verum, et quem misísti Jesum Christum Fílium tuum Dóminum nostrum: Qui tecum vivit.

Collect.—O God, Who desirest that all men should be saved, and come to the knowledge of the truth: send forth we beseech Thee, labourers into Thy harvest, and grant them grace to speak Thy word with all trust: that Thy words may run and be glorified: and that all nations may know Thee the one true God, and Him Whom Thou hast sent, Jesus Christ Thy son our Lord Who with Thee liveth.

Epistola. Léctio libri Sapiéntiae.—MISERERE nostri, Deus ómnium, et réspice nos, et osténde nobis lucem miseratiónum tuárum: et immítte timórem tuum super gentes, quae non exquisiérunt te, ut cognóscant, quia non est Deus nisi tu, et enárrent magnália tua. Alleva manum tuam super gentes aliénas, ut vídeant poténtiam tuam. Sicut enim in conspéctu eórum sanctificátus es in nobis, sic in conspéctu nos-

Epistle. Lesson from the Book of Wisdom. Ecclus. xxxvi.—Have mercy upon us, O God of all, and behold us, and show us the light of Thy mercies: and send Thy fear upon the nations, that have not sought after Thee: that they may know that there is no God beside Thee, and that they may show forth Thy wonders. Lift up Thy hand over the strange nations, that they may see Thy power. For as Thou hast been sanctified in us in their sight, so Thou shalt be magnified among them in our presence. That they may know Thee, as we also have known Thee, that there is no God beside Thee, O Lord. Renew Thy signs, and work new miracles. Glorify Thy hand, and Thy right arm. Raise up indignation, and pour out wrath. Take away the adversary, and crush the enemy. Hasten the time, and remember the end, that they may declare Thy wonderful works. Give testimony to them that are Thy creatures from the beginning, and raise up the prophecies which the former prophets spoke in Thy name. Reward them that patiently wait for Thee, that Thy prophets may be found faithful: and hear the prayers of Thy servants according to the blessing of Aaron over Thy people, and direct us into the way of justice, and let all know that dwell upon the earth that thou art God, the beholder of all ages.

tro magnificáberis in eis, ut cognóscant te, sicut et nos cognóvimus, quóniam non est Deus praeter te, Dómine. Innova signa, et immúta mirabília: glorífica manum, et bráchium déxterum; éxcita furórem, et effúnde iram: tolle adversárium, et afflíge inimícum. Festína tempus, et meménto finis, ut enárrent mirabília tua. Da testimónium his, qui ab inítio creatúrae tuae sunt, et súscita praedicatiónes, quas locúti sunt in nómine tuo prophétae priór-es. Da mercédem sustinéntibus te, ut prophétae tui fidéles inveniántur: et exáudi oratiónes servórum tuórum, secúndum benedictiónem Aaron de pópulo tuo, et dírige nos in viam justítiae, et sciant omnes, qui hábitant terram, quia tu es Deus, conspéctor saelulórum.

Gradual. Ps. lxvi.—Let people confess to Thee, O God: let all people give praise to Thee: the earth hath yielded her fruit. ℣. May God, our God, bless us, may God bless us: and all the ends of the earth fear Him.

Graduale. — Confiteántur tibi pópuli, Deus: confiteántur tibi pópuli omnes: terra dedit fructum suum. ℣. Benedícat nos Deus, Deus noster, benedícat nos Deus: et métuant eum omnes fines terrae.

Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. Ps. xcix.—Sing joyfully to God, all the earth, serve ye the Lord with gladness: come in before His presence with exceeding great joy. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia.—Jubiláte Deo, omnis terra: servíte Dómino in laetítia: introíte in conspéctu ejus, in exsultatióne. Allelúia.

After Septuagesima instead of the Alleluia and its Verse, the following Tract is said:

Tract. Ps. xcv.—Declare the glory of the Lord among the Tractus. — Annuntiáte inter gentes glóriam Dómini, in ómni-bus pópulis mirabília ejus. ℣. Quóniam magnus Dóminus, et laudábilis nimis: terríbilis est super omnes deos. ℣. Quóniam omnes dii Géntium daemónia: Dóminus autem coelos fecit.

Gentiles: His wonders among all people. ℣. For the Lord is great, and exceedingly to be praised: He is to be feared above all gods. ℣. For all the gods of the Gentiles are devils: but the Lord made the heavens.

In Paschal Time the Gradual is omitted, and in its place the following is said:

Allelúia, Allelúia.—Jubiláte Deo, omnis terra: servíte Dómino in laetítia: introíte in conspéctu ejus in exsultatióne. Allelúia. ℣. Scitóte quóniam Dominus ipse est Deus: ipse fecit nos, et non ipsi nos. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. Ps. xcix. —Sing joyfully unto God, all the earth: serve ye the Lord with gladness; come in before His presence with exceeding great joy. Alleluia. ℣. Know ye that the Lord He is God; He made us and not we ourselves. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Circuíbat Jesus omnes civitátes, et castélla, docens in synagógis eórum, et praedicans evangélium regni, et curans omnem languórem, et omnem infirmitátem. Videns autem turbas, misértus est eis: quia erant vexáti, et jacéntes sicut oves non habéntes pastórem. Tunc dicit discípulis suis: Messis quidem multa, operárii autem pauci. Rogáte ergo Dóminum messis, ut mittat operários in messem meam.

✠ Continuation of the Holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. ix. 35-39.—At that time: Jesus went about all the cities and towns, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every disease, and every infirmity. And seeing the multitudes, He had compassion on them: because they were distressed and lying like sheep that have no shepherd. Then He saith to His disciples: the harvest indeed is great, but the labourers are few. Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that He send forth labourers into His harvest.

Offertórium. — Afférte Dómino pátriae géntium, afférte Dómino glóriam, et honórem, afférte Dómino glóriam nómini ejus: tóllite hóstias, et introíte in átria ejus, adoráte Dóminum in átrio sancto ejus.

Offertory. Ps. xcv.—Bring unto the Lord, O ye kindred of the Gentiles, bring unto the Lord glory and honour, bring unto the Lord glory unto His name: bring sacrifices and come into His courts, adore ye the Lord in His holy court.

Secret.—Behold, O God our Protector, and look upon the face of Thy Christ, Who gave Himself as a ransom for all: and grant that from the rising of the sun even until the setting thereof Thy Name may be adored among the Gentiles, and that, in every place a clean offering be sacrificed and offered in Thy name. Through the same.

Secréta. — Protector noster áspice, Deus, et réspice in fáciem Christi tui: qui dedit redemptiónem semetípsum pro ómnibus, et fac, ut ab ortu solis usque ad occásum magnificétur nomen tuum in géntibus, ac in omni loco sacrificétur, et offerátur nómini tuo oblátio munda. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Communion. Ps. cxvi.—Praise the Lord all ye nations: praise Him all ye people: for His mercy is confirmed upon us; and the truth of the Lord remaineth for ever.

Commúnio.—Laudáte Dóminum, omnes gentes: laudáte eum, omnes pópuli: quóniam confirmáta est super nos misericórdia ejus, et véritas Dómini manet in aetérnum.

Postcommunion. — Refreshed by this gift of our redemption we beseech Thee, O Lord, that by means of this help to eternal salvation true faith may ever advance. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio.—Redemptionis nostrae múnere vegetáti, quaesumus Dómine: ut hoc perpétuae salútis auxílio, fides semper vera profíciat. Per Dóminum.

Another Epistle for the same:

Lesson from the Epistle of St. Paul the Apostle to 1 Timothy ii.—I DESIRE, first of all, that supplications, prayers, intercessions, and thanksgivings be made for all men: for kings, and for all that are in high station: that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all piety and chastity. For this is good and acceptable in the sight of God our saviour, Who will have all men to be saved, and to come to the knowledge of the truth. For there is one God, and one mediator of God and men, the man Christ Jesus:

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Timótheum.—Obsecro prium ómnium fíeri obsecratiónes, oratiónes, postulatiónes, gratiárum actiónes pro ómnibus homínibus: pro régibus, et ómnibus qui in sublimitáte sunt, ut quiétam et tranquíllam vitam agámus, in omni pietáte, et castitáte: hoc enim bonum est, et accéptum coram Salvatóre nostro Deo, qui omnes hómines vult salvos fíeri, et ad agnitiónem veritátis veníre. Unus enim Deus, unus et mediátor Dei, et hóminum homo Christus Jesus: qui dedi redemptiónem semetípsum pro ómnibus, testimónium tempóribus suis; in quo pósitus sum ego praedicátor et apóstolus (veritátem dico, non méntior), doctor Géntium, in fide et veritáte.

Who gave Himself a redemption for all, a testimony in due times: whereunto I am appointed a preacher and an apostle (I say the truth, I lie not), a doctor of the Gentiles in faith and truth.

Mass against the Heathen.

Introit: Exsúrge as on Sexagesima Sunday, p. 494.

Orémus.—Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, in cujus manu sunt ómnium potestátes, et ómnium jura regnórum: réspice in auxilium Christianórum; ut gentes paganórum, quae in sua feritáte confídunt; déxterae tuae poténtia conterántur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Almighty, everlasting God in Whose hand are the power and the government of every nation; look to the help of the Christian people, that the heathen nations, who trust to the fierceness of their own might may be crushed by the power of Thy right arm. Through our Lord.

Epistle: Oravit Mardochaeus as on Wednesday of the second week in Lent, p. 579.

Graduále. — Sciant gentes quóniam nomen tibi Deus, tu solus Altíssimus super omnem terram. ℣. Deus meus, pone illos ut rotam, et sicut stípulam ante fáciem venti.

Gradual. Ps. lxxxii.—Let the Gentiles know that God is Thy name: Thou alone art the Most High over all the earth. ℣. O my God make them like a wheel and as stubble before the face of the wind.

Allelúia, allelúia.— ℣. Excita, Dómine, poténtiam tuam, et veni; ut salvos fácias nos. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. Ps. lxxix. —Stir up Thy might O Lord, and come: that Thou mayest save us. Alleluia.

After Septuagesima, instead of the Alleluia and its Verse the following Tract is said:

Tractus.—Adjuva nos Deus salutáris noster: et propter honórem nóminis tui, Dómine, líbera nos: et propítius esto peccátis nostris, propter no-

Tract. Ps. lxxviii.—Help us, O God our Saviour, and for the honour of Thy Name, O Lord, deliver us: and be propitious to our sins, for the sake of Thy name. ℣. Lest the Gentiles should say: Where is their God? and let Him be known among the nations before our eyes. ℣. Avenge the blood of Thy servants which has been shed, let the sighing of the prisoners come in before Thee.

men tuum. ℣. Nequándo dicant gentes: Ubi est Deus eórum? et innotéscat in natiónibus coram óculis nostris. ℣. Víndica sánguinem servórum tuórum, qui effúsus est: intret in conspéctu tuo gémitus compeditórum.

In Paschal Time the Gradual is omitted, and in its place, the following is said:

Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. Ps. lxxix.—Stir up Thy might, O Lord, and come, that Thou mayest save us. Alleluia. ℣. O God of hosts, turn, look down from heaven and see, and visit this vineyard: and perfect that which Thy right hand hath planted. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Excita, Dómine, poténtiam tuam, et veni; ut salvos fácias nos. Allelúia. ℣. Deus virtútum, convértere, réspice de coelo, et vide, et vísita víneam istam: et pérfice eam, quam plantávit déxtera tua. Allelúia.

Gospel: Quis vestrum habébit amícum as on the Rogation days, p. 932.

Offertory: Pópulum húmilem as on the eighth Sunday after Pentecost, p. 1084.

Secret.—Look, O Lord, upon the sacrifice which we offer up: that Thou wouldst deliver Thy champions from the wickedness of the heathen, and keep them safe under Thy protection. Through our Lord.

Secréta. — Sacrificium, Dómine, quod immolámus, inténde: ut propugnatóres tuos ab omni éruas paganórum nequítia, et in tuae protectiónis securitáte constítuas. Per Dóminum.

Communion: In salutári tuo as on the twenty-first Sunday after Pentecost, p. 1157.

Postcommunion. — Look upon us, O Lord our protector, and defend Thy champions from peril of the heathen, so that all disturbance may be ended, and they may serve Thee with free minds. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Protector noster áspice Deus: et propugnatóres tuos a paganórum defénde perículis; ut, omni perturbatióne submóta, líberis tibi méntibus desérviant. Per Dóminum.

Mass for the Removal of Schism.

Introitus.—Salvos nos fac, Dómine Deus noster: et cóngrega nos de natiónibus: ut confiteámur nómini sancto tuo: et gloriémur in laude tua. Ps. Confitémini Dómino, quóniam bonus: quóniam in saeculum misericórdia ejus. ℣. Glória.

Introit. Ps. cv.—Save us, O Lord our God: and gather us from among the nations: that we may give thanks unto Thy holy name: and may glory in Thy praise. Ps. Give glory to the Lord, for He is good: for His mercy endureth for ever. ℣. Glory.

Orémus.—Deus, qui erráta córrigis, et dispérsa cóngregas, et congregáta consérvas: quaesumus, super pópulum christiánum tuae uniónis grátiam cleménter infúnde; ut, divisióne rejécta, vero pastóri Ecclésiae tuae se úniens, tibi digne váleat famulári. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who dost correct what has gone astray and gatherest together what is scattered, keepest what Thou hast gathered together. We beseech Thee in Thy mercy to pour down upon Christian people the grace of Thy union; that rejecting disunion and attaching themselves to the true shepherd of Thy church they may be able to render Thee due service. Through our Lord.

Epistola. Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Ephésios.—FRATRES, Obsecro vos, ut digne ambulétis vocatióne qua vocáti estis, cum omni humilitáte, et mansuetúdine, cum patiéntia, supportántes ínvicem in charitáte, sollíciti serváre unitátem spíritus in vínculo pacis. Unum corpus, et unus spíritus, sicut vocáti estis in una spe vocatiónis vestrae. Unus Dóminus, una fides, unum baptísma. Unus Deus et Pater ómnium, qui est super omnes, et per ómnia, et in ómnibus nobis. Unicuíque autem nostrum data est grátia secúndum mensúram donatiónis Christi: donec occurrámus omnes in unitátem fídei, et agnitiónis Fílii Dei, in virum perféctum, in

Epistle. Lesson from the Epistle of St. Paul the Apostle to the Ephesians iv.—BRETHREN: I beseech you that you walk worthy of the vocation in which you are called: with all humility and mildness, with patience, supporting one another in charity. Careful to keep the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace. One body and one spirit, as you are called in one hope of your calling. One Lord, one faith, one baptism. One God and Father of all, Who is above all, and through all, and in us all. But to everyone of us is given grace, according to the measure of the giving of Christ: until we all meet into the unity of faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the age of the fullness of Christ: that henceforth we be no more children, tossed to and fro and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the wickedness of men, by cunning craftiness by which they lie in wait to deceive. But that doing the truth in charity, we may in all things grow up in Him Who is the head, even Christ: from Whom the whole body being compacted, and fitly joined together, by what every joint supplieth, according to the operation in the measure of every part, maketh increase of the body unto the edifying of itself in charity. This then I say and testify in the Lord, that henceforward you walk not, as also the Gentiles walk, in the vanity of their mind: having their understanding darkened, being alienated from the life of God through the ignorance that is in them, because of the blindness of their hearts. Who, despairing, have given themselves up to lasciviousness, unto the working of all uncleanness, unto covetousness. But you have not so learned Christ: if so be that you have heard Him, and have been taught in Him, as the truth is in Christ Jesus our Lord.

mensúram aetátis plenitúdinis Christi: ut jam non simus párvuli fluctuántes, et circumferámur omni vento doctrínae in nequítia hóminum, in astútia ad circumventiónem erróris. Veritátem autem faciéntes in charitáte, crescámus in illo per ómnia, qui est caput Christus: ex quo totum corpus compáctum, et connéxum per omnem junctúram subministratiónis, secúndum operatiónem in mensúram uniuscujúsque membri, augméntum córporis facit in aedificatiónem sui in charitáte. Hoc ígitur dico, et testíficor in Dómino, ut jam non ambulétis, sicut et gentes ámbulant in vanitáte sensus sui, ténebris obscurátum habéntes intelléctum, alienáti a vita Dei per ignorántiam, quae est in illis, propter caecitátem cordis ipsórum qui desperántes, semetípsos tradidérunt impudicítiae, in operatiónem immundítiae omnis, in avarítiam. Vos autem non ita didicístis Christum, si tamen illum audístis, et in ipso edócti estis, sicut est véritas in Christo Jesu Dómino nostro.

Gradual. Ps. cxxi.—Pray ye for the things that are for the peace of Jerusalem: and abundance for them that love thee. Let peace be in thy strength: and abundance in thy towers.

Graduále.—Rogate quae ad pacem sunt Jerúsalem: et abundántia diligéntibus te. ℣. Fiat pax in virtúte tua: et abundántia in túrribus tuis.

Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. Ps. cxlvii.—Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem: praise thy God, O Sion. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Lauda, Jerúsalem, Dóminum: lauda Deum tuum, Sion. Allelúia.

After Septuagesima, instead of the Alleluia and its Verse, the following Tract is said:

Tractus.—Notus in Judaea Deus, in Israël magnum nomen ejus. ℣. Et factus est in pace locus ejus, et habitátio ejus in Sion. ℣. Ibi confrégit poténtias árcuum, scutum, gládium et bellum.

Tract. Ps. lxxv.—In Judea God is known: His name is great in Israel. ℣. And His place is in peace: and His abode in Sion. ℣. There hath He broken the powers of bows, the shield, the sword and the battle.

In Paschal Time the Gradual is omitted, and in its place the following is said:

Allelúia, allelúia.— ℣. Lauda, Jerúsalem, Dóminum: lauda Deum tuum, Sion. Allelúia. ℣. Qui pósuit fines tuos pacem: et ádipe fruménti sátiat te. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia.— ℣. Ps. cxlvii. Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem: praise thy God, O Sion. Alleluia. ℣. Who hath placed peace in thy borders: and filleth thee with the fat of corn. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Sublevátis Jesus óculis in coelum dixit: Pater sancte, serva eos in nómine tuo, quos dedísti mihi: ut sint unum, sicut et nos. Cum essem cum eis, ego servábam eos in nómine tuo. Quos dedísti mihi custodívi; et nemo ex eis périit nisi fílius perditiónis, ut Scriptúra impleátur. Nunc autem ad te vénio: et haec loquor in mundo, ut hábeant gáudium meum implétum in semetípsis. Ego dedi eis sermónem tuum, et mundus eos ódio hábuit, quia non sunt de mundo, sicut et ego non sum de mundo. Non rogo ut tollas eos de mundo, sed ut serves eos a malo. De mundo non sunt, sicut et ego non sum de mundo. Sanctífica eos in veritáte. Sermo tuus véritas est. Sicut tu me misísti in mundum, et ego misi eos in mun-

✠ Continuation of the Holy Gospel according to St. John, xvii.—At that time: Jesus lifting up His eyes to heaven, said: Holy Father, keep them in Thy name whom Thou hast given me; that they may be one, as we also are. While I was with them, I kept them in Thy name. Those whom Thou gavest me have I kept; and none of them is lost, but the son of perdition, that the Scripture may be fulfilled. And now I come to Thee; and these things I speak in the world, that they may have My joy filled in themselves. I have given them Thy word, and the world hath hated them, because they are not of the world, as I also am not of the world. I pray not that Thou shouldst take them out of the world, but that Thou shouldst keep them from evil. They are not of the world, as I also am not of the world. Sanctify them in truth. Thy word is truth. As Thou hast sent me into the world, I also have sent them into the world. And for them do I sanctify Myself, that they also may be sanctified in truth. And not for them only do I pray, but for them also who through their word shall believe in Me; that they all may be one, as Thou, Father, in Me, and I in Thee; that they also may be one in us; that the world may believe that Thou hast sent Me. And the glory which Thou hast given Me, I have given to them; that they may be one, as we also are one: I in them, and Thou in Me; that they may be made perfect in one.

dum. Et pro eis ego sanctífico meípsum, ut sint et ipsi sanctificáti in veritáte. Non pro eis autem rogo tantum, sed et pro eis, qui creditúri sunt per verbum eórum in me: ut omnes unum sint, sicut tu, Pater, in me, et ego in te, ut et ipsi in nobis unum sint: ut credat mundus, quia tu me misísti. Et ego claritátem, quam dedísti mihi, dedi eis: ut sint unum, sicut et nos unum sumus. Ego in eis, et tu in me: ut sint consummáti in unum.

Offertory. Rom. xv. — God grant you to be of one mind one towards another: that with one mind and one mouth you may honour our God.

Offertórium.—Det vobis Deus idípsum sápere in altérutrum: ut unánimes uno ore honorificétis Deum nostrum.

Secret.—Sanctify, O Lord, for the union of Christian people these gifts offered to Thee; and by their means grant us the grace of union and peace within Thy church. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Múnera haec pro unióne pópuli christiani tibi, Dómine, obláta sanctífica: per quae unitátis et pacís in Ecclésia tua nobis dona concédas. Per Dóminum.

Communion. I Cor. x.—We being many are one bread, and one body, all that partake of one bread, and of one chalice.

Commúnio.—Unus panis, et unum corpus multi sumus, omnes qui de uno pane et de uno cálice participámus.

Postcommunion.—We beseech Thee, O Lord, that this Thy holy Communion which we have received, as it represents the union of the faithful in Thee, so may it bring about reunion in Thy church. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio.—Haec tua, Dómine, sumpta sacra commúnio, sicut fidélium in te uniónem praesígnat; sic in tua Ecclésia unitátis, quaesumus, operétur efféctum. Per Dóminum.

Mass in Time of War.

Introit : Reminiscere as on the second Sunday in Lent, p. 567.

Orémus. — Deus, qui cónteris bella, et impugnatóres in te sperántium poténtia tuae defensiónis expúgnas : auxiliáre fámulis tuis, implorántibus misericórdiam tuam ; ut inimicórum suórum feritáte depréssa, incessábili te gratiárum actióne laudémus. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who bringest wars to nought and shieldest by Thy power all who hope in Thee, overthrowing those that assail them ; help Thy servants who implore Thy mercy ; so that the fierce might of their enemies may be brought low and we may never cease to praise and thank Thee. Through our Lord.

Epistola. Léctio Jeremíae Prophétae.—In diébus illis : Accessérunt omnes príncipes bellatórum, dixerúntque ad Jeremíam prophétam : Ora pro nobis ad Dóminum Deum tuum. Et factum est verbum Dómini ad Jeremíam. Vocavítque omnes príncipes bellatórum, et univérsum pópulum a mínimo usque ad magnum. Et dixit ad eos : Haec dicit Dóminus Deus Israel, ad quem misístis me, ut prostérnerem preces vestras in conspéctu ejus : Si quiescéntes manséritis in terra hac, aedificábo vos, et non déstruam : plantábo, et non evéllam : jam enim placátus sum super malo, quod feci vobis. Nolíte timére a fácie regis Babylónis, quem vos pávidi formidátis : nolíte metúere eum, dicit Dóminus : quia vobíscum sum ego, ut salvos vos fáciam, et éruam de manu ejus. Et dabo vobis misericórdias, et miserébor vestri, et habitáre vos fáciam in terra vestra : dicit Dóminus omnípotens.

Epistle. — Lesson from the Prophet Jeremias xlii. — In those days : All the captains of the warriors came near : and they said to Jeremias the prophet : Pray thou for us to the Lord thy God. And the word of the Lord came to Jeremias. And he called all the captains of the fighting men, and all the people from the least to the greatest. And he said to them : Thus saith the Lord the God of Israel, to Whom you sent me, to present your supplications before him : If you will be quiet and remain in this land, I will build you up, and not pull you down : I will plant you, and not pluck you up : for now I am appeased for the evil that I have done to you. Fear not because of the king of Babylon, of whom you are greatly afraid : fear him not, saith the Lord : for I am with you, to save you, and to deliver you from his hand. And I will show mercies to you, and will take pity on you, and will cause you to dwell in your own land, saith the Lord almighty.

Gradual. Ps. lxxvi.—Thou art the God that alone dost wonders: Thou hast made Thy power known among the nations. ℣. With Thy arm Thou hast redeemed Thy people, the children of Israel and of Joseph.

Graduale.—Tu es, Deus, qui facis mirabília, solus: notam fecísti in géntibus virtútem tuam. ℣. Liberásti in bráchio tuo pópulum tuum, fílios Israël et Joseph.

Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. Ps. lviii. —Deliver me from my enemies, O my God: and defend me from them that rise up against me. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Eripe me de inimícis meis, Deus meus: et ab insurgéntibus in me libera me. Allelúia.

After Septuagesima, instead of the Alleluia and its Verse, the Tract: Dómine, non secundum is said, as on Ash Wednesday, p. 519.

In Paschal Time the Gradual is omitted, and in its place the following is said:

Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. Ps. lviii. —Deliver me from my enemies, O my God: and defend me from them that rise up against me. Alleluia. ℣. But I will sing Thy strength: and will extol Thy mercy in the morning. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Ps. lviii. Eripe me de inimícis meis, Deus meus: et ab insurgéntibus in me líbera me. Allelúia. ℣. Ego autem cantábo fortitúdinem tuam: et exsultábo mane misericórdiam tuam. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the Holy Gospel according to St. Matthew, xxiv.—At that time: The disciples came to Jesus privately, saying: Tell us, when shall these things be? and what shall be the sign of Thy coming and of the consummation of the world? And Jesus answering, said to them: Take heed that no man seduce you. For many will come in My name saying: I am Christ: And they will seduce many. And you shall hear of wars and rumours of wars. See that ye be not troubled. For these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet. For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom; and there shall be pestilences, and famines, and earthquakes in places. Now all these are the beginnings of sorrows.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangelii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Accessérunt ad Jesum discípuli secréto, dicéntes: Dic nobis, quando haec erunt? et quod signum advéntus tui, et consummatiónis saeculi? Et respóndens Jesus, dixit eis: Vidéte ne quis vos sedúcat. Multi enim vénient in nómine meo, dicéntes: Ego sum Christus: et multos sedúcent. Auditúri enim estis praelia, et opiniónes praeliórum. Vidéte ne turbémini. Opórtet enim haec fíeri, sed nondum est finis. Consúrget enim gens in gentem et regnum in regnum, et erunt pestiléntiae, et fames, et terraemótus per loca. Haec autem ómnia inítia sunt dolórum.

Offertory: Pópulum húmilem—as on the eighth Sunday after Pentecost, p. 1084.

Secréta. -- Sacrifícium, Dómine, quod immolámus, inténde placátus: ut ab omni nos éruat bellórum nequítia, et in tuae protectiónis securitáte constítuat. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Be appeased, O Lord, and look upon the sacrifice which we offer up: that it may deliver us from all the evil of war, and establish us under Thy sure protection. Through our Lord.

Commúnio.—Inclína aurem tuam, accélera, ut erípias nos.

Communion. Ps. xxx.—Bow down Thine ear, make haste to deliver me.

Postcommúnio. — Deus regnórum ómnium, regúmque dominátor, qui nos et percutiéndo sanas, et ignoscéndo consérvas: praeténde nobis misericórdiam tuam: ut tranquillitáte pacis, tua potestáte serváta, ad remédia correctiónis utámur. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—O God, Who hast dominion over all realms and kings, Who by striking healest, and by pardoning savest; stretch out over us Thy mercy, so that by Thy power we may enjoy peace and tranquility and use them for our healing and amendment. Through our Lord.

Mass for Peace.

Introit: Da pacem—as on the eighteenth Sunday after Pentecost p. 1141.

Orémus.—Deus, a quo sancta desidéria, recta consília, et justa sunt ópera: da servis tuis illam, quam mundus dare non potest, pacem; ut et corda nostra mandátis tuis dédita, et hóstium subláta formídine, témpora sint tua protectióne tranquílla. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, for Whom are holy desires, right counsels, and just works; give to Thy servants that peace which the world cannot give; that our hearts may be disposed to obey Thy commandments, and the fear of enemies being removed, our times, by Thy protection, may be peaceful. Through our Lord.

Epistola. Léctio libri Machabaeórum.—FRATRIBUS qui sunt per Aegyptum, Judaeis, salútem dicunt fratres qui sunt in Jerosólymis, Judaei, et qui in Epistle. Lesson from the Book of Machabees, II., i.—To the brethren the Jews that are throughout Egypt, the brethren the Jews that are in Jerusalem, and in the land of Judea, send health, and good peace. May God be gracious to you, and remember His covenant that He made with Abraham and Isaac and Jacob, his faithful servants; and give you all a heart to worship Him, and to do His will with a great heart and a willing mind. May he open your heart in His law, and in His commandments, and send you peace. May the Lord our God hear your prayers and be reconciled unto you and never forsake you in the evil time.

regióne Judaeae, et pacem bonam. Benefáciat vobis Deus, et memínerit testaménti sui quod locútus est ad Abraham, et Isaac, et Jacob servórum suórum fidélium: et det vobis cor ómnibus, ut colátis cum, et faciátis ejus voluntátem corde magno, et ánimo voléntí. Adapériat cor vestrum in lege sua, et in praecéptis suis, et fáciat pacem. Exáudiat oratiónes vestras, et reconciliétur vobis, nec vos déserat in témpore malo, Dóminus Deus noster.

Gradual, Tract, and Alleluia, for Paschal Time, from the Mass for the Removal of Schism, p. 1834.

✠ Continuation of the Holy Gospel according to St. John xx.—At that time: When it was late that same day, the first of the week, and the doors were shut, where the disciples were gathered together, for fear of the Jews, Jesus came, and stood in the midst, and said to them: Peace be to you. And when He had said this, He shewed them His hands and His side. The disciples therefore were glad, when they saw the Lord. He said therefore to them again: Peace be to you: As the Father hath sent Me, I also send you. When He had said this, He breathed on them; and He said to them: Receive ye the Holy Ghost: whose sins you shall forgive, they are forgiven them; and whose sins you shall retain, they are retained.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangelii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Cum sero esset dic illo, una sabbatórum, et fores essent clausae, ubi erant discípuli congregáti propter metum Judaeórum, venit Jesus, et stetit in médio, et dixit eis: Pax vobis. Et cum hoc dixísset, osténdit eis manus et latus. Gavísi sunt ergo discípuli, viso Dómino. Dixit ergo eis itérum: Pax vobis. Sicut misit me Pater, et ego mitto vos. Haec cum dixísset, insufflávit, et dixit eis: Accípite Spíritum sanctum: quorum remiséritis peccáta, remittúntur eis: et quorum retinuéritis, reténta sunt.

Offertory: Laudáte Dóminum as on the fourth Sunday in Lent, p. 639.

Secréta. — Deus, qui credéntes in te pópulos nullis sinis cóncuti terróribus: dignáre preces et hóstias dicátae tibi plebis suscípere: ut pax a tua pietáte concéssa, christianórum fines ab omni hoste fáciat esse secúros. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—O God, Who sufferest not the nations who believe in Thee to be overwhelmed by any peril; vouchsafe to receive the prayers and offerings of Thy servants, that, in Thy mercy Thou wouldst grant peace to Christendom and make them secure against all their enemies. Through our Lord.

Communio.—Pacem relinquo vobis: pacem mean do vobis, decit Dóminus.

Communion. John xiv.—Peace I leave with you: My peace I give unto you, saith the Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Deus auctor pacis et amátor, quem nosce, vívere, cui servíre, regnáre est: prótege ab ómnibus impugnatiónibus súpplices tuos: ut qui in defensióne tua confídimus, nullíus hostilitátis arma timeámus. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—O God, the author and lover of peace, to know Whom is to live, to serve Whom is to reign; shield Thy suppliants from all assaults, so that we who trust in Thy protection may fear no foe. Through our Lord.

Mass for Deliverance from Mortality in Time of Pestilence.

Intróitus.—Recordáre, Dómine, testaménti tui, et dic Angelo percutiénti: Cesset jam manus tua, et non desolétur terra, et ne perdas omnem ánimam viventem. Ps. lxxix. Qui regis Israël, inténde: qui dedúcis, velut ovem, Joseph. ℣. Glória.

Introit. 2 Kings xxiv.—Be mindful, O Lord, of Thy covenant, and say to the destroying angel: Now hold thy hand, and let not the land be made desolate, and destroy not every living soul. Ps. lxxix. Give ear, O Thou that rulest Israel: Thou that leadest Joseph like a sheep. ℣. Glory.

Orémus.—Deus, qui non mortem, sed poeniténtiam desíderas peccatórum: pópulum tuum ad te reverténtem propítius réspice; ut, dum tibi devótus exsistit, iracúndiae tuae flagélla ab eo cleménter amóveas. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who desirest not the death but the repentance of sinners, mercifully look upon Thy people who return to Thee; and grant that they, being devoted to Thee, may by Thy mercy be delivered from the scourges of Thine anger. Through our Lord.

Epistle. Lesson from the Book of II. Kings, xxiv.—In those days: The Lord sent a pestilence upon Israel, from the morning unto the time appointed, and there died of the people from Dan to Bersabee seventy thousand men. And when the Angel of the Lord had stretched out his hand over Jerusalem to destroy it, the Lord had pity on the affliction, and said to the Angel that slew the people: It is enough: now hold thy hand, and the Angel of the Lord was by the thrashing-floor of Areuna the Jebusite. And David said to the Lord, when he saw the Angel striking the people: It is I, I am he that have sinned, I have done wickedly: these that are the sheep, what have they done? let Thy hand, I beseech Thee, be turned against me, and against my father's house. And Gad came to David that day, and said: Go up, and build an altar to the Lord in the thrashing-floor of Aeruna the Jebusite. And David went up according to the word of Gad which the Lord had commanded him: And he built there an altar to the Lord, and offered holocausts and peace-offerings: and the Lord became merciful to the land, and the plague was stayed from Israel.

Epistola. Léctio libri Regum.—In diébus illis; Immísit Dóminus pestiléntiam in Israël, de mane usque ad tempus constitútum, et mórtui sunt ex pópulo, a Dan usque ad Bersabée, septuagínta míllia virórum. Cumque extendísset manum suam Angelus Dómini super Jerúsalem, ut dispérderet eam, misértus est Dóminus super afflictióne, et ait Angelo percutiénti pópulum: Súfficit: nunc cóntine manum tuam. Erat autem Angelus Dómini juxta áream Areúna Jebusaei. Dixítque David ad Dóminum, cum vidísset Angelum caedéntem pópulum: Ego sum qui peccávi, ego iníque egi: isti, qui oves sunt, quid fecérunt? vertátur, óbsecro, manus tua contra me, et contra domum patris mei. Venit autem Gad Prophéta ad David in die illa, et dixit ei: Ascénde, et constítue altáre Dómino in área Areúna Jebusaei. Et ascéndit David juxta sermónem Gad, quem praecéperat ei Dóminus: et aedificávit altáre Dómino, et óbtulit holocáusta et pacífica: et propitiátus est Dóminus terrae, et cohíbita est plaga ab Israël.

Gradual. Ps. cvi.—The Lord sent His word, and healed them: and delivered them from their death. ℣. Let the mercies of the Lord give glory to him: and His wonderful works to the children of men. Alleluia, alleluia. ℣.

Graduale.—Misit Dóminus verbum suum, et sanávit eos: et erípuit eos de morte eórum. ℣. Confiteántur Dómino misericórdiae ejus, et mirabília ejus fíliis hóminum. Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Ps. lxviii Salvum me fac, Deus, quóniam intravérunt aquae usque ad ánimam meam. Allelúia.

Ps. lxviii. Save me, O God, for the waters are come in even unto my soul. Alleluia.

After Septuagesima, instead of the Alleluia and its Verse, the Tract: Dómine, non secúndum, is said, as on Ash Wednesday, p. 519. In Paschal Time the Gradual is omitted, and in its place the following is said:

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Salvum me fac, Deus, quóniam intravérunt aquae usque ad ánimam meam.

Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. Ps. lxviii.—Save me, O God, for the waters are come in even unto my soul.

Allelúia.—℣. Salvábo pópulum meum Israël in die malo, et ero eis in Deum, in veritáte et justítia. Allelúia.

Alleluia. ℣. Zach. viii.—I will save my people Israel in the evil day: and I will be their God in truth and in justice. Alleluia.

Gospel: Surgens Jesus, as on Thursday of the third week of Lent, p. 619.

Offertorium. — Stetit póntifex inter mórtuos et vivos, habens thuríbulum áureum in manu sua: et ófferens incénsi sacrifícium, placávit iram Dei, et cessávit quassátio a Dómino.

Offertory. Num. xvi.—The high priest stood between the dead and the living, having a golden censer in his hand: and offering the sacrifice of incense, he appeased the wrath of God, and the affliction from the Lord ceased.

Secréta. — Subvéniat nobis, quaesumus, Dómine, sacrifícii praeséntis oblátio: quae nos et ab erróribus univérsis poténter absólvat, et a totíus erípiat perditiónis incúrsu. Per Dóminum.

Secret. — Let the sacrifice which we now offer up succour us, O Lord; may it wholly release us from sin and deliver us from ruin and destruction. Through our Lord.

Commúnio.—Multitudo languéntium, et qui vexabántur a spirítibus immúndis, veniébant ad eum: quia virtus de illo exíbat, et sanábat omnes.

Communion. Luke vi.—A multitude of sick and they that were troubled with unclean spirits, came to Him: for virtue went out from Him, and healed all.

Postcommúnio.—Exaúdi nos, Deus salutáris noster: et pópulum tuum ab iracúndiae Postcommunion.—Hear us, O God of our salvation, and deliver Thy people from the terrors of divine anger, and make them secure by the bountifulness of Thy mercy. Through our Lord.

tuae terróribus líberum, et misericórdiae tuae fac largitáte secúrum. Per Dóminum.

Mass for obtaining the Grace of the Holy Ghost.

The Mass of the Holy Ghost is said as on p. 1812, with the following prayers:

Collect.—Almighty God, unto Whom all hearts be open, all desires known, and from Whom no secrets are hid: cleanse the thoughts of our hearts by the inpouring of Thy Holy Spirit, that we may perfectly love Thee, and worthily praise Thee. Through . . . in the unity of the same. Amen.

Orémus.—Deus, cui omne cor patet, et omnis volúntas lóquitur, et quem nullum latet secrétum: purífica per infusiónem Sancti Spiritus cogitatiónes cordis nostri; ut te perfécte dilígere, et digne laudáre mereámur. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem.

Secret.—May this oblation, we beseech Thee, O Lord, cleanse away the stains of our hearts: that they may become a meet dwelling place for the Holy Ghost. Through . . . in the unity of the same.

Secréta.—Haec oblátio, quaesumus Domine, cordis nostri máculas emúndet: ut Sancti Spíritus digna efficiáter habitátio. Per Dominum . . . in unitáte ejusdem.

Postcommunion.—Grant, we beseech Thee, Almighty God, that by our assiduous prayers, we may become worthy to have with us the Holy Ghost; that by His grace we may both be delivered from all temptations and obtain the pardon of our sins. Through . . . in the unity of the same.

Postcommúnio. — Concéde quaesumus omnípotens Deus sanctum nos Spíritum votis proméréri sédulis: quátenus ejus gratia et ab ómnibus liberémur tentatiónibus et peccatórem nostrórum indulgéntiam percípere mereámur. Per Dóminum . . . in unitate ejusdem.

Mass for the Forgiveness of Sins.

Introit: Miseréris ómnium, as on Ash Wednesday, p. 517.

Collect.—Hear, we beseech Thee, the prayers of the suppliant and pardon the sins of them

Orémus.—Exáudi, quaesumus, Dómine, súpplicum preces, et confiténtium tibi parce pec-cátis: ut páriter nobis indulgéntiam tribuas benígnus, et pacem. Per Dóminum.

that confess to Thee that in Thy mercy Thou mayst give us pardon and peace.

Epistola. Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Romános.—FRATRES, Condeléctor legi Dei secúndum interiórem hóminem: vídeo autem áliam legem in membris meis, repugnántem legi mentis meae, et captivántem me in lege peccáti, quae est in membris meis. Infélix ego homo, quis me liberábit de córpore mortis hujus? Grátia Dei per Jesum Christum Dóminum nostrum.

Epistle. Lesson from the Epistle of St. Paul the Apostle to the Romans vii.—BRETHREN: I am delighted with the law of God, according to the inward man: but I see another law in my members, fighting against the law of my mind, and captivating me in the law of sin that is in my members. Unhappy man that I am, who shall deliver me from the body of this death? The grace of God, by Jesus Christ our Lord.

Graduále.—Propritius esto, Dómine, peccátis nostris, ne quándo dicant gentes: Ubi est Deus eórum? ℣. Adjuva nos, Deus salutáris noster: et propter honórem nóminis tui, Dómine, libera nos.

Gradual. Ps. lxxviii.—Forgive us our sins, O Lord, lest at any time the gentiles should say: Where is their God? ℣. Help us, O God our Saviour, and for the honour of Thy name, O Lord deliver us.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Deus judex justus, fortis et pátiens: numquid irascétur per síngulos dies? Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. Ps. vii. —God is a just judge, strong and patient; will He be angry every day? Alleluia.

After Septuagesima, instead of the Alleluia and its Verse, the Tract: De profundis is said, as on Septuagesima Sunday, p. 489.

In Paschal Time the Gradual is omitted, and in its place the following is said:

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Deus judex justus, fortis et pátiens: numquid irascétur per síngulos dies?

Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. Ps. vii.—God is a just judge, strong and patient: will He be angry every day?

Allelúia.—℣. Audítui meo dabis gáudium et laetítiam: et exsultábunt ossa humiliáta. Allelúia.

Alleluia. ℣. Ps. l.—To my hearing thou shalt give joy and gladness: and the bones that have been humbled shall rejoice. Alleluia.

✠ Continuation of the Holy Gospel according to St. Luke xi. — At that time: Jesus said to His disciples: Ask, and it shall be given you: seek, and you shall find: knock, and it shall be opened to you. For every one that asketh, receiveth; and he that seeketh, findeth; and to him that knocketh, it shall be opened. And which of you if he ask his father bread, will he give him a stone? or a fish, will he for a fish give him a serpent? Or if he shall ask an egg, will he reach him a scorpion? If you then, being evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will your Father from heaven give the good spirit to them that ask Him?

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.— In illo tempore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Pétite, et dábitur vobis: quaerite, et inveniétis: pulsáte, et aperiétur vobis. Omnis enim, qui petit, áccipit: et qui quaerit, ínvenit: et pulsánti aperiétur. Quis autem ex vobis patrem petit panem? numquid lápidem dabit illi? Aut piscem: numquid pro pisce serpéntem dabit illi? Aut si petíerit ovum: numquid pórriget illi scorpiónem? Si ergo vos, cum sitis mali, nostis bona data dare fíliis vestris: quanto magis Pater vester de coelo dabit spíritum bonum peténtibus se?

Offertory. Ps. ci.—O Lord, hear my prayer: and let my cry come to Thee.

Offertórium. — Dómine, exaudi oratiónem meam: et clamor meus ad te pervéniat.

Secret.—We offer up to Thee, O Lord, a sacrifice of atonement and praise: that Thou mayst both mercifully pardon our sins and direct our feeble hearts. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Hostias tibi, Dómine, placatiónis et laudis offérimus; ut et delícta nostra miserátus absólvas, et nutántia corda tu dírigas. Per Dóminum.

Communion. Luke xi.—Ask and it shall be given you; seek and you shall find; knock and it shall be opened to you. For every one that asketh, receiveth; and he that seeketh, findeth; and to him that knocketh, it shall be opened.

Commúnio.—Pétite, et accipiétis: quaerite, et inveniétis: pulsáte, et aperiétur vobis. Omnis enim, qui petit, áccipit: et qui quaerit, ínvenit, et pulsánti aperiétur.

Postcommunion. — Grant us, O Eternal Saviour, that we who by means of this gift, receive

Postcommúnio.—Praesta nobis, aetérne Salvátor: ut, percipiéntes hoc múnere véniam peccatórum, deínceps peccáta vitémus. Per Dóminum.

forgiveness of sins may henceforth avoid all sins. Through our Lord.

Mass for Pilgrims and Travellers.

Introit: Rédime me—as on Monday of the second week of Lent, p. 571.

Orémus.—Adésto, Dómine, supplicatiónibus nostris; et viam famulórum tuórum in salútis tuae prosperitáte dispóne; ut inter omnes viae et vitae hujus varietátes, tuo semper protegántur auxílio. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Hear, O Lord, our humble prayers, and set Thy servants in the path of Thy salvation; that amidst all the changes and chances of this life, they may ever be sheltered by Thy help. Through our Lord.

Epistola. Léctio libri Génesis.—In diébus illis: Egréssus Jacob de Bersabée, pergébat Haran. Cumque venísset ad quemdam locum, et vellet in eo requiéscere post solis occúbitum, tulit de lapídibus qui jacébant, et suppónens cápiti suo, dormívit in eódem loco. Vidítque in somnis Dóminum dicéntem sibi: Ego sum Dóminus Deus Abráham patris tui, et Deus Isaac: terram, in qua dormis, tibi dabo et sémini tuo. Erítque semen tuum quasi pulvis terrae: dilatáberis ad Occidéntem, et Oriéntem, et Septentriónem, et Merídiem; et benedicéntur in te, et in sémine tuo cunctae tribus terrae. Et ero custos tuus quocúmque perréxeris, et redúcam te in terram hanc: nec dimíttam, nisi complévero univérsa quae dixi. Surgens ergo Jacob mane, tulit lápidem, quem supposúerat cápiti suo, et eréxit in títulum, Epistle. Lesson from the Book of Genesis, xxviii.—In those days: Jacob, being departed from Bersabee, went on to Haran. And when he was come to a certain place, and would rest in it after sunset, he took of the stones that lay there, and putting under his head, slept in the same place. And he saw in his sleep the Lord, saying to him: I am the Lord God of Abraham thy father, and the God of Isaac; the land whereon thou sleepest, to thee will I give it, and to thy seed. And thy seed shall be as the dust of the earth: thou shalt spread abroad to the west, and to the east, and to the north, and to the south: and in thee and thy seed all the tribes of the earth shall be blessed. And I will be thy keeper whithersoever thou goest, and will bring thee back into this land: neither will I leave thee, till I shall have accomplished all that I have said. And Jacob, arising in the morning, took the stone which he had laid under his head, and set it up for a title, pouring oil upon the top of it. And he vowed a vow, saying: If God shall be with me, and shall keep me in the way, by which I walk, and shall give me bread to eat, and raiment to put on; and I return prosperously to my father's house: the Lord shall be my God: and this stone, which I have set up for a title, shall be called the house of God; and of all things that thou shalt give me, I will offer tithes to thee.

fundens óleum désuper. Vovit étiam votum, dicens: Si fúerit Deus mecum, et custodíerit me in via, per quam ego ámbulo, et déderit mihi panem ad vescéndum, et vestiméntum ad induéndum, reversúsque fúero próspere ad domum patris mei: erit mihi Dóminus in Deum, et lapis iste, quem eréxi in títulum, vocábitur domus Dei: cunctorúmque, quae déderis mihi, décimas ófferam tibi.

Gradual. Ps. xxii.—If I should walk in the midst of the shadow of death, I will fear no evils: for Thou art with me, O Lord. ℣. Thy rod and Thy staff: they have comforted me.

Graduále.—Si ámbulem in médio umbrae mortis, non timébo mala: quóniam tu mecum es, Dómine. ℣. Virga tua et báculus tuus: ipsa me consoláta sunt.

Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. Ps. cxviii.—Direct my steps according to Thy word: and let no iniquity have dominion over me. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Gressus meos dírige secúndum elóquium tuum: ut non dominétur mei omnis injustítia. Allelúia.

After Septuagesima, instead of the Alleluia and its Verse, the following Tract is said:

Tract. Ps. xc.—God hath given His angels charge over thee: to keep thee in all thy ways. ℣. In their hands they shall bear thee up: lest thou dash thy foot against a stone. ℣. Thou shalt walk upon the asp and the basilisk: and thou shalt trample under foot the lion and the dragon.

Tractus.—Angelis suis Deus mandávit de te: ut custódiant te in ómnibus viis tuis. ℣. In mánibus portábunt te: ne umquam offéndas ad lápidem, pedem tuum. ℣. Super áspidem et basilíscum ambulábis: et conculcábis leónem et dracónem.

In Paschal Time the Gradual is omitted, and in its place the following is said:

Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. Ps. cxviii.—Direct my steps according to Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Ps. cxviii.—Gressus meos dírige secúndum elóquium tuum: ut non dominétur mei omnis injustítia.

Allelúia.— ℣. Laetátus sum in his quae dicta sunt mihi: In domum Dómini íbimus. Allelúia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Eúntes praedicáte, dicéntes: Quia approprinquávit regnum coelórum. Infírmos curáte, mórtuos suscitáte, leprósos mundáte, daemones ejícite: gratis accepístis, gratis date. Nolíte possidére aurum, neque argéntum, neque pecúniam in zonis vestris: non peram in via, neque duas túnicas, neque calceaménta, neque virgam: dignus enim est operárius cibo suo. In quamcúmque autem civitátem aut castéllum intravéritis, interrogáte, quis in ea dignus sit: et ibi manéte donec exeátis. Intrántes autem in domum, salutáte eam, dicéntes: Pax huic dómui. Et si qúidem fúerit domus illa digna, véniet pax vestra super eam: si autem non fúerit digna, pax vestra revertétur ad vos. Et quicúmque non recéperit vos, neque audíerit sermónes vestres: exeúntes foras de domo, vel civitáte, excútite púlverem de pédibus vestris.

Offertórium.—Pérfice gressus meos in sémitis tuis, ut non moveántur vestígia mea: inclína aurem tuam mihi, et exáudi verba mea: mirífica misericórdias tuas, qui salvos facis sperántes in te Dómine.

Thy word, and let no iniquity have dominion over me.

Alleluia. ℣. Ps. cxxi.—I rejoiced at the things that were said to me: We shall go into the house of the Lord. Alleluia.

✠ Continuation of the Holy Gospel according to St. Matthew x.—At that time: Jesus said to His disciples: Going preach, saying: The kingdom of heaven is at hand. Heal the sick, raise the dead, cleanse the lepers, cast out devils: freely have you received, freely give. Do not possess gold, nor silver, nor money in your purses: nor scrip for your journey, nor two coats, nor shoes, nor a staff; for the workman is worthy of his meat. And into whatsoever city or town you shall enter, inquire who in it is worthy, and there abide till you go thence. And when you come into the house, salute it, saying: Peace be to this house. And if that house be worthy, your peace shall come upon it; but if it be not worthy, your peace shall return to you. And whosoever shall not receive you, nor hear your words: going forth out of that house or city shake off the dust from your feet.

Offertory. Ps. xvi.—Perfect Thou my goings in Thy paths, that my footsteps be not moved: O incline Thy ear unto me, and hear my words: show forth Thy wonderful mercies, Thou Who savest them that trust in Thee, O Lord.

Secret.—Be appeased, O Lord, by our humble prayers and in Thy bounty receive these offerings which we make to Thee on behalf of Thy servants; send Thy grace before them to guide their steps, and sending it with them be pleased to accompany them on their way; that by the protection of Thy mercy, we may rejoice both in their progress and in their safety. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Propitiáre, Dómine, supplicatiónibus nostris: et has oblatiónes, quas tibi offérimus pro fámulis tuis, benígnus assúme; ut viam illórum et praecedénte grátia tua dírigas, et subsequénte comitári dignéris; ut de actu atque incolumitáte eórum, secúndum misericórdiae tuae praesídia gaudeámus. Per Dóminum.

Communion: Tu mandásti, as on the nineteenth Sunday after Pentecost, p. 1148.

Postcommunion. — May Thy sacraments, O Lord, which we have received, preserve Thy servants who hope in Thee; and defend them from all assaults of the enemy. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Tua, Dómine, sacraménta, quae súmpsimus, fámulos tuos in te sperántes custódiant: et contra omnes advérsos tueántur incúrsus. Per Dóminum.

Mass for Any Necessity.

Introit: Salus populi, as on the nineteenth Sunday after Pentecost, p. 1145.

Collect.—Show us, we beseech Thee, O Lord, Thine unspeakable mercy, that Thou may both cleanse us from all our sins and deliver us from those punishments which they have deserved. Through our Lord.

Orémus.—Ineffabilem misericórdiam tuam, Dómine, nobis cleménter osténde: ut simul nos et a peccátis ómnibus éxuas, et a poenis, quas pro his merémur, erípias. Per Dóminum.

Epistle. Lesson from the Prophet Jeremias xiv. — If our iniquities have testified against us, O Lord, do Thou it for Thy name's sake: for our rebellions are many; we have sinned against Thee. Thou art the expectation of Israel, the Saviour thereof in time of Epistola. Léctio Jeremíae Prophétae.—Si iniquitátes nostrae respónderint nobis: Dómine, fac propter nomen tuum, quóniam multae sunt aversiónes nostrae: tibi peccávimus. Exspectátio Israël, salvátor ejus in témpore tribulatiónis. Tu autem in nobis es, Dómine et nomen tuum invocátum est super nos, ne derelínquas nos, Dómine Deus noster.

trouble. But Thou, Lord, art among us, and Thy name is upon us: forsake us not, O Lord our God.

Graduále.—Liberásti nos, Dómine, ex affligéntibus nos: et eos, qui nos odérunt, confudísti. ℣. In Deo laudábimur tota die, et in nómine tuo confitébimur in saecula.

Gradual. Ps. xliii.—Thou hast saved us, O Lord, from them that afflict us: and hast put them to shame that hate us. ℣. In God shall we glory all the day long: and in Thy name we will give praise for ever.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. Propítius esto, Dómine, peccátis nostris: nequándo dicant gentes: Ubi est Deus eórum? Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. Ps. lxxviii.—Forgive us our sins, O Lord: lest the Gentiles should ever say: Where is their God? Alleluia.

After Septuagesima, instead of the Alleluia and its Verse, the Tract: De necessitátibus is said, as on Ember Wednesday in Lent, p. 550.

In Paschal Time the Gradual is omitted, and in its place the following is said:

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Ps. lxxviii.–Propítius esto, Dómine, peccátis nostris: nequándo dicant gentes: Ubi est Deus eórum?

Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. Ps. lxxviii.—Forgive us our sins, O Lord: lest the Gentiles should ever say: Where is their God?

Allelúia.—℣. Exsúltabo et laetábor in misericórdia tua: quóniam respexísti humilitátem meam: salvásti de necessitátibus ánimam meam. Allelúia.

Alleluia. ℣. Ps. xxx.—I will be glad and rejoice in Thy mercy: for Thou hast regarded my humility: Thou hast saved my soul out of distresses. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Marcum.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Habéte fidem Dei. Amen dico vobis, quia quicúmque díxerit huic monti: Tóllere, et míttere in mare, et non haesitáverit in corde suo, sed credíderit quia quodcúmque díxerit, fiat, fiet ei. Proptérea dico vobis: Omnia quaecúmque orántes pétitis, crédite quia accipiétis, et evénient vobis. Et cum stábitis ad orándum, dimíttite, ✠ Continuation of the Holy Gospel according to St. Mark, xi.—At that time: Jesus said to His disciples: Have the faith of God. Amen, I say to you, that whosoever shall say to this mountain: Be thou removed and be cast into the sea, and shall not stagger in his heart, but believe that whatsoever he saith shall be done; it shall be done unto him. Therefore I say unto you: all things, whatsoever you ask when ye pray, believe that you shall receive: and they shall come unto you. And when you shall stand to pray, forgive, if you have aught against any man: that your Father also, Who is in heaven, may forgive you your sins. But if you will not forgive, neither will your Father that is in heaven forgive you your sins.

si quid habétis advérsus áliquem: ut et Pater vester, qui in coelis est, dimíttat vobis peccáta vestra. Quod si vos non dimiséritis: nec Pater vester, qui in coelis est, dimíttet vobis peccáta vestra.

Offertory. Ps. cxxxvii.—If I shall walk in the midst of tribulation, Thou wilt quicken me, O Lord; and Thou wilt stretch forth Thy hand against the wrath of my enemies, and Thy right hand will save me.

Offertórium.—Si ambulávero in médio tribulatiónis, vivificábis me, Dómine: et super iram inimicórum meórum exténdes manum tuam, et salvum me fáciet déxtera tua.

Secret.—May the gift which we now offer up to Thee, cleanse us, O Lord, we beseech Thee, and make us worthy to partake of the holy repast. Through our Lord.

Secréta.—Puríficet nos, Dómine quaesumus, múneris praeséntis oblátio: et dignos sacra participatióne perfíciat. Per Dóminum.

Communion: Meménto verbi, as on the twentieth Sunday after Pentecost, p. 1152.

Postcommunion. — Grant, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that we who have celebrated these sacrificial rites, may be weaned from all earthly affections, and look forward to the fulfilment of this sacrament in heaven. Through our Lord.

Postcommúnio. — Praesta, quaesumus Dómine: ut, terrénis afféctibus expiáti, ad supérni plenitúdinem sacraménti, cujus libávimus sancta, tendámus. Per Dóminum.

Mass for a Good Death.

Introit. Ps. xii.—Enlighten my eyes that I never sleep in death; lest at any time my enemy say: I have prevailed against him. Ps. How long, O Lord, wilt thou forget me unto the end? How long dost thou turn away Thy face from me? ℣. Glory.

Introitus.—Illúmina óculos meos, ne umquam obdórmiam in morte; nequando dicat inimícus meus: Praeválui advérsus eum. Ps. Usquequo, Dómine, obliviscéris me in finem? úsquequo avértis fáciem tuam a me? ℣. Glória Patri.

Orémus.—Omnípotens et miséricors Deus, qui humáno géneri et salútis remédia et vitae aetérnae múnera contulísti: réspice propítius nos fámulos tuos, et ánimas réfove, quas creásti; ut in hora éxitus eárum, absque peccáti mácula tibi Creatori suo per manus sanctórum Angelórum repraesentári mereántur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Almighty and merciful God, Who bestowest on mankind, both the remedies of health and the gifts of life everlasting; look mercifully upon us Thy servants, and refresh the souls which Thou madest that at the hour of their going hence they may be found worthy to be presented without stain of sin to Thee their maker by the hands of the holy angels. Through our Lord.

Epistola. Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Romános.—Fratres, Nemo nostrum sibi vivit, et nemo sibi móritur. Sive enim vívimus, Dómino vívimus: sive mórimur, Dómino mórimur. Sive ergo vívimus, sive mórimur, Dómini sumus. In hoc enim Christus mórtuus est, et resurréxit: ut et mortuórum et vivórum dominétur. Tu autem quid júdicas fratrem tuum? aut tu quare spernis fratrem tuum? Omnes enim stábimus ante tribúnal Christi. Scriptum est enim: Vivo ego, dicit Dóminus, quóniam mihi flectétur omne genu: et omnis lingua confitébitur Deo. Itaque unusquísque nostrum pro se ratiónem reddet Deo.

Epistle. Lesson from the Epistle of St. Paul the Apostle to the Romans, xiv.—Brethren: None of us liveth to himself; and no man dieth to himself. For whether we live, we live unto the Lord; or whether we die, we die unto the Lord. Therefore, whether we live, or whether we die, we are the Lord's. For to this end Christ died and rose again; that He might be Lord both of the dead and of the living. But thou, why judgest thou thy brother? or thou, why dost thou despise thy brother? For we shall all stand before the judgment-seat of Christ. For it is written: As I live, saith the Lord, every knee shall bow to Me; and every tongue shall confess to God. Therefore every one of us shall render account to God for himself.

Graduále.—Si ámbulem in médio umbrae mortis, non timébo mala: quóniam tu mecum es, Dómine. ℣. Virga tua, et báculus tuus, ipsa me consoláta sunt.

Gradual. Ps. xxii.—If I should walk in the midst of the shadow of death I will fear no evils; for Thou art with me, O Lord. ℣. Thy rod and Thy staff they have comforted me.

Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. Ps. xxx.—In Thee, Lord, have I hoped, let me never be confounded: deliver me in Thy justice and save me; bow down Thy ear to me, make haste to deliver me. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia.—℣. In te, Dómine, sperávi, non confúndar in aetérnum: in justíta tua líberai me et éripe me; inclína ad me aurem tuam: accélera ut erípias me. Allelúia.

After Septuagesima, instead of the Alleluia and its Verse, the Tract: De necessitatibus, as on Ember Wednesday in Lent, p. 550.

In Paschal Time the Gradual is omitted, and in its place the following is said:

Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. Ps. cxiii.—When Israel went out of Egypt, the house of Jacob from a barbarous people.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Ps. cxiii.—In éxitu Israël de Aegypto, domus Jacob de pópulo bárbaro.

Alleluia. ℣. Ps. cvii.—My heart is ready, O God, my heart is ready: I will sing, and give praise unto Thee, my glory. Alleluia.

Allelúia.—℣. Parátum cor meum, Deus, parátum cor meum: cantábo et psallam tibi, glória mea. Allelúia.

✠ Continuation of the Holy Gospel according to St. Luke xxi.—At that time: Jesus said to His disciples: Take heed to yourselves, lest perhaps your hearts be overcharged with surfeiting and drunkenness and the cares of this life: and that day come upon you suddenly: for as a snare shall it come upon all that sit upon the face of the whole earth. Watch ye, therefore, praying at all times, that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all these things that are to come, and to stand before the Son of Man.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam — In illo tempore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Atténdite vobis, ne forte gravéntur corda vestra in crápula, et ebrietáte, et curis hujus vitae, et supervéniat in vos repentína dies illa: tamquam láqueus enim supervéniet in omes, qui sedent super fáciem omnis terrae. Vigiláte ítaque, omni témpore orántes, ut digni habeámini fúgere ista ómnia, quae fútura sunt et stare ante Fílium hominis.

Offertory: In te sperávi, as on the thirteenth Sunday after Pentecost, p. 1105.

Secret.—Receive, O Lord, we beseech Thee, the sacrifice which we offer up to Thee for our last days: and grant that by it all

Secréta.—Súscipe quaesumus, Dómine, hóstiam, quam tibi offérimus pro extrémo vitae nostrae, et concéde: ut per eam univérsa nostra purgéntur delícta; ut, qui tuae dispositiónis flagéllis in hac vita attérimur, in futúra réquiem consequámur aetérnam. Per Dóminum.

our sins may be purged away, that we, who by Thine appointment are stricken by Thy scourges in this life, may win eternal rest in the life to come. Through our Lord.

Communion: Dómine, memorábor, as on the sixteenth Sunday after Pentecost, p. 1117.

Postcommúnio. — Quaesumus cleméntiam tuam, omnípotens Deus, ut per hujus virtútem sacraménti nos fámulos tuos grátia tua confirmáre dignéris: ut in hora mortis nostrae non praeváleat contra nos adversárius, sed cum Angelis tuis tránsitum habére mereámur ad vitam. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.—We beseech Thy clemency, O Almighty God, that by the power of this sacrament Thou wouldst vouchsafe to strengthen us Thy servants with Thy grace; so that in the hour of our death the enemy may not prevail against us, but that we may be found worthy to pass in company with Thine angels into life everlasting. Through our Lord.

THE SACRAMENT OF MATRIMONY.

It is better for husband and wife that they should receive the sacrament of marriage at Mass, for on the altar is always renewed and realised more and more the mystery of the union of Christ and His Church (Epistle) which was consummated on Calvary and of which marriage is a symbol (see Collect, p. 1864). As Eve was drawn from the side of Adam while he slept, from the pierced side of Jesus came forth the Church, according to the Fathers, for the water and blood that gushed from the Saviour's heart signify Baptism and the Eucharist, which give divine life to souls.

Baptism confers the right of being present at Mass and taking part in it by Communion. The Eucharist in its turn is a sacrifice in which Jesus and the Church immolate themselves, and a sacrament in which they unite themselves by the bonds of a holy marriage. And Marriage which is great, says St. Paul, because it is the symbol of the union of souls with Jesus (Gospel) is also somewhat of a sacrifice and it is a sacrament.

1. Sacrifice.—The husband and wife are the very ministers of their marriage, and like Christ and His Spouse, at the altar they are, so to say, priests and victims.

In marriage is all that disinterested affection supposes on either side of untiring devotion and generosity. In it are the troubles and sufferings of existence in common, the griefs and cares of a father and mother who are to give to their children and maintain in them both natural and supernatural life.

Wherefore the Church admonishes the newly married to offer this gold cup filled, so to speak, with the blood of their souls, in union with the offering of the chalice filled with the blood of Jesus from whom they will receive all the strength and grace they require.

2. The Sacrament.—Marriage is also a sacrament. In the same manner as holy Communion, according to Bossuet, "is the perfect consummation of chaste and divine marriage" in which Jesus gives us with His body His divine life, the sacrament of marriage is for evermore (Gospel) for both spouses a communion of life, physical, intellectual and moral, making them greater by each other as they will be made greater by all their children who are to come after them (Collect).

"The nuptial bed is pure," says St. Paul, and the Church by her liturgical prayer blesses it, with the wish that "those who lie in it may always remain in the peace of God and persevere in His will." And in the Mass pro sponsis, the priest expresses the desire that the God of Abraham, the God of the race more numerous than the stars of heaven and the grains of sand of the sea, should pour His blessing on the spouses, so that "they may see the children of their children unto the third and fourth generation." (Tract and Collects after the Pater and before the Blessing.)

The Marriage Service.

The Priest, in the presence of two or three witnesses, asks the man and woman separately if they wish to be united in the bonds of Matrimony. He first asks the bridegroom, who stands at the right side of the bride.

N., Wilt thou take N., here present, for thy lawful wife, according to the rite of our holy Mother the Church?

The bridegroom answers:

I will.

The Priest then asks the bride:

N., Wilt thou take N., here present, for thy lawful husband according to the rite of our holy Mother the Church?

℟. I will.

The bride is then given away by her father or friend. If she has not been married before, she has her hand uncovered, but covered if she is a widow. The bridegroom receives her to keep in God's faith and his own, and holding her right hand in his right hand; plights her his troth, saying after the Priest:

I, N., take thee, N., to my wedded wife, to have and to hold, from this day forward, for better, for worse, for richer, for poorer, in sickness and in health, till death us do part, if holy Church will permit; and thereto I plight thee my troth.

Then loosing hands and joining them again, the bride says after the Priest:

I, N., take thee, N., to my wedded husband, to have and to hold, from this day forward, for better, for worse, for richer, for poorer, in sickness and in health, till death us do part, if holy Church will permit; and thereto I plight thee my troth.

The Priest then bears witness that by this mutual consent the reception of the sacrament is accomplished. He says to the newly married who hold one another's right hand:—

Ego conjúngo vos in matrimónium, in nómine Patris, † et Filii, et Spíritus sancti. Amen.	I join you in holy matrimony, in the name of the Father ✠ and of the Son ✠ and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

He then sprinkles them with holy water. The bridegroom next puts upon the book, or upon a salver, gold and silver (which will presently be delivered into the hands of the bride), and also a ring which the priest blesses in these words:

℣. Our help is in the name of the Lord.
℟. Who made heaven and earth.

℣. O Lord, hear my prayer.

℟. And let my cry come unto Thee.

℣. The Lord be with you.
℟. And with thy spirit.

℣. Adjutórium nostrum in nomine Dómini.
℟. Qui fecit coelum et terram.

℣. Dómine, exáudi oratiónem meam.

℟. Et clamor meus ad te véniat.

℣. Dóminus vobíscum.
℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

Collect.—Let us pray.—Bless, O Lord, this ring which we bless in Thy name, that she who shall wear it, keeping true faith unto her spouse, may abide in Thy peace and will, and ever live in mutual charity. Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Orémus.—Bénedic, Dómine, ánnulum hunc, quem nos in tuo nómine benedícimus, ut quae eum gestáverit, fidelitátem íntegram suo sponso tenens, in pace et voluntáte tua permáneat atque in mútua caritáte semper vivat. Per Christum Dóminum nostrum. Amen.

The Priest sprinkles the ring with holy water in the form of a cross. The bridegroom receives the ring from the priest, and gives the gold and silver to the bride, saying:

With this ring I thee wed; this gold and silver I thee give; with my body I thee worship; and with all my worldly goods I thee endow.

Then the bridegroom places the ring on the thumb of the left hand of the bride, saying: In the name of the Father; then on the second finger, saying: and of the Son; then on the third finger, saying: and of the Holy Ghost: lastly, on the fourth finger, saying: Amen. And there he leaves the ring.

Which being finished, the priest says:

℣. Confirm, O God, that which Thou hast wrought in us.
℟. From Thy holy temple which is in Jerusalem.

℣. Confírma hoc, Deus, quod operátus es in nobis.
℟. A templo sancto tuo, quod est in Jerúsalem.

Kyrie eléison, Christe eléison, Kyrie eléison.	Lord, have mercy. Christ, have mercy. Lord, have mercy.
Pater noster (secreto).	Our Father (silently).
℣. Et ne nos indúcas in tentatiónem.	℣. And lead us not into temptation.
℟. Sed líbera nos a malo.	℟. But deliver us from evil.
℣. Salvos fac servos tuos.	℣. Save Thy servants.
℟. Deus meus, sperántes in te.	℟. Who hope in Thee, O my God.
℣. Mitte eis, Dómine, auxílium de sancto,	℣. Send them help, O Lord, from the sanctuary.
℟. Et de Sion tuére eos.	℟. And defend them out of Sion.
℣. Esto eis, Dómine, turris fortitúdinis.	℣. Be unto them, O Lord, a tower of strength.
℟. A fácie inimíci.	℟. From the face of the enemy.
℣. Dómine, exáudi oratiónem meam.	℣. O Lord, hear my prayer.
℟. Et clamor meus ad te véniat.	℟. And let my cry come unto Thee.
℣. Dóminus vobíscum.	℣. The Lord be with you.
℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.	℟. And with thy Spirit.
Orémus. — Réspice, quaesumus, Dómine, super hos fámulos tuos et institútis tuis, quibus propagatiónem humáni generis ordinásti, benígnus assíste, ut qui te auctóre jungúntur, te auxiliánte servéntur. Per Christum Dóminum nostrum. Amen.	Let us pray.—Look, O Lord, we beseech Thee, upon these Thy servants, and graciously assist Thine own institutions, whereby Thou hast ordaineth the propagation of mankind, that they who are joined together by Thy authority may be preserved by Thy help. Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Form of Blessing without the Nuptial Mass.

When the marriage service is finished, if the nuptial blessing is to be given, the parish priest says the Mass for a bridegroom and bride. The nuptial blessing is not to be given except in this Mass. In the case of mixed marriages no kind of nuptial blessing is allowed ; but in any other case, if there is to be no Mass, the priest, at the end of the marriage service, turns to the newly married couple and says the Ps. cxxvii, p. 129.

Kyrie eléison. Christe eléison. Kyrie eléison.	Lord, have mercy. Christ, have mercy. Lord, have mercy.

Our Father (in silence).

℣. And lead us not into temptation.

℟. But deliver us from evil.

℣. Lord, hear my prayer.

℟. And let my cry come unto Thee.

℣. The Lord be with you.

℟. And with Thy spirit.

Pater noster (secreto).

℣. Et ne nos indúcos in tentátionem.

℟. Sed libera nos a malo.

℣. Dómine, exaudi oratiónem meam.

℟. Et clamor meus ad te véniat.

℣. Dóminus vobiscum.

℟. Et cum spiritu tuo.

Then, if the bride has never before received the nuptial blessing and the marriage is not taking place within the "forbidden times," he blesses them as follows:

Let us pray.—Bless ✠ O Lord, this union, and from heaven watch over it: even as Thou didst send Raphael, Thy holy angel of peace to Tobias and Sara the daughter of Raguel, deign, O Lord, to send up this man and wife Thy blessing; that they may continue in Thy favour, persevere in Thy will, and abide in Thy love. Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Orémus.—Benedic ✠ Dómine, et réspice de coelis super hanc conjunctiónem; et sicut misisti sanctum Angelum tuum Raphael pacíficum ad Tobíam et Saram, fíliam Raguélis ita dignéris Dómine, míttere benedictiónem tuum super hos cónjuges, ut in tua benedictióne permáneant, in tua voluntáte persístant, et in tuo amóre vivant. Per Christum Dóminum nostrum. Amen.

Now with his hands raised and held above their heads, he says:

May the Lord God Almighty bless you with the fulness of His benediction; may you see your children's children even to the third and fourth generation, and may you attain to a happy old age. Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Dóminus Deus omnípotens benedícat vos, impléatque benedictiónem in vobis, et videátis filios filiórum. Vestrórum usque in tertiam et quartam generatiónem et progéniem, et ad optátam perveniátis senectútem. Per Christum Dóminum nostrum. Amen.

But if the bride be a widow who has already received the nuptial blessing, or if the marriage takes place during the "forbidden times" the blessing is omitted, and the following prayer is recited instead:

Orémus.—Praeténde quaesumus Dómine, fidélibus tuis déxteram coeléstis auxílii, ut te toto corde perquírant, et quae digne póstulant assequántur. Per Christum Dóminum nostrum. Amen.

Let us pray.—We beseech Thee, O Lord, stretch forth to Thy faithful the right hand of Thy heavenly help, that they may seek Thee with all their hearts, and may obtain those things for which they worthily ask. Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

If the nuptial blessing is to be given on a Sunday or on a feast of obligation, the Mass of the Sunday or feast is said, with Gloria and Credo, if required by the rubrics, with a commemoration from the Mass for bridegroom and bride which follows, and with the rest there given for the Communion and completion of the blessing. But if the nuptial blessing is given on any other day, even on a greater-double or minor feast, the following votive mass is said:

Nuptial Mass.

Intróitus. — Deus Israël conjúngat vos: et ipse sit vobíscum, qui misértus est duóbus únicis: et nunc, Dómine, fac eos plénius benedícere te. Ps. Beáti omnes qui timent Dóminum: qui ámbulant in viis ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Tobias vii. 15, viii. 19. —May the God of Israel join you together: and may He be with you, Who was merciful to two only children: and now, O Lord, make them bless Thee more fully.* Ps. cxxvii. 1. Blessed are all they that fear the Lord, that walk in His ways. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Orémus. — Exáudi nos, omnípotens et misericors Deus: ut, quod nostro ministrátur offício, tua benedictióne pótius impleátur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—Graciously hear us, Almighty and merciful God, that what is done by our ministry may be abundantly fulfilled with Thy blessing. Through our Lord.

Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Ephésios. — FRATRES: Muliéres viris suis súbditae sint, sicut Dómino: quóniam vir caput est muliéris: sicut Christus caput es Ecclésiae: Ipse, salvátor córporis ejus. Sed sicut Ecclésia subjécta est Christo, ita te muliéres viris suis in ómnibus.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Ephesians v. 22-33.—BRETHREN: Let women be subject to their husbands as to the Lord; for the husband is the head of the wife, as Christ is the head of the Church. He is the saviour of his body. Therefore, as the Church is subject to Christ, so also let the wives be to their husbands in all things. Husbands, love your wives, as Christ also loved the Church, and delivered Himself up for it: that He might sanctify it, cleansing it by the laver of water in the word of life; that He might present it to Himself a glorious Church, not having spot or wrinkle, or any such thing, but that it should be holy and without blemish. So also ought men to love their wives as their own bodies. He that loveth his wife loveth himself: for no man ever hated his own flesh, but nourisheth and cherisheth it; as also Christ doth the church: for we are members of His body, of His flesh, and of His bones. For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife; and they shall be two in one flesh. This is a great sacrament, but I speak in Christ and in the Church. Nevertheless, let every one of you in particular love his wife as himself, and let the wife fear her husband.

* An allusion to the marriage of Tobias and Sara.

Viri, dilígite uxóres vestras, sicut et Christus diléxit Ecclésiam, et seípsum trádidit pro ea, ut illam sanctificáret, mundans lavácro aquae in verbo vitae, ut exhibéret ipse sibi gloriósam Ecclésiam, non habéntem máculam, aut rugam, aut áliquid hujúsmodi, sed ut sit sancta et immaculáta. Ita et viri debent dilígere uxóres suas, ut córpora sua. Qui suam uxórem díligit, seípsum díligit. Nemo enim unquam carnem suam ódio hábuit: sed nutrit, et fovet eam, sicut et Christus Ecclésiam: quia membra sumus córporis ejus, de carne ejus, et de óssibus ejus. Propter hoc relínquet homo patrem, et matrem suam, et adhaerébit uxóri suae: et erunt duo in carne una. Sacraméntum hoc magnum est, ego autem dico in Christo, et in Ecclésia. Verúmtamen et vos sínguli, unusquísque uxórem suam, sicut seípsum díligat: uxor autem tímeat virum suum.

Gradual. Ps. cxxvii. 3.—Thy wife shall be as a fruitful vine on the sides of thy house. ℣. Thy children as olive plants round about thy table.

Graduál. — Uxor tua sicut vitis abúndans in latéribus domus tuae. ℣. Filii tui sicut novéllae olivárum in circúitu mensae tuae.

Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. xix. 3.— ℣. May the Lord send you help from the sanctuary, and defend you out of Sion. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Mittat vobis Dóminus auxílium de sancto: et de Sion tueátur vos. Allelúia.

After Septuagesima the Alleluia and ℣. are omitted, and instead is said:

Tractus. — Ecce sic benedicétur omnis homo, qui timet Dóminum. ℣. Benedícat tibi Dóminus ex Sion: et vídeas bona Jerúsalem ómnibus diébus vitae tuae. ℣. Et vídeas filios filiórum tuórum: pax super Israël.

Tract. Ps. cxxvii. 4-6.—Behold, thus shall the man be blessed that feareth the Lord. ℣. May the Lord bless thee out of Sion; and mayest thou see the good things of Jerusalem all the days of thy life. ℣. And mayest thou see thy children's children: peace upon Israel.

In Paschal Time the Gradual is omitted, but the Alleluia and ℣. which follow it are said, adding:—

Allelúia.—℣. Benedícat vobis Dóminus ex Sion: qui fecit coelum et terram. Allelúia.

Alleluia. — ℣. Ps. cxxxiii. 3. May the Lord out of Sion bless you, He hath made heaven and earth. Alleluia.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum. — In illo témpore: Accessérunt ad Jesum pharisaei tentántes eum, et dicéntes: Si licet hómini dimíttere uxórem suam, quacúmque ex causa? Qui respóndens, ait eis: Non legistis, quia qui fecit hóminem ab inítio, másculum et féminam fecit eos? et dixit: Propter hoc dimíttet homo patrem, et matrem, et adhaerébit uxóri suae, et erunt duo in carne una. Itaque jam non sunt duo, sed una caro. Quod ergo Deus conjúnxit, homo non séparet.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew xix. 3-6.—At that time: The Pharisees came to Jesus, tempting Him and saying: Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause? Who answering said to them, Have ye not read, that He Who made man from the beginning, made them male and female? and He said, For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife, and they two shall be in one flesh. Therefore now they are not two but one flesh. What, therefore, God hath joined together, let no man put asunder.

Offertórium. — In te sperávi, Dómine: dixi: Tu es Deus meus: in mánibus tuis témpora mea.

Offertory.—In Thee, O Lord, have I hoped: I said, Thou art my God; my times are in Thy hands.

Secréta. — Súscipe, quaesumus, Dómine, pro sacra connúbii lege munus oblátum: et cujus largítor es óperis,

Secret.—Receive, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the offering we make to Thee on behalf of the holy bond of wedlock; and even as this institution is the gift of Thy bounty, so dispose of it according to Thy will. Through our Lord.

esto dispósitor. Per Dóminum.

After the Pater Noster, the Priest stands at the Epistle side of the Altar, and turning towards the bridegroom and bride kneeling before the Altar, says over them the following prayers :—

Collect.—Be appeased, O Lord, by our humble prayers, and graciously further this Thine institution, which Thou hast ordained for the increase of mankind; so that what is joined together by Thine authority may be kept by Thy help. Through our Lord.

Orémus. — Propitiáre, Dómine, supplicatiónibus nostris, et institútis tuis, quibus propagatiónem humáni géneris ordinásti, benígnus assíste : ut quod te auctóre júngitur, te auxiliánte servétur. Per Dóminum.

Collect.—O God, Who by Thy mighty power didst make all things out of nothing; Who having set in order the beginnings of the universe and made man to God's image, didst appoint woman to be his inseparable helpmate, in such wise that the woman's body took its beginning from the flesh of man, thereby teaching that what Thou hadst been pleased to institute from one principle might never lawfully be put asunder. O God, Who hast hallowed wedlock by a mystery so excellent that in the marriage-bond Thou didst foreshow the union of Christ with the Church : O God, by Whom woman is joined to man, and that fellowship which Thou didst ordain from the beginning is endowed with a blessing which alone was not taken away either by the punishment for the first sin or by the sentence of the flood; look in Thy mercy upon this

Orémus. — Deus, qui potestáte virtútis tuae de níhilo cuncta fecísti : qui dispósitis universitátis exórdiis, hómini ad imáginem Dei facto, ídeo inseparábile mulíeris adjutórium condidísti, ut femíneo córpori de viríli dares carne princípium, docens quod ex uno placuísset instítui, numquam licére disjúngi : Deus, qui tam excellénti mystério conjugálem cópulam consecrásti, ut Christi et Ecclésiae sacraméntum praesignáres in foedere nuptiárum : Deus, per quem múlier júngitur viro, et societas principáliter ordináta, ea benedictióne donátur, quae sola nec per originális peccáti poenam, nec per dilúvii est abláta senténtiam : réspice propítius super hanc fámulam tuam, quae maritáli jungénda consórtio, tua se éxpetit protectióne muníri : sit in ea jugum dilectiónis et pacis : fidélis et casta nubat in Christo, imitatrixque sanctárum permáneat feminárum: sit amábilis viro, ut Rachel: sápiens, ut Rebécca: longaeva et fidélis, ut Sara: nihil in ea ex áctibus suis ille auctor praevaricatiónis usúrpet: nexa fidei, mandatísque permáneat: uni thoro juncta, contáctus illícitos fúgiat: múniat infirmitátem suam robóre disciplínae: sit verecúndia gravis, pudóre venerábilis, doctrínis coeléstibus erudíta: sit foecúnda in sóbole, sit probáta et ínnocens: et ad beatórum réquiem, atque ad coeléstia regna pervéniat: et vídeant ambo fílios filiórum suórum usque in tértiam et quartam generatiónem, et ad optátam pervéniant senectútem. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Thy handmaid, who is to be joined in wedlock and entreats protection and strength from Thee. Let the yoke of love and of peace be upon her. True and chaste, let her wed in Christ; and let her ever follow the pattern of holy women: and let her be dear to her husband like Rachel; wise like Rebecca; long-lived and faithful like Sara. Let the father of sin work none of his evil deeds within her. Let her ever be knit to the faith and to the commandments. Let her be true to one wedlock and shun all sinful embraces. Let her fortify her weakness by strong discipline. Let her be grave in demeanour and honoured for her modesty. Let her be well taught in heavenly lore. Let her be fruitful in offspring. Let her life be good and sinless. May she win the rest of the blessed in the kingdom of heaven. May they both see their children's children unto the third and fourth generation, and may they reach the old age which they desire. Through the same Lord.

The Priest turns towards the Altar and says the Libera nos, and the usual prayers.

Commúnio. — Ecce sic benedicétur omnis homo, qui timet Dóminum: et vídeas fílios filiórum tuórum: pax super Israël.

Communion. Ps. cxxvii.—Behold, thus shall every man be blessed that feareth the Lord; and mayest thou see thy children's children: peace upon Israel.

Postcommúnio. — Quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: institúta providéntiae tuae pio favóre comitáre; ut quos legítima societáte connéctis, longaeva pace custódias. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — We beseech Thee, Almighty God, to accompany the institutions of Thy providence with Thy gracious favour; that Thou mayest keep in lasting peace those whom Thou joinest in lawful union. Through our Lord.

Before blessing the people, the Priest turns to the bridegroom and bride and says:—

May the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob be with you, and may He fulfil His blessing in you: that you may see your children's children even to the third and fourth generation, and afterwards may you have life everlasting, by the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ: Who with the Father and the Holy Ghost liveth and reigneth for ever. ℟. Amen.

Deus Abraham, Deus Isaac, et Deus Jacob sit vobíscum: et ipse adímpleat benedictiónem suam in vobis: ut videátis fílios filiórum vestrórum usque ad tértiam et quartam generatiónem, et póstea vitam aetérnam habeátis sine fine: adjuvánte Dómino nostro Jesu Christo, qui cum Patre et Spíritu sancto vivit et regnat Deus per ómnia saecula saeculórum. ℟. Amen.

Then the Priest admonishes them to be faithful to each other, to love each other, and to live in the fear of God. He then sprinkles them with holy water.

The Churching of Women.

It is customary for mothers to go to church with their babe as soon as they are able to go out again to be churched. The ceremony consists in a special blessing which recalls the visit of the Holy Family at the Temple of Jerusalem for the Presentation of our Lord and the Purification of the Blessed Virgin.

The woman who receives this Blessing kneels at the entrance of the church, holding a lighted candle in her hand; and the Priest sprinkles her with holy water and says:—

℣. Our help is in the name of the Lord.

℟. Who hath made heaven and earth.

Ant.—She shall receive.

℣. Adjutórium nostrum in nómine Dómini. ℟. Qui fecit coelum et terram.

Ant. — Haec accípiet.

Ps. xxiii.: Dómini est terra.

The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof: the world, and all they that dwell therein.

Dómini est terra et plenitúdo ejus: * orbis terrárum, et univérsi qui hábitant in eo.

For He hath founded it upon the seas; and hath prepared it upon the rivers.

Quia ipse super mária fundávit eum: * et super flúmina praeparávit eum.

Who shall ascend into the mountain of the Lord: or who shall stand in His holy place?

Quis ascéndet in montem Dómini? * aut quis stabit in loco sancto ejus?

Innocens mánibus et mundo corde: * qui non accépit in vano ánimam suam, nec jurávit in dolo próximo suo.	The innocent in hands, and clean of heart, who hath not taken his soul in vain, nor sworn deceitfully to his neighbour.
Hic accípiet benedictiónem a Dómino: * et misericórdiam a Deo salutári suo.	He shall receive a blessing from the Lord, and mercy from God his Saviour.
Haec est generátio quaeréntium eum, * quaeréntium fáciem Dei Jacob.	This is the generation of them that seek Him, of them that seek the face of the God of Jacob.
Attóllite portas príncipes vestras, et elevámini portae aeternáles: * et introíbit Rex glóriae.	Lift up your gates, O ye princes, and be ye lifted up, O eternal gates: and the King of Glory shall enter in.
Quis est iste Rex glóriae? Dóminus fortis et potens. * Dóminus potens in praelio.	Who is this King of Glory? the Lord Who is strong and mighty: the Lord mighty in battle.
Attóllite portas príncipes vestras, et elevámini portae aeternáles: * et introíbit Rex glóriae.	Lift up your gates, O ye princes, and be ye lifted up, O eternal gates: and the King of Glory shall enter in.
Quis est iste Rex glóriae? Dóminus virtútum ipse est Rex glóriae.	Who is this King of Glory? the Lord of hosts, He is the King of Glory.
Glória Patri. . .	Glory be to the Father.
Ant. Haec accípiet benedictiónem a Dómino, et misericórdiam a Deo salutári suo: quia haec est generátio quaeréntium Dóminum.	Ant.—She shall receive a blessing from the Lord, and mercy from God her Saviour: for this is the generation of them that seek the Lord.

Then, reaching the end of his stole to the woman's hand, the Priest introduces her into the church, saying:

Ingrédere in templum Dei, adóra Fílium B. Maríae Vírginis, qui tibi foecunditátem tríbuit prolis.	Enter into the temple of God, adore the Son of the blessed Virgin Mary, who giveth thee fruitfulness of offspring.

The mother kneels before the altar, and prays, giving thanks to God for the benefits bestowed upon her; and the Priest says:—

Kyrie eléison. Christe eléison. Kyrie eléison.	Lord, have mercy. Christ, have mercy. Lord, have mercy.
Pater noster (secreto).	Our Father (silently).

℣. And lead us not into temptation.
℟. But deliver us from evil.

℣. Et ne nos indúcas in tentatiónem.
℟. Sed líbera nos a malo.

℣. Save Thine handmaid, O Lord.
℟. Who hopeth in Thee, O my God.

℣. Salvam fac ancíllam tuam, Dómine.
℟. Deus meus, sperántem in te.

℣. Send her help, O Lord, from the sanctuary.
℟. And defend her out of Sion

℣. Mitte ei, Dómine, auxílium de sancto.
℟. Et de Sion tuére eam.

℣. Let not the enemy prevail against her.
℟. Nor the son of iniquity approach to hurt her.

℣. Nihil profíciat inimícus in ea.
℟. Et fílius iniquitátis non appónat nocére ei.

℣. O Lord, hear my prayer.

℟. And let my cry come unto Thee.

℣. Dómine, exáudi oratiónem meam.
℟. Et clamor meus ad te véniat.

℟. The Lord be with you.
℣. And with Thy spirit.

℣. Dóminus vobíscum.
℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

Let us pray.—Almighty, everlasting God, Who, through the delivery of the blessed Virgin Mary, hast turned into joy the pains of the faithful in childbirth, look mercifully upon this Thine handmaid, coming in gladness to Thy temple to offer up her thanks: and grant that after this life, by the merits and intercession of the same blessed Mary, she may merit to arrive, together with her offspring, at the joys of everlasting happiness. Through Christ our Lord. ℟. Amen.

Orémus. — Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, qui per beátae Maríae Vírginis partum fidélium pariéntium dolóres in gáudium vertísti: réspice propítius super hanc fámulam tuam, ad templum sanctum tuum pro gratiárum actióne laetam accedéntem, et praesta, ut post hanc vitam, ejúsdem beátae Maríae méritis et intercessióne, ad aetérnae beatitúdinis gáudia cum prole sua perveníre mereátur. Per Christum Dominum nostrum. ℟. Amen.

Then the Priest sprinkles the mother with holy water in the form of a cross, saying:—

The peace and blessing of God Almighty, the Father ✠ and the Son, and the Holy Ghost, descend upon thee, and abide for ever. Amen.

Pax, et benedíctio Dei omnipoténtis, Patris ✠ et Fílii, et Spíritus sancti descéndat super te, et máneat semper.
Amen.

MAY 31.

The Blessed Virgin Mary, MEDIATRIX OF ALL GRACES.—
Double of 2nd Class.—White vestments.

(A Feast and Mass granted by Pope Benedict XV. to many Dioceses).

"The will of God is that we should have everything through Mary," says St. Bernard. The Father has sent us His Son, but His will was to make His coming depend upon the Fiat of the Virgin, which He commanded the Angel Gabriel to solicit on the day of the Annunciation. The Father and the Son send us the Holy Ghost, but it is through the intermediary of Mary that He comes down to men. On the day of Pentecost, according to an ancient Tradition, the heavenly fire which descended on the Cenacle first rested on Mary, and then on the Apostles. This is a figure of what happens every day in the Church where the Holy Ghost is sent invisibly into our souls. "All the gifts of the Holy Ghost are distributed by Mary to those whom she chooses, whenever she wishes and as much as she wishes," says Bernadine of Siena.

The graces which the Holy Ghost pours down on us are due to the merits of Christ on Calvary; but in order that God may bestow them on the world, it is necessary that Mary should intervene. Having co-operated by her divine Maternity and sufferings at the foot of the Cross in the Incarnation and Redemption, she has deserved to co-operate when they are continually applied to creatures by the Most High. "By the communion of sorrows and of will between Christ and Mary," says Pius X., "she has deserved to become the dispenser of all the blessings which Jesus acquired for us by His blood" (Encyclical, February 2, 1904). Such is His will, but it is essential that she should constantly intercede for each one of us. This she does, relying on the blood of Christ by Whom she was herself saved, and Who alone saves us. This actual intervention of Mary plays a preponderating part in the salvation of the world. It is important that we should realise this, and it is the object of the feast of Mary Mediatrix of all graces. A clear idea of the fact may be obtained by simply reading the texts of the Mass and Vespers.

"Through the Virgin," says St. Bernadine of Siena, "life-giving graces flow from Christ, Who is the head, into His mystical body." "Through her," adds St. Antoninus, "come from heaven all the graces granted to the world." "What all the saints united to thee may obtain for us by their intercession," writes St. Anselm, "thy pleading alone may obtain without the help of their prayers." The maternal solicitude of Mary for the whole human race is therefore continual, and it is because of this that unceasingly, through the Mass, the Sacraments, the Hierarchy and other channels of grace, the merits of Calvary are applied to our souls. "We may affirm," declares Leo XIII., "that nothing, by the will of God, is given to us without Mary's mediation, in such a way that just as no one can approach the Almighty Father but through His Son, likewise no one, so to speak, can approach Christ but through His mother." (Encycl., Sept. 22, 1891.)

Let us therefore not consider as of small importance the efforts made to establish this point of doctrine of Mary's mediation, since it enables us to understand the divine plan, and clearly manifests the mediation of the Son of God of which it is a corollary.

MASS.

Introit. Heb. iv. 16.—Let us come with confidence to the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and may find grace for a timely help. (Alleluia, alleluia). Ps. cxx. 1. I have lifted up mine eyes to the mountains: whence help shall come to me. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Introit.—Adeámus cum fidúcia ad thronum grátiae, ut misericórdiam consequámur, et grátiam inveniámus in auxílio opportúno. (Allelúia, allelúia.) Ps. Levávi óculos meos in montes: unde véniet auxílium mihi. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.—O Lord Jesus Christ, our Mediator with the Father, Who hast appointed the most blessed Virgin, Thy Mother, our Mother also, and our mediatrix before Thee: grant that whosoever draweth nigh to Thee to beseech any good things may receive all things through her and rejoice. Who livest and reignest.

Orémus. — Dómine Jesu Christe, noster apud Patrem mediátor, qui beatíssimam Vírginem matrem tuam, matrem quoque nostram, et apud te mediatrícem constituísti: concéde; ut quisquis ad te benefícia petitúrus accésserit, cuncta se per eam impetrásse laetétur: Qui vivis.

Epistle. Lesson from Isaias, the Prophet. Isa. lv. 1-3, 5.—All ye that thirst, come ye to the waters; and you that have no money, hasten, buy, and eat; come ye, buy without money, and without any payment wine and milk. Why do you spend money for that which is not bread, and your labour for that which doth not satisfy? Ye hearers, hear me, and buy that which is good, and your soul shall rejoice in fatness. Incline your ear and come to me: hear and your soul shall live. Behold thou shalt call a nation, which thou knew-Epistola.—Léctio Isaíae Prophétae.— Omnes sitiéntes veníte ad aquas: et qui non habétis argéntum, properáte, émite et comédite: veníte, émite absque argénto, et absque ulla commutatióne vinum et lac. * Quare appénditis argéntum non in pánibus, et labórem vestrum non in saturitáte? audíte audiéntes me, et comédite bonum, et delectábitur in crassitúdine ánima vestra. Inclináte aurem vestram, et veníte ad me; audíte, et vivet ánima vestra. Ecce gentem, quam nesciébas, vocábis: et gentes, quae te non cognovérunt, ad te current propter Dóminum Deum tuum, et sanctum Israël, quia glorificávit te.

est not: and the nations that knew not thee shall run to thee, because of the Lord, thy God, and for the Holy One of Israel, for He hath glorified thee.

In Paschal Time.

Allelúia, allelúia.– ℣. Leva in circúitu óculos tuos, et vide: omnes isti congregáti sunt, venérunt tibi.

Alleluia, alleluia. Isa. lx. 4.— ℣. Lift up thy eyes round about, and see: all these are gathered together, they are come to thee.

Allelúia. — ℣. Fílii tui de longe vénient, et fíliae tuae de látere surgent. Allelúia.

Alleluia.— ℣. Thy sons shall come from afar, and thy daughters shall rise up at thy side. Alleluia.

During the year.

Gradúale.—In me grátia omnis viae et veritátis, in me omnis spes vitae et virtútis. ℣. Transíte ad me omnes qui concupíscitis me, et a generatiónibus meis impléminí.

Gradual. Ecclus. xxiv. 25, 26.— In me is all grace of the way and of the truth, in me is all hope of life and of virtue. ℣. Come over to me, all ye that desire me, and be filled with my fruits.

Allelúia, allelúia.— ℣. Salve Mater misericórdiae Mater spei et grátiae, o Maria. Alléluia.

Alleluia, alleluia.— ℣. Hail, Mother of Mercy, mother of hope and grace, O Mary. Alleluia.

After Septuagesima, having said the Gradual, is added:

Tractus.— Ego sum radix et genus David, stella spléndida et matutína. ℣. Et spíritus et sponsa dicunt: Vení. Et qui audit, dicat: Veni.

Tract. Apoc. xxii. 16.—I am the root and stock of David, the bright and morning star. ℣. And the spirit and the bride say: Come. And he that heareth, let him say: Come.

Gospel, p. 1648, and Offertory (with Alleluia in P.T.), p. 1648.

Secréta.—Mediatrícis nostrae précibus, Dómine, quaesumus, haec hostiárum oblátio nosmetípsos, tua prátia largi-

Secret.—By the prayers of our Mediatrix, O Lord, we beseech Thee, may this oblation of sacrifices, through the bestowal of Thy grace, make ourselves an eternal offering to Thee. Who livest.

énte, tibi perfíciat munus aetérnum: Qui vivis.

Preface of the Blessed Virgin: Et te in festivitáte, p. 56.

Communion.—Truly wonderful art thou, O Mary, and thy face is full of graces. (Alleluia).

Commúnio.—Valde mirábilis es, o María, et fácies tua plena est gratiárum. (Allelúia.)

Postcommunion. — May the prayer of blessed Mary, Thy Mother and our mediatrix, be of avail to us, O Lord; that through the bestowal of Thy grace, and these most holy rites, we may attain to an increase of eternal redemption. Who livest and reignest.

Postcommúnio. —Subvéniat nobis, Dómine, beátae Maríae Matris tuae ac nostrae mediatrícis orátio: ut per haec sacrosáncta commércia, tua grátia largiénte, ad redemptiónis aetérnae proficiámus augméntum: Qui vivis et regnas.

For Confession.

I.—Knowledge of one's sins.

1.—Prayer to the Holy Ghost.

Veni, Sancte Spíritus, reple tuórum corda fidélium, et tui amóris in eis ignem accénde.

Come, O Holy Ghost, fill the hearts of Thy faithful, and kindle in them the fire of Thy love.

℣. Emítte Spíritum tuum, et creabúntur. ℣. Et renovábis fáciem terrae.

℣. Send forth Thy Spirit, and they shall be created. ℟. And thou shalt renew the face of the earth.

Orémus. — Deus, qui corda fidélium Sancti Spíritus illustratióne docuísti, da nobis in eódem Spíritu recta sápere, et de ejus semper consolatióne gaudére. Per Christum Dóminum nostrum.

Collect.—O God, Who hast taught the hearts of Thy faithful by the light of the Holy Ghost, grant us to enjoy what is right in the same Holy Spirit and ever to rejoice in His divine consolation. Through our Lord Jesus Christ.

2. Serious and calm self-examination on the Commandments of God and of the Church and on the Capital Sins.

II.—Sorrow for one's sins : Sincere Contrition.

Recite the Confiteor, or one of the Penitential Psalms, and make a fervent act of contrition.

III.—Confession of one's sins.

1. In the name of the Father ✠ and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

Pray, Father, give me your blessing, for I have sinned.

It is (here mention how long it is since your last confession) since my last confession, and I accuse myself of . . .

2. I accuse myself (sincerely) — How many times?

On the first Commandment :		Prayers, holy things.
„ second	„	Blasphemies, oaths, murmuring.
„ third	„	Sunday : Mass, work.
„ fourth	„	Parents, superiors.
„ fifth	„	Harm done to oneself or one's neighbour.
„ sixth & ninth	„	Purity, chastity.
„ seventh & tenth	„	Stealing, selfishness.
„ eighth	„	Lying.
Commandments of the Church.		Capital sins. Personal duties.

3. For these and all my other sins, which I cannot at present remember, I am heartily sorry, and purpose amendment for the future, and humbly ask pardon of God, and penance and absolution of you, my ghostly Father.

4. Act of Contrition.—On receiving absolution make the sign of the cross.—Before leaving say : " Thank you, Father."

IV.—Satisfaction for one's sins.

Say your penance, and then recite :—

Psalm cii. : Benedic anima mea.

Bless the Lord, O my soul : and let all that is within me bless His Holy name.

Bless the Lord, O my soul, and never forget all He hath done for thee.

Who forgiveth all thy iniquities : Who healeth all thy diseases.

Who redeemeth thy life from destruction :

Who crowneth thee with mercy and compassion.

Who satisfieth thy desire with good things :

Thy youth shall be renewed like the eagle's.

The Lord doth mercies, and judgment for all that suffer wrong.

He hath made His ways known to Moses : His wills to the children of Israel.

The Lord is compassionate and merciful : long suffering and plenteous in mercy.

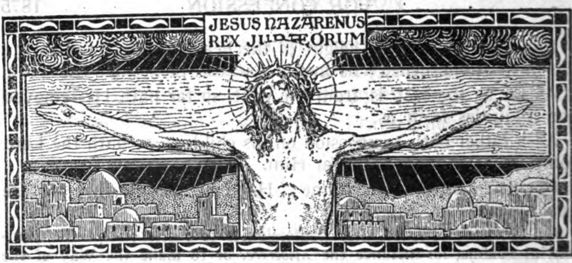
He will not always be angry : nor will He threaten for ever.

He hath not dealt with us according to our sins : nor rewarded us according to our iniquities.

For according to the height of the heavens above the earth: He hath strengthened His mercy towards them that fear Him.

As far as the east is from the west, so far hath He removed our iniquities from us.

As a father hath compassion on his children, so hath the Lord compassion on them that fear Him.



For He knoweth our frame; He remembereth that we are dust.

An excellent practice after Confession is to recite one of the Penitential Psalms, for instance the Miserere, or to make the Way of the Cross. Let us at least ask Mary to help us not to sin again. For that say:—

Sub tuum.

Sub tuum praesídium confúgimus, sancta Dei Génitrix: nostras deprecatiónes ne despícias in necessitátibus; sed a perículis cunctis líbera nos semper, Virgo gloriósa et benedícta.

We have recourse to thy protection, holy Mother of God: reject not the prayers we send up to thee in our necessities, but deliver us always from all dangers, O glorious and blessed Virgin.

"O beloved wood, O blessed nails, O sweet burden!"

The Way of the Cross.

Sovereign Pontiffs have favoured this devotion with all the indulgences granted to those who follow the Sorrowful Way at Jerusalem. To gain them it is necessary:—

1. To visit each station,* unless it is impossible owing to the crowd.
2. To meditate, as best one can, on the Passion of the Saviour.
3. We recommend the recitation of a Pater, an Ave and an Act of contrition (miserere nostri) at each station (April, 1731). When the Way of the Cross is made in public, a verse of the Stabat Mater may be sung between each Station.

The Priests and Acolytes, kneeling before the altar, say as follows:—

O Jesus, our adorable Saviour, behold us prostrate at Thy feet, imploring Thy mercy for ourselves, and for the souls of all the faithful departed. Vouchsafe to apply to us the infinite merits of Thy passion, on which we are now about to meditate. Grant that while we trace this path of sighs and tears, our hearts may be so touched with contrition and repentance, that we may be ready to embrace with joy all the crosses, sufferings, and humiliations of this our life and pilgrimage.

℣. Thou shalt open my lips, O Lord.

℟. And my mouth shall show forth Thy praise.

℣. O God, come to my assistance.

℟. O Lord, make haste to help me.

℣. Glory be, etc. ℟. As it was, etc.

Then the Priest and people move in procession to the First Station.

*Pictures of the fourteen several Mysteries are very useful, but are not indispensable. Wooden crosses, indicating the fourteen Stations, are sufficient, and are absolutely required

First Station.

Jesus Christ condemned to death.

℣. We adore Thee, O Christ, and we bless Thee.
℟. Because by Thy holy Cross Thou hast redeemed the world.

Priest.

Leaving the house of Caiphas, where He had been blasphemed, and the house of Herod, where He had been mocked, Jesus is dragged before Pilate, His back torn with scourges, His head crowned with thorns; and He, Who on the last day will judge the living and the dead, is Himself condemned to a disgraceful death.

Prayer.

It was for us that Thou didst suffer, O blessed Jesus; it was for our sins Thou wast condemned to die. Oh, grant that we may detest them from the bottom of our hearts, and by this repentance obtain Thy mercy and pardon.

An Act of Contrition.

O God, we love Thee with our whole hearts and above all things, and are heartily sorry that we have offended Thee. May we never offend Thee any more. Oh, may we love Thee without ceasing, and make it our delight to do in all things Thy most holy will.

Our Father. Hail Mary. Glory be to the Father.

Have mercy on us, O Lord; have mercy on us.

℣. May the souls of the faithful departed, through the mercy of God, rest in peace. ℟. Amen.

This act of Contrition is to be repeated after each Station.
While passing from one Station to another, a verse of the Stabat Mater is sung or said.

℣. Stabat Mater dolorosa
Juxta crucem lacrymosa
Dum pendebat Filius.

℟. Sancta Mater, istud agas,
Crucifixi fige plagas
Cordi meo valide.

Second Station.

Jesus receives the Cross.

℣. We adore Thee, O Christ, and we bless Thee.
℟. Because by Thy holy Cross Thou hast redeemed the world.

Priest.

A heavy cross is laid upon the bruised shoulders of Jesus. He receives it with meekness, nay, with a secret joy, for it is the instrument with which He is to redeem the world.

Prayer.

O Jesus! grant us, by virtue of Thy Cross, to embrace with meekness and cheerful submission the difficulties of our state, and to be ever ready to take up our cross and follow Thee.

Act of Contrition, etc., as before.

℣. Cujus animam gementem,
Contristatam, et dolentem,
Pertransivit gladius.

℟. Sancta Mater, etc.

Third Station.

Jesus falls the first time under the weight of the Cross.

℣. We adore Thee, O Christ, and we bless Thee.
℟. Because by Thy holy Cross Thou hast redeemed the world.

Priest.

Bowed down under the weight of the Cross, Jesus slowly sets forth on the way to Calvary, amidst the mockeries and insults of the crowd. His agony in the garden has exhausted His body ; He is sore with blows and wounds ; His strength fails Him ; He falls to the ground under the Cross.

Prayer.

O Jesus! Who for our sins didst bear the heavy burden of the Cross, and fell under its weight, may the thoughts of Thy sufferings make us watchful over ourselves, and save us from any grievous fall into sin.

Act of Contrition, etc., as before.

℣. O quam tristis et afflicta :
Fuit illa benedicta
Mater Unigeniti !

℟. Sancta Mater, etc.

Fourth Station.

Jesus is met by His Blessed Mother.

℣. We adore Thee, O Christ, and we bless Thee.
℟. Because by Thy holy Cross Thou hast redeemed the world.

Priest.

Still burdened with His cross, and wounded yet more by His fall, Jesus proceeds on His way. He is met by His mother. What a meeting must that have been ! What a sword of anguish must have pierced that Mother's bosom ! What must have been the compassion of that Son for His holy Mother !

Prayer.

O Jesus! by the compassion which Thou didst feel for Thy Mother, have compassion on us, and give us a share in her intercession. O Mary, most afflicted Mother! intercede for us that, through the sufferings of thy Son, we may be delivered from the wrath to come.

Act of Contrition, etc., as before.

℣. Quae moerebat et dolebat, Pia Mater, dum videbat Nati poenas inclyti.	℟. Sancta Mater, etc.

Fifth Station.

The Cross is Laid upon Simon of Cyrene.

℣. We adore Thee, O Christ, and we bless Thee.
℟. Because by Thy holy Cross Thou hast redeemed the world.

Priest.

As the strength of Jesus fails, and He is unable to proceed, the executioners seize and compel Simon of Cyrene to carry His cross. The virtue of that Cross changed his heart, and from a compulsory task it became a privilege and a joy.

Prayer.

O Lord Jesus! may it be our privilege also to bear Thy cross; may we glory in nothing else; by it may the world be crucified unto us, and we unto the world; may we never shrink from sufferings, but rather rejoice if we may be counted worthy to suffer for Thy Name's sake.

Act of Contrition, etc., as before.

℣. Quis est homo qui non fleret, Matrem Christi si videret In tanto supplicio?	℟. Sancta Mater, etc.

Sixth Station.

The Face of Jesus is wiped by Veronica.

℣. We adore Thee, O Christ, and we bless Thee.
℟. Because by Thy holy Cross Thou hast redeemed the world.

Priest.

As Jesus proceeds on the way, covered with the sweat of death, a woman, moved with compassion, makes her way through the crowd, and wipes His face with a handkerchief. As a reward of her piety, the impression of His sacred countenance is miraculously imprinted upon the handkerchief.

Prayer.

O Jesus! may the contemplation of Thy sufferings move us with the deepest compassion, make us to hate our sins, and kindle in our hearts more fervent love to Thee. May Thy image be graven on our minds, until we are transformed into Thy likeness.

Act of Contrition, etc., as before.

℣. Quis non posset contristari, Christi Matrem contemplari Dolentem cum Filio?	℟. Sancta Mater etc.

Seventh Station.

Jesus falls a second time.

℣. We adore Thee, O Christ, and we bless Thee.
℟. Because by Thy holy Cross Thou hast redeemed the world.

Priest.

The pain of His wound and the loss of blood increasing at every step of His way, again His strength fails Him, and Jesus falls to the ground a second time.

Prayer.

O Jesus! falling again under the burden of our sins, and of Thy sufferings for our sins, how often have we grieved Thee by our repeated falls into sin! Oh, may we rather die than ever offend Thee again!

Act of Contrition, etc., as before.

℣. Pro peccatis suae gentis Vidit Jesum in tormentis, Et flagellis subditum.	℟. Sancta Mater, etc.

Eighth Station.

The women of Jerusalem mourn for our Lord.

℣. We adore Thee, O Christ, and we bless Thee.
℟. Because by Thy holy Cross Thou hast redeemed the world.

Priest.

At the sight of the sufferings of Jesus some holy women in the crowd were so touched with sympathy that they openly bewailed and lamented Him. Jesus, knowing the things that were to come to pass upon Jerusalem because of their rejection of Him, turned to them and said, "Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for Me, but weep for yourselves and for your children."

Prayer.

O Lord Jesus! we mourn, and will mourn, both for Thee and for ourselves; for Thy sufferings and for our sins which caused them. Oh teach us so to mourn, that we may be comforted, and escape those dreadful judgments prepared for all who reject or neglect Thee in this life.

Act of Contrition, etc., as before.

℣. Vidit suum dulcem Natum
Moriendo desolatum,
Dum emisit spiritum.

℟. Sancta Mater, etc.

Ninth Station.

Jesus falls the third time under the Cross.

℣. We adore Thee, O Christ, and we bless Thee.
℟. Because by Thy holy Cross Thou hast redeemed the world.

Priest.

Jesus had now arrived almost at the summit of Calvary; but before He reached the spot where He was to be crucified, His strength again fails Him, and He falls the third time, to be again dragged up and goaded onward by the brutal soldiers.

Prayer.

O Lord Jesus! we entreat Thee, by the merits of this Thy third most painful fall, to pardon our frequent relapses and our long continuance in sin; and may the thought of these Thy sufferings make us to hate our sins more and more.

Act of Contrition, etc., as before.

℣. Eia Mater, fons amoris,
Me sentire vim doloris
Fac, ut tecum lugeam.

℟. Sancta Mater, etc.

Tenth Station.

Jesus is stripped of His garments.

℣. We adore Thee, O Christ, and we bless Thee.
℟. Because by Thy holy Cross Thou hast redeemed the world.

Priest.

Arrived at last at the place of sacrifice, they prepare to crucify Him. His garments are torn from His bleeding body, and He, the Holy of Holies, stands exposed to the vulgar gaze of the rude and scoffing multitude.

Prayer.

O Lord Jesus, Thou didst endure this shame for our most shameful deeds. Strip us, we beseech Thee, of all false shame, conceit, and pride, and make us so to humble ourselves voluntarily in this life, that we may escape everlasting ignominy in the world to come.

Act of Contrition, etc., as before.

℣. Fac ut ardeat cor meum In amando Christum Deum Ut sibi complaceam.	℟. Sancta Mater, etc.

Eleventh Station.

Jesus is nailed to the Cross.

℣. We adore Thee, O Christ, and we bless Thee.
℟. Because by Thy holy Cross Thou hast redeemed the world.

Priest.

The cross is laid upon the ground, and Jesus is stretched upon His bed of death. At one and the same time He offers His bruised limbs to His heavenly Father in behalf of sinful man, and to His fierce executioners to be nailed by them to the disgraceful wood. The blows are struck ! The blood gushes forth !

Prayer.

O Jesus, nailed to the cross, fasten our hearts there also, that they may be united to Thee until death shall strike us with its fatal blow, and with our last breath we shall have yielded up our souls to Thee.

Act of Contrition, etc., as before.

℣. Sancta Mater, istud agas ; Crucifixi fige plagas Cordi meo valide.	℟. Sancta Mater, etc.

Twelfth Station.

Jesus dies upon the Cross.

℣. We adore Thee, O Christ, and we bless Thee.
℟. Because by Thy holy Cross Thou hast redeemed the world.

Priest.

For three hours has Jesus hung upon His transfixed hands ; His blood has run in streams down His body, and bedewed the ground ; and, in the midst of excruciating sufferings, He has pardoned His murderers, promised the bliss of paradise to the good thief, and committed His blessed Mother and beloved disciple to each other's care. All is now consummated; and meekly bowing down His head, He gives up the ghost.

Prayer.

O Jesus! we devoutly embrace that honoured Cross where Thou didst love us even unto death. In that death we place all our confidence. Henceforth let us live only for Thee; and in dying for Thee, let us die loving Thee, and in Thy sacred arms.

Act of Contrition, etc., as before.

℣. Tui Nati vulnerati, Tam dignati pro me pati, Poenas mecum divide.	℟. Sancta Mater, etc.

Thirteenth Station.

Jesus is laid in the arms of His Sacred Mother.

℣. We adore Thee, O Christ, and we bless Thee.

℟. Because by Thy holy Cross Thou hast redeemed the world.

Priest.

The multitude have left the heights of Calvary, and none remain save the beloved disciple and the holy women, who, at the foot of the cross, are striving to stem the grief of Christ's inconsolable Mother. Joseph of Arimathea and Nicodemus take down the body of her Divine Son from the cross and deposit it in her arms.

Prayer.

O Thou, whose grief was boundless as an ocean that hath no limits, Mary Mother of God, give us a share in thy most holy sorrow in the sufferings of thy Son, and have compassion on our infirmities. Accept us as thy children with the beloved disciple. Show thyself a mother unto us; and may He, through thee, receive our prayer, Who for us vouchsafed to be thy Son.

Act of Contrition, etc., as before

℣. Fac me tecum pie flere, Crucifixo condolere, Donec ego vixero.	℟. Sancta Mater, etc.

Fourteenth Station.

Jesus is laid in the Sepulchre.

℣. We adore Thee, O Christ, and we bless Thee.

℟. Because by Thy holy Cross Thou hast redeemed the world.

Priest.

The body of her dearly beloved Son is taken from His Mother, and laid by the disciples in the tomb. The tomb is closed, and there the lifeless body remains until the hour of its glorious resurrection.

Prayer.

We, too, O God, will descend into the grave whenever it shall please Thee, as it shall please Thee, and wheresoever it shall please Thee. Let Thy just decrees be fulfilled; let our sinful bodies return to their parent dust, but do Thou, in Thy great mercy, receive our immortal souls, and when our bodies have risen again, place them likewise in Thy kingdom that we may love and bless Thee for ever and ever. Amen.

Act of Contrition, etc., as before.

℣. Juxta crucem tecum stare,
Et me tibi sociare
In planctu desidero.

℟. Sancta Mater, etc.

BENEDICTION OF THE BLESSED SACRAMENT.

As soon as the Blessed Sacrament is exposed the O Salutaris is sung by the choir.

O Salutaris Hostia. (Sixth Mode.)

1. O saving Victim, opening wide
The gate of heaven to man below!
Our foes press on from every side:
Thine aid supply, Thy strength bestow.

2. To Thy great Name be endless praise,
Immortal Godhead, one in three!
Oh, grant us endless length of days
In our true native land with Thee. Amen.

Then the Litany of the Blessed Virgin or some psalm, hymn, sequence, or anthem appropriate to the feast, or in honour of the Blessed Sacrament is sung, followed by the Tantum ergo, all present making a profound inclination when the words: Veneremur cernui are sung.

Tantum ergo 1.

Tan- tum er - go Sa - cra - mén - tum Ve - ne - ré-Ge - ni - tó - ri Ge - ni - tó - que Laus et jua mur cér- nu - i : Et an - ti-quum do- cu - mén- tum bi - lá - ti - o: Sa -lus, ho-nor, vir - tus quo - que

No - vo ce- dat rí - tu - i : Præ -stet fi - des Sit et be - ne - dic - ti - o: Pro - ce - dén - ti sup- ple - mén - tum Sén - su - um de - féc - tu - i.

ab - ú - tro - que Compar sit lau - dá - ti - o.

Tantum ergo 2.

(Third Mode.) See Pange lingua, p. 1042.

Tantum ergo 3.

(Mozarabic.)

1. Tán-tum er - go Sa - cra - men - tum Ve - ne-ré-mur
2. Ge - ni - tó - ri, Ge - ni - tó - que Laus et ju - bi-cér - nu - i : Et an - tiquum do-cu - mén-tum Nó-vo cé-dat lá - ti - o, Sá- lus, hó-nor, vir-tus quo- que Sit et be - ne ri - tu - i : Praés- tet fí - des sup - ple - mén - di - cti - o: Pro - ce - den - ti ab u - tro

Lowly bending, deep adoring,
Lo! the Sacrament we hail;
Types and shadows have their ending,
Newer rites of grace prevail;
Faith for all defects supplying
Where the feeble senses fail.

Glory, honour, might, dominion,
Be unto our God most high;
To the Father, Son and Spirit,
Ever blessed Trinity,
Praise be given, and power eternal
Unto all eternity.

℣. Thou didst give them bread from heaven. (P. T. Alleluia.)

℟. Containing in itself all sweetness. (P. T. Alleluia.)

℣. Panem de coelo praestitísti eis. (T. P. Allelúia).

℟. Omne delectaméntum in se habéntem. (T. P. Allelúia).

Let us pray.

O God, Who under this wonderful Sacrament hast left us a memorial of Thy Passion; grant us, we beseech Thee, so to venerate the sacred mysteries of Thy body and blood, that we may ever feel within us the fruit of Thy redemption. Who livest.

Oremus.

Deus, qui nobis sub Sacraménto mirábili Passiónis tuae memóriam reliquísti: tríbue, quaesumus; ita nos Córporis et Sánguinis tui sacra mystéria venerári, ut redemptiónis tuae fructum in nobis júgiter sentiámus. Qui vivis.

Here Benediction is given with the Blessed Sacrament, all bowing down in profound adoration. Then is said or sung, in Latin or in English:

THE DIVINE PRAISES.

Indulgence: 1.—One year, each time. 2.—Two years after Mass or Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. 3.—Plenary, once a month on the ordinary conditions, if the praises are said every day for a month.

Benedictus Deus.

Be - ne- díc- tus De - us, Be - ne-díc-tum no-men sanctum Blessed be God ! Blessed be His Holy Name !

e - jus. Be-ne-dic-tus Je-sus Christus, ve-rus De - us Blessed be Jesus Christ, true God et ve - rus ho- mo. (Fi - at ! Fi - at !)

and true man ! (A - men).

Benedíctum † nomen Jesu. Benedíctum Cor ejus † sacratíssimum.

Blessed be the name of Jesus ! Blessed be His Sacred Heart !

Bene†dictus Jesus in sanctíssimo altáris † Sacraménto.

Blessed be Jesus in the most Holy Sacrament of the Altar !

Benedícta magna † mater Dei, Mari†a sanctíssima.

Blessed be the great Mother of God, Mary Most Holy !

Benedícta † sancta ejus et immaculá†ta concéptio.

Blessed be her holy and Immaculate Conception !

Benedíctum no†men Maríae, Vírgi†nis et Matris.

Blessed be the name of Mary, Virgin and Mother !

Benedíctus † sanctus Joseph, ejus castís†simus Sponsus.

Blessed be St. Joseph, her most chaste spouse !

Benedíctus Deus in An†gelis suis, et in † Sanctis suis.—Fiat, fiat.

Blessed be God in His Angels and in His Saints !—Amen.

Adoremus.

Ant. A - do - ré - mus in æ - tér - num San-
Ant. Let us adore for ever the most Holy ctí - si - mum Sa - cra - mén - tum.

Sacrament.

Ps. 116. Lau - dá - te Dó - mi - num om - nes gen - tes:
Ps. cxvi. Praise the Lord, all ye nations:

lau - dá - te e - um om - nes pó - pu - li.
praise Him, all ye people.

Because His mercy is confirmed upon us: and the truth of the Lord remaineth for ever.

Quóniam confirmáta est super nos misericórdia ejus: * et véritas Dómini manet in aetérnum.

℣. Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost.

℣. Glória Patri, et Fílio, et Spirítui Sancto.

℟. As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end. Amen.

℟. Sicut erat in princípio, et nunc et semper, et in saecula saeculórum. Amen.

Repeat the Adoremus.

Cor Jesu sacratissimum.

On the first Friday of the month instead of the Adoremus the following may be sung three times:—

Cor Je- su sa - cra - tís - si-mum, mi -se - ré - re no - bis.
Sacred Heart of Jesus, have mercy on us.

OTHER ANTHEMS AND HYMNS FOR BENEDICTION.

Ave Verum. (Sixth Mode.)

1. A - ve ve-rum Cor-pus na- tum de Ma - rí - a Vir-
2. Ve - re pas-sum, im-mo - lá - tum in cru ce pro hógi - ne. 3. Cu- jus la- tus per -fo - rá - tum flu - xit mi - ne. 4. E - sto no-bis præ - gus - ta - tum mor - tis

1. Hail to Thee! true Body sprung
From the Virgin Mary's womb!

2. The same that on the cross was hung
And bore for man the bitter doom.

3. Thou whose side was pierc'd, and flow'd
Both with water and with blood;

4. Suffer us to taste of Thee
In our life's last agony.

5, 6. O kind, O loving one!

7. O sweet Jesu, Mary's Son!

Sacris Solemniis. (Fourth Mode.)

2. Upon this hallowed eve
   Christ with His brethren ate,
   Obedient to the olden Law,
   The Pasch before Him set.

2. Noctis recólitur coena novís-sima,
   Qua Christus créditur agnum et ázyma
   Dedísse frátribus, juxta legítima
   Priscis indúlta pátribus.

3. Which done, Himself entire,
   The true Incarnate God,
   Alike on each, alike on all,
   His sacred hands bestowed.

3. Post ágnum typícum, explétis épulis,
   Corpus Domínicum datum
   discípulis,
   Sic totum ómnibus, quod to-tum síngulis,
   Ejus fatémur mánibus.

4. He gave His flesh, He gave His precious Blood, and said:
   " Receive and drink ye all of this
   For your salvation shed."

4. Dedit fragílibus córporis fér-culum, [póculum,
   Dedit et trístibus sánguinis
   Dicens: Accípite quod trado vásculum,
   Omnes ex eo bíbite.

5. Thus did the Lord appoint
   This sacrifice sublime,
   And made His priests the ministers
   Through all the bounds of time.

5. Sic sacrifícium istud instítuit,
   Cújus offícium commítti vól-uit
   Solis presbyteris, quibus sic cóngruit,
   Ut súmant, et dent céteris.

Panis angelicus.

6. Farewell to types! henceforth
   We feed on angels' food:
   The slave,—O wonder!—eats
   the flesh
   Of his Incarnate God.

6. Panis angélicus fit panis
   hóminum; [minum:
   Dat panis coelicus figúris tér-
   O res mirábilis! mandúcat
   Dóminum [lis.
   Pauper, servus, et húmi-

7. O blessed Three in One!
   Visit our hearts, we pray,
   And lead us on through Thine own paths
   To Thy eternal day. Amen.

7. Te trina Déitas unáque póscimus,
   Sic nos tu vísita, sicut te cólimus:
   Per tuas sémitas duc nos quo
   téndimus,
   Ad lucem quam inhábi-
   tas. Amen.

Verbum Supernum.

8

1. Ver - bum su - per - num pró - di - ens,
1. The Word of God proceeding forth, nec Patris lin-quens déx - te - ram. Ad o-pus su - um Yet leaving not the Father's side, And going to His é - xi - ens, ve - nit ad vi - tæ vés - pe - ram.

work on earth, Had reached at length life's eventide.

2. In mórtem a discípulo
Suis tradéndus aemulis,
Prius in vitae férculo
Se trádidit discípulis.

2. By a disciple to be given
To rivals for His blood athirst ;
Himself, the very Bread of heaven, [first.
He gave to His disciples

3. Quibus sub bina spécie
Carnem dedit et sánguinem :
Ut dúplicis substántiae
Totum cibáret hóminem.

3. He gave Himself in either kind :
His precious Flesh, His precious Blood ;
Of flesh and blood is man combined
And He of man would be the Food.

4. Se nascens dedit sócium,
Convéscens in edúlium,
Se móriens in prétium,
Se régnans dat in praemium.

4. In birth, man's fellow-man was He ;
His meat, while sitting at the board ;
He died, his Ransomer to be ;
He reigns, to be his great Reward.

Lauda Slon, p. 1034, Ecce Panis, p. 1038, and Pange Lingua, p. 1042.

Adoro Te (St. Thomas Aquinas.)

5.

1. Ad - ó - ro te, de - vó - te, la-tens Dé - i - tas,
1. O Godhead hid, devoutly I adore Thee,

Quæ sub his fi - gú - ris ve - re lá - ti - tas :
Who truly art within the forms before me ;

Ti - bi se cor me - um to - tum súb - ji - cit,
To Thee my heart I bow with bended knee,

Qui - a te con - tém-plans to - tum dé - fi - cit.
As failing quite in contemplating Thee.

2. Sight, touch, and taste in Thee are each deceived;
The ear alone most safely is believed :
I believe all the Son of God has spoken,
Than Truth's own word there is no truer token.

2. Visus, tactus, gustus in te fállitur,
Sed audítu solo tuto créditur,
Credo quidquid dixit Dei Fílius,
Nil hoc verbo veritátis vérius.

3. God only on the Cross lay hid from view ;
But here lies hid at once the manhood too :
And I, in both professing my belief,
Make the same prayer as the repentant thief.

3. In Cruce latébat sola Déitas,
At hic latet simul et humánitas ;
Ambo tamen credens atque cónfitens ;
Peto quod petívit latro poenitens.

4. Thy wounds, as Thomas saw, I do not see ;
Yet Thee confess my Lord and God to be :
Make me believe Thee ever more and more ;
In Thee my hope, in Thee my love to store.

4. Plagas, sicut Thomas, non intúeor,
Deum tamen meum te confíteor,
Fac me tibi semper magis crédere,
In te spem habére, te dilígere.

5. O Thou, memorial of our Lord's own dying !
O living bread, to mortals life supplying !

5. O memoriále mortis Dómini
Panis vivus, vitam praestan hómini :

Praesta meae menti de te vívere.
Et te illi semper dulce sápere.

Make Thou my soul henceforth on Thee to live;
Ever a taste of heavenly sweetness give.

6. Pie pellicáne, Jesu Dómine,
Me immúndum munda tuo sánguine:
Cujus una stilla salvum fácere
Totum mundum quit ab omni scélere.

6. O loving Pelican! O Jesu Lord!
Unclean I am, but cleanse me in Thy blood!
Of which a single drop, for sinners spilt,
Can purge the entire world from all its guilt.

7. Jesu, quem velátum nunc aspício,
Oro fiat illud quod tam sitío
Ut te reveláta cernens fácie
Visu sim beátus tuae glóriae. Amen.

7. Jesu! Whom for the present veiled I see,
What I so thirst for, oh, vouchsafe to me:
That I may see Thy countenance unfolding,
And may be blest Thy glory in beholding. Amen.

HYMN OF THANKSGIVING.

Te Deum.

Te Deum laudámus: te Dóminum confitémur.

We praise Thee, O God; we acknowledge Thee to be the Lord.

Te aetérnum Patrem * omnis terra venerátur.

Thee, the Father everlasting, all the earth doth worship.

Tibi omnes Angeli; * tibi coeli et univérsae potestátes.

To Thee all the angels, to Thee the heavens, and all the powers.

Tibi Chérubim et Séraphim * incessábili voce proclámant:

To Thee the cherubim and seraphim cry out without ceasing;

Sanctus, Sanctus, Sanctus, * Dóminus Deus Sábaoth.

Holy, holy, holy, Lord God of hosts.

Pleni sunt coeli et terra * majestátis glóriae tuae.

Full are the heavens and the earth of the majesty of Thy glory.

Thee, the glorious choir of the apostles,

Thee, the admirable company of the prophets,

Thee, the white-robed army of martyrs doth praise.

Thee, the holy Church throughout the world doth confess.

The Father of incomprehensible Majesty,

Thine adorable, true, and only Son,

And the Holy Ghost the Paraclete.

Thou, O Christ, art the King of Glory.

Thou art the everlasting Son of the Father.

Thou, having taken upon Thee to deliver man, didst not disdain the Virgin's womb.

Thou, having overcome the sting of death, hast opened to believers the kingdom of heaven.

Thou sittest at the right hand of God, in the glory of the Father.

Thou, we believe, art the Judge to come.

We beseech Thee, therefore, to help Thy servants, whom Thou hast redeemed with Thy Precious Blood.

Make them to be numbered with Thy saints in glory everlasting.

O Lord, save Thy people, and bless Thine inheritance.

And govern them, and exalt them for ever.

Day by day we bless Thee.

And we praise Thy name for ever; yea, for ever and ever.

Te gloriósus * Apostolórum chorus;

Te Prophetárum * laudábilis númerus;

Te Mártyrum candidátus * laudat exércitus.

Te per orbem terrárum * sancta confitétur Ecclésia:

Patrem * imménsae majestátis;

Venerándum tuum verum, * et únicum Fílium;

Sanctum quoque * Paráclitum Spíritum.

Tu Rex glóriae, * Christe.

Tu Patris * sempitérnus es Fílius.

Tu ad liberándum susceptúrus hóminem, * non horruísti Vírginis úterum.

Tu devícto mortis acúleo, * aperuísti credéntibus regna coelórum.

Tu ad déxteram Dei sedes * in glória Patris.

Judex créderis * esse ventúrus.

Te ergo quaesumus, tuis fámulis súbveni, * quos pretióso sánguine redemisti.

Aetérna fac cum Sanctis tuis * in glória numerári.

Salvum fac populum tuum Dómine, * et bénedic haereditáti tuae.

Et rege eos * et extólle illos usque in aetérnum.

Per síngulos dies * benedícimus te.

Et laudámus nomen tuum in saeculum, * et in saeculum saeculi.

Dignáre Dómine die isto * sine peccáto nos custodíre.

Miserére nostri Dómine, * miserére nostri.

Fiat misericórdia tua Dómine super nos, * quemádmodum sperávimus in te.

In te Dómine sperávi : * non confúndar in aetérnum.

℣. Benedicámus Patrem et Fílium cum Sancto Spíritu.

℟. Laudémus et superexaltémus eum in saecula.

Orémus.

Deus, cujus misericórdiae non est númerus et bonitátis infínitus est thesáurus, piíssimae majestáti tuae pro collátis donis grátias ágimus, tuam semper cleméntiam exorántes, ut qui peténtibus postuláta concédis, eósdem non déserens, ad praemia futúra dispónas. Per Christum Dóminum nostrum.

℟. Amen.

Vouchsafe, O Lord, this day, to keep us without sin.

Have mercy on us, O Lord; have mercy on us.

Let Thy mercy, O Lord, be upon us; as we have trusted in Thee.

In Thee, O Lord, have I trusted: let me not be confounded for ever.

℣. Let us bless the Father, and the Son, with the Holy Ghost.

℟. And worthy to be praised, and glorious, and exalted for ever.

Let us pray.

O God, of Whose mercies there is no number, and of Whose goodness the treasure is infinite; we render thanks to Thy most gracious majesty for the gifts Thou hast bestowed upon us; evermore beseeching Thy clemency, that as Thou grantest the petitions of them that seek Thee, Thou never forsake them, but prepare them for the rewards to come. Through Christ our Lord.

℟. Amen.

LITANY OF THE BLESSED VIRGIN.

After the Litany of the Saints, dating from the year 595, the most ancient is that of the Blessed Virgin, or Litany of Loretto. It was approved by Sixtus V. in 1587.

Kyrie, eléison.

Christe, eléison.

Kyrie, eléison.

Christe, audi nos.

Christe, exáudi nos.

Pater de coelis, Deus, miserére nobis.

Fili, Redémptor mundi, Deus, miserére nobis.

Lord, have mercy.

Christ, have mercy.

Lord, have mercy.

Christ, hear us.

Christ, graciously hear us.

God the Father of Heaven, have mercy on us.

God the Son, Redeemer of the world, have mercy on us.

God the Holy Ghost, have mercy on us.	Spíritus sancte, Deus, miserére nobis.
Holy Trinity, One God, have mercy on us.	Sancta Trínitas, unus Deus, miserére nobis.
Holy Mary, pray for us.	1. Sancta María, ora pro nobis.
Holy Mother of God,	2. Sancta Dei Génitrix,
Holy Virgin of virgins,	3. Sancta Virgo vírginum,
Mother of Christ,	4. Mater Christi,
Mother of Divine Grace,	5. Mater divínae grátiae,
Mother most pure,	6. Mater puríssima,
Mother most chaste,	7. Mater castíssima,
Mother inviolate,	8. Mater invioláta,
Mother undefiled,	9. Mater intemeráta,
Mother amiable,	10. Mater amábilis,
Mother most admirable,	11. Mater admirábilis,
Mother of Good Counsel,	12. Mater boni consílii,
Mother of our Creator,	13. Mater Creatóris,
Mother of our Saviour,	14. Mater Salvatóris,
Virgin most prudent,	15. Virgo prudentíssima,
Virgin most venerable,	16. Virgo veneránda,
Virgin most renowned,	17. Virgo praedicánda,
Virgin most powerful,	18. Virgo potens,
Virgin most merciful,	19. Virgo clemens,
Virgin most faithful,	20. Virgo fidélis,
Mirror of justice,	21. Spéculum justítiae,
Seat of wisdom,	22. Sedes sapiéntiae,
Cause of our joy,	23. Causa nostrae laetítiae,
Spiritual vessel,	24. Vas spirituále,
Vessel of honour,	25. Vas honorábile,
Singular vessel of devotion,	26. Vas insigne devotiónis,
Mystical Rose,	27. Rosa mystica,
Tower of David,	28. Turris Davídica,
Tower of ivory,	29. Turris ebúrnea,
House of gold,	30. Domus áurea,
Ark of the Covenant,	31. Foederis arca,
Gate of Heaven,	32. Jánua coeli,
Morning Star,	33. Stella maturína,
Health of the sick,	34. Salus infirmórum,
Refuge of sinners,	35. Refúgium peccatórum,
Comfort of the afflicted,	36. Consolátrix afflictórum,
Help of Christians,	37. Auxílium Christianórum,
Queen of Angels,	38. Regína Angelórum,
Queen of Patriarchs,	39. Regína Patriarchárum,
Queen of Prophets,	40. Regína Prophetárum,
Queen of Apostles,	41. Regína Apostolórum,

42. Regína Mártyrum,	Queen of Martyrs,
43. Regína Confessórum,	Queen of Confessors,
44. Regína Vírginum,	Queen of Virgins,
45. Regína Sanctórum ómnium,	Queen of All Saints,
46. Regína sine labe originâli concépta,	Queen conceived without original sin,
47. Regína sacratíssimi Rosárii,	Queen of the most holy rosary,
48. Regína pacis,	Queen of peace.
Agnus Dei, qui tollis peccáta mundi, parce nobis, Dómine.	Lamb of God, Who takest away the sins of the world, spare us, O Lord.
Agnus Dei, qui tollis peccáta mundi, exaudi nos, Dómine.	Lamb of God, Who takest away the sins of the world, graciously hear us, O Lord.
Agnus Dei, qui tollis peccáta mundi, miserére nobis.	Lamb of God, Who takest away the sins of the world, have mercy on us.

From the Purification to Easter and after Pentecost :

℣. Ora pro nobis, sancta Dei Génitrix.	℣. Pray for us, O Holy Mother of God.
℟. Ut digni efficiámur promissiónibus Christi.	℟. That we may be made worthy of the promises of Christ.
Orémus.—Concéde nos fámulos tuos, quaesumus, Dómine Deus, perpétua mentis et córporis sanitáte gaudére : et gloriósae beátae Maríae semper Vírginis intercessióne a praeesénti liberári tristítia, et aetérna pérfrui laetítia. Per Christum Dóminum nostrum.	Let us pray.—Grant, we beseech Thee, O Lord God, that we Thy servants may enjoy perpetual health of mind and body ; and by the intercession of the blessed Mary, ever Virgin, may be delivered from present sorrow, and obtain eternal joy. Through Christ our Lord.
℟. Amen.	℟. Amen.

During Advent : ℣. Angelus Dómini, p. 118, Collect : Deus qui de B. Mariae, p. 192 ; from Christmas to the Purification : ℣. Post partum : Collect, Deus, qui salútis, p. 119 ; in Paschal Time : ℣ Gaude et lætare, Collect : Deus, qui per resurrectiónem, p. 122.

CHRISTMASTIDE.

Adeste Fideles.

1. Adéste fidéles, laeti, triumphántes, Veníte, veníte in Bethlehem !	1. Come, all ye faithful, joyful and triumphant. Oh, come ye, oh, come ye, to Bethlehem :

*Come and behold ye
Born the King of angels:
Oh, come, let us worship,
Oh, come, let us worship,
Oh, come, let us worship Christ the Lord.

2. True God of God,
True Light of Light,
Lo, He disdains not the Virgin's womb:
*Very God,
Begotten, not created:
O, come, let us worship, etc.

3. See, leaving their flock,
The shepherds at the call approach the humble crib;
*And let us also hurry there with joyful step.
Oh, come, etc.

4. We shall see the eternal
Splendour of the eternal
Father veiled in the flesh;
*An infant God wrapped in swaddling clothes.
Oh, come, etc.

5. Poor for our sakes and lying on straw,
Let our pious embraces warm Him.
*Who would not love in return
Him Who loves us so?
Oh, come, etc.

6. Sing, choirs of angels,
Sing in exultation,
Sing all ye citizens of heaven above,
*Glory to God in the highest:
Oh, come, etc.

*Natum vidéte Regem Angelórum!
Veníte adorémus! Veníte adorémus!
Veníte adorémus Dóminum!

2. Deum de Deo,
Lumen de lúmine,
Gestant puéllae víscera:
*Deum verum,
Génitum, non factum:
Veníte adorémus, &c.

3. En, grege relícto, húmiles ad cunas
Vocáti pastóres appróperant;
*Et nos ovánti gradu festinémus.
Veníte, adorémus, etc.

4. Aetérni Paréntis splendórem aetérnum,
Velátum sub carne vidébimus;
* Deum infántem pannis involútum.
Veníte, adorémus, etc.

5. Pro nobis egénum et foeno cubántem
Piis foveámus ampléxibus.
*Sic nos amántem quis non redamáret?
Veníte, adorémus, etc.

6. Cantet nunc io chorus angelórum,
Cantet nunc aula coeléstium:
*Gloria in excélsis Deo!
Veníte adorémus, &c.

7. Ergo qui natus die hodiérna,
Jesu, tibi sit glória !
*Patris aetérni Verbum caro factum !
Veníte adorémus, &c.

7. Yea, Lord, we greet Thee,
Born this happy morning;
*Jesu, to Thee be glory giv'n:
Word of the Father
In our flesh appearing:
Oh, come, etc.

DEVOTION OF THE FORTY HOURS.

Litany and Prayers as on p. 317, then the following prayers:

Orémus.—Deus, qui nobis sub Sacraménto mirábili passiónis tuae memóriam reliquísti: tríbue, quaesumus, ita nos córporis et sánguinis tui sacra mystéria venerári; ut redemptiónis tuae fructum in nobis júgiter sentiámus.

Let us pray.—O God, Who in this wonderful Sacrament hast left us a memorial of Thy Passion; grant us, we beseech Thee, so to reverence the Sacred Mysteries of Thy Body and Blood, that we may continually find in our souls the fruit of Thy redemption.

Then one of the following prayers of the Blessed Virgin according to the season:

Concede nos fámulos tuos, quaesumus, Dómine Deus, perpétua mentis et córporis sanitáte gaudére: et gloriósa beatae Maríae semper Vírginis intercessióne a praesénti liberári tristítia, et aetérna pérfrui laetítia.

Grant, O Lord, we beseech Thee, that we Thy servants may enjoy constant health of body and mind: and by the glorious intercession of Blessed Mary, ever a Virgin, be delivered from all present affliction, and come to that joy, which is eternal.

From Advent to Christmas Day.

Deus, qui de beatae Maríae Vírginis útero, Verbum tuum, Angelo nuntiánte, carnem suscípere volúisti: praesta supplícibus tuis, ut qui vere eam Genitrícem Dei crédimus, ejus apud te intercessiónibus adjuvémur.

O God, Who wast pleased that Thy Word, at the message of an angel, should take flesh in the womb of the Blessed Virgin Mary: grant to us Thy humble servants, that we, who believe her to be truly the Mother of God, may be assisted by her intercessions with Thee.

From Christmas Day to the Purification.

Deus, qui salútis aetérnae, Beatae Maríae virginitáte foecúnda, humáno géneri praemia praestitísti: tribue quaesumus,

O God, Who by the fruitful virginity of Blessed Mary, hast given to mankind the rewards of eternal salvation: grant, we beseech Thee, that we may experience her intercession, by whom we received the Author of Life, our Lord Jesus Christ, Thy Son.

ut ipsam pro nobis intercédere sentiámus, per quam merúimus auctórem vitae suscípere, Dóminum nostrum Jesum Christum Filium tuum.

O Almighty and Eternal God, have mercy on Thy servant N., our chief Bishop, and direct him, according to Thy clemency, in the way of everlasting salvation; that, by Thy grace, he may desire those things that are agreeable to Thee, and perform them with all his strength.

Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, miserére fámulo tuo Pontífici nostro N., et dírige eum, secúndum tuam cleméntiam, in viam, salútis aetérnae; ut, te donánte, tibi plácita cúpiat, et tota virtúte perfíciat.

O God, our refuge and strength, fountain of all goodness, mercifully give ear to the fervent prayers of Thy Church, and grant, that what we ask with faith, we may effectually obtain.

Deus refúgium nostrum et virtus, adésto piis Ecclésiae tuae précibus, auctor ipse pietátis, et praesta; ut quod fidéliter pétimus, efficáciter consequámur.

O Almighty and Eternal God, in Whose hand are all the powers and all the rights of kingdoms, come to the assistance of Thy Christian people; that all pagan and heretical nations, who trust in their own violence and craft, may be broken by the might of Thy right hand.

Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, in cujus manu sunt ómnium potestátes, et ómnia jura regnórum, réspice in auxílium Christiánorum; ut gentes paganórum et haereticórum, quae in sua feritáte et fraude confidunt, déxterae tuae poténtia conterántur.

O almighty and eternal God, Who hast dominion over the living and the dead, and art merciful to all, who Thou foreknowest shall be Thine by faith and good works; we humbly beseech Thee, that they, for whom we have determined to offer up our prayers, whether this present world still detain them in the flesh, or the world to come hath already received them out of their bodies, may, by the cle-

Omnípotens, sempitérne Deus, qui vivórum domináris simul et mortuórum, omniúmque miseréris, quos tuos fide et ópere futúros esse praenóscis; te súpplices exorámus; ut pro quibus effúndere preces decrévimus, quosque vel praesens saeculum adhuc in carne rétinet, vel futúrum jam exútos córpore suscepit, intercedéntibus omnibus sanctis tuis, pietátis tuae cleméntia ómnium delictórum suórum véniam consequántur. Per Dóminum nostrum Jesum Christum Filium tuum, qui tecum vivit et regnat, in unitáte Spíritus sancti, Deus, per ómnia saecula saeculórum.

mency of Thy goodness, all Thy saints interceding for them, obtain pardon and full remission of all their sins. Through our Lord Jesus Christ, Thy Son, Who liveth and reigneth, one God with Thee and the Holy Ghost, world without end.

℟. Amen.

℣. Dómine exáudi oratiónem meam.

℟. Et clamor meus ad te véniat.

℣. Exáudiat nos omnípotens et misericors Dóminus.

℟. Et custódiat nos semper, Amen.

℣. Fidélium ánimae, per misericórdiam Dei, requiéscant in pace.

℟. Amen.

℟. Amen.

℣. O Lord, hear my prayer.

℟. And let my cry come unto Thee.

℣. May the Almighty and most merciful Lord graciously hear us.

℟. And may he ever graciously hear us. Amen.

℣. May the souls of the Faithful, through the mercy of God, rest in peace.

℟. Amen.

LITANY OF THE SACRED HEART.

Approved by Leo XIII. in 1899.—(The first five invocations are not repeated)

Kyrie, eléison.	Lord, have mercy on us.
Christe, eléison.	Christ, have mercy on us.
Kyrie, eléison.	Lord, have mercy on us.
Christe, audi nos.	Christ, hear us.
Christe, exáudi nos.	Christ, graciously hear us.
Pater de coelis Deus, miserére, nobis.	God the Father of heaven, have mercy on us.
Fili Rédemptor mundi Deus miserére nobis.	God the Son, Redeemer of the world, have mercy on us.
Spíritus sancte Deus, miserére nobis,	God the Holy Ghost, have mercy.
Sancta Trínitas unus Deus, miserére nobis.	Holy Trinity one God, have mercy.
1. Cor Jesu, Fílii Patris aetérni, mis.	Heart of Jesus, Son of the eternal Father, Have.

Heart of Jesus, formed in the womb of the Virgin Mother by the Holy Ghost, Have.
Heart of Jesus, hypostatically united to the Eternal Word. Have.
Heart of Jesus, of infinite majesty, Have.
Heart of Jesus, temple of all sanctity, Have.
Heart of Jesus, tabernacle of the most adorable Trinity, Have.
Heart of Jesus, house of God and gate of heaven, Have.
Heart of Jesus, furnace of divine love, Have.
Heart of Jesus, vessel of justice and love, Have.
Heart of Jesus, ocean of goodness, Have.
Heart of Jesus, example of all virtues, Have.
Heart of Jesus, worthy of all praise, Have.
Heart of Jesus, king and centre of all hearts, Have.
Heart of Jesus, fountain of all grace, Have.
Heart of Jesus, in which dwelleth all the fulness of the divinity, Have.
Heart of Jesus, in which the Father is well pleased, Have.
Heart of Jesus, of whose fulness we have all received, Have.
Heart of Jesus, desire of eternal hills, Have.
Heart of Jesus, patient and rich in mercy, Have.
Heart of Jesus, support of those who worship Thee, Have.
Heart of Jesus, fount of life and holiness, Have.

2. Cor Jesu, in sinu Vírginis Matris a Spíritu sancto formátum, mis
3. Cor Jesu, Verbo Dei substantiáliter unítum, mis.
4. Cor Jesu, majestátis infinítae, mis.
5. Cor Jesu, templum Dei sanctum, mis.
6. Cor Jesu, tabernáculum Altíssimi, mis.
7. Cor Jesu, domus Dei et porta coeli, mis.
8. Cor Jesu, fornax ardens caritátis, mis.
9. Cor Jesu, justítiae et ámoris receptáculum, mis.
10. Cor Jesu, bonitáte et amóre plenum, mis.
11. Cor Jesu, virtútum ómnium abyssus, mis.
12. Cor Jesu, omni laude dignís-simum, mis.
13. Cor Jesu, rex et centrum ómnium córdium, mis.
14. Cor Jesu, in quo sunt omnes thesáuri sapiéntiae et sciéntiae, mis.
15. Cor Jesu, in quo hábitat omnis plenitúdo divinitátis, mis.
16. Cor Jesu, in quo Pater sibi bene complácuit, mis.
17. Cor Jesu, de cujus plenitúdine omnes nos accépimus, mis.
18. Cor Jesu, desidérium cólli-um aetérnórum, mis.
19. Cor Jesu, pátiens et multae misericórdiae, mis.
20. Cor Jesu, dives in omnes qui ínvocant te, mis.
21. Cor Jesu, fons vitae et sanctitátis, mis.

Latin	English
22. Cor Jesu, propitiátio pro peccátis nostris, mis.	Heart of Jesus, broken for our sins, Have.
23. Cor Jesu, saturátum oppróbriis, mis.	Heart of Jesus, filled with reproaches, Have.
24. Cor Jesu, attrítum propter scélera nostra, mis.	Heart of Jesus, the propitiation for our sins, Have.
25. Cor Jesu, usque ad mortem obédiens factum, mis.	Heart of Jesus, made obedient even unto the death of the cross, Have.
26. Cor Jesu, láncea perforátum, mis.	Heart of Jesus, pierced with a lance, Have.
27. Cor Jesu, fons tótius consolatiónis, mis.	Heart of Jesus, source of all consolation, Have.
28. Cor Jesu, vita et resurréctio nostra, mis.	Heart of Jesus, our life and our resurrection, Have.
29. Cor Jesu, pax et reconciliátio nostra, mis.	Heart of Jesus, our peace and our atonement, Have.
30. Cor Jesu, victima peccatórum, mis.	Heart of Jesus, victim for our sins, Have.
31. Cor Jesu, salus in te sperántium, mis.	Heart of Jesus, salvation of them that hope in Thee, Have.
32. Cor Jesu, spes in te moriéntium, mis.	Heart of Jesus, hope of them that die in Thee, Have.
33. Cor Jesu, delíciae sanctórum ómnium, mis	Heart of Jesus, delight of all the Saints, Have.
Agnus Dei, qui tollis peccáta mundi, parce nobis, Dómine.	Lamb of God, Who takest away the sins of the world, spare us, O Lord.
Agnus Dei, qui tollis peccáta mundi, exáudi nos, Dómine.	Lamb of God, Who takest away the sins of the world, graciously hear us, O Lord.
Agnus Dei, qui tollis peccáta mundi, miserére nobis.	Lamb of God, Who takest away the sins of the world, have mercy on us.
℣. Jesu mitis et húmilis corde.	℣. Jesus, Who art meek and humble of heart.
℟. Fac cor nostrum secúndum Cor tuum.	℟. Make our heart like unto Thy heart.
Orémus.—Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, réspice in Cor dilectíssimi Fílii tui, et in laudes et satisfactiónes, quas in nómine peccatórum tibi persólvit, iísque misericórdiam tuam petén-	Let us pray.—Almighty and eternal God, consider the Heart of Thy well-beloved Son and the praises and satisfaction He offers Thee in the name of sinners; appeased by worthy homage, pardon those who implore Thy mercy, in the name of the same Jesus Christ Thy Son Who lives and reigns with Thee in the unity of the Holy Ghost, world without end. Amen.

tibus, et véniam concéde placátus, in nómine ejúsdem Fílii tui Jesu Christi, qui tecum vivit et regnat in unitáte Spíritus sancti Deus, per ómnia saecula saeculórum. Amen.

Act of Consecration of all mankind to the Sacred Heart of Jesus.
(Leo XIII., June 11, 1899.)

Most sweet Jesus, Redeemer of mankind, look down on us humbly prostrate before Thy altar. We belong to Thee, we wish to belong to Thee; and in order to be more firmly united to Thee, behold each one of us on this day spontaneously consecrates himself to Thy Sacred Heart.

Many have never known Thee; many have despised Thy commandments and have denied Thee. Merciful Jesus, have pity on both and bring them back to Thy Sacred Heart.

Lord, be King, not only of the faithful who have never forsaken Thee, but also of the prodigal children who have abandoned Thee; make them soon to return to the paternal home, that they may not perish of misery and hunger.

Be King of those whom erroneous opinions have deceived, and of those whom discord has kept asunder; bring them back to the haven of truth and to the unity of the faith, that soon there may be only one flock and one shepherd.

Lastly be King of all those who are still attached to ancient pagan superstitions and refuse not to rescue them from darkness to lead them to light and to the Kingdom of God.

Grant, O Lord, to Thy Church a secure and untrammelled liberty; grant to all peoples order and peace; so that from pole to pole one single voice should resound: "Blessed be the divine Heart which has won our salvation. To it be glory and honour, world without end." Amen.

PRAYERS FOR ENGLAND.

1. The following prayer is to be recited at the principal Benediction on Sundays and Holidays of Obligation, immediately after the O Salutaris, or before the Tantum ergo, aat ltest; except on the second Sunday of every month, when the prayers given on p. 1905 should be recited in its place.

O blessed Virgin Mary, Mother of God, and our most gentle Queen and Mother, look down in mercy on England, thy "Dowry" and upon us all who greatly hope and trust in thee. By thee it was that Jesus, our Saviour and our hope, was given unto the world; and He has given thee to us that we might hope still more. Plead for us thy children, whom thou didst receive and accept at the foot of the cross, O sorrowful Mother! Intercede for our separated brethren, that with us in the one true fold they may be united to the chief Shepherd, the vicar of thy Son. Pray for us all, dear Mother, that by faith fruitful in good works we may be counted worthy to see and praise God, together with thee in our heavenly home. Amen.

300 days' indulgence; plenary once a month.

2. To beg the prayers of the Saints. Hail Mary, etc.

O Merciful God, let the glorious intercession of Thy saints assist us; above all the most blessed Virgin Mary, Mother of Thine only-begotten Son, and Thy holy apostles, Peter and Paul, to whose patronage we humbly commend this land. Be mindful of our fathers, Eleutherius, Celestine and Gregory, bishops of the Holy City; of Augustine, Columba and Aidan, who delivered to us inviolate the faith of the holy Roman Church. Remember our holy martyrs, who shed their blood for Christ; especially our first martyr, Saint Alban, and Thy most glorious bishop, Saint Thomas of Canterbury. Remember all those holy confessors, bishops and kings, all those holy monks and hermits, all those holy virgins and widows who made this once an Island of Saints, illustrious by their glorious merits and virtues. Let not their memory perish from before Thee, O Lord, but let their supplication enter daily into Thy sight; and do Thou, Who didst so often spare Thy sinful people for the sake of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, now, also, moved by the prayers of our fathers, reigning with Thee, have mercy upon us, save Thy people and bless Thine inheritance; and suffer not those souls to perish which Thy Son hath redeemed with His most Precious Blood, Who liveth and reigneth with Thee, world without end. Amen.

Let us pray.—O most loving Lord Jesus, Who, when Thou wert hanging on the cross, didst commend us all in the person of Thy disciple John to Thy most sweet Mother, that we might find in her our refuge, our solace and our hope; look graciously upon our beloved land, and on those who are bereaved of so powerful a patronage; that, acknowledging once more the dignity of this holy Virgin, they may honour and venerate her with all affection of devotion, and own her as Queen and Mother. May her sweet name be lisped by little ones and linger on the lips of the aged and the dying; and may it be invoked by the afflicted, and hymned by the joyful; that this Star of the Sea being their protection and guide, all may come to the harbour of eternal salvation. Who livest and reignest, world without end. Amen.

PRAYER TO ST. JOSEPH

prescribed by H.H. Pope Leo XIII. for the month of October, after the recitation of the Rosary.

Indulg. 300 days.—September 21, 1889.

Unto Thee, O Blessed Joseph, do we fly in our tribulation, and, having implored the help of thy holy Spouse, we now also confidently seek thy protection. By that affection which united thee to the Immaculate Virgin Mother of God, and by thy fatherly love for the Child Jesus, we humbly beg thee to look down with compassion on the inheritance which Jesus Christ purchased with His blood, and in our need to help us by thy powerful intercession.

Do thou, O prudent guardian of the Holy Family, watch over the chosen people of Jesus Christ. Keep us, O loving Father, safe from all error and corruption. O great protector, from thy place in Heaven, graciously help us in our contest against the powers of darkness. And as of old thou didst rescue the Child Jesus from the danger of death, so now defend God's holy Church from the snares of the enemy and from all adversity. Extend to each one of us thy continual protection, that led on by thine example and strengthened by thine aid, we may live and die in holiness, and obtain everlasting happiness in Heaven. Amen.

INDEX.

TEMPORAL CYCLE, OR PROPER OF THE TIME.

(See Calendar, pp xiii.-xv.)

FIRST PART OF THE ECCLESIASTICAL YEAR.

II. CHRISTMASTIDE.

III. TIME AFTER THE EPIPHANY.

SECOND PART OF THE ECCLESIASTICAL YEAR.

IV. SEPTUAGESIMA.

V. THE TIME OF LENT.

VI. PASSIONTIDE.

VII. PASCHAL TIME.

VIII. THE TIME AFTER PENTECOST.

FEASTS OF OUR LORD JESUS CHRIST.

SANCTORAL CYCLE, OR PROPER OF THE SAINTS.

The Calendar, pp. xvii.-xxviii., gives the feasts of the Saints on the days on which they are kept with the page on which their Masses will be found.

FEASTS OF OUR LADY.

FEASTS OF THE SAINTS.

LITURGY OF THE DEAD.

VOTIVE MASSES.

SACRAMENT OF MATRIMONY.

SACRAMENT OF PENANCE.

BENEDICTION OF THE BLESSED SACRAMENT.

PRINTED IN ENGLAND AT THE CRYPT HOUSE PRESS, GLOUCESTER.

SUPPLEMENT FOR THE DIOCESES
OF THE
UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

DECEMBER 12 (or NOVEMBER 16).

Feast of Our Lady of Guadalupe. — White vestments.

The Sanctuary of Our Lady of Guadalupe in Central America, a few miles north of the City of Mexico, is one of the most celebrated places of pilgrimage in the New World. Here, on Dec. 9. A. D. 1531, the Holy Mother of God appeared to an Indian convert, and left with him a picture of herself impressed upon his mantle. The Feast of Our Lady of Guadalupe is the Patronal Festivity of Mexico, and is likewise kept with solemnity in the South and West of the United States. In California, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, & c., it is a Double of the First class. In the Dioceses of the Province of New Orleans the Feast of Our Lady of Guadalupe is anticipated to Nov. 16.

Intróitus.— Salve, Sancta Parens, eníxa puérpera Regem, qui coelum terrámque regit in saecula saeculórum. Ps. 44. Eructávit cor meum verbum bonum : dico ego ópera mea Regi. ℣. Glória Patri.

Orémus. — Deus, qui sub beatíssimae Vírginis Maríae singulári patrocínio constitútos, perpétuis benefíciis nos cumulári voluísti : praesta supplícibus tuis ; ut cujus hódie commemoratióne laetámur in terris, ejus conspéctu perfruámur in coelis. Per Dóminum.

Introit. — Hail, Holy, Mother ! thou, in giving birth to thy Child, didst bring forth the King who ruleth the heavens and the earth for ever and ever. Ps. My heart hath uttered a good word : I speak my works to the King. ℣. Glory.

Collect. — O God, who by having in an especial manner placed us under the patronage of the most blessed Virgin Mary, hast been pleased to heap unceasing favors on us : grant to us, thy suppliants, whose joy it is this day to honor her upon earth, for evermore to be made happy by seeing her in heaven.

A Commemoration of the Advent Feria is then made, and in like manner at the Secret and Postcommunion.

For the Epistle is read the Lesson, Ego quasi vitis, as on the Feast of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, p. 1500.

Graduále. Cant. vi. — Quae est ista, quae progréditur quasi auróra consúrgens, pulchra ut luna, elécta ut sol ? ℣. Eccles. 2. Quasi arcus refúlgens inter nébulas glóriae, et quasi flos rosárum in diébus vernis. Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Cant. ii. Flores apparuérunt in terra nostra, tempus putatiónis advénit. Allelúia.

Gradual. — Who is she that cometh forth as the morning rising, fair as the moon, bright as the sun ? ℣. As the rainbow giving light in the bright clouds, and as the flower of roses in the days of spring. Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. The flowers have appeared in our land, the time of pruning is come. Alleluia.

The Gospel is that of the Feast of the Visitation, Exsurgens Maria, p. 1476.

The Nicene Creed is said, or sung.

Offertórium. 2 Paral. vii. — Elégi, et sanctificávi locum istum, ut sit ibi nomen meum, et permáneant óculi mei, et cor meum ibi cunctis diébus.

Offertory. — I have chosen, and have sanctified this place, that my name may be there, and my eyes and my heart may remain there for evermore.

Secréta. — Tua, Dómine, propitiatióne, et beátae Maríae semper Vírginis intercessióne, ad perpétuam atque praeséntem haec oblátio nobis profíciat prosperitátem et pacem. Per Dóminum.

Secret.—Through thine indulgent mercy, O Lord, and through the prayers of blessed Mary ever a virgin, may this oblation avail to the ensuring to us of prosperity and peace, now and for evermore.

Preface of the Blessed Virgin, Et te in festivitate, p. 56.

Commúnio. Ps. 147. — Non fecit táliter omni natióni : et judícia sua non manifestávit eis.

Communion. — He hath not done in like manner to every nation ; and his judgments he hath not made manifest to them.

Postcommúnio. — Súmptis, Dómine, salútis nostrae subsídiis, da, quaesumus, beátae Maríae semper Vírginis patrocíniis nos ubíque prótegi, in cujus veneratióne haec tuae obtúlimus majestáti. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Give unto us, O Lord, who have received these helps to salvation, to find, wheresoever we may be, a sure defence in the patronage of blessed Mary ever a virgin : for it is her honor that we have made in our offerings to thy divine majesty.

FEBRUARY 1.

St. Brigid, VIRGIN. — White vestments.

St. Brigid has ever been venerated as one of the chief patron saints of Ireland. She was born at Leinster of good Christian parents, and consecrated herself to God from her earliest years. She became the first abbess of Kildare, whence the religious life spread rapidly through Ireland. She was remarkable for her absorbing love of Christ and of the poor, as also for her tender devotion to the blessed Virgin. She died on February 1, 523, and was buried at Kildare. Her body was afterwards translated to Downpatrick, in Ulster, where it rests beside that of St. Patrick and St. Columba.

Mass : Dilexisti, p. 291, except the following :

Orémus. — Deus, qui nos hodiérna die beátae Brigidae vírginis tuae ánnua solemnitáte laetíficas : concéde propítius ; ut ejus adjuvémur méritis, cujus castitátis irradiámur exémplis. Per Dóminum.

Collect. — O God, Who dost this day gladden us by the yearly festival of blessed Brigid Thy virgin : mercifully grant that we may be helped by the merits of her whose example of chastity shines upon us with such lustre.

A Commemoration is made of St. Ignatius, Bp., M., from the Mass : Statuit, p. 219.

FEBRUARY 5.

St. Philip of Jesus, MARTYR. — Red vestments.

St. Philip of Jesus, born in Mexico of Spanish parents, desirous of doing penance for the sins of his ill-spent youth, entered the Capuchin Order at Manilla in the Philippine Islands. On the return voyage to North America, his ship was forced by a storm into a Japanese port. The persecution was then beginning, and Philip with his brethren was arrested and condemned to die. Crucified and thrice pierced with a lance, Philip was the first in Japan to lay down his life for Christ. (A.D. 1597). His Feast day, by Order of the Holy See, is observed throughout the United States of North America.

Intróitus. — In nómine Jesu omne genu flectátur, coeléstium terréstrium et infernórum : et omnis lingua confiteátur, quia Dóminus Jesus Christus in glória est Dei Patris. Ps. 102. Bénedic, ánima mea, Dómino : et ómnia, quae intra me sunt, nómini sancto ejus. ℣. Glória.

Introit. Philipp. ii. — In the name of Jesus let every knee bow, of those that are in heaven, on earth, and under the earth ; and let every tongue confess that the Lord, Jesus Christ is in the glory of God the Father. Ps. Bless the Lord O my soul ; and let all that is within me bless his holy name. ℣. Glory.

Orémus. — Deus, qui inter primos Japóniae Mártyres beá-

Collect. — O God who, among the first Martyrs of Japan, didst tum Philíppum cruci alligátum, triplicíque láncea confóssum, primum ómnium martyrio coronásti : concéde propítius ; ut ejúsdem nos suffúlti patrocínio cum illo páriter coronémur in coelis. Per Dóminum.

before all others vouchsafe to bestow the crown of martyrdom on blessed Philip, fastened to a cross and thrice pierced with a lance : grant unto us, who rely upon him as our advocate, to gether with him to be crowned in heaven.

Epistle, Mihi autem, p. 1682.

Graduále. Ps. 102. — Bénedic, ánima mea, Dómino : et noli oblivísci omnes retributiónes ejus. ℣. Qui propitiátur ómnibus iniquitátibus tuis, qui sanat omnes infirmitátes tuas. Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. St. James i. Beátus vir, qui suffert tentatiónem : quóniam cum probátus fúerit, accípiet corónam vitae. Allelúia.

Gradual. — Bless the Lord, o my soul : and forget not all his benefits. ℣. Who forgiveth thee all thine iniquities : who healeth all thine infirmities. Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. Blessed is the man that endureth temptation : for when he hath been proved, he shall receive the crown of life. Alleluia.

From Septuagesima to Easter, in place of the Alleluias and verse following, is said, or sung :

Tractus Ps. 117. — Déxtera Dómini fecit virtútem : déxtera Dómini exaltávit me, déxtera Dómini fecit virtútem. ℣. Non móriar, sed vivam : et narrábo ópera Dómini. ℣. Castígans castigávit me Dóminus : et morti non trádidit me.

Tract. — The right hand of the Lord hath done mightily ; the right hand of the Lord hath exalted me ; the right hand of the Lord hath wrought strength. ℣. I shall not die but live : and shall declare the works of the Lord. ℣. The Lord hath chastened and corrected me : but he hath not given me over unto death.

Gospel, Si quis vult, p. 220.

Offertórium. Ps. 88. — Véritas mea et misericórdia mea cum ipso : et in nómine meo exaltábitur cornu ejus.

Offertory. — My truth and my mercy shall be with him ; and in my name shall his horn be exalted.

Secréta. — Sanctífica, quaesumus, Dómine, múnera tibi dicáta : et intercessióne beáti Philíppi Mártyris tui, ad perpétuum nobis tríbue proveníre subsídium. Per Dóminum.

Secret. — Hallow, we beseech thee, O Lord, the offering we lay before thee : and, giving ear to the prayers of blessed Philip, thy martyr, vouchsafe that for all time it be to us a help.

Commúnio. Matth. xvi. — Qui vult veníre post me, ábne-

Communion. — If any one will come after me let him deny him-get semetipsum, et tollat crucem suam, et sequátur me.

Postcommúnio. — Sacro córpore, et pretióso sánguine Jesu Christi Filii tui, Dómine, satiáti: te súpplices deprecámur ; ut intercedénte beáto Philíppo Mártyre tuo ab omni adversitáte liberémur. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

self, and take up his cross and follow me.

Postcommunion. — Having feasted, O Lord, upon the sacred body and precious blood of Jesus Christ, thy Son : suppliantly, we entreat of thee, through the prayers of blessed Philip, thy martyr, to be delivered from all adversity.

MARCH 22.

St. Catharine Flisca Adorna, WIDOW. — White vestments.

St. Catharine Fieschi, of illustrious birth in Genoa, was, when very young, married into the noble family of the Adorni. After some years, being left a widow, she gave herself up entirely to good works and served the sick in a public hospital,where she herself entered into her rest, Sept. 14. A. D. 1510. St. Catharine's great devotion was to the souls in Purgatory, concerning whose sufferings she was privileged to communicate many wholesome truths to the living.

Intróitus. Ps. 41. — Sitívit ánima mea ad Deum fortem, vivum : quando véniam et apparébo ante fáciem Dei. Ps. Quemádmodum desíderat cervus ad fontes aquárum : ita desíderat ánima mea ad te, Deus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Orémus. — Deus, qui beátam Catharínam in contemplánda Filii tui passióne divíni amóris igne flagráre fecísti : quaesumus ; ut ipsa intercedénte, tuae in nobis flammam caritátis accéndas, et ejúsdem passiónis partícipes dignánter effícias. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Introit. Ps. 41. — My soul hath thirsted after the strong Living God : When shall I come and appear before the Face of God ? Ps. As the hart panteth after the fountains of water, so my soul panteth after thee, my God. ℣. Glory.

Collect. — O God who, in blessed Catharine, contemplating the passion of thy Son, didst make fiercely to burn up the fire of thy love : moved by her prayers, enkindle within us, we beseech thee, the flame of charity, and grant us a share in the fruit of that same sacred passion.

For the Epistle is read the Lesson, Mulierem fortem, p. 304.

Graduále. Ps. 44. — Diffúsa est grátia in lábiis tuis : proptérea benedíxit te Deus in aetérnum. ℣. Propter veritátem et mansuetúdinem et justítiam, et dedúcet te mirabíliter déxtera tua. Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Ps. 72. Quid mihi est in coelo ?

Graduel. — Grace is poured abroad in thy lips : therefore hath God blessed thee for ever. ℣. Because of truth and meekness and justice ; and thy right hand shall conduct thee wonderfully. Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. What have I in Heaven, and beside thee, what do I desire on earth ? For thee my flesh and my heart have fainted away. Thou art the God of my heart and the God that is my portion for ever. Alleluia.

Et a te quid vólui super terram ? Defécit caro mea et cor meum : Deus cordis mei, et pars mea, Deus, in aetérnum. Allelúia.

From Septuagesima to Easter the appointed Tract is Veni sponsa, p. 306.

In Paschal Time for Gradual is sung the following :

Allelúia, allelúia. Ps. 72. — Quid mihi est in coelo ? Et a te quid vólui super terram ? Defécit caro mea et cor meum : Deus cordis mei et pars mea Deus in aetérnum. Allelúia. ℣. Ps. 38. Concáluit cor meum intra me : et in meditatióne mea exardéscet ignis. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. — What have I in Heaven, and beside thee, what do I desire on earth ? For thee my flesh and my heart have fainted away. Thou art the God of my heart and the God that is my portion for ever. Alleluia. ℣. My heart grew hot within me, and in my meditation a fire shall flame out. Alleluia.

The Gospel is Simile est... thesauro abscondito, p. 288.

Offertórium. — Ps. 107. — Parátum cor meum, Deus, parátum cor meum : cantábo et psallam in glória mea.

Offertory. — My heart is ready, O God, my heart is ready : I will sing and give praise with my glory.

Secréta. — His sacrifíciis, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus, propitiátus inténde : et beáta Catharina intercedénte, spíritum in nobis tuae dilectiónis accénde. Per Dóminum.

Secret. — Look down in thy loving kindness, O Lord, we beseech thee on this our Sacrifice : and through the intercession of blessed Catharine, enkindle in us the spirit of thy love.

Commúnio. Ps. 83. — Cor meum et caro mea exsultavérunt in Deum vivum.

Communion. — My heart and my flesh have rejoiced in the living God.

Postcommúnio. — Súpplices te rogámus, omnípotens Deus, ut quos tuis refícere dignátus es Sacraméntis, intercedénte beáta Catharina, tríbuas pro tui amóre terréna despícere, et coeléstium semper participatióne gaudére. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Humbly we beseech thee, O Almighty God, who hast vouchsafed to comfort us with Sacraments, that, moved by the prayers of blessed Catharine, thou wouldst make us to despise the things of earth and ever to rejoice in sharing in those of Heaven.

In some Dioceses, Mass : Cognovi, p. 304, with the proper Collect only.

APRIL 6.

Blessed Juliana of Cornillon, VIRGIN. — White vestments.

Blessed Juliana, a humble Religious in the Augustinian Monastery of Mount Cornillon, near Liége in Belgium, was the instrument chosen by Almighty God for the institution in his Church of the solemn Festival of Corpus Christi, first celebrated at her petition in the Diocese of Liége, A. D. 1247, and soon after by Pope Urban IV made of universal obligation. Blessed Juliana, after having been tried with many tribulations, was called by her Heavenly Spouse to himself, A. D. 1259, she being then in her 66th year.

In the Diocese of Portland.

Mass : Dilexisti, p. 291.

Orémus. — Deus humílium celsitúdo, qui beátam Vírginem Juliánam ad promovéndum sanctíssimi Sacraménti cultum mirabíliter inflammásti : tríbue, quaesumus ; ita nos humilitátis ejus vestígia sectári in terris, ut cum ipsa sublimári mereámur in coelis. Per Dóminum.

Prayer. — O God who liftest up the lowly, and didst in wondrous wise inspire the holy virgin Juliana to add splendour to the worship of the Most Holy Sacrament : grant unto us, we beseech thee, so to follow her in her lowly path upon earth as to merit to be exalted with her in heaven.

APRIL 26.

Our Lady of Good Counsel. — White vestments.

The devotion of Our Lady of Good Counsel is one that is spreading rapidly in the Church. It originated at Gennazzano, a village in the neighbourhood of Rome, where an Augustinian church, in which is enshrined a miraculous picture of Our Lady, has been for centuries a place of popular pilgrimage.

Intróitus. — Gaudeámus omnes in Dómino, diem festum celebrántes sub honóre beátae Maríae Vírginis, Boni Consílii Matris : de cujus solemnitáte gaudent Angeli, et colláudant Filium Dei, allelúia, allelúia. Ps. 44. Eructávit cor meum verbum bonum : dico ego ópera mea regi. ℣. Glória Patri.

Orémus. — Deus, qui Genitrícem diléctí Fílii tui matrem nobis dedísti, ejúsque speciósam imáginem mira apparitióne clarificáre dignátus es : concéde, Introit. — Let us all rejoice in the Lord, celebrating a festival day in honour of the Blessed Virgin Mary, Mother of Good Counsel, in whose solemnity the Angels rejoice and give praise to the Son of God. Alleluia, alleluia. Ps. My heart hath uttered a good word : I speak my works to the King. ℣. Glory.

Collect. — O God, who hast given the Mother of thy beloved Son to be likewise unto us a mother, and hast made famous this her beauteous picture, by causquáesumus; ut ejúsdem mónitis júgiter inhaeréntes, secúndum cor tuum vívere et ad coeléstem pátriam felíciter pervenire valeámus. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

ing it miraculously to appear in our midst: grant unto us, we beseech thee, never to depart from her counsels and, by this means ordering our lives after thine own heart, one day happily to reach our heavenly fatherland.

Lesson, Ego quasi vitis, as on the Feast of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, p. 1500.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Luke, i. Ave, María, grátia plena: Dóminus tecum: benedícta tu in muliéribus. Allelúia. ℣. Per te Dei Génitrix nobis est vita pérdita data, quae de coelo suscepísti prolem, et mundo genuísti Salvatórem. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. — ℣. Hail Mary, full of grace, the Lord is with thee, blessed art thou among women. Alleluia. ℣. Through thee, O Mother of God, has the life we had lost been given back to us: for from heaven receiving him who became thy Son, thou on the world hast bestowed its Savior. Alleluia.

Out of Paschal Time is said, or sung:

Graduále. Prov. viii. — Ego sapiéntia hábito in consílio, et eruditis intérsum cogitatiónibus. ℣. Beátus homo qui audit me, et vígilat ad fores meas quótidie, et obsérvat ad postes óstii mei. Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Qui me invénerit, invéniet vitam, et háuriet salútem a Dómino. Allelúia.

Gradual. — I, Wisdom, dwell in counsel and am present in learned thoughts. ℣. Blessed is the man that heareth me and that watcheth daily at my gates and waiteth at the posts of my doors. Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. He that shall find me shall find life, and shall have salvation from the Lord. Alleluia.

For the Gospel, is read the first part of that of the Mass Rorate, p. 193, as far as the words Et regni ejus non erit finis (And of his Kingdom there shall be no end).

The Nicene Creed is said, or sung.

Offertórium. — Recordáre, Virgo Mater, in conspéctu Dei, ut loquáris pro nobis bona, et ut avértat indignatiónem suam a nobis, allelúia.

Offertory. — O Virgin Mother, thou that ever standest before God's face, forget not to plead with him in our behalf, and to obtain that he turn from us his wrath. Alleluia.

Secréta. — Sanctífica, Dómine, quaesumus, obláta libámina et beátae Dei Genitrícis Maríae, Boni Consílii Matris, salubérrima intercessióne, nobis

Secret. — Hallow, we beseech thee, O Lord, the sacrifice we offer up, and may the mighty prayers of blessed Mary the Mother of God, and Mother of Good salutária fore concéde. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Counsel, make it of avail for our salvation.

Preface of the Blessed Virgin Mary. Et te in festivitate, p. 56.

Commúnio. — Regína mundi digníssima, María Virgo perpétua, intercéde pro nostra pace et salúte, quae genuísti Christum Dóminum Salvatórem ómnium, allelúia.

Communion. — O Virgin Mary, thou whom, because of thy worth, God hath set up as queen over the whole world, pray for our peace and for our salvation, for thou didst bring forth Christ the Lord, the Savior of us all. Alleluia.

Postcommúnio. — Adjuvet nos, quaesumus, Dómine, gloriósae tuae Genitrícis sempérque Vírginis Maríae intercéssio veneránda : ut quos perpétuis cumulávit benefíciis ea quae agénda sunt júgiter vidére fáciat, et ad adimpléndа quae víderint convaléscere.Qui vivis.

Postcommunion. — May, at all times, O Lord, the venerable intercession of thy glorious Mother, Mary ever a virgin, be our hope. She has loaded us with everlasting gifts : may she ever make us to see what it behoveth us to do, and may she strengthen us to the fulfilling thereof.

APRIL 27.

St. Thuribius of Mogrobejo, BISHOP, CONFESSOR.

White vestments.

St. Thuribius, a Spaniard, served God from his infancy. Appointed Archbishop of Lima, he landed in South America, A. D. 1581. He died March 23, A. D. 1606, having, by his indefatigable zeal and by the boundlessness of his charity, literally renewed the face of the Church of Peru. His festival is celebrated throughout the United States.

Mass : Státuit, p. 255.

Orémus. — Ecclésiam tuam, Dómine, beáti Thuríbii, Confessóris tui atque Pontíficis, contínua protectióne custódi : ut sicut illum pastorális sollicitúdo gloriósum réddidit, ita nos ejus intercéssio in tuo semper fáciat amóre ferméntes. Per Dóminum.

Collect. — Do thou, O Lord, keep safe thy Church, vouchsafing to her the abiding protection of blessed Thuribius, thy confessor and bishop. By watchful care of his flock he has won a glorious name : by his intercession, may he obtain for us an ever growing fervor of love of thee.

Epistola. Léctio libri Sapiéntiae. Ecclus. I. 1-14. — Ecce Conféssor magnus, qui in vita sua suffúlsit domum, et in diébus suis corroborávit templum.

Epistle. Lesson from the book of Wisdom. — Behold a great confessor, who in his life propped up the house, and in his days fortified the temple. By him also Templi étiam altitúdo ab ipso fundáta est, duplex aedificátio, et excélsi paríetes templi. In diébus ipsíus emanavérunt púteí aquárum, et quasi mare adimpléti sunt supra modum. Qui curávit gentem suam, et liberávit eam a perditióne. Qui praeváluit amplificáre civitátem, qui adéptus est glóriam in conversatióne gentis : et ingréssum domus, et átrii amplificávit. Quasi stella matutína in médio nébulae, et quasi luna plena in diébus suis lucet. Et quasi sol refúlgens, sic ille effúlsit in templo Dei. Quasi arcus refúlgens inter nébulas glóriae, et quasi flos rosárum in diébus vernis, et quasi lília, quae sunt in tránsitu aquae, et quasi thus rédolens in diébus aestátis. Quasi ignis effúlgens et thus ardens in igne, Quasi vas auri sólidum ornátum omni lápide pretióso. Quasi olíva púllulans, et quasi cypréssus in altitúdinem se extóllens. Circa illum coróna fratrum : et quasi plantátio cedri in monte Líbano, sic circa illum stetérunt, quasi rami palmae, et omnes fílii Aaron in glória sua.

the height of the temple was founded, the double building and the high walls of the temple. In his days the wells of water flowed out, and they were filled as the sea above measure. He took care of his nation, and delivered it from destruction. He prevailed to enlarge the city, and obtained glory in his conversation with the people : and enlarged the entrance of the house, and the court. He shone in his days as the morning star in the midst of a cloud, and as the moon at the full. And as the sun when it shineth, so did he shine in the temple of God. And as the rainbow giving light in the bright clouds, and as the flower of roses in the days of the spring, and as the lilies that are on the brink of the water, and as the sweet smelling frankincense in the time of summer. As a bright fire, and frankincense burning in the fire. As a massy vessel of gold, adorned with every precious stone. As an olive-tree budding forth, and a cypress-tree rearing itself on high. And about him was the ring of his brethren : and as the cedar planted in mount Libanus, and as branches of palm-trees, they stood round about him, and all the sons of Aaron in their glory.

MAY 16.

St. John Nepomucene, MARTYR. — Red vestments.

The following Proper Mass has been accorded to many Dioceses:

Introitus. — Dedit mihi Dóminus linguam mercédem meam : et in ipsa laudábo eum. (Allelúia, allelúia). Ps. 38. Dixi : Custódiam vias meas, ut non delínquam in lingua mea. ℣. Glória Patri.

Introit. Ecclus. li, 30. — The Lord hath given me a tongue for my reward, and with it I will praise him. (Alleluia, alleluia). Ps. I said : I will take heed to my ways, that I sin not with my tongue. ℣. Glory.

Orémus. — Deus qui ob invictum beáti Joánnis sacramentále siléntium nova Ecclésiam tuam martyrii coróna decorásti : da, ut ejus intercessióne et exémplo, ori nostro custódiam ponéntes, beátis qui lingua non sunt lapsi annumerémur. Per Dóminum.

Collect. — O God, whose Church the unconquerable Sacramental silence of Blessed John has enriched with yet another Martyr's crown : grant that, strengthened by his prayers and example, we may set a guard upon our tongues and may be numbered with the Blessed who have not sinned in their words.

Epistola. Léctio Libri Sapiéntiae. — Stultus a fenéstra respíciet in domum : vir autem erudítus foris stabit. Stultítia hóminis auscultáre per óstium : et prudens gravábitur contumélia. Lábia imprudéntium stulta narrábunt : verba autem prudéntium statéra ponderabúntur. In ore fatuórum corda illórum : et in corde sapiéntium os illórum. Dum maledícit ímpiis diábolum, maledícit ipse ánimam suam. Susúrro coinquinábit ánimam suam, et in ómnibus odiétur : et qui cum eo mánserit odiósus erit ; tácitus et sensátus honorábitur.

Epistle. Lesson from the book of Wisdom. Ecclus. xxi, 26-31. — A fool will peep through the window into the house : but he that is well taught will stand without. It is the folly of a man to hearken at the door : and a wise man will be grieved at the disgrace. The lips of the unwise will be telling foolish things : but the words of the wise will be weighed in a balance. The heart of fools is in their mouth : and the mouth of wise men is in their heart. While the ungodly curseth the devil, he curseth his own soul. The talebearer shall defile his own soul, and shall be hated by all : and he that shall abide with him shall be hateful : the silent and wise man shall be honored.

Graduále. Prov. xi. —— Qui ámbulat fraudulénter revélat arcána : qui autem fidélis est ánimi celat. ℣. Ps. 14. Dómine, quis habitábit in tabernáculo tuo : aut quis requiéscet in monte sancto tuo ? Qui non egit dolum in lingua sua : nec fecit próximo suo malum. Allelúia, allel. ℣. Eccles, xxv. Beátus qui lingua sua non est lapsus, et qui non servívit indígnis se. Allelúia.

Gradual. — He that walketh deceitfully revealeth secrets : but the faithful soul concealeth. ℣. Lord, who shall dwell in thy tabernacle, or who shall rest on thy holy hill ? He who hath not used deceit in his tongue, nor hath done evil to his neighbour. Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. Blessed is he that hath not slipped with his tongue, nor served such as are unworthy of him. Alleluia.

In Paschal Time the Gradual is omitted and the following is sung.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Eccles.

Alleluia, alleluia. — ℣. Blessxxv. — Beátus qui lingua sua non est lapsus, et qui non servívit indignis se. Allelúia. ℣. Prov. x. Lingua pravórum períbit : lingua autem sapiéntium est sánitas. Allelúia.

ed is he that hath not slipped with his tongue, nor served such as are unworthy of him. Alleluia. ℣. The tongue of the perverse shall perish : but the lips of the wise utter what is acceptable. Alleluia.

The Gospel appointed is that of the Second Sunday of Advent, p. 55.

Offertórium. Eccles. xlii. — Non dúplices sermónem de revelatióne sermónis abscónditi, et eris vere sine confusióne : et invénies grátiam in conspéctu ómnium hóminum. (Allelúia).

Offertory. — Repeat not the word which thou hast heard, and disclose not the thing which is secret : so shalt thou be truly without confusion, and shalt find favor before all men. (Alleluia).

Secréta. — Haec tua, Dómine, sacra Mystéria illum in nobis, quáesumus, ignem accéndant quo inclytus Martyr et Sacérdos Joánnes, ea peragéndo flagrábat. Per Dóminum.

Secret. — May these Sacred Mysteries, O Lord, we beseech thee, enkindle in us that fire by which, while celebrating them, the soul of thy glorious Martyr-Priest, John, was burned up.

Commúnio. — Volávit ad me unus de Séraphim : et in manu ejus cálculus, quem túlerat de altári, et tétigit os meum. (Allelúia).

Communion. — One of the Seraphim flew to me ; and in his hand was a live coal which he had taken off the altar ; and he touched my mouth. (Alleluia).

Postcommúnio. — Fragilitátem nostram, Dómine, coeléstis haec mensa fórtium pane confírmet : qui beáti Mártyris et Sacerdótis tui Joánnis tentátam contra honórem Sacraménti constántiam, júgiter áluit ad victóriam. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — May this Heavenly banquet, O Lord, nourish us with the bread of the strong, which, when thy blessed Martyr-Priest John was tempted to dishonour thy Sacrament, unceasingly strengthened him to victory.

In some dioceses, Mass Protexisti, p. 243, with the Collects from Proper Mass.

MAY 16

St. Brendan, Abbot. — White vestments.

St. Brendan, a native of Kerry, was baptised by St. Ercus, a disciple of St. Patrick, and by him entrusted for his education to the holy abbess, St. Ida. Being ordained priest, he travelled over Ireland, spreading everywhere the knowledge and love of Christ. Passing over into Wales, he spent some years in the monastery of Llancarvan. On his return to Ireland he founded several monasteries, among them Ardfert, and Clonfert, Co. Galway. He died in 577, at the age of ninety-four, and was buried at Clonfert.

Mass : Os justi, from the Common of an Abbot, p. 276, with a Commemoration of St. Ubald, Bp., C., as in the Missal, p. 1381.

MAY 22.

St. Rita of Cascia, WIDOW. — White vestments.

St. Rita (Margarita) after eighteen years of married life, lost, by death, her husband and her two sons. Called afterwards to the religious state, she professed the Rule of St. Augustine at Cascia her native town, near Spoleto, in Central Italy. In a life-long and terrible malady her patience, cheerfulness, and union by prayer with Almighty God, never failed her. She died May 22, A. D. 1456, and both in life and after death has worked many miracles.

Intróitus. — Apérite mihi portas justítiae, ingréssus in eas confitébor Dómino : lápidem, quem reprobavérunt aedificántes, hic factus est in caput ánguli. Ps. Confitémini Dómino quóniam bonus : quóniam in sáeculum misericórdia ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Orémus. — Deus, qui Sanctae Ritae tantam grátiam conférre dignátus es, ut inimícos diligeret, et in corde atque fronte caritátis et passiónis tuae signa portáret : da nobis, quáesumus, ejus intercessióne et méritis, inimícis nostris sic párcere et passiónis tuae dolóres contemplári, ut promíssa mítibus ac lugéntibus práemia consequámur. Qui vivis.

Introit. Ps. 117. — Open ye to me the gates of justice : I will go into them, and give praise to the Lord : the stone which the builders rejected, the same is become the head of the corner. Ps. Give praise to the Lord, for he is good : for his mercy endureth for ever. ℣. Glory.

Collect. — O God, who to Saint Rita didst vouchsafe the great grace in very truth to love her enemies, and both in her heart and on her brow to bear the stigmata of thy passion : have regard, we beseech thee, to her merits and prayers ; and grant that we may in such wise show mercy to our enemies, and so meditate on the pains of thy passion, as to make our own the blessedness promised to them that are meek and to them that mourn.

Epistola. Léctio libri Sapiéntiae. — Ego flos campi, et lílium convállium. Sicut lílium inter spinas : sic amica mea inter ligna silvárum, sic diléctus meus inter fílios. Sub umbra illíus, quem desideráveram, sedi : et fructus ejus dulcis gútturi meo. Introdúxit me in cellam vináriam, ordinávit in me caritátem. Fulcíte me flóribus, sti-

Epistle. Lesson from the book of Wisdom. Cant. ii. 1-13. — I am the flower of the field, and the lily of the valleys. As the lily among thorns, so is my love among the daughters. As the apple-tree among the trees of the woods, so is my beloved among the sons. I sat down under his shadow, whom I desired : and his fruit was sweet to my palate.

páte me malis ; qui amóre lángueo. Laeva ejus sub cápite meo, et déxtera illíus amplexábitur me. Adjúro vos, fíliae Jerúsalem, per cápreas cervósque campórum, ne suscitétis, neque evigiláre faciátis diléctam, quoadúsque ipsa velit. Vox diléctí mei ; ecce iste venit sáliens in móntibus, transíliens colles : símilis est diléctus meus cápreae hinnulóque cervórum. En ipse stat post paríetem nostrum, respíciens per fenéstras, respíciens per cancéllos. En diléctus meus lóquitur mihi : Surge, própera, amíca mea, colúmba mea, formósa mea, et veni. Jam enim hiems tránsiit, imber ábiit et recéssit. Flores apparuérunt in terra nostra, tempus putatiónis advénit : vox túrturis audíta est in terra nostra : ficus prótulit grossos suos : víneae flóréntes dedérunt odórem suum. Surge, amíca mea, speciósa mea, et veni.

He brought me into the cellar of wine, he set in order charity in me. Stay me up with flowers, compass me about with apples : because I languish with love. His left hand is under my head, and his right hand shall embrace me. I adjure you, o ye daughters of Jerusalem, by the roes and the harts of the field, that you stir not up, nor make the beloved to awake, till she please. The voice of my beloved, behold he cometh leaping over the mountains, skipping over the hills. My beloved is like a roe, or a young hart. Behold he standeth behind our wall, looking through the windows, looking through the lattices. Behold my beloves speaketh to me : Arise, make haste, my love, my dove, my beautiful one, and come. For winter is now past, the rain is over and gone. The flowers have appeared in our land, the time of pruning is come : the voice of the turtle is heard in our land : the fig-tree hath put forth her green figs : the vines in flower yield their sweet smell. Arise, my love, my beautiful one, and come.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Eccl. xxiv. — Quasi palma exaltáta sum in Cades, et quasi plantátio rosae in Jéricho. Allelúia. ℣. Sicut cinnamómum et bálsamum aromatízans odórem dedi, quasi myrrha elécta dedi suavitátem odóris. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. — ℣. I was exalted like a palmtree in Cades, and as a rose plant in Jericho. Alleluia. ℣. I gave a sweet smell like cinnamon, and aromatical balm. I yielded sweet odor like the best myrrh. Alleluia.

Out of Paschal Time :

Graduále. Ps. 117. — Dóminus mihi adjútor, non timébo quid fáciat mihi homo. ℣. Ps. 115. Dirupísti víncula mea : tibi sacrificábo hóstiam laudis et nomen Dómini invocábo.

Gradual. — The Lord is my helper, and I will not fear what man can do unto me. ℣. Thou hast broken my bonds : I will sacrifice to thee a sacrifice of praise, and I will call upon the name of the Lord. Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. I will pay my vows to the Lord in thee sight of all his people : in the courts of the house of the Lord in the midst of thee, o Jerusalem. Alleluia.

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Vota mea Dómino reddam in conspéctu omnis pópuli ejus : in átriis domus Dómini, in médio tui Jerúsalem. Allelúia.

The Gospel is Simile est... thesauro abscondito, p. 288.

Offertórium. Gen. xl. — Vidébam coram me vitem, in qua erant tres propágines, créscere paulátim in gemmas, et post flores uvas maturéscere.

Offertory. — I saw before me a vine, on which were three branches which by little and little sent out buds, and after the blossoms brought forth ripe grapes.

Secréta. — Corda nostra, quaesumus Dómine, Sanctae Ritae méritis, supérni dolóris spina confige : ut a peccátis ómnibus tua grátia liberáti, sacrificáre tibi hóstiam laudis pura mente valeámus. Per Dóminum.

Secret. — For the sake of the merits of St. Rita, we beseech thee, O Lord, to pierce our hearts with the thorn of that sorrow which is from above : that, by thy grace, freed from our sins, with a pure heart we may sacrifice to thee the sacrifice of praise.

Commúnio. Ps. 20. — Praevenísti, Dómine, in benedictiónibus dulcédinis : posuísti in cápite ejus corónam de lápide pretióso.

Communion. — Thou hast prevented her, o Lord, with blessings of sweetness : thou hast set on her head a crown of precious stones.

Postcommúnio. — Coeléstibus, Dómine, pasti delíciis, súpplices te rogámus : ut, intercedénte sancta Rita, caritátis et passiónis tuae in méntibus nostris signa ferámus, et perpétuae pacis fructu perfruámur. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Thou, o Lord, hast permitted us to taste of heavenly delights : very humbly now we entreat of thee that, through the intercession of St. Rita, we may henceforth carry impressed on our hearts the stigmata of thy love and of thy passion, and may enjoy the endless peace that flows therefrom.

MAY 23

St John Baptist di Rossi, CONFESSOR. — White vestments,

In the Dioceses of Los Angeles.

Saint John Baptist di Rossi, lived a most fervent and exemplary life as a secular Priest in Rome, being especially admirable on account of his whole-hearted sacrifice of self in the helping of the poor. He died A. D. 1764, and was canonized by Pope Leo XIII., A. D. 1881.

Intróitus. — Praecípio tibi ut apérias manum fratri tuo egéno Introit. Deut. xv. — I command thee to open thy hand to et páuperi, qui tecum versátur in terra. (Allelúia, allelúia.) Ps. 40. Beátus qui intélligit super egénum et pauperem: in die mala liberábit eum Dóminus ℣. Glória.

thy needy and poor brother, that liveth with thee in the land. (Alleluia, alleluia) Ps. Blessed is he that understandeth concerning the needy and poor: the Lord will deliver him in the evil day. ℣. Glory.

Oremus. — Deus, qui sanctum Joánnem Baptístam Confessórem tuum in evangelizándis paupéribus caritáte et patiéntia decorásti: concéde, quæsumus; ut cujus pia mérita venerámur, virtútum quoque imitémur exémpla. Per Dóminum.

Collect. — O God, who didst endue blessed John Baptist, thy confessor with a singular degree of charity and patience in his work of preaching to the poor: grant unto us, we beseech thee, who seek to do honor to the merit of his piety, to strive in like manner to follow the example of virtue he has left us.

Epistóla. Léctio libri Job. — In diébus illis: Addidit Job, assúmens parábolam suam et dixit: Vidébant me júvenes et abscondebántur: et senes assurgéntes stabant. Príncipes cessábant loqui et dígitum superponébant ori suo. Vocem suam cohibébant duces, et lingua eórum gútturi suo adhaerébat. Auris audiens beatificávit me et óculus videns testimónium reddébat mihi: eo quod liberássem páuperem vociferántem et pupíllum cui non esset adjútor. Benedíctio peritúri super me veniébat et cor víduae consolátus sum. Justítia indútus sum: et vestívi me sicut vestiménto et diadémate judício meo. Oculus fui caeco et pes claudo. Pater eram páuperum: et causam quam nesciébam diligentíssime investigábam. Conterébam molas iníqui, et de déntibus ejus auferébam praedam. Dicebámque: In nídulo meo móriar et sicut palma multiplicábo dies.

Epistle. Lesson from the book of Job, xxix, 8-18. — Job also added taking up his parable and said: The young men saw me and hid themselves: and the old men rose up and stood. The princes ceased to speak and laid the finger on their mouth. The rulers held their peace, and their tongue cleaved to their throat. The ear that heard me blessed me, and the eye that saw me gave witness to me: because I had delivered the poor man that cried out, and the fatherless that had no helper. The blessing of him that was ready to perish came upon me, and I comforted the heart of the widow. I was clad with justice: and I clothed myself with judgment, as with a robe and a diadem. I was an eye to the blind an a foot to the lame. I was the father of the poor; and the cause which I knew not I searched out most diligently. I broke the jaws of the wicked and out of his teeth I took away the prey. And I said: I shall die in my nest, and as a palm tree I shall multiply my days.

Graduále. — Eccles. iv. Fili, eleemósynam páuperis ne defráudes, et óculos tuos ne transvértas a páupere. ℣. Non te pígeat visitáre infírmum : ex his enim in dilectióne firmáberis. Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Isai. lviii. Frange esuriénti panem tuum, et egénos vagósque induc in domum tuam : cum víderis nudum óperi eum, et carnem tuam ne despéxeris. Allelúia.

Gradual. — Son, defraud not the poor of alms, and turn not away thine eyes from the poor. ℣. Be not slow to visit the sick: for by these things thou shalt be confirmed in love. Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. Deal thy bread to the hungry and bring the needy and the harborless into thy house : when thou shalt see one naked, cover him ; and despise not thine own flesh. Alleluia.

From Septuagesima to Easter, the Tract appointed is Beatus vir, p. 271.

In Paschal Time, for the Gradual, the following is said or sung.

Allelúia, allelúia. — ℣. Ps. 73. Ne avertátur húmilis factus confúsus : pauper et inops laudábunt nomen tuum. Allelúia. ℣. Prov. xxxi. Manum suam apéruit ínopi, et palmas suas exténdit ad páuperem. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alléluia. — Let no the humble be turned away with confusion : the poor and needy shall praise thy name. Alleluia. ℣. He hath opened his hand to the needy and stretched out his hands to the poor. Alleluia.

Evangélium. Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matth. xxv, 31-40. — In illo témpore : Dixit Jesus discípulis suis : Cum vénerit Fílius hóminis in majestáte sua, et omnes Angeli cum eo, tunc sedébit super sedem majestátis suae : et congregabúntur ante eum omnes gentes, et separábit eos ab ínvicem, sicut pastor ségregat oves ab hoedis : et státuet oves quidem a dextris suis, hoedos autem a sinístris. Tunc dicet Rex iis qui a dextris ejus erunt : Veníte benedícti Patris mei, possidéte parátum vobis reggnum a constitutióne mundi. Esurívi enim et dedístis mihi bíbere ; hospes eram et collegístis me ; nudus et cooperuístis me ; infírmis et visitástis me ; in cárcere eram et venístis

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to S. Matthew. xxv, 31-40. — At that time, Jesus said to his disciples : When the Son of man shall come in his majesty, and all the Angels with him, then shall he sit upon the seat of his majesty. And all nations shall be gathered together before him, and he shall separate them one from another, as the shepherd separateth the sheep from the goats. And he shall set the sheep on his right hand and the goats on his left. Then shall the King say to those on his right hand : Come, ye blessed of my Father possess you the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world. For, I was hungry and you gave me to eat ; I was thirsty and you gave me to drink ; I was a stranger and you ad me. Tunc respondébunt ei justi, dicéntes : Dómine, quando vídimus te esuriéntem et pávimus te ; sitiéntem et dedímus tibi potum ? quando autem te vídimus hóspitem et collégimus te, aut nudum et cooperúimus te ? aut quando te vídimus ad te ? Et respóndens Rex dicet illis : Quámdiu fecístis uni ex his frátribus meis mínimis, mihi fecístis.

see thee hungry and fed thee ? thirsty and gave thee drink ? And when did we see thee a stranger and took thee in, or naked and covered thee ? Or, when did we see thee sick or in prison and came to thee ? And took me in ; naked and you covered me ; sick and you visited me ; I was in prison and you came to me. Then shall the just answer him saying : Lord, when did we the King answering shall say to them : Amen, I say to you, as long as you did it to one of these, my least brethern, you did it to me.

Offertórium. — St James, i. Relígio munda et immaculáta apud Deum et Patrem haec est: Visitáre pupíllos et víduas in tribulatióne eórum, et immaculátum se custodíre ab hoc saeculo. (Allelúia).

Offertory. — Religion, clean and undefiled before God and the Father, is this : To visit the fatherless and widows in their tribulation ; ant do keep oneself unspotted from this world. (Alleluia).

Secret. — Oblátum tibi munus, quæsumus, Dómine, in odórem suavitátis ascéndat : et sancto Joánne Baptísta Confessóre tuo intercedénte, nos córpore et mente puríficet. Per Dóminum.

Secret. — May this our oblation, we beseech thee, O Lord, mount up before thee as an odor of sweetness, and, in virtue of the prayers of blessed John Baptist, thy confessor, may it cleanse us both in body and in soul.

Communio. 2 Tim. ii. — Servum autem Dómini non opórtet litigáre : sed mansuétum esse ad omnes, docíbilem, patiéntem, cum modéstia corripiéntem eos qui resístunt. (Allelúia).

Communion. — The servant of the Lord must not wrangle, but be mild towards all men, apt toch teach, patient : with modesty admonishing them that resist the truth. (Alleluia).

Postcommunion. — Cœléstis, Dómine, participátio sacraménti, sancti Joánnis Baptístæ Confessóris tui suffragántibus méritis, fidéles tuos mundet et múniat : ac bonis opéribus júgiter præstet esse inténtos. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — May, O Lord, thy faithful who rely on the merits of blessed John Baptist, thy confessor, be cleansed and safeguarded by the heavenly sacrament of which they have partaken : and, quickened by it, may they henceforth at all times be intent upon the doing of good works.

In some Dioceses, Mass Os justi, p. 270, with the Collects as above.

MAY 30.

St. Ferdinand, King, Confessor. — White vestments.

In the Diocese of San Antonio.

St. Ferdinand III, King of Castile and Leon, was a brave monarch, who succeeded in freeing a great part of Spain from the hard yoke of the Mahomedans. His innocence of life and the justice and benevolence of his rule, quickly won for him the love of his subjects. He died in the odour of sanctity, A. D. 1252.

Mass : Justus ut palma, p. 273.

Orémus. Deus, qui beáto Confessóri tuo Ferdinándo proeliári próelia tua, et fidei inimícos superáre dedísti : concéde ; ut ejus nos intercessióne muníti, ab hóstibus mentis et córporis liberémur. Per Dóminum.

Collect. — O God who didst endue blessed Ferdinand, thy Confessor, with strength to fight thy battles and to vanquish the enemies of the faith : grant that, safeguarded by this prayers, we may be delivered from the hand of our every foe, whether of soul or of body.

JUNE 9.

St. Columba, Abbot. — White vestments.

St. Columba, or Columkill, apostle of the Picts, was of illustrious Irish descent. He was brought up in the company of many saints an the school of St. Finian of Clonard. Being ordained priest, and having founded many churches in Ireland, he went to Scotland with twelve companions, and there converted many of the northern Picts to the faith of Christ. He founded the monastery of Iona, or Hy, which bacame the nursery of saints and apostles. He also evangelised the northern English. He died at the foot of the altar, at Iona, whilst blessing his people, on June 9, 597, and was buried, like St. Bridget, beside St. Patrick, at Downpatrick, in Ulster.

Mass : Os justi, of Abbots, p. 276, with a Commemoration of SS. Primus and Felician. MM., as in the Missal, p. 1406.

JUNE 16.

St. John Francis Regis, Confessor. — White vestments.

In the Diocese of Kansas City.

The Mass which follows, hitherto Proper to the Society of Jesus, is given in the new edition of the Roman Missal.

Intróitus. — Spíritus Dómini super me : propter quod unxit me : evangelizáre paupéribus misit me, sanáre contrítos corde, praedicáre annum Dómini accéptum, et diem retributiónis. Ps. 9. Exsúrge, Dómine

Introit. Isaias, lxi. — The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, wherefore he hath anointed me : to preach the Gospel to the poor he hath sent me, to heal the contrite of hearth, to preach the acceptable year of the Lord, and the day of Deus, exaltétur manus tua : ne obliviscáris páuperum. ℣. Glória Patri.

Orémus. — Deus, qui ad plúrimos pro salúte animárum perferéndos labóres, beátum Joánnem Franciscum Confessórem tuum, mirábili caritáte, et invícta patiéntia decorásti : concéde propítius ; ut ejus exémplis instrúcti, et intercessiónibus adjúti, aetérnae vitae práemia consequámur. Per Dóminum.

Epistola. Léctio Epistolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Thessalonicénses. — Fratres : Fidúciam habúimus in Deo nostro loqui ad vos Evangélium Dei in multa sollicitúdine. Exhortátio enim nostra non de erróre, neque de immundítia, neque in dolo, sed sicut probáti sumus a Deo ut crederétur nobis Evangélium : ita lóquimur non quasi homínibus placéntes, sed Deo, qui probat corda nostra. Neque enim aliquándo fúimus in sermóne adulatiónis, sicut scitis : neque in occasióne avarítiae : Deus testis est : nec quaeréntes ab homínibus glóriam, neque a vobis, neque ab áliis. Cum possémus vobis óneri esse ut Christi Apóstoli : sed facti sumus párvuli in médio vestrum, tamquam si nutrix fóveat fílios suos. Ita desiderántes vos, cúpide volebámus trádere vobis non solum Evangélium Dei, sed étiam ánimas nostras : quóniam caríssimi nobis facti estis. Mémores enim estis fratres labóris nostri, et fatigatiónis : nocte ac die operántes, ne reward. Ps. Arise, O Lord God, let thy hand be exalted : forget not the poor. ℣. Glory.

Collect. — O God who, to the end that he might without faltering go through much toilsome work for the salvation of souls, didst endue blessed Francis, thy confessor, with wonderful charity and with unconquerable patience: grant unto us, we beseech thee, so to profit by the example he has left us, and so to avail ourselves of his prayers, that we too may win the exceeding reward of everlasting life.

Epistle. Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Thessalonians. 1. ii, 2-9. — Brethren : We have had confidence in our God to speak unto you the Gospel of God in much carefulness. For our exhortation was not of error, nor of uncleanness, nor in deceit. But as we were approved by God that the Gospel should be committed to us : even so we speak not as pleasing men, but God who proveth our hearts. For, neither have we used at any time the speech of flattery, as you know ; nor taken an occasion of covetousness, God is witness. Nor sought we glory of men, neither of you, nor of others. Whereas we might have been burdensome to you, as the apostles of Christ : but we became little ones in the midst of you, as if a nurse should cherish her children. So, desirous of you, we would impart unto you, not only the Gospel of God, but also our own souls : because you were become most dear unto us. For, you remember, brethren, our labour quem vestrum gravarémus, praedicávimus in vobis Evangélium Dei.

and toil : working night and day, lest we should be chargeable to any of you, we preached among you the Gospel of God.

Graduále. Ps. 91. — Justus, ut palma florébit : sicut cedrus Líbani multiplicábitur in domo Dómini. ℣. Ad annuntiándum mane misericórdiam tuam, et veritátem tuam per noctem. Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Ps. 67. Dóminus dabit verbum evangelizántibus virtúte multa. Allelúia.

Gradual. — The just man shall flourish like the palm tree : in the house of the Lord, he shall be multiplied as the cedar of Libanus. ℣. To shew forth thy mercy in the morning, and thy truth in the night. Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. With great power, the Lord shall give the word to them that preach good tidings. Alleluia.

In Votive Masses, from Septuagesima until Easter, in place of the Alleluias and following verse, is said, or sung the Tract Beatus vir, p. 271.

In Paschal Time for the Gradual is said, or sung :

Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Ps. 67. Dóminus dabit verbum evangelizántibus virtúte multa. Allelúia. ℣. Osee xiv. Justus germinábit sicut lílium, et florébit in aetérnum ante Dóminum. Allelúia.

Alleluia, alleluia. — ℣. With great power, the Lord shall give the word to them that preach good tidings. Alleluia. ℣. The just man shall spring up as a lily : he shall flourish before the Lord for evermore. Alleluia.

† Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthǽum. ix. 35-38. In illo témpore : Circuíbat Jesus omnes civitátes, et castélla, docens in synagógis eórum, et prǽdicans evangélium regni, et curans omnem languórem, et omnem infirmitátem. Videns autem turbas, misértus est eis : quia erant vexáti, et jacéntes sicut oves non habéntes pastórem. Tunc dicit discípulis suis : Messis quidem multa, operárii autem pauci. Rogáte ergo dóminum messis, ut mittat operários in messem suam.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. ix. 35-38. — At that time : Jesus went about all the cities and towns, teaching in their synagogues and preaching the Gospel of the kingdom, and healing every disease and every infirmity. And seeing the multitudes, he had compassion on them, because they were distressed and lying like sheep that have no shepherd. Then he saith to his disciples : The harvest indeed is great, but the laborers are few. Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest that he send forth laborers into his harvest.

Offertórium. Job. xxix.— Benedíctio peritúri super me veniébat, et cor víduae consolátus

Offertory. — The blessing of him that was ready to perish came upon me, and I comforted sum : óculus fui caeco, et pes claudo ; pater eram páuperum.

Secréta. — Caritátis víctima, quam immolántes offérimus, sit nobis, Dómine, te miseránte, propitiábilis : et beáti Joánnis Francísci précibus et méritis, ad obtinéndum patiéntiae et caritátis augméntum, éfficax et salutáris. Per Dóminum.

Commúnio. Isaias, lii.— Quam pulchri super montes pedes annuntiántis et praedicántis pacem : annuntiántis bonum, praedicántis salútem !

Postcommúnio. — Crescat in nobis, Dómine, pietátis tuae efféctus salutáris : ut coeléstí pábulo refécti, et sanctórum exemplis accénsi, ad aetérnae salútis portum, te misericórditer protegénte, et beáto Joánne Francísco intercedénte, felíciter pervenire valeámus. Per Dóminum.

the heart of the widow : I was an eye to the blind, and a foot to the lame. I was the father of the poor.

Secret. — Of thy tender mercy, O Lord, vouchsafe that this victim of love offered up by us in sacrifice, profit us to the turning away of thy wrath : and that, in virtue of the merits and prayers of blessed John Francis, it avail to a saving growth among us of patience and charity.

Communion. — How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, and that preacheth peace: of him that sheweth forth good, that preacheth salvation.

Postcommunion. — May the salutary work of thy loving kindness, O Lord, ever go forward within us : so that, comforted by bread from heaven, stirred up to fervor by the examples of thy saints, and helped by the prayers of blessed John Francis, we may, under thy merciful protection, happily reach the safe harbor of eternal salvation.

JUNE 27.

Our Lady of Perpetual Succor. — White vestments.

In the Diocese of Concordia.

Same Mass as on the Feast of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, p. 1499.

JULY 3

The Commemoration of all Holy Pontiffs, BISHOPS OF ROME.

White vestments.

The number of Popes whom Holy Church counts among her canonized Saints being very great (80 or more out of a total of 257), in Rome itself, and in many Dioceses of the Christian world, a day following the Feast of Saint Peter (usually July 1), is set apart for the keeping of a Festival in their honor :

Intróitus. — Congregáte illi sanctos ejus, qui ordinavérunt

Introit. Ps. 49. — Gather ye together unto him his saints, who testaméntum ejus super sacrifícia. Et annuntiábunt cœli justítiam ejus : quia Deus tuus ego sum. Ps. ibid. Deus deórum Dóminus locútus est : et vocávit terram. ℣. Glória.

set his covenant before sacrifices. And the heavens shall declare his justice, for I am thy God. Ps. The God of Gods the Lord hath spoken : and he hath called the earth. ℣. Glory.

Orémus. — Deus, qui pópulis tuis indulgéntia cónsulis, et amóre domináris : da spíritum sapiéntiae, suffragántibus méritis Antístitum Ecclésiae tuae, quibus dedísti régimen disciplínae ; ut de proféctu sanctárum óvium fiant gáudia aetérna pastórum. Per Dóminum.

Collect. — O God, who governest they people by passing over their transgressions, and who rulest them by love : may the merits of the holy prelates to whom thou didst sometime entrust the ordering of her discipline, obtain from thee the outpouring of the spirit of wisdom over they Church, so that the ever-increasing holiness of thy flock may be to its shepherds a cause of everlasting joy.

Commemoration of the Octave, p. 1457.

Epístola. Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Hebraeos. — Fratres : Mementóte praepositórum vestrórum, qui vobis locúti sunt verbum Dei : quorum intuéntes éxitum conversatiónis, imitámini fidem. Jesus Christus heri, et hódie : ipse et in saecula. Doctrínis váriis et peregrínis nolíte abdúci. Optimum est enim grátia stabilíre cor, non escis : quae non profuérunt ambulántibus in eis. Habémus altáre, de quo édere non habent potestátem, qui tabernáculo desérviunt. Quorum enim animálium inféertur sanguis pro peccáto in Sáncta per pontíficem, horum córpora cremántur extra castra. Propter quod et Jesus, ut sanctificáret per suum sánguinem pópulum, extra portam passus est. Exeámus ígitur ad eum extra castra, impropérium ejus portántes. Non enim habémus hic manéntem civitátem, sed

Epistle. Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Hebrews xiii. 7-17. Brethren, remember your prelates who have spoken the word of God to you ; whose faith follow, considering the end of their conversation. Jesus Christ yesterday, and today, and the same for ever. Be not led away with various and strange doctrines : for it is best that the heart be established with grace ; not with meats, which have not profited those that walk in them. We have an altar, whereof they have no power to eat who serve the tabernacle. For the bodies of those beasts, whose blood is brought into the Holies by the high priest for sin, are burned without the camp. Wherefore Jesus also, that he might sanctify the people by his own blood, suffered without the gate. Let us go forth therefore to him without the camp, bearing his reproach : for we have not futúram inquírimus. Per ipsum ergo offerámus hóstiam laudis semper Deo, idest, fructum labiórum confiténtium nómini ejus. Beneficéntiae autem, et communiónis nolíte oblivísci: tálibus enim hóstiis promerétur Deus. Obedíte praepósitis vestris, et subjacéte eis. Ipsi enim pervígilant quasi ratiónem pro animábus vestris redditúri.

here a lasting city, but we seek one that is to come. By him therefore let us offer the sacrifice of praise always to God, that is to say, the fruit of lips confessing to his name. And do not forget to do good and to impart: for by such sacrifices God's favour is obtained. Obey your prelates, and be subject to them; for they watch, as being to render an account for your souls.

Graduale. Ps. 131. — Sacerdótes ejus índuam salutári, et sancti ejus exsultatióne exsultábunt. ℣. Illuc prodúcam cornu David, parávi lucérnam Christo meo. Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Ps. 139. Jurávit Dóminus, et non poenitébit eum: tu es sacérdos in aetérnum secúndum órdinem Melchísedech. Allelúia.

Gradual. — I will clothe her priests with salvation: and her saints shall rejoice with exceeding great joy. ℣. There will I bring forth a horn to David: I have prepared a lamp for my Anointed. Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. The Lord hath sworn, and he will not repent: Thou art a priest for ever, according to the order of Melchisedech. Alleluia.

The Gospel, is that of the Feast of Saints Peter and Paul, p. 1459, and the Nicene Creed is said, or sung.

Offertorium. Ps. 88.— Invéni David servum meum, óleo sancto meo unxi eum; manus enim mea auxiliábitur ei, et bráchium meum confortábit eum.

Offertory. — I have found David my servant, with my holy oil I have anointed him: my hand shall help him, and my arm shall strengthen him.

Secréta. — Unigéniti Fílii tui, quam tibi Deus Pater omnípotens in honórem sanctórum Pontíficum offérimus immaculáta hóstia, prosit nobis ad medélam percipiéndam. Per Dóminum.

Secret. — In honor of the saints, the holy pontiffs, we offer up to thee, O Lord, an unspotted victim, thine only-begotten Son: may it avail us to the healing of our souls.

Preface of the Holy Apostles, p. 57.

Commúnio. Ps. 88. — Véritas mea et misericórdia mea cum ipso; et in nómine meo exaltábitur cornu ejus.

Communion. — My truth and my mercy shall be with him, and in my name shall his horn be exalted.

Postcommúnio. — Da, quaesumus, Dómine, fidélibus pópulis sanctórum Pontíficum tuórum semper veneratióne laetári, et eórum perpétua supplicatióne muníri. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — Grant unto thy faithful people, we beseech thee, O Lord, an abiding joy in the honoring of thy saints, and the continuous safeguard of their intercession.

JULY 24.

St. Francis Solano, CONFESSOR. — White vestments.

St Francis Solano, born in Spain, at an early age entered the Order of St Francis, and quickly became distinguished for his wonderful holiness and austerity of life. Sent as a missionary to South America, he by his preaching gained countless souls to God. His happy death took place at Lima, June 14, A. D. 1610. The Feast of St. Francis Solano is kept throughout the United States.

Mass : Os justi, p. 270.

Orémus.— Deus, qui plúrimas Americae gentes per beátum Franciscum ad sinum Ecclésiae perduxísti : ejus méritis et précibus indignatiónem tuam a peccátis nostris avérte ; et in gentes, quae te non cognovérunt, timórem nóminis tui benígnus immítte. Per Dóminum.

Collect. — O God, who, by means of blessed Francis, didst gather into the bosom of thy Church very many of the peoples of America : moved by his merits and prayers, do thou turn aside thy wrath from our sins ; and, among the nations which as yet know thee not, mercifully implant the fear of thy name.

Epistle, Corde enim, p. 1179, and Gospel. Euntes, p. 1183, as on the Feast of St. Francis Xavier.

Secréta. — Munus, quod tibi offérimus, det nobis quáesumus, omnípotens Deus, fídei, spei, et caritátis augméntum : et ut mereámur ássequi quod promíttis, interveniénte beáto Francísco Confessóre tuo, fac nos amáre quod praecipis. Per.

Secret. — May the offering we make obtain for us, O Almighty God, we beseech thee, an increase of faith, hope and charity : and that we may deserve to enjoy what thou dost promise, make us to love what thou dost command.

Postcommúnio. — Ut sumptis, Dómine, reddámur digni munéribus ; intercedénte beáta Francísco Confessóre tuo, fac nos tuis semper obedíre mandátis. Per Dóminum nostrum.

Postcommunion. — In order that we may become worthy, O Lord, of the gifts we have received at thy hands : through the intercession of blessed Francis, thy Confessor, do thou make us in all our days to keep thy commandments.

AUGUST 9.

St. Emidius, BISHOP, MARTYR. — Red vestments.

St. Emidius, (or Æmygdius), born at Treves in Germany, was in a singular manner graced by Almighty God with the power to work miracles. Coming to Italy, Pope St. Marcellus (Jan. 16) made him Bishop of Ascoli, where he suffered martyrdom early in the fourth century, at the eve of the peace of the Church. He is invoked against earthquakes.

Introitus. — Commóta est, et contrémuit terra : fundaménta

Introit. Ps. xvii. — The earth shook and trembled : the foun-móntium conturbáta sunt, quóniam irátus est eis. Ps. 49. Invoca me in die tribulatiónis : éruam te, et honorificábis me. ℣. Glória Patri.

Orémus. — Deus, qui beátum Emígdium, Mártyrem tuum atque Pontíficem, idolórum victória et miraculórum glória decorásti : concéde propítius ; ut, eo interveniénte, malórum spirítuum fraudes víncere, et coruscáre virtútibus mereámur. Per Dóminum.

dations of the mountains were troubled and were moved, because he was angry with them. Ps. Call upon me in the day of trouble : I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify me. ℣. Glory.

Collect. — O God, who didst endue blessed Emidius, thy martyr and bishop, with power for the overthrowing of idols and with the glory of miracle-working : listening, in thy great goodness, to the prayers he puts up in our behalf, strengthen us to the overcoming of the craft of the spirits of evil, and make us worthy to shine in thy sight by our virtues.

Epistola. Léctio libri Apocalypsis beáti Joánnis Apóstoli. xi 13-17. In illa hora factus est terraemótus magnus, et décima pars civitátis cécidit : et occísa sunt in terraemótu ónmina hóminum septem míllia : et réliqui in timórem sunt missi, et dedérunt glóriam Deo coeli. Vae secúndum ábiit : et ecce vae tértium véniet cito. Et séptimus ángelus tuba cécinit : et factae sunt voces nuagnae in coelo dicéntes : Factum est regnum hujus mundi, Dómini nostri et Christi ejus, et regnábit in sáecula saeculórum : Amen. Et vigénti quátuor senióres, qui in conspéctu Dei sedent in sédibus suis, cecidérunt in fácies suas, et adoravérunt Deum, dicéntes : Grátias ágimus tibi, Dómine, Deus omnípotens, qui es, et qui eras, et qui ventúrus es : quia accepísti virtútem tuam magnam, et regnásti.

Epistle. Lesson from the book of the Apocalypse of blessed John, the Apostle. xi. 13-17. — At that hour, there was made a great earthquake, and a tenth part of the city fell : and there were slain in the earthquake names of men seven thousand : and the rest were cast into a fear, and gave glory to the God of heaven. The second woe is past : and behold the third woe will come quickly. And the seventh angel sounded the trumpet : and there were great voices in heaven, saying : The kingdom of this world is become our Lord's and his Christ's, and he shall reign for ever and ever : Amen. And the four-and-twenty ancients, who sit on their seats in the sight of God, fell on their faces and adored God, saying : We give thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty, who art, and who wast, and who art to come : because thou hast taken to thee thy great power, and thou hast reigned.

Graduále. Ps. 59. — Dedísti metuéntibus te significatiónem ut fúgiant a fácie arcus. ℣.

Gradual. — Thou hast given a warning to them that fear thee : that they may flee from before the bow : ℣. That thy beloved may be delivered : save me with thy right hand, and hear me. Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. My hand shall help him : and my arm shall strengthen him. Alleluia.

Ut liberéntur diléctì tui : salvum fac déxtera tua, et exáudi me. Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Ps. 88. Manus mea auxiliábitur ei, et bráchium meum confortábit eum. Allelúia.

Gospel, Cum audiéritis, p. 234.

Offertórium. Ps. 59. — Commovísti terram, et conturbásti eam : sana contritiónes ejus, quia commóta est.

Offertory. — Thou hast moved the earth, and hast troubled it : heal thou the breaches thereof, for it has been moved.

Secréta. — Múnera tibi, Dómine, obláta sanctífica : ut per ea, intercedénte beáto Emígdio Mártyre tuo atque Pontífice, ab ómnibus ánimae et córporis perículis liberémur. Per Dóminum.

Secret. — Do thou, O Lord, hallow the gifts we lay before thee : so that, blessed Emidius, thy martyr and bishop, pleading for us, through them we may be delivered from all dangers, whether to body or to soul.

Commúnio. Ps. 32. — Tímeat Dóminum omnis terra : ab eo autem commoveántur omnes inhabitántes orbem.

Communion. — Let all the earth fear the Lord, and let all the inhabitants of the world be in awe of him.

Postcommúnio. — Sacraménta quae súmpsimus, Dómine, per intercessiónem beáti Emígdii,Mártyris tui atque Pontíficis, sint nobis ad tutaméntum mentis et córporis, et ad misericórdiam tuam efficáciter consequéndam. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion. — In virtue of the intercession in our behalf, o Lord, of blessed Emidius, thy martyr and bishop, may the sacrament we have received be to us both a safeguard for soul and for body, and an assurance of the fulness of thy mercy.

In some churches on the Feast of St. Emidius, in place of the foregoing, the Mass Státuit, p. 215, is said with only the first collect proper as above.

AUGUST 11.

St. Philomena, VIRGIN, MARTYR. — Red vestments.

In Diocese of Helena.

The sacred body of St Philomena, a Virgin-Martyr of the first ages of Christianity, was early in the nineteenth century, discovered in the Roman catacomb, known as the Cemetery of Priscilla. An inscription and phial of blood bore witness to the genuineness of the relics. The many miracles since wrought by Almighty God in favour of those who have invoked St Philomena, have caused her cultus to become widespread in the Church. The Liturgical celebration of her Feast was authorised by Pope Gregory XVI.

Mass : Loquébar, p. 282.

AUGUST 18.

St. Helena, Empress, Widow.

White vestments.

Saint Helena, a native of Britain, espoused to the Emperor Constantius, was the mother of Constantine, the first Christian Emperor of Rome. Favoured by her son, Saint Helena succeeded in discovering at Jerusalem the true Cross, to enshrine which she built a magnificent Basilica. She was renowned for her almsdeeds, and (say the ancient chroniclers) " incomparable in her fait and zeal ". Saint Helena received her heavenly crown in the month of August, in the twentieth year of the reign of her son, that is A. D. 326.

Introitus. — Mihi autem absit gloriári, nisi in cruce Dómini nostri Jesu Christi, per quem mihi mundus crucifíxus est, et ego mundo. Ps. 22. Virga tua et báculus tuus, ipsa me consoláta sunt. ℣. Glória Patri.

Orémus. — Dómine Jesu Christe, qui locum, ubi crux tua latébat, beátae Hélenae revelásti, ut per eam Ecclésiam tuam hoc pretióso thesáuro ditáres : ejus nobis intercessióne concéde ; ut vitális ligni prétio, aetérnae vitae práemia consequámur. Qui vivis.

Introit. Gal. vi. — But God forbid that I should glory save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom the world is crucified to me and I to the world. Ps. Thy rod and thy staff, they have comforted me. ℣. Glory.

Collect. — O Lord Jesus Christ, who to blessed Helena wast pleased to reveal the place where thy cross was hidden, in order, through her, to enrich thy Church with this inestimable treasure : give ear to her prayers, and accept this tree of life as the price of our attaining to eternal happiness.

Commemoration of the Octave of the Assumption, p. 1588.

Of St. Agapitus ;

Orémus. — Laetétur Ecclésia tua, Deus, beáti Agapíti Mártyris tui confísa suffrágiis : atque ejus précibus gloriósis et devóta permáneat, et secúra consistat. Per Dóminum.

Collect. — Happy be thy Church, O God, putting her trust in the prayers of the holy martyr Agapitus : he in glory pleading in her behalf, may she ever devoutly do thee service, and ever abide in safety and in peace.

The Lesson, Mulierem fortem, p. 304.

Graduále. Ps. 44. — Vultum tuum deprecabúntur omnes dívites plebis : filiae regum in honóre tuo. ℣. Adducéntur regi vírgines post eam : próximae ejus afferéntur tibi : afferéntur in laetítia et exsultatióne, addu-

Gradual. — All the rich among the people shall entreat thy countenance : the daughters of kings in thy honor. ℣. After her shall virgins be brought to the king ; her neighbors shall be brought to thee. They shall be céntur in templum regis. Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Ps. 111. Dispérsit dedit paupéribus : justítia ejus manet in saeculum saeculi. Allelúia.

brought with gladness and rejoicing, they shall be brought into the temple of the king. Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. He hath distributed, he hath given to the poor, his justice remaineth for ever and ever. Alleluia.

The Gospel, Simile est... thesauro abscondito, p. [57].

On account of the Octave of the Assumption the Nicene Creed is said.

Offertórium. I. Cor. ii. — Non enim judicávi me scire áliud, nisi Jesum Christum, et hunc crucifíxum.

Secréta. — Per haec sacra mystéria concéde nobis, Dómine : ut sicut beátae Hélenae misericórditer tribuísti, ut Filium tuum crucifíxum in corde semper gestáret ; ita et nos eum in córdibus nostris perpétuo deferámus. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Offertory. — For I judged not myself to know any other thing but Jesus Christ and him crucified.

Secret. — O God, who of thy great mercy didst give to blessed Helena, all the days of her life, to carry thy crucified Son in her heart : to us likewise, for the sake of these sacred mysteries, vouchsafe, that in our hearts we ever be mindful of him.

Of the Octave of the Assumption, p. 1590.

Of St. Agapitus :

Secréta. — Súscipe, Dómine, múnera, quae in ejus tibi solemnitáte deférimus, cujus nos confídimus patrocínio liberári. Per Dóminum.

Secret. — Do thou, o Lord, favourably regard the offering we lay at thy feet on this the festival-day of the saint on whom we rely for our deliverance.

Preface of the Blessed Virgin Mary, p. 56.

Commúnio. Cant. 7. — Ascéndam in palmam, et apprehéndam fructus ejus.

Postcommúnio. — Concéde nobis misericors Deus : ut qui salutíferae crucis tuae fructu in terra sumus recreáti, per intercessiónem beátae Hélenae eódem júgiter pérfrui mereámur in coelis. Qui vivis.

Communion. — I will go up in the palm-tree, and will take fruit thereof.

Postcommunion. — Vouchsafe, we beseech thee, o merciful God, to us whom upon earth thy saving cross has quickened to new life, through the intercession of blessed Helena, for evermore to enjoy in heaven the happiness it has brought us.

Of the Octave of the Assumption, p. 1590.

Of St. Agapitus :

Postcommúnio. — Satiásti, Dómine, famíliam tuam muné-

Postcommunion. — With the gift of thy holy sacrament, o ribus sacris : ejus, quáesumus, semper interventióne nos réfove, cujus solémnia celebrámus. Per Dóminum.

Lord, thou hast bestowed on thy children the fulness of thy grace : be moved by the prayers of the saint whose feast we celebrate, to comfort us in all our lives.

SEPTEMBER 1.

St. Bibiana, VIRGIN, MARTYR. — Red vestments.

In the Diocese of Los Angeles.

Mass Loquébar, p. 282.

SEPTEMBER 7.

St. Cloud, CONFESSOR. — White vestments.

In the Diocese of St. Cloud.

St. Cloud (or Clodoald), a prince of the Royal House of the Merovingians in France, renounced his prospects of an earthly kingdom to embrace the service of God in the state of a humble religious. Ordained priest, he laboured unremittingly for the good of souls, in the neighborhood of Paris, and founded a celebrated monastery which has given its name to the town of St. Cloud. The Saint passed away about A. D. 560.

Mass : Os justi, p. 270.

Orémus. — Deus, qui beátum Clodoáldum, propter te humiliátum in saeculo, et sacerdótii múnere et virtútum splendóre sublimásti : tríbue nos, ejus exémplo, tibi digne ministráre, et per ejus intercessiónem grátia semper et mérito profícere. Per Dóminum.

Collect. — O God, who didst exalt Blessed Clodoald thy Confessor, humbled for thy sake in this world, both by raising him to the dignity of the priesthood and by enduing him with the splendor of many virtues : grant unto us, following his example, to do thee worthy service and, helped by his prayers, ever to grow in virtue and merit.

Secréta. — Te, Dómine, fídei nostrae salutísque auctórem cum sancto Sacerdóte Clodoáldo confiténtes : quáesumus ; ut hanc de mánibus nostris hóstiam laudis cleménter suscípias, et, qua religióne ipse vota sua réddidit, eádem nobis tríbuas nostra persólvere. Per Dóminum nostrum.

Secret. — With thy holy priest, Clodoald, we confess thee, o Lord, to be the author of our faith and of our salvation : and we beseech thee mercifully to receive at our hands this sacrifice of praise ; and to grant that with the same fervor as he, we may render our vows to thee.

Postcommúnio. — Suméntes, Dómine, in festivitáte sancti Clodoáldi Sacerdótis divína my-Postcommunion. — Having, o Lord, celebrated the Holy Mysteries on this the festival day of the stéria : te súpplices deprecámur, ut, eréctis ad coeléstia méntibus, ómnia detriméntum fácere valeámus propter eum, qui semetípsum nobis dedit, Jesum Christum, Filium tuum, Dóminum nostrum, qui tecum vivit et regnat in sáecula saeculórum. ℟. Amen.

holy priest Clodoald, we humbly beseech thee that raising our minds to heavenly joys, we may count all things as loss for the sake of him who delivered himself up for us, Jesus Christ, thy Son, Our Lord.

OCTOBER 21.

St. Ursula and Companions, VIRGINS AND MARTYRS. — Red vestments.

Saint Ursula, said to have been a native Princess from Cornwall, with many other British maidens, followed to the Continent her countrymen driven into exile by the Saxon invaders of the fifth century. By misadventure they were compelled to wander hither and thither in Gaul and Germany, and at length, when in the neighborhood of Cologne, were set upon by the Huns, who were at the time overrunning Western Europe. The holy Virgins courageously gave their lives in defence of their Faith and chastity.

In Diocese of Portland.

Mass, Loquébar, p. 282, with the Collect, Secret and Postcommunion, p. 290.

Commemoration is made of St. Hilarion from the Mass Os justi, p. 276.

NOVEMBER 5.

Feast of Holy Relics. — Red vestments.

Mass as on p. 1741.

NOVEMBER 7.

St. Leonard, ABBOT. — White vestments.

A French nobleman, who retired to a hermit's cell near Orleans, where he lived a long life of severe penance, further sanctified by his unceasing works of charity to the poor and to all in distress. It is said of him that to no one did he ever refuse help. He died about A. D. 559.

Mass : Os justi, p. 276.

Orémus. — Majestáti tuae, quáesumus, omnípotens Deus, nos sanctíssimi Confessóris tui Leonárdi pia comméndet orátio ; ut, quem venerámur officio, ipsíus suffrágiis sublevémur. Per Dóminum.

Collect. — May the kindly prayers of thy most holy Confessor, Leonard, avail us, O Almighty God, before thy Divine Majesty. Dutifully we venerate him : may we be helped by his intercession.

NOVEMBER 27.

Our Lady of the Miraculous Medal. — White vestments.

In the Diocese of Brooklyn.

Our Blessed Lady appearing in the year 1832 to Catharine Labouré, a Sister of Charity, showed her the pattern of the Medal now universally known as the " Miraculous Medal ", because of the many wonders which it has pleased Almighty God to work by its means in his Church. Among these is the marvellous conversion, in Rome, in 1842, of the Jew Alphonse Ratisbonne.

Intróitus. — Erit quasi signum in manu tua, et quasi monuméntum ante óculos tuos, et ut lex Dómini semper sit in ore tuo. Ps. 104, Confitémini Dómino, et invocáte nomen ejus ; annuntiáte inter gentes ópera ejus. ℣. Glória Patri.

Orémus. — Dómine Jesu Christe, qui beatíssimam Vírginem Maríam Matrem tuam ab orígine immaculátam innúmeris miráculis caléscere voluísti : concéde ; ut ejúsdem patrocínium semper implorántes, gáudia consequámur aetérna. Qui vivis et regnas.

Epístola. Léctio libri Apocalypsis beáti Joánnis Apóstoli. — Signum magnum appáruit in coelo. Múlier amícta sole et luna sub pédibus ejus, et in cápite ejus coróna stellárum duódecim. Et péperit fílium másculum, qui rectúrus erat omnes gentes in virga férrea : et raptus est fílius ejus ad Deum et ad thronum ejus. Et datae sunt mulíeri alae duae áquilae magnae ut voláret in desértum in locum suum. Et misit serpens de ore suo post mulíerem aquam tamquam flumen, ut eam fáceret trahi a flúmine. Et adjúvit terra mulíerem, et apéruit terra os suum, et absórbuit Introit. Exodus xiii. — It shall be as a sign in thy hand, and as a memorial before thine eyes, and that the law of the Lord be always in thy mouth. Ps. O give thanks unto the Lord, and call upon his name : tell forth his deeds among the nations. ℣. Glory.

Collect. — O Lord Jesus Christ, who hast willed that the most blessed virgin Mary, thy mother, sinless from the first moment of her conception, should be glorified by countless miracles : grant that we, who never cease from imploring her patronage, may attain in the end to eternal happiness.

Epistle. Lesson from the book of the Apocalypse of blessed John, the Apostle. xii. 12-16. — A great sign appeared in heaven : a woman clothed with the sun, and the moon under her feet, and on her head a crown of twelve stars. And she brought forth a man-child, who was to rule all nations with an iron rod : and her son was taken up to God, and to his throne. And there were given to the woman two wings of a great eagle, that she might fly into the desert unto her place. And the serpent cast out of his mouth after the woman, water as it were a river : that he might cause her to be carried away by flumen, quod misit draco de ore suo.

the river. And the earth helped the woman, and the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed up the river, which the dragon cast out of his mouth.

Graduále. Ps. 104. — Mementóte mirabílium ejus, quae fecit; prodígia ejus, et judícia oris ejus. ℣. Pósuit in ea verba signórum suórum, et prodigiórum suórum in terra. Allelúia, allelúia. ℣. Ps. 18. A summo coelo egréssio ejus, nec est qui se abscóndat a calóre ejus. Allelúia.

Gradual. — Remember the marvellous works which he hath done: his wonders, and the judgments of his mouth. ℣. He placed in them the words of his signs: and of his wonders in the land. Alleluia, alleluia. ℣. His going forth is from the topmost heaven; nor is there any that can hide from his heat. Alleluia.

Gospel, Nuptiae factae sunt, as on the Second Sunday after Epiphany, p. 464.

The Nicene Creed is said, or sung.

Offertórium. John. xix. — Dixit Jesus discípulo: Ecce mater tua. Et ex illa hora accépit eam discípulus in sua.

Offertory. — Jesus said to the disciple: Behold thy mother. And from that hour the disciple took her to his own.

Secréta. — Beáta Vírgine María intercedénte, cujus précibus exorátus Jesus Christus Fílius tuus fecit inítium signórum; da nobis, Dómine Deus, sacraméntum Córporis et Sánguinis ejúsdem Fílii tui pura mente confícere, ut aetérni convívii mereámur esse partícipes. Per eúmdem Dóminum nostrum.

Secret. — Moved by the pleading of the Blessed Virgin Mary, in answer to whose prayers Jesus Christ thy Son wrought the first of his miracles: vouchsafe unto us, O Lord God, to minister in cleanness of heart unto the sacrament of the Body and Blood of the same thy Son, so as to deserve to sit down to the everlasting banquet of eternity.

Commúnio. Ecclus. xxvi. — Innova signa et immúta mirabília. Glorífica manum tuam et bráchium déxterum. Festína tempus et meménto finis et enárrent mirabília tua.

Communion. — Renew the signs, and work fresh marvels; glorify thine hand and thy right arm; hasten the time, and remember the end, and let them declare thy wondrous works.

Postcommúnio. — Dómine Deus omnípotens, qui per Immaculátam Genitrícem Fílii tui ómnia nos habére voluísti: da nobis tantae Matris auxílio, praeséntis témporis perícula devitáre; ut vitam consequámur aetérnam. Per eúmdem.

Postcommunion. — O Lord God Almighty, who hast willed that all things should be given to us through the Immaculate Mother of thy Son: grant that under the protection of this mighty mother, we may escape all the dangers of these our times, and in the end may come to life everlasting.

November 27.

St. Virgilius, Bishop, Confessor. — White vestments.

St. Virgil, archbishop of Salzburg, was a native of Ireland. He spent his life in the evangelisation of Germany, and was helped in his apostolate by King Pepin, and afterwards by the Emperor Charlemagne. He rebuilt the abbey of St. Peter in his cathedral city, and translated thither the relics of St. Rupert, the founder of that see. He baptised two successive dukes of Carinthia, and sent thither missionaries under the conduct of the bishop, St. Modestus, who planted the faith in that country. Full of labors and merits, he entered into his eternal rest on November 27, 784. His relics are enshrined in his cathedral.

Mass : Státuit, p. 255.

Several notices and translations contained in this supplement have been reprinted with the kind permission of Messrs. Desclée & Co. Printers to the Holy See, Tournai (Belgium).

CONTENTS

Des Presses de l'Abbaye de S. André-par-Lophem (Belgique).